Some may laugh at the idea of encouraging and praising cattle, which I cannot help, if they feel inclined. But it is a fact that our domestic animals understand more of the English language than most people are aware of. For instance, call a strange dog by anything but his name, and he will pay but very little if any attention to you, but speak his name, and he comes to you at once. It cannot be the sound of your voice or your motions, for they were the same in both cases, but it must be that he has learned a portion, perhaps a small one, of the language. Use that and kindness in teaching animals of all kinds, and things that seem impossible can be performed.

Dead Shot for Squash Bugs.

As the season is near approaching when these troublesome insects will be found in the gardens, to our great annoyance, we reproduce the remedy of an Illinois correspondent, in answer to one who asked, for a dead shot for squash bugs. He says, and we would ask our readers to remember it:

"Let him take the droppings from his hen-house and add water to make thin enough to be easily sprinkled over the vines. If the application be a thorough one it will be all we will require; but the more he uses and the oftener he repeats the dose the larger and better will be the fruit. Some years since I saw this method in print, perhaps in some patent medicine sheet or almanac, and, in a fit of desperation, I gathered a bucket, half full with water, mixed among the vines and—saved them. I used one pail or more on each hill. Such squash vines I never saw, and I had a tremendous yield."

Another excellent way to keep bugs from squash or other plants is to use camphor water, made only moderately strong, and sprinkle the vines or plants with it late of evenings.—Field and Factory.

Cost of Cultivating Strawberries.

The Oneida Circular gives the following as the cost of cultivating an acre of strawberries during the last season:

Thirty-five loads stable manure, at $2	$70 00
Hauling and spreading the same	10 00
Plowing and fitting the land	8 00
16,000 strawberry plants, at $4	64 00
Cost of setting, etc., at $1.50 per day	25 47
Cultivation, cutting runners, etc.	85 75
Cost of mulching, including the labor	24 53
Top dressing and labor to be applied next spring	10 00
Interest on land, worth $300	21 00
Interest on capital invested in labor, etc.	20 00
Wear and tear of crates and boxes	10 00
Total cost	$363 55

A strawberry crop varies from 80 bushels an acre—the average in New Jersey—to 350 bushels to the acre—the maximum crop yet reported. Taking the actual crop of the Community last season, which was not one of the best—281 bushels to the acre—reckoning it at $3 20 a bushel, the gross receipts foot up $899 20. Deduct cost of cultivation—$363.59, and $269 76 for picking and marketing—and we have $275.85 possible profit on an acre of strawberries.

Salt Brine for Lice.

We clip the following remedies for these pests from Colman's Rural World:

"In answer to many inquiries for a remedy for lice, we will state that an application of brine, as strong as it can be made, is a certain remedy. It will kill the lice outright, but not always the nits; hence a second or third application is required to be effectual. Hogs are greatly pestered with lice, and they should be destroyed. Watch the colts and calves carefully, and if you see any failing, look out for lice. A close inspection will reveal hundreds of them feeding upon the poor animal. An application, on a warm day, of brine will bring great relief. A decoction of tobacco applied will also rid the animal of these pests. A thorough greasing is also a very good remedy. Don't let the poor animals suffer when remedies are so simple. These applications are as good for human beings as for brutes."

SALT AND ASHES FOR HORSES.—Those keeping horses should, twice a week, throw in a handful of salt and ashes. Mix them by putting in three parts of salt to one of ashes. Horses relish this, and it will keep their hair soft and fine. A little ground sulphur, mixed with salt and ashes, and given once in two or three weeks, is also beneficial.—Turf, Field and Farm.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ARE YOU GOING EAST OR NORTH?

Take the Iron Mountain, and Chicago and Alton Railroads,

THE ONLY ALL-RAIL ROUTE FROM all points South to

CHICAGO.

The only line running the Pullman Palace Cars from all points South to St. Louis and Chicago.

Passengers by this line arrive in Chicago one hour in advance of all competing lines, and avoid 25 miles of steamboat transfer, and the annoying changes of cars incident to other lines. For all points in the Northwest, St. Paul, Milwaukee, or all points in the Canadas, New York, Boston and all Eastern cities, this is the pleasantest and most direct route. Parties going East via this line can lay over in Chicago and visit the Burnt District, and resume their trip at their leisure. Fare as low as by all other routes. Tickets to be had at all ticket offices in the South.

W. B. ALLEN,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent,
Iron Mountain Line, St. Louis.
JAMES CHARLTON,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent,
Chicago and Alton Line, Chicago.
D. A. FREER,
my30 4m Southern Traveling Agent.

LOUISVILLE AND CINCINNATI SHORT-LINE R. R. connections are 5½ hours QUICKER to Eastern cities than any other Rail Line from Louisville, and 15 hours in advance of the River route. This is the only line making Baltimore in 26 hours, Philadelphia in 27 hours, Washington in 27 hours, New York in 34 hours, Boston in 35 hours.

Southern Fast Line, daily, except Sunday	Leave. 7.30 A.M.	Arrive. 5.05 P.M.
Cincinnati Express, daily	3.55 P.M.	12.40 P.M.
Cincinnati Night Express, daily, except Saturday	10.40 P.M.	5.60 A.M.
Lexington Mail, daily, except Sunday	6.00 A.M.	6.35 P.M.
Lexington Express, daily, except Sunday	2.30 P.M.	10.30 A.M.
Frankfort Accommod'n, daily, except Sunday	4.55 P.M.	6.15 A.M.
Shelbyville Accommod'n, daily, except Sunday	3.55 P.M.	10.30 A.M.

Sleeping car 'till 10 40 P. M. Round-trip tickets to Cincinnati and Covington at reduced rates. Ticket Offices—Depot, Third and Main streets, Galt House, Louisville Hotel, and Willard Hotel. Telegrams to secure sleeping car berths to Eastern cities will be sent free.

S. S. PARKER,
General Passenger and Ticket Agent.
J. E. GUNSPERLING,
my25 3m Superintendent, Louisville, Ky.

Formerly WOOD & MANN.

These Engines are so well and favorably known that a description of them here is not deemed necessary.

They are EQUALED by FEW, SURPASSED by NONE, perfect in workmanship, complete in appointments, safe, simple and substantial. Every boiler is practically tested before leaving the factory. By the use of a CIRCULATING WATER BOTTOM around and underneath the furnace, which presents the

RISK FROM FIRE,

they are particularly adapted for GINNING COTTON. Engines of all sizes, at prices which challenge comparison for equal size of steam cylinder and measurements of boiler. A full stock of these Engines will be kept constantly on hand by the undersigned, who has been appointed general agent

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN,
No. 9 Union street,
mh21 6m New Orleans, La.

CRESCENT MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANY.

TWENTY-THIRD ANNUAL STATEMENT.

NEW ORLEANS, May 18, 1872.

The Trustees, in conformity to the charter, submit the following statement of the affairs of the company on the thirtieth of April, 1872:

Fire premiums for the year	$194,065 44
Marine premiums for the year	61,350 64
River premiums for the year	183,299 36
Total	$438,715 44
Earned premiums, less reinsurance and return premiums	358,153 65
Net profits	79,823 81

The company has assets to the amount of $732,129.49.

The Board of Trustees resolved to pay interest at SIX PER CENT. CASH on all the outstanding CERTIFICATES OF SCRIP, to the legal holders thereof, on and after the second Monday in June next.

They have also declared a SCRIP DIVIDEND OF THIRTY-THREE AND ONE-THIRD PER CENT. on the earned premiums entitled to participate for the year ending April 30, 1872, for which certificates will be issued on and after the first Monday in August next, free of government tax.

THOMAS A. ADAMS, President.
HENRY V. OGDEN, Secretary.

TRUSTEES.

Samuel H. Kennedy.	John Phelps.
C. T. Ruddecke.	P. H. Foley.
A. G. Ober.	A. Thomson.
E. H. Summers.	B. Newgass.
P. N. Strong.	Victor Meyer.
Joseph Bowling.	E. J. Gay.
Je26 5t	S. B. Newman.

MILLER'S Bible and Publishing House.

NEW ILLUSTRATED FAMILY BIBLE.

The Cheapest and Best Bible published. LARGE PRINT, Beautiful Bindings, more than two hundred Engravings.

THE CHRISTIAN HARMONY,

a new and choice collection of Sacred Music, based on system of seven-shaped character notes. Any one can learn to read music, and sing in one-fourth the time required by the old methods. Address

Miller's Bible and Publishing House,
1102 and 1104 Sansom street,
Je27 6m Philadelphia, Penn'a.

OCEAN SPRINGS.

Summer Resort—Board at the Seaside.

THE SUBSCRIBER has taken the MORRIS HOUSE, at Ocean Springs, which has just undergone a thorough repair, and will be open to boarders who wish to enjoy a pleasant home good bathing, fresh sea air, and luxuriate on fish and oysters during the heat of summer.

Terms for board: $10 per month, $10 per week, and $2 per day. Apply to the subscriber by mail, at Ocean Springs.

Refer to Bishop Keener, Rev. Robert J. Harp, A. L. Dunnica & Co., and Samuel Ross, Esq., New Orleans.

WM. C. CHAMBERLIN.
APRIL 20, 1872. ap25 tf

HARDWARE, STOVES, ETC.

KURSHEEDT & BIENVENU,

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

Plantation and Builders' Hardware,

MARBLE, MARBLEIZED SLATE AND IRON MANTLES,

Grates, Hearths and Fire Bricks,

NO. 114 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

my21 1y

THE UNRIVALED

BUCK'S BRILLIANT STOVE.

Every Brilliant is Fully Guaranteed.

H. HALLER,
No. 49 Camp street, New Orleans,
Sole Agent for Louisiana.

Sole Agent for the

CELEBRATED RINGEN WASHER,

In the States of Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi. oct9 1y

G. W. W. GOODWYN,

No. 52 Gravier Street,

DEALER IN

Stoves and Tinware of All Kinds.

While he is prepared to furnish, at the lowest rates, Cooking and Heating Stoves of all the various sizes and patterns sold in this market, he makes a specialty of the following, to wit:

Cottage, Cricket, The Best, Relief, Gray Jacket, and Diadem.

These Stoves are sold under a guarantee, and may be returned if they do not perform well.

NOTE BY P. M. GOODWYN.—Lack of health has obliged me for a time to give up my regular calling—that of the ministry. In the meanwhile, in order to do what I can for a support, I have engaged as an assistant in my brother's establishment, as above advertised. And I take this method of soliciting from among the readers of the ADVOCATE—many of whom are my personal acquaintances and friends—a share of their patronage whenever they may have need of anything in the above line. Orders sent through their merchants, or to either of us direct, will receive prompt attention. mh7 6m

GROCERIES—GLASSWARE.

PURE LOUISIANA SUGAR, MOLASSES AND SIRUPS.

REFINED SUGAR.—Cut Loaf, Crushed and Powdered.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

GOLDEN SIRUP.—A superior article of pure Louisiana, from the Crescent City Refinery.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

REFINED SIRUP AND MOLASSES.—Crescent City Refinery, Orleans, Louisiana, Chalmette and Pelican brands.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

LOUISIANA MOLASSES.—Various grades of Plantation, in barrels, half barrels and kegs.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

CLARIFIED SUGAR.—Various grades of White and Yellow, in hogsheads and barrels.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

LOUISIANA SUGAR.—Various grades of Plantation, in hogsheads and barrels.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

FOREIGN SUGAR.—Cuba, Demerara and Porto Rico, in hogsheads and boxes.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
my9 6m 48 Tchoupitoulas street.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,

—IMPORTERS OF—

CHINA, CROCKERY AND GLASS,

55.....CAMP STREET.....55

New Orleans.

Country dealers supplied with ASSORTED CRATES or from SHELF upon the most favorable terms.

Contents of our English Iron Stone China Dinner Set, No. 1:

12 Dinner Plates,	1 Round Soup Tureen,
12 Breakfast Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Tea Plates,	1 Salad,
12 Soup Plates,	1 Pair Covered Dishes,
12 Preserve Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Pickle Dishes,
12 Tea cups and saucers	4 Meat Dishes.

112 pieces best English Ware..... $18

Our Stone China Dinner and Tea Set, No. 2, contains

158 pieces..... $25

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 1, contains

12 Dinner Plates,	4 Meat Dishes,
12 Breakfast Plates,	1 Soup Tureen, round,
12 Tea Plates,	2 Covered Dishes, oval
12 Soup Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Preserve Plates,	1 Salad,
12 Tea cups and saucers	2 Pickles,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes.

112 pieces best French Ware..... $30

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 2, contains

166 pieces..... $45

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 3, contains

255 pieces..... $65

A large variety of the best SELF-SEALING FRUIT JARS always on hand.

Sole agents for the celebrated BLANCHARD CHURN. The best churn made.

The most complete stock of HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS in the South.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,
up1 6m No. 55 Camp st., New Orleans.

New Orleans Savings Institution,

187 CANAL STREET.

Incorporated March 15, 1855.

OFFICERS.

L. F. GENERES, President.
THOS. A. ADAMS, first Vice President.
THOS. ALLEN CLARKE, second Vice President.
CHARLES J. LEEDS, third Vice President.
SAM JONES, Jr., Treasurer.

DIRECTORS.

Dr. W. Newton Mercer.

L. F. Generes,	David Urquhart.
George Jonas.	John G. Gaines.
Thos. A. Adams.	Carl Kohn.
Thos. Allen Clarke.	Christian Schneider.
Charles J. Leeds.	Samuel Jamison.

Six per cent. interest on deposits.
my30 3m

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

EMORY AND HENRY COLLEGE, VIRGINIA.

THE FALL SESSION of this Institution begins on the FIFTEENTH OF AUGUST next. One Hundred and Fifteen Dollars will pay all the necessary expenses of a five-month session, including board, tuition, fuel, room-rent, washing and contingent fees. Payments are required in advance, except for board, which is $13 per month, and payable monthly in advance. If you will consult the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and her ministers generally, our alumni and students, or the professors of the University of Virginia, who have authorized this reference, you will be assured that we are offering excellent opportunities for a thorough collegiate training, surrounded by healthful, moral, religious influences. If you desire a catalogue, or any additional information, address

E. E. WILEY, President,
Je20 4m Emory P. O., Virginia.

GREEN FARM HIGH SCHOOL, NEAR BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

REV. F. M. GRACE, PROPRIETOR.

THE FIRST SESSION of this School will begin on the FIRST MONDAY IN AUGUST, 1872, and will continue forty weeks, with a recess of one week at Christmas. The cost of board and tuition will be $20 per month, or $200 per annum. The course of study will embrace all branches usually taught in schools and colleges, and will be adapted to the end the student has in view.

The school is private property, but will be conducted in the interest of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

The buildings and grounds are ample for a private boarding school, and are located in a most beautiful and healthful situation. Boys will be treated with paternal kindness, and the younger pupils will receive especial attention. On Saturday before the opening of the session the proprietor will meet his pupils at Birmingham with private conveyance to the school.

Correspondence is solicited, and circulars will be sent on application to the President at Birmingham, Alabama. For references he respectfully gives his former pupils in the Southern States. je13 2m

HOMER COLLEGE.

THE EXERCISES OF THE TWELFTH scholastic year of Homer College, begin on the first Tuesday in September, 1871. The term is divided into a short Fall Session and a long Spring Session, with a Christmas Vacation of two weeks.

FACULTY:

Rev. J. E. COBB, President and Professor of Mental, Moral and Commercial Science.
J. W. NICHOLSON, A. M., Professor of Pure and Mixed Mathematics.
A. C. CALHOUN, A. B., Professor of Languages.
E. M. CORRY, A. B., Tutor in Physical Science.

TERMS—IN ADVANCE:

Tuition for Fall Session	$30 and $50 00
Tuition for Spring Session	24 and $30 00
Incidental fee (per session)	1 50
Board (per month)	16 00

Students admitted at any time in classes already formed, and charged only to the end of the session.

A course of study as full and thorough as that of any college in the land, an ample corps of instructors, a complete library and apparatus, recently purchased and adapted to the present demands of science and learning, the sure prospect of a permanent endowment, now in progress, an unusually healthful location, a surrounding community intelligent and refined, invite the patronage of the Southwest to Homer College.

For further particulars, address

REV. J. E. COBB,
President Homer College, La.
W. F. MORELAND,
se21 1f President Board of Trustees.

CENTENARY COLLEGE OF LOUISIANA.

THE SESSION OF THIS COLLEGE WILL begin on the FIRST MONDAY in October next. The session embraces forty weeks.

EXPENSES.

Collegiate department, per session	$60 00
Preparatory department, per session	40 00
Incidental expenses	5 00

Tuition for five months payable in advance.

Boarding can be had in good families at from $15 to $20 per month.

For further particulars address

PROF. A. R. HOLCOMBE,
se10 4y Jackson, La.

WATCHES, JEWELRY, ETC.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,

CANAL ST., COR. ROYAL, NEW ORLEANS,

IMPORTERS OF

WATCHES, JEWELRY, CLOCKS,

PLATED WARE, HOUSEKEEPING GOODS,

Cutlery, Guns, Pistols, Bronzes, Porcelain and Fancy Goods.

MANUFACTURERS OF

PURE COIN SILVERWARE.

Watches and Jewelry carefully repaired. Every article sold fully guaranteed.
no23 1y

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

G. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER. E. T. MERRICK, Former Ch. Jos. La.

RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,

Attorneys, Counselors and Solicitors,

Cor. of Camp street and Commercial Place,
se25 NEW ORLEANS.

W. W. EDWARDS,

COUNSELOR AT LAW

AND

COMMISSIONER OF DEEDS,

No. 88 Common street,

se14 1y New Orleans.

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,

DENTAL SURGEON,

152.....JULIA STREET.....152

All operations in Operative, Mechanical and Surgical Dentistry carefully performed. Nitrous Oxide and other Anæsthetics administered. my30 1y

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,

Office—680 Magazine Street,

Between Philip and First sts., New Orleans.

Will call daily at College building, corner Common and Baronne streets, between eleven and twelve o'clock. je29 1y

Carpet and Oil Cloth Warehouse.

J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER,

ELKIN & CO.,

168.....CANAL STREET.....168

Near Baronne, New Orleans,

IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF ENGLISH CARPETINGS, RUGS, Etc.

—ALSO—

Oil Cloths, Mattings,
Lace and Damask Curtains,
Window Shades, etc.,

—AND A—

Complete Assortment of Upholstery Goods.
fe8 1y

EXCHANGE HOTEL,

JOHN SUMMERS, PROPRIETOR,

GALVESTON, TEXAS.

☞ This is the only Hotel in the city which has FREE OMNIBUSES to and from the cars and boats for the use of guests. Ask for Exchange Hotel Omnibus. feb1 1y

Scientific.

WONDERS OF THE YELLOWSTONE.—The geological survey of the western territory of the United States for the present season has been concluded, and Prof. Hayden, chief of the expedition, has returned to Washington. His party numbered thirty-five, and seven weeks were spent in exploring the wonderful region of the upper Yellowstone river and lake, and the source of the Snake and Missouri rivers, in southern Montana. The Yellowstone lake, eight thousand feet above the sea level, the highest lake in the world except Titicaca, in Peru, was thoroughly sounded and explored, and the districts in which are the Hot Springs carefully surveyed and the temperature of the water recorded. In the Fire-Hole Basin, in the valley of the Fire-Hole river, are between one thousand and fifteen hundred of these hot springs, the temperature of which ranges from one hundred and eighty to one hundred and ninety-five degrees, the boiling point of water at that elevation being only one hundred and ninety-two. The "Grant" geyser throws a column of hot water eight feet in diameter to a height of over two hundred feet at regular intervals of thirty-two hours, while others are in almost continuous operation. The geological formation of the valley is wholly volcanic. The soil is fertile, but unproductive, owing to its great elevation and low temperature. Prof. Hayden brought back several tons of geological specimens with him, which are now at the Smithsonian Institute.

THE Italian Society of Spectroscopists is already doing work which must command the attention of the scientific world. The special object of the society is to collate the observations of all Italian astronomers, so as to study daily the number, position, size and form of the protuberances, spots and faculæ. Three numbers are already published of their Memoire, containing the following papers: An Introduction by Prof. Tacchini, of the Observatory of Palermo, expounding the object and resources of the society; a memoir by M. Loreuzoni, of the Observatory of Padua, on the spectral analysis of the protuberances; numerical tables to convert into heliocentric co-ordinates the apparent position of protuberances or spots; a memoir by P. Secchi on a new micrometer for measuring the height of the protuberances; an article by Prof. Tacchini on the comparison of the observations of the protuberances made simultaneously in July, 1871, at Palermo, by himself, and at Rome by Secchi; observations on the solar protuberances and their distribution by P. Secchi; spectroscopic images of the solar margin, made at Rome, Palermo and Padua, by Secchi, Tacchini and Lorenzoni on December 11 and 12, 1871, with a colored plate. This youngest outcome of solar physics is deserving of the heartiest support of men of science in this country.

TRAVELING STONES.—Many of our readers have doubtless heard of the famous traveling stones of Australia. Similar curiosities have recently been found in Nevada, which are described as almost perfectly round, the majority of them as large as a walnut, and of an irony nature. When distributed about upon the floor, table or other level surface, within two or three feet of each other, they immediately begun traveling toward a common center, and there huddled up in a bunch like a lot of eggs in a nest. A single stone, removed to the distance of three and a half feet, upon being released, at once started off, with wonderful and somewhat comical celerity, to join its fellows; taken away four or five feet, it remained motionless. They are found in a region that is comparatively level, and is nothing but bare rock. Scattered over this barren region are little basins, from a few feet to a rod or two in diameter, and it is in the bottom of these that the rolling stones are found. They are from the size of a pea to five or six inches in diameter. The cause of these stones rolling together is doubtless to be found in the material of which they are composed, which appears to be loadstone or magnetic iron ore.

AN UNUSUALLY low level of water in Lake Constance has brought to light another lacustrine station of great extent in the Untersee near the village of Ermatingen. Stakes which have been raised are found to be pointed in a triangular manner. Excavations yield silicious hatchets and arrowheads, also lances, and to some extent stags' teeth of large size. The children and people of Ermatingen are said to have enriched themselves with these discoveries; the more valuable part of which will, no doubt, find their way to the cantonal collections.

YOU THINK JUSTLY, feel rightly. Yes, but your work, produce it. Men of wealth, men of talent, what are you doing in God's world for God? F. W. Robertson.

COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

PRICE, HINE & TUPPER,
General Commission Merchants,
FACTORS, AND
Agents of Attakapas Mail Transportation Co.,
NO. 26 CARONDELET STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Advances made on consignments to T. Tupper & Sons, Charleston, S. C.; Williams, Hirnle & Co., and Leverich & Co., New York. no2 1y

W. H. SUTTON. J. R. POWELL.
SUTTON & POWELL,
COTTON FACTORS
AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
186.....COMMON STREET.....186
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
se21 1y

H. F. GIVEN. LUCIEN J. BUIZE.
H. F. GIVEN & CO.,
COTTON, TOBACCO AND SUGAR FACTORS,
—AND—
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 64 Baronne street, New Orleans.
oc5 1y

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.
AIKEN & WATT,
Cotton Factors and Commission Merchants,
60.....CARONDELET STREET.....60
NEW ORLEANS.
Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. ao2 1y

J. L. DUNNICA, New Orleans. T. A. HAMILTON, Memphis.
G. P. HARRISON, New Orleans.
J. L. DUNNICA & CO.,
FLOUR, PRODUCE AND PROVISION
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
50.....TCHOUPITOULAS ST.....50
NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA.
oc22 1y

J. U. PAYNE. W. H. DAMERON. H. M. PAYNE
PAYNE, DAMERON & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
64 & 66....BARONNE STREET....64 & 66
Between Union and Gravier streets,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
je19 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,
Cotton Factors and General Commission Merchants,
31.....PERDIDO STREET.....31
oc31y NEW ORLEANS.

BUSINESS CARDS.

YUT, SING & CO.,
Agents for FOOK, HING & Co., and TONG, WO & Co., of San Francisco, DIRECT IMPORTERS (VIA SAN FRANCISCO) OF
CHINA AND JAPAN TEAS,
Silks, Lacquer Ware and Fancy Goods, and Dealers in Provisions,
No. 40 Royal Street, New Orleans, La.
je6 2m

W. F. CLARK, successor to A. LOEZ,
131 Rampart street,
Bet. Toulouse and St. Peter sts., New Orleans,
Manufacturer of Carriages and Buggies.
Also carriages repaired and put in as good order as in any part of the country. First premiums awarded at the last Fair for best Victoria or Calachette built anywhere.
my16 2m

MARBLE AND GRANITE WORKS.
GEORGE STROUD,
Late of and successor to John Stroud & Co., (established in 1830,)
158, 160, 152 and 161 St. Charles st.,
Cor. Girod street, New Orleans.
Every description of MONUMENTAL, CEMETERY and BUILDING WORK done in the best manner. Particular attention given to all country orders.
A long experience in and an aptness at the business enables the proprietor to meet the views and ideas of his country friends by letter as well as by a visit to the city.
Designs and Sketches furnished on application. ap25 3m

JAMES M'CRACKEN. GEO. E. BREWSTER.
M'CRACKEN & BREWSTER,
DEALERS IN FURNITURE,
Nos. 37, 39 and 41 Royal street.
Manufactory, corner Derbigny and Customhouse streets, New Orleans. my9 6m

CHARLES BALLEJO,
FAMILY GROCER,
St. Charles, corner of Jackson street,
my9 3m New Orleans, La.

GEORGE CRONAN,
(SUCCESSOR TO BENNETT & LURGES,)
SOUTHERN ORNAMENTAL IRON WORKS
Corner Magnolia and Erato Sts.,
Near Jackson Railroad Depot,
my9 3m NEW ORLEANS.

GEORGE JOHN WAGNER,
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF
BOOTS, SHOES AND BROGANS,
Corner of Ursulines and Dauphine Sts.,
(SIGN OF THE RED BOOT,)
NEW ORLEANS.
Every description of articles in the Boot and Shoe line, for Ladies', Gentlemen's and Children's wear, constantly on hand, and offered at the LOWEST PRICES. ap25 3m

T. H. McMAHAN & CO.,
BANKERS,
And Dealers in Foreign and Domestic Exchange,
GALVESTON, TEXAS.
We have prompt and reliable correspondents at all the principal points throughout this State, and upon all collections payable in this city or Houston make no charge for collecting, and only actual charge upon interior collections.
Immediate and prompt attention given to all business intrusted to us. feb1 1y

JOHN I. ADAMS & CO., (JOHN I. ADAMS, JAY L. ADAMS, GEO. W. WEST, WM. H. RENAUD,)
WHOLESALE GROCERS,
AND DEALERS IN
PROVISIONS, LARD, OILS, ETC., ETC.,
43, 45 and 47 Peters street,
(Formerly New Levee,)
mh21 1y NEW ORLEANS.

G. CASANAVE,
UNDERTAKER,
NO. 39 MARAIS STREET, between Customhouse and Bienville, and
No. 88 Bourbon street, near St. Louis,
NEW ORLEANS.
Orders received for Embalming. ap11 3m

RICHARD BRODERICK,
CISTERN MAKER,
132.....Julia street.....132
Bet. Camp and Magazine, New Orleans.
Second-hand Cisterns always on hand. All work guaranteed.
All orders left at Box 30, Mechanics' and Dealers' Exchange, will meet with prompt attention. my2 1y

BUSINESS CARDS.

C. HUCHEZ,
FAMILY GROCER,
NOS. 95 AND 97 CAMP STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Supplies carefully put up for families moving over the Lake. my30 3m

Carpet Warehouse—17 Chartres Street.
A. BROUSSEAU & CO.,
Importers and dealers, at Wholesale and Retail, in English and American Carpetings,
Floor Oil Cloths, Table and Enameled Oil Cloths,
Window Shades, Table and Piano Covers,
Crumb Cloths, in squares or pieces,
Curtain and Furniture Materials,
Brocatelles, Cotrelenes, Terries, Reps, Lace and Nottingham Lace Curtains, Haircloth Ticking, Springs, Burlaps, Step Covers, etc.
no23 1y A. BROUSSEAU & CO.

THE MITCHELL & RAMMELSBERG
FURNITURE COMPANY,
Manufacturers and dealers in all kinds of
Furniture, Mattresses, Looking Glasses,
ETC., ETC.,
103 and 105 Camp street, cor. Poydras,
Moresque Building, New Orleans,
have the largest and best assortment of FURNITURE of any house in the city.
Please give us a call before purchasing elsewhere. my23 1y

LOUISIANA STEAM
SASH, BLIND AND DOOR FACTORY,
ROBERTS & CO., PROPRIETORS,
301, 303, 305 and 307 Gravier Street,
NEW ORLEANS. my30 1y

WILLIAM HOGAN,
Manufacturer of and Dealer in
BOOTS, SHOES, TRUNKS, VALISES AND BAGS,
FRENCH AND AMERICAN,
Also, Agent for the EMPIRE SEWING MACHINE,
99 AND 101 CANAL STREET,
ap11 3m New Orleans.

JOHN LAZARUS,
PRACTICAL OPTICIAN,
6.....ST. CHARLES ST.....6
Near Canal, New Orleans.
Sole Agent for the celebrated Pantascope Star Spectacles and Eye Glasses. mh21 6m

C. SAMPSON. F. G. SAMPSON.
SAMPSON BROTHERS,
(Late C. C. Sampson,)
FURNITURE,
33 & 35.....ROYAL STREET.....33 & 35
NEW ORLEANS.
Established in 1833. ja11 1y

E. HEATH. M. LARA. J. P. HEATH.
HEATH, LARA & HEATH,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
UPHOLSTERERS' MATERIALS,
WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES,
CORNICES AND CURTAIN GOODS,
Pictures, Frames, Moldings, Looking Glasses and Clocks,
NO. 99 CAMP STREET,
no16 1y NEW ORLEANS.

J. THOMSON. G. THOMSON. W. B. THOMSON.
J. THOMSON & BROS.,

Manufacturers of
Carriages, Barouches, Buggies, Phaetons,
SPRING WAGONS, Etc.
68 and 70 Rampart Street,
Bet. Common and Gravier, New Orleans, La.
Repairing done in all its branches. no30 1y

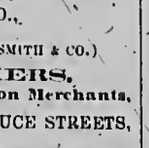
ELON G. SMITH, J. L. CHEATHAM, J. W. BRAUGHON.
SMITH, CHEATHAM & CO.,
(SUCCESSORS TO ELON G. SMITH & CO.)
PORK PACKERS,
Provision and Commission Merchants,
CORNER THIRD AND SPRUCE STREETS,
SAINT LOUIS.
We solicit orders from the trade for goods in our line. oc26 1y

HILL & VEAZIE,
74.....Camp street.....74
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
LAMPS AND OILS, CHANDELIERS,
Globes, Chimneys, Shades, Trimmers, Wicks, Cans, Fillers, etc.
PRATTS' ASTRAL OIL, non-explosive and non-inflammable. ja18 1y

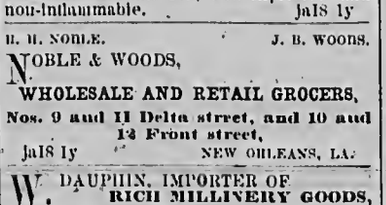
H. H. NOBLE. J. B. WOODS.
NOBLE & WOODS,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS,
Nos. 9 and 11 Delta street, and 10 and 12 Front street,
ja18 1y NEW ORLEANS, LA.

W. DAUPHIN, IMPORTER OF
RICH MILLINERY GOODS,
Laces, Trimmings, Flowers, Wreaths, Straw Goods, etc., etc.,
150 Canal Street, New Orleans.
Manufacturer of Pattern Hats, Cloaks, Mantillas, Berthas and Dresses of all kinds, and especially Bridal Outfits and Children's Trousseaus. no23 1y

T. W. HOUSE,
39 and 41 Main Street, Houston, Texas,
BANKER AND EXCHANGE DEALER.
Collections made and promptly remitted. feb1 6m

WATER
The Records of Tests
AT LOWELL, MASS., PROVE
N. F. BURNHAM'S
New Turbine


superior to all others. It gave a higher percentage than any other wheel of common finish. Pamphlet and Price List by N. F. BURNHAM, York, Pa. mp25 6m

READY-PREPARED
PLASTIC SLATE ROOFING.


Thoroughly Fire-Proof and Durable.
Adapted to any style of roof, steep or flat. Can be applied by any one. Its cost on the roof is less than shingles in nearly every section of the country, and the water from it is of the best quality. Sample sent on application to
EDWARD THOMPSON, Manufacturer,
je27 1m 184 Peter street, New Orleans.

THE BECKWITH SEWING MACHINE.
PATENTED APRIL 10, 1871.
PRICE, $10, including Hemmer, Guide, four Needles, Bottle of Oil and Can.
The First and Only Successful Low-Priced Machine Made.
PRACTICAL, DURABLE, SIMPLE and Beautiful. Capable of making by hand upward of 800 STITCHES PER MINUTE, and there is very little Family Sewing that this machine will not do as well as a $75 machine, and some work it will do better.
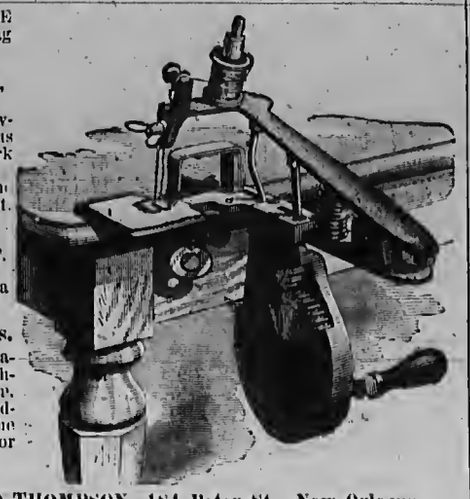
It is well and strongly made of the best material, but compact and light, and takes up but little room.


NICKEL-PLATED THROUGHOUT.
Its SIMPLICITY adapts it to all capacities. Every machine is Fully Warranted for Two Years.
Full directions for running the machine, hemming, tucking, hem-stitching, etc., accompany every machine.
Single machines sent to any address, carefully boxed, with all the equipments, on receipt of $10. For full particulars send for circular.
Address
EDWARD THOMPSON, 184 Peter St., New Orleans,
Energetic Agents Wanted. (je27 6m) Agent of the Manufacturer.

"Southern Books for Southern Schools."
School-Books which are Unsectional, Unpartisan, and Unpolitical.
PREPARED BY THE MOST EMINENT SOUTHERN SCHOLARS, AND
ENTIRELY ACCEPTABLE TO SOUTHERN TEACHERS AND PARENTS.
The University Publishing Co.,

An Association composed of many of the most eminent citizens of the several Southern States, feeling the necessity for a series of School Books which should be entirely unsectional, unpartisan, and unpolitical, and in their teaching thought and feeling of the Southern the facts of history and science—should not be offensive to the people—which should present only of School and College Text-books and educators named below, which are now issuing a complete series by the eminent Southern scholars are the
Cheapest, Best, and Most Beautiful School-Books
Now published. The "University Series" embraces
MAURY'S GEOGRAPHICAL SERIES,
By Commander M. F. MAURY, of the Virginia Military Institute. A series of books which mark an era in the study of this science, and which, in the words of a well known and accomplished Southern teacher, "are characterized by a felicity of arrangement and simple freshness of style which must ever render them attractive to the young, and which will be used by all who wish to teach Geography as a science, as something to make pupils think, and not merely as an enumeration of dry facts."
Holmes' Readers and Spellers,
By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL.D., Professor of History and General Literature in the University of Virginia. A series of Readers unequalled in, cheapness, excellence, and typographical beauty. They are steadily progressive in character, bright and fresh in their selections of prose and verse, and illustrative of Southern scenes, incidents, and history.
Venable's Arithmetical Series,
By CHARLES S. VENABLE, LL.D., Professor of Mathematics in the University of Virginia. These books are received everywhere by intelligent teachers with the highest satisfaction, as being most admirably adapted for mental drill, as well as for business education. Their methods, rules, and reasonings are clear, distinct, logical, and comprehensive, and the series is carefully graded throughout.
Holmes' History of the United States,
By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL.D., of the University of Virginia. It is enough to say of this admirable work, interesting, impartial, and truthful, as well as pure and graceful in style, that it is the only History of the United States which is acceptable to Southern teachers and parents. It comes down to the present date.
THE "UNIVERSITY SERIES" OF SCHOOL-BOOKS
COMPRISES, ALSO,
De Vere's French Grammar, Readers, etc.,
By M. SCHELE DEVERE, LL.D., Professor of Modern Languages in the University of Va.
Gildersleeve's Latin Series,
By B. L. GILDERSLEEVE, Ph.D., LL.D., of the University of Virginia.
Carter's Elements of General History,
By Rev. J. P. CARTER, A.M., of Baltimore, Maryland.
Holmes' English Grammars,
By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL.D., of the University of Virginia.
LeConte's Scientific Series,
By the Professors LECONTE, late of the University of South Carolina.
Johnston's English Classics,
By R. M. JOHNSTON, A.M., late Professor of Rhetoric and Belles-Lettres in the University of Georgia.
To which list other books in other departments will early be added.
Send for our full ILLUSTRATED DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, which will be mailed free to any teacher or school officer. Liberal terms given for introduction.
Address
UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING COMPANY,
155 and 157 Crosby Street, New York.
A full supply of "The University Series" always on hand, and teachers and schools supplied by R. J. HARP, Bookseller, 124 Camp St., New Orleans.
And by all prominent booksellers throughout the South.
W. IRVING CLARKE, the General Agent, will furnish any information, and afford every facility to teachers for examining the series. Office—92 CAMP ST., New Orleans mh7 1y

COOPER'S WELL,
HINDS COUNTY, MISS.
T. C. McMACKIN & CO., Proprietors.
THIS CELEBRATED WELL was opened, in good order, on the First day of May.
The Water will cure chronic Bowel Complaint, Diarrhea, Dropsy, Diabetes, Chlorosis, Torpid Liver, Jaundice and general debility.
Arrangements will be made to buy Excursion Tickets at any depot from Vicksburg to Meridian; also in New Orleans, at Reduced Rates for the round trip, including hacks and hand baggage.
The place has been thoroughly repaired and refurnished, and guests will be made as comfortable as at any Watering Place in the country.
Board, $3 per day; $15 per week; $50 per month.
During the season the place will be under the immediate management of
GEN. T. C. McMACKIN.
For further information address the manager on the premises, or Mr. L. England, Prentiss House, Vicksburg, Miss. my30 2m

MINERAL SPERM OIL.
GUARANTEED AS SAFE AS SPERM OR LARD OIL.
It Will Not Take Fire in Case of Breakage of the Lamp.
THE OIL WILL EXTINGUISH the FLAME.
The Oil itself has no odor while burning. It gives a Light of TEN-CANDLE POWER at a cost not exceeding ONE-HALF CENT PER HOUR, and for lighting railroad cars, steamers, factories and dwelling houses it is invaluable and cannot be too highly recommended.
The Oil is patented, and made by a process which insures its uniformity.
It burns with great brilliancy in the
DUAL BURNER,
requires but little attention and no trimming. The Oil never gums in the lamp, as it absorbs no oxygen from the atmosphere. It does not deteriorate by age. This Burner fits all ordinary coal oil lamps.
BOSTICK & SEYMOUR,
Sole Agents for Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi and Texas,
45 and 47 Front st., and 46 and 48 Fulton st.,
mh28 6m New Orleans.

AGENTS! QUICK! or you will miss choice of territory (there is a rush for it) on the LIFE OF LEWIS' last and greatest work,
OUR DIGESTION,
OR, MY JOLLY FRIEND'S SECRET.
It is by odds the most taking and salable book in the field. 1. It is on a vitally important subject. 2. It is by America's most popular writer on health. 3. It is, for the price, the largest and handsomest book ever sold by subscription. Agents, the people are eager for such a book, and will urge you to bring it to them. Write for terms, etc., free.
GEORGE MACLEAN, Publisher,
my2 3m 733 Sansom st., Philadelphia.

CRAB ORCHARD SPRINGS, KY.,
115 MILES (6 hours' run) from Louisville, on the Knoxville Branch of the L. and N. Railroad.
Correspondence solicited from principals, with the view of occupying the commodious Brick Hotel building now in process of erection, with all modern improvements for school uses, during the regular academic term. Capacity for 300 students. The location of this property, its surroundings, the well-known and peculiar qualities of its Epsom, Brown and Lick Spring Waters and Salts, all combine to render this point above all others the most fitting to establish a first-class Female Seminary upon a permanent basis. Address ISAAC SHELBY, my23 2m Shelby City, Boyd county, Ky.

GREAT CHANCE FOR AGENTS.
Do you want an agency, local or traveling, with an opportunity to make $5 to $40 a day selling our new 7-strand White Wire Clothes Lines? They last forever; sample free, so there is no risk. Address at once Hudson River Wire Works, cor. Water St. and Malden Lane, New York, or 16 Dearborn street, Chicago, Illinois. an21 1y

JOHN D. MACLIN, (Late R. D. Maclin.) L. C. MACLIN,
COAL! WOOD! COAL!
Pittsburg, Anthracite and Cannel Coal, Oak, Ash and Pine Wood, at the lowest market rates, delivered to any part of the city.
Offices—26 Carondelet street, and corner of Third and Tchoupitoulas. mh7 1y

MEDICAL.
Dunbar's Wonderful Discovery,

BETHESDA MINERAL WATER.
The acknowledged cure for Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Liver and Bilious Affections, Kidney and Urinary diseases.
Sold, wholesale or retail, at 38 Magazine street. H. D. HUFF,
Sole Southern Agent,
Address Glass Box 825. may30 3m

CONSUMPTION.....CONSUMPTION.
NEW TREATMENT BY
DUCRO'S ALIMENTARY ELIXIR,
prepared with raw meat and alcohol. Recommended by the highest medical authority in Paris. A radical cure, and in desperate cases a
CERTAIN RELIEF.
Agreeable to the taste. Incontestably superior to Cod Liver Oil, the hypophosphites, and other preparations. This Elixir, the basis of which is raw meat and alcohol, is moreover one of the most powerful tonics for persons convalescing or feeble, for chlorotic young girls, debilitated old persons, etc.
Depot in New Orleans at
MR. P. CUSACHS',
Corner St. Philip and Royal streets,
my16 3m New Orleans,
Sole agent for the United States.

MISCELLANEOUS.
R. L. NEILL,
108 Gravier street, New Orleans,
SOLE AGENT FOR THE
Supercarbonated Mineral Waters
MANUFACTURED BY
CANTRELL & COCHRANE, Belfast, Ireland.
Ginger Ale, Lemonade, and Lime-Juice Syrup.
Delicious summer beverages, refreshing and healthy. Teetotalers will find these the very finest substitutes ever introduced.
The Double Soda Water
manufactured by Messrs. Cantrell & Cochrane is a much superior article to the mixture of Carbonic Acid Gas and Water which is generally sold for Soda Water. It contains a proper quantity of Carbonate of Soda, and to those suffering from acidity of the stomach it is invaluable.
Koll, or Potassa Water, possesses a great solvent power for Uric Acid, and is a wonderful curative for Calcareous Complaints, Gout, Rheumatism, etc. Sufferers from Dyspepsia will find great relief, and most probably a permanent cure, by taking regularly a bottle of this Water about half an hour before breakfast may23 3m

SWINTON'S CONDENSED
SCHOOL HISTORY.
(From the Virginia Educational Journal.)
Mr. Swinton's reputation led us to examine this book. What is of most importance in the work is its extreme fairness. It is vastly superior, in this respect, to any history issued at the North that we have seen. Where accuracy seems almost impossible, he comes nearer to the truth than the others.
NEW SCHOOL BOOKS.
SWINTON'S WORD ANALYSIS.
CATHCART'S YOUTH'S SPEAKER.
ARITHMETICAL EXAMPLES (Mental and Written.)
KERL'S SHORTER COURSE IN GRAMMAR.
A Descriptive Catalogue of the American Educational Series, and our Educational Reporter, mailed free to any address upon application.
Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co.,
Or T. MORONEY, General Agent,
mh28 1y 92 Camp street, New Orleans.

PUBLICATIONS FOR ALL
Prominent Benevolent Organizations.
FRATERNITY.
100,000 SOLD!—Masonic, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Red Men, Mechanics, Temperance, etc.
Sale unrivaled by anything heretofore offered. Agents with no experience are selling 20 Pictures and upward a day. One of our agents has cleared over $1,200 in three months. The Brethren welcome these works. Our inducements are UNPRECEDENTED. Our commissions are positively one-fourth larger than any other house does or CAN offer. Send for circular of Order to which you belong, giving No. of your Lodge, and state where you saw this advertisement. You will certainly engage with us.
J. HALE POWERS & CO.,
Fraternity Publishers,
my9 7m Cincinnati, Ohio.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY,
Established in 1837.

Superior Bells for Churches, Schools, etc., of Pure Copper and Tin, fully warranted, and mounted with our Latest Improved Rotary Hangings, the best in use.
Illustrated Catalogue sent free
VANDUZEN & TIFT,
fe22 1y 102 & 104 E. Second St., Cincinnati

SOAP MANUFACTORY,
Cor. St. Andrew & Howard.
Office and Salesroom:
110 Gravier, Cor. Bank Place.
fe11 1y

PRICE WILLIAMS & SON,
Exchange and Real Estate Brokers
MOBILE, ALABAMA.
Dealers in Bills, Bonds, Notes and Stocks of every kind. Plantations, and lands unimproved, for sale in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. Also every class of Real Estate in Mobile, Alabama. Rent, and pay taxes and insurance on Real Estate in Mobile. Invest money on mortgages, etc., and collect claims.
REFERENCES.
Messrs. Baker, Lawler & Co., Mobile, Ala.
Moses Waring, Esq., Mobile, Ala.
Hon. Milton Brown, Jackson, Tenn.
Bishop J. C. Keener, New Orleans
Bishop Paine, Mississippi.
Bishop McTyeire, Nashville, Tenn.
Messrs. John T. Farwell & Co., Chicago.
Dean, McGinnis & Co., N. Y. no28 1y

WM. PHILLIPS, UNION STABLES, 180 Calliope, near St. Charles street, has every accommodation in the line of Pleasure and Family Carriages, such as hacks, brettes, phaetons, buggies, etc., for the use of the public, and at rates to correspond with the stringency of the times. All hacking done below tariff rates. Orders for weddings, balls, picnics, races, etc., will be attended to so as to guarantee satisfaction. I am also prepared to hire vehicles (alone) to parties having their own horses. de14 1y

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

(From the New Orleans Price Current.)

We notice a very dull market in nearly every branch of trade, all complaining of the prevailing apathy. In many branches the movement has been confined to a limited jobbing and retail business.

The weather has been generally clear and pleasant, but with frequent heavy showers, and our accounts from some localities in the country indicate that the rains have been excessive. These, however, are exceptions to the general reports, which present a highly favorable aspect, especially in Texas.

The river is 5 feet 10½ inches below high water mark.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the twenty-eighth ultimo:

Louisiana and Mississippi.....bales..	232
Mobile.....	249
Total.....	481

On Saturday the New York and Liverpool dispatches had an unfavorable influence, but the stock being so much reduced, the principal holders adhered to their previous pretensions, and the sales, which embraced 400 bales, were at prices in favor of buyers, but showing no quotable falling off. On Monday, under the still more unfavorable accounts from New York, where "futures" were demoralized and lower, and "spots" gave way ⅜c., buyers claimed concessions which factors would not admit. The inquiry, at the same time, was limited, only three buyers coming forward, two of whom were unable to execute their orders, while the third took 460 bales at easier prices, a high style of strict ordinary, which could hardly have been bought previously at less than 21⅛@21¼c., selling at 21c., and 23c. being accepted for a kind between strict good ordinary and low middling, approximating the latter. On Tuesday the business was of still less magnitude, only two buyers coming forward, and taking in all 209 bales at easier prices, average good ordinary selling at 21¾c., and low middling as low as 23¼c. We heard of orders from the North having been canceled, the revulsion at New York deterring purchasers.

The receipts proper at this port, since the first of September, (exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas,) are 949,766 bales, against 1,412,299 bales to the same date last year, and the decrease in the receipts at all the ports, up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 1,215,567 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same date last year, there is an increase of 54,294 to France, and a decrease of 885,405 to Great Britain, and of 333,074 to other foreign ports.

We quote:

Low ordinary.....	18 @ 18½
Ordinary.....	19½ @ 21
Good ordinary.....	21½ @ 22½
Low middling.....	23½ @ 23¾
Middling.....	24½ @ 24½

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1871, bales.		25,323
Arrived past three days.	481
Arrived previously.....1,048,014
Waste and damaged cotton, samples, etc.....	13,511	1,062,006
		1,087,329
Exported past three days.	4,591
Exported previously.....1,060,468		1,065,059
Stock on hand and on shipboard..		22,270

SUGAR.—The market has continued dull since our last review, with a good stock on the landing and in the sheds. On Tuesday about 125 hhds. were sold at 9⅛c. for fully fair, refilled, 10¼c. for strictly prime, refilled, and 9¾c. for prime, not refilled. The stock in the sheds is decreasing. Of city refinery, yellow clarified is retailing at 11¼c., white 12½@12¾c., crushed and powdered 13½c., ent loaf 14½c. ₱ pound.

MOLASSES.—A few barrels were received from plantation on Saturday and Monday, and sold at 40c. ₱ gallon for fair fermenting. City refinery is retailing at 30c. for inferior, 40c. for common, 50c. for fair, 55c. for prime, 60c. for choice, and 80c.@$1 ₱ gallon for golden sirup.

CORN.—On Tuesday there was a moderate supply on the landing, with a fair demand, and the sales embraced 7,500 sacks at 57@58c. for mixed, 69c. for white mixed, and 69@70c. for white.

OATS—Have been in good supply and fair demand at about previous prices. The sales on Saturday and Monday embraced 19,700 sacks, in lots, at 38c. for inferior, 40@41c. for ordinary, 42c. for Ohio river, 42@44c. for St. Louis, and 45@46c. for choice and choice Galena.

BRAN.—The market is quiet, with a light supply and limited demand. On Tuesday 200 sacks sold at $1.10 ₱ 100 lbs.

PORK.—On Tuesday the market was dull, with mess held at $12.75, and buyers offering $12.50 ₱ bbl. In the afternoon 500 bbls. mess sold, in five lots, to dealers, at $12.62½ ₱ bbl. Mess is retailing at $13 ₱ bbl.

BACON.—On Tuesday there was a good demand and firmer market, with a light stock on hand, and a scarcity of shoulders and clear rib sides. The sales embraced 100 casks, in lots, at 6⅛@6⅜c. for shoulders, to arrive; 8@8⅛c. for clear rib sides, on the spot; and 8¼c. for clear sides.

BREAKFAST BACON.—The stock has been very much reduced, and Western now commands 10½c. ₱ lb. Some 25 boxes, good sold on Saturday at 10½c. ₱ lb., and on Monday 5 boxes ordinary at 10⅛c. ₱ lb. On Tuesday 2,000 lbs. New York sold at 11½c. ₱ lb.

BEEF.—The supply is light, with only a moderate local demand. Texas mess commands $11.50@$12, extra mess $12.50 ₱ bbl., and $9 for half bbls. Tierces are quoted at $17@$17.50 for mess, and $18@$18.50 for prime mess. Western is scarce, and selling at $15.50@$16. There is very little Northern here; it commands $17 ₱ bbl.

MONETARY.

Gold opened on Tuesday at 113@113¼, (against 113⅜ at New York,) and closed at the opening rates in both markets.

The sales of silver have been confined to $1,000 in American half dollars on Saturday at 108½, and $500 on Tuesday at 108½.

New Orleans Wholesale Prices.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
Agricultural Implements:
Cotton scrapers	4 50	6 00
Cotton sweeps	4 50	6 00
Cultivators, Diam. & shovel-tooth	7 75	10 50
Cultivators, riding	45 00	60 00
Cultivators, walking	30 00	35 00
Shovels	7 00	14 50
Spades	7 00	16 00
Axes	10 00	15 00
Potato diggers	13 50	—
Shovel plows	6 00	7 00
Half do., with cutters	8 00	9 00
Manly's D. S. plow	6 00	9 75
Corn mills, Coleman's	120 00	425 00
Bread, ₱ 100 lbs:
Pilot	5 00	6 00
Loaf	— —	— —
Crackers	5 00	12 00
Navy	— —	4 50
Cream crackers	11 00	12 00
Bricks, ₱ M:
Lake	13 00	16 00
English fire	— —	50 00
American fire	40 00	— —
Candles, ₱ lb:
Sperm, New Bedford	33	36
Tallow	16	18
Chocolate, ₱ lb:
Cocoa	38	60
No. 1	50	52
Sweet and spiced	25	— —
Cider, ₱ bbl:
Western	10 00	— —
Coal, ₱ ton:
Anthracite	12 60	13 00
Western, ₱ bbl	— —	65
Corks, ₱ 1000:
Regular	4 00	4 50
Pointed	4 70	4 80
Coffee, ₱ lb:
Havana (currency)	— —	24
Java	28	32
Cordova	— —	— —
Copper, ₱ lb:
Brazlers'	48	— —
Copper bolts	48	— —
Yellow metal	30	32
Cordage, ₱ lb:
Manilla	19	20
Tarred, American	— —	16
Russian	16	— —
Cotton seed:
Rough, ₱ ton	— —	14 00
In sacks	— —	18 50
Dyes, ₱ lb:
Logwood, Camp'y	4	4½
Logwood, St. Domingo	4½	5
Fustic, Tampico	5	6
Indigo, ₱ lb	1 40	1 60
Madder	15	18
Eggs, ₱ dozen:
Western	8	11
Feathers, ₱ lb	80	90
Fish, ₱ box:
Cod	1 10	— —
Herrings	30	— —
Mackerel, No. 1, ₱ bbl	13 50	— —
Mackerel, No. 2	10 50	— —
Mackerel, No. 3	8 00	— —
Flaxseed, ₱ lb	4½	5
Flour, ₱ bbl:
Double extra	6 75	7 25
Superfine	6 00	— —
Fine	5 50	5 75
Fruit, ₱ lb:
Prunes	10½	13
Currants, new	9	10
Almonds, soft shell	17½	18½
Almonds, shelled	30	— —
Glass, ₱ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	3 50	4 00
French, 10 by 12	4 75	4 25
French, 12 by 18	4 00	4 50
Gunny bags, ₱ bag	18	18½
Hay, ₱ ton:
Prime	25 00	28 00
Choice	28 00	30 00
Iron, ₱ ton:
Pig	54 00	55 00
Country bar, ₱ lb	5	—
English	5½	7½
Swedes, assorted	6½	7½
Hoop	6½	7
Sheet	7	7½
Roller	7½	8
Nail rods	— —	6
Castings, American	6½	7
Lead, ₱ 100 lbs:
Pig	9 50	— —
Bar, ₱ lb	8	8½
Sheet	12	— —
Pipe	12	— —
Leather, ₱ lb:
Sole, hemlock	33	34
Sole, oak	37	43
Harness	34	45
Calf skins, ₱ dozen	42 00	70 00
Texas, rough, ₱ lb	24	26
Lime, ₱ bbl:
Western	1 25	1 75
Cement	2 50	3 00
Plaster Paris	3 50	4 00
Lumber, ₱ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	13 00	15 00
Boards, cypress	25 00	30 00
Flooring, dressed	25 00	30 00
Flooring, rough	15 00	18 00
Ceiling, dressed	20 00	25 00
Weatherboards, dressed	18 00	20 00
Weatherboards, rough	12 00	15 00
Scantling	13 00	15 00
Shingles, ₱ M	3 50	4 25
Laths	2 50	3 00
Moss, ₱ lb:
Country picked	4½	6
Clean picked	6½	7
Nails, ₱ keg:
American, 4@6d	5 00	5 75
Wrought, German, ₱ lb	14	16
Wrought, English	14	16
Oils:
Lard, ₱ gallon	70	75
Coal oil, in barrels	26	28
Coal oil, in cases	31	34
Linseed, raw	1 08	1 10
Sperm	— —	2 00
Whale, refined	95	1 00
Cotton seed, crude	— —	46
Cotton seed, refined	60	65
Castor	1 65	1 85
Olive, 22@24 oz	6 75	7 00
Olive, 11@12 oz	7 00	7 25
Tanner's, ₱ gallon	75	85
Soap, ₱ lb:
Western	5½	7
Northern	5½	7
Southern	4½	6½
Castile, genuine	12	— —
Castile, imitation	11	— —
Sardines:
Half boxes	34	35½
Quarter boxes	23½	24
Spices, ₱ lb:
Cassia	40	45
Cloves	19	20
Nutmegs	1 20	1 25
Pepper	21	21½
Pimento	12	12½
Sugar, ₱ lb:
Havana, white	— —	— —
Havana, yellow	10½	11½
Havana, brown	10½	11
Crushed	13½	— —
Pulverized	13½	— —
Teas, ₱ lb:
Imperial	60	1 25
Gunpowder	75	1 50
Hyson	75	1 25
Young Hyson	75	1 10
Oolong	65	1 25
Pouchong	30	50
Tin, ₱ box:
Block	— —	— —
In plates, I. X	18 25	18 50
In plates, I. C	16 00	16 25
Leaded plates, I. X	17 25	17 50
Leaded plates, I. C	15 00	15 25

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, July 2, 1872.

Texas beeves, choice, ₱ head	$50 00	@	55 00
Texas beeves, 1st qual, ₱ head	35 00	@	45 00
Texas cattle, 2d qual, ₱ head	20 00	@	28 00
Texas cattle, 3d qual, ₱ head	14 00	@	18 00
Western beeves, ₱ lb. net	10	@	13
Hogs, ₱ lb. gross	4½	@	6
Sheep, first quality, ₱ head	5 00	@	6 00
Sheep, second qual., ₱ head	3 00	@	4 00
Sheep, third quality, ₱ head	2 00	@	2 50
Milch cows, choice, ₱ head	80 00	@	100 00
Milch cows, ₱ head	50 00	@	80 00
Texas cows, with calves	— —	@	— —
Calves, ₱ head	7 00	@	10 00
Yearlings, ₱ head	5 00	@	12 00

Special Notices.

Lake Providence District Conference.

The Lake Providence District Conference, Louisiana Conference, will be held at Rayville, Louisiana, July 18-21. The Rev. M. C. Manly, of Bastrop, Louisiana, will preach the opening sermon on Thursday night. Delegates will be shown to their homes from the courthouse. The camp meeting has been postponed. J. T. DAVES, P. E.

Union Springs District Conference.

The District Conference for the Union Springs district, Alabama Conference, will be held in Troy, Alabama, July 31 and August 1-4, inclusive. The opening sermon will be preached on Wednesday night, July 31, by Rev. Elisha Phillips, of Fort Deposit, Alabama. A full attendance is earnestly requested, as ample accommodations will be made for all. J. W. SHOMES, P. E.

Eufaula District Conference.

The District Conference for Eufaula district, Alabama Conference, is to be held at Clayton, commencing August 8.

JAS. L. COTTEN, P. E.

Seashore District Conference.

The District Conference of the Seashore district, Mississippi Conference, will be held at Moss Point church, East Pascagoula circuit, August 1-4. Bishop Keener will preside. All the preachers on the district are expected to attend, and make full and exact reports. The local preachers and lay delegates are also expected.

C. F. GILLASPIE, P. E.

Opelousas District Conference.

The District Conference for the Opelousas district will be held in Vermillionville, July 18-21, inclusive. Each member of this body is hereby especially urged to attend. Conference will open at nine A. M. on the eighteenth. B. F. WHITE, P. E.

Preachers' Meeting.

The preachers' meeting of Meridian district, Mississippi Conference, will hold its next session at Quitman, Mississippi, on the Wednesday after the second Sabbath in July. The subject for discussion is: "Will the future happiness of all who are saved be greater than if man had not fallen?" Essayists: Rev. James Shanks, Rev. J. C. Brogan and Rev. D. W. C. Ellis. It is desired that all the preachers in the district, and as many others as can, will attend this meeting. Essayists select their own subjects.

WILLIAM B. HINES.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

VICKSBURG DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Natchez	July 13, 14
Rocky Springs, at Steele chapel	Aug. 3, 4
North Warren, Milldale and Sunflower, at Beechland	10, 11
Cayuga, at Bear Creek	17, 18
South Warren, at Red Bone	24, 25
Clover Hill, at Tallula	30, Sept. 1
Rolling Fork	Sept. 7, 8
Fayette, at Belle Grove	14, 15
Kingston	21, 22

JOHN A. B. JONES, P. E.
Port Gibson, Miss.

SUMMIT DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Pouckatoula and Livingston	July 6, 7
Summit and Magnolia	20, 21
Holmesville	27, 28
Amite City	Aug. 3, 4
Covington	10, 11
Greensburg	17, 18
Big Creek	24, 25
Franklinton	Sept. 7, 8
St. Helena	14, 15

The Summit District Conference will commence at Tangipahoa, Louisiana, on Friday, September 27, and embrace the fifth Sunday.

J. NICHOLSON, P. E.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Wayne circuit, at Scott's chapel	July 6, 7
Shubuta circuit, at Quitman	13, 14
Enterprise circuit, at Concord	20, 21
Enterprise station	27, 28
Marion circuit, at Toomsuba	Aug. 3, 4
Paulding circuit	10, 11
Clarke circuit	17, 18
Meridian station	24, Sept. 1

WM. B. HINES, P. E.

JACKSON DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Yazoo City sta. and Silver Creek mission	July 6, 7
Madison circuit, at Vernon	13, 14
Sharon ct., at Thornton chapel	20, 21
Yazoo circuit, at Trammell	27, 28
Mount Olivet circuit and Yazoo mission, at New Hope	Aug. 3, 4
Raymond circuit	10, 11
Brownsville circuit	17, 18
Sulphur Springs circuit, at Madisonville	24, 25
Camden and Thomastown circuits	31, Sept. 1
Carthage circuit	Sept. 7, 8

H. H. MONTGOMERY, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Brandywine, at Sarepta	July 6, 7
Scotland, at Sweet Water	13, 14
Pleasant Valley, at Pleasant Valley	20, 21
Burtonton, at Zion	27, 28
Beauregard, at Beauregard	Aug. 3, 4
Georgetown, at Georgetown	10, 11
Jackson, at Forest Hill	17, 18
Bogue Chitto	24, 25
Brookhaven and Brookhaven mission	31, Sept. 1
Crystal Springs and Crystal Springs mission	Sept. 7, 8

The District Meeting will be held September 5, at nine o'clock A. M., at Crystal Springs. Bishop J. C. Keener will preside. A camp meeting is in prospect at this same time and place, on the plan recommended by the last District Conference.

W. E. M. LINFIELD, P. E.
Post Office, Hazlehurst.

WOODVILLE DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

East Feliciana, at Oak Grove	July 13, 14
East Baton Rouge, at Black Water	20, 21
Jackson	27, 28
Wilkinson, at Pisgah	Aug. 3, 4
Buffalo, at Friendship	10, 11
Meadville, at Meadville	24, 25
Amite, at Bond's camp-ground	31, Sept. 1

The District Conference for the Woodville district of the Mississippi Annual Conference will begin on the twenty-fifth of July, at half-past seven o'clock P. M., in the town of Jackson, Louisiana. Opening sermon by President Andrews. Brethren on their arrival will call at the Methodist church. Full written reports will be expected from the pastors, as the Discipline directs.

J. L. FORSYTH, P. E.

SEASHORE DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Pearlington ct., at Pearlington	July 6, 7
Wilde Plains ct., at Little Biloxi	13, 14
Ocean Springs ct., at Handsboro	20, 21
West Pascagoula circuit, at Mt. Pleasant	27, 28
East Pascagoula circuit, at Moss Point	Aug. 3, 4
Greene mission	10, 11

Our District Conference will be held at Moss Point, commencing on Thursday, the first day of August.

C. F. GILLASPIE, P. E.

BRANDON DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Brandon circuit, at Shiloh	July 6, 7
Hillsboro circuit, at Good Hope	13, 14
Forest circuit, at Carr's church	20, 21
Philadelphia ct., at Philadelphia	27, 28
Decatur mission, at Hebron	Aug. 3, 4
Lake circuit, at Scotland chapel	10, 11
Morton circuit	24, 25
Trenton circuit	31, Sept. 1
Raleigh circuit	Sept. 7, 8
Taylorville mission	14, 15
Harlandsville circuit	21, 22

The District Conference will convene at Forest, August 16, at nine o'clock A. M. All the members, both elect and ex officio, will please be on time, as important business will come up on the first day of the conference. Dear brethren, as prominence is to be given to religious exercises at our District Conferences, let us make this a subject of special prayer, that it may be "a refreshing time from the presence of the Lord."

F. M. WILLIAMS, P. E.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

DEMOPOLIS DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Greene, at Palmetto	July 6, 7
Demopolis	20, 21
Forkland, at Watson's chapel	27, 28
Gainesville, at Ramsey	Aug. 3, 4
Cuba, at York	10, 11
Linden, at Providence	17, 18
Butler, at Bright Water	24, 25
Gaston, at Thompkinsville	31, Sept. 1

S. H. COX, P. E.

MOBILE DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

St. Francis street	July 6, 7
Citronelle	13, 14
St. Stephen's, at Simms' chapel	20, 21
Eastern Shore	27, 28
Mount Pleasant, at Red Hill	Aug. 3, 4
Grand Bay mission, at Ellington	10, 11
Pollard ct., at Shepherd's chapel	17, 18
Pensacola	24, 25
Milton	31, Sept. 1

H. URQUHART, P. E.

SELMA DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Uniontown station	July 6, 7
Choctaw Corner circuit, at Choctaw Corner	13, 14
Peachtree circuit	20, 21
Selma station	27, 28
East Selma station	Aug. 3, 4
Rembert Hills ct., at Camp-ground	10, 11
Perryville circuit	17, 18
Dayton and Spring Hill, at Spring Hill	24, 25
Linden and Flatwoods mission, at Spring Hill	24, 25

A. J. BRIGGS, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

YAZOO DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Whoona, at Whoona	July 6, 7
Greenwood and McNutt	13, 14
Vahlen, at Midway	20, 21
Durant, at Spring Hill	27, 28
Kosciusko and Bethel, at Bethel	Aug. 3, 4
Black Hawk	10, 11

There will be a camp meeting at Bethel, Attala county, Mississippi, beginning on Friday, August 2, embracing the first Sunday in August.

There will be a camp meeting at Spring Dale, Attala county, Mississippi, beginning August 16, embracing the third Sunday in August.

The District Conference of the Yazoo district, North Mississippi Conference, will meet in Black Hawk, Carroll county, Mississippi, August 29, embracing the first Sunday in September. The Black Hawk camp meeting will begin at the same time and place. All who can are cordially invited to attend these camp meetings, the ministerial brethren particularly. Our camp meetings are expected to be largely self-sustaining; that is, all attending will provide for themselves and their invited friends. We found this plan a good one last year. Let us come up in the spirit of prayer, holding doubting, and the Master will be there.

The new Methodist church in Kosciusko will be dedicated on Sunday, July 14.

W. J. HARTON, P. E.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NEW ORLEANS BRANCH

Southern Life Insurance Company

OF MEMPHIS, TENNESSEE.

Office—16 Carondelet St., New Orleans.

Good and reliable Solicitors wanted.

my27 3m

MENEELY'S BELLS.

THE genuine Troy Church Bells known to the public since 1826, which have acquired a reputation unequaled by any, and a sale exceeding that of all others—including more than seventy chimes and peals, one thousand testimonials received during the last six years. Every Bell made of best Copper and Tin, and formally warranted. New Patent Rotary Fixtures. Catalogues free. No agencies.

Post office address, either Troy or West Troy, New York.

jy13 1y E. A. & G. R. MENEELY.

The Buck-Eye Bee-Hive

IS THE VERY BEST

Movable Frame and Moth-Proof Hive

IN THE MARKET.

Farm, County and State Rights for sale in Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana.

For circulars, prices, etc., address

J. K. RUGG,
ap25 3m Nashville, Tennessee.

SUGAR MILLS

FOR THE VERY BEST AND

Latest Improved Sugar Machinery,

consisting of CANE MILLS, Evaporators, Clarifiers, Grates, Doors, Skimmers, etc., also CIDER MILLS, and the celebrated COTTAGE FRUIT DRYERS, address, for Price List and Catalogue,

SOUTHERN MANUFACTURING CO.,
je20 2m Nashville, Tenn.

THREE YEARS IN A Man-Trap. By T. S. ARTHUR, is now ready. It is a thrilling recital of a three years' life in a city dram-shop, shows up the vile deceptions practiced in bar-rooms, and is the most powerful work of the kind ever written—is certain to have an immense sale. Apply for an agency, and make money. QUEEN CITY PUBLISHING CO., Cincinnati, O. my23 3meow

Agents WANTED FOR THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD. A GRAND and popular Repository of Religious Knowledge. Agents sell 100 per week. A splendid quarto, with 200 magnificent illustrations in STEEL and WOOD. Agents who sell this can have a polysyllabic tree of one Pictorial Home Bible, published in English and German. Address at once, to secure terms and territory, WM. FLINT & CO., Savannah, Ga. my9 3meow

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

The Warlike Trouble Brewing in Europe concerns us less, individually, than the bobtail engagements by which each one of us is liable at this season of the year. Fortunately all disturbances of the stomach, the bowels and the liver, engendered by hot weather, sudden changes of temperature or unwholesome atmospheric conditions, are speedily relieved by a dose or two of which is nectar to the thirsty palate, and at the same time the truest of all cathartics, a healthful invigorant and stomachic, and invaluable as a means of preventing fever and congestion. The genuine article may be had of all druggists. je27 2t

Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient,

DRY GOODS—CLOTHING.

D. H. HOLMES,

135.....CANAL STREET.....135

—AND—

15.....BOURBON STREET.....15

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER

—IN—

ALL DESCRIPTIONS

—OF—

DRY GOODS,

—SUCH AS—

SILKS, TISSUES, EMBROIDERIES, LACES, SHAWLS, CLOAKS, MADE SUITS, ETC.

The attention of the public is respectfully called to our stock, which will be found most complete, embracing every kind of Fancy and Staple Goods.

ap25 6m

W. H. PIERSON. E. L. HEWS.

PIERSON & HEWS,

DEALERS IN

Fine Clothing & Furnishing Goods,

NOS. 13 AND 15 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

64d15 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

ORGANS.

SEND TO

ROBERT J. HARP, AGENT,

112 Camp St., New Orleans,

FOR

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUES

OF THE

WOODS ORGANS,

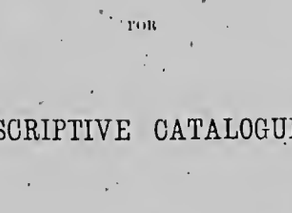
FOR

Churches, Families, Sabbath Schools and Schools.

NO BETTER IN THE MARKET. 6a my2 tf

IMPORTANT TO PLANTERS.

IRON COTTON TIES.



THE ARROW TIE AND ALL OPEN-SLOT TIES.

The above-described Ties are the best and most popular Ties in use for Baling Cotton. They are manufactured of the best quality of English iron, by J. J. McCOMB, Liverpool, England, and are sold under full guarantee, at the lowest market price, by all dealers in Baling Stuffs in New Orleans, Mobile, Galveston, Savannah, Charleston, Wilmington, Petersburg, Baltimore, Memphis, Louisville, Nashville, New York, and by country merchants generally throughout the Cotton States.

BARTLETT & RAYNE,
General Agents,
48 Carondelet street, cor. Cuba,
my30 6m New Orleans.

SHERMAN HOUSE, NO. 1 WEST TWENTY-Sixth street, New York. MR. ELKINS, Proprietor. Strangers visiting New York, desiring the comforts and refinement of a home and attendance of a hotel, in a first-class central location, can find the same at from $25 to $10 per week for a gentleman and wife; transient, $3 per day: American plan; lodgings, $1. je27 3m

STEAMSHIPS.

New Liverpool Line of Steamers,

Built expressly for the New Orleans trade, to ply between this port and Liverpool.

Liverpool and Mississippi Steamship Company.

First-class Powerful Screw Steamers,

ST. LOUIS, Capt. Smith	1,827 tons,
MEMPHIS, Capt. Weeks	2,300 "
MISSISSIPPI, Capt. Pierson	2,500 "
TEXAS, (building)	2,500 "
VICKSBURG, "	2,500 "
MISSOURI, "	2,500 "

FOR LIVERPOOL DIRECT—The Steamship

MEMPHIS,

Weeks, commander,

To sail on MAY 25, 1872,

from her wharf, foot of St. Mary street, Fourth District. Will receive and sign through bills of lading to Havre, Bremen, Hamburg, Antwerp, Rotterdam and all Continental ports.

Parties desirous of sending for their friends can purchase prepaid emigration tickets here. A reduction allowed when applied for in groups.

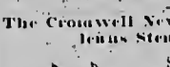
For freight or passage, having superior accommodations, apply to

MEEKER, KNOX & CO.,
40 Carondelet street.

Managing owners. FLINN, MAIS & MONTGOMERY, 12 Limekiln Hay, Chapel street, Liverpool. my16 3m

FOR NEW YORK.

The Cromwell New York and New Orleans Steamship Line.



Steamers of this Line leave New Orleans for New York EVERY SATURDAY at 5 P. M.

Cabin passage	$50 00
Steerage passage	25 00

Through bills of lading to foreign and coastwise ports issued.

ALFRED MOULTON,
mh21 1y 41 Carondelet street.

FOR NEW YORK.

MERCHANTS' STEAMSHIP LINE.

Sailing from New York and New Orleans EVERY SATURDAY.

Cabin passage	$50 00
Steerage passage	25 00

Through tickets to Liverpool and the Continent.

New Orleans wharf, foot of Jefferson street. New York wharf, Pier No. 4, North river.

JOHN H. LUDWIGSEN, Agent,
feb8 1y No. 190 Common street.

MOBILE ADVERTISEMENTS.

IRA W. PORTER & CO.,

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

HARDWARE, CUTLERY, PAINTS,

OILS, WINDOW GLASS,

Doors, Sash and Blinds, Marbleized Slate Mantles and Grates,

Under ODD FELLOWS' HALL, ROYAL ST., MOBILE, ALA. jly4 6m

JOHN DOUGLAS, DEALER IN

Fancy and Staple Dry Goods,

NOS. 102 AND 104 DAUPHIN STREET, MOBILE, ALABAMA.

Agent for the Florence Sewing Machine. All goods warranted as represented, and sold at the lowest rates for Cash, our object being large sales and small profits. jly4 1y

OTIS' STEAM SAW, PLANING AND GRIST MILLS, AND BLACKSMITH'S SHOP,

Corner of Water and Madison Streets,

MOBILE, ALABAMA.

Orders received at the above Mills for all kinds of Lumber, dressed or rough. Fresh Meal, bolted or unbolted, always on hand. Also all styles of Moldings.

my2 3m. WILLIAM OTIS.

WAVERLY STABLES,
HAYDEN & MEENAN, Proprietors.

LIVERY AND SALE STABLES,

No. 39 North Royal Street, Mobile.

Carriages and Buggies of the latest styles, and superior Horses, furnished at all hours. Calls at every description will receive prompt attention. jly4 1y

THE FAMILY PAPER.

The Illustrated Christian Weekly,

NOW IN ITS SECOND YEAR, IS THE

ONLY ILLUSTRATED

Religious Weekly published in the country. It is unsectarian in its character, and has been warmly welcomed by Christian people everywhere. Its illustrations are not excelled by any secular publication, while the reading matter is carefully prepared by eminent writers of various denominations.

Send for Specimen Copy.—Two Dollars a Year.

Agents wanted in every community. Liberal terms to Sabbath schools.

AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY,
Publishers,
je27 7teow3p 150 Nassau st., New York.

JOHN GIBSON,

ENGRAVER

AND

Steam Power Lithographic Printer,

83 BEEKMAN ST., NEW YORK,

Checks, Notes, Drafts, Receipts, Bonds, Certificates of Stock and Deposit, Bill, Letter and Note Headings, Business Cards, Envelopes, Druggists' Fancy and Perfumery Labels, etc. Druggists wishing Labels, send for Catalogue. je27 1y

SAVE $20.

THE NEW WILSON UNDER-FEED.

The Best and Cheapest First-class, Shuttle SEWING MACHINE In the World.

Agents Wanted.

WM. GREGG & Co., Gen'l Southern Agents, No. 180 Canal street, New Orleans, La. je27 1m

A FULL AND COMPLETE ASSORTMENT E. BUTTERICK & CO.'S CELEBRATED PATTERNS, all Styles and sizes. Send for descriptive catalogue at the office of WM. E. COOPER & CO., No. 89 Canal street, Agents for the Singer Improved Family Sewing Machine. Now ready, the new "Jolly Yankee" Pattern; all sizes. je6 2m

A GRADUATE OF SOME EXPERIENCE who can teach all the branches usually taught in Female Colleges, desires a situation. Prefers a select school in some village or good neighborhood. For information address REV. S. P. RICHARDSON, Summerfield, Alabama. je6 3m

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. XVIII. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JULY 11, 1872. NO. 28.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

New York, July 2.—The Herald has a long account from Mr. Stanley, narrating his adventures in reaching Ujiji, where he came up with Dr. Livingstone, whose story is as follows: In March, 1866, he informed the Herald explorer, he started with twelve Sepoys, nine Johanna men and seven liberated slaves, and traveled up the Rovuma river. Before they had been gone very long the men became frightened at the nature of the journey and the reports of hostile tribes up in the country which they were to pass through. At length they deserted him, and, as a cover to their cowardice in doing so, circulated a report of his death.

Dr. Livingstone proceeded on his journey in spite of the isolation, and after some difficult marching reached the Chambezi river, which he crossed. He found that this was not the Portuguese Chambezi river, as has been conjectured, but, on the contrary, wholly separate. He traced its course and found it was called further on the Lualaba; he continued his explorations along its banks for seven hundred miles, and is convinced in consequence that the Chambezi is doubtless the source of the Nile, and that this will make a total length for the "Mystic River of Africa" of two thousand six hundred miles. His explorations also establish the fact that the Nile is not supplied by Lake Tanganyika.

He reached within one hundred and eighty miles of the source, and explored the surrounding ground, when, finding himself without supplies, he was obliged to return to Ujiji, and was in a state of destitution there when met by the commander of the Herald expedition, on the sixteenth of October, 1871. The two explorers left Ujiji and arrived at Unyanyembe toward the end of November, where they passed twenty-eight days exploring the district; they then returned and spent Christmas at Ujiji.

The Herald's explorer arrived at the point of sending this important intelligence on the fourteenth of March, 1872, leaving Dr. Livingstone at Unyanyembe. As to Livingstone's further plans, he will explore the north shore of Tanganyika lake, and the remaining one hundred and eighty miles of the Lualaba river. This herculean task he expects will occupy the next two years.

Washington, July 3. — Colonel Davidson, commanding Camp Supply, informs the War Department, through General Pope, that the Kiowas are again on the war path in the direction of Fort Sill. General Pope, in forwarding the communication to the War Department, says he does not fear general hostilities.

Colonel McKenzie, commanding the Fourth Cavalry, in a letter dated Fort Richardson, Texas, June 4, says that Indian depredations are becoming alarmingly frequent, and that the depredators are Kiowas and Comanches, who are fed daily by the Indian agents on the Canadia river.

New York, July 3.—The terrifying heat of the last four days continues with but little abatement, the mercury to-day reaching ninety-four degrees in the shade in New York and suburbs. Since Sunday last not less than three hundred and fifty adults have been prostrated by sunstroke, and half of this number have died. The mortality among children is frightful. The average deaths per day from cholera infantum in Brooklyn alone is twenty-two. The narrow streets in the lower part of New York have been death-traps this week, and in every square men and horses have fallen, overcome by the intense sultriness and stifling radiance of the heat. In one brewery several workmen died instantly yesterday. Indications of relief to-night are not encouraging.

There were nearly two hundred sunstrokes yesterday, and about sixty deaths reported in this city, although there were numerous cases not known to the police. The heat continues to-day.

Full returns of delegate elections, from all Democratic State conventions now received foot up 424 delegates uninstructed, 78 instructed to oppose any nomination, 224 instructed for Greeley, 6 for straight nomination; whole number, 732. Necessary to a choice, 489.

Homer, La., July 5.—The last issue of the Claiborne Advocate states that the people of Claiborne parish are united in the support of Greeley and Brown and the Liberal movement. Nearly all the prominent candidates in the field — Judges Egan, Scott, Young and others — have favored the sending of delegates to the Liberal Convention in August, in speeches made before the people.

New York, July 6.—There were one thousand five hundred deaths for the week ending at noon to-day —the largest in the history of the city.

Philadelphia, July 6.—Twenty-three inquests were held yesterday. Most of the verdicts were that death was caused from heat.

There were seven hundred and sixty-four deaths in this city during the week, an increase of three hundred and fifty over last week; half the deaths were of children under one year. Smallpox deaths, nine—a decrease of ten.

New Haven, July 7.—Commencement week at Yale College was opened with the delivery of a baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class by President Porter. He took culture as related to religion as his theme, and closed his discourse with the customary farewell address to the graduating class.

San Francisco, July 7.—Ground will be broken for the North Pacific railroad at Ancilito, opposite San Francisco, to-morrow.

Baltimore, July 7.—About five hundred delegates to the Democratic Convention have arrived. All the principal hotels are full. Each State will be fully represented.

It is now said that six hundred delegates will favor the nomination of Greeley on the first ballot, and acceptance of the Cincinnati platform. Some delegates are divided in sentiment, and minorities are obstinate. Greeleyism overrides all. This enthusiasm, however, is not spontaneous.

The contemplated independent Democratic Convention, designed for to-morrow, it is understood, has been abandoned.

Greeley's indorsement is considered probable on the first ballot.

New York, July 8.—Two thousand sewing machine men have resumed work. The strike of the iron and metal workers is declared ended.

All the city militia have been ordered out on the twelfth, when the Orangemen parade. No trouble apprehended. This move is merely precautionary.

Galveston, July 8.—The cotton worm is reported to have appeared on the low lands of Sabine and Trinity rivers. I am informed that about a thousand acres of Sea Island cotton is suffering from the ravages of the worm.

The first bale of new cotton is reported from Brownsville. It was haled on the third, and will be shipped to New Orleans by the first steamer. It is classed low middling.

Baltimore, July 9, 12.10.—Belmont has just called the convention to order. He then proceeded to address the body upon the grave aspect of the political situation. He passed in review the affairs of the country as connected with the history of the past four years. He dilated upon the abuses of the government introduced by the successive Radical administrations, which had grown into monstrous enormities under the incumbent administration, not the least of which was the strong tendency to centralization. These dangers to the country demanded the rescue of the government from the hands which had wrought so much of evil, by a common effort of the people. As an encouraging sign, he pointed to the fact that the best portion of the Republican party had withdrawn from its communion. He urged, with great earnestness, the necessity for a union of all conservatives, of whatever political faith, for the common good, upon Mr. Greeley, as the only candidate likely to bring a change for the better in the administration of the Federal government.

At the mention of Greeley's name there was continuous and enthusiastic shouting.

Thomas Jefferson Randolph, of Virginia, was elected temporary chairman, and the convention proceeded to permanent organization.

Baltimore, July 9, 2 P. M.—The Committee on Credentials made their report, in which they declare that there are no contested seats. The Committee on Organization recommended Hon. J. R. Doolittle, of Wisconsin, for permanent president, and one vice president and one secretary from each State.

3.40 P. M.—The convention reassembled and adopted the report of the Committee on Organization, and Hon. J. R. Doolittle was duly elected permanent president of the convention.

Baltimore, July 9.—After a three-hour session the Committee on Resolutions adopted the Cincinnati platform, with the following introduction: "We, the Democratic electors of the United States, in convention assembled, present the following principles, already proclaimed at Cincinnati, as essential to just government." All the States voted for this platform, as thus prefaced, with the exception of Delaware, Georgia, Mississippi and Oregon.

Galveston, July 9.—The cotton worm is even worse than was anticipated on the plantations along the Sabine and Trinity rivers.

This destructive caterpillar has not yet appeared on the Brazos and Colorado.

FOREIGN.

Rome, July 3.—The journals today publish a letter from the Archbishop of Naples, advising the clergy of his jurisdiction to use their utmost efforts to persuade their parishioners to take part in the administrative elections of the country.

Paris, July 6.—The French Assembly to-day ratified the treaty for the evacuation of French territory by the Germans. There were only four votes cast against ratification.

Two Communists, named Bondonri and Roillac, who were tried and convicted by court-martial, were executed this morning at Satory.

The minister of finance has signed a convention with the officers of the Bank of France, whereby the latter agree to loan the government forty million francs.

Paris, July 7.—Ratifications of the treaty with Germany for the evacuation of France were exchanged to-day.

The bill to raise a loan to meet the financial obligations of the treaty will be introduced in the Assembly to-morrow.

We see by an address of the Central Committee of the Reform party of Louisiana that they have concluded to accept the State ticket as put forth by the Democratic Convention, Mr. Williamson being withdrawn, and John McEnery adopted as the candidate for Governor. The united State ticket, as adopted by the Reform and Democratic parties, is as follows:

John McEnery, of Ouachita, for Governor.

B. F. Jonas, of Orleans, for Lieutenant Governor.

Daniel Dennett, of St. Mary, for Auditor.

H. N. Ogden, of Orleans, for Attorney General.

A. D. Lalaigne, of Avoyelles, for Secretary of State.

R. M. Tusher, of Orleans, for Superintendent of Public Education.

Dr. Norman McLeod died lately of disease of the heart. The son of a father of the same name and profession, he was born in 1812, and received all the advantages of the universities of his own country and Germany. After his ordination his first charge was at Loudon, in Ayrshire, in 1838. In 1843, after the death of Dr. Robert Lee, professor of Biblical Criticism in the University of Edinburg, he was made dean of the Chapel Royal. When Good Words was started in 1860, he undertook its editorial supervision. Its success has been great. It struck the happy medium, and is yet popular in the palace, the farm-house and the cottage.

His influence was also great and diffusive in his proper calling. He was an energetic advocate of missionary labor in heathen lands, and also among the poorer class in the large cities and towns of Great Britain. He inaugurated a series of evening meetings in his own church in Glasgow, to which none but the working class was admitted, and it became indispensable to wear a fustian jacket in order to gain admittance to these remarkable services.

His visit to India, a year or two ago, is yet fresh in mind. He strove hard to advance the sole Foreign (India) Mission scheme of the Church of Scotland, by obtaining for it the contributions of the church, and inducing men of high attainments to undertake the work of preaching the gospel in India. Of all her majesty's chaplains he is perhaps the most widely known and influential.

National Progress.—The great American Institute announces its forty-first annual exhibition, to be opened in the city of New York on the fourth of September next. Applications for space to exhibit the best agricultural productions, mechanical inventions, artistic devices, and valuable articles of American manufacture, are now in order. It is intended to make this the most extensive, useful and meritorious exhibition ever held in America.

CENTRAL CHURCH.

Last Sunday (June 16) was a great day for Methodism in Memphis. As already announced by us, a visit from Bishop Keener was expected in the interest of Central church — our new and beautiful house on Union street, long under great difficulties, even ever since its erection encumbered by a debt, which at times, it seemed, would involve the enterprise in disaster and even ruin. A small band of noble men and women had been toiling and sacrificing for years, first to build, and then to pay for the house, and until a year and a half ago, the Rev. W. M. Patterson, as pastor, had toiled and sacrificed with them in behalf of this praiseworthy enterprise; and subsequently for a year the Rev. A. L. Pritchett, and now the Rev. P. T. Scruggs, in the pastoral relation, had struggled with the membership and friends for deliverance. Much assistance and sympathy—but not as much as was due—had been extended by Methodists and other citizens not directly connected with the charge. But a crisis threatened an important interest — the question was rife: "Must Central church be sold for debt?" And the question stirred the Methodism of the city, in large part. Consultations ensued, in which representative men of the several charges participated, and a plan for relief was formed. Accordingly, Bishop Keener came to aid in its execution. Our other churches in the city suspended services, that their congregations might attend a meeting of common concern, and the throng assembled with the brethren of Central church—the city pastors all present. The Bishop preached morning and evening—both strong and solid sermons. In the morning discourse he laid the foundation for a liberal collection, his appeal being to Christian principle and religious duty, as the one great incentive to giving money for Christ's cause. He expressed himself as well pleased with the church edifice—thought that, in view of its large size, convenient arrangement, elegant finish, and its style of architecture generally, it had been built with less money than any similar edifice within his knowledge; and he felt sure that the location was admirable in view of the population now surrounding it, and the future growth of the city. The balance of indebtedness for the erection of the building, with accrued interest for about two years, was nearly $7,000, and this amount the Bishop asked of the congregation. To the call the members of Central church were the first to respond in sums of $500, four of them giving each $500, and others smaller sums; though they had all, as they were able, contributed before, and largely, to the enterprise. Brethren of other charges also rallied nobly to the call upon their liberality; and besides, Chancellor Morgan, of the First church, rendered timely assistance in a brief but telling address, in which he emphasized the commonness of the interest of Methodists in all our churches, and the duty of co-operating with each other. Just at the right time a public-spirited citizen and warm-hearted gentleman, not a Methodist, who preferred that his name should not be published, announced through Judge Morgan that he would give $1,000 if the brethren and friends would contribute $6,000; and this was not his first assistance—he had aided the enterprise in its beginning. Under this proposition the good work advanced steadily, and would have been completed in the morning if it had been possible to keep the audience seated in patience only a short while beyond the usual hour for dismission; but some folks do get so tired and hungry on such an occasion. However, in the evening the $6,000 was secured in a few minutes, and so the indebtedness of $7,000, which had been an incubus upon Central church for so long a time, was removed on last Sunday. So then came the dedication to the worship of God. Gen. W. M. Browne, in behalf of the Board of Trustees, presented the house to the Bishop, who, assisted by the Rev. W. M. Patterson, performed the service of dedication. And what a time of rejoicing and congratulation was that among the brethren! Western Methodist.

What an incentive to holiness, to purity of life and conduct, lies in the fact that the body of a saint is the temple of God—a truer, nobler temple than that which Solomon dedicated by his prayers, Jeans consecrated by his presence!—Dr. Guthrie.

FROM THE WORK.

Columbia Circuit, Louisiana Conference.

Mr. Editor: The Castor Sulphur Springs, which are noted for their medicinal qualities, are in the bounds of the Columbia circuit, Alexandria district, Louisiana Conference, twenty miles from Columbia. On the eighth and ninth of June I held service at the said springs, and protracted until Wednesday night, the twelfth, which resulted in three conversions and five accessions to the church. On the twenty-ninth and thirtieth of June I held a protracted meeting at Ebenezer church, in Winn parish, Columbia circuit, six miles from Castor Springs. Services were protracted until Monday night, the first of July, which resulted in six conversions and three accessions to the church. All around my circuit there seems to be quite an awakening among the members to a sense of duty. Religion is reviving. It is a very large field. We need laborers and much assistance from the missionary fund, for we have even heathen in some places here at home. Yours in the bonds of Christian love,

R. A. Davis, P. C.

Triune, La., July 3, 1872.

Jackson District Conference.

Mr. Editor: The Jackson District Conference met at Jackson, Mississippi, June 27, at nine A. M., Rev. H. H. Montgomery, presiding elder, in the chair. There was a very full representation from every charge and mission, with perhaps a single exception.

It was gratifying to see the interest manifested by the lay members in all that appertains to Zion's welfare.

The spiritual condition of this district will compare favorably with any other in the Conference, but it is far below the Bible standard. Prayer and class meetings, with church conferences and family prayer, are much neglected. Sunday schools are flourishing. Finances are quite fair, with the promise of being at par by Conference.

A district camp meeting has been projected. The secretary was instructed to give a more detailed account of the proceedings to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

Next conference is to be held at Yazoo City. Conference adjourned on Saturday afternoon.

R. B. D.

Suggsville Circuit, Selma District, Alabama Conference.

Mr. Editor: We closed the exercises of the third quarterly meeting for this circuit last Sunday night, at Suggsville. It was indeed an occasion of interest and of great power to the church. We continued the exercises during the week preceding the Quarterly Conference, during which time we were favored with the services of our presiding elder, Rev. A. J. Briggs; also Rev. W. S. Wade, of the Jackson circuit. The meeting left us with a revival influence such as has not been felt for years. We received some of our most influential citizens into the church, and we are encouraged to hope that others will come out on the Lord's side and declare themselves for the people of God.

While we have ministered to this people in spiritual things, they have not failed to minister to us in temporal things. The wants of the preacher and his family have been carefully looked into and promptly provided for. Aided by the untiring efforts of our esteemed presiding elder, and sustained by the uncompromising energy of our board of stewards, we have reason to hope that by the close of the Conference year we shall be able to put this circuit upon a basis, financially, that will compare favorably with any in the Conference. The only requisite now to insure success is a little more revival power in other parts of the work. God grant that that power may soon be realized! Yours, etc.,

S. M. Thames.

Suggsville, June 23, 1872.

Jackson District.

Mr. Editor: The work on Jackson district, Mississippi Conference, has been improving in some respects. The preachers are all at their posts and earnestly laboring to build up the cause of Christ. I have never known a set of preachers more devoted to their work. Sixty-five accessions to the church reported since the second round of quarterly meetings began. The finances have improved on some of the pastoral charges; in others not so good as last year up to this date; but, taking the aggregate, there is not much difference as compared with that date.

There are more prayer meetings than before. The evidences, as given at the District Conference, where we instituted close inquiries as to the spiritual condition of the church, showed that in most of the charges there had been improvement, while in others there was a low state of piety and almost total neglect of the means of grace, except preaching. This might not apply to every appointment on any circuit. Our inquiries were as to the attendance upon the ordinances of the church—the number attending preaching, prayer meetings, class meetings, love-feasts and family prayer. While some reports were cheering, others were discouraging. Yet the good and cheering predominate, and we are laboring for brighter days.

We have been trying to have the preachers to train our people to the monthly or quarterly administration of the Lord's Supper. That would seem a strange announcement. Yet, except at quarterly meetings, it has been neglected in many places almost wholly. But there have been improvements in this district in that respect. More Sunday schools reported than at the District Conference last year. But as our worthy secretary will report a synopsis, I need not enlarge. J. T. Cameron, Thomas Green, E. C. Postell, and D. C. Langford, local preacher, were elected delegates to the Annual Conference. H. H. Montgomery.

July 4, 1872.

BOOKS AND PERIODICALS.

The Homeopathic Domestic Medicine. By Joseph Laurie, M. D. Edited and revised, with numerous important additions, and the introduction of the new remedies and a repertory by Robert J. McClatchey, M. D. Third American edition. Boericke & Tafel, New York. Philadelphia: F. E. Boericke. 1872.

This is a ponderous quarto of over a thousand pages, and must contain about all that a non-professional needs to know on the subject. Those who have adopted the homeopathic practice will, we believe, find the work most valuable and satisfactory.

The Annual Report of the Board of Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church South is a handsome pamphlet of 52 pages, and should have a wide circulation. The secretary reports in his exhibit $96,105.88 as the grand total raised for missions during the year ending June 1, 1872.

Three Generations is a thick volume, by Sarah A. Emery. Published by Lee & Shepard, and laid on our table by Kain & Co. The closing words of the story are good beyond any doubt: "Trust ye in the Lord forever; for in the Lord Jehovah is everlasting strength."

Spectrum Analysis Discoveries, No. 4, published by Lee & Shepard, Boston, is a popular history and explanation of one of the most important discoveries of modern science. For sale by Kain & Co., New Orleans.

Little Grandmother is a sweet little volume for children. Sophie May is the author. Published by Lee & Shepard, Boston. For sale by Kain & Co., New Orleans.

Old and New for July is a number of unusual interest, especially to educators, as its main matter is devoted to collegiate and educational interests. The table of contents is, however, varied and able. We note: Some Souvenirs of Round Hill School; Co Education of the Sexes; God in Nature, and Government Examinations for Women in France.

Good Words for June.—The editor, Norman McLeod, D. D., is no more of earth. His death occurred only two or three weeks ago. He has a sermon in this number on "Christ Blessing Little Children"—a delightful theme to wind up the life of a great and good man.

The American Agriculturist for July has a large and rich store of reading matter suited to the season, and is, as usual, splendidly illustrated. Published by Orange Judd & Co., New York. Price, $1.50 per annum.

The Household, Brattleboro, Vermont, published at $1 a year, has more good things in it, in every department embraced in its title, than any periodical we know of. The July number is to hand, and always welcome.

The American Farmers' Advocate is a new agricultural journal, published at Jackson, Tennessee. It is especially devoted to the interests represented in the National Agricultural Congress. Published monthly at $1 per annum.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JULY 11, 1872.

"JESUS OF NAZARETH PASSETH BY."
LUKE XVIII, 37.

What means this eager, anxious throng,
That moves with busy haste along?
This wondrous gathering day by day,
What means this strange commotion, say?
In accents hushed the throng reply:
"Jesus of Nazareth passeth by."

Who is this Jesus? Why should he
The city move so mightily?
A passing stranger, has he skill
To move the multitude at will?
Again the stirring tones reply:
"Jesus of Nazareth passeth by."

Jesus, 'tis he who once below
Man's footpath trod, 'midst pain and woe;
The burdened ones, where'er he came,
Brought out their sick, and deaf and lame.
The blind rejoiced to hear the cry:
"Jesus of Nazareth passeth by."

Again he comes from place to place,
His holy footprints we can trace;
He pauseth at our threshold—nay,
He enters, condescends to stay.
Shall we not gladly raise the cry:
"Jesus of Nazareth passeth by?"

Ho! all ye heavy laden, come—
Here's pardon, comfort, rest and home;
Ye wanderers from a Father's face,
Return, accept his proffered grace.
Ye tempted, here's a refuge nigh:
"Jesus of Nazareth passeth by."

But if you still this call refuse,
And all his wondrous love abuse,
Soon will he sadly from you turn,
Your bitter prayer for pardon spurn.
"Too late, too late," will be the cry;
"Jesus of Nazareth has passed by."

LOUISIANA.—INTOLERANCE.

Ma. Editor: Bigotry is one of the buds of the papal rod, and, blossoming into persecution, it ripens into intolerance until, "in shapes hot from Tartarus," the angels of the Inquisition "come seeking fruit" and find abundance, for this is no barren tree. Unlike "the rod and staff of the Lord," which led forth from bondage and comforted Israel, the rod which bears these bitter almonds is one of iron, to "rule, ruin," and bind again the enlightened conscience and the Redeemer's bride. Like the fabled dragon which devoured all who approached the Fountain of Mars, so do these monsters of iniquity, as "messengers of Satan to buffet us," "go about seeking whom they may devour." Approach to the waters of life and access to the gardens of salvation is sedulously guarded, and these approaching "any other way" are branded and punished as thieves and robbers. The plow-shares and pruning hooks are beaten into spears and swords with which to wreak the vengeance of "his holiness" upon heretics. The air is rent with the battle-cry: Anathema! Damno! Damnamus! The torch is kindled, the bloodhound is abroad, "the cave and den" is found (where those "of whom the world is not worthy" are gathered,) they are dragged forth and marched back upon the track of the desolators. There is a charred stake, a few blackened bones, a horrid skull! There the martyr said: "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit." In the distance looms up a vast castle. Every countenance is full of gloom. Now they are separated for the last time. All through that castle are heard shrieks, sobs and groans, as from distant tombs. "Tears are shed, but out of mercy's sight." Ah! that was a fatal mistake which the Inquisitors have made. God, who fills heaven and earth, beholds those who hide their tyranny in the secret places, and the recording angel is filling the book of remembrance with it.

The people of Louisiana should be truly grateful that they were spared such miseries. A taste of these bitter waters was once the burden of our fathers, which they were not able to bear. Intolerance lowered like a storm-cloud upon the religious horizon. In 1727 Governor Perrier proclaimed the Catholic the predominant creed, to the exclusion of all others. In the black code was crouched this same demon of intolerance: "If any negroes are placed under the supervision of any person other than a Catholic, said negroes shall be confiscated." This is important only as it shows that Catholics regard it as essential to their plans to control the labor of a country. In this way they controlled the negroes directly and the country indirectly, by holding out inducements to slave-owners to become Catholics. During Governor Carondelet's administration the Protestant religion was tolerated, in the words of Bishop Penalvert, "for sound reasons of State." In this view the good bishop widely differs from "his holiness," whose every breath "smells to heaven" of fire and brimstone, and curses for heretics. The "sound reasons of State" were simply these: Carondelet was seeking, by intrigues with the people of the West, to detach them from the United States and to annex them to Louisiana. Intolerance was one of the barriers, and in order to facilitate the plan his majesty of Spain granted, as the sequel will show, only a respite of intolerant principles. When Don Gayoso Lemos was appointed Governor "the dog returned to his vomit." In the sixth article of his proclamation is this cruel order: "Emigrants are tolerated in their belief, but their children must become Catholics." Again, in the eighth article is this blossom: "Commandants must watch that no preacher of any religion but the Catholic should come into the province." Had this minion occupied the gubernatorial chair, instead of the stern, inflexible Miro, Sedella would have found a ready and willing tool with which to accomplish his inquisitorial plans. By these and other stringent orders the degenerate sons of the noble Fathers Hennepin, Gravier, Montigny, St. Come and Cadillac were guaranteed the spiritual commerce of the province, upon which they might "chuckle and fatten and—die." "None of these things moved" Rev. Samuel Swayze and Richard Curtiss, who were the first to brave the awakened storm and the persecution of the wily Jesuits by coming into the province. Mr. Swayze was a Congregational preacher, and found for his flock a pasture on the beautiful Homochitto, southeast from Natchez. The Jesuitical wolves howled, and instituted a malignant search for Protestant Bibles and religious literature, which they with fiendish delight committed to the flames as fast as found. Mr. Swayze, in order to save his Bible, had a place of concealment for it in the hollow of a large sycamore in the heart of a dense canebrake, whither he retired to read and pray. He dared not preach publicly, but on Sabbath morning, when there was no apparent cause for alarm, by a preconcerted arrangement, some one would pass through the settlement and blow a hunter's horn, when the people would stealthily assemble at the house of prayer, while trusty sentinels stood vidette on every possible approach. Mr. Swayze died in 1784, leaving his church without a pastor. The next persecution was against Mr. Curtiss, a Calvinistic Baptist, who came to the Natchez country in 1780. Entering upon his ministry with zeal, Mr. William Hamberlin, an influential man, and Stephen DeAlvo, a Spaniard, were converted and joined his church. Elated by his successes, he came boldly out in his denunciations of the corruptions of Roman Catholicism. This aroused the fury of the priests, who premeditated his destruction, and at once instigated Gayoso to check the career of the incorrigible heretic. Governor Gayoso expostulated with Mr. Curtiss, who boldly replied that it was his duty to "obey God rather than man;" whereupon he was arrested and reduced to the terrible alternative of desisting from preaching or be transported to the silver mines of Mexico, together with several of his converts. Mr. Curtiss was a man of indomitable spirit, full of the fire and vigor of youth, but in all his actions before this wicked official there was a dignity and wisdom far beyond his years, and his prudence was not to be expected in a person of his temperament. He promised to desist for the time, hoping for a better day, as well as to save his comrades from the terrors of a visit to the silver mines of Mexico.

Shortly after this occurrence Gayoso, fearing "lest any roots of bitterness" were left, issued another order to this effect: "If nine persons are found worshiping together, except according to the forms of the Catholic Church, they should suffer imprisonment." Subsequent to this the American element grew sufficiently strong, in the estimation of Mr. Curtiss' friends, to sustain him in conducting divine worship according to the forms of the Baptist Church. Their imprudent importunities were partially successful; for though Mr. Curtiss had promised not to preach openly, he felt that a "mental reservation" was in his favor, and that he could with good conscience meet a few friends for divine worship. Developments proved that Mr. Curtiss' friends and advisers, however judicious otherwise, had mistaken the strength of the American feeling. On the night of the twenty-fourth of May, 1795, Mr. Curtiss solemnized the rites of matrimony clandestinely, at the request of the parties, who did not wish the mummeries of a sanctimonious priesthood in their wedding. When this became known it aroused the pent-up fury of the priests, whose ferocity had become equal to that of enraged tigers. On the twentieth of August orders were issued for the rearrest of Messrs. Curtiss, Hamberlin and DeAlvo. They properly judged that their intended victims would assemble on the following Sabbath (the twenty-third,) and accordingly availed themselves of the holy day to accomplish their cruel purpose. Upon their approach a picket hasted to the place of worship and gave the intelligence in time for the leaders to make good their escape to the woods, where for days they were diligently hunted by these exotic renegades. They were at length compelled to refugee hastily to South Carolina, where they could enjoy that liberty of conscience which papal wickedness denied them. One thing which contributed to render the persecutions so severe and dangerous at this time was the grand intrigue set on foot by Genet, the French minister at Washington. The design of the conspirators was to use the Western States as instruments to throw off the yoke of Spain from Louisiana, and pass it into the West to the dominion of France. To counterwork these plots Carondelet and his successor, Gayoso, kept up a system of police, which in fact was but a clan of spies and informers. Several items of the orders under which this police acted are terrifying: "It is made the duty of every one having knowledge, even by hearsay, of any offense or seditious expressions tending to excite alarm or disturb public tranquillity, to give immediate notice to the police." Availing themselves of this opportunity, the Jesuits and Capuchins vied with each other in implicating the Protestant members of the community in sedition, but whose real sin was their refusing to swallow the Godhead as a chicken swallows corn, and other points of momentous difference between the confessions of Augsburg and Rome. This species of annoyance was kept up until the country passed under the Federal government. The unfurling of the Stars and Stripes was the raising of the standard of religious liberty in Louisiana. But the hydra-headed monster yet lives. Often these ever-alert monks seek, by "disintegration and absorption," to destroy the Reformation. Now among the rabble, now leading "a company of lewd fellows of the baser sort," and now bursting into profane riot, these monks are endeavoring to escape from the lion-like grip of religious liberty. The flood of the mighty Mississippi has rolled a host of enemies into the very heart of their Babylon. The old lion's teeth and claws are gone, while young Marmion in gigantic proportions is entering his castle, soon to heard him in his den. All hail to religious liberty from a free and happy people! Yours,

LOUISIANA.

Keachie, La., June, 1872.

For the Advocate.

THE PRESIDING ELDERSHIP.

NO. 1.—ITS NATURE.

That the presiding eldership is an order in the ministry has never been held or taught by our church. We regard it just simply an office, which has come into existence and use not by any special divine enactment, but by the fathers of Methodism, under the superintending and guiding providence of God. In the same light we also regard the office of Bishop. If the question should be raised here as to the right and propriety of such legislation of the church, it may be replied that such is the meagerness of the divine instruction in the New Testament in reference to the construction of the church, the wise and the pious have inferred that God intended his people should legislate for themselves upon this subject; provided, of course, they always keep within proper limits. In view of this fact, Methodists have set up, amid our beautiful and efficient church system, the very important office of the presiding eldership. Indeed, upon this ground all the numerous branches of the great church of Christ have acted in the construction of their several organizations. In vain have we all searched the Holy Scriptures for the divine pattern of the church. It is not to be found there! Hence the way is left open for the people of God to take their own course in many very important matters of church organization, under the gracious providence of the great and all-wise God of the church.

The presiding eldership is peculiar to Methodism. It is a part of the office of Bishop. The presiding elder is the assistant of the Bishop.

Bishop McTyeire, in his Manual of the Discipline, says: "The presiding elder is appointed by the Bishop, and in his absence represents his official authority within the district, and exercises all his functions except ordaining."

Bishop McKendree says: "The general superintendents are invested with full power to superintend the work at large. * * * But the work extended so rapidly that in a few years it became impossible for the Bishop to superintend in person; therefore presiding elders were introduced as assistant superintendents; and, as the Bishops were the only responsible persons for the administration, they were to choose the presiding elders, who are fully authorized to superintend the work in the absence of the Bishop; therefore the office of a presiding elder is not separate and distinct from that of a general superintendent, but is inseparably connected with a part of it, and included in it. They are deputized by the Bishops, who bear the whole responsibility of the administration, as their assistants in the superintendency."

A Pastor.

Discerning child (who has heard some remarks made by papa)—"Are you our new nurse?" "Yes, dear." "Well, then, I'm one of those boys who can only be managed by kindness; so you had better get some sponge-cake and oranges at once."

For the Advocate.

AN EVIL UNDER THE SUN.

Mr. Editor: There is a point where forbearance ceases to be a virtue. This point I have reached, and this communication is the safety-valve by which my protests escape. My home is in Avoyelles and St. Landry parishes—beautiful country, threaded with streams, abounding in richest lands, cleared and timbered. The country is beginning to look up again—fences no longer down, but in good order, and more of open land in cultivation, and, up to the present, promising seasons. This country is charming in every respect—a very feast to the eye—green, luxuriant lands, joyous in their great abundance of all that is life-giving hidden in their deep, rich soils.

To one passing through this country it would seem impossible but that the inhabiters of this land should of all people be the happiest; and so it should be, but it is far from being the case. We have recovered from the war to a great extent, and are slowly solving the problem of free labor. Churches are being organized and houses going up; indeed, everything looks prosperous and hopeful except the faces of these people. They all seem to have some great secret trouble, which is almost taking away from them the desire of life. This is the trouble: they have no money. There is none in the country; nothing but time and no pay. Such is their deplorable condition just here in a land where money can be dug up by digging six inches down. It is not the want of rain, nor worms, nor lack of energy that makes this dearth of money. We are cursed by an animal—subtle, cunning, voracious, gentle, sly, sweet, persuasive; genus homo, made of brass-plated throat, moves upon the hearts of fathers of families, gains their good opinion, their love and their money. He comes well dressed, knowing everybody; descends on one of our little towns like an angel unawares, driving two foaming steeds in a vehicle more beautiful than a circus chariot, with a coat of arms emblazoned on dashboard and seat-ends, and a charioteer on high, plumed in grandeur and broadcloth. Mottoes leak out and dark truths seem to emanate from his presence: "Death is ever on his rounds. You may be the next victim. Young sisters and brothers, old father and mother are dependent on you. Death is a debt all must pay. A good man leaveth an inheritance. A wise man foreseeth the evil and shieldeth himself, but the simple pass on and are punished." These sentences pass through your mind, you know not how; and while you are lost in this atmosphere of dreadful truth, the prince descends from his chariot, and you feel like your deliverer has come. With cordial grip he takes your hand and tells the latest news of your best friends; knew your sainted mother, and your whole history, spiritual and financial; is surprised that you do not recollect him. He is the animal—the insinuating life insurer. Cotopaxi! Etna! Vesuvius! what are the fires that rage in thee compared to the fires that burn in this man's besom. Now streams from his throat red-hot words, fresh from his philanthropic heart, that burn your soul with conviction. Enthused, electrified, you stand immovable; such devotion, such love, such benevolence, eloquence divine, convincing arguments. You throw off your coat, expose your breast; he sounds your lungs; you are his till death; you are insured, and branded with a debt that death alone will erase. Good investment! Cast your bread upon the waters, and after many days. Great luxury, this, having your life insured. One sleeps so soundly when he knows that his wife and little ones are all provided for. Wife goes in rags now, children uneducated, father bent down; but after many days I shall die, and then mother and children shall revel in plenty. Oh, man! keen will be your chagrin in the other world, when you see a second husband reveling in that hard-earned policy. Avoyelles and the South is cursed by life insurance. It is the greatest imposition ever placed on an enlightened people. It takes all the money from the South to the North, paralyzes all industry and kills energy. The coming generation will curse us—children uneducated, starved, all for this life insurance. People in the South are too poor to insure; they are not able to have this luxury. A poor man has no right to assume such a debt; it is injustice to his children. Good investment! Yes, for the company. All premiums paid in cash; dividends paid in imagination; policy paid at the end of the law. I like Bishop Marvin's decided "no," but would advise stronger defense. When one of these life-and-death comes to you with his spurious and plausible arguments—strips for a fight—hurl these truths at him: Sixty per cent. of all policies are forfeited for non-payment of premium; fifty per cent. of all companies fail. The life of a policy is fifteen years; majority die in first three years. Too much money goes into these institutions; too little comes out. It is an imposition, a humbug, grinding the South to death. Talk with a man who is heavily insured; he will tell you behind the scenes. I know of not a single person in Avoyelles who has been enriched by this insurance, and all are impoverished. When will our people come to a just conception of this monster, sucking the life-blood from the South. Have I said too much? No, not half enough. The subject beggars words. Let the assured answer if I have put the case too strong. Who will insure us against insurance? for it is worse than fire and sword—the greatest evil that curses the earth.

For the Advocate.

Difficulties in the Way of Vocal Prayer.

My Dear Brethren: "Well begun is half done." Begin an enterprise right and you are almost certain to end right. Beginning this matter of oral prayer with enlightened views and correct feelings is the great crisis of the affair. If we can only get you started right we will anticipate but little difficulty thereafter. And here let me say, the responsibility of wives is often incalculably great. Suitable preparation on their part, accompanied with appropriate words of encouragement, is often a sine qua non with husbands in regard to family prayer. I wish I could gain access to the ears of all good wives on this subject, as in 1827, in Marengo county, Alabama, I gained a hearing with a newly-married couple by the name of Moore. They were young members of the church when they were married. Soon after marriage they commenced housekeeping, and I called to spend a night with them as a part of my flock. The subject of family prayer was brought up at an appropriate time and its great importance suitably talked over, and they were solicited to commence it as one of the first acts of housekeeping. I then turned to the youthful wife and said: "You have an important part to act in the erection of your family altar. By way of laying the foundation I will pray with you to-night and in the morning, but to-morrow night I will not be here. I will tell you how to manage the case. As soon as you dispose of your supper furniture, put the Bible and hymn book on the table and tell your husband that you are ready for family prayer." The suggested programme was carried out to the letter. On my next round I met Bro. Moore, who, with a smiling face and happy heart, said to me: "Bro. Jones, Mary did just as you advised her. Without saying a word to me previously she put the Bible and hymn book on the table, and said to me in her soft, sweet voice: 'We are ready for family prayer.' There could be no resistance; not the least hesitation. I went at it as a matter of course, and now family prayer is a fixed fact with us for life." O ye godly wives and mothers, put to a helping hand just here. Exert, piously and prudently, your almost resistless influence in the establishment of family prayer in your households. But, brethren, I must linger a little about this beginning point. Here lies your greatest difficulty. Get you started and things will soon begin to work easy. For your encouragement I will mention the terrible conflict and subsequent victory of a classmate of mine in my early days. Soon after I joined the church, in 1821, a worthy man and his wife also joined, to our great joy. He soon became greatly exercised on the subject of family prayer. It was an imperious duty required of him as the responsible head of his family. But he was naturally diffident, with a very limited education; and to make matters worse, several grown people, who were wicked, lived with him, and how could he pray before them? But it must be done somehow, or he would have an oppressed conscience, lead a sickly life as a Christian, and perhaps finally miss getting to heaven. He asked help of God; resolved he would try; fixed on that night to begin, and secretly said he would not go to bed without it. As he rose from the supper table he began to face his long gallery, saying to himself: "The next time I pass the door I will enter and propose prayer." But he passed and repassed a dozen times before he entered. Finally he noticed that some were making ready to retire for the night, and now with a quickened step and a sort of plunge he entered the door and said to his wife, "Betsey, let us have prayer," and instantly fell on his knees and prayed. The Rubicon was now passed. The last breastwork of the enemy had been assaulted and taken. He and his wife became the best of church members—exerted great influence through their long lives as Christians, and finally fell asleep in Jesus. More anon.

J. G. Jones.

Port Gibson, Mississippi.

A musical burglar—One who breaks into a tune.

Alphabetical admonition—A word to the "Ys."

For the Advocate.

Methodist College Commencements.

Mr. Editor: Some things of doubtful propriety, of evil tendency, are gradually creeping into the commencement exercises of some of our Methodist colleges. As Methodists we are professedly opposed to dancing in all its forms, to theaters, and to worldly amusements generally. To be consistent, we should scrupulously banish all such things from our schools. The welfare of the schools themselves, as well as consistency and a regard for the cause of religion, should prompt us to this course; for while many, even of our own members, are indifferent about these things, there are yet many who are not quite ready to forsake the old landmarks, and drift along on the tide of worldliness that is sweeping over the church. There are still many who desire to see the church pure in itself and in all its institutions. When, therefore, anything contrary to the spirit and genius of Methodism, contrary to our rules and usages, contrary to the plain teachings of the Bible and of conscience is introduced into the exercises of our schools or commencement occasions, it fills the hearts of such true friends of the church with sadness and painful solicitude. We are willing for the young people—and the old ones too—to enjoy themselves, to be cheerful, pleasant and happy. We are willing for our teachers and students to provide such exercises as will please and entertain their audiences. But we desire them to keep within proper limits. We are not willing for them to compromise the principles of Methodism and of Christianity. We desire that our schools may be fountains of purity, sending forth their streams to purify and gladden the land. We wish them to be trees of life, scattering their healing leaves and life-giving fruit over all the earth.

To this end, let all who have charge of our schools, and those who have authority and influence in the communities where they are located, put their heads together to banish the evils complained of, and never cease their efforts until not only the schools themselves, but, as far as possible, the communities in which they are located, are purged from these things, and surrounded by a holy atmosphere.

Such efforts are the more necessary just now, because there are some of our members who are anxious to over-ride some of our rules, and bring about such a state of things as will allow them to continue in the church and yet drink the cup of worldly pleasure to the full. Let us stick to our principles and make no compromise with the devil.

The above thoughts were suggested by some things witnessed recently at one of our commencements. The president of the institution assured us that he would endeavor to exclude such things in the future. But these things are not confined to his school, and we write this that those who have charge of our various institutions of learning may know what lookers-on think.

That God's richest blessings may rest upon all our schools, and upon those who have them in charge, is the earnest prayer of this Looker-On.

The British and Foreign Bible Society made several vigorous efforts to introduce the Bible into Russia soon after the beginning of the present century; but the jealousy of the Emperor Nicholas prevented the accomplishment of their design. The present Emperor, Alexander the Second, on the contrary, favors the cause. The synod of the Greco-Russian Church has authorized the publication and sale of Bibles. Bible societies are forming and extending their activities to every quarter of the empire. A priest connected with a military school in St. Petersburg induced his students to form a Bible society, and now wherever they go they offer the Bible to the people whenever their other duties permit. In this way the gospel is becoming known from the German boundary to the uttermost confines of the Amoor and of China.

A straw will make an impression on the virgin snow; let it remain there but a short time, and a horse's hoof can scarcely penetrate it. So it is with the youthful mind. A trifling word may make an impression on it; but after a few years the most powerful appeals cease to influence. Think of this, ye who have the training of the infant mind, and leave such impression thereon as will be safe for it to carry amid the follies and temptations of the world.

Love wakes men once a lifetime each;
They lift their heavy heads and look,
And lo! what one sweet page can teach,
They read with joy, then shut the book;
And some give thanks, and some blasphemy,
And most forget; but either way,
That and the child's unheeded dream
Is all the light of all their day.

Angel in the House.

Which are the most seasonable clothes for all seasons? Pepper and salt.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JULY 11, 1872.

THE FAVORITE CHILD.

BY THE AUTHOR OF "A WOMAN'S POEMS."

Which of five snowdrops would the moon
Think whitest, if the moon could see?
Which of five rosebuds flush'd with June,
Were reddest to the mother-tree?
Which of five birds that play one tune
On their soft shining throats, may be Chief singer? Who will answer me?

Would not the moon know, if around
One snowdrop any shadow lay?
Would not the rose-tree, if the ground
Should let one blossom droop a day?
Does not the one bird take a sound
Into the cloud when caught away,
Finer than all the sounds that stay?

Oh, little quiet boy of mine,
Whose yellow head lies languid here—
Poor yellow head, its restless shine
Brighten'd the butterflies last year!—
Whose pretty hands may intertwine
With paler hands unseen but near;
You are my favorite now, I fear!

The Undeveloped Parables of Our Lord.

FISHERS OF MEN.

Every one who reads the New Testament attentively has remarked the absence in our Lord's teaching of sustained argument, and how his deepest truths were laid in words which presented pictures to the mind. The parable is so characteristic of our Lord's method with men—whose very life was a marvelous parable—that it seems as if he never opened his mouth to speak but there came forth some story, some scene which was real to men's eyes and ears, and made real to their spiritual sense by the spiritual meaning with which it was charged. Now, not to go too far out of the way in explaining a parable, I suppose one reason why it was the most common form of truth with our Lord lies in the fact that he, above all others called by the name of teacher, knew the parallel that exists between things heavenly and things earthly. He knew how the leaven worked in the loaf. He knew there was a law of God contained in it, and so, when he likened the kingdom of heaven to it, he was likening things which were really alike, and one was not merely a fanciful likeness of the other, as a cloud may be like an elephant.

The parables of our Lord are full of surprises to one who reads them devoutly. In this short paper I cannot do more than barely touch on the margin of the truths which are set forth in them. I have chosen the more modest task of bringing to the light some of the many likenesses between things heavenly and things earthly which are contained in the suggested parables, like the one that occurs in Christ's words when he called Simon Peter and Andrew, his brother, to give up their accustomed work, and attach themselves to him. They were "casting a net into the sea: for they were fishers. And he saith unto them, Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men. And they straightway left their nets and followed him."

We are looking for likenesses, and stop at the very first word—call. A man's occupation is his calling. The calling of Simon and Andrew was that of fishermen. Christ passing by called them to be fishers of men. Who called them the first time? Plainly, none but Christ himself, the Light which lighteth every man that cometh into the world. When we shut out heaven, and look only at this round world, as if it made itself and whirled itself through space, we say that because Simon and Andrew happened to be living by the Lake of Galilee, and their father was a fisherman, they also took to the same means of livelihood; but when, with the thought of a soul which the body cannot imprison, we rise into divine knowledge, we say that the Lord God who placed man in the Garden of Eden has taken thought of every being since, and by circumstance, by the voice of conscience, sometimes by a voice drowning all others, has led each child of his. So he calls each of these men first to be fishermen, and so he calls each one of us to be this or that in the society in which we live.

And note that it is by obeying God's call in lesser things we are made ready for after and higher calls. These men laboring at their nets were obedient to God's word to them, else they would not have been called by Christ, and would not so promptly have answered this second call. I will not meddle by guess with the earlier life of these fishermen, but take the lives of people whom I know, to illustrate this truth. Many a young man despises the calling which God has given him on the farm, in the workshop, and willfully turns to what he fancies a higher calling, when it is only his vanity that sounds an empty note, and a nonentity is the result; or, reckoning the ministry as the highest calling, he seeks an honor to which he has not been called, and the hands which might have honestly cast nets are dishonestly holding a sacred trust never committed to them.

On the other hand, there are lives patient endeavor, satisfied to do the meanest duty, and, doing it, are so [illegible] up by obedience that when the call comes for more public ministry and larger work, the fisherman's net is dropped, the mechanic's apron is laid aside; and the man who, by submitting to his appointed task, proved himself more than fisherman or cobbler or tradesman is now ready for the new call. Of such were Simon and Andrew. Their lives had not been wasted thus far, because they had done nothing which had given them the honorary title of Saint in the church's roll-call. Not merely that: the very toil of their lives, the very kind of work they had followed, had been preparing them for their calling as fishers of men. These hardy laborers, wonted to mighty labor, to unrequited toil, with habits of industry and patience formed in the hard school of a fishing life in Galilee, were thereby made ready when the voice of the Master was heard—"Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men." So that it was not merely a fanciful title given them because striving for souls might be likened to fishing, but there was a real likeness between their old calling and their new; and when they left their nets and followed Jesus they were acting out the great parable, they were transferring into the heavenly region, at the word of Christ, the life which seemed to have to do only with earthly things. They were still fishers, but were casting their nets for souls. Just so shall it be with the new heavens and the new earth: the eternal shall fulfill, but not destroy the temporal. Now these things are a parable.—S. T. James, in the Christian Banner.

A VOICE FROM INDIA.

FROM THE FOREIGN MISSIONARY OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

"Please send some one to read that wonderful Book."

Some time ago one of the Christian women in connection with the Cuddapah mission had occasion to go to a village among the mountains in the Cuddapah district. She had accomplished her business in the village where she had been sent, and was on her way to visit Nagama, a Christian woman of the farmer caste, the widow of a Reddy (or head man) of the village of Cherlopilly. As she was passing along she saw a woman of the Sudra caste sitting at the door of her cottage. She called to her in native style, "Ho, ho, who are you, from whence do you come, and where are you going?" She replied: "I came from Cuddapah, and I am going to visit Nagama at Cherlopilly."

The Sudra woman replied:

"Are you a Christian, then?"

"Yes, I am a Christian," was the reply.

"Can you read the Christian's book, and sing Christian hymns?"

"Yes, Ummah, that I can do."

"Have you your book with you?"

"Yes, I always carry that with me; I have it in my cloth."

"Will you read it to me? O, pray do. I am a lone woman in this wilderness, and know so little. I have heard something of this religion, and I long to know more; if you will stay awhile with me and read I will give you food, and you can stay in my house."

Croopa sat down on a mat and read to her the third chapter of John, and sang some Christian hymns, and when she had stayed some time she said: "Now I must go to Nagama."

"Well, then, I will go with you," said the Sudra woman, and putting away her spinning wheel and her cotton, she was soon ready to go. So these two went to the village of Cherlopilly, and came to the house of Nagama, who, when she saw them, rejoiced greatly, saying: "Salam, Ummah, salam, it is great joy to see you; please to sit down, and I will bring you food, and when you have eaten I will bring the precious book the lady gave me, and you shall read it to us."

The precious book was the Bible in Telugu, (the language spoken by ten millions of her majesty's subjects in South India,) which had been given to her on the day she was baptized. This good woman cannot read herself, but she keeps the book carefully wrapped up in a cloth, and when any one who can read calls upon her, she brings it out and asks them to read it to her. Until twelve o'clock that night did those good women sit up reading the book, singing and praying, and gaining all the information they could relative to the grand truths of the glorious gospel of the blessed God.

The "old, old story," yet ever new to us, was told in its simple style, and received in the spirit of a little child. And when from very weariness Croopa said she must give over, it was with the promise that she should in the morning read it again.

The next day she told them she must now go on her way home, as the time for which she had left had expired. They entreated her to stay, but as she could not do so, the Sudra woman dictated a note, which was to be given to Mrs. Porter. The note was as follows:

"I, a poor ignorant woman, living in this wilderness, where I cannot learn about Jesus Christ, ask you, kind lady, to send some Christian to me to read that wonderful book. I, what do I know? I have worshiped idols all my life. I cannot read, and if I could I have no books. Oh, kind lady, send some one to read to your poor servant!"

On returning, Croopa said: "Surely I never saw anything like that Sudra woman; she is hungering for the word of God. Pray send some one to read to her, and others in the village will come and listen to the good news. Nagama sends plenty salam, and hopes you will soon send some one."

This was a request not to be neglected, and accordingly arrangements were made to send a good woman—a true Priscilla, who was well fitted as a messenger of mercy to go and instruct them more fully in the gospel of Christ.—Mrs. Porter.

JUBILEE NOTES.

—Dr. Eben Tourjee has been Mr. Gilmore's man for forming the twenty thousand chorus.

—Carl Zerrahn is a great favorite. He often takes the lead, and is always greeted with applause.

—Madame Arabella Goddard's piano-playing is pronounced exquisite. Nothing, however, is made of piano music in the coliseum.

—Zerrahn, who is so great a favorite as a leader, is a Boston German. The Bostonians are hardly willing to allow that he was not bred at the Hub.

—Old Hamburg was sung as the closing piece on Wednesday, the nineteenth, with tremendous effect. To twenty thousand voices were added twenty or thirty thousand more in the audience.

—Johann Strauss, who creates a perfect furore whenever he appears, is a singular type of a man, acting intensely in everything he leads. Boston is almost delirious over the "Beautiful Blue Danube."

—The vastness of the assembly grows upon one more and more every day. Such a sea of heads, those half across the house reduced to the size of an apple, was never seen in a concert room before.

—Luther, Wagner, Handel, Mendelssohn, Meyerbeer, Abt, Verdi and lesser names furnished the music for the German day. Abt conducted his own famous song, "When the Swallows Homeward Fly."

—The scene which occurred on the entrance of the band of the London Grenadiers was repeated when, the next day, Kaiser William's Cornet Band, after playing the German national hymn, broke out in "Hail Columbia," followed by "Yankee Doodle."

—It is a great relief to find that there is nothing of the stifling sensation in the coliseum which one is apt to feel in a large assembly. The building is airy; the seats are not crowded; the aisles are broad; wherever you may be, you are not far from a great doorway.

—The New Yorkers are fearfully exercised over the Boston Jubilee. That anybody should sing, or have a name, without first having obtained liberty from the Gothamites is a bit of audacity for which Gilmore, Strauss and Lentner must be suitably punished. Provincial as New York is, we have no doubt that some day or other it will have a great Jubilee of its own.

—Johann Strauss is the rage of the ladies in particular. He is said, however, to have a great horror of their adulations, except when they are at concert distances from him. The story of his sending locks of hair clipped from a favorite New Foundland to certain noble Russian damsels who were "dying" for some memento of the great master is told with considerable glee among the gossip-mongers of the coliseum.

—Mrs. J. Houston West sang the Star-Spangled Banner with marvelous success. Unless Madam Ruderstoff does more than she has yet done, it would scarcely be a compliment to Mrs. West to compare her with the great English vocalist. Indeed there are several sopranos among the bouquet artists who only need a little more physique, or a smaller room, to snatch the laurels from the great women of the day.

—The coliseum has not yet been filled. To observe the vast crowds flocking thither from every quarter one would prophesy that the building would be filled to stifling. To his surprise, however, the galleries, holding thousands, are yet quite empty. We doubt if the building will ever be filled. The attendance, already immense, is larger every day, and possibly by the middle of next week, or by the time this falls under the eye of the reader, all the seats may be occupied.

—Madam Peschka-Leutner, as may be supposed, is the great favorite. She is young, large, almost magnificent in person. She sings with great strength, purity, evenness and deliciousness. She is heard in any part of the vast building, and is greeted with repeated storms of applause. Madam Lentner is a native of Vienna; has a life-engagement at the Leipsic opera, and can sing elsewhere only by permission. She is a soprano, her voice extending from the middle tones to G flat with the most perfect ease.

—The interior of the coliseum presents a magnificent appearance. The colossal paintings at either end, one representing music, and the other the genii of Peace and America, the long array of national emblems pendent from the nave posts, the festoons, painted valance running the whole circumference of the building, trophies, national legends, and the portraits of the great masters, and the et cetera of fresco devices, gratify the eye, and rather amaze the visitor when he calls to mind that two months ago not a stroke of work had been done in erecting this building.

—The handsomely decorated room devoted to the representatives of the press, under the south gallery, is one hundred and eighteen feet long, fifty feet wide, and is supplied with all the conveniences for reportorial labor. Mr. J. R. Osgood, of the well-known publishing house, is chairman of the committee on the press, and has won golden opinions from the whole swarm of Bohemians on the ground. Telegraphic and postal facilities are brought within this room, the mail being distributed several times a day, and sixteen operators being detailed for service.

—The coliseum is five hundred and fifty feet long, and three hundred and fifty wide. The height of the building at the sides is forty feet; at the center it is one hundred and fifteen feet. The ends of this marvelous structure are in effect heavy timber walls twenty-two feet in thickness. The galleries are seventy-five feet deep. Light is amply secured by eighty large windows above the first roof, which, with seven enormous turrets, afford abundant ventilation. There are twelve door-ways, each twenty-five feet wide, affording easy entrance and exit. Under the chorus amphitheater and the galleries are numerous and spacious rooms for all sorts of purposes.—Interior, June 27.

NIGHT IN A JAPANESE HOTEL.

As I was about to pass my first night in a Japanese house, I watched anxiously the preparations for sleeping These were simple enough: a mattress, in the form of a very thick quilt, about seven feet long by four wide, was spread on the floor, and over it was laid an ample robe, very long, heavily padded, and provided with large sleeves. Having put on this night-dress, the sleeper covers himself with another quilt, and sleeps—that is, "if he has had some years' practice" in the use of this bed.

But the most remarkable feature about a Japanese bed is the pillow. This is a wooden box about four inches high, eight inches long, and two inches wide at the top. It has a cushion of folded papers on the upper side to rest the neck on, for the elaborate manner of dressing the hair does not permit the Japanese, especially the women, to press the head on a pillow. Every morning the uppermost paper is taken off from the cushion, exposing a clean surface without the expense of washing a pillow-case.

I passed a greater part of the night in learning how to poise my head in this novel manner; and when I finally closed my eyes, it was to dream that I was being slowly beheaded, and to awake at the crisis to find the pillow bottom-side up, and my neck resting on the sharp lower edge of the box. During my stay in the country I learned many of its customs, mastering the use of chop-sticks, and accustoming my palate to raw fresh fish; but the attempt to balance my head on a two-inch pillow I gave up in despair, after trying in vain to secure the box and trying it to my neck and head.—Pumpelly's Travels.

SCOLD AND SCALD.—During an examination of the children of the Newcastle-on-Tyne Ragged and Industrial schools, the word scold occurred in a lesson, upon which the inspector asked the question:

"What is the difference between scold and scald?"

After a short pause, during which the inspector's eye glanced around the class, a little girl replied with eagerness:

"Please, sir, the one hurts with the tongue, and the other with hot water."

THE Edinburg Review relates an anecdote of M. de Sainte-Beuve. He once fought a duel. When the principals took their position it was raining hard. Sainte-Beuve had his pistol in one hand, and with the other hand he held up his umbrella. The seconds protested. "I have no objection to being killed," said he; "but as to being wet—no!"

CHARACTERISTIC BUT FALSE.—Writing from Rome, Dr. Cuyler says: On the front of a church near the Vatican is the lying inscription: "Let us come boldly to the throne of the Virgin Mary, that we may find grace to help in every time of need." But, thank God! the Bible is free in Rome.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

LIBERAL.—The Jews of Cincinnati propose to found in that city a great university for their fellow-religionists, and a wealthy Jew in Indiana has offered $10,000 for the object.

SCISM has made its appearance in the Greek Church. The Bulgarian Exarch, when officiating recently before a numerous congregation, studiously omitted the name of the Greek patriarch from the liturgy; and the Archimendrite afterward read the firman proclaiming the independence of the Bulgarian Church.

FROM Germany we have the important announcement that, in accordance with the recent vote of the Imperial Parliament, Prince Bismarck has informed the Federal governments of his intention of submitting a bill denaturalizing all German Jesuits. This would enable the police to expel every one of them.

VETERANS.—Three men and four squaws have been recently found living at San Yabee who distinctly remember the arrival of the founders of the mission at San Diego in 1769, and two of them helped in erecting its buildings. They are believed to be from one hundred and twenty to one hundred and thirty years of age.

THE SULTAN AND THE BIBLE.—Mr. Barker, agent of the British and Foreign Bible Society at Constantinople, has been favored with an interview with the Sultan, who received from him a copy of the Bible with much courtesy and apparent pleasure, and ordered his chief chamberlain to show him everything in his beautiful palace.

IN DEMAND.—The trustees of the Baptist Theological Seminary at Greenville, South Carolina, having resolved to remove its location, requests have been received from Atlanta, Chattanooga, Nashville, Memphis, Louisville and Russellville, each competing for it. A committee of seven has been appointed to investigate and decide upon the location by August.

A PRACTICAL TEST.—A striking connection between the prevailing religion of a country and its general morality is shown in the fact that in England there is one murder for every 178,000 inhabitants, in Holland one for 163,000, and in Prussia one for every 100,000, while in Austria there is one for 57,000, in Spain one for 4,113, in Naples one for 2,750, and in Rome one for every 750. In London there are four illegitimate births for every 100 legitimate, in Leipsic 20, in Paris 48, in Munich 91, in Vienna 118, and in Rome 243!

CHURCH CONTROVERSIES IN FRANCE. Dispatches from Paris announce that the Synod of the National Reformed Church of France, now in session in Paris, has just passed through an unusually animated discussion, which resulted in a schism of the church. M. Guizot, the leader of the Orthodox party, maintained the authority of the Scriptures, while Rev. M. Coquerel, who is at the head of the Liberal party, justified certain divergences in respect to the divinity and resurrection of Christ. The Liberals, demurring at the action of the Orthodox majority, withdrew from the synod. M. Edmond de Pressense had prophesied a division between the Evangelical and Rationalistic parties before the synod met.

SEVERE WORDS—BUT TRUE.—Dr. Dollinger, than whom no one in Europe or America is better qualified to pass appreciative judgment upon the Roman Catholic Church, declares in the last of his lectures at Munich that "the papacy is based upon an audacious falsification of biblical history. A forgery in its very outset, it has, during the long years of its existence, exercised a pernicious influence upon Church and State alike." Of the Jesuits Dr. Dollinger says: "Their very breath is more deadly than pestilence. To Germany especially they have proved a worse enemy than the Turk and the Hun. They plunged this country into the Thirty Years' War, which destroyed two-thirds of its inhabitants, and left it weak and divided against itself for a couple of centuries."

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN.—The report of the board of church erection contains the following: The board closes the year greatly encouraged. Twenty churches have been assisted, more or less, and $18,532 have been paid. The receipts for the year ending April 30 were: From presbyteries, $8,301.27; for the loan fund, $9,034.04; special contributions of congregations, Sabbath schools and individuals, $1,593.84. Total, $18,929.15. $2,235 have been paid out during the past month. The Assembly, after carefully considering the work to be done the coming year, has asked for it $30,000—the same amount as last year. That is at the rate of forty-two cents per member—a small sum to each one, but in the aggregate a sum that will do a good work.

GREAT SUCCESS.—Dr. Butler, in his Land of the Veda, gives a summary view of the success of the gospel in India. He says: "The number of places in which the gospel is now regularly preached by missionaries or native preachers, in twenty-three different languages, amounts to over eight hundred. Seven hundred and seventy-two churches reported a membership last year of 70,857. The number reported as belonging to Christian communities was 273,478, while the number in regular attendance upon public worship and the Sabbath schools is supposed to be about 350,000. In the past ten years the number of native pastors has increased from 183 to 406; the increase of church members has been more than forty per cent.; and of pupils in schools, from 96,574 to 137,326. The native offerings last year amounted to over $40,000; and English residents in India, who have the best opportunities for judging of the character of the work, gave over $150,000."

IN BRAZIL there is a clashing between Masonry and Ultramontanism, and the old financial disputes of the former body have been sunk to make common cause against their enemies, the Jesuits. The Fusionists have published an eloquent manifesto, setting forth the Masons as Christians, citizens and Catholics, and giving a full expose of the motives which have led them to take up the cudgel against Ultramontanism. Leading Masons are struggling for schools, independent of clerical rule, and the means of affording entirely secular educations to the masses are under serious consideration. The clericals, on their side, do not give ground in the least, but in press and pulpit put in their hardest blows to these treasons and heresies. In one parish the priest has been preaching violently against "excommunicated and infidel Masons," and posted a decree refusing them admission to the church or to accept them as godfathers in marriage or baptism.

LIBERIA.—Rev. D. Ware, one of our missionaries among the natives, says of his field: "The Little Cape Mount country lies between Grand Cape Mount and Cape Mesurado, and nearly midway, having a bold and beautiful stream running through it in a southerly direction, which is navigable for large canoes and row-boats for more than forty miles, coursing its way far up among the Golahs. The people are mostly Veys and Deys. The country, having been free from wars for many years, is thickly populated. The chief, with whom I am residing, and who invited me here, was formerly a very notorious ring-leader in most if not all of the wars which formerly distracted the country; but an expedition under President Roberts, in 1853, captured him and took him to Monrovia, where he was imprisoned. Since his release he has been one of the tamest and most submissive of men. He is now an old man of about seventy years, throws open his doors for preaching, and wishes his children instructed in letters and religion. His influence and authority are very extensive, and he pledges them in favor of our mission work.—New York Christian Advocate.

MEXICO.—The history of missions scarcely presents more striking and wonderful triumphs of grace than have recently been witnessed in Mexico. The June number of the Christian World gives a full account of these triumphs. We quote the following: "Surely every Christian's heart should be overwhelmed with gratitude, and inspired for new effort in helping forward this good work, by the consideration that more than fifty evangelical congregations of regular stated worshipers have been gathered, several of which have been organized into churches under the title of the 'Church of Jesus;' that prominent Romish priests, hopefully converted, and scores of other native helpers, are now actively laboring for the spread of the pure gospel; that two of the large edifices in the City of Mexico are held by Protestants, and weekly used for Protestant worship; and, to crown all, that four hundred converts from Rome have been seen sitting down together in one of these ex-papal churches, and partaking of the Lord's Supper, as administered by Bro. Riley and by four ex-priests; and all this accomplished within three and a half years, under the superintendence of one man, whom God qualified for the work, and whom our society was privileged to commission for its execution. We cannot forbear here quoting again a brief extract from the recent voluntary and honorable testimony of Rev. Dr. Ellinwood, of the Presbyterian Board, concerning this work: 'Disinterested and impartial American residents in the City of Mexico give assurance that the readiness of the people to receive evangelical truth is so remarkable as to render this one of the most promising fields of usefulness in the world. * * * In no country have as great results followed so small an outlay of effort.'"

FLOATING CAPITAL.—The heiress bathing at Long Branch.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, JULY 11, 1872.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.
ROBT. J. HARP, Publisher.

OFFICE—No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. Harp, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. Linus Parker, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Agents—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR ALABAMA CONFERENCE:
REV. W. A. McCARTY.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
A. W. LAMPKIN, ESQ.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

REDUCTION.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers hereafter at the following rates:

For One Year	$2 00
For Six Months	1 25
For Three Months	75

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

to all ministers of the gospel, traveling or local, and widows of deceased traveling preachers.

FREE ONE YEAR

to any person forwarding to us four new yearly subscribers with EIGHT DOLLARS.

FRATERNAL RELATIONS.

The Methodist, quoting a part of our article on the action of the General Conference at Brooklyn, comments as follows:

This is a very one-sided view of the facts of the property question. The Church South is now in possession of many of our churches and a school property, within the borders of the old Baltimore Conference. Our estimate is that Southern Methodists have more of our property than we have of theirs. It would have been wise to try to find some basis of agreement satisfactory to both sides.

But in its previous issue the Methodist looks upon the failure of the General Conference to meet the property question, and to provide for its settlement, very much as we do. Referring to an editorial in the Central Methodist of Catlettsburg, Kentucky, the Methodist stands upon our own ground so far as the property matter is concerned. It says:

Church property questions must first and foremost be equitably settled. We cannot hope for fraternal relations while each church is in possession of the other's goods. A schedule must in time be made of the number and value of churches, parsonages and schools originally erected for our use, and subject to the rights of our General Conference as patron, now in the hands of Southern Methodists. A similar schedule should be made of Southern Church property now in our hands. No changes can be effected in the legal status of all this property by the resolutions of either General Conference; but agreements can be entered into looking to the continuance of undisturbed possession where such continuance is deemed best for both parties. At all events, the parties should meet, consider the facts, and try, as good Christians, to find some basis of settlement.

We regret, therefore, for many reasons, that the part of the committee's report which contemplated the settlement of property questions was not adopted. Fraternal messages will not go very far so long as an irritating controversy is neglected. If the facts are disagreeable to face, so much the more important is it to face them. We fear that our General Conference has made a mistake, but shall hope for the best.

We, in common with many others, North and South, thought the refusal on the part of the General Conference to take any action on the subject of property in dispute revealed an animus not altogether fraternal. It is but fair, however, to give an explanation of the matter by the Central Christian Advocate of St. Louis. The Central says:

The papers of the Church South publish the report of the committee, and generally they have reproduced the report of the speeches printed in the Daily Advocate. In every instance that has come under our observation, there has been regret that the part of the report which referred to the adjustment of our church property difficulties was withdrawn. The failure to pass this is clearly in the way of the resumption of fraternal relations, without some sufficient explanation of the cause of the failure can be made. Indeed, in one or two instances the suspicion undoubtedly exists that there is a lack of sincerity, and the opinion is ventured that the offer of fraternal relations is valueless so long as it stands by itself. This may be taken as the view of the press; and when we examine the printed proceedings, as they appeared in the Daily Advocate, their only source of information, we do not wonder that an entirely wrong view has been taken of the intention of the Conference when it allowed the committee to withdraw their report.

The proposition to appoint a joint commission to adjust all the church property cases was first proposed, if we mistake not, by the late editor of this paper, Dr. Crary. It was heartily seconded by all our church papers. It was the will and intention of the people in all sections that a proper effort should be made to heal all these differences. The report of the Committee on the State of the Church bears unequivocal testimony on this point. We can assure our editorial brethren, and through them the church they represent, that the object in withdrawing the part of the report relating to a joint commission was that the offer of fraternal relations should not be in any way complicated by the introduction of secondary questions. The understanding was that the subject would receive attention and appropriate action when the report of the committee appointed by the former Conference, on union with the other churches, should be called up. The following day was the last of the session, business was hurried, only the most important papers in the view of the secretary were taken up, and no mention was again made of the report.

We greatly regret this, for we are confident that the General Conference intended to tender all that the press of the Church South regards as important in securing fraternal relations. There was no disposition to evade or ignore any just and proper demand. We mean by this tender, the healing of old wounds. We offer and desire a Christian fellowship such as the love of Christ and the interests of his church teaches.

No matter how it came about, the first step toward fraternization was not taken at all. The delegation was ordered, while its way was left hedged up and obstructed by this most serious hinderance. Fraternal relations, if they mean anything, mean mutual good will and Christian fellowship, and in the formal recognition of these relations there is implied approval and indorsement of each other. We see no road to so grave a consummation but by such preliminary measures and declarations as shall make both parties satisfied with each other as to their spirit, polity and real intentions of kindness and brotherly love. It is because with us fraternal relations mean something more than a hollow and politic declaration having ecclesiastical ends to subserve, that we would have all obstructions honestly dealt with at first. Our "God speed" and theirs must be no sham, but hearty and true. If we are to shake hands and make up, and if we are to forgive and forget, and to live henceforth as brethren, let the good work be thoroughly done. That these fraternal overtures have been pressed forward by our Northern brethren more for the advantage of their much-boasted of work in the South, than in the interests of our common Christianity, is perhaps an unwarranted suspicion.—Certainly many who voted for the measure did not look upon it in that way, but it is nevertheless open to this construction, and all the more so because the property question and the so-called "by-gones" were so carefully eliminated from the whole discussion and the final report. When the churches are ripe for this measure of brotherly love it will be easily effected. Until then our course is plain to go on in the great work to which we are called, doing justly, loving mercy, and walking humbly with God. Without the fraternal recognition of any other branch of Methodism on earth, we have stood to our post, and "witnessed a good profession," the fruits of which are now manifest in one of the purest and most prosperous churches in the world.

We regret that we were unable to attend the commencement exercises of the Peabody Normal Seminary of this city, which took place on the second instant.

A correspondent calls our attention to a paragraph in the Picayune of the fourth instant. The paragrapher speaks of the heated term in New York, and makes some very vulgar and irreverent allusions to "the Miltonic Hell." It is, however, only an expression of the trifling and thoughtless skepticism which largely prevails in reference to the inspired declarations concerning the perdition of ungodly men. It is a sad comment upon the frivolity of the times that such unseemly flings at the most solemn facts of divine revelation should be tolerated in a respectable journal. The existence of the devil and the future punishment of the wicked have become things to simper over, and to be worked up into witticisms for the relish and delectation of the public. The Bible is treated with about the same respect that is accorded to Gulliver's Travels, or to the adventures of Baron Munchausen. If this disposition to sneer at the most serious teachings of the gospel were confined to the writers of occasional newspaper squibs, the matter would have but little significance. It is far otherwise, however, and what we read so offensive to the religious feelings, is only a symptom of a widely prevailing spirit of recklessness and doubt. If these infidel sentiments were generally unpopular, and calculated to alienate patronage, they would seldom find expression in the columns of a secular paper. We doubt whether the editor-in-chief or the publishers of the journal alluded to, sanction such breaches of good taste and morality as those of which our correspondent complains. It is charitable to suppose that these dead flies have fallen into the ointment unawares. The note of our correspondent may speak for itself, only observing, by the way, that if the Advocate were to undertake to lash all the shameless panderings to depraved appetites and tastes, found in the secular journals and out of them, its columns would have to be enlarged, and devoted exclusively to this one thing.

Mr. Editor: Is it not about time the religious press should rebuke the coarse and gross assaults of this paper upon holy things? Is such low ribaldry as this to be thrust into the faces of Christians in New Orleans, by the papers they support, without a word of protest? Is not silence almost tacit approval of these infidel utterances, thus repeated from week to week, almost from day to day? Will not the Advocate lash, as it deserves, this shameless pandering to depraved appetites and tastes?

COMMENCEMENT AT GREENSBORO.

BY BISHOP KEENER.

Mr. Editor: Having a family interest in the Southern University, I determined to be about on the important occasion of its annual commencement. To be seen, merely seen, on the right side is important, and it was pleasant to find oneself on the platform yesterday, in company with so many members of the Alabama Conference. When such men as Drs. Summers, Hamilton, Mitchell, Cotton, Mark Andrews, Cox, Richardson, Rush, and President Andrews bring to the support of a cause their will and presence, it is no ordinary guarantee of complete success. But if you add to this the able civilians—planters, merchants and professional men—who are in its board of trustees, it secures the whole beyond contingency.

The society and alumni addresses on Monday and Tuesday constituted a facade of admirable finish to the solid, graceful creation that rose, speech by speech, in sight of an appreciative audience on Wednesday.

The orations by the graduating class were: Education of the South, by Alonzo Culpepper, of Wilcox county, Alabama; The Conqueror Conquered, by Alex. Powe, of Winchester, Mississippi; Unity of Truth, by Robert T. Nabors, of Columbiana, Alabama; Character, by David M. Rush, of Sanford county, Alabama; The Human Mind, by N. R. Lindsey, of Cherokee, Alabama.

The quality of these orations reflected much credit on the faculty and the University. With no little pride we contemplated the actual yield of this Southern harvest, and felt more than ever persuaded that Methodists of the South who send their sons northward, eastward or elsewhere, to be educated, do a wrong to their own firesides and often to their own communion. It is the duty of our people to retain the wealth of brain and heart which God has placed under their control, and not suffer it to be turned in other directions—I do not say dissipated or destroyed. It is the sin of our church, among other shortcomings, that parents are spending on themselves in speculative forms, in reckless life insurance investments and fancy stocks, the money that ought to be used now upon their sons and daughters, in giving them a sure foundation of sound religious and mental culture, such as can be had at our own institutions. The very large proportion of five-sixths of the young men here are members of our church. This is a healthful sign.

In view of the work being done in behalf of young men and ministers' sons free of tuition, the church of Alabama should respond to the call of President Andrews, and raise promptly money to repair the buildings and settle all arrearages. The current expenses of the past year have been kept within the current receipts. The same will be done next year. An endowment of $100,000 would secure eight professorships and fix this college firmly as an engine for Christ. Baltimore ground-rents have been good investments for fifty years, and will be for the next hundred.

Dr. Winfield, of Arkansas, was present and contributed no little to the common strength and joy of the occasion.

Departments of law and medicine and a biblical chair have been added to the former facilities of the University, and constitute no ordinary claim upon the patronage of the Methodist public.

July 4, 1872.

HOMER COLLEGE.

Mr. Editor: The commencement exercises of Homer College, Homer, Claiborne parish, Louisiana, took place last week. The annual sermon was preached by Rev. T. J. Davidson—a very profitable and appropriate discourse from the text: "Wherewithal shall a young man cleanse his way? By taking heed thereto according to thy word." The examination of the various classes, in their literary and scientific studies, gave great satisfaction to all who witnessed it, and was very creditable to the faculty and the pupils. The debate by the young men of the Polytechnic Society indicated no ordinary degree of intellectual ability; and it gives us great pleasure to state that among the most promising of these young men were the oldest sons of two of our Louisiana preachers. The address on commencement day was delivered by Mr. John H. Chapell, of Lisbon, Louisiana, a step-son of Rev. Samuel Armstrong, of the Louisiana Conference. The theme of this address was happily chosen, and its treatment was masterly; it was full of vigorous thought and apt illustration and poetic conception; and the rhetorical embellishment and elocutionary rendering indicated the student and the man of talent.

The Board of Trustees was convened on Tuesday, at noon, in the spacious library of the college. There was a very full attendance—all the clerical members of the board and nearly all of the lay members were present. It was felt by the friends of the college that a crisis had come in its history demanding immediate attention. There had been a heavy falling off in the attendance upon the college, and the citizens of Homer were not giving it that support which such an institution ought to command from the locality; and then debts were accumulating, and some of them pressing for payment. President Cobb presented his annual report to the board on the first day of its session; it was a very able document, giving a complete insight into all the affairs of the college, pointing out what was needful to be done in order to make it a power in Methodism and in the South; he dwelt upon the difficulties it had been encountering—tribulations through which it was yet passing—but, nevertheless, he gave abundant reason to show that the outlook of the college was really encouraging. Hand and head and heart of Bro. Cobb are in Homer College; he is ready to make any sacrifice of ease and purse and personal welfare to make the institution a success in the grand mission he marks out for it. The report of the agent of the college, Rev. T. J. Upton, gave hope of his success in raising an endowment fund of $25,000 by the end of the present year; more than two-thirds of same was already subscribed. After a patient examination into all the affairs of the college, the Board of Trustees became well satisfied that if the Methodist Church in north Louisiana will rally to the support of Homer College it can yet be made one of the most prosperous institutions of learning in the South. The college has certainly great capacity for educational usefulness, and its president is worthy the fullest confidence of all who have sons to educate. The board was able to make some provision for the liquidation of the debts of the college, and an economical management was adopted, securing it from any increase of indebtedness. Much was accomplished by the board, we are satisfied, in restoring the college to local favor; and this, together with the efforts that are to be made to bring the college into notice among the Methodist families of north Louisiana and elsewhere, as also the number of applications already for admission into the college next term, gives us to hope that the college is about to enter upon a highly successful career.

There is no reason why Homer College should not be a great success. It is the only institution of high grade within a radius of hundreds of miles; it has a large, substantial building, well adapted to college purposes, with spacious grounds attached; it is situated in a high, well-watered country, where the climate is healthy and salubrious, where fruits and vegetables of all varieties are grown in rich abundance, and where the society is moral and cultivated. It has a splendid apparatus for the illustration of science and philosophy; it has a constantly increasing library of the most valuable works; it has a president of acknowledged ability as a scholar and a teacher—a man eminent alike for the purity of his piety and the profundity of his learning—a man who, in his zeal for the religious and intellectual culture of his pupils, and for the elevating influence he has upon them, bears strong resemblance to the celebrated "Head Master of Rugby." Let the Methodists of north Louisiana at least rally to the support of Homer College by assisting in its endowment, and by sending their sons thence for education, and this same Homer College will rapidly rise to a high degree of success, will be an honor to Methodism and to the State, and will be a fountain of richest blessing, both religious and intellectual, to our rising generation. J. W.

June 21, 1872.

WHITWORTH FEMALE COLLEGE.

Mr. Editor: The education of our daughters is now of first importance. Formerly some thought it a matter of taste if they could atone for educational defects by an ample dowery. The school laws of Mississippi are unfriendly to education. Parents must see to it that their children are not snubbed by this trick of the State. They must look out for good schools and good education. Fortunately Mississippians have one such female school in a flourishing condition, in a healthy location, accessible by rail, good buildings, beautiful surroundings, and ably managed by a president and faculty fully competent for the work they have in hand. Of course I mean Whitworth College for young ladies, Brookhaven, Mississippi.

We were present on the twenty-third, twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth instant, as much as an untimely attack of chills would allow, and witnessed the examinations for several hours—enough to satisfy us of the ability and fidelity of the president and faculty of the college and progress of the pupils. We saw somewhat of the internal management of the college. The president's even balance everywhere leaves you in doubt whether he is the greater teacher or disciplinarian. Order reigns everywhere. President Johnson's household all understand that with him no means no, and yes means yes; hence quietness and kindness are as prevalent as good order.

Why are our people at a loss for a first-rate place to educate their daughters? Why does not New Orleans send her daughters to Brookhaven by the score? Let Whitworth flourish as she deserves. Let all the people say so.

Truly yours, W. P. Barton.

Black Hawk, Miss., June 29, 1872.

THE SEED-SOWER.

There is no axiom more often demonstrated in the natural world than that expressed in the terse language of an inspired apostle, and upon which hangs the mighty and fearful truths of retribution: "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." The great Teacher, using the same idea, puts the forcible question: "Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles?" Thus the teachings of Christ and the apostles interlock and verify the same truths.

To sow is a matter of faith as well as labor. It is prospective in its results. Did a man not expect to reap, it would be superlative nonsense for him to sow. Nature is full of analogies setting forth scriptural truths. To sow natural seed, the soil must be carefully prepared. The process is fallow-ground plowing—pulverizing the soil, opening the ditches and water-furrows; then the seed is deposited with the hand of care and watched with the eye of faith. This finds its counterpart in the spiritual world by the deep breaking up and pulverizing work of the plow-share of God's word, as by the Holy Spirit it cleaves the heart, awakening, quickening, softening. Thus the good seeds of truth are lodged in the mellow soil of the heart, and there nurtured by generous and auspicious seasons. In the natural world the eye of expectancy observes the delicate spire shooting forth; hope looks forward to an abundant harvest; diligent cultivation is bestowed. Other noxious and spontaneous growths soon conspire against this newly-deposited seed; they are quickly and carefully removed. Day by day the plant assumes strength, and becomes more formidable in its conflict with the noxious weeds, until by diligent and faithful culture there appears "the stalk, the blade, and the full corn in the ear." So the seeds of pious truths deposited are watched by faith's discerning eye, until germination is observed, and presently the buddings of piety. As in the natural, so in the spiritual, the noxious weeds of sin would choke the word. There is a conflict, sore, of evil and good, but by faithful and diligent culture ("watching unto prayer") the weeds succumb, the beautiful germ and shoot of religion is clearly discerned, flourishes, and goes "on to perfection."

The golden harvest greets the eye and nods in waving welcome to the joyous reaper, reminding one of that beautiful sentiment expressed by a youthful bard:

"'Twas an eve of autumn's holiest mood;
The corn fields, bathed in Cynthia's silvery light,
Stood ready for the reaper's gathering hand,
And all the winds slept soundly."

Christian reader!—whether minister or layman—to you the command is: "Sow in the morn thy seed; at eve hold not thy hand." To which our very souls respond in that verse-prayer by the founder of Methodism:

"O multiply thy sowers' seed,
And fruit we every hour shall bear;
Throughout the world thy gospel spread,
Thine everlasting truth declare!"

T. B. W.

New Iberia, July 4, 1872.

We have received the annual catalogue of Verona Female College. This institution is located at Verona, Mississippi, and under the presidency of Rev. Dr. T. C. Wier. A high degree of prosperity has deservedly attended the past session.

On Wednesday the nominations had not reached us. Everything indicated that the Cincinnati platform would be adopted, and that Greeley and Brown [illegible] be the nominees.

For the Advocate.

CAMP MEETING.

Mr. Editor: The camp meeting problem has its solution in tarpaulins, a few "greenbacks," some muscle, and a few consecrated Christian men to properly mix and apply the ingredients.

For many years Zion has been suffering. Her blood has been vitiated by the poisonous gases arising from gas-lights, cushioned pews and organ wind. Our children have been fed upon gum-drops and sugar-plums until it is distressing to the flesh to kneel squarely. The camp meeting will prove as the "balm of Gilead" to restore. It is a famous place to teach ministerial brethren not to despise the gifts of one another, and to feel the burden of souls, and that "that which is to be done must be done quickly." It is refreshing to see how intensely interested for the salvation of souls some men and women become at a camp meeting, who at home apparently feel no concern.

When a Bishop Keener is found at the altar-railing, kneeling beside the penitent sinner, pointing the trembling one to Jesus, not considering for one moment whether or not the contact might soil the outer garments or offend some stickler for the dignity of the Bishop's office, others in humbler positions may safely follow.

The money, time and labor expended upon the Biloxi camp ground has been wisely invested. A fire has been kindled there that will blaze all over Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana. Thousands of souls will in the great day praise God for the faithful gospel sermons, prayers and songs of that meeting. Already other camp meetings are projected upon the self-sustaining plan.

Will the tarpaulin man publish his place of business and terms in the Advocate? It will pay.

Brownsville.

DEATH OF MRS. ALFRED BATTLE.

Mrs. Millicent Bradley Battle, wife of Mr. Alfred Battle, died in Tuskaloosa, Alabama, June 23, 1872. This announcement will sadden the hearts of many ministers, who have enjoyed the bounteous hospitality of her house, which has been a preachers' home for more than forty years. She was born in Maryland, January 29, 1804. Her father was Benjamin Bradley Beall; her mother's maiden name was Mary Marshall. At the time of her birth her parents were members of the Protestant Episcopal Church, in whose communion she was accordingly baptized. She was removed to Georgia when about five years of age, and resided in Warrenton, where her father died. In 1822 she was removed to Tuskaloosa, Alabama, where, March 4, 1824, she was married to her honored and now deeply-distressed husband. Before they became members of the Methodist Church their house was opened to the itinerant preacher, when he had no other place for the soles of his feet. They received the prophet in the name of a prophet, and they have received, and shall receive, a prophet's reward. They became acquainted with the sainted Dr. Kennon, when he was presiding elder on the district which embraced Tuskaloosa, and at a camp meeting at which he presided they were converted and received into the Methodist Church—as was also her venerable mother, whom we remember with great satisfaction as a holy matriarch of the church. Sister Battle suffered greatly, and for a long time, with consumption; but she was patient, resigned and cheerful. She expressed herself as fully prepared for her change, which she welcomed as a happy release.—Nashville Christian Advocate.

According to Archdeacon Fuller, of Toronto, it costs the people of China $100,000,000 a year to support their religious institutions, and they waste no money in missionary enterprises to convert the heathen of America, who spend a comparatively small sum in furtherance of their faith. There is a report that the Baptist preachers in Japan have already converted the Mikado. (?)

Greatness of London.—The population, according to the last census, is three million eight hundred and eighty-three thousand and ninety-two. This vast multitude is more than the combined population of New York, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, St. Louis, Chicago, Baltimore, Cincinnati, Boston, New Orleans, San Francisco, Buffalo, and Alleghany City, Pennsylvania.

Among the literary curiosities in a library at Southampton, England, is an old Bible, known as the "Bug Bible," printed by John Daye, 1551, with the prologue by Tyndale. It derives its name from the peculiar rendering of the fifth verse in Psalms xci, which reads thus: "So that thou shalt not be afraid of any bugs by night."

With the majority of mankind, forgiveness is but a form of forgetfulness.

Married.

At the residence of Dr. William Lamkin, on the third of July, 1872, by the Rev. H. P. Lewis, Samuel L. Stewart and Miss Alice C. Quin, all of Pike county, Mississippi.

At the residence of the bride's father, July 3, 1872, by Rev. J. D. Adams, Mr. John Monroe to Miss Emma L. Schroeder, all of New Orleans, Louisiana.

Obituaries.

Mrs. Rebecca F. McGowin, daughter of John S. and Abigail R. Moore, was born March 1, 1840, in that part of Conecuh county, Alabama, which is now included in Escambia county. When about eighteen years old she was married to Jacob L. McGowin, and joined the Methodist Church South, of which she remained a member till she died, which happened on the thirtieth of November, 1871, near the place where she was born. She left a father and mother, brothers and sisters, husband and four little children to mourn her sudden and unexpected death. She was noted for her hospitality in connection with the church, and for her devotion to the interests of the Sabbath school. When she and some others labored with one mind and heart for the Sabbath school, the work went successfully on, and we trust lasting good was accomplished. Many friends mourn the sudden death of Sister McGowin. May God sanctify all to our good.

W. G. PEBRY.

Thomas Cato West, son of the late Charles West, of Jefferson county, Mississippi, departed this life, at his residence in said county, on the eleventh of April, 1872, of meningitis, in the fortieth year of his age.

He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South in his nineteenth year, and continued a devoted, zealous and faithful member thereof. He served the church as steward, class-leader and Sabbath school superintendent. He loved the church and her doctrines, was familiar with its history, and was always ready to defend her teachings and polity. He was a modest, retiring man—had to be urged to the discharge of public offices—but was always reliable and faithful. He lived a religious life; the family altar was never forgotten. He was truly an exemplar of piety, exhibiting in his daily walk those noble virtues of "forbearance, brotherly-kindness and charity"—that charity "which thinketh no evil, and is not easily provoked." His death is, as we think, a great loss to the church, and a still greater loss to his family. He left a wife and three children. But with our brother

"Hope has changed to glad fruition, Faith to sight and prayer to praise."

B.

Dr. Benjamin F. West, son of the late B. F. West and Mrs. Gabriella J. Tilden, now of Jefferson county, Mississippi, departed this life on the seventeenth of February, 1872, in the twenty-ninth year of his age, from the lingering effects of pneumonia.

Soon after graduating in medicine, at the University of Louisiana, he was urged to accept a general life insurance agency, for which his pleasing and courteous manners and marked ability in that line eminently fitted him. In the discharge of his agency he contracted the disease of which he died.

Dr. West, when a mere youth, entered the Confederate service, and served faithfully as a private and as an officer until the end of the war. His last service was as aid to his brother-in-law, General Thomas P. Dockery, of Arkansas.

He was always a good boy, and was of a religious turn of mind. He was reared by a kind, devoted and pious mother, to whom he was more than usually attached. Being of a very affectionate and warm-hearted nature, he loved his relations and friends devotedly. It was pleasant to hear him speak of his mother, and still more so to see and know how he honored, loved and revered her. He was a member of the Methodist Church, and gave ample evidence that his early teachings were not lost on him. He expressed himself prepared to die, and seemed only to regret leaving his widowed mother.

"Yet again we hope to meet thee
When the day of life is fled;
Then in heaven with joy to greet thee,
Where no farewell tear is shed."

B.

Rev. Francis M. Boynton, a local preacher and practicing physician, died in Shreveport, Louisiana, on the twentieth of June, 1872, after a very brief illness. He was born in Monroe county, Georgia, in September, 1823; he was religiously trained in childhood; he was converted and joined the Methodist Church in his twentieth year, and during the following year was licensed to preach. He entered the Georgia Conference in 1854, but on account of throat disease was obliged to seek location in 1863. He then studied medicine, and became a very successful practitioner of the homeopathic school. In 1864 he, with his family (for he married in 1855,) moved to Henderson, Texas, where he practiced medicine, and preached as much as his throat would allow, until November, 1871, when he removed to Shreveport, Louisiana, since which time he has been living in our midst, preaching occasionally, and was gradually working into a good "practice" at the time of his death. He was taken sick with congestion of the stomach, and died in a few days. Bro. Boynton was a very exemplary Christian in his daily life; he enjoyed the utmost confidence of all who knew him. As a physician he was skillful and learned; as a preacher he was clear and logical and philosophical. When he found that his sickness was unto death, he expressed himself ready to depart, saying: "Let the will of the Master be done!" We may write upon his tomb: "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord; yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors, and their works do follow them." Our deceased brother leaves a widow and two children, with whom we all greatly sympathize in their sad bereavement.

J. W.

Died, near Hayneville, Lowndes county, Alabama, April 16, 1872, after a long and painful illness, Mrs. Ellen Sherman.

Thus has passed away an entire family, she being the last to go down into the grave. There now remaineth none of her father's household.

Her early raising was amid Christian influences, as all of her father's family were exemplary members of the Methodist Church. Her own walk through life is said to have been most exemplary and consistent. In the community where she had long lived, every one with whom I talked in reference to her Christian character gave the same report, and all agreed in saying: "She was a pure, humble and devoted Christian." She was much attached to her church. Circumstances which she could not control had prevented her from attending with any regularity the church services for several years past; yet she labored to keep near the cross. Her Bible was her constant companion by day, and for some months before she died she managed to have from three to six chapters read to her at night. We feel assured that she rests in Jesus.

Sister Sherman was born in Washington city, District of Columbia, April 13, 1813; was married to William D. Sherman September 7, 1834; professed religion and joined the church, in Philadelphia, in 1819; and now, after spending more than half of her life in the church militant, she has gone to join the church triumphant.

H.

Thomas Eatt was born in Cambridgeshire, England, in 1824, and came with his family to America in 1851, and stopped in New Orleans. Soon he had to bury his wife, who died with yellow fever.

In 1853 he moved with his children to Yazoo City, Yazoo county, Mississippi. In the fall of 1860 Bro. Eatt was happily converted to God at a camp meeting held at old Zion, Yazoo county, Mississippi. I shall never forget the time when he received the blessing. There are but few men of the nerve of Thomas Eatt. When he said he had religion, he never doubted it afterward; in fact, all the world, the flesh and the devil could not have made him believe otherwise. And so he lived until May 1, 1872, when his happy spirit took its flight to heaven. Bro. Eatt was a soldier in the Confederate army, and was taken prisoner by the Yankees in June, 1863. He was taken to Alton, Illinois and from there to Fort Delaware. We have said that Bro. Eatt was a firm, decided man, and we see it during his prison life. He had never taken the oath of allegiance to the government; but he had taken the side of the South, and he was willing to die by it. He had not been in prison long before he was offered the oath, if he would no longer fight for the South; but he would take no oath. He was then told that he could claim British protection, but he would not; he wished the protection of none but God and the South. Bro. Eatt was not a stubborn man, but he bowed to none but God. After the war was over he returned home, the same man in piety that he was when he left; and when the hour came for him to leave for the better land, he said he was ready to go. Bro. Eatt's life and happy death are just what I expected when I saw him converted. I then thought he would live and die a happy Christian.

F. M. FEATHERSTUN.

Vicksburg, June 26, 1872.

Sarah H. Caldwell, third daughter of J. T. and S. H. Hollingsworth, was born in Madison county, Mississippi, in January, 1812; embraced religion in September, 1856, and joined the Methodist Church; and died at the residence of her father, near New Iberia, Louisiana, June 18, 1872, in view of heavenly rest.

She was the mother of eight children, three of whom survive her. She has been the subject of many bereavements, even the present year. Her husband died in Mississippi, February 27; also an interesting son, six years of age, April 18, just two months previous to her death.

Such is the brief record of one who has "gone up through much tribulation—been made perfect through suffering." Crushed in spirit and shattered in health, she arrived at her father's residence just three weeks ago, as if by providential direction, to leave her parting messages and resign her children to the hands of those she loved most, for fostering care and Christian nurture, that they may be qualified "for the inheritance of the saints in light." "How unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out!" and yet in this his "manifold wisdom" is declared. The affectionate and faithful father and sisters will be faithful to the trust imposed on them. She met death confident of victory, and with that heroic faith that discerns the divine presence, as she walked through the "valley of the shadow of death."

We stop to drop a tear of sympathy and breathe an humble prayer for the broken-hearted and sorrowing ones.

"O how I long to join your wing,
And range your field of flowers;
Come, holy watchers, come and bring
A mourner to your bowers."

THOMAS B. WHITE.

REV. JOHN Y. REGISTER.—TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

Geneva Lodge No. 129,
Geneva, Alabama.

Our beloved brother, John Y. Register, whose gentle and affectionate disposition, Masonic love for all his friends and brothers, and constant exercise of all those Masonic virtues which showed forth a nature in which was a rare combination of all that is noble in a man, a Mason and a Christian—he has indeed passed from among us, yea was taken up to God.

May we all emulate his example of steady, unwavering faith and trust in our religion and beloved order. May his death be a blessing to us, though received in tears of affliction. May we sorrowfully bow in submission to the decree of an all-wise Providence.

This lodge desire to show in some degree their appreciation of the extent of their bereavement by the following resolutions:

Resolved, That in the death of our beloved brother, John Y. Register, this lodge has lost one of its most useful members.

Resolved, That in this great, almost overpowering affliction to his bereaved family, we, sorrowing in their sorrow, would still remind them of the many precious evidences he gave of being a true Christian Mason, and the certainty which we feel of his having passed to a better and happier life. In this we may truly say: Our loss is his eternal gain.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be engrossed and forwarded to our brother's bereaved family; and that they be spread upon the minutes of this lodge, and they be draped in mourning.

Resolved, That a copy be sent to the New Orleans Christian Advocate, with a request that they be published.

J. M. LANDRAM,
J. T. COLEMAN,
T. J. DORMANY,
Committee.

Agt's & Publisher's Department

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS OF LETTERS and Funds, Received by Mail, for the week ending July 6, 1872:

A—Philip Allen $5.50.

B—Horace Bishop $10, B H Bounds $1, Barnes & Wilkinson, J Lane Borden, John W Boswell 2 lots $5.50, C M E Beard, M Banks $3, A H Batte $5, W P Barton.

C—H M Cook, S E Collins, A J Coleman $3.85, R Crawford $10, B W Cunningham, T J Campbell, Skipwith Coal, H Clegg.

D—George J Decks & Son, H P DuBose, H J Davis, R A Davis $2, John W DeVilbis.

E—H C Edwards $2.

F—H Walter Featherstun $4.50, A V Fleming, C H Freeman, J L Fithle $5.

G—John G Goza, John B Gordon, H B Graham & Bro, T C M Golland $4.50, Griffin & Hoffman, A Giddins $2, J C Garrigues, Gould & Lincoln.

H—T W Hines, M R Hollister $7, A C Handley, H G Horton, John Holland.

J—A W Jones $50.

K—Kittrell & Purnell.

L—Mrs J T Low, W M Loveladay $5, H M Lock, Mrs M L Laurance 25 cts, J B Lippincott & Co, H P Lewis 2 lots, W J Lam.

M—Thomas Mullejt $62.50 exchange, C Mayo, N P Moore $10, S H McMaster, George Maclean, Manly & Co, John S McCurver.

N—J A Norsworthy, Jas G Nuberry, Thos Nelson & Sons.

P—S T Palmer, W B Padelford, J S Parker, Robert Parvin.

R—A Rizer 2 lots $10, John Ritchey, E E F Ross, C P Rees & Co $5.40, T W Rogers, A H Redford.

S—S R Sproles $6.42, Thomas C Smith $5, J W Sandell 2 lots, A Stoner $6, H L Smith, Scribner, Armstrong & Co, John H Smith, S G Spears, J A Spence, E B Strickland 20 cts, John Shanbergen.

T—E B Thompson.

U—J P Underwood.

V—Frank Vaughan $2.

W—Mrs M J Wood 50 cts, John A Welburn, T B Walden $3.75, J D Wall $3.75, John H Winborne 50 cts, John F Wynn.

Y—Henry A Young & Co, N B Young.

Advocate Press for Sale.—Our press is too small. Our present size, 29 by 43 inches, is the largest we can print on it. The increase of business and demands of our readers require that we should part with our beautiful floe cylinder printing machine, which, with eighteen pounds of steam, will print from thirteen hundred to fifteen hundred per hour. See the work, as in our issue, and call or send a competent judge on Mondays or Wednesdays to see it in motion, if you wish to buy. We will entertain propositions from first-class manufacturers for exchange. Address

ROBT. J. HARP, Publisher.

Mr. E. E. F. Ross, our resident advertising agent, is now on a brief tour through the West and North, and we commend him to the attention of our patrons, and shall be thankful for courtesies extended to him. They are assured that Mr. Ross has no other business, but devotes his entire time to the paper, and is entitled to all the consideration of one of its business corps. Mr. Ross may be found at the Sherman House, No. 1 West Twenty-Sixth street, New York.

Our Agent for London and Liverpool.—Robert Babington, Esq., will represent the claims of the Christian Advocate during the season in London and Liverpool, and other parts of the United Kingdom.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

An Important Consideration.—Doctor Tutt's Liver Pills are Purely Vegetable, and are adapted to young and old, male and female, and may be taken at all times, without restraint of occupation, without change of living, without diet, and without the fear of taking cold, during all kinds of weather, and in all climates.

Dear Sir: You make two preparations which, it appears to me, are worthy of a more general acceptance than they have had as yet, probably because they have not been "puffed" in the newspapers. I allude to your Liver Pills and Aromatic Elixir of Cure of Caffeine. The former have been used in my own case—torpor of the liver—and in my family—with marked success, and I believe them superior in all billary derangements to any pills now made. The Caffeine is the only remedy that has, in my experience, proved effectual for nervous headaches. It never fails, and the relief it affords is delicious; for not only does the pain cease, but a pleasant exhilaration supervenes, and suffering is converted to pleasure. A vial of it is kept at home and one at my office, that I may never be without it in case of need.

Very truly yours, JOSEPH P. CARR, jy11 1t Attorney at Law.

Tutt's Hair Dye Requires but a few Minutes.

Undisputed Facts.—It has been truly and significantly said that domestic happiness is more dependent on good digestion than virtuous creeds or moral codes. If the dogma holds, the oracle can be consulted by a prompt application to Price, the Delphic author of the Celebrated Aromatic Stomach Bitters. Wherever, within the length and breadth of the land, Price's Bitters have penetrated, every household has been illumined by the sunshine of an unclouded joy, and every family reveled in the sweets of health and contentment. The sparkling eye, the ruddy cheek, the cheerful smile and happy glance, no less than the elastic step and the unfaltering tread, what are they but the eloquent stellliales of some vitalizing elixir? No secret Botany holds the charm, no scientific alchemy creates the spell. The days of miracles are gone; the magic, mysteriously working wonders have passed away, and the age is a plain, practical one; give us a simple tonic that, by a happy amalgamation, restores to energy and strength the enervated system. Take Price's Celebrated Aromatic Stomach Bitters, and you bid an eternal farewell to such unwelcome guests as dyspepsia, indigestion, nervousness, neuralgia, flatulency and debility.

James W. Price & Co., manufacturers and sole proprietors, Lock Box 166, New Orleans, Louisiana. Sold by druggists, grocers and dealers throughout the South. je27 1m

Best and Oldest Family Medicine.—Sanford's Liver Invigorator.—A purely Vegetable Cathartic and Tonic, for Dyspepsia, Constipation, Debility, Sick-headache, Bilious attacks, and all derangements of Liver, Stomach and Bowels. Ask your druggist for it. Beware of imitations. jal1 1ycow

Have your Printing and Binding Done at

THE PELICAN JOB OFFICE,

112 and 114 Poydras St., New Orleans.

jal8 1y

The Equitable Life Assurance Society, New York.

Assets, $18,000,000. Income, $8,000,000.
Branch office—33 Camp Street.

A. P. CLEVELAND,
fe8 1y General Agent.

Caution!—Every genuine box of Dr. McLane's Liver Pills bears the signature of Fleming Brothers, Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, and their private United States stamp. Take no other; the market is full of imitations.

It is the popular verdict that people who have been accustomed to the use of Bitters or Cordials are obliged eventually to resort to McLane's Liver Pills for permanent relief. ap25 6m

Charles H. Reed, Real Estate Broker, No. 87 St. Charles street, buys and sells all sorts of city and country property.—Mortgages made promptly. Various pretty Cottages in choice locations are offering on long terms. Has for sale the finest Building Sites in the city, and, being largely interested himself, can speak confidently on all matters pertaining to the sale, rental, appraisement and management of real estate.
op25 2m

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

MEMPHIS CONFERENCE FEMALE INSTITUTE

JACKSON, TENNESSEE.

REV. A. W. JONES, D. D., PRESIDENT.

This old and popular institution is most favorably located at the junction of the Mobile and Ohio and Mississippi Central railroads, in the healthy, intelligent, refined and religious community of Jackson, and furnishes all the advantages of a first-class Female College. The best professors and teachers employed. The discipline mild, firm and parental. The course of study thorough and extensive. The library large and valuable. The chemical and philosophical apparatus ample and appropriate. The buildings and grounds well arranged, commodious and beautiful. The conveniences and accommodations in all departments complete, excellent and satisfactory. The attention to the health, manners and comfort of pupils constant and faithful. For more than seventeen years no young lady has died within the walls of the Institute, while the cases of severe sickness have been few.

Fall session begins on the First Monday in September, and the opening address and concert on the following Tuesday evening. Spring session begins on the fourth Monday in January. Commencement day, the second Wednesday in June.

TUITION.

Collegiate department	$25 00
Music and use of piano	30 00
Latin and French, each	10 00
Board, washing, etc	90 00

Other charges moderate. Payments one-half in advance. For particulars address the president, or jy11 4m PROF. A. B. JONES, A. M.

T. W. HOUSE,

39 and 41 Main Street, Houston, Texas,

BANKER AND EXCHANGE DEALER.

Collections made and promptly remitted.
feb1 6m

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Wanted.—In Athens, Female Institute, Athens, Alabama, a good Music Teacher. I want a good vocalist, as well as good performer. I will give board and $500. Applicants must send good references or certificates of qualification.

J. M. WRIGHT,
jy11 2t Athens, Ala.

HOMEOPATHIC DOMESTIC MEDICINE.

By Laurie & McClatchey.—First American from the Twenty-first English edition. 1,037 Pages Octavo. Price, $5.

This is the most complete work on Domestic Practice in the English language. Twenty-one thousand copies of it are in circulation in England and in this country. Two full editions sold within less than twelve months.

A full set of Remedies (103 vials,) in a solid Mahogany case, will be furnished for $12. Book and case will be sent, carefully packed, to any address, on receipt of $17.

Address BOERICKE & TAFEL,
Homeopathic Pharmaceutist and Medical Publishing House,
145 Grand st., New York.
Established in 1835 jy11 3m

Do Not Storm the System, when disordered, with violent cathartics that rack and tear and weaken the unfortunate invalid, thereby assisting the complaint; whatever it may be, to prostrate the vitality which is the natural antagonist of disease. Tone the stomach, relieve the bowels, regulate the liver, and refresh the nerves with

Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient

when the first symptoms of illness are experienced. A more delightful effervescent draught is not to be found among our thirst-quenching summer beverages, and a more potent remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, nervous headache, colic and general debility does not exist. Sold by all druggists. jy11 2t

Wanted.—A Gentleman and his Wife (both graduates) desire to secure first-class positions in some Seminary or Academy. Would not object to the control of some large Public School. They have had years of professional experience, and understand the most approved methods of Normal School management. Testimonials and references furnished. Address TEACHERS Fort Calhoun, Washington county, Nebraska, until August 15. je27 6t

Agents Wanted.—Mark Twain's New Book is now ready. A companion to "Innocents Abroad." Don't work on books no one wants, but take one people will stop you in the streets to subscribe for. "There is a time to laugh," and all who read this book will see clearly that time has arrived. For best agents' goods in America, address GOODSPEED'S EMPIRE BOOK, MAP AND PICTURE HOUSE, 41 Natchez street, New Orleans. ap11 3m5d

For Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. Fine-Toned, Warranted, Low-Priced. Descriptive circular sent free.

BLYMER, NORTON & CO.,
661 to 671 W. Eighth st., Cincinnati, O.
Ja25 26ieow

Agents Wanted, everywhere, for

The Home of God's People.

The grandest and most successful new book out. It contains nearly 200 magnificent Engravings. $2,500 per annum can be made by any energetic male or female agent in taking orders for this valuable, fascinating and popular work. Our circulars (sent free) will convince you of this, give you our terms, full particulars, etc.

QUEEN CITY PUBLISHING CO.,
my30 3meow Cincinnati, Ohio.

History of the Great Reformation.

Now ready, complete in one volume, the People's Illustrated Edition of D'Aubigne's Great Work, of over 1,000 pages, with numerous engravings, and maps on steel and wood.

Agents Wanted.—Send $1.75 for outfit, and secure your choice of territory at once. Circulars, terms and advance sheets free.

WILLIAM FLINT & CO.,
my2 3meow Savannah, Ga.

STATE OF LOUISIANA,

PARISH OF ORLEANS,
CITY OF NEW ORLEANS.

BE IT KNOWN that on this twentieth day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, and of the Independence of the United States of America the ninety-sixth, before me, ANDREW HERO, JR., a Notary Public in and for the Parish of Orleans, State of Louisiana, duly commissioned and qualified, and in the presence of the witnesses hereinafter named and undersigned, personally came and appeared the several persons, residents of this city, whose names are hereto subscribed, who declared that, availing themselves of the provisions of the Statutes of Louisiana relative to the organization of CORPORATIONS in this State, they have covenanted and agreed, and do by these presents covenant and agree, and bind themselves, and those whom they represent, to form themselves into a corporation for the objects, and under the stipulations, regulations and obligations following, to wit:

ARTICLE FIRST.

The name and style of this corporation shall be THE CONSOLIDATED PORTABLE GAS-LIGHT COMPANY OF NEW ORLEANS.

ARTICLE SECOND.

The domicile of this Association shall be the city of New Orleans, in the State of Louisiana, and its object shall be the manufacture, sale and use of Carburetted Hydrogen Gas, and the manufacture and sale of Gas Machines; and the sale of the right to use said machines in the States of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Arkansas and Florida. The company shall also have power to purchase patent rights for the manufacture, use and sale of other gas machines than those now owned by them for the above-named States, or for any other States for which they may acquire patents.

ARTICLE THIRD.

The said corporation shall have and enjoy succession by its corporate name for the period of twenty five years; shall contract, sue and be sued. It shall hold, receive, purchase, sell and otherwise convey, as well as mortgage and hypothecate, under its corporate name, property, both real and personal, movable and immovable; shall name and appoint such managers, directors and officers as its interest or convenience may require; it shall make and establish such by-laws, rules and regulations for the proper management of its business and affairs as may be necessary and proper, and shall possess generally all such powers and privileges as are given by law to corporations. All legal processes shall be served on the president of the company. The company shall have a seal with such device as the Board of Directors may determine.

ARTICLE FOURTH.

The capital stock of this corporation shall be Fifty Thousand Dollars, divided into five hundred shares of One Hundred Dollars each, two hundred and thirty shares of which are to be declared full-paid and transferred to the present owners of the patent rights and franchises which are to form the basis of the operations of this Association; and are to be in full payment for the transfer to the company of all such rights and franchises. Ten per centum of all other stock subscribed shall be paid at the time of subscription; ten per centum more within thirty days; and ten per centum more within the next thirty days, making in all thirty per centum of subscription to the capital stock to be paid in cash within sixty days from date of subscription. The remainder may be called for by the Board of Directors in installments not to exceed ten per centum within any thirty consecutive days.

All installments called for shall be paid within ten days after the notice be given thereof, and any neglect or refusal to pay the same shall forfeit to the corporation the entire stock of such delinquent stockholder, together with the amount paid thereon and all accumulations, interest or benefit thereto belonging; provided, that the Board of Directors may extend said payments for a term not exceeding sixty days, upon the payment of interest thereon at the rate of eight per cent. per annum.

ARTICLE FIFTH.

The capital stock of this corporation may be increased to ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS, or any part thereof, whenever deemed necessary by the Board of Directors, and they shall have the right of fixing the time and manner of paying the same; provided, that subscriptions to any increase of the capital stock shall be open first for ten legal days to those already stockholders, pro rata, on the amount of stock owned by each, and if not all taken up, then secondly to the stockholders at will for three legal days, after which any remaining stock may be open for public subscription.

ARTICLE SIXTH.

Dividends may be declared by the Board of Directors, either annually, semi-annually or quarterly; provided, however, that where the amount of such dividend may exceed the rate of ten per cent. per annum on amount paid up on stock, all such excess of ten per cent. per annum shall be credited upon any unpaid balance of the subscribed stock, until such subscribed stock shall have been declared full-paid.

No certificate of stock shall be issued until the same shall have been declared by the Board of Directors fully paid up, and no transfer of less than one share of the capital stock shall be made on the books of the Association.

ARTICLE SEVENTH.

The powers of the corporation are vested in the Board of Directors, consisting of six stockholders, (three of whom shall form a quorum for the transaction of business,) who shall be elected annually on the second Tuesday in June, beginning with the second Tuesday in June, 1874, by the stockholders, at such place in the city of New Orleans as may be selected, after ten days' advertisement in one of the daily newspapers published in the city of New Orleans, or by special notice to each stockholder; said Directors to hold office for one year, or until their successors are elected. The fiscal year of the company shall end on the thirty-first of May of each year, and the newly-elected Board of Directors shall take their seats on the first Monday in July following.

Any stockholder shall be eligible as a Director who may own five shares of the stock of the Association, and who is not a delinquent subscriber to the stock of the company.

All elections of Directors shall be by ballot, and held under the superintendence of a committee of three stockholders, to be appointed by the Board of Directors. Every owner of stock shall be entitled to one vote for each share of stock owned by him, her or them; provided, that no one shall be entitled to vote on any share or shares that have not stood in his, her or their names on the books of the Association for sixty days prior to any such election; also, that no one shall be entitled to vote at any election of stockholders who has not paid up all the installments called for by the terms of the charter or by the Board of Directors.

Proxies may vote when the authority is in writing. A plurality of the votes cast shall be sufficient to elect.

ARTICLE EIGHTH.

No stockholder shall ever be held liable for the contracts or faults of this corporation in any further sum than the unpaid balance due to the Association on the shares owned by him; nor shall any mere informality in organization have the effect of rendering this Charter null, or of exposing a stockholder to any liability beyond the amount of his stock.

No transfer of any stock not full-paid shall be made without the consent of the Board of Directors.

ARTICLE NINTH.

Any modification, additions to, or any changes in this act of incorporation may be made or the corporation may be dissolved by two-thirds of the stock represented and voting at any meeting of stockholders called for that specific purpose; provided due notice shall have been given of such meeting as provided in Article Seventh.

ARTICLE TENTH.

At the expiration of the term of this act of incorporation, or at its earlier termination, as provided in the preceding article, the affairs of the Association shall be liquidated, its debts and all other liabilities paid, and the balance of its funds, if any, shall be divided pro rata among the stockholders; all to be done under the supervision of a Board of three Commissioners, to be appointed by the Board of Directors, who shall continue to act until the business of the Association shall be entirely closed and liquidated; and in the case of the death of either one or two of them, the survivor or survivors shall act.

ARTICLE ELEVENTH.

The Board of Directors shall elect annually, at their first meeting, a President and such other officers, clerks or agents as shall be necessary to carry on the operations and objects of the corporation for such time as they may choose; they shall fix the salaries of all officers and the amount of security to be required from each. The Board shall also have the power to fill vacancies caused by the death, resignation or insolvency of any of its members.

The following-named persons shall constitute the first Board of Directors, and they shall hold their seats until the first Monday in July, 1874, or until their successors shall have been elected and qualified in accordance with the provisions of this charter, viz.: John L. Dunnica, Fergus Hathorn, Robert M. Walmsley, Henry N. Sorla, John Lawrence Gubernator and Joseph Walker Chapuis.

THUS DONE AND PASSED, in my office, at New Orleans aforesaid, in the presence of George Cenas and Paul A. Conand, witnesses, both of this city, who hereunto sign their names with the parties and me, the said Notary, the day and date aforesaid.

Original signed: J. L. Gubernator, F. Hothorn, E. C. Palmer & Co., C. L. Walmsley & Co., and others.

Geo. Cenas.
P. A. Conand.

ANDREW HERO, Jr.,
Notary Public.

I, the undersigned Recorder of Mortgages, in and for the parish and city of New Orleans, State of Louisiana, hereby certify that the within act of incorporation was this day duly recorded in my office, in Society Book No. 8, Fo. 757.

New Orleans, June 22, 1872.

[Seal.] (Signed)
C. Darcantel, Deputy.

I certify the above and foregoing to be a true copy of the original act extant in my Current Register.

In faith whereof, I grant these presents under my signature and the impress of my seal of office.

New Orleans, June 22, 1872.

ANDREW HERO, Jr.,
je27 5t Notary Public.

The Child's Corner.

WHAT WAS IT?

BY REV. M. F. PECK.

You must confess
You cannot guess
What made me happy all the day,
Amid the sadness
Overshadowing every way;
It was but this—
But if I tell you will not guess.

"A drop of dew
Besought my view—
Its morning glory just begun—
A tearful globe
In rainbow robe
Sparkling its glory to the sun;
It was not this—
And if I tell you will not guess!

Came down to me
From every tree,
A very flood of melody—
Each bird-song note
From quivering throat
A scattered spray of ecstasy;
It was not this—
And if I tell you will not guess.

"You may not tell
What softly fell
Upon my lips, and soothed my fears,
And made me free,
And glad to be
"A pilgrim" in this "vale of tears;"
But it was this—
Ah! if I tell you will not guess.

To me more dear,
More full of cheer,
And purer than the dew may be—
An angel's prayer
To lighten care,
Far more than bird-song melody;
It was but this—
Yet if I tell you will not guess
The seal of innocence and bliss—
A Baby's Kiss! The Interior.

For the Advocate.

"Haste and Waste"

is a very good motto to have before one, and in many cases which occur daily "haste makes waste." For instance, sea captains often make terrible waste of life and property, as in the case of the steamship Arctic, which was sunken off the coast of Newfoundland and all lives lost by running full speed in a dense fog, which caused her to come in collision with another vessel. I have read of a splendid little steamer, whose owner was in such haste to try her that he would not wait until he could obtain a competent pilot, but insisted on trying to be his own pilot. The result was, he piloted her on some rocks, and she sunk in a few minutes, which caused a great waste of money, and very nearly of life. The evils of haste are sometimes seen in great battles, when the commanding officer is in such haste that he not only loses the battle, but many of his men. A good general will never be hasty, and by thinking carefully beforehand generally gains the battle. Getting up late in the morning is another instance where haste often makes waste. Whoever does so is obliged to hurry so fast that he gets flurried, and clothes get out of order, and everything goes wrong for the day. Men often do things in great haste which they would not think of doing when calm and collected. If everyone would only act calmly, and not do things from mere impulse, the world would be a great deal happier. God has given man his mind to think, and this shows that we should not act from mere impulse. A Boy of Twelve.

The Queen at the Paper Mill.

The Queen was riding out in her grand carriage, the horses tossing their plumes as if they felt themselves a little better than common horses, and the footmen all decked out in red, feeling that they had something royal about them. The Queen had always had everything she wanted, and so was quite miserable because she could not think of a want to supply, or a new place to visit.

At last she bethought her that they had just been building a new paper mill a few miles out of the city. Now, she had never seen a paper mill, and so she determined to stop a little way off, there leave her carriage, and walk in, not as a queen, but as an unknown, common lady. She went in alone and told the owner she would like to see his mill. He was in a great hurry, and did not know that she was the Queen. But he said to himself: "I can gratify the curiosity of this lady, and add to her knowledge; and though I am terribly hurried, yet I will do this kindness." He then showed her all the machinery, how they bleach the rags and make them white, how they grind them into pulp, how they make sheets, and smooth them and dry them, and make them beautiful. The Queen was astonished and delighted. She would now have something new to think about and talk about.

Just as she was about leaving the mill she came to a room filled with old worn-out, dirty rags. At the door of this room was a great multitude of poor, dirty men and women and children, bringing old bags on their backs filled with bits of rags and paper, parts of newspapers, and the like, all exceedingly filthy. These were rag-pickers, who had picked these old things out of the streets and gutters of the great city.

"What do you do with all these vile things?" said the Queen.

"Why, madam, I make paper out of them. To be sure, they are not very profitable stock, but I can use them, and it keeps these poor creatures in bread."

"But these rags! Why, sir, they are of all colors, and how do you make them white?"

"Oh! I have the power of taking out all the dirt and the old colors. You see that 'scarlet' and that 'crimson,' yet I can make even scarlet and crimson, the hardest colors, to remove and become white as snow."

"Wonderful, wonderful," said the Queen.

She then took her leave, but the polite owner of the mill insisted on walking, and seeing her safe in her carriage. When she got in and bowed to him with a smile, and he saw all the grand establishment, he knew it was the Queen.

"Well, well!" said he, "she has learned something, at any rate. I wish it may be a lesson in true religion."

A few days after the Queen found lying on her writing desk a pile of the most beautiful polished paper she had ever seen. On each sheet were the letters of her name and her own likeness. How she did admire it! She found, also, a note within, which she read. It ran thus:

"Will my Queen be pleased to accept a specimen of my paper, with the assurance that every sheet was manufactured out of the contents of those dirty bags which she saw on the backs of the poor rag pickers? All the filth and the colors are washed out, and I trust the result is such as even a queen may admire. Will the Queen also allow me to say that I have had many a good sermon preached to me in my mill? I can understand how our Lord Jesus Christ can take the poor heathen, the low, sinful creatures everywhere, viler than the rags, and wash them and make them clean; and how, 'though their sins be as scarlet, he can make them whiter than snow; and though they be red like crimson, he can make them as wool.' And I can see that he can write his own name on their foreheads, as the Queen will find her name on each sheet of paper; and I can see how, as these filthy rags may go into the palace and be ever admired, some poor, vile sinners may be washed in the blood of the Lamb, and be received into the palace of the great King in heaven."—Sunday School Times.

A Sabbath School Boy.

Our Thomas dropped a fine red apple out of the front window, which rolled very near the iron railing, between the grass-plat and the street. Thomas forgot to pick it up. Shortly after two boys came along.

"O, my!" cried one, "See that bouncing apple! Let's hook it out!"

The other boy nudged him, with a whisper: "O, don't; there's somebody looking." And on they went.

A little girl next passed. She spied the apple and stopped, looking very hard at it; then put her hands through the rails, and tried to reach it. Her fingers just touched it. She looked around; a man was coming down the street. The girl withdrew her hand and went away.

A ragged little fellow came by soon after. "That boy will grab the apple," I said to myself, peeping through the blinds. His bright eye at once caught sight of it, and he stopped. After looking at it a moment he ran across the street, and picked up a stick. He poked it through the rails, and drew the apple near enough to pick it up. Turning it over in his grim hands, I could not help seeing how he longed to eat it. Did he pocket it and run? No. He came up the steps and rang the door-bell. I went to the door.

"I found this big apple in your front garden," said the boy; "and I thought may be you had dropped it out, and didn't know it was there; so I picked it up and have brought it to you."

"Why did you not eat it?"

"Oh," said he, "it is not mine."

"It was almost in the street," said I, "where it would have been hard to find its owner."

"Almost is not quite," replied the boy; "which, Mr. Curtis says, makes all the difference in the world."

"Who is Mr. Curtis?"

"My Sabbath school teacher. He has explained the eighth commandment to me, and I know it; what is the use of knowing, unless you act upon it?" Here he handed me the apple.

"Will you accept the apple?" said I.

"I am glad you brought it in, for I like to know honest boys. What is your name?"

He told me. I need not tell you, however, only I think you will agree with me that he is the right sort of a Sabbath school scholar. He squares his conduct by the faithful Christian instruction which he gets there.

The Listener.

Two city boys lost their way in the woods, and late at night they took shelter in a solitary inn.

About midnight they awoke, and, sitting up in bed, heard some one talking in the next room.

The boys put their ears to the wainscot, and distinctly heard a voice say:

"Wife, get the big kettle ready tomorrow, for I mean to kill our young rogues out of the town."

The poor boys shuddered.

"Oh, dear, this inn-keeper is a cannibal!" they whispered softly to each other. "What shall we do?"

After a moment's thought they got out of bed and sprang out of the window, hoping to escape that way. But one of them hurt his foot so badly in jumping that he could go no further; and, besides, the great door of the yard was locked. So they crept into the pig-sty with the little pigs, and lay there trembling till morning.

In the morning came the inn keeper. He opened the sty door, sharpened a knife, and called out:

"Now, you little rascals, out with you; your last hour is come."

Both boys set up a cry of horror, and begged on their knees to be spared.

The man was surprised to find them in the pig-sty, and asked them why they thought him a murderer.

"Because we heard you say in the night that you would kill us in the morning."

Then the inn-keeper laughed and said: "Oh, you silly boys! I never meant you. I was talking of my little pigs, whom, in joke, I always call my little rogues out of the town, because I bought them in the town. But so it always is with listeners; as the rhyme goes:

"'Put your ear on the door or wall,
You will hear no good at all.'"
From the German.

Who taught the parrot his "Welcome?" Who taught the raven in a drought to throw pebbles into a hollow tree, when she espied water, that it might rise so as she might come to it? Who taught the bee to sail through such a vast sea of air, and to find the way from a flower in the field to her hive? Who taught the ant to bite every grain of corn that she buriеth in her hill, lest it should take root and grow? Bacon.

The Farm and Garden.

The Garden.

Toward the last of this month begin to prepare for our "second spring," which comes generally in August. The remains of all early vegetables, etc., must be cleaned away; the ground must be heavily manured, deeply spaded or plowed, and raked as "fine as meal," if you desire to secure a really good fall and winter garden. Procure a supply of fresh garden seeds from some trustworthy source, and do not sow or plant anything but the best. Sow ruta baga turnips, in the garden, from the middle to the last of this month, preparing as above directed, and manuring generously in the drill. If you have not already a full supply of plants, sow cabbage, broccoli and celery seeds, slightly shading from the hot sun. Sow endive, lettuce and radishes; and, in showery weather, a few kidney beans, giving them a little shade and water. If the season is favorable about the last part of the month, transplant cabbages, cauliflowers, broccoli, celery, tomatoes, leeks, shallots, etc. A few Irish potatoes may also be planted, as also melons for mango pickles; cucumbers for late pickling; sugar corn for late roasting-ears, etc. Tomatoes, widely apart, (not transplanted,) and trained upon a rough trellis, will often continue bearing until frost, and a late crop may also be produced by setting out strong cuttings of the vines.

During this hot and sultry month all seeds are best sown in the cool of the evening; and it will be found highly advantageous to mulch the seed-rows and young tender plants, and to water with weak liquid manure immediately before or after a shower.—Our Home Journal.

Planting Apple Trees.

Two-year-old trees are generally the best, having not only better roots, but more roots, and less liable to be injured by transplanting. They are also more fibrous, and accommodate themselves more quickly to a change of position. A horticulturist, arguing in favor of this point, says:

"As a tree advances in age it sheds many of its fibrous roots near the tree, hence it will require a longer time for a few large and naked roots to draw nourishment for the wants of a newly-planted tree than it would for a great number of little ones. Another reason why the small trees ought to be preferred is, you lose no time in getting your tree started in proper form. Such trees may be branched low or high, as desired, with a certainty of obtaining branches for the future head where they may be desired. I further object to older trees because of their bad shape, resulting from being so crowded in the nursery—that they are often fan-shaped—that all the branches are on two sides. Still another point I would make is, those who go to the nursery and give their personal attention to selecting two-year-old trees get the thriftiest and nicest in the nursery, which is certainly much better than to take the chance of having the trees taken haphazard, and perhaps taken up and left lying in piles until nearly deprived of vitality before they are packed."

Foxes as Sheep-Herders.

The Stockton (California) Republican vouches for the following story: "People often wonder at the remarkable instinct displayed by well-trained shepherd dogs, but what will they say when we tell them of a band of sheep that is guarded by foxes alone. The story seems improbable, but of its truth we have the most undoubted proof. On Whisky hill, four miles from Milton, may be seen, almost any day, a large flock of sheep herded by foxes. These guardians of the little lambs are three in number—one a gray fox and the other two of the species known as the red fox. In point of intelligence these novel shepherds are said to greatly surpass the best trained shepherd dogs. They perform their work well, and from morning till night are ever on the alert. The gray one seems to control, and in a great measure direct, the actions of the other two. A gentleman informs us that he yesterday saw the gray fox pursue and attack a hog that had seized a lamb and was making off with it. The contest was short and sharp, and resulted in the hog dropping the lamb and beating a hasty retreat. The fox picked up the apparently uninjured lamb and carried it back to the flock."

PRESERVING MILK.—In warm climates, and indeed wherever ice is scarce, the question of preserving milk is one of great interest to every housekeeper. The Southern Farmer says that a teaspoonful of fine salt or of horseradish in a pan of milk will keep it sweet for several days. Milk can be kept a year or more, as sweet as when taken from the cow, by the following method: Procure bottles, and as they are filled, immediately cork them well and fasten the cork with pack-thread or wire. Then spread a little straw at the bottom of a boiler, on which place the bottles, with straw between them, until the boiler contains a sufficient quantity. Fill up with cold water, and as soon as it begins to boil draw the fire and let the whole gradually cool. When quite cold, take out the bottles and pack them in sawdust, in hampers, and stow them away in the coolest part of the house.

MANURE is rarely made as fine as it should be in order to get out its fertilizing powers. If applied in a course condition, only a very small portion of the soil is affected by it, because it does not come in contact with it. If it were as fine as powder, spread over the land and minutely worked into it, much more effectual results would follow.

THE Canada Farmer mentions $700 as having been realized by a person near Chatham, as the proceeds of hay and clover seed, raised from fourteen acres of land, or $50 per acre.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ARE YOU GOING EAST OR NORTH?

Take the Iron Mountain, and Chicago and Alton Railroads,

THE ONLY ALL-RAIL ROUTE FROM all points South to

CHICAGO.

The only line running the Pullman Palace Cars from all points South to St. Louis and Chicago.

Passengers by this line arrive in Chicago one hour in advance of all competing lines, and avoid 25 miles of steamboat transfer, and the annoying changes of cars incident to other lines. For all points in the Northwest, St. Paul, Milwaukee, or all points in the Canadas, New York, Boston and all Eastern cities, this is the pleasantest and most direct route. Parties going East via this line can lay over in Chicago and visit the Burnt District, and resume their trip at their leisure. Fare as low as by all other routes. Tickets to be had at all ticket offices in the South.

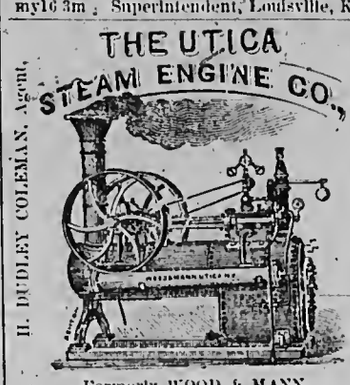
W. R. ALLEN,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent,
Iron Mountain Line, St. Louis.
JAMES CHARLTON,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent,
Chicago and Alton Line, Chicago.
D. A. FREEH,
my30 4m Southern Traveling Agent.

LOUISVILLE AND CINCINNATI SHORT-LINE R. R. connections are 5½ hours QUICKER to Eastern cities than any other Rail Line from Louisville, and 19 hours in advance of the River route. This is the only line making Baltimore in 26 hours, Philadelphia in 27 hours, Washington in 27 hours, New York in 30½ hours, Boston in 35 hours.

	Leave.	Arrive.
Southern Fast Line, daily, except Sunday	7.50 A.M.	8.85 P.M.
Cincinnati Express, daily	3.55 P.M.	12.40 P.M.
Cincinnati Night Express, daily, except Saturday	10.40 P.M.	5.00 A.M.
Lexington Mail, daily, except Sunday	6.00 A.M.	6.35 P.M.
Lexington Express, daily, except Sunday	2.30 P.M.	10.30 A.M.
Frankfort Accommoda'n, daily, except Sunday	4.55 P.M.	8.15 A.M.
Shelbyville Accommod'n, daily, except Sunday	3.55 P.M.	10.30 A.M.

Sleeping car on 10.40 P. M. Round-trip tickets to Cincinnati and Covington at reduced rates. Ticket Offices—Depot, Third and Main streets, Galt House, Louisville Hotel and Willard Hotel. Telegrams to secure sleeping car berths to Eastern cities will be sent free.

S. S. PARKER,
General Passenger and Ticket Agent.
J. E. GUNPERLING,
my16 3m Superintendent, Louisville, Ky.



Formerly WOOD & MANN.

These Engines are so well and favorably known that a description of them here is not deemed necessary.

They are EQUALED by FEW, SURPASSED by NONE, perfect in workmanship, complete in appointments, safe, simple and substantial. Every boiler is practically tested before leaving the factory. By the use of a CIRCULATING WATER BOTTOM around and underneath the furnace, which lessens the

RISK FROM FIRE,

they are particularly adapted for GINNING COTTON. Engines of all sizes, at prices which challenge comparison for equal size of steam cylinder and measurements of boiler. A full stock of these Engines will be kept constantly on hand by the undersigned, who has been appointed general agent.

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN,
No. 9 Union street.
mh21 6m New Orleans, La.

CRESCENT MUTUAL

INSURANCE COMPANY.

TWENTY-THIRD ANNUAL STATEMENT.

NEW ORLEANS, May 18, 1872.

The Trustees, in conformity to the charter, submit the following statement of the affairs of the company on the thirtieth of April, 1872:

Fire premiums for the year	$104,069 44
Marine premiums for the year	61,350 64
River premiums for the year	183,299 36
Total	$438,718 44
Earned premiums, less reinsurance and return premiums	358,153 65
Net profits	79,823 81

The company has assets to the amount of $732,129.49.

The Board of Trustees resolved to pay interest at SIX PER CENT. CASH on all the outstanding CERTIFICATES OF SCRIP, to the legal holders thereof, on and after the second Monday in June next.

They have also declared a SCRIP DIVIDEND OF THIRTY-THREE AND ONE-THIRD PER CENT. on the earned premiums entitled to participate for the year ending April 30, 1872, for which certificates will be issued on and after the first Monday in August next, free of government tax.

THOMAS A. ADAMS, President.
HENRY V. OGDEN, Secretary.

TRUSTEES.

Samuel H. Kennedy.	John Phelps.
C. T. Buddecke.	P. H. Foley.
A. G. Ober.	A. Thomson.
E. H. Summers.	B. Newgass.
P. N. Strong.	Victor Meyer.
Joseph Bowling.	E. J. Gay.

je20 6t S. B. Newman.

MILLER'S

Bible and Publishing House.

NEW ILLUSTRATED FAMILY BIBLE.

The Cheapest and Best Bible published. LARGE PRINT, Beautiful Bindings, more than two hundred Engravings.

THE CHRISTIAN HARMONY,

a new and choice collection of Sacred Music, based on system of seven-shaped character notes. Any one can learn to read music, and sing in one-fourth the time required by the old methods. Address

Miller's Bible and Publishing House,
1102 and 1104 Sansom street,
je27 6m Philadelphia, Penn'a.

OCEAN SPRINGS.

Summer Resort.—Board at the Seaside.

THE SUBSCRIBER has taken the MORRIS HOUSE, at Ocean Springs, which has just undergone a thorough repair, and will be open to boarders who wish to enjoy a pleasant home, good bathing, fresh sea air, and luxuriate on fish and oysters during the heat of summer.

Terms for board: $10 per month, $10 per week, and $2 per day. Apply to the subscriber by mail, at Ocean Springs.

Refer to Bishop Keener, Rev. Robert J. Harp, J. L. Dunnica & Co., and Samuel Russ, Esq., New Orleans.

WM. C. CHAMBERLIN.
APRIL 20, 1872. ap25 tf

HARDWARE, STOVES, ETC.

KURSHEEDT & BIENVENU,

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

Plantation and Builders' Hardware,

MARBLE, MARBLEIZED SLATE

AND IRON MANTLES,

Grates, Hearths and Fire Bricks,

NO. 114 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

my2 1y

THE UNRIVALED

BUCK'S BRILLIANT STOVE.

Every Brilliant is Fully Guaranteed.

H. HALLER,
No. 49 Camp street, New Orleans,
Sole Agent for Louisiana.

Sole Agent for the

CELEBRATED RINGEN WASHER,

In the States of Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi. oct19 1y

G. W. W. GOODWYN,
No. 52 Gravier Street,
DEALER IN

Stoves and Tinware of All Kinds.

While he is prepared to furnish, at the lowest rates, Cooking and Heating Stoves of all the various styles and patterns sold in this market, he makes a specialty of the following, to wit:

Cottage, Cricket, The Best, Relief, Gray Jacket, and Diadem.

These Stoves are sold under a guarantee, and may be returned if they do not perform well.

NOTE BY P. M. GOODWYN.—Lack of health has obliged me for a time to give up my regular calling—that of the ministry. In the meanwhile, in order to do what I can for a support, I have engaged as an assistant in my brother's establishment, as above advertised. And I take this method of soliciting from among the readers of the ADVOCATE—many of whom are my personal acquaintances and friends—a share of their patronage whenever they may have need of anything in the above line. Orders sent through their merchants, or to either of us direct, will receive prompt attention. mh7 6m

GROCERIES—GLASSWARE.

PURE LOUISIANA

SUGAR, MOLASSES AND SIRUPS.

REFINED SUGAR.—Cut Loaf, Crushed and Powdered.

A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

GOLDEN SIRUP.—A superior article of pure Louisiana, from the Crescent City Refinery.

A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

REFINED SIRUP AND MOLASSES.—Crescent City Refinery, Orleans, Louisiana, Chalmette and Pelican brands.

A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

LOUISIANA MOLASSES.—Various grades of Plantation, in barrels, half barrels and kegs.

A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

CLARIFIED SUGAR.—Various grades of White and Yellow, in hogsheads and barrels.

A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

LOUISIANA SUGAR.—Various grades of Plantation, in hogsheads and barrels.

A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

FOREIGN SUGAR.—Cuba, Demerara and Porto Rico, in hogsheads and boxes.

A. THOMSON & CO.,
my9 6m 48 Tchoupitoulas street.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,

—IMPORTERS OF—

CHINA, CROCKERY AND GLASS,

55.....CAMP STREET.....55

New Orleans.

Country dealers supplied with ASSORTED CRATES or from SHELF upon the most favorable terms.

Contents of our English Iron Stone China Dinner Set, No. 1:

12 Dinner Plates,	1 Round Soup Tureen,
12 Breakfast Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Tea Plates,	1 Salad,
12 Soup Plates,	1 Pair Covered Dishes,
12 Preserve Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Pickle Dishes,
12 Tea cups and saucers	4 Meat Dishes.

112 pieces best English Ware..... $15

Our Stone China Dinner and Tea Set, No. 2, contains

158 pieces..... $25

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 1, contains

12 Dinner Plates,	4 Meat Dishes,
12 Breakfast Plates,	1 Soup Tureen, round,
12 Tea Plates,	2 Covered Dishes, oval
12 Soup Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Preserve Plates,	1 Salad,
12 Tea cups and saucers	2 Pickles,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes.

112 pieces best French Ware..... $30

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 2, contains

160 pieces..... $45

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 3, contains

255 pieces..... $65

A large variety of the best SELF-SEALING FRUIT JARS always on hand.

Sole agents for the celebrated BLANCHARD CHURN. The best churn made.

The most complete stock of HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS in the South.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,
ap1 6m No. 55 Camp st., New Orleans.

New Orleans Savings Institution,

187 CANAL STREET.

Incorporated March 15, 1855.

OFFICERS.

L. F. GENERES, President.
THOS. A. ADAMS, first Vice President.
THOS. ALLEN CLARKE, second Vice President.
CHARLES J. LEEDS, third Vice President.
SAM. JONES, Jr., Treasurer.

DIRECTORS.

Dr. W. Newton Mercer.

L. F. Generes.	David Urquhart.
George Jonas.	John G. Gaines.
Thos. A. Adams.	Carl Kohn.
Thos. Allen Clarke.	Christian Schneider.
Charles J. Leeds.	Samuel Jamison.

Six per cent. interest on deposits.
my30 3m

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

EMORY AND HENRY COLLEGE,

VIRGINIA.

THE FALL SESSION of this institution begins on the FIFTEENTH OF AUGUST next. One Hundred and Fifteen Dollars will pay all the necessary expenses of a five-month session, including board, tuition, fuel, room-rent, washing and contingent fees. Payments are required in advance, except for board, which is $13 per month, and payable monthly in advance. If you will consult the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and her ministers generally, our alumni and students, or the professors of the University of Virginia, who have authorized this reference, you will be assured that we are offering excellent opportunities for a thorough collegiate training, surrounded by healthful, moral, religious influences. If you desire a catalogue, or any additional information, address

E. E. WILEY, President,
je20 4m Emory P. O., Virginia.

GREEN FARM HIGH SCHOOL,

NEAR BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

REV. F. M. GRACE, PROPRIETOR.

THE FIRST SESSION of this School will begin on the FIRST MONDAY IN AUGUST, 1872, and will continue forty weeks, with a recess of one week at Christmas. The cost of board and tuition will be $20 per month, or $200 per annum. The course of study will embrace all branches usually taught in schools and colleges, and will be adapted to the end the student has in view.

The school is private property, but will be conducted in the interest of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

The buildings and grounds are ample for a private boarding school, and are located in a most beautiful and healthful situation. Boys will be treated with paternal kindness, and the younger pupils will receive especial attention. On Saturday before the opening of the session the proprietor will meet his pupils at Birmingham with private conveyance to the school.

Correspondence is solicited, and circulars will be sent on application to the President at Birmingham, Alabama. For references he respectfully gives his former pupils in the Southern States. je13 2m

HOMER COLLEGE.

THE EXERCISES OF THE TWELFTH scholastic year of Homer College, begin on the first Tuesday in September, 1871. The term is divided into a short Fall Session and a long Spring Session, with a Christmas Vacation of two weeks.

FACULTY:

Rev. J. E. COBB, President and Professor of Mental, Moral and Commercial Science.
J. W. NICHOLSON, A. M., Professor of Pure and Mixed Mathematics.
A. C. CALHOUN, A. B., Professor of Languages.
E. M. COHRY, A. B., Tutor in Physical Science.

TERMS—IN ADVANCE:

Tuition for Fall Session..... $16 and $20 00
Tuition for Spring Session ... 24 and $30 00
Incidental fee (per session)..... 1 50
Board (per month)..... 15 00

Students admitted at any time in classes already formed, and charged until the end of the session.

A course of study as full and thorough as that of any college in the land, an ample corps of instructors, a complete library and apparatus, recently purchased and adapted to the present demands of science and learning, the sure prospect of a permanent endowment, now in progress, an eminently healthful location, a surrounding community intelligent and refined, invite the patronage of the Southwest to Homer College.

For further particulars, address,

REV. J. E. COBB,
President Homer College, La.
W. F. MORELAND,
se21 1f President Board of Trustees.

CENTENARY COLLEGE

OF LOUISIANA.

THE SESSION OF THIS COLLEGE WILL begin on the FIRST MONDAY in October next. The session embraces forty weeks.

EXPENSES.

Collegiate department, per session... $60 00
Preparatory department, per session. 40 00
Incidental expenses..... 5 00

Tuition for five months payable in advance.

Boarding can be had in good families at from $15 to $20 per month.

For further particulars address

PROF. A. R. HOLCOMBE,
se10 1y Jackson, La.

WATCHES, JEWELRY, ETC.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,

CANAL ST., COR. ROYAL, NEW ORLEANS,

IMPORTERS OF

WATCHES, JEWELRY, CLOCKS,

PLATED WARE, HOUSEKEEPING GOODS,

Cutlery, Guns, Pistols, Bronzes, Porcelain and Fancy Goods.

MANUFACTURERS OF

PURE COIN SILVERWARE.

Watches and Jewelry carefully repaired. Every article sold fully guaranteed.

no23 1y

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

G. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER. E. T. MERRICK, Former Ch. Jus. La.

RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,

Attorneys, Counselors and Solicitors.

Cor. of Camp street and Commercial Place,
se25 NEW ORLEANS.

W. W. EDWARDS,

COUNSELOR AT LAW

AND

COMMISSIONER OF DEEDS,

No. 88 Common street,
se14 1y New Orleans.

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,

DENTAL SURGEON,

152.....JULIA STREET.....152

All operations in Operative, Mechanical and Surgical Dentistry carefully performed. Nitrous Oxide and other Anæsthetics administered. no30 1y

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,

Office—680 Magazine Street,

Between Philip and First sts., New Orleans.

Will call daily at College building, corner Common and Baronne streets, between eleven and twelve o'clock. je29 1y

Carpet and Oil Cloth Warehouse.

J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.

ELKIN & CO.,

168.....CANAL STREET.....168

Near Baronne, New Orleans,

IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF ENGLISH CARPETINGS, RUGS, Etc.

—ALSO—

Oil Cloths, Mattings,
Lace and Damask Curtains,
Window Shades, etc.,

—AND A—

Complete Assortment of Upholstery Goods.
fe8 1y

EXCHANGE HOTEL,

JOHN SUMMERS, PROPRIETOR,

GALVESTON, TEXAS.

☞ This is the only Hotel in the city which has FREE OMNIBUSES to and from the cars and boats for the use of guests. Ask for Exchange Hotel Omnibus. feb1 1y

Scientific.

ONE OF THE MOST WONDERFUL BOOKS ever written, says the Independent, has lately made its appearance in the Illustrated Library of Wonders, entitled "The Wonders of Vegetation," which certainly lontdoes nature in her most wouderful efforts. It is thus introduced:

"The zealous student who wishes to fathom all the mysteries of botany must needs have scientific handbooks, drawn up with careful regard to perfect accuracy, and containing in systematic order the outlines of his science."

Accordingly, opening the book at random, we fall upon a marvelous account of the growth and flowering of the bamboo:

"The young shoots, in bunches at the roots of the bamboos—the product of the underground germ—grow with such amazing rapidity that they may be literally said to be seen growing. In one day they attain the height of several feet, and with the microscope their development can be easily watched. But the most remarkable feature about the bamboo is their blossoming. With all this marvelous rapidity of growth, they bloom only twice in a century, the flower appearing at the end of fifty years."

The Baobab is thus described:

"This plant of monstrous size, the most colossal and the most ancient vegetable monument on earth, has round, woolly leaves and magnificent white flowers. It is an enormous tree, holding among plants the place that the elephant holds among animals—a hoary witness of the last changes that the earth has undergone, and of deluges that have buried beneath their waves the productions of early ages."

Our Bayberry, Myrica cerifera, is put down as belonging to Louisiana, and described as "rising at times to the height of twelve feet," while a variety is said to be "found in the Middle States—Myrica Pennsylvanica, Carolinensis—which does not grow above five feet high."

The night-blooming Cereus comes in for the following:

"The flowers of the night-blooming cacti have everywhere been regarded as symbolical. The Cereus obtained its name from the torches with which Ceres is said to have searched for Proserpine."

The word means waxen.

In Eastern Africa, we are told:

"Here especially the Asclepias gigantea is found growing—a prickly acacia, (!) covered with a number of exuberant lianes."

Our afternoon-closing water-lily is set down as a sort of floral sundial:

"The flowers of the Nymphæa close and sink into the water precisely at sunset. They rise again to the surface and expand as soon as the sun reappears."

One who had given himself up to the study of nature and plants is thus quoted:

"I had kept two specimens of Yucca filamintosa (sic.) during six or seven years without their ever having come to flower. The most favored of the two waited for his companion, and both of them bloomed together just at the time of the full moon. This coincidence struck me at first as uncommon; but when I saw the flowers by the clear light of the moon, I comprehended it. This plant is created for the moon, as the heliotrope is for the sun. It is not acted on by any other influences, and does not unfold its beauties by any other light. The first night that I saw it in flower I felt a special delight, I might even say ecstasy. I gazed at my beautiful plant until my emotion became so strong that I restrained it with difficulty. Then a thought filled my soul. It was that this flower of the moon was the most perfect symbol of beauty and of the purity of woman."

We cannot resist the temptation to produce just one more extract relating to the well-known tape-grass of our streams, and presenting a slight variation from ordinary. French descriptions of Les noces de Vallisneria spiralis:

"The rivers of southern Europe are adorned with numerous specimens of this remarkable plant, which was long looked upon as one of the most extraordinary in the kingdom of Flora, on account of the marvelous phenomena which it presents at the time of flowering. The female flowers appear floating on the surface, as if in anxious expectation of others which they are to fertilize. As if in obedience to their call, the male flowers, borne upon a long spiral stem, gradually rise from the bottom of the pond, unrolling the long flower-stalk, turn after turn, till they also reach the surface. Here they meet the first comers; they touch, and immediately begin to retreat once more to their dark homes beneath the waters, where they ripen their seed and provide for new generations.

IN ALL EVILS which admit a remedy, impatience should be avoided, because it wastes that time and attention in complaints which, if properly applied, would remove the cause.

COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

PRICE, HINE & TUPPER,
General Commission Merchants,
FACTORS, AND
Agents of Attakapas Mail Transportation Co.,
NO. 36 CARONDELET STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Advances made on consignments to T. Tupper & Sons, Charleston, S. C.; Williams, Ilraie & Co., and Leverich & Co., New York. no2 1y

W. H. SUTTON. J. H. POWELL.
SUTTON & POWELL,
COTTON FACTORS
AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
186.....COMMON STREET.....186
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
se21 1y

H. F. GIVEN. LUCIEN J. DOIZE.
H. F. GIVEN & CO.,
COTTON, TOBACCO AND SUGAR FACTORS,
—AND—
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 64 Baronne street, New Orleans.
oc5 1y

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.
AIKEN & WATT,
Cotton Factors and Commission Merchants,
60.....CARONDELET STREET.....60
NEW ORLEANS.
Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. no2 1y

J. L. DUNNICA, New Orleans. T. A. HAMILTON, Memphis.
G. P. HARRISON, New Orleans.
J. L. DUNNICA & CO.,
FLOUR, PRODUCE AND PROVISION
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
50.....TCHOUPITOULAS ST.....50
NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA.
oc22 1y

J. C. PAYNE. W. H. DAMERON. H. M. PAYNE
PAYNE, DAMERON & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
64 & 66....BARONNE STREET....64 & 66
Between Union and Gravier streets,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
je19 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,
Cotton Factors and General Commission Merchants,
31.....PERDIDO STREET.....31
NEW ORLEANS.
oc3 1y

BUSINESS CARDS.

YUT, SING & CO.,
Agents for Fook, Hang & Co., and Tong, Wo & Co., of San Francisco, DIRECT IMPORTERS (VIA SAN FRANCISCO) OF
CHINA AND JAPAN TEAS,
Silks, Lacquer Ware and Fancy Goods, and Dealers in Provisions,
No. 40 Royal Street, New Orleans, La.
je6 2m

W. F. CLARK, successor to A. Loez,
134 Rampart street,
Bet. Toulouse and St. Peter sts., New Orleans,
Manufacturer of Carriages and Buggies.
Also carriages repaired and put in as good order as in any part of the country. First premiums awarded at the last Fair for best Victoria or Calnchette built anywhere.
my16 2m

MARBLE AND GRANITE WORKS.
GEORGE STROUD,
Late of and successor to John Stroud & Co., (established in 1830,)
158, 160, 162 and 164 St. Charles st.,
Cor. Girod street, New Orleans.
Every description of MONUMENTAL, CEMETERY and BUILDING WORK done in the best manner. Particular attention given to all country orders.
A long experience in and an aptness at the business enables the proprietor to meet the views and ideas of his country friends by letter as well as by a visit to the city.
Designs and Sketches furnished on application. ap25 3m

JAMES M'CRACKEN. GEO. E. BREWSTER.
McCRACKEN & BREWSTER,
DEALERS IN FURNITURE,
Nos. 37, 39 and 41 Royal street.
Manufactory, corner Derbigny and Customhouse streets, New Orleans. my9 6m

CHARLES HALLEJO,
FAMILY GROCER,
St. Charles, corner of Jackson street,
my9 3m New Orleans, La.

GEORGE CRONAN,
(SUCCESSOR TO BENNETT & LURGES,)
SOUTHERN ORNAMENTAL IRON WORKS
Corner Magnolia and Erato Sts.,
Near Jackson Railroad Depot,
my9 3m NEW ORLEANS.

GEORGE JOHN WAGNER,
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF
BOOTS, SHOES AND BROGANS,
Corner of Ursulines and Dauphine Sts.,
(SIGN OF THE RED BOOT.)
NEW ORLEANS.
Every description of articles in the Boot and Shoe line, for Ladies', Gentlemen's and Children's wear, constantly on hand, and offered at the LOWEST PRICES. ap25 3m

T. H. McMAHAN & CO.,
BANKERS,
And Dealers in Foreign and Domestic Exchange,
GALVESTON, TEXAS.
We have prompt and reliable correspondents at all the principal points throughout this State, and upon all collections payable in this city or Houston make no charge for collecting, and only actual charge upon interior collections.
Immediate and prompt attention given to all business intrusted to us. feb1 1y

JOHN L. ADAMS & CO., (JOHN L. ADAMS, JAY L. ADAMS, GEO. W. WEST, WM. H. RENAUD.)
WHOLESALE GROCERS,
AND DEALERS IN
PROVISIONS, LARD, OILS, ETC., ETC.,
43, 45 and 47 Peters street,
(Formerly New Levee.)
mh21 1y NEW ORLEANS.

G. CASANAVE,
UNDERTAKER.
NO. 39 MARAIS STREET, between Customhouse and Bienville, and
No. 88 Bourbon street, near St. Louis,
NEW ORLEANS.
Orders received for Embalming. ap11 3m

RICHARD HRODERICK,
CISTERN MAKER,
132.....Julia street.....132
Bet. Camp and Magazine, New Orleans.
Second-hand Cisterns always on hand. All work guaranteed.
All orders left at Box 30, Mechanics' and Dealers' Exchange, will meet with prompt attention. my2 1y

BUSINESS CARDS.

C. HUCHEZ,
FAMILY GROCER,
NOS. 95 AND 97 CAMP STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Supplies carefully put up for families moving over the Lake. my30 3m

Carpet Warehouse—17 Chartres Street.
A. BROUSSEAU & CO.,
Importers and dealers, at Wholesale and Retail, in English and American Carpetings,
Floor Oil Cloths, Table and Enameled Oil Cloths,
Window Shades, Table and Piano Covers,
Crumb Cloths, in squares or pieces,
Curtain and Furniture Materials,
Brocatelles, Cotelenes, Terries, Reps, Lace and Nottingham Lace Curtains, Haircloth Ticking, Springs, Burlaps, Stop Covers, etc.
no23 1y A. BROUSSEAU & CO.

THE MITCHELL & RAMMELSBERG
FURNITURE COMPANY,
Manufacturers and dealers in all kinds of
Furniture, Mattresses, Looking Glasses,
ETC., ETC.,
101 and 103 Camp street, cor. Poydras,
Moresque Building, New Orleans,
have the largest and best assortment of FURNITURE of any house in the city.
Please give us a call before purchasing elsewhere. my23 1y

LOUISIANA STEAM
SASH, BLIND AND DOOR FACTORY,
ROBERTS & CO., PROPRIETORS,
301, 303, 305 and 307 Gravier Street,
NEW ORLEANS. my30 1y

JOHN LAZARUS,
PRACTICAL OPTICIAN,
6.....ST. CHARLES ST.....6
Near Canal, New Orleans.
Sole Agent for the celebrated Pantascopic Star Spectacles and Eye Glasses. mr21 6m

C. SAMPSON. F. G. SAMPSON.
SAMPSON BROTHERS,
(Late C. C. Sampson,)
FURNITURE,
33 & 35.....ROYAL STREET.....33 & 35
NEW ORLEANS.
Established in 1813. ja11 1y

E. HEATH. M. LARA. J. P. HEATH.
HEATH, LARA & HEATH,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
UPHOLSTERERS' MATERIALS,
WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES,
CORNICES AND CURTAIN GOODS,
Pictures, Frames, Moldings, Looking Glasses and Clocks,
NO. 99 CAMP STREET,
no16 1y NEW ORLEANS.

J. THOMSON. G. THOMSON. W. B. THOMSON.
J. THOMSON & BROS.,

Manufacturers of
Carriages, Barouches, Buggies, Phaetons,
SPRING WAGONS, ETC.
68 and 70 Rampart Street,
Bet. Common and Gravier, New Orleans, La.
Repairing done in all its branches. no30 1y

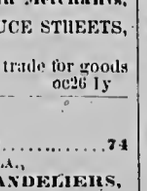
ELON G. SMITH. J. L. CHEATHAM. J. W. BRAUGHON.
SMITH, CHEATHAM & CO.,
(SUCCESSORS TO ELON G. SMITH & CO.)
PORK PACKERS,
Provision and Commission Merchants,
CORNER THIRD AND SPRUCE STREETS,
SAINT LOUIS.
We solicit orders from the trade for goods in our line. oc26 1y

HILL & VEAZIE,
71.....Camp street.....74
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
LAMPS AND OILS, CHANDELIERS,
Globes, Chimneys, Shades, Trimmers, Wicks, Cans, Fillers, etc.
PRATTS' ASTRAL OIL, non-explosive and non-inflammable. ja18 1y

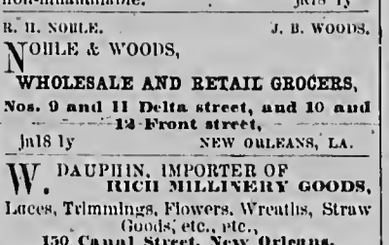
R. H. NOBLE. J. B. WOODS.
NOBLE & WOODS,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS,
Nos. 9 and 11 Delta street, and 10 and 12 Front street,
ja18 1y NEW ORLEANS, LA.

W. DAUPHIN, IMPORTER OF
RICH MILLINERY GOODS,
Laces, Trimmings, Flowers, Wreaths, Straw Goods, etc., etc.,
150 Canal Street, New Orleans.
Manufacturer of Pattern Hats, Cloaks, Mantillas, Berthas and Dresses of all kinds, and especially Bridal Outfits and Children's Trousseaus. no23 1y

T. W. HOUSE,
39 and 41 Main Street, Houston, Texas,
BANKER AND EXCHANGE DEALER.
Collections made and promptly remitted. feb1 6m

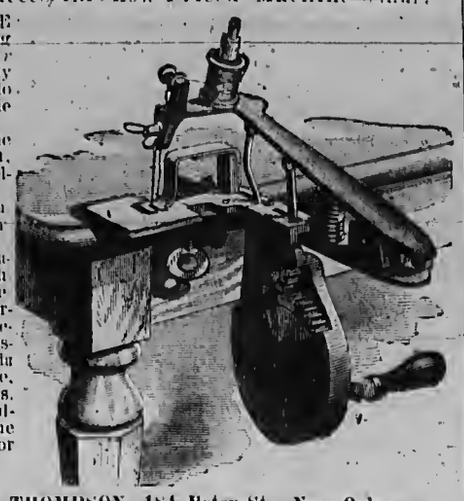
WATER
The Records of Tests
AT LOWELL, MASS., PROVE
N. F. BURNHAM'S
New Turbine


superior to all others. It gave a higher percentage than any other wheel of common finish. Pamphlet and Price List by N. F. BURNHAM, York, Pa. ap25 6m

READY-PREPARED
PLASTIC SLATE ROOFING,


Thoroughly Fire-Proof and Durable.
Adapted to any style of roof, steep or flat. Can be applied by any one. Its cost on the roof is less than shingles in nearly every section of the country, and the water from it is of the best quality. Sample sent on application to
EDWARD THOMPSON, Manufacturer,
Je27 1m 184 Peter street, New Orleans.

A FULL AND COMPLETE ASSORTMENT.
E. BUTTERICK & CO.'S
CELEBRATED PATTERNS, all styles and sizes. Send for descriptive catalogue at the office of WM. E. COOPER & CO.,
No. 89 Canal street,
Agents for the Singer Improved Family Sewing Machine.
Now ready, the new "Dolly Varden" Pattern, all sizes. je6 2m

THE BECKWITH SEWING MACHINE.
PATENTED APRIL 10, 1871.
PRICE, $10, including Hemmer, Guide, four Needles, Bottle of Oil and Can.
The First and Only Successful Low-Priced Machine Made.


PRACTICAL, DURABLE, SIMPLE and Beautiful. Capable of making by hand upward of 800 Stitches per Minute and there is very little Family Sewing that this machine will not do as well as a $75 machine, and some work it will do better.
It is well and strongly made of the best material, but compact and light, and takes up but little room. Nickel-plated throughout.
Its SIMPLICITY adapts it to all capacities. Every machine is fully warranted for Two Years.
Full directions for running the machine, hemming, tucking, hem-stitching, etc., accompany every machine.
Parties in the city wishing to purchase a machine can see one in operation at Mrs. Robertson's, dressmaker, corner of Camp and Julia streets, up stairs, over the cigar store, and where they can leave their orders.
Single machines sent to any address, carefully boxed, with all the equipments, on receipt of $10. For full particulars send for circular.
Address
EDWARD THOMPSON, 184 Peter St., New Orleans,
Energetic Agents Wanted. (je27 6m) Agent of the Manufacturer.

"Southern Books for Southern Schools."
School-Books which are Unsectional, Unpartisan, and Unpolitical.
PREPARED BY THE MOST EMINENT SOUTHERN SCHOLARS, AND
ENTIRELY ACCEPTABLE TO SOUTHERN TEACHERS AND PARENTS.

The University Publishing Co.,

An Association composed of many of the most eminent citizens of the several Southern States, feeling the necessity for a series of purely unsectional, unpartisan, and unpolitical, and in their teaching thought and feeling of the Southern people—which should present only the facts of history and science—are now issuing a complete series of School and College Text-books and educators named below, which should not be offensive to the people—which should present only the facts of history and science—are now issuing a complete series by the eminent Southern scholars are the

Cheapest, Best, and Most Beautiful School-Books
Now published. The "University Series" embraces

MAURY'S GEOGRAPHICAL SERIES,
By Commodore M. F. MAURY, of the Virginia Military Institute. A series of books which mark an era in the study of this science, and which, in the words of a well known and accomplished Southern teacher, "are characterized by a felicity of arrangement and simplicity of style which must ever render them attractive to the young, and which will be used by all who wish to teach Geography as a science, as something to make pupils think, and not merely as an enumeration of dry facts."

Holmes' Readers and Spellers,
By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL.D., Professor of History and General Literature in the University of Virginia. A series of Readers unequalled in elegance, excellence, and typographical beauty. They are steadily progressive in character, bright and fresh in their selections of prose and verse, and illustrative of Southern scenes, incidents, and history.

Venable's Arithmetical Series,
By CHARLES S. VENABLE, LL.D., Professor of Mathematics in the University of Virginia. These books are received everywhere by intelligent teachers with the highest satisfaction, as being most admirably adapted for mental drill, as well as for business education. Their methods, rules, and reasonings are clear, distinct, logical, and comprehensive, and the series is carefully graded throughout.

Holmes' History of the United States,
By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL.D., of the University of Virginia. It is enough to say of this admirable work, interesting, impartial, and truthful, as well as pure and graceful in style, that it is the only History of the United States which is acceptable to Southern teachers and parents. It comes down to the present date.

THE "UNIVERSITY SERIES" OF SCHOOL-BOOKS
COMPRISES, ALSO,
De Vere's French Grammar, Readers, etc.,
By M. SCHELE DE VERE, LL.D., Professor of Modern Languages in the University of Va.
Gildersleeve's Latin Series,
By B. L. GILDERSLEEVE, Ph.D., LL.D., of the University of Virginia.
Carter's Elements of General History,
By Rev. J. P. CARTER, A.M., of Baltimore, Maryland.
Holmes' English Grammars,
By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL.D., of the University of Virginia.
LeConte's Scientific Series,
By the Professors LECONTE, late of the University of South Carolina.
Johnston's English Classics,
By R. M. JOHNSTON, A.M., late Professor of Rhetoric and Belles-Lettres in the University of Georgia.
To which list other books in other departments will early be added.
Send for our full ILLUSTRATED DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, which will be mailed free to any teacher or school officer. Liberal terms given for introduction.
Address
UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING COMPANY,
155 and 157 Crosby Street, New York.
A full supply of "The University Series" always on hand, and teachers and schools supplied by R. J. HARP, Bookseller, 113 Camp St., New Orleans,
And by all prominent booksellers throughout the South.
W. IRVING CLARKE, the General Agent, will furnish any information, and afford every facility to teachers for examining the series. Office—93 CAMP ST., New Orleans. mh7 1y

COOPER'S WELL,
HINDS COUNTY, MISS.
T. C. McMACKIN & CO., Proprietors.
THIS CELEBRATED WELL was opened, in good order, on the First day of May.
The Water will cure chronic Bowel Complaint, Diarrhea, Dropsy, Diabetes, Chlorosis, Torpid Liver, Jaundice and general debility.
Arrangements will be made to buy Excursion Tickets at any depot from Vicksburg to Meridian; also in New Orleans, at Reduced Rates for the round trip, including hacks and hand baggage.
The place has been thoroughly repaired and refurnished, and guests will be made as comfortable as at any Watering Place in the country.
Board, $3 per day; $15 per week; $50 per month.
During the season the place will be under the immediate management of
GEN. T. C. McMACKIN.
For further information address the manager on the premises, or Mr. L. England, Prentiss House, Vicksburg, Miss. my30 2m

MINERAL SPERM OIL.
GUARANTEED AS SAFE AS SPERM OR LARD OIL.
It Will Not Take Fire in Case of Breakage of the Lamp.
THE OIL WILL EXTINGUISH the FLAME.
The Oil itself has no odor while burning. It gives a Light of TEN-CANDLE POWER at a cost not exceeding ONE-HALF CENT PER HOUR, and for lighting railroad cars, steamers, factories and dwelling houses it is invaluable and cannot be too highly recommended.
The Oil is patented, and made by a process which insures its uniformity.
It burns with great brilliancy in the
DUAL BURNER,
requires but little attention and no trimming. The Oil never gums in the lamp, as it absorbs no oxygen from the atmosphere. It does not deteriorate by age. This Burner fits all ordinary coal oil lamps.
BOSTICK & SEYMOUR,
Sole Agents for Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi and Texas,
45 and 47 Front st., and 46 and 48 Fulton st.,
mh28 6m New Orleans.

AGENTS! QUICK! or you will miss choice of territory. (there is a rush for it) on DIO LEWIS' last and greatest work,
OUR DIGESTION,
OR MY JOLLY FRIEND'S SECRET.
It is by odds the most taking and salable book in the field. 1. It is on a vitally important subject. 2. It is by America's most popular writer on health. 3. It is, for the price, the largest and handsomest book ever sold by subscription. Agents, the people are eager for such a book, and will urge you to bring it to them. Write for terms, etc., free.
GEORGE MACLEAN, Publisher,
my2 3m 733 Sansom st., Philadelphia.

CRAB ORCHARD SPRINGS, KY.,
115 MILES (6 hours' run) from Louisville, on the Knoxville Branch of the L. and N. Railroad.
Correspondence solicited from principals, with the view of occupying the commodious Brick Hotel Building now in process of erection, with all modern improvements for school uses, during the regular academic term. Capacity for 300 students. The location of this property, its surroundings, the well-known and peculiar qualities of its Epsom, Brown, and Lick Sterling Waters and Salts, all combine to render this point above all others the most fitting to establish a first-class Female Seminary upon a permanent basis. Address ISAAC SHELBY, my23 2m Shelby City, Boyd county, Ky.

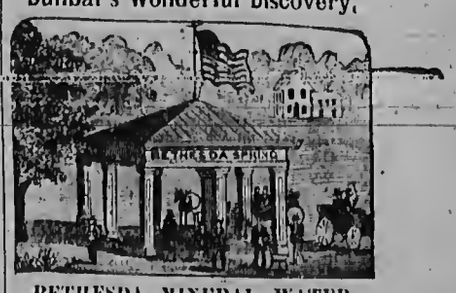
A GREAT CHANCE FOR AGENTS.
Do you want an agency, local or traveling, with an opportunity to make $5 to $20 a day selling our new 7-strand White Wire Clothes Lines? They last forever; sample free, so there is no risk. Address at once Hudson River Wire Works, cor. Water St. and Malden Lane, New York, or 16 Dearborn street, Chicago, Illinois. m24 1y

JOHN D. MACLIN, L. C. MACLIN,
(Late R. D. Maclin.)
COAL! WOOD! COAL!
Pittsburg, Anthracite and Cannel Coal, Oak, Ash and Pine Wood, at the lowest market rates, delivered to any part of the city.
Offices—26 Carondelet street, and corner of Third and Tchoupitoulas. mh7 1y

MEDICAL.
Dunbar's Wonderful Discovery.


BETHESDA MINERAL WATER.
The acknowledged cure for Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Liver and Bilious Affections, Kidney and Urinary diseases.
Sold, wholesale or retail, at 38 Magazine street. H. D. HUFF,
Sole Southern Agent.
Address Glass Box 825. my30 3m

CONSUMPTION.....CONSUMPTION.
NEW TREATMENT BY
DUCRO'S ALIMENTARY ELIXIR,
prepared with raw meat and alcohol. Recommended by the highest medical authority in Paris. A radical cure, and in desperate cases a
CERTAIN RELIEF.
Agreeable to the taste. Incontestably superior to Cod Liver Oil, the hypophosphites, and other preparations. This Elixir, the basis of which is raw meat and alcohol, is moreover one of the most powerful tonics for persons convalescing or feeble, for chloratic young girls, debilitated old persons, etc.
Depot in New Orleans at
MR. P. CUSACHS',
Corner St. Philip and Royal streets,
my16 3m New Orleans,
Sole agent for the United States.

MISCELLANEOUS.

R. L. NEILL,
198 Gravier street, New Orleans,
SOLE AGENT FOR THE
Supercarbonated Mineral Waters
MANUFACTURED BY
CANTRELL & COCHRANE, Belfast, Ireland.
Ginger Ale, Lemonade, and Lime-Juice Syrup.
Delicious summer beverages, refreshing and healthy. Teetotalers will find these the very finest substitutes ever introduced.
The Double Soda Water
manufactured by Messrs. Cantrell & Cochrane is a much superior article to the mixture of Carbonic Acid Gas and Water which is generally sold for Soda Water. It contains a proper quantity of Carbonate of Soda, and to those suffering from acidity of the stomach it is invaluable.
Kali, or Potassa Water, possesses a great solvent power for Uric Acid, and is a wonderful curative for Cutaneous Complaints, Gout, Rheumatism, etc. Sufferers from Dyspepsia will find great relief, and most probably a permanent cure, by taking regularly a bottle of this Water about half an hour before breakfast. my23 3m

SWINTON'S CONDENSED
SCHOOL HISTORY.
(From the Virginia Educational Journal.)
Mr. Swinton's reputation led us to examine this book. What is of most importance in the work is its extreme fairness. It is vastly superior, in this respect, to any history issued at the North that we have seen. Where accuracy seems almost impossible, he comes nearer to the truth than the others.

NEW SCHOOL BOOKS.
SWINTON'S WORD ANALYSIS.
CATHCART'S YOUTH'S SPEAKER.
ARITHMETICAL EXAMPLES (Mental and Written.)
KERL'S SHORTER COURSE IN GRAMMAR.
A Descriptive Catalogue of the American Educational Series, and our Educational Reporter, mailed free to any address upon application.
Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co.,
Or T. MORONEY, General Agent,
mh28 1y 92 Camp street, New Orleans.

PUBLICATIONS FOR ALL
Prominent Benevolent Organizations.
FRATERNITY.
100,000 SOLD!—Masonic, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Red Men, Mechanics, Temperance, etc.
Sale unrivaled by anything heretofore offered. Agents with no experience are selling 20 Pictures and upward a day. One of our agents has cleared over $1,200 in three months. The brethren welcome these works. Our inducements are UNPRECEDENTED. Our commissions are positively one-fourth larger than any other house does or CAN offer. Send for circular of Order to which you belong, giving No. of your Lodge, and state where you saw this advertisement. You will certainly engage with us.
J. HALE POWERS & CO.,
Fraternity Publishers,
my9 7m Cincinnati, Ohio.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY,
Established in 1837.

Superior Bells for Churches, Schools, etc., of Pure Copper and Tin, fully warranted, and mounted with our Latest Improved Rotary Hangings, the best in use.
Illustrated Catalogue sent free.
VANDUZEN & TIFT,
102 & 104 E. Second St., Cincinnati
fe22 1y

fe11 1y

PRICE WILLIAMS & SON,
Exchange and Real Estate Brokers
MOBILE, ALABAMA.
Dealers in Bills, Bonds, Notes and Stocks of every kind. Plantations, and lands unimproved, for sale in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. Also every class of Real Estate in Mobile, Alabama. Rent, and pay taxes and insurance on Real Estate in Mobile. Invest money on mortgages, etc., and collect claims.
REFERENCES.
Messrs. Baker, Lawler & Co., Mobile, Ala.
Moses Wiseling, Esq., Mobile, Ala.
Hon. Milton Brown, Jackson, Tenn
Bishop J. C. Keener, New Orleans
Bishop Paine, Mississippi.
Bishop McTyeire, Nashville, Tenn.
Messrs. John T. Farwell & Co., Chicago.
Dean, McGinnis & Co., N. Y. no26 1y

WM. PHILLIPS, UNION STABLES, 180 Calliope, near St. Charles street, has every accommodation in the line of Pleasure and Family Carriages, such as hacks, broughams, phaetons, buggies, etc., for the use of the public, and at rates to correspond with the stringency of the times. All hacking done below tariff rates. Orders for weddings, balls, picnics, races, etc., will be attended to so as to guarantee satisfaction. I am also prepared to hire vehicles (alone) to parties having their own horses. de14 1y

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

(From the New Orleans Price Current.)

The general market has shown increased dullness since our last report, the principal exception to the prevailing apathy being in sugar, which has been in good demand and sold from the sheds to a liberal extent for the West and city trade.

The weather has been seasonable, but not unusually warm, with frequent refreshing showers and gulf breezes. The accounts from the country continue favorable.

The river is 8 feet 3 inches below high water mark.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the fifth instant:

Louisiana and Mississippi.....bales..	261
Mobile.....	4
Total.....	265

On Saturday Liverpool middling (for which 23c. was accepted on Friday, but not reported,) sold at 22¾c., and good ordinary was offered at 21¼c., but these low figures failed to bring out more than one or two buyers, and the sales were confined to 50 bales. The press quotations were reduced ¼c. and those of the Cotton Exchange ½c. for middling, and ¼c. for the lower grades. On Monday, in order to effect sales, factors were compelled to accept still lower figures, and the sales embraced 125 bales, of which 120 were taken by one buyer, at 18c. for ordinary, 20¼c. for good ordinary, and 21c. for strict good ordinary to low middling. These figures show a further falling off of about 1c. The press quotations were reduced ⅛@¾c., and those of the Exchange ½c. On Tuesday the business embraced 125 bales, of which 100 were pickings, prices not reported. The residue included insignificant lots at 20½@21c. for good ordinary, and 21c. for middling, which we mention merely to show the extreme concessions holders were compelled to make in order to work off trifling lots for the purpose of closing accounts. The bulk of the stock is held by factors who would not accept offers even above Monday's quotations, but there being no regular demand, those who wish to realize are compelled to accept materially lower rates.

The receipts proper at this port, since the first of September, (exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas,) are 950,576 bales, against 1,418,797 bales to the same date last year, and the decrease in the receipts at all the ports, up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 1,226,723 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same date last year, there is an increase of 54,294 to France, and a decrease of 884,663 to Great Britain, and of 333,320 to other foreign ports.

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1871, bales.		25,323
Arrived past three days..	265
Arrived previously	1,049,044
Waste and damaged cotton, samples, etc.....	13,511	1,062,820
		1,088,143
Exported past three days.	651
Exported previously.....	1,069,690	1,070,341
Stock on hand and on shipboard..		17,802

SUGAR.—Has been in good demand since our last review. On Tuesday 150 hhds. sold at 6c. for inferior, 8¾@9c. for fair, 9¾c. for good fair, and 10c. for fully fair. The stock in the sheds is becoming much reduced, and prices are advancing. Of city refinery, yellow clarified is selling on orders at 11¼c., white 12¼@12½c., crushed and powdered 13@13¼c., cut loaf 14c. per pound.

MOLASSES.—There is little or none arriving from plantation, and the season is over for the Louisiana product. On Tuesday some 32 bbls. were received from plantation and were mostly sold at 4½c. ₱ lb., and 30c. ₱ gallon for poor cistern bottom, and 52½c. for fair fermenting. City refinery is jobbing at 30c. for inferior, 40c. for common, 50c. for fair, 55c. for prime, 60c. for choice, and 80c.@$1 ₱ gallon for golden sirup.

CORN.—On Tuesday there was a fair supply on the landing, and the demand was moderate, with a slight advance for white. The sales embraced 4,500 sacks at 58c. for ordinary mixed, 60c. for prime mixed, 73c. for white mixed, and 75c. for choice white. A lot of 450 sacks pure white flint, in store, was sold to two city millers, by a dealer, at 78c. ₱ bushel.

OATS.—On Tuesday 2,500 sacks sold at 42c. for ordinary, 43@44c. for prime St. Louis, and 45@46c. ₱ bushel for choice.

BRAN.—On Tuesday 400 sacks sold at $1.05@$1.07½ ₱ 100 lbs.

PORK.—On Tuesday the market was dull, with mess offering at $12.75@$12.87½ ₱ bbl. and no sales, excepting a lot of 50 bbls. mess at $12.75 ₱ bbl. Mess is retailing at $13.25@$13.50 ₱ bbl.

BACON.—On Tuesday there was a scarcity of supplies; the demand continued good and prices ruled higher. Shoulders were held at 6¼@6¾c., clear rib sides 8½c., clear sides 8⅞@9c. ₱ lb. About 225 casks were sold, in lots, at 6@6¼c. for shoulders, to arrive and on the spot; 8¼@8½c. for clear rib sides, to arrive and on the spot; 8¾c. for clear sides, to arrive, and 8⅞@9c. ₱ lb. for clear sides, on the spot.

HAMS.—On Tuesday choice sugar-cured hams were held at 14@15c. ₱ lb., and 20 tierces sold at 14c.

DRY SALT MEAT.—There is none in first hands. A few shoulders held by dealers are retailing at 5¾c., and clear rib sides at 7@7¼c. ₱ lb.

LARD.—The market is dull, with no movement worthy of note, and a good stock on hand. Packers' in tierces is quoted at 9c, refined 9½@9½c., kegs 10¼c. ₱ lb. for kettle-rendered, and 10¼@10½c. for refined. On Tuesday a lot of 20 tierces refined sold at 9½c. ₱ lb.

MONETARY.

Gold opened on Tuesday at 112⅞@113⅛, (against 113¾ at New York,) and closed at the opening rates in both markets.

The sales of silver have been confined to $1,750 in American half dollars on Saturday at 107¾@108½; and $1,000 on Tuesday at 108.

New Orleans Wholesale Prices.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales at Date of Issue.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
Agricultural Implements:
Cotton scrapers	4 50	6 00
Cotton sweeps	4 50	6 00
Cultivators, Diam. & shovel-tooth	7 75	10 50
Cultivators, riding	45 00	60 00
Cultivators, walking	30 00	35 00
Shovels	7 00	14 50
Spades	7 00	16 00
Axes	10 00	15 00
Potato diggers	13 50	— —
Shovel plows	6 00	7 00
Half do. with cutters	8 00	9 00
Manly's D. S. plow	6 00	9 75
Corn mills, Coleman's	120 00	425 00
Bread, ₱ 100 lbs:
Pilot	5 00	6 00
Loaf	— —	— —
Crackers	5 00	12 00
Navy	— —	4 50
Cream crackers	11 00	12 00
Bricks, ₱ M:
Lake	13 00	16 00
English fire	— —	50 00
American fire	40 00	— —
Candles, ₱ lb:
Sperm, New Bedford	33	36
Tallow	16	18
Chocolate, ₱ lb:
Cocoa	38	60
No. 1	50	52
Sweet and spiced	25	— —
Cider, ₱ bbl:
Western	10 00	— —
Coal, ₱ ton:
Anthracite	12 00	13 00
Western, ₱ bbl	— —	65
Corks, ₱ 1000:
Regular	4 00	4 50
Pointed	2 70	4 00
Coffee, ₱ lb:
Havana (currency)	— —	— —
Java	28	32
Cordova	— —	— —
Copper, ₱ lb:
Braziers'	48	— —
Copper bolts	48	— —
Yellow metal	30	32
Cordage, ₱ lb:
Manilla	19	20
Tarred, American	— —	16
Russian	16	— —
Cotton seed:
Rough, ₱ ton	— —	14 00
In sacks	— —	18 50
Dyes, ₱ lb:
Logwood, Camp'y	4	4½
Logwood, St. Domingo	4½	4½
Fustic, Tampico	5	6
Indigo, ₱ lb	1 40	1 60
Madder	15	18
Eggs, ₱ dozen:
Western	13	17
Feathers, ₱ lb	80	90
Fish, ₱ box:
Cod	1 40	— —
Herrings	35	— —
Mackerel, No. 1, ₱ bbl	13 50	— —
Mackerel, No. 2	10 50	— —
Mackerel, No. 3	8 00	— —
Flaxseed, ₱ lb	4½	5½
Flour, ₱ bbl:
Double extra	6 25	6 50
Superfine	5 75	— —
Fine	5 25	5 50
Fruit, ₱ lb:
Prunes	10½	13
Currants, new	9½	10
Almonds, soft shell	17½	18½
Almonds, shelled	30	— —
Glass, ₱ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	3 50	4 00
French, 10 by 12	4 75	4 25
French, 12 by 18	4 00	4 50
Gunny bags, ₱ bag	18	18½
Hay, ₱ ton:
Prime	25 00	27 00
Choice	28 00	30 00
Iron, ₱ ton:
Pig	54 00	55 00
Country bar, ₱ lb	— —	— —
English	5½	7½
Swedes, assorted	6½	8½
Hoop	6½	8
Sheet	7	8½
Boiler	7½	8½
Nail rods	— —	9
Castings, American	5½	6
Lead, ₱ 100 lbs:
Pig	— —	9 50
Bar, ₱ lb	8	8½
Sheet	12	— —
Pipe	12	— —
Leather, ₱ lb:
Sole, hemlock	33	31
Sole, oak	37	43
Harness	33	45
Calf skins, ₱ dozen	42 00	70 00
Texas, rough, ₱ lb	24	25
Lime, ₱ bbl:
Western	1 25	1 75
Cement	2 50	3 00
Plaster Paris	3 50	4 00
Lumber, ₱ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	13 00	15 00
Boards, cypress	25 00	30 00
Flooring, dressed	25 00	30 00
Flooring, rough	15 00	18 00
Ceiling, dressed	20 00	25 00
Weatherboards, dressed	19 00	20 00
Weatherboards, rough	13 00	15 00
Scantling	13 00	15 00
Shingles, ₱ M	3 50	4 25
Laths	2 50	3 00
Moss, ₱ lb:
Country picked	4½	6
Clean picked	6½	7
Nails, ₱ keg:
American, 4@6d	5 60	5 75
Wrought, German, ₱ lb	14	16
Wrought, English	14	16
Oils:
Lard, ₱ gallon	68	73
Coal oil, in barrels	26	28
Coal oil, in cases	31	34
Linseed, raw	98	1 00
Sperm	— —	2 00
Whale, refined	95	1 00
Cotton seed, crude	— —	46
Cotton seed, refined	60	65
Castor	1 65	1 85
Olive, 22@24 oz	6 75	7 00
Olive, 11@12 oz	7 00	7 25
Tanner's, ₱ gallon	75	85
Soap, ₱ lb:
Western	5½	7
Northern	5½	7
Southern	4½	6½
Castile, genuine	12	— —
Castile, imitation	11	— —
Sardines:
Half boxes	34	35½
Quarter boxes	23½	24
Spices, ₱ lb:
Cassia	40	45
Cloves	19	20
Nutmegs	1 20	1 25
Pepper	21	21½
Pimento	12	12½
Sugar, ₱ lb:
Havana, white	— —	— —
Havana, yellow	10½	11½
Havana, brown	10½	11
Crushed	13	13½
Pulverized	13	13½
Teas, ₱ lb:
Imperial	60	1 25
Gunpowder	75	1 50
Hyson	75	1 25
Young Hyson	75	1 10
Oolong	65	1 25
Pouchong	30	50
Tin, ₱ box:
Block	— —	— —
In plates, I. X	18 25	18 50
In plates, I. C	16 00	16 25
Leaded plates, I. X	17 25	17 50
Leaded plates, I. C	15 00	15 25

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, Ja'y 9, 1872.

Texas beeves, choice, ₱ head	$50 00	@	55 00
Texas beeves, 1st qual, ₱ head	35 00	@	45 00
Texas cattle, 2d qual, ₱ head	20 00	@	28 00
Texas cattle, 3d qual, ₱ head	14 00	@	18 00
Western beeves, ₱ lb. net	11	@	13
Hogs, ₱ lb. gross	4½	@	5
Sheep, first quality, ₱ head	5 00	@	6 00
Sheep, second qual., ₱ head	3 00	@	4 00
Sheep, third quality, ₱ head	2 00	@	2 50
Milch cows, choice, ₱ head	80 00	@	100 00
Milch cows, ₱ head	50 00	@	80 00
Texas cows, with calves	— —	@	— —
Calves, ₱ head	7 00	@	10 00
Yearlings, ₱ head	8 00	@	12 00

Special Notices.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting, commencing on the sixth day of September, half-way between Pleasant Hill and Mansfield, in DeSoto parish, Louisiana. The people are expected and requested to come with wagons and tents, provided to take care of themselves, it is a new camp ground, and we do not know of any public entertainment.

R. PARVIN.

Lake Providence District Conference.

The Lake Providence District Conference, Louisiana Conference, will be held at Hayville, Louisiana, July 18-21. The Rev. M. C. Manly, of Bastrop, Louisiana, will preach the opening sermon on Thursday night. Delegates will be shown to their homes from the courthouse. The camp meeting has been postponed.

J. T. DAVES, P. E.

Union Springs District Conference.

The District Conference for the Union Springs district, Alabama Conference, will be held in Troy, Alabama, July 31 and August 1-4, inclusive. The opening sermon will be preached on Wednesday night, July 31, by Rev. Elisha Phillips, of Fort Deposit, Alabama. A full attendance is earnestly requested, as ample accommodations will be made for all.

J. W. SHORES, P. E.

Eufaula District Conference.

The District Conference for Eufaula district, Alabama Conference, is to be held at Clayton, commencing August 8.

JAS. L. COTTEN, P. E.

Seashore District Conference.

The District Conference of the Seashore district, Mississippi Conference, will be held at Moss Point church, East Pascagoula circuit, August 1-4. Bishop Keener will preside. All the preachers on the district are expected to attend, and make full and exact reports. The local preachers and lay delegates are also expected.

C. F. GILLASPIE, P. E.

Opelousas District Conference.

The District Conference for the Opelousas district will be held in Vermillionville, July 18-21, inclusive. Each member of this body is hereby especially urged to attend. Conference will open at nine A. M. on the eighteenth.

H. F. WHITE, P. E.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

VICKSBURG DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Natchez	July 13, 14
Rocky Springs, at Steele chapel	Aug. 3, 4
North Warren, Milldale and Sunflower, at Beechland	10, 11
Cayuga, at Bear Creek	17, 18
South Warren, at Red Bone	24, 25
Clover Hill, at Tallula	30, Sept. 1
Rolling Fork	Sept 7, 8
Fayette, at Belle Grove	14, 15
Kingston	21, 22

JOHN A. B. JONES, P. E.,
Port Gibson, Miss.

SUMMIT DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Pontchatoula and Livingston	July 6, 7
Summit and Magnolia	20, 21
Holmesville	27, 28
Amite City	Aug. 3, 4
Covington	10, 11
Greensburg	17, 18
Big Creek	24, 25
Franklinton	Sept. 7, 8
St. Helena	14, 15

The Summit District Conference will commence at Tangipahoa, Louisiana, on Friday, September 27, and embrace the fifth Sunday.

J. NICHOLSON, P. E.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Wayne circuit, at Scott's chapel	July 6, 7
Shubuta circuit, at Quitman	13, 14
Enterprise circuit, at Concord	20, 21
Enterprise station	27, 28
Marion circuit, at Toomsuba	Aug. 3, 4
Paulding circuit	10, 11
Clarke circuit	17, 18
Meridian station	31, Sept. 1

WM. B. HINES, P. E.

JACKSON DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Yazoo City sta. and Silver Creek mission	July 6, 7
Madison circuit, at Vernon	13, 14
Sharon ct., at Thornton chapel	20, 21
Yazoo circuit, at Trinquil	27, 28
Mount Olivet circuit and Yazoo mission, at New Hope	Aug. 3, 4
Raymond circuit	10, 11
Brownsville circuit	17, 18
Sulphur Springs circuit, at Madisonville	24, 25
Camden and Thomastown circuits	31, Sept. 1
Carthage circuit	Sept. 7, 8

H. H. MONTGOMERY, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Brandywine, at Sarepta	July 6, 7
Scotland, at Sweet Water	13, 14
Pleasant Valley, at Pleasant Val'y	20, 21
Burleaton, at Zion	27, 28
Beauregard, at Beauregard	Aug. 3, 4
Georgetown, at Georgetown	10, 11
Jackson, at Forest Hill	17, 18
Bogue Chitto	24, 25
Brookhaven and Brookhaven mission	31, Sept. 1
Crystal Springs and Crystal Springs mission	Sept. 7, 8

The District Meeting will be held September 5, at nine o'clock A. M., at Crystal Springs. Bishop J. C. Keener will preside. A camp meeting is in prospect at the same time and place, on the plan recommended by the last District Conference.

W. E. M. LINFIELD, P. E.
Post Office, Hazlehurst.

WOODVILLE DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

East Feliciana, at Oak Grove	July 13, 14
East Baton Rouge, at Black Water	20, 21
Jackson	27, 28
Wilkinson, at Pisgah	Aug. 3, 4
Buffalo, at Friendship	10, 11
Meadville, at Meadville	24, 25
Amite, at Bond's camp ground	31, Sept. 1

The District Conference for the Woodville district of the Mississippi Annual Conference will begin on the twenty-fifth of July, at half-past seven o'clock P. M., in the town of Jackson, Louisiana. Opening sermon by President Andrews. Brethren on their arrival will call at the Methodist church. Full written reports will be expected from the pastors, as the Discipline directs.

J. L. FOUSYTH, P. E.

SEASHORE DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Pearlington ct., at Pearlington	July 6, 7
White Plains ct., at Little Biloxi	13, 14
Ocean Springs ct., at Handsboro	20, 21
West Pascagoula circuit, at Mt. Pleasant	27, 28
East Pascagoula circuit, at Moss Point	Aug. 3, 4
Greene mission	10, 11

Our District Conference will be held at Moss Point, commencing on Thursday, the first day of August.

C. F. GILLASPIE, P. E.

BRANDON DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Brandon circuit, at Shiloh	July 6, 7
Hillsboro circuit, at Good Hope	13, 14
Forest circuit, at Carr's church	20, 21
Philadelphia ct., at Philadelphia	27, 28
Decatur mission, at Hebron	Aug. 3, 4
Lake circuit, at Scotland chapel	10, 11
Morton circuit	24, 25
Fremon circuit	31, Sept. 1
Raleigh circuit	Sept. 7, 8
Taylorville mission	14, 15
Garlandsville circuit	21, 22

The District Conference will convene at Forest, August 16, at nine o'clock A. M. All the members, both elect and ex officio, will please be on time, as important business will come up on the first day of the conference. Dear brethren, as prominence is to be given to religious exercises at our District Conferences, let us make this a subject of special prayer, that it may be "a refreshing time from the presence of the Lord."

F. M. WILLIAMS, P. E.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

DEMOPOLIS DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Greene, at Palmetto	July 6, 7
Demopolis	20, 21
Forkland, at Watson's chapel	27, 28
Gainesville, at Ramsey	Aug. 3, 4
Cuba, at York	10, 11
Hladen, at Providence	17, 18
Butler, at Bright Water	24, 25
Gaston, at Thompkinsville	31, Sept. 1

S. H. COX, P. E.

MOBILE DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

St. Francis street	July 6, 7
Citronelle	13, 14
St. Stephen's, at Shands' chapel	20, 21
Eastern Shore	27, 28
Mount Pleasant, at Red Hill	Aug. 3, 4
Grand Bay mission, at Ellington	10, 11
Pollard ct., at Shepherd's chapel	17, 18
Pensacola	24, 25
Milton	31, Sept. 1

H. URQUHART, P. E.

SELMA DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Uniontown station	July 6, 7
Choctaw Corner circuit; at Choctaw Corner	13, 14
Peachtree circuit	20, 21
Selma station	27, 28
East Selma station	Aug. 3, 4
Hembert Hills ct., at Camp ground	10, 11
Orrville circuit	17, 18
Dayton and Spring Hill, at Spring Hill	24, 25
Linden and Flatwoods mission, at Spring Hill	24, 25

A. J. BRIGGS, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

YAZOO DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Winona, at Winona	July 6, 7
Greenwood and McNutt	13, 14
Valden, at Midway	20, 21
Durant, at Spring Hill	27, 28
Kosciusko and Bethel, at Bethel	Aug. 3, 4
Black Hawk	10, 11

There will be a camp meeting at Bethel, Attala county, Mississippi, beginning on Friday, August 2, embracing the first Sunday in August.

There will be a camp meeting at Spring Dale, Attala county, Mississippi, beginning August 16, embracing the third Sunday in August.

The District Conference of the Yazoo district, North Mississippi Conference, will meet in Black Hawk, Carroll county, Mississippi, August 29, embracing the first Sunday in September. The Black Hawk camp meeting will begin at the same time and place. All who can are cordially invited to attend these camp meetings, the ministerial brethren particularly. Our camp meetings are expected to be largely self-sustaining—that is, all attending will provide for themselves and their invited friends. We found this plan a good one last year. Let us come up in the spirit of prayer, nothing doubting, and the Master will be there.

The new Methodist church in Koschusko will be dedicated on Sunday, July 14.

W. P. BARTON, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Carondelet street	July 7
Cadiz street, Louisiana avenue and Carrollton	14, 21
Quarterly Conference at Louisiana avenue, Monday night	22
Algiers and Tulbodaux—preaching at Houma	28
Quarterly Conference at Algiers	Aug. 4
Felicity street	11
German charges—Quarterly Conference at Dryades street	16
Plaquemine	Sept. 1
Morent street	15
Baton Rouge	28, 29

LINUS PARKER, P. E.

MINDEN DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Minden circuit, at Pine Grove	July 13, 14
North Bossier, at Red River	20, 21
South Bossier, at Cotton Valley	27, 28
Sparta, at Sparta	Aug. 10, 11
Mount Lebanon, at Athens	17, 18
Bistineau, at Liberty chapel	31, Sept. 1

The District Meeting for Minden district will be held at Minden, commencing Wednesday, October 2, including the first Sabbath in the month. Preachers and official members of the church within the bounds of the district are specially invited. Visiting ministers will be heartily received.

N. M. SKINNWORTH, P. E.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NEW ORLEANS BRANCH

Southern Life Insurance Company

OF MEMPHIS, TENNESSEE.

Office—46 Carondelet St., New Orleans.

☞ Good and reliable Solicitors wanted.

my23 3m

THE Buck-Eye BEE-HIVE

IS THE VERY BEST

Movable Frame and Moth-Proof Hive

IN THE MARKET.

Farm, County and State Rights for sale in Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana.

For circulars, prices, etc., address

J. K. RUGG,

ap25 3m Nashville, Tennessee.

SUGAR MILLS

FOR THE VERY BEST AND

Latest Improved Sugar Machinery,

consisting of CANE MILLS, Evaporators, Clarifiers, Grates, Doors, Skimmers, etc., also CIDER MILLS, and the celebrated COTTAGE FRUIT DRYERS, address, for Price List and Catalogue,

SOUTHERN MANUFACTURING CO.,

Je20 2m Nashville, Tenn.

SAVE $20.

THE NEW WILSON UNDER-FEED.

The Best and Cheapest First-Class Shuttle SEWING MACHINE In the World.

Agents Wanted.

WM. GREGG & CO., Gen'l Southern Agents, No. 183 Canal street, New Orleans, La.

Je27 6m

MENEELY'S BELLS.

THE genuine Troy Church Bells known to the public since 1826, which have acquired a reputation unequaled by any, and a sale exceeding that of all others—including more than seventy chimes and peals. One thousand testimonials received during the last six years. Every Bell made of best Copper and Tin, and formally warranted. New Patent Rotary Fixtures. Catalogues free. No agencies.

Post office address, either TROY or WEST TROY, New York.

Je13 1y E. A. & G. R. MENEELY.

DRY GOODS—CLOTHING.

D. H. HOLMES,

135.....CANAL STREET.....135

—AND—

15.....BOURBON STREET.....15

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER

—IN—

ALL DESCRIPTIONS

—OF—

DRY GOODS,

—SUCH AS—

SILKS, TISSUES, EMBROIDERIES, LACES, SHAWLS, CLOAKS, MADE SUITS, ETC.

The attention of the public is respectfully called to our stock, which will be found most complete, embracing every kind of Fancy and Staple Goods.

ap25 6m

W. H. PIERSON. E. L. HEWS.

PIERSON & HEWS,

DEALERS IN

Fine Clothing & Furnishing Goods,

NOS. 13 AND 15 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

feb15 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

ORGANS.

SEND TO

ROBERT J. HARP, AGENT,

112 Camp St., New Orleans,

FOR

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUES

OF THE

WOODS ORGANS,

FOR

Churches, Families, Sabbath Schools and Schools.

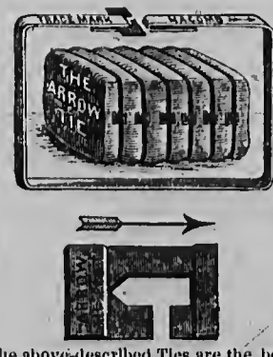
☞ NO BETTER IN THE MARKET. ☜

my2 1f

IMPORTANT TO PLANTERS.

IRON COTTON TIES.

THE ARROW TIE



AND ALL OPEN-SLOT TIES.

The above-described Ties are the best and most popular Ties in use for Baling Cotton. They are manufactured of the best quality of English Iron, by J. J. McCOMB, Liverpool, England, and are sold under full guarantee, at the lowest market price, by all dealers in Baling Staffs in New Orleans, Mobile, Galveston, Savannah, Charleston, Wilmington, Petersburg, Baltimore, Memphis, Louisville, Nashville, New York, and by country merchants generally throughout the Cotton States.

BARTLETT & RAYNE,
General Agents,
48 Carondelet street, cor. Union,
my30 6m New Orleans.

SHERMAN HOUSE, NO. 1 WEST TWENTY-Sixth street, New York.—MR. ELKINS, Proprietor. Strangers visiting New York, desiring the comforts and retirement of a home and attendance of a hotel, in a first-class central location, can find the same at from $25 to $40 per week for a gentleman and wife; transient, $3 per day; American plan; lodgings, $1. je27 3m

STEAMSHIPS.

New Liverpool Line of Steamers,

Built expressly for the New Orleans trade, to cross the Bar at all times without detention.

Liverpool and Mississippi Steamship Company.

First-class Powerful Screw Steamers.

ST. LOUIS, Capt. Smith	1,827 tons.
MEMPHIS, Capt. Weeks	2,300 ..
MISSISSIPPI, Capt. Pierson	2,500 ..
TEXAS, (building)	2,500 ..
VICKSBURG, ..	2,500 ..
MISSOURI, ..	2,500 ..

FOR LIVERPOOL DIRECT—
The steamship
MEMPHIS,
Weeks, commander,
To sail on MAY 25, 1872,
from her wharf, foot of St. Mary street, Fourth District. Will receive and sign through bills of lading to Havre, Bremen, Hamburg, Antwerp, Rotterdam and all Continental ports.

Parties desirous of sending for their friends can purchase prepaid emigration tickets here. A reduction allowed when applied for in groups.

For freight or passage, having superior accommodations, apply to
MEEKER, KNOX & CO.,
49 Carondelet street.

Managing owners—FLINN, MAIN & MONTGOMERY, 12 Launcelot Hay, Chapel-street, Liverpool. my16 3m

FOR NEW YORK.

The Cromwell New York and New Orleans Steamship Line.

Steamers of this Line leave New Orleans for New York EVERY SATURDAY at 5 P. M.

Cabin passage	$50 00
Steerage passage	25 00

Through bills of lading to foreign and coastwise ports issued.

ALFRED MOULTON,
mh21 1y 41 Carondelet street.

FOR NEW YORK.

MERCHANTS' STEAMSHIP LINE.

Sailing from New York and New Orleans EVERY SATURDAY.

Cabin passage	$50 00
Steerage passage	25 00

Through tickets to Liverpool and the Continent.

New Orleans wharf, foot of Jefferson street.
New York wharf, Pier No. 4, North river.

JOHN H. LUDWIGSEN, Agent,
feb8 1y No. 190 Common street.

MOBILE ADVERTISEMENTS.

JOHN DOUGLAS, DEALER IN

Fancy and Staple Dry Goods,

NOS. 102 AND 104 DAUPHIN STREET,

MOBILE, ALABAMA.

Agent for the Florence Sewing Machine. All goods warranted as represented, and sold at the lowest rates for Cash, our object being large sales and small profits. ja4 1y

OTIS' STEAM SAW, PLANING AND GRIST MILLS,

AND BLACKSMITH'S SHOP,

Corner of Water and Madison Streets,

MOBILE, ALABAMA.

Orders received at the above Mills for all kinds of Lumber, dressed or rough. Fresh Meal, bolted or unbolted, always on hand. Also all styles of Mouldings.

my2 3m WILLIAM OTIS.

WAVERLY STABLES.

HAYDEN & MEENAN, Proprietors.

LIVERY AND SALE STABLES,

No. 39 North Royal Street, Mobile.

Carriages and Buggies of the latest styles, and superior Horses, furnished at all hours. Calls of every description will receive prompt attention. ja4 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

IMPROVED

EAGLE COTTON GINS.

THE GREAT POPULARITY of the EAGLE COTTON GINS is established from the well-known fact that they are the most reliable, strongest and best built Cotton Gins ever made. The Eagle Cotton Gin runs lighter than any other gin, thus having a great advantage for planters who wish to run by horse power. All the numerous planters who use the Eagle Cotton Gin will certify to the fact that when their cotton is sent to market it always brings the highest market price, as no other gin can produce a finer or a better sample of cotton than the Eagle Cotton Gins. Over seventeen thousand of the Eagle Cotton Gins have been made and sold. During a period of twenty years the undersigned has had the agency of the Eagle Cotton Gin in New Orleans. He has never had a gin returned or rejected out of the immense number sold. The saw cylinders of all the Eagle Cotton Gins are twelve inches in diameter, which is two inches larger than most other kinds of gins, thus giving our forty-saw gin more teeth, and they are more than equal to the fifty-saw gins of other makers, who use only a ten-inch cylinder, and the same great advantage of the twelve inch cylinder in larger sized gins can be easily estimated. Planters who wish a reliable cotton gin, with an established reputation, can purchase an Eagle Cotton Gin with a certainty that they are not making an untried experiment, but will obtain a cotton gin which is indorsed by the oldest and largest planters in the country as the best in use. A large stock of the Eagle Cotton Gins are always kept on sale in New Orleans, ready for immediate shipment. Planters should be particular to state if they want right or left-hand motion gins.

PRICES.

40-Saw Gin	$200	65-Saw Gin	$325
45-Saw Gin	225	70-Saw Gin	350
50-Saw Gin	250	75-Saw Gin	375
55-Saw Gin	275	80-Saw Gin	400
60-Saw Gin	300

All orders should be addressed to
W. L. CUSHING,
No. 61 St. Charles street,
Sole Agent for the Southern States.
Agents wanted. jy4 3m

JOHN GIBSON,

ENGRAVER

AND

Steam Power Lithographic Printer,

82 BEEKMAN ST., NEW YORK.

Checks, Notes, Drafts, Receipts, Bonds, Certificates of Stock and Deposit, Bill, Letter and Note Headings, Business Cards, Envelopes, Druggists' Fancy and Perfumery Labels, etc. Druggists wishing Labels, send for Catalogue. je27 1y

A GRADUATE OF SOME EXPERIENCE, who can teach all the branches usually taught in Female Colleges, desires a situation. Prefers a select school in some village or good neighborhood. For information address REV. S. P. RICHARDSON, je6 3m Summerfield, Alabama.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. XVIII. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JULY 18, 1872. NO. 29.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

BALTIMORE, July 10.—Horace Greeley was nominated for President of the United States at twenty minutes past twelve o'clock P. M. The nominntion was not quite unanimons.

The vote on nomination stood: Greelsy, 686; Bayard, of Dslawars, 15; Black, 31; Groesbeck, 2; hlank, 7; whole number cast, 732.

There was great cheering as the vote was called.

12.40 P. M.—Wnllace, of Pennsylvania, made a glorifying speech, nnd moved that the nomination of Horace Greeley be made unanimous.

This motion to make Greeloy's nomination unanimons was carried witb loud chsering.

The vote for Vice Presidsnt stood: B. Gratz Brown, 713; whole number of votes cast, 732.

Subsequently the vote was made unnnimous for Brown.

After various complimsntary resolntions and desnltory spsaking the convention, at twenty minutes to two o'clock this afternoon, adjourned finally.

NEW YORK, July 12.—There were twelve cases of sunstroke yesterday. Weather to-day cloudy and threatening rain.

A Rio Janeiro letter states that tbe Russian fleet, with the Grand Duke, left tbere for the Cape of Good Hope on the ninth of June.

Considerahle preparations of a warlike nature are heing made by Brazil in anticipation of war with the Argentine Republic.

CHARLESTON, July 12.—A dispatch from Colnmhia to tbe News says: "The prosecutions under the enforcement act are to he pressed witb nnprecedented vigor and severity in the upper counties. There is a pile of warrants for arrests in Union county alone a foot nnd a half thick. Not a dozen citizens of Saxon blood will escape."

Advices from the cotton fields, botb above and below Charleston, confirm the intelligence of the geueral presence of tho caterpillar.

MONTGOMERY, July 12.—Caterpillars in unusual numbers have appeared all through the cotton helt, three weeks earlior than ever before. Wet weather, which develops worms, still continues.

CHICAGO, July 13.—Reports from Iowa state that the present season promises to he the most ahundant for grain ever known in that State. The grain of all kinds is rapidly ripening, and tho crops were never better.

NASHVILLE, TENN., July 13.—Mucb of the wbeat crop just harvested has been injured by continued and untimely rains. Some injury has nlso been done to growing cotton in middle and west Tennessee and north Alabama, the rains causing the shedding of the bolls. Planters entertnin serious apprehensions of the effects of beavy rains to-day.

NEW YORK, July 15.—The court was crowded. Judge Ingrabam, addressing the jury, said: I suppose, gentlemen, you bave not agreed?

Foreman—No, your honor, we cannot come to any ngreement whatever.

The judge tben discbarged the jnry, and ordered that Stokes be remanded to jail witbout bail. The prisoner's counsel rose and shook hands with each other and the prisoner.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., July 15.—Recent heavy rains caused an overflow in tbe Alnbama river and tribntaries, tearing up railroad tracks and destroying cotton nnd corn crops to the value of $2,000,000 or more.

The ravages of the caterpillars are increasing. The boll worm is also appearing in certain localities.

GALVESTON, July 16.—The first bale of new cotton was sold to-day by Focke & Wilkins, to Richards & Hawkins, nt ninety-three cents, gold, per pound.

FOREIGN.

LONNON, July 11.—Dispatches received from Aden announce the arrival there of Stanley, the New York Herald's African correspondent, and says he will start to-day for London, in company with a son of Dr. Livingstone. Stanley is the bearer of letters of the grent explorer for the British government, as well as for tbe family and friends of Livingstone. Stanley states that when he left the interior of Africa Livingstone was unwell, but be was nevertheless determined to proceed with his explorations, and will not return until he bas completed his great work of ascertaining the source of the Nile.

BERLIN, July 11.—The Official Gazette promulgated a law for tbe banishment of the Jesuits from Germany. All establishments now under their control must he completsly broken np witbin six months.

LONNON, July 15.—Geneva advices say tbat altbongb the court sits with closed doors, there is reason to know the time is occupied with consideration on which the deliherations of the hoard are to he conducted.

LONNON, ONT., July 16.—The case of Dr. Rufus Bratton, abducted from Canada on tbe fourth of June last and taken to South Cnrolina, came up on remand to-day. Bratton arrived here on Saturday, but kept concealsd until after the opening of conrt, when he made his appearance, to the great surprise of defendants, and his testimony showed that Cornwall, the prisoner, laid violent hands upon him on Wnterloo street, handcuffed him with tbe assistance of a cab driver, and thrnst him into the cars; that he protested to the last, and only yielded to them because he relied on British justice to sustain him in ths end. The case was further remanded.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

Twenty Cars Smashed up on the New Orleans, Mobile and Texas Railroad. Two Men Killed.

Between ono and two o'clock yesterdny moruing the return freight train on the New Orleans, Mobile and Texas railroad wns thrown from an omhankment eighteen feet high, near Rawle's Creek, twelve miles esst of Pascagoula. The train consisted of twenty freight cars, mostly empty, and one of Pullman's sleeping cars. All tbe freight cars were thrown from the embaukmeut, aud are said to bave been completely smnshed. The sleeping car was not tbrown off or in any way injured.

Engineer Carl, who is said to have been a most competent and careful officer, aud a brakeman named Conklin, were instantly killed.

The accident was caused by the washing away of the embankment under the track during the recent violent rain storms. The accident did not occur at the bridge, as was at first supposed, hnt at tbe high embankment near it. The bridge still stands intact and perfectly safe und sound, as we are informed by Captain Henry J. Jones, the private secretary of Mr. G. W. R. Bayley, the chief engineer and general superintendent of the road.

Captain Jones has furnished us the following dispatch, received by him from Mr. Bayley:

"Accident caused ouly by washing away of embankment under track, during a violent and protracted storm of wind and rain at night. No defect in bridge."—Picayune, July 14.

THE BROOKLYN BRIDGE.—The construction of the great suspension bridge from New York to Brooklyn progresses steadily. The original estimate of ite cost, made by Mr. John A. Roebling in 1867, was $7,000,000. Of this amount $2,163,337 was for the foundations and towers alone, and $150,000 for engineering. The cost as far as built, to wit: the Brooklyn tower, one hundred feet, and twenty feet of tower masonry on the New York side, besides the foundations, engines, machinery, engineering and contingencies, has exceeded the original estimate $1,336,894. There has been an increase in the size and elevation of the bridge. In the original estimate no allowances whatever were made for land or damages, which amount to $332,673, involving an additional expense of $8,000 for engineering to be added to that sum. A number of other large sums are accounted for, explaining the reason of the excess. Mr. Roebling gives the items of the revised estimate, amounting to $9,500,000.

THE Trenton Farmer of the thirteenth says:

Planters, this week, from Bienville, Jackson, Union nnd Claiborne report crops in these parishes as being excellent. A full crop of oats has been made and harvested. A sufficient amount of corn will be made for home consumption, and favored parts some to spare. The cotton is doing finely, blooming and holling well. Abont ten per cent. more was planted in cotton in these parishes this year than last, and up to date it is at least twenty per cent. better.

WE OBSERVE that J B. Price, Esq, of St. Mary parish, is announced as an independent candidate for Congress for the third Congressional district of Lonisiana. We are glad to see such men as Mr. Price interesting themselves in political affairs. It is an omen for good in these unhappy times of venality and corrnption.

FROM THE WORK.

Selma District, Alabama Conference.

MR. EDITOR: In addition to the short report I saw in the ADVOCATE of ths Selma District Conference, held in Orrville, Alabnma, permit me to add that it was perhaps the best that was ever held in the Alnbama Conference—certainly in this district. We feel very grateful to our worthy presiding elder for this grand religious festival, and secnring our own beloved Bishop Keener to preside over its deliberations. The conference was well attended; discussions quite intercsting; congregations large and attentive; sermons able, and accompanied "with the power of tho Holy Ghost." Bishop Keener and Rev. Mr. Richardson were exceedingly interesting in their missionary addresses, and lifted a collection of some $200. The Sabhnth school was nddressed by President McVoy, of Centenary Institute, with his chnracteristic ability; also by Waverley Briggs, Esq., lay delsgate from Summerfield, in a short, appropriate and surely the ablest address to which I have ever listened from one of his ago. Both prenchers nnd laymen left the conference all fired for the fight. Since the conference I have learned our presiding elder met the enemy at Suggsville, and after three days' hard fighting tbe village surrendered to "the great Captain of our host," and now the nnme of Jesus is glorified by all that people. Say to Bisbop Pierce we thank him for our elder, and for the glory of God and the good of the church to send out "a few more of the same sort," and oblige THE LAITY.

MARENGO COUNTY, June 2, 1872.

Mobile District Conference.

MR. EDITOR: This body met in Milton, Florida, May 23. We had to regret the absence of a Bishop. The lack of his counsel and preaching could not he compensated; for if there is any section of the church that especially needs the services of our great men, it is certainly this gulf coast. From Key West to Corpus Christi tho map is dotted thickly with towns and cities, in which Catholicism predominates. And in sympathy with it, and following closely in its footsteps, is its very imitative and pretentious little sister, tho so-called Protestant Episcopal Church. The powerful and active combinations of these organizations, nnd their baleful influence upon spiritual religion as taught by Methodists, Presbyterians and Baptists, no one can fully understand who has not labored in this region. A great battle is to be fought all along this line, and we need frequent visitations from our leading men.

Reports were made from all the stations and circuits, on all the interests of tbe church, and they showed a healthy condition of affairs generally, though some special charges fall far behind in almost every respect. Tho finances, that perpetual source of perplexity and embarrassment to preachers, were cruolly in arrears on Pollard, St. Stephen's and Mount Pleasant circuits. Some of the brethren seemed to think these circuits should be converted into missions, and a motion was made to request our next Bishop to put them on that list. But after much discussion the motion was withdrnwn.

The startling fact was discovered tbat the Mormons have organizations in our district, and are busily proaching their gospel of lust and discord. From Eastern Shore to Black Water river stretches an uninterrupted forest of magnificent pine trees, from which the immense saw mills located on the water courses supply, tbrough Pensacola and Milton, to nearly all parts of tho world, millions upon millions of feet of timber and lumber. The stocks for these mills are cut by men called "loggers," who live in tents and go from one place to another as the trees are exhausted. Mormonism comports, no doubt, witb the moral character and settled habits of many of these loggers, and it was no difficult matter for tbem to accept a religion whicb gives so large a license to lewd fellows of the baser sort. But these men all have souls, nnd must perish forever unless they have the gospel of Jesus. The conference thought a missionary should be sent among tbem, but had neither tbe man nor the money to spare.

The class meeting has been much revived in the district, especially in the city. St. Francis street heads the list. Abont eighty-five in that church, seventy in Franklin street and sixty in St. Paul's attend this meeting. The other stations and the circuits are not up to tbe mark, but are walking that way. St. Francis also leads in the Sunday school, and in the number received this year into tbe church.

On the Sunday school question the conference recommended "the universal adoption of the uniform lesson system," with the use, every Sunday, of our Methodist catechism. This cause is prosperous. The conference resolved to work for our Conference colleges at Tuskegee, Summerfield nnd Greensboro, and urged all parents in our bounds to patronize them, as entirely worthy of their confidence and patronage.

There are five parsonages in the district all paid for, and Pensacola is at work on the sixtb. The number of members stands about as it did when reported to the last Annual Conference. The following persons were elected to the next Annual Conference: James Malone, William Otis, John Chain and John Briggs. Alternates: W. L. Baker, A. C. Danna, W. Lambkin, J. L. Pon. The next meeting was appointed for Pensacola.

The results of the conference upon the church at Milton were very happy. Ten persons, among whom were two or three leading and influential gentlemen, and several young men of energy and intelligence, were added to the church. A better meeting, they say, has not been in that town in many, many years. We left Bro. Dennis three days after the other brethren, and he was happy and grateful.

J. W. RUSH, Secretary.

P. S.—The delay of this report, it is proper to add, was caused by my sickness and absence from home.

J. W. R.

Centenary Institute, Summerfield, Ala.

MR. EDITOR: Many of my friends, knowing that I located at Summerfield on account of its superior educational advantages, are continually seeking information from me in regard to our church school at this place, and I adopt this method of answering their numerous inquiries, and of giving to Centenary Institute the praise and recommendation it justly merits.

The time has come, sir, when our children must he educated, and educated upon Christian principles. This is more important now than at any time in our previous history. The necessities which the war has thrown upon us—material, social, political and moral—have given birth to competitious which every observing mind must recognize, and which demand now, and will yet more imperatively demand, the highest mental training and the soundest moral culture. Our sons must he educated, or they will be unable to cope with the growing armies of errorists that throng our land in both Church nnd State. This is indeed an age of progress, one current of which, absorbing myriad streams, sets fearfully downward. It is disorganizing and dissolving all that is good and pure which may come within reach. Its genius lacks the spirit of discrimination, and hence its tendencies are fraught with fearful evil. Against this we are called upon, as Christians, to make war. And we hold that one of the most effective means of doing so is to give our sons nnd daughters a Christian education. They will be driven from all positions of commanding influence without it. If we would not have them fall back to the positions of hewers of wood and drawers of water, we must educate them. If we would lift them above the positions of common laborers, and make them skilled workmen, we must educate them. If we do not wish every office and position of value and honor denied them; we must educate them. We may plead poverty, but we have a farm or a house and lot; better mortgage it for the means to educate our children than allow them to grow up in ignorance. If we live within the bounds of the Alabama Conference, and have daughters to graduate, or sons whom we wish thoroughly prepared for the pursuits of life, let us send them to Summerfield. It is a school of our church. Its course of instruction in each department is thorough. Its professors are Christian gentlemen of tried ability, varied experience, and apt teachers. In short, no institution we know affords better facilities for obtaining a thorough and Christian education than Centenary Institute.

First. We have here what may be termed the education of circumstances. And no element is more powerful in the formation of character than the circumstances, or, so to speak, the moral atmosphere in which the being to be educated is placed. We verily believe that many natures originally of a low cast, thrown under influences which tended to check the less worthy tendencies, to strengthen the good and to induce regularity over all, have been thereby enabled to pass through life in a creditable manner, if not with some higher result less open to observation. It is but a matter of everyday observance that a child reared amid gross scenes, where no restraint is imposed upon any of the feelings by those around him, will prove a very different being from one brought up amid virtuous and gentle people. And surely, if any place possesses these salutary influences, Summerfield does. It is a quiet village, removed from the thoroughfares of sin. Its people are refined, intelligent and Christian. I am glad to state that the institution is eight miles from the nearest railroad; for while we appreciate the advantages and facilities which railroads bring, yet evil temptations follow in their train, from which it is best that students should be removed. We do not believe in that fatal doctrine that a little temptation is not amiss as a means of training the young to withstand greater assaults, but applaud and recommend the principals of this institution for the zeal with which they remove evil things out of the reach of the young placed under their charge.

Second. We have here the education of example. Personal conduct in the educating party is all in all. The general conduct of the young is ruled very much by the nature of the conduct presented for their observation. It must obviously, then, be of the highest importance that the demeanor and general actions of the educator should be models of all that is proper. In this we have all that we could wish. As to Prof. McVoy, the president of the female department, his works speak more strongly in his favor than anything we can say. He is a Christian gentleman, and a teacher of unbounded zeal, unequaled energy and tried ability, and daughters coming to him will find his school a happy home, where sound learning, graceful accomplishments and true piety are taught. Of Prof. Massey, the able principal of the male department, enough cannot be said. His worth demands a greater tribute than our pen can offer. We can truly say that we never know a more judicious, energetic and lovable man, or one more peculiarly fitted for the position he occupies. We never saw a better system of discipline or a more thorough system of instruction than his. He is ably sustaining a school in our midst which can compare creditably with any in the land. Here our sons may be educated in an atmosphere filled with Christian influences, and where they can model after a man who adorns the highest learning with the purest faith.

Centenary, in common with other institutions, suffered heavily through the demoralizing effects of the war. But in all its misfortunes it seems to have been only stooping for a loftier flight, for it has just closed its most successful year since 1865. It has been a term of enlarged usefulness and signal success. Peace and harmony have characterized the intercourse of preceptors and pupils, and at the late commencement brilliant evidences were given of distinguished ability on the part of instructors and creditable progress on the part of students. In short, sir, the horoscope shines bright. Every indication points to a glorious future, when Centenary Institute shall boast once more the prosperity of the past, and shall send forth not only our sons and daughters with minds educated, refined and stored with useful knowledge, but shall be so blessed as to give to the world many prophets skilled, like Moses, in the learning of the land. A. J. BIGGS.

SUMMERFIELD, July 6, 1872.

THE Kansas City Times of the twenty-ninth ultimo says that Miss Amanda Barber, who married Squatting Bear, a brute Sioux chief, at Washington, in 1867, and went to Dakota Territory with her husband, as a missionary, arrived in that city on the steamer Fontenelle, from Fort Benton, on Friday last. After spending three years with the Sioux, suffering gross indignities, and being compelled to perform the most menial services, she attempted to escape, but was recaptured and beaten nearly to death by her husband, and then sold to a Cheyenne chief for three ponies. She was taken North in 1870, and remained with the Cheyennes till this spring, when she escaped to Fort Benton.

Alumni Meeting, Centenary College.

MR. EDITOR: A number of the alumni of Centenary College of Louisiana convened in the hall of the Union Literary Society on Tuesday evening, July 9, 1872.

Judge Abel J. Norwood, of East Feliciana, was called to the chair, and Rev. R. D. Norsworthy, of Jackson, appointed secretary.

An election for permanent officers of the Alumni Association resulted as follows, viz.: Judge A. J. Norwood, president; Colonel Haley M. Carter, of Tangipahoa, vice president; Rev. R. D. Norsworthy, recording secretary; Captain J. G. Kilborne, of Clinton, corresponding secretary; Dr. L. G. Perkins, of East Feliciana, treasurer.

Resolutions were adopted as follows:

Resolved, That it is the purpose of this association to endow a professorship in Centenary College, to be known as the alumni professorship.

Resolved, That in order to carry out this design the corresponding secretary of the association be directed to communicate with each alumnus of the college, and present an earnest solicitation for such contribution as each may be able to make for the above purpose.

Resolved, That they be requested to remit their contributions to the treasurer, Dr. L. G. Perkins, Clinton, Louisiana, who shall deposit the same in one of the banks of New Orleans, to be held sacred for the purpose above set forth.

Resolved, That the treasurer be directed to make a report to this association at its next meeting, when such steps will be taken to carry out this scheme as may then be deemed practicable.

Judge A. J. Norwood offered the following, which was adopted, viz.:

Resolved, That, to carry out this purpose, each alumnus is hereby earnestly requested to contribute at least $100, if within his power, and if unable to do this out of his own means, to raise it by appeal to friends or otherwise.

It was unanimously

Resolved, That the members of the association pledge themselves to do all they can to aid the college in its present necessities, independent of the proposed endowment, and that all contributions for this purpose be forwarded immediately to Prof. G. H. Wiley, Jackson, Louisiana.

Resolved, That we most heartily recommend the college to the liberality and patronage of the country at large.

The following committee was appointed to mature and report at the next annual meeting a plan for the effectual prosecution of the endowment of the chair of the alumni, viz.: Hon. John McVea, Clinton, chairman; W. F. Kenan, Esq., R. J. Bowman, Esq., Brainerd Spencer, Esq., Anthony Sambola, Esq., E. R. Jones, Esq., W. W. Farmer, Esq., Captain J. G. Kilborne, Dr. L. G. Perkins, Rev. C. G. Andrews.

The association elected the following to deliver addresses at the next annual meeting, July, 1873, viz.: Judge R. W. Richardson, Monroe, Louisiana, and Brainerd Spencer, Esq., Vidalia, Louisiana. The president was authorized to supply the place if either or both of these gentlemen should decline.

On motion the Alumni Association adjourned to meet on Tuesday before the second Wednesday in July, 1873, unless convened sooner by order of the president.

A. J. NORWOOD, President.
R. D. NORSWORTHY, Sec'y.

PERIODICALS.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE of June 22 has: The Romance of the Rose; A Russian of the Last Generation; Vesuvius in Eruption; Italy at Work; the German Empire and the Jesuits, and other articles.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE for July has a good table of contents, of which we note: Travels in the Air; History of the Fourth of July, and Private Art Collections of Philadelphia.

THE Southern Magazine, Good Health, the Sunday Magazine, Good Words for the Young, received late, are all up to their usual standard of merit.

ARTHUR'S LADIES' HOME MAGAZINE and the Children's Hour for July are up to their usual standard of purity and excellence.

MORTON'S MONTHLY HOME AND SCHOOL is published in Louisville, Kentucky. We have received the July number.

LE BON TON for this month is unusually rich in the number and finish of its colored plates.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JULY 18, 1872.

TWILIGHT.

Its filmy vail o'er summer skies
It drew, and cooled their fervid dyes.

With tenderer tint, on field and dell,
The light across the landscape fell;

It flushed on tired Childhood's cheek,
And said: "Thy dreamy pillow seek!"

To Plowman at his cottage door,
It whispered: "Rest! day's toil is o'er."

To wistful Watcher by the sea:
"The morn may bring thy ship to thee!"

It crowned the Saint upon his bier:
"Sleep well, God's own—the night is here!"

Kissed off the tears from weeping eyes:
"Have faith!—the day again shall rise!"

Its passing ray through chancel pane,
Wrote on the urn: "This life is vain!"

The spire's gold cross, athwart the sky,
Flashed its last words: "'Tis gain to die!"

And thus, with vari-colored thought,
Were evening shadows interwrought.

Thus to the earth the fading light
Gave benediction of the night.

Christian Union.

For the Advocate.

THE PRESIDING ELDERSHIP.

NO. II.—ITS DUTIES.

In a few words, these duties may be summed up as follows: They are the duties of the episcopacy, with the exception of ordaining. Then, when the presiding elder receives his appointment from the Bishop to the high and important office, he is to enter his district to do all the Bishop should do, were he present, with the important exception just mentioned. In one word, he is the overseer—the superintendent, the Bishop—of his appointed district. His duties are elaborately given in the Discipline. It is not necessary that they be stated here in full. I will mention only a few of them. "The presiding elder is to travel through his appointed district, in order to preach and to oversee the spiritual and temporal affairs of the church." Herein are embraced the principal features of his important work. Let us notice these a little. He is to preach. This is one of his most important duties. If the Bishop has made the proper selection, when the presiding elder comes to us he will preach, he will be a preacher sure enough, one that will be worth hearing—a strong, spiritual and efficient preacher—one that will do us good, and will take hold of the pastor and his people and lift them out of their old, formal way, and set them in a higher and better way, and give them a mighty impulse toward the kingdom of heaven! How often have I and my people been so refreshed by the preaching of the presiding elder, at quarterly meeting, that we have entered with renewed zeal and energy upon the duties of the Christian life!

The pastor, amid the routine of his duties, feels lonely sometimes, and he longs for heart-communion with some good, genial and holy man of God, whose heart and mind are in sympathy with his own. In the presiding elder he should find that man, who will come to him as a friend, a brother, a father to counsel with him in regard to all the ways and means of the great work which is before them. Then, as the presiding elder should always be a man of mature experience, he can instruct and greatly aid the pastor in the cultivation of his important field. Therefore, when the quarterly meeting begins, the presiding elder stands forth to preach his sermon of a very high order, and the pastor, who has not for some time perhaps heard any one preach except himself, listens, is instructed, and is, in common with his people, greatly benefited. Now this, of course, is as it should be. It is as we, with great pleasure, have often seen it. It seems to me that the presiding eldership, in that it brings the experienced and able presiding elder in such close relation to so many pastors, is certainly the most important field for usefulness that a minister of the gospel can occupy in these modern times. In that important office he is without the stern dignity of the episcopal office, and hence, if he will but do his duty, he can very easily place himself very close to the hearts of the pastors of his district and become the honored instrument of correcting their errors, of helping them to bear their burdens, and of aiding them in all their work and labor of love. Beside this, his office brings him before and in contact with the hundreds and thousands of the people of his extensive district as a preacher of the gospel of Christ. To them he may deliver his great messages of truth in a plainness, a simplicity and a power which would not perhaps very well become any one else. Here does his vast field of usefulness spread out before him in grandest magnitude and in the most beautiful splendor! How often, alas! have I sighed when I have seen a mighty man of God shut up in a small station, with but two or three hundred souls under his care to listen to his words of wisdom and power, while perhaps a novice, a mere babe in Christ, is sent out to labor in a great district as presiding elder! The former is like the great eagle put up in a little cage. Why this is allowed to be so by the powers that be, I cannot tell. It seems to me that grand eagle should be loosed, that he may extend his mighty pinions and fly abroad the plains, the hills and the mountains, that he may spread the wonderful tidings of salvation among the teeming thousands of our land.

But the presiding elder is to do something else beside "preach." He is to oversee the spiritual and temporal affairs of the church. Therefore he must be gifted with a vast deal of good, hard, practical common sense and administrative ability, as well as preaching talent. He must understand the law of the church as well as the gospel, and be fully able and ever ready to administer its wholesome principles. Here is also a field for the exercise of the highest order of talent. How important that the presiding elder have a good understanding, by which he may have a correct knowledge of men and of things! The spiritual welfare of his district largely depends on him. He should study the situation carefully and understand it thoroughly! He should be a good general, in order that he may marshal all the forces under his command and hurl them successfully against the mighty columns of the powers of darkness! Thus is he to drive them from and keep them out of his department. To do this he must take particular care that his army be kept under proper discipline, and always armed and equipped, as the divine law directs, for all the "glorious war!"

In addition to this he must, in order to keep up an efficient army, give very special attention to the quartermaster's and commissary departments—"the temporal affairs of the church." This is another duty which is of vital importance to both the pastor and his church. Often, alas! too often, does the financial machinery of a circuit or station become rusted and inefficient, so that those whose duty it is to work it—the stewards—become discouraged and despondent. But the presiding elder, who is a man of large and varied experience in such matters, and who has made them a special study, comes along, and he in private, in Quarterly Conference, and sometimes in the pulpit, takes hold of the old machinery, and, by putting on a little grease of advice here and of reproof there, sets it in motion, and, to the astonishment of all the beholders, it works admirably. Frequently have we seen it thus, to our great delight. To us it has seemed like the work of magic, or rather like the work of God under the hand of his wise and mighty servant!

The first of this Conference year one of my leading stewards said to me: "I do not wish to discourage you, but I will be candid in saying I do not see how we can support you this year. By death, removal and other causes we have lost a good deal financially, and the prospect is gloomy enough." I was not much discouraged, for I had often heard stewards talk that way before. After a little time our excellent presiding elder came to the first quarterly meeting. He was fresh from other fields, where the brethren had devised liberal things. He had the warm, stirring and mighty spirit in him, and, wonderful to tell, he infused it into the entire Quarterly Conference, and they made a higher assessment than they did last year! This, I have no doubt, will all be paid. Beside this, they have repaired the parsonage and its premises, and have given me a nice horse.

Said a Presbyterian minister to me once: "I wish very much we had your office of presiding elder in our church, for it seems to be a wonderful means of building up the financial as well as the spiritual interests of your church."

A PASTOR.

For the Advocate.

BREAKERS AHEAD.

MR. EDITOR: I purpose to notice some features of the report of the Committee on the State of the Church, recommending the appointment of fraternal messengers to the Methodist Episcopal Church South. I think this sudden uprising, unanimous voting, platform, bishops and all, is calculated to awaken suspicion.

Absorption failed, disintegration failed; yet "the three hundred thousand members, with their houses of worship, institutions of learning," etc.—"We have need to strengthen and reinforce our work," etc.; "but in this we desire to avoid all unfriendly rivalries with our brethren of the Church South."

Again: "We believe that very generally there has hitherto existed among our people a disposition of good will and Christian fraternity toward the Methodist Episcopal Church South." When, how, and by whom? Surely not when our fraternal messengers were refused recognition in 1848; neither was it from 1848 to 1861, during which time the Methodist Episcopal Church South was anathematized, denounced in the pulpit and by the press, by ministers and members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. No "good will and Christian fraternity" all this time. It could not have been when one of the Bishops followed the army with Order No. 15, when the pastors of the Church South were driven out, and the loyal preachers of the Methodist Episcopal Church were given possession of churches and parsonages of the Church South. Nor after the roar of artillery had ceased, and the smoke of the battle had blown away. Then it pounced upon our churches by authority of the righteous Stanton. Even then we were unrepenting slaveholders and hardened rebels. If I had not gone to Springfield, Missouri, in 1868, and found the church and parsonage occupied by a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church—taken from the Methodist Episcopal Church South; if I had not visited the grave of the immortal Headlee, and heard from eye-witnesses the circumstances of his murder; if the leader of the mob who murdered him had not been a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, then I might believe that "good will and Christian fraternity" had existed.

They may be acting upon the principle: "Whom they love they chasten." If so, their love is sincere and intense.

Again, the committee say: "We are content to let past events go into history or be forgotten." Deliver the Church South from any such history! Also from any connection with a church that would make such a history for itself. "Go into history or be forgotten!"—Doubtless the better part of the Methodist Episcopal Church desire that "past events be forgotten;" but they are matters of history, and will be handed down to posterity, to the reproach of those who have resorted to absorption, disintegration, vilifying, cheating and robbing. Breakers ahead!

Was it any evidence of "good will," when redress for grievances and wrongs had been sought, to be treated with contempt?

Dr. Slicer, in his speech in favor of the appointment of fraternal messengers to the Church South, explained the great change that has occurred in the Methodist Episcopal Church. He said: "This is a matter in which we cannot lose anything, and we may gain much." Union with the Methodist Episcopal Church in any way would injure us in the South. They know there is a large number of the most respectable white population in the South they never can have access to without there is a change in the two branches of the church; and Dr. Slicer was correct when he said: "This is a matter in which we cannot lose anything, and we may gain much."

I think both churches will do better, will prosper more, to continue as they have been since 1848, than for any change to occur. The Methodist Episcopal Church South has a work to do in the South that none other can do, and a work it cannot do in connection with the Methodist Episcopal Church. Some of us know too much about that church to desire any change, Bishop Paine's tears over the present state of affairs to the contrary notwithstanding. Bishop Paine may have shed tears over the recklessness of the bishops, ministers and members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Who could avoid shedding tears when the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in 1868, sang a song over the nomination of their candidate for President (Grant?) But I do not believe Bishop Paine shed tears because the Church South is separated from the Methodist Episcopal Church.

MISSISSIPPI.

For the Advocate.

Difficulties in the Way of Vocal Prayer.

MY DEAR BRETHREN: I hear some of you complain of another great difficulty in the way of your praying orally, either in your families or in our church prayer meetings. It is that sometimes necessity requires you to have irreligious persons in your families, such as teachers, clerks and mechanics, with occasional visitors; and that even those who scoff at religion come to the public prayer meetings; and however willing you might be to pray with your wife and children at home, or with only your brethren at church, you cannot consent to expose what you are pleased to call your "weakness in prayer" in the hearing of these wicked people. I am very sorry to hear you say that. If you prayed to men, or to please men, there might be some sort of plausibility in your excuse; but the leading idea of acceptable prayer is to pray to God and to please him, no matter what men may think about your performance. And who are these irreligious persons and scoffers you so much dread? They are mere men; their breath is in their nostrils, and they are passing to the tomb; they are rebels against God and on the way to hell, and unless they learn to pray, and to pray right, they will soon be hopelessly lost. Why, then, let the presence of such poor, sinful and guilty mortals embarrass you? Perhaps if you would do your duty in their presence you might become instrumental in the salvation of some of them. But let me tell you how a good man I once knew managed this difficult point. There was something so original in his plan that I treasured it up. He was a young gentleman of intelligence and wealth and elevated social position. About the time of his marriage himself and wife united with a few others in the formation of a new church in his vicinity. His mind soon became deeply impressed with the duty of praying in his young family. But there was a great obstacle in the way. Though his education was superior, his vocality was not easy, so that when he became embarrassed he stammered somewhat. His house was often the resort of candidates for office, professional characters and other literary persons; and while he was willing and ready to pray in presence of his family, it was embarrassing to think of praying in the presence of the literati who often spent the night at his house. He soon, however, found relief in the following plan: When those persons were present he would tell them, in addition to his own sense of propriety, the rules of his church required him to worship God in his family, and then, politely offering them the books, he would ask them to lead their devotions. They, of course, would decline in favor of his doing it, as he was accustomed to it, and they were not. Then he would think to himself: "Why should I fear them? They can't pray at all, and I can pray some, so that I am just that much ahead of them; and instead of my being ashamed, they ought to feel so themselves." A little practice, however, soon relieved him of all painful embarrassment, and he became one of the most gifted and influential laymen I ever knew, praying with power in all the social meetings of the church, and excelling any other layman in my knowledge in visiting and praying with the sick and dying everywhere in his reach. He died in the prime of manhood, after filling all the offices in the church within the sphere of a layman, and several important positions in civil life, leaving a family which has honored his name and his church. I have now stated some of the most common difficulties in the way of vocal prayer, and I trust, have shown their fallacy. In my next, which will be the last, I propose to state some of the disadvantages of neglecting to cultivate the habit of vocal prayer.

J. G. JONES.

PORT GIBSON, Mississippi.

For the Advocate.

NOTE FROM A LADY.

MR. EDITOR: I have just laid aside the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. I thank you very much for it. I hope we shall never be without it, and I hope it may live perpetually. And when the clear head, earnest heart and willing hand that now wields the editorial pen, shall rest from its labors, may its power rest on another as faithful. There is a charm about the ADVOCATE, even its vitality. Its healthful earnestness is refreshing to the mind longing for pure truth. Ever may its ringing voice be heard urging its readers on to the prize of eternal life. And then another attraction about the ADVOCATE is that we hear something of or from that bright-faced Christian man, Bishop Keener, in nearly every number. I thank him for his letters from California. They were exceedingly interesting. The Bishop gave me a piece of information that gave much satisfaction. I was much amused at the idea. He said that he had often been astonished at the silence of persons who had crossed the plains, but he explains the mystery all away by telling us that there is absolutely nothing to say. I had been really pained because persons who had been favored with the opportunity had been so silent. Long may the Bishop live to bless the church by his counsels and prayers. He has a peculiar gift in prayer. I never heard any one who affected me as he does. I was reading, this morning, his description of the site of the seashore camp ground. How like him it was! Oh! how I should like to be there this morning, not only to enjoy the life-giving breezes of the grand old ocean, but to hear also the "impassioned cries of God's ministers" as they pour forth the sweet story of the cross. I pray God that when the breezes of time have wafted you over the ocean of life, you may camp eternally in the great harbor of peace. ANNA G.

FORT SMITH, ARK., June 24, 1872.

IT IS a curious fact that publishing music books is considered a very unprofitable business in the land of music, Italy. There is not a single wealthy man among the music publishers of that country.

LET the day have a blessed baptism by giving your first waking thought into the bosom of God. The first hour of the morning is the rudder of the day.—Beecher.

For the Advocate.

The Obligation, Nature and Administrators of Baptism.

I. The obligation of Christian baptism, I believe, is acknowledged by all Christians, except the Quakers, who reject water baptism altogether. Its obligation is based on the great command of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, to his apostles, and is recorded in Matt. xxviii, 19: "Go teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost." And also on the example of Christ's apostles, and not on Christ's baptism by John in Jordan, as some Christians suppose.

II. We will notice the nature of Christian baptism. Well, what is the nature of Christian baptism? We will answer this question, first, negatively; second, positively.

1.—Negatively. First. Christian baptism is not regeneration, as Tertullian supposed, and Alexander Campbell taught in the nineteenth century, because no man or woman, not laboring under a mental delusion, can believe that water can wash away the sins of the soul. Second. It is not the quantum of water used that constitutes legal baptism, as all immersionists suppose. It matters not how much or how little water is used in baptizing, so the element water is applied to the subject in administering the sacrament in the name of the Trinity. Third. It is not a regular line of succession from John the Baptist down to the present time that constitutes a legal administrator of the sacrament of baptism, as our Baptist brethren suppose, because no such unpolluted regular line of succession can be traced or proved to exist, either from John the Baptist or the Apostle St. Peter. Fourth. It is not any particular mode of baptism that constitutes it legal, in opposition to all other modes. Pouring or sprinkling, which is the Bible mode, is as valid as immersion.

2. We will answer the question positively. Christian baptism is the application of water to a proper subject, by an authorized minister of the gospel of Jesus Christ, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. But what is its nature and obligation? We answer: First. It is a sign and seal of a covenant of grace entered into between God, the offended, and man, the offender. God, on his part, promises to be merciful to man, the offender; and man, on his part, promises to obey God, the offended, all the days of his life, by renouncing the world, the flesh and the devil, so as not to be led or governed by them. O what a solemn vow is this, and how fearful the obligation is, and yet we fear comparatively few observe it. As a sign, baptism is a public acknowledgment of Christ before men by joining his church, and thus distinguishing ourselves from the world. Water baptism is also an emblem of the baptism of the Holy Ghost. It is the outward sign of the work of inward grace in the soul. But who are the legally authorized administrators of the sacrament of baptism? We answer: Those that are called of God to preach the gospel, and none else; for no man has the right to administer the sacrament of baptism unless he is called of God, "as was Aaron." Are Methodist preachers called of God to preach the gospel? We answer: We believe they are, for the following reasons—First. Because they are as able expositors of the gospel of Jesus Christ as the world has ever produced. Second. Because God has wonderfully blessed their labors not only to the world of mankind, but also to the several different Christian churches. Third. Because their Baptist brethren themselves acknowledge them to be called of God to preach the gospel by inviting them to preach in their pulpits. We conclude, therefore, that Methodist preachers are called of God to preach the gospel, and their right to baptize follows as a matter of course. But it is objected and said that Methodist ministers are not legal administrators of the sacrament of baptism because they have not been baptized by immersion, by an immerser who himself had been immersed by an immersor, in the regular line of succession from John the Baptist down to the present time. To this we answer: According to this objection our Baptist brethren themselves, who raise the objection, are not legal administrators of the ordinance of baptism; because, first, they cannot trace their line of succession in the United States of America further back than to Roger Williams, who was the founder of the first Baptist Church in America, which, according to the objection, was no church at all; because, according to Mr. Benedict, Mr. Holoman, who baptized Mr. Williams, was not a member of any church at the time he baptized him by immersion, neither had Mr. Holoman been immersed himself; because our Baptist historian, Mr. Benedict, goes on to inform us that Mr. Williams in turn baptized Mr. Holoman and ten others. This is the origin of the Baptist Church in America, according to Mr. Benedict, the Baptist historian. And according to the objection now before us, it was no church at all. Now, if any of our Baptist brethren were able to show that they are in the line of succession from Mr. Holoman and Mr. Williams, which it is impossible for them to do, there would be other insurmountable difficulties in the way. First. They would have to show that this golden chain of succession was not broken nor polluted while passing through the Church of Rome, from John the Baptist down to them at the present time, which is also impossible for them to do. But if this could be done, the difficulty then would be to tell us who baptized John the Baptist by immersion, or in any other way. It is objected, again, that the Methodist preachers do not believe that immersion is valid baptism, and therefore, if they baptize by immersion, it is not valid, because they do not believe in it. And their argument, or rather their assumption, to sustain this objection is that they preach against immersion, and therefore they do not believe in it. To this we answer that the Methodist preachers preach against the assumption that makes immersion the only valid baptism; and to make it valid it must be administered by one of them—one of their own faith and order, one that believes in eternal personal election, particular redemption, and the final, unconditional perseverance of the saints, and that they are the only true church of Christ on earth, and the only legal administrators of the ordinance of baptism, and that baptism administered by any other class of ministers is null and void, though it be administered by immersion, and they be the most holy, good men on earth. This is the doctrine that Methodist preachers preach against, and not against the validity of baptism by immersion; because Methodist preachers do believe in the validity of baptism by immersion, not because the subjects are wet all over in water by plunging them into some pond, creek or river, but because the element water is used in administering the sacrament of baptism in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Therefore we conclude that Methodist preachers are as legal administrators of the ordinance of baptism as any body of ministers on earth. Therefore these two unfounded assumptions, designed to unchurch the Methodists, unchurch the Baptists themselves, namely, that they as a church are in the regular line of succession from John the Baptist, and this golden chain of succession has not been broken nor polluted down to the present time. In tracing back this line of unbroken succession from them to John the Baptist, they are not able to follow it further back than to Roger Williams. There is the end of this unbroken chain of succession that they say to the world reaches back unpolluted to John the Baptist. Standing on this false assumption, they say to the whole Christian world: Stand aside; we are more holy than thou; we are the true church of Christ; we have the only true gospel ministers; we have the only true sacraments, and we are the only true people to receive those holy sacraments; everybody else must stand aside, it matters not how holy and useful they may be in winning souls to Christ; they cannot commune with us. To strengthen this false assumption they add to it a positive falsehood, namely, that Methodist preachers do not believe that immersion is valid baptism, when everybody acquainted with the Methodist Discipline knows that it makes it the duty of all ordained Methodist preachers to baptize by immersion when persons desire it. The Discipline of the Methodist Church leaves it with the people to choose for themselves, and when they desire to be baptized by immersion, by a Methodist preacher, everybody acquainted with Methodist preachers knows that they baptize them by immersion. Yet in the face of all this it is stated and reiterated that Methodist preachers do not believe in the validity of baptism by immersion, and therefore, if you are baptized by immersion by one of them, it is not valid baptism, because they do not believe in it. Is this true? Is this just?

JAMES SHANKS.

REPEATED AFFLICTIONS.—I feel that they come not as the lightnings on the scathed tree, blasting it yet more; but as the strokes of the sculptor on the marble block, forming it to the image of life and loveliness. Let but the divine presence be felt, and no lot is hard. Let me but see his hand, and no event is unwelcome.

BEAUTIFUL.—In closing the eyes for nightly rest it is good to say: "He giveth his beloved sleep;" and in opening them, when night is past, to say: "When I awake I am still with thee."

NOTHING more impairs authority than a too frequent or indiscreet use of it. If thunder itself was to be continual, it would excite no more terror than the noise of a mill.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JULY 18, 1872.

THE VOICELESS.

BY OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES.

We count the broken lyres that rest
Where the sweet wailing singers slumber,
But o'er their silent sister's breast
The wild flowers who will stoop to number?
A few may touch the magic string,
And noisy fame be proud to win them;
Alas! for those who never sing,
But die with all their music in them.

Nay, grieve not for the dead alone,
Where song has told their heart's sad story;
Weep for the voiceless who have known
The cross without the crown of glory!
Not where Leucadian breezes sleep
O'er Sappho's memory-haunted pillow,
But where the glistening night dews weep
O'er nameless sorrow's churchyard willow.

O hearts that break and give no sign,
Save whitening lip and fading tresses,
Till death pours out his cordial wine,
Slow dropped from misery's crushing presses,
If singing breath or echoing chord
To every hidden pang were given,
What endless melodies were poured,
As sad as earth, as sweet as heaven!

Textual Helps from Bible Lands.

BY REV. O. E. ROBINSON, D. D.

After our pleasant rest beside the ancient fountain, we continued the journey, pressing forward toward the plain of Jericho. The road grew even more and more bleak and inhospitable as we advanced. The rocks became raggeder than ever; the soil was utterly burned up with heat. We soon overtook the train bearing our tents and baggage. A most motley company it was, men, mules and asses, shouting and braying, each in turn, as he best knew how.

"ISSACHAR."

When Jacob was bidding farewell to his children by name, he exclaimed: "Issachar is a strong ass, couching down between two burdens; and he saw that rest was good, and the land that it was pleasant; and bowed his shoulder to bear, and became a servant unto tribute." I never had a full sense of the meaning of this verse until I saw the weary and yet patient train of those small animals picking their slow way along that execrable road. The drivers cheered and beat them, patted and poked them, took hold and helped them, did everything mannerly and manly by turns to get them forward.

The packages were slung across—"two burdens"—protruding far out each side. A feeble bell, with no more ring to it than a piece of tin, hung from each neck. But those hardy creatures carried tremendous loads, and simply plodded on, the emblems of dull and unrewarded labor. Their footing was generally quite sure; but now and then the load would strike some jut of rock, and down they would fall or "couch," half in helplessness, half in ill temper.

One could easily see in such paths as these how the animal Balaam rode, in a moment of fright at seeing an angel with a drawn sword, would shy, and "thrust herself against the wall," and inevitably crush the rider's foot painfully on the stones.

THE BROOK CHERITH.

By-and-by we reached a terrible ravine; one of the most interesting in all Palestine for the lines of extended history that meet and cross in it, and one of the most sublime for the awful scenery it discloses.

A gorge, the precipitous sides of which are torn off with most singular contortions, opens down into a dark wet gulf, some five hundred feet deep. The descent shelves almost perpendicularly sheer off from the brink to the bottom, where it checks itself at the bed of a slender rivulet. The geological formations thereabouts were the most marvelous I ever examined. I could think of nothing else for a comparison but the twisted edges left withered and distorted in a series of iron plates by the passage of a cannon-ball through them, when ordnance of heaviest caliber is being tested. Yet these repulsive cliffs are covered with innumerable grottoes—mere caves dug in the wild and inhospitable rock, as cheerless and disciplinary as any blighted heart can well conceive. In these once dwelt hundreds of anchorites and hermits, lazy old monks, who haunted the mighty solitudes of this region just before the crusades.

This valley, with its little rivulet running through, is identified as the place where Elijah went forth into the wilderness; and that minute stream, the waters of which in that fiery sunshine could easily be imagined to cease, was the brook Cherith. As we wound slowly by it, a few black dismal ravens kept sailing in a melancholy circle over and along the desolate ledges, to complete the verisimilitude of the remembrance.

THE STONING OF ACHAN.

Moreover, this was the scene of that dreadful execution under the ancient law of retribution, when the man who stole the golden wedge and the Babylonish garment, the "troubler of Israel," was stoned to death. Horror and gloom even now rest over the entire region.

I am ready to say that nowhere in Palestine did I find any presentation of nature which arrested my imagination more, with its uncouth and yet majestic grandeur, than this rough ravine wrested apart by some unrecorded convulsion of inner fires. The entire chasm was apparently seamed and scarred, gashed and rent, with a thousand splinters and ridges all the way down.

"One can understand at once, therefore, the fine point of that otherwise violent metaphor, when the prophet is instructed to say that when the Lord shall "speak comfortably" to his people, "even in the wilderness," their joy in his pure companionship shall be so great that even the "valley of Achor" shall be for "a door of hope;" this very doleful gorge shall seem like an opened rift of peace.

JERICHO AT LAST.

At nightfall we reached the vast and once beautiful plain where Jericho was originally planted. A few undistinguishable and uninteresting ruins mark the locality. The English Society have cut into the mounds, but no one knows what they mean; they seem mere cones of rubbish.

We came into camp very quietly, for the memories of such a day are fairly oppressive. No ride we ever took is so populous with reminiscences as this, from Jerusalem to Jericho.

THE SPRING OF ELISHA.

We found our welcome tents pitched beside the old fountain, whose history is recorded in the biography of Elisha the prophet. We quenched our thirst from the clear water of this really beautiful stream, and soon fell away into musing under the murmur of its musical play over the pebbles.

It was hard to make the scene seem veritable. Could it be true that the wise old friend of that Shunammite woman sat where now we were sitting, and on the crystal current of this very rivulet wrought his miracle? Was it here he threw in that wonderful handful of salt? And was this notable act performed in the presence of the inhabitants of a great lost city, that then spread far and wide over this desolate plain?

A gravelly mountain slants up behind the issue out of the rock; a finely-branching tree overhangs it. And with our backs against the cliff, under the shelter of the boughs, we lay down quietly beneath the canvas, unalarmed, though in the midst of perils. I shall never forget how soothing to us that sultry night seemed the words of the Psalm: "I will both lay me down in peace, and sleep, for thou, Lord, only makest me to dwell in safety."—Christian Weekly.

LIVINGSTONE FOUND.

Stanly, the head of the Herald expedition in search of Livingstone, has found him, has shaken hands with him, has talked with him. So the mystery which has for years hung over the fate or whereabouts of the intrepid explorer is cleared away, according to the telegraph, which announces that letters have been received at London from Stanly direct, of which the following is a summary:

Stanly reached Unyanyembe on the twenty-third of September, 1871, having lost on the way by illness one white man, two of the armed escort, eight pagagis, two horses and twenty-seven asses. From thence he intended advancing on Ujiji, but found terrible difficulties in the way. Miramho, King of Ajowa, declared that no caravan should pass Ujiji except over his body. The Arabs declared war and anticipated victory. "I gave assistance the first day, in concert with the Arabs; attacked two villages, and captured, killed and drove away the inhabitants. On the second day I caught a fever. On the third day the Arabs were ambushed and routed with terrific slaughter. On the fourth day there was a general desertion of the Arabs and my own men, all but six; Miramho threatened Unyanyembe. I fortified the house, collected one hundred and fifty fugitives, with five days' provisions, and hoisted the American flag. Mirambo retired without attacking. I then started for Ujiji on another road.

"The Arabs endeavored to dissuade me, and said that death was certain, and frightened my followers. Shaw deserted, but I nevertheless pushed forward over the untrodden desert for four hundred miles, and reached the suburbs of Ujiji, which I entered firing guns and carrying the American flag at the head of the procession. The astonished natives flocked out in crowds, with deafening shouts. I noticed in the center of a group of Arabs, strongly contrasting their sunburned faces, a hale-looking, gray-bearded white man, wearing a naval cap, with a faded gold band, and red woolen shirt, preserving a demeanor of calmness before the Arabs. I inquired: 'Dr. Livingstone, I presume?'

"He, smiling, answered yes. He informed me that he started in March, 1866, with twelve Sepoys, nine Johanna men, and seven liberated slaves. He traveled up the bank of the Rouuma; his men got frightened, deserted and reported Livingstone dead, as an excuse for desertion. He crossed the Chambezi, and found it not the Portuguese Zambese, but a wholly separate river. He traced it and found that it was called further on Lualoba. He explored seven hundred miles, and found that the Chambezi is doubtless the source of the Nile, and that the length of the Nile is two thousand six hundred miles. It is not supplied by the Tanganyika. He reached within one hundred and eighty miles of the explored ground, when he was obliged to return to Ujiji destitute. He here met me. We both left on the sixteenth of October, and arrived at Unyanyembe at the end of November. We spent twenty eight days exploring the district together.

"We spent Christmas in Ujiji. I arrived on the coast March 14, leaving Livingstone at Unyanyembe, to explore the north of Tanganyika lake, and the remaining one hundred and eighty miles of the Lualeba river. This will occupy the next two years."

It does not appear whether Livingstone himself wrote to his friends by the Stanly mail. Could he have wantonly neglected this rare opportunity to drop a line to the anxious world outside of Africa, and let it know that he still lives? But he may have been out of ink.—New York Observer.

A Presbytery and Gen. Washington on the Subject of God in the Constitution.

The following correspondence between the "Presbytery of the Eastward" and George Washington is dated shortly after the adoption of the Constitution. It was taken from the Massachusetts Centinel of December 5, 1789:

"The Presbytery of the Eastward, convened at Newburyport, in their address to the President of the United States, in his late tour, says: 'Among the objections to the Federal Constitution we never considered the want of a religious test—that grand engine of persecution in every tyrant's hand. But we should not have been alone in rejoicing to have seen some explicit acknowledgment of the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom he has sent, inserted somewhere in the Magna Charta of our country. We are happy to find, however, that this defect has been amply remedied in the face of all the world by the piety and devotion in which your first public act of office was performed, by the religious observance of the Sabbath, and of the public worship of God, of which you have set so eminent an example, and by the warm strains of Christian and devout affection which run through your late proclamation for a general Thanksgiving.'

"To the Ministers and Ruling Elders delegated to represent the Churches in Massachusetts and New Hampshire, which compose the first Presbytery of the Eastward:

"Gentlemen—The affectionate welcome which you are pleased to give me to the eastern parts of the Union would leave me without excuse, did I fail to acknowledge the sensibility which it awakens, and to express the most sincere return that a grateful sense of your goodness can suggest.

"To be approved by the praiseworthy is a wish as natural to becoming ambition as its consequence is flattering to our self-love.

"I am, indeed, much indebted to the favorable sentiments which you entertain toward me, and it will be my duty to study to deserve them.

"The tribute of thanksgiving, which you offer the gracious Father of Lights, for his inspiration of our public councils with wisdom and firmness to complete the National Constitution, is worthy of men who, devoted to the pious purposes of religion, desire their accomplishment by such means as advance the temporal happiness of their fellow-men.

"And here, I am persuaded, you will permit me to observe that the path of true piety is so plain as to require but little political direction.

"To this consideration we ought to ascribe the absence of any regulations respecting religion from the Magna Charta of our country. To the guidance of the ministers of the gospel this important object is perhaps more properly committed. It will be your care to instruct the ignorant and to reclaim the devious. And in the progress of morality and science; to which our government will give every furtherance, we may confidently expect the advancement of true religion and the completion of our happiness.

"I pray the munificent Rewarder of virtue that your agency in this work may receive its compensation here and hereafter.

"GEORGE WASHINGTON."

A GENTLEMAN, who had a very deaf servant, was advised by a friend to discharge him. "No, no," replied the gentleman, with much good feeling, "that poor creature could never hear of another situation."

Our short sleep past, we wake eternally,
And death shall be no more; Death, thou shalt die. Dr. Donne.

LEGENDS OF THE YELLOWSTONE.

Even in the middle of summer the snow is so deep in these mountains that successive government exploring parties were baffled in their attempts to enter them, and all private expeditions have been driven off by the Indians. It is said that the Crows fear, as the vales are so green, that if the white man once knows of their beauty their hunting grounds will be ruined. These vales are the resort of numberless herds of buffalo and wild game, and here, the trappers tell us, is the "mother region" of the gold, where the Indians told Father de Smet it was found on the surface. Here are burning plains, so testifies Bridger, at the head of the Yellowstone, and large lakes, and boiling springs like the geysers of Iceland. Here he saw his Two Ocean river, which, after flowing for some distance, separates into two large streams—one traveling to the Atlantic, the other to the Pacific. In one of these vales is a large tract of sage-brush, every leaf and branch perfect, and here and there rabbits, sage-hens, and even Indians, all turned to solid stone. Ill fares it with whosoever penetrates these mysteries, for the genius of the place at once adds him to the group of statuary. More wonderful still—and our trapper told it with great awe—these bushes bear rare fruit—thousands of rubies, sapphires, diamonds, emeralds, large as walnuts. "I tell you, sir," said one veracious narrator to Captain Reynolds, "it is true, for I gathered a quart myself, and sent them down the country." A party of whites were once hotly pursued by Indians, and could only travel by night, when they were aided by the brilliant light shot from a huge diamond in a neighboring mountain, by which they traveled on for three consecutive nights. Here once an old trapper was lost on his road from Fort Laramie to Taos, and wandered for many days; and in drinking from a stream found pieces of yellow metal large as hazel-nuts, which he carried to Taos and found to be gold. He spent many years seeking the place again, but in vain. These and many other legends and traditions of these regions the trapper gave us as truths familiar in the mountains as household words, which it would be impious to doubt.—Lippincott's Magazine.

DEATH OF A MISSIONARY.—The Rev. William Ellis, the missionary of Madagascar, died in England on June 11, aged seventy-seven years. He became connected in early life with the London Missionary Society, under whose auspices he went out to prosecute his labors in the South Sea Islands. From 1833 to 1840 he was foreign secretary to the society. On the reopening of Madagascar after the ever-memorable persecutions and martyrdoms, he was chosen to go forth as the deputation from England to the Christians who had remained or been raised up there under the ordeal of fire and sword. Of him it may be said, as of Barnabas of old, that "when he came and had seen the grace of God, he was glad, and exhorted them all that with purpose of heart they would cleave unto the Lord." The narrative of his observations and experience is perhaps the most remarkable chapter in the history of modern missions.

It is said that when the question of a separate bishopric for Madagascar was first mooted, it was offered to Mr. Ellis, although a Dissenter, the Archbishop of Canterbury undertaking to ordain and consecrate him if he would accept it. The proposal was declined. He has published a "History of Madagascar," "Three Visits to Madagascar," "Vindication of the South Sea Missions," "History of the London Missionary Society."

AT A RECENT MEETING of ministers the question was discussed whether it would not be desirable to give members of congregations some active services in public worship. The only important objection made to this was the suggestion of a brother that it might break in upon the arrangements of some people who were like the woman he had heard of. Her minister was so much moved by the effort she made to come to church, particularly after so hard a week's work as she had done, that he warmly commended her interest in the services of the sanctuary. "Yes," she said, "it does seem real good to come to meetin', and set down and jest think of nothin'."

THERE are about one thousand Young Men's Christian Associations in the United States and in the British Provinces, with a membership of one hundred and fifty thousand, composed of the active, liberal, working element in the churches, without reference to denominational distinctions.

THE Welsh church at Radnor, Delaware county, Ohio, is in the midst of a very great revival. The church was organized by a colony from Wales, fifty-three years ago.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

THE American Woman's Missionary Society have now twenty-eight missionaries—17 in Calcutta, 3 in Japan, 2 in Burmah, 3 in China, 2 in Smyrna, and 1 in Greece. They have also about 70 native preachers.

THE New York Evangelist publishes the following as some of the fruits of missionary labor: Converts in China, 6,000; Burmah and India, 70,857; Turkey, 23,000; Madagascar, 20,000; Africa, 15,000; Sandwich Islands, 68,000; and other fields numbering in the aggregate 70,857.

A NOBLE EXAMPLE.—Bryant says: "One of the most interesting things to be seen in Mexico is the school of Tecpan de Santrigo, a charitable institution founded and supported by a Mexican lady, the Senora Baz, wife of an opulent gentleman who has formerly filled the post of Governor of the Province of Mexico." In this school are five hundred boys, picked up from the streets of the city and saved from vagabondage by being educated, not only by means of books, but in useful trades. Bryant greatly admired the noble example of this Mexican lady, who gave her fortune and daily labor to this institution.

THE Episcopal laity of Ohio, at their recent Diocesan Convention, started a league for providing for the families of deceased clergymen. The plan is simply this: "Every subscriber pays $2 on becoming a member, constituting a reserve fund for incidental expenses. Then, he pledges himself to pay $2 on the death of any clergyman resident in the Diocese of Ohio. On the basis of nine thousand communicants, it is thought there should be at least three thousand subscribers to such a league, thus securing $6,000 to the family of a deceased clergyman, at a cost to each subscriber of not more than $2 a year, as the deaths do not average more than one a year."

EPISCOPAL.—A bishop is at last to be appointed for Madagascar. The English Churchman says that a compromise has been proposed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, under which the opposition of the London Missionary Society is to be withdrawn and the appointment made. The proposed bishop will probably have no territorial title, but be a bishop in partibus. He will be sent out with the understanding that while he is empowered to administer to the English residents in the island, and to establish missions among the heathen population, yet that he will abstain from any direct interference with the Christian missions already existing in the island.

THE Cumberland Presbyterian Board of Missions reports promising prospects. An encouraging work is going on among the Choctaws. Another missionary has been appointed among this people. Small sums of money are still being received for the foreign field. The board are earnestly examining the various fields among the heathen, as well as Mohammedan and nominally Catholic countries, and expects to be able to lay before the next Assembly a definite course of action in this matter. Meanwhile, properly qualified young men of this church, who feel called to the foreign field, are invited to communicate with the board. A colored minister has offered himself as a missionary among the colored people, and has been accepted. An enlargement of the German work is contemplated. The Home Mission work is actively pressed. Altogether the outlook is more promising than it has been for years past.

THE Curiosities of Literature has the following on that most egregious of literary blunders, the edition of the vulgate by Sixtus the Fifth. The Pope carefully superintended every sheet as it passed through the press; and to the amazement of the world the work remained without a rival—it swarmed with errata. A multitude of scraps were printed to paste over the erroneous passages in order to give the true text. The book made a whimsical appearance with patches; and the heretics exulted in this demonstration of papal infallibility! The copies were called in, and violent attempts made to suppress it; a few still remain for the raptures of the biblical collector. At a late sale the Bible of Sixtus the Fifth fetched above sixty guineas—not much for a mere book of blunders! The world was highly amused at the bull of the editorial Pope prefixed to the first volume, which excommunicates all printers who, in reprinting the work, should make any alteration in the text.

WE RECENTLY NOTICED that a Roman Catholic journal had asserted that several Protestant converts at Madrid, Spain, had returned to the Romish Church. Herr F. Fliedner explains that one of these, an apothecary, who had become a member of a Baptist congregation, had spoken several times, but had never been invested with clerical or spiritual functions. "He was induced to return to the Catholic Church by an offer of four thousand reals from the society for reconverting Spanish Protestants to the Catholic faith. Three others followed his example. Two of these, Reguero and Jimeno by name, had attended the Baptist chapel, but they had never been members, and had withdrawn from the congregation weeks or months before," like Marti Miquel. The third, whose name was Blay, appears to have falsely pretended to be a Protestant, as his name is utterly unknown in all the Protestant churches of Madrid. Thus the whole affair is reduced, on examination, to the conversion of an ex-member of the Baptist body, from which he had withdrawn some time previously, and of three impostors who had never been members of a Protestant church."

A RELIGIOUS PAPER IN ROME.—The friends of reform in Rome have issued a prospectus for a weekly religious paper of sixteen pages, to be published in French, entitled L'Esperance de Rome (the Hope of Rome.) It is to be the organ of the Reform party in the Romish Church, and will have for its contributors such prominent opposers of the Jesuit faction as Father Hyacinthe and Dr. Dollinger, Profs. Reinkens, Friedrich and Michelis, whose names head the editorial page. It announces this as its religious programme: "Church reform, no schism, but spiritual union in a church truly Catholic, with all those who believe in Christ and hold to the apostle's creed." "In politics it is to advocate universal peace, desiring the unity, development and prosperity of Italy, that she may become the true representative of political and religious liberty." The gospel of Christ in its purity is the only firm ground of hope for the Church of Rome. But will any Reform party under the spiritual government of the Pope be able to disseminate the evangelical spirit and doctrines of the gospel among the majority of the members of that communion? The establishment of a religious paper there is a signal indication of good.

MARE, the most southern island of the Loyalty group, brings us another fulfillment of the promise: "The isles shall wait upon me, and on mine arm shall they trust." As in the case of many of these islands, native pioneers had prepared the way for the foreign missionary, three teachers from Rarotonga and one from Samoa having begun their work in 1841, and progressed so far as to build two chapels for their first hearers at the points where they located. In all other parts heathenism, with its evils of war, murder, cannibalism, fetichism, prevailed without restraint. Probably no people had ever sunk lower in superstition and degradation than the inhabitants of Mare at the time of the arrival of the gospel-bearers of the London Missionary Society, in 1854. To overcome the ferocity and cruelty of such a race of men, to change a whole island from cannibalism to Christianity, is surely no light affair; but we are now told that at the present time there are no heathen on Mare. There may be one here or another there who refuses to give up former ways; but heathenism as a system is destroyed. The struggle has been a long and hard one; yet the gospel has triumphed, and the foreign missionaries are withdrawing, leaving the island in the possession of a Christian people. Nothing is more affecting than to read of the manner in which the younger men and women were wont to show their dissatisfaction with the ways of their fathers, and of their longing for the better life, brought to them by light and hope in the cross of Christ. Now a youth of eighteen is ashamed to come and ask to be taught as a child! All the New and portions of the Old Testament have been translated into their language, and are printed in their own press, by themselves, together with their school books, a number of commentaries, hymn books, and other works. Besides common schools, there are boarding schools at each of the mission stations, and institutions for the training of young men for evangelistic work in other islands as well as their own. Even was Christianized by men sent out from Mare; three have labored in the New Hebrides, and now four of the eight that were recently left on the coast of New Guinea, to open the way for a mission on that great island, were Mare men. To the same schools many come from neighboring islands for Christian instruction, who, on their return to their homes, build chapels, keep the Sabbath, and maintain public worship. No sadder day could fall on the people of Mare than the one appointed for the departure of their beloved missionary, Rev. Mr. Creagh, to Lifu. In universal sorrow the natives crowded his house all day, and congregated at last on the beach, in distress and deep bereavement, testifying their affection and gratitude in every way; and, when he was taken from them and carried on board, many of the people came down into the water and waited till the vessel sailed away.—Independent.

THE road By-and-by leads to the town of Never.—Spanish Proverb.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, JULY 18, 1872.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.
ROBT. J. HARP, PUBLISHER.

OFFICE--No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. HARP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR ALABAMA CONFERENCE:
REV. W. A. McCARTY.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
A. W. LAMPKIN, ESQ.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR, D. D.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

REDUCTION.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers hereafter at the following rates:

For One Year	$2 00
For Six Months	1 25
For Three Months	75

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

to all ministers of the gospel, traveling or local, and widows of deceased traveling preachers.

FREE ONE YEAR

to any person forwarding to us four new yearly subscribers with EIGHT DOLLARS.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

In these times of religious activity, when so much attention is directed to the Sunday school and other church enterprises, the family must not be overlooked. This is the oldest form of government in the world—a State in the household—afterward expanding into tribes, and finally into nations. It is also the oldest form of the church, and almost the only form for twenty-five hundred years. Before the patriarchal was modified by the national establishment under Moses, the family, with its tribal amplifications, was the church. The father and head was the priest, and the worship and religious life belonged to the home. In some sort the matter is still the same. The family is divinely constituted, and sustains the most important and vital relations to the church of Christ. Here God is to be worshiped first of all, and here the children are to be trained, and to be brought up "in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." The church recognizes children as the subjects of her pastoral care, and as members of the household of faith. Through the Sunday school, and the ministry of the word and ordinances, she aims to instruct and bring them forward in their religious life.

But the earliest influences are in the family, and no public instruction can take the place of that which should be faithfully imparted at home. The church membership of the young must be credited here, and their instruction and discipline must be intelligently directed in view of this fact. As they are in the family, so are they in the church, to receive such nurture and admonition in the Lord as their age and circumstances demand. The household church of the patriarchs and that of primitive Christianity are reproduced in every pious family. Paul, in applying the promises to the jailer of Philippi, says: "And thou shalt be saved, and thy house." In writing to Philemon he sends greetings of grace and peace to "the church in thy house." He baptized "the household of Stephanus;" he salutes "the household of Onesiphorus." Cornelius was directed to send for Peter, "who shall tell thee words whereby thou and all thy house shall be saved." As a reason for the fulfillment of the covenant with Abraham it is written: "For I know him, that he will command his children and his household after him, and they shall keep the way of the Lord, to do justice and judgment." The covenant seems thus to have been "with a man expressly and emphatically as the head of a family." The first period of the church was in the family, and the family is still the germinal state of the church, and the nursery of its life.

We are drifting far from this true conception of the family when religious worship and discipline are neglected at home, and when the only idea of church relationship is limited to the individual in his public profession in the great congregation. What a travesty on the scriptural idea are thousands of homes where prayer and praise are never heard, and where the head of the family is never felt or known in his highest character as the priest and apostle of his own family! The church in the house is the true germ of the church everywhere, and where the beginning of its life is to be nourished and developed. The duties of government, family prayer and all other, will come home to our convictions when this fundamental principle is conceded. Then the head of a family, holding membership in the church, will no longer live under a prayerless roof, and his wife, children and dependents will no longer feel that his religion is something alien to the domestic circle. Neither will the chief or exclusive religious training of the children be left to pastors and Sunday schools, nor will their conversion and church membership be left to the chances or choice of maturer years. As they start in the family, so they start in the church, and it will be the object of family culture and prayer to lead them to Christ. Why may not children be converted at home, and why should they not become Christians in fact, as well as in form, at the home altar?

We know of nothing more practical or more needful than this realization of the nature and offices of the family. By beginning here we are in the right road to effectiveness in every other department of church work. If our nominally Christian households were really so, the Sunday schools, the churches and our mission efforts would at once double their power. The heads of families are responsible. If they have assumed the position they must meet the solemn obligations. Nothing can release them from the account which they must render. It is their business to command their children and their households after them, and to make their homes the nurseries of grace and salvation. With many Christian parents the first and heaviest cross is taken up in family worship. With many it is a matter of life-long, guilty neglect. It is no wonder that they mourn over the wayward prodigals whom they have permitted to grow up in an atmosphere of religious inconsistency. Nor is it strange that the baptized children of the church, under such defective home influences, escape from her pale, to be finally lost forever. The root of the evil is in the household, and in the failure to realize the true import of the family.

CENTENARY COLLEGE.

MR. EDITOR: Having been so circumstanced for several years as to be unable to attend the commencements of Centenary College, we resolved to make any reasonable sacrifice of business interests to be present at the exercises on the eighth, ninth and tenth instant, which we are sure we shall never regret.

The usual time of the Vicksburg packets from New Orleans to Bayou Sara is about fourteen hours. We were delayed a few hours, however, owing to the substitution of a slower boat in place of one of the regular packets, which had withdrawn for repairs. An easy and delightful drive of two hours and a half brought us to Jackson, the seat of the noble institution alluded to above, upon which the State of Louisiana and the Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences have expended an aggregate approximating, if not exceeding, a half million of dollars. The buildings were first erected, and for twenty years occupied, by an institution supported and controlled by the State, and bearing its name.

We have never been more impressed with the wisdom of the State commissioners in their choice of location than during our present visit. Sufficiently distant from the great thoroughfare of commerce to be unaffected by the epidemics which in former years so frequently prevailed along its coast, and the demoralizing influences of the idle and vicious, who form so large a per cent. of the population in many of our river towns. A more bland and delightful atmosphere; a population more cultivated, refined and pious; a town more entirely exempt from the vicious influences to which college students are likely to become a prey, it would be difficult to find. As an evidence of the fitness of the location, there are three female institutions in the town, the result of private enterprise, all in successful operation.

The State government, in looking out for the most healthy location for an institution for the treatment of the insane, after consulting the best sources of information, decided upon Jackson as the place most suitable.

The site of the college, if graded to order, could not be improved. The buildings occupy an eminence sloping with gradual declivity in all directions. The grounds in the rear of the buildings are adorned with beautiful woodlands—the stately oak, the spreading beach and the luxuriant magnolia. They are flanked on the left by a dense forest of pine, beneath which are fields of pine straw, stretching over the hills out of view. In front are oaks and pines of stately proportions. A healthy growth of green grass beneath these classic shades softens the foreground of the scene, and presents a picture worthy of the pencil of the artist.

The buildings in perspective present a front of seven hundred feet. The center building contains a chapel for public exhibitions large enough to seat over two thousand people; two large literary halls, each capable of seating, we should think, about four hundred; a chapel for prayers; eight commodious recitation rooms, one library room, cabinet room, separate rooms for chemical and philosophical apparatus, a business office and rooms for other purposes. This building, for magnitude, architectural beauty and convenient adaptation to the purposes for which it is intended, stands unrivaled by any building for similar purposes in the South, or, so far as we have seen, on the continent.

The front of the center building was found, at the close of the war, to have suffered damage from defective architecture, and the reopening of the institution was delayed, owing to its supposed insecurity. We are happy, however, to inform the readers of the ADVOCATE that the damaged part has been thoroughly rebuilt, and is now ready to be occupied; for all of which the trustees have paid in full. An amount equal to that raised in the past two years, through the efforts of Bishop Keener and others, will complete the repairs of the center building and wings, and leave a noble monument to the enterprise and liberality of Southern Methodism.

It may not be generally known that the college has been supplied with chemical, philosophical and astronomical apparatus, and also a mineralogical and geological cabinet of the most rare and valuable selections. The apparatus includes a reflecting telescope (focal distance, seven feet,) a theodolite, sextant, compass, chronometer, electrical machines, steam engines, air pump, batteries, chemical tests, etc. In these alone has been expended a larger amount than has founded many an institution called a college. We are happy to be able to inform the public that the board have adopted measures to have these put in thorough order, and damages suffered by raids during the war, as far as possible, repaired. (The damages alluded to are much less than had been supposed.)

The Louisiana College was founded in 1825; Centenary College in 1837. The buildings and property of the former were transferred to the latter in 1845, since which time, to the commencement of the war, the institution continued to prosper. The number of students in attendance at the beginning of the war was two hundred and sixty-three. Its alumni to that time was one hundred and eighty. We have not access to later information. An unusually large number of her graduates adorn learned professions and fill important stations in our Conferences.

The exercises at the commencement more than met our expectations. The young men exhibited good training, and will do honor to the institution. The delay in resuming operations, alluded to above, has not left time to carry those matriculating through the four years' course; hence there were no graduates the present year.

The commencement sermon was preached by Rev. W. V. Tudor, of New Orleans, which gave universal satisfaction. Bishop Keener, on Sabbath night, preached one of his characteristically eloquent and impressive sermons. The address of President Andrews to the literary societies was one of the finest we ever heard. These societies give great interest to the college. They have in their libraries over three thousand volumes, which, added to the college library, makes over five thousand volumes.

The degree of A. M. was conferred on Colonel Haley M. Carter, of the parish of St. Helena; Thomas C. Evans, of Hallville, Texas, and Richard S. Holcomb, of Jackson, Louisiana; and the degree of D. D. on Rev. William V. Tudor, of New Orleans.

Rev. W. H. Watkins, D. D., of Natchez, Mississippi, and Prof. Wilmott H. Goodale, of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, were added to the Board of Trustees to fill vacancies.

The next session will open on the first Monday in October, of which, I suppose, you will be advised by advertisement in your paper.

CONCRETE.

Mansfield Female College, 1871-72.

MR. EDITOR: Owing to the regretted absence of the senior members of the visiting committee—Revs. Samuel Armstrong and Amicus W. Williams—it falls upon us to make a report of the successes of Mansfield Female College during the past session of ten months. Eighty-eight students matriculated, which, though not so large as heretofore, is a very good number when the financial pressure throughout the country is considered. Flush times will return and fill the dormitories with students. One of the signs of the times is that the board of managers have secured the services of President Stuart for a term of five years, which makes him a fixture in this country. A great many good things might be said of him, but his name is sufficient for the present. The examination of the junior classes commenced on the twentieth of June, and continued until the evening of the twenty-fifth. They were of a varied and interesting character. From the deportment and thoroughness of the students it was evident that discipline has neither been relaxed nor pains spared in their training. If the student had been dilatory it was sure to be seen, as each young lady was drawn by lot, when she came forward and drew from a box the subject upon which she was to stand. Taking a seat before the audience, she was thoroughly examined upon the topic she had drawn, and that without any chance at previous preparation or present evasion. She answered promptly, or she failed, and that without apology.

The commencement sermon was preached by the Rev. Charles W. Carter, of the Louisiana Conference, from Nehemiah vi, 3, and John ix, 4. On Monday night Mrs. Poythress and her brilliant music class, thirty-one in number, gave us a grand concert of twenty select vocal pieces and eleven instrumental pieces. On Tuesday night Mrs. Poythress and her class generously gave the chemical and philosophic departments a benefit, which amounted to $265, to be applied in purchasing apparatuses. On Wednesday, the twenty-sixth, the graduating class delivered their addresses and received their diplomas. Major Capers delivered the literary address. He belongs to "a line" of orators. Bishop Capers, Revs. Dr. Benjamin and Thomas H. Capers, and Judge Stephen Olin Capers are names worthy of mention. The major's early associations brought him in contact with Bascom, Olin and Pierce, and it is not surprising that he can entrance his audience.

The school will open again on the twentieth of September. A corps of able teachers will be on hand. Misses Pipes and Stuart, for their experience, have no superiors as teachers. Just here we may mention Mrs. Maria Louisa Stuart, a lady of the true Virginia mold, who has cast in her lot with the president, and of course with the college. Long may she preside over the charge that is devolved upon her. Mr. Editor, living at Mansfield College is certainly as good as any epicure could wish. Farm and garden luxuries in profusion make the tables to groan under their burden. This department is managed by Mrs. Virginia E. Stuart, whose every anxiety appears to be for the comfort of her boarders and visitors. Information of this school can be obtained by reading its advertisement in the ADVOCATE, or by corresponding with Rev. Charles B. Stuart, Mansfield, Louisiana, who will take pleasure in furnishing catalogues. "Long live Mansfield Female College" finds a response in thousands of hearts.

Yours, R. H. ADAIR.

KEACHIE, LA., July 1, 1872.

THE REAPER.

When grain is fully mature, if it is not harvested and garnered it will soon come to naught. Whatever of thought and diligence in "pitching the crop," or assiduity in its cultivation, or however auspicious the seasons for its growth and maturity, unless it is gathered properly and in good time it is lost—the labors of the husbandman profit not. The husbandman must be diligent, put forth every effort, avail himself of every facility to reap down and gather in the grain now waving in golden richness, inviting his sickle. All hands are on the alert; no idlers are permitted when such vast and important interests are involved. The old and the young, even the children of the farmhouse, are pressed into service; every one has a work to do, and no other can do it. A storm is brewing. Hoarse, distant thunder announces its approach. Every footstep is quickened, every muscle is stimulated to greater exertion, every moment is endowed with increasing interest, until the last sheaf is housed. Then, while the torrents pour and lightnings play, and thunder answers back to thunder, and the elements war, and wild commotion fills the air, with undisturbed complacency the laborers and husbandman enjoy respite, and, folding their arms, mingle their gratulations of triumph.

The gospel reaper is commanded: "Lift up your eyes and behold, the fields are white unto the harvest!" "Trust in thy sickle and reap!" There is no time to be lost. Delay will prove fatal. Every individual must work—work mightily! No time to parley on side issues. No time to discuss vexed questions. No time to estimate talent and consider what department of the work I am best fitted for. The Master says: "Go, work to-day!" "Now is the accepted time!" "Now!"—how pregnant its import! On that monosyllable hang suspended the destinies of unnumbered millions! O now! Time is flying! Death is coming! Eternity is at hand! Souls are perishing! Already the thunders of God's wrath are pealing in our startled ears from the threatening heavens! The fierce lightning's glare discloses the terrible face of Jehovah as he stands with "sword girt on his thigh," to take vengeance on them that "fear not his name." The gathering tempest betokens a fearful doom for the ungodly. Haste, haste, Christian laborer, to gather up the sheaves at thy feet, lest the storm break upon thee, and thou too, as an "idler," be driven away in its fury. And O, friendly sinner, heed his expostulations, yield to his entreaties, submit to be led to the place of safety, ere you shall take up the lamentable utterance: "The harvest is passed, the summer is ended, and I am not saved;" ere you "call for rocks and mountains to fall on you, and hide you from the wrath of God and the Lamb; for the great day of his wrath is come, and who shall be able to stand?"

T. B. W.

NEW IBERIA, July 5, 1872.

Tribute of Respect to W. H. Dameron.

At the third Quarterly Meeting Conference of the Carondelet Street Methodist Episcopal Church South, held July 15, 1872, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased God to take our beloved brother, W. H. Dameron, to himself; therefore,

Resolved, That we would hereby express our appreciation of his great worth, and our recognition of the grievous loss sustained by our church in this city in his death.

Resolved, That from our hearts we condole with his bereaved family, and with Felicity Street charge in their loss of an exemplary member and a valuable officer.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, and a copy, suitably engrossed, be transmitted by the secretary of this conference to the family of the deceased, and to the official board of Felicity Street charge.

W. V. TUDOR, Chairman.
J. L. DUNNICA, Secretary.

THE Tuskaloosa Female College, as will be seen by reference to an advertisement in another column, opens its next session September 23. This institution stands among the foremost in the land, and is deservedly among the most popular and best patronized. President Larrabee is too well known to need any commendation from us, and we are assured that he will be assisted by a large corps of able and accomplished teachers.

THE Wesleyan Female Institute, Staunton, Virginia, is in a most beautiful and salubrious region, and has the most ample appointments for the accommodation and instruction of a large number of pupils. President Harris is an adept in his vocation, and his school is of the highest grade of excellence in every department. The next session begins September 19. See advertisement in another column.

HONORARY.—The degree of D. D. was conferred upon Rev. William V. Tudor by Centenary College at the recent commencement.

BISHOP KEENER dedicates a church at Bladon Springs on Sunday, July 28.

DR. MACLEOD'S FUNERAL.—The funeral of Dr. Norman Macleod took place on June 20, at Glasgow, and was attended by every expression of public sympathy and respect. As the cortege passed through the streets the bells of the city churches were tolled, and the band of the Nineteenth regiment and of the Volunteer artillery played the Dead March in Saul. There were in the procession Dr. Robertson, of Balmoral, on behalf of the Queen; the Equerry to the Duke of Edinburg; the Lord Provost and magistrates, the congregation of the Barony church, and several hundred clergymen of all denominations in Scotland. At the grave Dr. Robertson, by command of the Queen and the royal family, placed on the coffin three wreaths of immortelles. The first, from her majesty, bore the inscription: "A token of respect and friendship from Queen Victoria;" the second: "A token of respect from Prince Leopold;" and the third: "A token of respect from Princess Beatrice."

DEATH OF THE REV. THOMAS K. MUNSEY.—We are pained, says the Nashville Christian Advocate, to announce the death of the Rev. Thomas K. Munsey, of Charleston, Tennessee. This sad event took place July 4. As we were passing through Chattanooga Bro. Atkins informed us of it. He saw Bro. Munsey, July 1, and found him ready to depart and be with Christ. He said he had been most wonderfully sustained during his long and severe affliction. Our readers may expect an extended notice of this excellent minister from the pen of Bro. Atkins. He was an uncle of Dr. Munsey, and one of the best ministers in the Holston Conference.

IT IS a terrible thing to be a remnant—to be the last child in a family—and not go to heaven, where the rest have gone; or to be the last member of a circle of Christians, and not to be a Christian. It is a terrible thing to be the only one left of a company, and be lingering and waiting, soon to go, they saved and you lost.—Beecher.

I AM for frank explanations with friends in case of affronts. They sometimes save a perishing friendship, and even place it on a firmer basis than at first; but secret discontentment always ends badly.—Sydney Smith.

Obituaries.

DIED, at Newbern, Alabama, June 29, 1872, of a complication of diseases, GEORGE, only child of Louis C. and S. A. Turner, aged one year and twenty-two days. Thus a lovely bud has been nipped by the icy hand of death, to bloom in richer colors in heaven's more congenial soil and clime.

W. A. MONTGOMERY.

DIED, at Hot Springs, Arkansas, of that dread disease, consumption, Mrs. N. A. JOHNSON, wife of B. F. Johnson.

Sister Johnson, being an invalid, came with her family, some three years since, to this place, hoping the waters would restore her health. She failed to find that coveted boon upon earth, but she has found it in heaven, for there "sickness and sorrow, pain and death are felt and feared no more." She was for a number of years a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and loved it. For three long years she was a meek, uncomplaining sufferer, and then, soothed and comforted by an unfaltering trust in God, she died, like one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him, and lies down to pleasant dreams. May God bless her children.

S. G. COLBURN.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., July 4, 1872.

DIED, at the residence of Mrs. Mary Simpson, in Covington, Louisiana, on the twentieth of May, 1872, Mrs. MARGARETTE THOMPSON.

Sister Thompson was born in Strahan, Tyrone county, Ireland, where she connected herself with the Methodist Episcopal Church at the age of fourteen. She was about seventy-three years of age. The records of her past history would be interesting to the Methodist people, as she was raised in the days of the early pioneers of Methodism. She left Ireland early in life and became a resident of Mobile, Alabama, where she spent a goodly number of her days. Sister Thompson was one of the happy number that had few if any doubts of her acceptance with God. Her faith was constant and strong. In conversing with her during her illness I was constrained to weep for joy as she breathed the sweet inspirations of heavenly language. She was a victim of consumption; was confined to her bedroom for three months. She suffered much, but bore all with patience. Her prayer was: "Come, Lord, come, and take me home."

She was twice married, and was twice a widow. She had no children of her own, but raised four orphans, who still survive her. She has but one brother left behind.

HENRY P. BOWEN.

DEPARTED THIS LIFE, near Jonesboro, Alabama, BENJAMIN M. JONES, the father of A. M. Jones, of the Alabama Conference, and Wiley Jones, of the North Alabama Conference. He was born in the State of Virginia, December 5, 1798, and died May 22, 1872. He moved to Alabama and settled in Calhoun county (now Benton) in 1835, where he was awakened to a sense of his obligation to serve God under the preaching of that good man, Edward McMeans. He very soon after professed religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South, in which he lived a faithful and consistent member to the day of his death. Bro. Jones moved to Jefferson county a few years ago, where the writer made his acquaintance as a Methodist of the Wesleyan type. He was zealous of the doctrines of his church, and was not the man to be led by any new ism, as is the case with many others, because it is new. His sickness was severe, but he never murmured. He stated to me that his affliction had proved a blessing to him. I had often talked with him before he was taken down. He seemed to enjoy the fullness of the blessing and power of our holy religion. Bro. Jones was the father of thirteen children. He leaves behind him an aged wife, who will soon follow on to join him in the paradise of God, and eleven grown children, most of whom, we believe, are members of the church. Two of these are ministers, who will bless the world in time to come, verifying that passage of Scripture: "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord, for their works do follow them." Thus a good man has left our communion to join the saints above, where the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest. May the Lord unite all the family in heaven.

T. P. ROBERTS.

MR. JOSEPH CARR, youngest son of Christian F. and Ann Eve Carr, was born in Colleton district, South Carolina, December 15, 1803, and departed this life, at his residence in Simpson county, Mississippi, April 18, 1872, aged sixty-eight years, four months and three days.

Mr. Carr came to Mississippi in March, 1822. He was married to Miss Abigail McLaurin, March 17, 1825, and settled on Skilla creek, in Simpson county, Mississippi, where he resided until his decease. He attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church in the year 1830, and a few days subsequently he embraced religion.

Bro. Carr was a faithful and true church member. As steward, class-leader and trustee he was always found at his post. I have been acquainted with few such friends to the church and ministry. It was his custom always to make a liberal contribution to his ministers in the first of the Conference year. For four months Bro. Carr suffered with disease of the heart, with a complication of other diseases; yet he bore his sufferings with a Job-like patience—was willing to go, or to stay and suffer more. When the writer of this notice last saw him, before he fell asleep, he called for money before we parted, and made a liberal contribution. I learn from my presiding elder that he did the same for him when he was last to see him; thus not forgetting the financial interests of the church to the last.

The evening before he died he told his son-in-law, the Rev. W. Hurst, that he had just been waiting for the summons to go. His physician and others, who saw him almost daily for some three months, told me that they had never witnessed such sufferings as he endured.

He leaves his aged companion, who is just waiting the summons to join him in the better land, and five children to mourn his loss. Two have preceded him to their home above.

N. H. YOUNG.

The Mount Carmel circuit Quarterly Conference, Mississippi Conference, June 8, 1872, passed the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God, in his wise providence, to remove from our midst by death Bro. Joseph Carr, the recording steward of this Quarterly Conference, who served the church in the capacity of steward and class-leader for the long period of forty-one years; AND WHEREAS, His zeal for the cause of Christ never abated, but was seen in deeds as well as words; therefore,

Resolved, That while we bow with submission to the will of him who is too wise to err, we deeply feel his loss.

Resolved, That we tender the family of the deceased, and especially his aged widow, our sincere condolence in this deep affliction, and that the family be furnished with a copy of these resolutions, and also that a copy be sent to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE for publication.

C. F. GILLESPIE, P. E.
T. M. APPLEWHITE, Secretary.

REV. JACOB HOLLAND was born in the State of South Carolina on the fourteenth of July, A. D. 1794, and departed this life in great peace, at the residence of his son, William H. Holland, in Choctaw county, Mississippi, on the fifteenth of February, 1872, aged seventy-seven years, seven months and one day.

In the year 1811 his father, Charles Holland, moved from the State of South Carolina to Jackson county, Mississippi, and settled near the Pascagoula river. On the nineteenth of November, 1818, he was married to Miss Drusilla Dearman, daughter of Thomas and Diana Dearman. In 1822 he professed religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1824 he was licensed to exhort, and was a good and effective exhorter. In 1830 he moved from Jackson county, Mississippi, to the State of Alabama, and settled in Pickens county, and continued laboring for his Lord and Master as an exhorter for about seven years in that State. In 1836 he removed back to the State of Mississippi, and settled in Choctaw county. Choctaw county at that time was very thinly settled—almost a wilderness; there were but few Methodists in that part of the country. He commenced his labors as an exhorter, and soon had a Methodist church [illegible]. In 1837 he was licensed to preach the gospel, and he was a faithful local preacher and a good worker; he was instant in season and out of season, always abounding in the work of the Lord. He preached for about twelve years in Choctaw county with great acceptability. He was well known, and much beloved by all who knew him. In 1847 he was ordained deacon by Bishop Paine. In 1848 he moved to Winston county, Mississippi, and lived there one year, and then moved to Madison county, Mississippi, and lived there one year, and then moved to Rankin county, Mississippi. In 1857 he was ordained elder by Bishop Early, when the Mississippi Conference was held at Brandon. In 1861 he moved from Rankin county, Mississippi, to the State of Louisiana, and settled in Livingston parish, where he lived until 1869. His health had become feeble, and he concluded that he would return to Choctaw county, Mississippi, to see if it would not improve. His disease was chronic diarrhea. He never could be cured; but all through his sufferings he was perfectly resigned to the will of God. He oftentimes spoke of death, and stated to his son, William H. Holland, that he could see nothing to condemn him, and to die would be gain to him. So his faith in God was strong, and when he came to the Jordan of death the seas were calm and the skies were clear. He overcame the last enemy, and went shouting home to heaven. He has left an aged wife and twelve children to mourn his loss; but their loss is his eternal gain. Yes, the servant of God is at rest. He is gone

Where the weary are at rest—
He is gathered to his God;
Yes, his pain of life is past,
And all his warfare's o'er.

Let the world bewail their dead,
Fondly of their loss complain;
Death to thee is eternal gain—
Thou art entered into joy.

H.

Nashville Advocate and Western Methodist please copy.

Agt's & Publisher's Department

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS OF LETTERS and Funds, Received by Mail, for the week ending July 13, 1872:

A—Alford & Veal $5, Philip Allen, C G Andrews $12.20, H Arbogast, F Alexander.

B—E Belanger $12, Barnes & Wilkinson, George W Brown $8.50, T F Brewer $1, R C Bethea $1, G W Brown 90 cts.

C—N A Cravens $7.20, H Clegg, 2 lots $6, J G Cook $10, E H Cushing.

D—B F Davis, W H Dennis $3, Dodd & Mead, R F Davis, George J Dicks & Sons $6, Dr D M Dunlap.

E—L England, W F Easterling.

F—J S Fithie 2 lots, J W Fields.

H—P Haurin, J H Houston, W A Harris, Jeremy Howland, H C Hardie $15, W J Hood.

I—H S Isbell.

J—Frederick Jones 2 lots $10.50, George L Jackson, A W Jones.

K—S H Knight, M S Kenabrew, N W Kedd, Kennon & Welch.

L—B F Larrabee, Leudenmeyer Bros, H P Lewis $17.

M—John A Miller, S R Moody, T C McMackin & Co, A D Martin, R F Mountain, Charles McClain, John S McCarver.

N—W K Norton, J O Napier $1.80, R D Norsworthy.

P—A Powe, Pierce & Terry, A Purveance 50 cts, J H Pugh, R T Parish, J W Porter & Co, W B Pakelford $1.50.

R—J H Rush, E E F Ross, A H Redford, Robert Randle $8.

S—Scribner, Welford & Armstrong, Geo S Scofield, G S Sandell, A A Stoddart $5.40, J H Shelton, Charles Schoepff, J L Skipper $3.

W—Wilkinson Bros, J M Wright, J H Wilson, J G Worley, Wilson, Hinkle & Co 2 lots.

Y—Acton Young.

ADVOCATE PRESS FOR SALE.—Our press is too small. Our present size, 29 by 43 inches, is the largest we can print on it. The increase of business and demands of our readers require that we should part with our beautiful Hoe cylinder printing machine, which, with eighteen pounds of steam, will print from thirteen hundred to fifteen hundred per hour. See the work, as in our issue, and call or send a competent judge on Mondays or Wednesdays to see it in motion. If you wish to buy. We will entertain propositions from first-class manufacturers for exchange. Address

ROBT. J. HARP, Publisher.

OUR AGENT FOR LONDON AND LIVERPOOL.—Robert Babington, Esq., will represent the claims of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE during the season in London and Liverpool, and other parts of the United Kingdom.

KENTUCKY WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY.—We take pleasure in directing the attention of our readers to the advertisement of the above-named institution, of which B. Arbogast, D. D., is president. We have not received a catalogue, but the high character of the president is a satisfactory guarantee for the standing of the Institution. Send for catalogues to B. Arbogast, D. D., Millersburg, Kentucky.

MEMPHIS CONFERENCE FEMALE INSTITUTE.—The advertisement of the above-named institution appeared in our columns last week. Absence from the city will account for the failure to call attention to it at the time. We have been familiar with the workings of the institution for many years, and have no hesitation in saying that the professors state their claims modestly. The able and judicious president, A. W. Jones, D. D., is assisted by Prof. A. B. Jones, M. A., Prof. L. F. Whitaker and seven teachers, besides matron and governess. Over two hundred students were in attendance the last session. For further information see advertisement, or send to Prof. A. B. Jones, Jackson, Tennessee, for catalogue.

DRY GOODS.—We again call the attention of our up-town friends, as well as those in the country desiring anything in that line, to the large and well-selected stock of Messrs. Brasselman & Adams, in their double store, 583 and 588 Magazine street. Now that they are having their clearance sale, preparatory to taking inventory, is the time for bargains.

NOW THAT THE HEATED TERM is upon us, we can think of nothing more refreshing, while at the same time not injurious, than the mineral and superearbonated waters for which R. L. Neill, 198 Gravier street, is the agent. Having tried them, we speak from experience, and advise those who have not done so to follow our example. For further particulars see advertisement in another column.

MR. E. E. F. ROSS, our resident advertising agent, is now on a brief tour through the West and North, and we commend him to the attention of our patrons, and shall be [illegible]. They are assured that Mr. Ross has no other business, but devotes his entire time to the paper, and is entitled to all the consideration of one of its business corps. Mr. Ross may be found at the Sherman House, No. 1 West Twenty-Sixth street, New York.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Do Not Despair.—Hundreds of cases of Scrofula, in its worst stages, old cases of Syphilis that have defied the skill of eminent physicians, Rheumatics who have been suffering for years, and the victims of the injudicious use of mercury, have been radically cured by Dr. TUTT'S SARSAPARILLA. It is the most powerful alterative and blood purifier known. It is prescribed by many physicians in their practice.

If you have Chills, whether every other day, every tenth day, or every two or three weeks, take Dr. Tutt's Liver Pills and you will check them; otherwise they will stick to you all winter. jy18 4t

Dr. Tutt's Hair Dye Contains no Sulphur.

Use Dr. Henry's World's Tonic and BLOOD PURIFIER.—It is the great household remedy, pleasant to take, yet potent for the prevention and cure of diseases. It is better than Bitters, Cordials, Bitchu or Sarsaparilla. Sold by druggists. jy18 1y

Dr. Henry's Root and Plant Pills.—Mild yet thorough; no nausea or griping; entirely vegetable; great Liver remedy. Price, 25 cents. Sold by druggists. jy18 1y

Mrs. Whitcomb's Syrup.—The great soothing remedy. Price only 25 cents. Gives rest to the mother and health to the child. Sold by druggists. jy18 1y

Undisputed Facts.—It has been truly and significantly said that domestic happiness is more dependent on good digestion than virtuous creeds or moral codes. If the dogma holds, the oracle can be consulted by a prompt application to Price, the Delphic author of the Celebrated Aromatic Stomach Bitters. Wherever, within the length and breadth of the land, Price's Bitters have penetrated, every household has been illumined by the sunshine of an unclouded joy, and every family reveled in the sweets of health and contentment. The sparkling eye, the ruddy cheek, the cheerful smile and happy glance, no less than the elastic step and the unfaltering trend, what are they but the eloquent telltales of some vitalizing elixir? No secret botany holds the charm, no scientific alchemy creates the spell. The days of miracles are gone; the magic, mysteriously working wonders have passed away, and the age is a plain, practical one; give us a simple tonic that, by a happy amalgamation, restores to energy and strength the enervated system. Take Price's Celebrated Aromatic Stomach Bitters, and you bid an eternal farewell to such unwelcome guests as dyspepsia, indigestion, nervousness, neuralgia, flatulency and debility.

JAMES W. PRICE & Co., manufacturers and sole proprietors, Lock Box 166, New Orleans, Louisiana. Sold by druggists, grocers and dealers throughout the South. je27 1m

Have your Printing and Binding Done at

THE PELICAN JOB OFFICE,

112 and 114 Poydras St., New Orleans.

ja18 1y

The Equitable Life Assurance Society, New York.

Assets, $18,000,000. Income, $8,000,000.

Branch office—33 CAMP STREET.

A. P. CLEVELAND,
fe8 1y General Agent.

Caution!—Every genuine box of DR. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS bears the signature of Fleming Brothers, Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, and their private United States stamp. Take no other; the market is full of imitations.

It is the popular verdict that people who have been accustomed to the use of Bitters or Cordials are obliged eventually to resort to McLane's Liver Pills for permanent relief. ap25 6m

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

TUSKALOOSA FEMALE COLLEGE,

TUSKALOOSA, ALABAMA.

THE NEXT SESSION OPENS SEPTEMBER 23, 1872.

The beautiful and healthy city of Tuskaloosa, Alabama, is unsurpassed as a location.

The Faculty will consist of three Professors and eight or ten Lady Assistants.

Course of study thorough. Domestic arrangements complete. Young ladies' sleeping apartments elegantly furnished and carpeted. Health department includes a finely-conducted Gymnasium. This College is believed to be equal to the best in the United States, and the cheapest in the South. Special advantages for orphan children whose guardians wish to furnish them a home and school in one. For particulars and catalogue address the proprietor,

REV. B. F. LARRABEE,
jy18 3m Tuskaloosa, Alabama.

Kentucky Wesleyan University,

MILLERSBURG, KENTUCKY.

SESSION FOR 1872-73 OPENS SEPTEMBER 16, 1872, and closes June 4, 1873.

The expense of the entire session can be brought within $240 by those who pay tuition, and $40 less by those who come on scholarships. All bills due the University are payable strictly in advance. Board bills are payable monthly.

This University is situated in the heart of the Blue Grass region of Kentucky. Climate invigorating and healthful. The Faculty of Instructors is now full. Persons seeking a good school for their sons are invited to correspond with the President, or A. G. Stitt, Financial Secretary, or to send for catalogue.

jy18 30t B. ARBOGAST, President.

PIANO AT A BARGAIN.

A MAGNIFICENT SQUARE PIANO, Seven Octave, solid Rosewood frame, beautifully carved, front board Pearl inlaid, having been made to order by a first-class maker, will be sold at ONE-THIRD COST PRICE within next thirty days. Address

PIANO, care ADVOCATE Office,
jy18 1m 112 Camp street.

FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL BOOKS,

AT LOWEST CASH PRICES, address

ROBT. J. HARP, Agent,
jy18 1m 112 Camp street.

Reidville (S. C.) Female College,

SPARTANBURG DISTRICT,

OPENS FEBRUARY 5; CLOSES LAST OF November.

The cheapest Female College in the South; ten calendar months; vacation in the winter. Fall Term begins the first of July. Board from $10 to $12; Tuition, $4; Music, $4 per month. No extras. No charge for tuition of daughters of ministers of the gospel or soldiers killed in battle.

REV. THOMAS WARD WHITE, jy18 1t President.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

WESLEYAN FEMALE INSTITUTE,

STAUNTON, VIRGINIA.

WILL BEGIN ITS TWENTY-THIRD Annual Session

SEPTEMBER 19, 1872.

Than this no college ranks higher. The president, Rev. W. A. HARRIS, is aided by twenty teachers and officers. System of teaching thorough, and based upon the plan of the University of Virginia. English Science and Literature are taught by experienced graduates of our first universities and colleges. French is taught by a native master of the language; Music by six professors and teachers, among whom are two of the most distinguished vocal teachers of the South. Great attention paid to the special training of the voice.

This is one of the healthiest climates in the world. Its marked effect is the rapid promotion of the physical health and vigor of our pupils. Those who come here from the South, with feeble constitutions, chills and chronic diseases, are entirely restored.

Buildings elegant—fanned by the purest breezes, and commanding the most magnificent rural and mountain scenery for thirty miles along the beautiful Valley of Virginia, making it one of the most delightful college homes in the Union.

It is attended by over one hundred boarding pupils, from the States reaching from Maryland to Texas. jy18 6t

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS A BOX FOR BEAUTIFUL INITIAL PAPER AND ENVELOPES, by mail to any address.

ROBT. J. HARP, Agent.
jy18 2t 112 Camp street.

A POPULAR MUSIC BOOK!

AT A POPULAR PRICE!

"THE SCEPTER,"

By Dr. A. HOOKS EVERETT,

ONLY $1.00.—BY THE DOZEN, $10.50.

"THE SCEPTER" contains a large variety of most valuable material, embracing Hymn-tunes, Anthems, Glees, the "Everett System of Teaching Vocal Music," etc., by the well-known professor of music, Dr. A. BROOKS EVERETT, recognized throughout the Southern States as a most successful and popular teacher of the art of singing, as well as the author of many of the most popular tunes contained in the Tabor or Richmond Collection.

"THE SCEPTER"

also contains contributions by Profs. R. M. McIntosh, B. H. Everett and other well-known composers, as well as a large number of old standard tunes.

☞ Every Choir Leader and Teacher of Music should examine "THE SCEPTER."

Sent, post paid, on receipt of $1:

PUBLISHED BY

BIGLOW & MAIN, NEW YORK,

SUCCESSORS TO WM. B. BRADBURY,

Publishers of the most popular series of SUNDAY SCHOOL SONG BOOKS—Golden Chain, Shower and Censer, Fresh Laurels, Bright Jewels, Pure Gold, etc. For sale by Booksellers generally. jy18 3m

FOR SCHOOL BOOKS,

MAILED FREE to any address on receipt of price, send to

ROBT. J. HARP, Agent.
jy18 1m 112 Camp street.

THE GREAT HOUSEHOLD REMEDY.

As an Invigorator, Liver Corrector and Blood Renovator is superior to all the Bitters, Elixirs, Cordials and Sarsaparillas in use. It is so adapted to the whole system that every organ and function in the body is brought under its exhilarating influence. It gives tone and strength to the digestive apparatus, dispels languor and debility, invigorates the Liver, regulates the Kidneys and Bowels, removes the effect of excess or overtaxation of any kind, and gives vitality and richness to the blood.

Its curative powers alter and completely reorganize the entire mass of fluids, and even the solids of the human system, thereby preventing and curing Dyspeptic and Consumptive symptoms, Fever and Ague, Bilious diseases, Fevers of all kinds, Nervous Debility, Affections of the Stomach and Bowels, etc. As a mild and delightful invigorant for delicate females it has no superior.

By its use new life and vigor is given to both body and mind, sending a glow of vitality through every part, which is permanent and lasting.

It is the most effectual remedy for the relief of human suffering ever discovered, and is pleasant to the taste.

X X X WE CHALLENGE THE X X X X X X WORLD X X X

to produce a more delicious medicine to take, yet so potent for the prevention and cure of diseases, than DR. HENRY'S

WORLD'S TONIC AND BLOOD PURIFIER.

Price, $1, or Six Bottles for $5.

Prepared by the GRAFTON MEDICINE Co., St. Louis, Mo. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicines everywhere. jy18 1yeow

Agents WANTED FOR THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD.

A GRAND and popular depository of Religious Knowledge. Agents sell 100 per week. A splendid quarto, with 200 magnificent illustrations on STEEL and WOOD. Agents who sell this can have a prospectus free of our Pictorial Home Bible, published in English and German. Address at once, to secure terms and territory, WM. FLINT & CO., Savannah, Ga. my9 3meow

WANTED.—A Gentleman and his Wife (both graduates) desire to secure first-class positions in some Seminary or Academy. Would not object to the control of some large Public School. They have had years of professional experience, and understand the most approved methods of Normal School management. Testimonials and references furnished. Address TEACHERS, Fort Calhoun, Washington county, Nebraska, until August 15. je27 6t

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

WANTED.—IN ATHENS FEMALE INSTITUTE, Athens, Alabama, a good MUSIC TEACHER. I want a good vocalist, as well as good performer. I will give board and $500. Applicants must send good references or certificates of qualification.

J. M. WRIGHT,
jy11 2t Athens, Ala.

HOMEOPATHIC DOMESTIC MEDICINE.

BY LAURIE & M'CLATCHEY.—FIRST American from the Twenty-first English edition. 1,037 Pages Octavo. Price, $5.

This is the most complete work on Domestic Practice in the English language. Twenty-one thousand copies of it are in circulation in England and in this country. Two full editions sold within less than twelve months.

A full set of Itemedies (193 vials,) in wood Mahogany case, will be furnished for $12. Book and case will be sent, carefully packed, to any address, on receipt of $17.

Address BOERICKE & TAFEL,
Homeopathic Pharmaceutist and Medical Publishing House.
145 Grand st., New York.
☞ Established in 1835. jy11 3m

Do Not Storm the System, when disordered, with violent cathartics that rack and tear and weaken the unfortunate invalid, thereby assisting the complaint, whatever it may be, to prostrate the vitality which is the natural antagonist of disease. Tone the stomach, relieve the bowels, regulate the liver, and refresh the nerves with Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient when the first symptoms of illness are experienced. A more delightful effervescent draught is not to be found among our thirst-quenching summer beverages, and a more potent remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, nervous headache, colic and general debility does not exist. Sold by all druggists. jy11 2t

THREE YEARS IN A Man-Trap. By T. S. ARTHUR, is now ready. It is a thrilling recital of a three years' life in a city dram-shop, showing up the vile deceptions practiced in bar-rooms, and is the most powerful work of the kind ever written—is certain to have an immense sale. Apply for an agency, and make money. QUEEN CITY PUBLISHING, Cincinnati, O. my23 4meow

THE FAMILY PAPER.

The Illustrated Christian Weekly,

NOW IN ITS SECOND YEAR, IS THE

ONLY ILLUSTRATED

Religious Weekly published in the country. It is unsectarian in its character, and has been warmly welcomed by Christian people everywhere. Its illustrations are not excelled by any secular publication, while the reading matter is carefully prepared by eminent writers of various denominations.

Send for Specimen Copy.—Two Dollars a Year.

Agents wanted in every community. Liberal terms to Sabbath schools.

AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY,
Publishers,
je27 7teow3p 150 Nassau st., New York.

SAVE $20.

THE NEW WILSON UNDER-FEED.

The Best and Cheapest First-Class Shuttle SEWING MACHINE In the World.

WM. GREGG & CO., Gen'l Southern Agents, No. 189 Canal street, New Orleans, La.

Agents Wanted. je27 6m

T. W. HOUSE,

39 and 41 Main Street, Houston, Texas,

BANKER AND EXCHANGE DEALER.

Collections made and promptly remitted. feb1 6m

STATE OF LOUISIANA,

PARISH OF ORLEANS,

CITY OF NEW ORLEANS,

BE IT KNOWN that on this twentieth day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, and of the Independence of the United States of America the ninety-sixth, before me, ANDREW HERO, JR., a Notary Public in and for the Parish of Orleans, State of Louisiana, duly commissioned and qualified, and in the presence of the witnesses hereinafter named and undersigned, personally came and appeared the several persons, residents of this city, whose names are hereto subscribed, who declared that, availing themselves of the provisions of the Statutes of Louisiana relative to the organization of CORPORATIONS in this State, they have covenanted and agreed, and do by these presents covenant and agree, and bind themselves, and those whom they represent, to form themselves into a corporation for the objects, and under the stipulations, regulations and obligations following, to wit:

ARTICLE FIRST.

The name and style of this corporation shall be THE CONSOLIDATED PORTABLE GAS-LIGHT COMPANY OF NEW ORLEANS.

ARTICLE SECOND.

The domicile of this Association shall be the city of New Orleans, in the State of Louisiana, and its object shall be the manufacture, sale and use of Carburetted Hydrogen Gas, and the manufacture and sale of Gas Machines; and the sale of the right to use said machines in the States of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Arkansas and Florida. The company shall also have power to purchase patent rights for the manufacture, use and sale of other gas machines than those now owned by them for the above-named States, or for any other States for which they may acquire patents.

ARTICLE THIRD.

The said corporation shall have and enjoy succession by its corporate name for the period of twenty five years; shall contract, sue and be sued. It shall hold, receive, purchase, sell and otherwise convey, as well as mortgage and hypothecate, under its corporate name, property, both real and personal, movable and immovable; shall name and appoint such managers, directors and officers as its interest or convenience may require; it shall make and establish such by-laws, rules and regulations for the proper management of its business and affairs as may be necessary and proper, and shall possess generally all such powers and privileges as are given by law to corporations. All legal processes shall be served on the president of the company. The company shall have a seal with such device as the Board of Directors may determine.

ARTICLE FOURTH.

The capital stock of this corporation shall be Fifty Thousand Dollars, divided into five hundred shares of One Hundred Dollars each, two hundred and thirty shares of which are to be declared full-paid, and transferred to the present owners of the patent rights and franchises which are to form the basis of the operations of this Association; and are to be in full payment for the transfer to the company of all such rights and franchises. Ten per centum of all other stock subscribed shall be paid at the time of subscription; ten per centum more within thirty days; and ten per centum more within the next thirty days, making in all thirty per centum of subscription to the capital stock to be paid in cash within sixty days from date of subscription. The remainder may be called for by the Board of Directors in installments not to exceed ten per centum within any thirty consecutive days.

All installments called for shall be paid within ten days after due notice be given thereof, and any neglect or refusal to pay the same shall forfeit to the corporation the entire stock of such delinquent stockholder, together with the amount paid thereon and all accumulations, interest or benefit thereto belonging; provided, that the Board of Directors may extend said payments for a term not exceeding sixty days, upon the payment of interest thereon at the rate of eight per cent. per annum.

ARTICLE FIFTH.

The capital stock of this corporation may be increased to ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS, or any part thereof, whenever deemed necessary by the Board of Directors, and they shall have the right of fixing the time and manner of paying the same; provided, that subscriptions to any increase of the capital stock shall be open first for ten legal days to those already stockholders, pro rata, on the amount of stock owned by each, and if not all taken up, then secondly to the stockholders at will for three legal days, after which any remaining stock may be open for public subscription.

ARTICLE SIXTH.

Dividends may be declared by the Board of Directors, either annually, semi-annually or quarterly; provided, however, that where the amount of such dividend may exceed the rate of ten per cent. per annum on amount paid up on stock, all such excess of ten per cent. per annum shall be credited upon any unpaid balance of the subscribed stock, until such subscribed stock shall have been declared full-paid.

No certificate of stock shall be issued until the same shall have been declared by the Board of Directors fully paid up, and no transfer of less than one share of the capital stock shall be made on the books of the Association.

ARTICLE SEVENTH.

The powers of the corporation are vested in the Board of Directors, consisting of six stockholders, (three of whom shall form a quorum for the transaction of business,) who shall be elected annually on the second Tuesday in June, beginning with the second Tuesday in June, 1874, by the stockholders, at such place in the city of New Orleans as may be selected, after ten days' advertisement in one of the daily newspapers published in the city of New Orleans, or by special notice to each stockholder; said Directors to hold office for one year, or until their successors are elected. The fiscal year of the company shall end on the thirty-first of May of each year, and the newly-elected Board of Directors shall take their seats on the first Monday in July following.

Any stockholder shall be eligible as a Director who may own five shares of the stock of the Association, and who is not a delinquent subscriber to the stock of the company.

All elections of Directors shall be by ballot, and held under the superintendence of a committee of three stockholders, to be appointed by the Board of Directors. Every owner of stock shall be entitled to one vote for each share of stock owned by him, her or them; provided, that no one shall be entitled to vote on any share or shares that have not stood in his, her or their names on the books of the Association for sixty days prior to any such election; also, that no one shall be entitled to vote at any election of stockholders who has not paid up all the installments called for by the terms of the charter or by the Board of Directors.

Proxies may vote when the authority is in writing. A plurality of the votes cast shall be sufficient to elect.

ARTICLE EIGHTH.

No stockholder shall ever be held liable for the contracts or faults of this corporation in any further sum than the unpaid balance due to the Association on the shares owned by him; nor shall any mere informality in organization have the effect of rendering this Charter null, or of exposing a stockholder to any liability beyond the amount of his stock.

No transfer of any stock not full-paid shall be made without the consent of the Board of Directors.

ARTICLE NINTH.

Any modification, additions to, or any changes in this act of incorporation may be made or the corporation may be dissolved by two-thirds of the stock represented and voting at any meeting of stockholders called for that specific purpose; provided due notice shall have been given of such meeting as provided in Article Seventh.

ARTICLE TENTH.

At the expiration of the term of this act of incorporation, or at its earlier termination, as provided in the preceding article, the affairs of the Association shall be liquidated, its debts and all other liabilities paid, and the balance of its funds, if any, shall be divided pro rata among the stockholders; all to be done under the supervision of a Board of three Commissioners, to be appointed by the Board of Directors, who shall continue to act until the business of the Association shall be entirely closed and liquidated; and in the case of the death of either one or two of them, the survivor or survivors shall act.

ARTICLE ELEVENTH.

The Board of Directors shall elect annually, at their first meeting, a President and such other officers, clerks or agents as shall be necessary to carry on the operations and objects of the corporation for such time as they may choose; they shall fix the salaries of all officers and the amount of security to be required from each. The Board shall also have the power to fill vacancies caused by the death, resignation or insolvency of any of its members.

The following-named persons shall constitute the first Board of Directors, and they shall hold their seats until the first Monday in July, 1874, or until their successors shall have been elected and qualified in accordance with the provisions of this charter, viz.: John L. Hunnicu, Fergus Hathorn, Robert M. Walmsley, Henry N. Soria, John Lawrence Gubernator and Joseph Walker Champlin.

THUS DONE AND PASSED, in my office, at New Orleans aforesaid, in the presence of George Cenas and Paul A. Conand, witnesses, both of this city, who hereunto sign their names with the parties and me, the said Notary, the day and date aforesaid.

Original signed: J. L. Gubernator, F. Hathorn, E. C. Palmer & Co., C. L. Walmsley & Co., and others.

GEO. CENAS.
P. A. CONAND.

ANDREW HERO, Jr.,
Notary Public.

I, the undersigned Recorder of Mortgages, in and for the parish and city of New Orleans, State of Louisiana, hereby certify that the within act of incorporation was this day duly recorded in my office, in Society Book No. 8, Fo. 757.

NEW ORLEANS, June 22, 1872.

[SEAL.] (Signed)
C. DARCANTEL, Deputy.

I certify the above and foregoing to be a true copy of the original act extant in my Current Register.

In faith whereof I grant these presents under my signature and the impress of my seal of office.

NEW ORLEANS, June 22, 1872.

ANDREW HERO, Jr.,
je27 5t Notary Public.

The Child's Corner.

THE CHILDREN'S PRAYER.

They were sitting alone in the parlor,
Mary and Annie and Will,
But a shadow clouded their faces,
And their tongues for once were still.

For father and mother watched alone
The darling they loved so well,
And the children knew she was near to death,
Their beautiful baby Belle.

And Willie sobbed: "If God wants her in heaven,
'Tis better for her to go,
For Jesus will take her up in his arms,
He loves little children so.

"Perhaps, if we ask him to spare her life,
He will listen while we pray,
For mamma says that for Christ's dear sake
He hears all the children say."

So, with tear-dimmed eyes and folded hands,
Together they knelt and prayed;
And God looked down in mercy, and heard
The sorrowful words they said.

"Dear Lord, please to let the baby live,
If it be thy holy will;
But if thou takest her up to heaven,
Help us to love thee still."

And they slept that night with no fear of harm,
For they trusted in God above,
And they knew that whatever he sent to them,
Was sent in mercy and love.

And when the morning came, in their mother's face
They read their answer well,
And thanked the dear Lord who heard their prayer,
And spared their baby Belle.

'Tis years since then, but they cannot forget
The lesson they learned that night—
The prayers of God's children, however weak,
Are precious in his sight.

Sunday School World.

What They Say About Us Boys.

Boys, they say that we are cruel. They say that we cause a great deal of pain, and that it is fun to us. They say that we just love to hurt things.

And this is the way they prove it: Tom, Dick and Harry went down to Tillytinkle brook last Saturday, and instead of contenting themselves with picking wild flowers, making willow whistles, and cutting red-osier canes, they stole a ground sparrow's nest, with four poor, tiny, red-skinned, bald-headed, gaping young birds in it. Yes, and though the old one flittered about and cried at the top of her voice, and told the boys, as plainly as could be, that the poor little nestlings were hers, her own, and all she had, that it would break her heart to lose them, that they would die, she know they would, without her brooding and feeding, and that anybody who would take them from her was a robber and murderer, and meaner than a hawk; yet those unaccountable boys carried the nest away, birds and all, and actually threw stones at the old sparrow too. Of course the little chicks died, just as the mother-bird said.

Now Tom declares that he didn't mean any harm; he only wanted to tame the young sparrows. Dick says he couldn't tell what the old thing was chattering about, and Harry guesses that they are not the only boys that plague birds.

No, Harry, you are not; for every day after school little Ben Topstone goes by with his gum-elastic sling, shooting pebbles and gravel stones in every direction; and woe be to the bird that comes within range of his little catapult. Only yesterday he pelted away for half an hour at the blue-birds in the grove, till at last one poor bird fluttered down with a broken wing.

Yet we cannot so much wonder at Ben, for his big brother John, now almost a man grown, goes ont with his gun and kills bobolinks and swallows, and even wrens; and once he actually shot a humming-bird, just for practice, he said. Ah, John! that is a very bad sort of practice, and teaches Ben bad practices too.

But the birds have not monopolized all the cruelty in the world, by any means. There are four-footed beasts that have wrongs to complain of. Fortunately for the dogs, the boys have a wholesome dread of them, which has prevented their taking too many liberties with them, though a small dog has now and then been seen with a skillet or coffee-pot tied to his tail, under circumstances that cast suspicion on the boys of the neighborhood.

As to cats, they have a standing account against boys, and it is a wonder that they can meet one anywhere and not scratch his eyes out. The way in which their ears and tails are pulled, and they are chased and scatted, and stoned, and hunted by dogs, all through the malice of boys, is pitiful enough. Perhaps malice is too strong a word for most of these pranks, but it is not half strong enough for others. For instance, a certain boy—no matter for his name, he'll know who is meant—a certain boy was seen, the other day, dragging a poor little kitten through the street by a string tied around her neck. What do you think of that? And he dragged it till it was dead. What do you think of that?

Beasts of burden are apt to have a prejudice against boys, and it is not hard to guess why. If there is one thing that a boy likes to do, it is to use a whip; and he is seldom able to find an animal that completely agrees with his notions on the subject. There are few oxen or horses, or even donkeys that like to be whipped—for the same reason that few boys like to be whipped—because it hurts. Give yourself a few smart blows with the lash, and you can tell something how it feels to the animal. Try various whips in this manner, and if you can find one that is so made that it feels good to be hit with it, then use it freely; but don't strike an animal with one of those whips that hurt.

And right here we find the principle that will guide us in all our treatment of animals. Try to think how you would feel if you were in their place, and treat them as you would wish to be treated.

And there is another principle, and a higher one, which comes in right here too. The same dear Lord that made us made all the living creatures about us, and he loves them, and thinks about them, and cares for them; and when they are hurt he is grieved. He knows where all the sparrow nests are, and how many birds are in them, and when they are hungry or cold, and when they are stolen away. He knows when the poor horse is tired, and when his skin smarts under the whip. There is not a dog so poor, or a kitten so wretched that God does not care what becomes of it. No, there is not a fish in the sea, or a fly in the air, or any tiniest thing anywhere that he does not watch and love. For his sake, then, my dear boys, and for our own, let us love all living things too; and whatever people say of us, don't let us give them reason to say that boys are cruel.—Sunday School Scholar.

The Great Clock at Strasbourg.

A clock is a wonderful sort of thing, isn't it, children? There it stands, ticking away all the time, its tiny hands pointing to every hour and minute as they pass, with an exactness which makes it seem like a living being. Indeed, I don't believe a person could be so exact and faithful as a clock, for men get tired, and clocks never do.

But wonderful as the clock appears that stands on your mother's mantel, or in the corner of grandmother's hall, it is nothing compared with some others I have seen.

Think of a clock as large as the front of the house you live in, and that will tell not only the hours and minutes of the day, but the days, weeks and months of the year, like an almanac; that tells all the movements of the sun, moon and planets, and many other things besides.

This clock is in a great, splendid church in the city of Strasbourg. Strasbourg was a French city until a few months ago, when the Prussians, who you know have been at war with France, conquered and took possession of it. Before the city was given up to them, the Prussians fired a great many balls and shells into it, and some of them hit the church, but the clock was not hurt. Oh, how glad the people have been, all through Europe and America, that it was not injured; for it is one of the wonders of the world!

I will tell you about it. First notice the dial plate, where, as in every clock, we tell the time of day. Over this dial you see a bell, and on each side of it the image of a little boy as large as your baby brother. One of these little fellows has a mallet in his hand, and when the full hour arrives, he strikes with it on the bell. The other holds an hour glass, which he turns over at the same moment.

Above the dial is a larger circle, which tells the motions of the stars, and next over that, one which shows the changes of the moon. Just above this you see an alcove in which is a grim, ugly-looking figure called Father Time. He has a bell in one hand and a scythe in the other, which, I suppose, is meant to show that when the right time comes he cuts down every living being.

There are four figures that pass before this old Father Time, one each quarter of an hour. These represent the four stages of life. The first is a little child, the second a fair youth, the third a grown-up man, and the fourth an old person.

Above this alcove is another, in which you see a number of figures. The central one is our Savior, and every day at noon the others, which are meant for the twelve apostles, march slowly past it and bow, while the holy image lifts its hands in blessing upon them. And, as the last one goes out, a monstrous cock, which you see perched on the pinnacle of the clock at the left hand, slowly flaps his wings and crows three times. The crowing is as natural as life, and is so loud that it can be heard outside the church.

You see on the clock many images besides, but they are only for ornament. I have explained all those that have motion and meaning. And all these are moved by machinery which is arranged at the back of the clock, where there are large, comfortable rooms. Stairs at the right hand lead up into those rooms, and there the workmen are always busy keeping all parts of the machinery in repair. It took three hundred years to make this great clock perfect as it now is. At one time it stopped, and fifty years went by before any one was found who knew enough to put it in order again. It took a very wise head, I am sure, to find out how to do this, and it must take wise heads and skillful hands to keep it going.

When any of you go to Europe, it will be worth while for you to journey by way of Strasbourg, that you may visit the clock; and you must remember to be there just before twelve, that you may be ready to hear it strike that hour, when you will see the whole variety of movements which I have described. The apostles only take their walk once a day, and at that hour.

And it is only then that the cock crows. So, if you want to see the whole performance, be sure to be there at twelve o'clock.—Gospel Banner.

Girls Away From Home.

A young lady is a sort of walking advertisement of her mother. Seeing the one, you can imagine very nearly what the other is—I mean in essentials. There will be little points of difference, and great contrasts perhaps in temperament, but in the main a girl is what her mother makes her; and in the broad principles which underlie character, the one will be the other's counterpart.

It seems to me that this is a thought to make one very careful. It is a great responsibility to be another's representative. Always remember that strangers are judging your mother by what you do and say. If you are selfish and inconsiderate, they form a low estimate of your mother's courtesy. If, on the other hand, you are polite, courteous and unselfish, they will think highly of her.

Never write on a subject without having first read yourself full on it; and never read on a subject till you have thought yourself hungry on it.—Richter.

The Farm and Garden.

How to Make a City Garden.

Take barrels and bore holes around the middle, and one hole large enough to admit the nose of your watering-pot. Fill the barrels with stones as high as the rows of holes, and fill in with good, rich, fine earth to the top, in which plant cucumbers, melons, squashes, tomatoes, etc. One barrel will be enough of each kind.

Be sure to have one flat stone lean over the large hole, where you will pour in water until it runs out of the holes you have made, and which will prevent the earth from filling this large hole up. Range the barrels around your yard, and plant your seeds. Keep the barrels filled with water up to the holes, and you have all the requisites for rapid, healthy growth—air, heat and moisture. You can raise all the vegetables you will need, in the greatest perfection, and they will last until late in the autumn, as they can easily be covered on frosty nights. Cucumbers and tomatoes may hang over the barrels, cutting them off when they reach the bottom. Melons may be tied to the wall-fence. The stones have an important service in holding up the earth, and absorbing the heat during the day, which they give out at night, keeping the water at an even temperature. You will be astonished at the result if you have never tried it.—Prairie Farmer.

Potash.

The use of this product in agriculture has been increasing rapidly during the past few years, and the article is becoming one of considerable commercial importance, while the natural supply is being developed in practically exhaustless quantities. Vast deposits have been opened at the Starsporth Salt Works in Germany, the magnitude of which may be inferred from the fact that at the present time more potash is being furnished from these mines, where a dozen years ago it was not supposed that a ton could be produced, than from the wood-ash sources of the whole world, thirty thousand tons of the murinte of potash having been manufactured there during the year 1870. The surface salts (which hold the potash) at these mines are capable of supplying millions of tons. It is probable that the salt mines of this country will be found, upon careful examination, to contain potash, and we may confidently look for the rapid cheapening of this useful product. The exports of ashes, pot and pearl, from the United States for the fiscal year 1870–71 were 13,169 hundred weight, valued at $103,249; in 1869–70, 22,030 hundred weight, valued at $256,339; and 1868–69, 20,686 hundred weight, valued at $161,731.

How Long Can a Mule Live?

A correspondent of the Country Gentleman says that Mr. Daniel Munro, of Elbridge, has a mule reputed to be sixty years old, the evidence of which is considered good. "We interviewed Old Peggy last fall. With her mate, a frisky thing of only twenty or so, she was drawing a steamer of three and a half tons. She was getting a little gray about the head. Did not like going with the steamer at first—brayed against it; but they turned on the steam whistle, and she was silenced. She was claimed to be as strong, hearty and obstinate as ever, and could stand as much sawing on the bit and pounding over the head, when she didn't wish to back a load. She was also active, as I was assured, with the kind permission to try for myself by tickling her in the flank, and see her 'strike out from the hip, right or left.' In fact, her prolonged experience had apparently tended to lessen rather than increase her respect for mankind."

The Orchard.

It is a question in dispute among fruit growers whether the fall or spring is the better time to plant out an orchard. Our own experience is in favor of fall planting, where the ground has been well prepared and the trees carefully planted. Were we going to plant an orchard we should do so in October, just as confidently as we would in November, and more so than in February or March.

This is a good time for root-grafting peaches, plums, pears and apples; also for planting the seeds of almost all fruits. Let care be taken not to plant the seeds too deep. The oaks of the forest plant their seeds shallow.

Apply to the bearing fruit trees a mixture of ashes, bone dust and woods earth, forking it in round the roots in a circle of a couple of feet from the stem. Keep a continual lookout for the borer, and when found ku-klux him instantly, even though martial law has been proclaimed.—Southern Farm and Home.

Effects of Underdraining.

Experiments in underdraining land were made in Scotland, for the purpose of determining the effect on the temperature of the soil, compared with that of the same vicinity which was not drained. The result was that the draining raised the temperature one to five degrees, equal to a removal of the land from one hundred to one hundred and fifty miles south. This is an important consideration connected with compact, heavy soils, whose retentiveness of water renders them cold and comparatively inert with respect to vegetation. The draining of land involves a very considerable expense, but its increased productiveness soon repays this, besides assuring increased profits for the future. So says a correspondent in the Boston Watchman and Reflector.

To Pull Stumps.—Cut the largest roots of the stump after digging round it, lay one end of a log thirty-five feet long and nine inches thick against the stump, fasten it there with a chain, attach a yoke of oxen to the other end and pull away. The stump, being the fulcrum, is bound to come. Draw round in a circle and twist it out.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ARE YOU GOING EAST OR NORTH?

Take the Iron Mountain, and Chicago and Alton Railroads,

THE ONLY ALL-RAIL ROUTE FROM all points South to

CHICAGO.

The only line running the Pullman Palace Cars from all points South to St. Louis and Chicago.

Passengers by this line arrive in Chicago one hour in advance of all competing lines, and avoid 25 miles of steamboat transfer, and the annoying changes of cars incident to other lines. For all points in the Northwest, St. Paul, Milwaukee, or all points in the Canadas, New York, Boston and all Eastern cities, this is the pleasantest and most direct route. Parties going East via this line can lay over in Chicago and visit the Burnt District, and resume their trip at their leisure. Fare as low as by all other routes. Tickets to be had at all ticket offices in the South.

W. R. ALLEN,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent.
Iron Mountain Line, St. Louis.
JAMES CHARLTON,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent.
Chicago and Alton Line, Chicago.
D. A. FREER,
my30 4m Southern Traveling Agent.

LOUISVILLE AND CINCINNATI SHORT-LINE R. R. connections are 5½ hours QUICKER to Eastern cities than any other Rail Line from Louisville, and 19 hours in advance of the River route. This is the only line making Baltimore in 26 hours, Philadelphia in 27 hours, Washington in 27 hours, New York in 30½ hours, Boston in 35 hours.

Southern Fast Line, daily, except Sunday	Leave. 7.50 A.M.	Arrive. 8.05 P.M.
Cincinnati Express, daily	3.55 P.M.	12.40 P.M.
Cincinnati Night Express, daily, except Saturday	10.40 P.M.	5.00 A.M.
Lexington Mail, daily, except Sunday	6.00 A.M.	6.35 P.M.
Lexington Express, daily, except Sunday	2.30 P.M.	10.30 A.M.
Frankfort Accommoda'n, daily, except Sunday	4.55 P.M.	8.15 A.M.
Shelbyville Accommod'n, daily, except Sunday	3.55 P.M.	10.30 A.M.

Sleeping car on 10 40 P. M. Round-trip tickets to Cincinnati and Covington at reduced rates. Ticket Offices—Depot, Third and Main streets, Galt House, Louisville Hotel and Willard Hotel. Telegrams to secure sleeping car berths to Eastern cities will be sent free.

S. S. PARKER,
General Passenger and Ticket Agent.
J. E. GUNPERLING,
my16 3m Superintendent, Louisville, Ky.

THE UTICA STEAM ENGINE CO.

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN, Agent, NO. 9 UNION STREET, New Orleans.

Formerly WOOD & MANN.

These Engines are so well and favorably known that a description of them here is not deemed necessary.

They are EQUALED by FEW, SURPASSED by NONE, perfect in workmanship, complete in appointments, safe, simple and substantial. Every boiler is practically tested before leaving the factory. By the use of a CIRCULATING WATER BOTTOM around and underneath the furnace, which lessens the

RISK FROM FIRE,

they are particularly adapted for GINNING COTTON. Engines of all sizes, at prices which challenge comparison for equal size of steam cylinder and measurements of boiler. A full stock of these Engines will be kept constantly on hand by the undersigned, who has been appointed general agent.

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN,
No. 9 Union street,
mh21 6m New Orleans, La.

CRESCENT MUTUAL

INSURANCE COMPANY.

TWENTY-THIRD ANNUAL STATEMENT.

New Orleans, May 18, 1872.

The Trustees, in conformity to the charter, submit the following statement of the affairs of the company on the thirtieth of April, 1872:

Fire premiums for the year	$194,069 44
Marine premiums for the year	61,350 64
River premiums for the year	183,299 36
Total	$438,718 44
Earned premiums, less reinsurance and return premiums	358,153 65
Net profits	79,823 81

The company has assets to the amount of $732,129.40.

The Board of Trustees resolved to pay interest at SIX PER CENT. CASH on all the outstanding CERTIFICATES OF SCRIP, to the legal holders thereof, on and after the second Monday in June next.

They have also declared a SCRIP DIVIDEND OF THIRTY-THREE AND ONE-THIRD PER CENT. on the earned premiums entitled to participate for the year ending April 30, 1872, for which certificates will be issued on and after the first Monday in August next, free of government tax.

THOMAS A. ADAMS, President.
HENRY V. OGDEN, Secretary.

TRUSTEES.

Samuel H. Kennedy.	John Phelps.
C. T. Buddecke.	P. H. Foley.
A. G. Ober.	A. Thomson.
E. H. Summers.	B. Newgass.
P. N. Strong.	Victor Meyer.
Joseph Bowling.	E. J. Gay.

Je20 6t S. B. Newman.

MILLER'S

Bible and Publishing House.

NEW ILLUSTRATED FAMILY BIBLE.

The Cheapest and Best Bible published. LARGE PRINT, Beautiful Bindings, more than two hundred Engravings.

THE CHRISTIAN HARMONY,

a new and choice collection of Sacred Music, based on system of seven-shaped character notes. Any one can learn to read music, and sing in one-fourth the time required by the old methods. Address

Miller's Bible and Publishing House,
1102 and 1104 Sansom street,
Je27 6m Philadelphia, Penn'a.

OCEAN SPRINGS.

Summer Resort.—Board at the Seaside.

THE SUBSCRIBER has taken the MORRIS HOUSE, at Ocean Springs, which has just undergone a thorough repair, and will be open to boarders who wish to enjoy a pleasant home, good bathing, fresh sea air, and luxuriate on fish and oysters during the heat of summer.

Terms for board: $40 per month, $10 per week, and $2 per day. Apply to the subscriber by mail, at Ocean Springs.

Refer to Bishop Keener, Rev. Robert J. Harp, J. L. Dunnica & Co., and Samuel Russ, Esq., New Orleans.

WM. C. CHAMBERLIN.
APRIL 20, 1872. ap25 tf

HARDWARE, STOVES, ETC.

KURSHEEDT & BIENVENU,

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

Plantation and Builders' Hardware,

MARBLE, MARBLEIZED SLATE

AND IRON MANTLES,

Grates, Hearths and Fire Bricks,

NO. 114 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

my2 1y

THE UNRIVALED

BUCK'S BRILLIANT STOVE.

Every Brilliant Is Fully Guaranteed.

H. HALLER,
No. 49 Camp street, New Orleans,
Sole Agent for Louisiana.

Sole Agent for the

CELEBRATED RINGEN WASHER,

In the States of Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi. oct9 1y

G. W. W. GOODWYN,
No. 52 Gravier Street,
DEALER IN

Stoves and Tinware of All Kinds.

While he is prepared to furnish, at the lowest rates, Cooking and Heating Stoves of all the various styles and patterns sold in this market, he makes a specialty of the following, to wit:

Cottage, Cricket, The Best, Relief, Gray Jacket, and Diadem.

These Stoves are sold under a guarantee, and may be returned if they do not perform well.

NOTE BY P. M. GOODWYN.—Lack of health has obliged me for a time to give up my regular calling—that of the ministry. In the meanwhile, in order to do what I can for a support, I have engaged as an assistant in my brother's establishment, as above advertised. And I take this method of soliciting from among the readers of the ADVOCATE—many of whom are my personal acquaintances and friends—a share of their patronage whenever they may have need of anything in the above line. Orders sent through their merchants, or to either of us direct, will receive prompt attention. mh7 6m

GROCERIES—GLASSWARE.

PURE LOUISIANA

SUGAR, MOLASSES AND SIRUPS.

REFINED SUGAR.—Cut Loaf, Crushed and Powdered.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

GOLDEN SIRUP.—A superior article of pure Louisiana from the Crescent City Refinery. A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

REFINED SIRUP AND MOLASSES.—Crescent City Refinery, Orleans, Louisiana, Chalmette and Pelican brands.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

LOUISIANA MOLASSES.—Various grades of Plantation, in barrels, half barrels and kegs. A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

CLARIFIED SUGAR.—Various grades of White and Yellow, in hogsheads and barrels.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

LOUISIANA SUGAR.—Various grades of Plantation, in hogsheads and barrels.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

FOREIGN SUGAR.—Cuba, Demerara and Porto Rico, in hogsheads and boxes.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
my9 6m 48 Tchoupitoulas street.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,

—IMPORTERS OF—

CHINA, CROCKERY AND GLASS,

55.....CAMP STREET.....55

New Orleans.

Country dealers supplied with ASSORTED CRATES or from SHELF upon the most favorable terms.

Contents of our English Iron Stone China Dinner Set, No. 1:

12 Dinner Plates,	1 Round Soup Tureen,
12 Breakfast Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Tea Plates,	1 Salad,
12 Soup Plates,	1 Pair Covered Dishes,
12 Preserve Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Pickle Dishes,
12 Tea cups and saucers	4 Meat Dishes.

112 pieces best English Ware..... $15

Our Stone China Dinner and Tea Set, No. 2, contains

158 pieces..... $25

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 1, contains

12 Dinner Plates,	4 Meat Dishes,
12 Breakfast Plates,	1 Soup Tureen, round,
12 Tea Plates,	2 Covered Dishes, oval
12 Soup Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Preserve Plates,	1 Salad,
12 Tea cups and saucers	2 Pickles,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes.

112 pieces best French Ware..... $30

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 2, contains

166 pieces..... $45

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 3, contains

255 pieces..... $65

A large variety of the best SELF-SEALING FRUIT JARS always on hand.

Sole agents for the celebrated BLANCHARD CHURN. The best churn made.

The most complete stock of HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS in the South.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,
ap4 6m No. 55 Camp st., New Orleans.

New Orleans Savings Institution,
187 CANAL STREET.

Incorporated March 15, 1855.

OFFICERS.

L. F. GENERES, President.
THOS. A. ADAMS, first Vice President.
THOS. ALLEN CLARKE, second Vice President.
CHARLES J. LEEDS, third Vice President.
SAM JONES, Jr., Treasurer.

DIRECTORS.

Dr. W. Newton Mercer,

L. F. Generes.	Parke Urquhart.
George Jones.	John G. Gaines.
Thos. A. Adams.	Carl Kohn.
Thos. Allen Clarke.	Christian Schneider.
Charles J. Leeds.	Samuel Jamison

Six per cent. interest on deposits.
my30 3m

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

MEMPHIS CONFERENCE

FEMALE INSTITUTE,

JACKSON, TENNESSEE.

REV. A. W. JONES, D. D., PRESIDENT.

THIS OLD AND POPULAR INSTITUTION is most favorably located at the junction of the Mobile and Ohio and Mississippi Central railroads, in the healthy, intelligent, refined and religious community of Jackson, and furnishes all the advantages of a first-class Female College. The best professors and teachers employed. The discipline mild, firm and parental. The course of study thorough and extensive. The library large and valuable. The chemical and philosophical apparatus ample and appropriate. The buildings and grounds well arranged, commodious and beautiful. The conveniences and accommodations in all departments complete, excellent and satisfactory. The attention to the health, manners and comfort of pupils constant and faithful. For more than seventeen years no young lady has died within the walls of the institute, while the cases of severe sickness have been few.

Fall session begins on the FIRST MONDAY IN SEPTEMBER, and the opening address and concert on the following Tuesday evening. Spring session begins on the fourth Monday in January. Commencement day, the second Wednesday in June.

TUITION.

Collegiate department	$25 00
Music and use of piano	30 00
Latin and French, each	10 00
Board, washing, etc	90 00

Other charges moderate. Payments one-half in advance. For particulars address the president, or

Jy11 4m PROF. A. B. JONES, A. M.

EMORY AND HENRY COLLEGE,

VIRGINIA.

THE FALL SESSION of this institution begins on the FIFTEENTH OF AUGUST next. One Hundred and Fifteen Dollars will pay all the necessary expenses of a five-month session, including board, tuition, fuel, room-rent, washing and contingent fees. Payments are required in advance, except for board, which is $13 per month, and payable monthly in advance. If you will consult the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and her ministers generally, our alumni and students, or the professors of the University of Virginia, who have authorized this reference, you will be assured that we are offering excellent opportunities for a thorough collegiate training, surrounded by healthful, moral, religious influences. If you desire a catalogue, or any additional information, address

E. E. WILEY, President,
je20 4m Emory P. O., Virginia.

GREEN FARM HIGH SCHOOL,

NEAR BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

REV. F. M. GRACE, PROPRIETOR.

THE FIRST SESSION of this School will begin on the FIRST MONDAY IN AUGUST, 1872, and will continue forty weeks, with a recess of one week at Christmas. The cost of board and tuition will be $20 per month, or $200 per annum. The course of study will embrace all branches usually taught in schools and colleges, and will be adapted to the end the student has in view.

The school is private property, but will be conducted in the interest of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

The buildings and grounds are ample for a private boarding school, and are located in a most beautiful and healthful situation. Boys will be treated with paternal kindness, and the younger pupils will receive especial attention. On Saturday before the opening of the session the proprietor will meet his pupils at Birmingham with private conveyance to the school.

Correspondence is solicited, and circulars will be sent on application to the President at Birmingham, Alabama. For references he respectfully gives his former pupils in the Southern States. Je13 2m

HOMER COLLEGE.

THE EXERCISES OF THE TWELFTH scholastic year of Homer College, begin on the first Tuesday in September, 1871. The term is divided into a short Fall Session and a long Spring Session, with a Christmas Vacation of two weeks.

FACULTY:

Rev. J. E. COBB, President and Professor of Mental, Moral and Commercial Science.
J. W. NICHOLSON, A. M., Professor of Pure and Mixed Mathematics.
A. C. CALHOUN, A. B., Professor of Languages.
E. M. CORRY, A. B., Tutor in Physical Science.

TERMS—IN ADVANCE:

Tuition for Fall Session	$16 and $20 00
Tuition for Spring Session	24 and $30 00
Incidental fee (per session)	1 50
Board (per month)	15 00

Students admitted at any time in classes already formed, and charged until the end of the session.

A course of study as full and thorough as that of any college in the land, an ample corps of instructors, a complete library and apparatus, recently purchased and adapted to the present demands of science and learning, the sure prospect of a permanent endowment, now in progress, an eminently healthful location, a surrounding community intelligent and refined, invite the patronage of the Southwest to Homer College.

For further particulars, address
REV. J. E. COBB,
President Homer College, La.
W. F. MORELAND,
se21 tf President Board of Trustees.

CENTENARY COLLEGE

OF LOUISIANA.

THE SESSION OF THIS COLLEGE WILL begin on the FIRST MONDAY in October next. The session embraces forty weeks.

EXPENSES.

Collegiate department, per session	$60 00
Preparatory department, per session	40 00
Incidental expenses	5 00

Tuition for five months payable in advance.

Boarding can be had in good families at from $15 to $20 per month.

For further particulars address
PROF. A. R. HOLCOMBE,
se10 1y Jackson, La.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

G. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER. E. T. MERRICK, Former Ch. Jus. La.

RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,
Attorneys, Counselors and Solicitors,
Cor. of Camp street and Commercial Place,
se25 NEW ORLEANS.

W. W. EDWARDS,
COUNSELOR AT LAW
AND
COMMISSIONER OF DEEDS,
No. 88 Common street,
se14 1y New Orleans.

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,
DENTAL SURGEON,
152.....JULIA STREET.....152
All operations in Operative, Mechanical and Surgical Dentistry carefully performed. Nitrous Oxide and other Anæsthetics administered. no30 1y

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,
Office—680 Magazine Street,
Between Philip and First sts., New Orleans.

Will call daily at College building, corner Common and Baronne streets, between eleven and twelve o'clock. Je29 1y

Scientific.

LIVING TOADS IN ROCKS.

There is no question that living toads are sometimes found imbedded in limestone. Prof. Worthen, of the Illinois Geological Survey, suggests the following explanation: There was a cavity in the rock which the toad entered for the purpose of making it its winter home. Water, surcharged with lime, flowed over it, and a deposit of limestone was formed of sufficient thickness to imprison the toad. In brief, the deposit of limestone is formed in the same manner that stalactites and stalagmites are. That it is impossible for a toad to remain for years in such a situation is certain. A writer in "Land and Water," commenting on a story that has been circulated in England of late, that a living toad was found twenty-four feet below the surface, in a bed of hard clay that must have been formed more than a thousand years ago, says:

Is it not much more likely that the toad tumbled into the place from the earth above, or had been carried there by some one who desired to have a little fun out of such believers as one of our correspondents and others who can swallow such nonsense as that toads can live for a thousand years and more without food or air, not to speak of the enormous pressure of thousands of tons of mineral weight pressing on their frail bodies?

Some short time ago a paragraph went the round of the papers saying that a live toad was found in a solid igneous rock, which must have been millions of years formed, before the living races of reptiles were created, and as this rock was of course carbonized by excessive heat, the toad must have not only lived before he was created, but crept into a place hermetically sealed, lived through millions of years, and cared nothing whatever for being roasted alive! That toads and their cousins, the frogs, can endure surprisingly long fasts—for months sometimes—especially if allowed the privilege of living in a damp place, I admit. They also are known to live to a comfortable old age—about fifty years—when permitted to pass life in a gentle, do-nothing sort of style; but that they can live for hundreds of years under twenty-four feet of soft clay is most improbable, nay impossible. I need not remind you, sir, of the experiments carried on to prove this by the late Dr. Buckland, but as it may be new to many of your readers, and of interest, I will relate them here.

He (Dr. Buckland) placed twelve toads separately in twelve holes cut in blocks of soft limestone, and also a like number of toads in twelve blocks of hard, flinty sandstone. Each of the twenty-four cells was covered with a plate of glass, over which a slate was placed, and each cover firmly cemented to its own stone. The imprisoned toads thus secured, were buried three feet deep on the twenty-sixth of November, 1825. At the same time four toads were deposited in holes cut in the heart of an apple tree, the opening being securely plugged up. Four others were also placed in a plaster-of-paris bowl, and completely covered with a lining. The thirty-two reptiles were examined on the tenth of December, 1826. Mark the result. On that day every toad in the hard stones, all in the tree, two in the plaster-of-paris, and all the small ones in the soft limestone, were dead. The remaining two in the plaster-of-paris were dying, but several in the pervious stones were in tolerable health, and of these, two were actually fatter than when placed in the holes.

It is, however, believed that some water had filtered through the more porous stone, and insects had certainly penetrated into one cell. The surviving toads were placed in their respective holes for another year, and at the end of that period all were dead. Another experiment was tried by a French naturalist, who inclosed three toads in close boxes for eighteen months. At the end of that time one was dead, and the others in a dying state.

Dr. Macartney buried a toad in a vessel, covered with a slate only, a foot deep in the ground. At the end of a fortnight the creature seemed all right, and as plump as before. He then inclosed the same toad in an air-tight vessel, and buried it; in a week the animal was dead, and even much decayed.

Dr. Shaw is of opinion: "That a toad may have occasionally 'latibulized' in some part of a tree, or fissure of a rock, and have been in some degree overtaken or inclosed by the growth of the wood, or shifting of the stone, and so be obliged to continue in the situation, without being able to effect its escape, may perhaps be granted; but it would probably continue to live so long only as there remained a passage for air, and for the ingress of insects, etc., on which it might occasionally feed; but that it should be completely blocked up in any kind of stone or marble, without either food or air, appears entirely incredible."

Such accounts must be received with a large allowance for the natural love of the marvelous, the surprise excited by the sudden appearance of the animal in an unsuspected place, and the too frequent neglect of minute attention at the moment to the surrounding parts of the spot where it was discovered. Well, indeed, may Mr. Bell exclaim: "To believe that a toad inclosed within a mass of clay, and other similar substances, shall exist wholly without air or food, for hundreds of years, and at length be liberated alive, and capable of crawling on the breaking up of the matrix, now become a solid rock, is certainly a demand upon our credulity which few would be ready to answer."

COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

PRICE, HINE & TUPPER,
General Commission Merchants,
FACTORS, AND
Agents of Attakapas Mail Transportation Co.,
NO. 20 CARONDELET STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Advances made on consignments to T. Tupper & Sons, Charleston, S. C.; Williams, Hirnle & Co., and Leverich & Co., New York. no2 1y

W. H. SUTTON. J. R. POWELL.
SUTTON & POWELL,
COTTON FACTORS
AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
186..... COMMON STREET 186
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
se21 1y

H. F. GIVEN. LUCIEN J. DOIZE.
H. F. GIVEN & CO.,
COTTON, TOBACCO AND SUGAR FACTORS,
—AND—
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 64 Baronne street, New Orleans.
oc5 1y

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.
AIKEN & WATT,
Cotton Factors and Commission Merchants,
60.....CARONDELET STREET.....60
NEW ORLEANS.
Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. no2 1y

J. L. DUNNICA, T. A. HAMILTON,
New Orleans. Memphis.
G. P. HARRISON, New Orleans.
J. L. DUNNICA & CO.,
FLOUR, PRODUCE AND PROVISION
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
50.....TCHOUPITOULAS ST.....50
NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA.
oc22 1y

J. U. PAYNE. W. H. DAMERON. H. M. PAYNE
PAYNE, DAMERON & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
64 & 66.....BARONNE STREET.....64 & 66
Between Union and Gravier streets,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
je19 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,
Cotton Factors and General Commission Merchants,
31.....PERDIDO STREET 31
oc3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

BUSINESS CARDS.

YUT, SING & CO.,
Agents for Fook, Hing & Co., and Tong, Wo & Co., of San Francisco, DIRECT IMPORTERS (VIA SAN FRANCISCO) OF
CHINA AND JAPAN TEAS,
Silks, Lacquer Ware and Fancy Goods, and Dealers in Provisions,
No. 40 Royal Street, New Orleans, La.
je6 2m

MARBLE AND GRANITE WORKS.
GEORGE STROUD,
Late of and successor to John Stroud & Co., (established in 1830,)
158, 160, 162 and 164 St. Charles st.,
Cor. Girod street, New Orleans.
Every description of MONUMENTAL, CEMETERY and BUILDING WORK done in the best manner. Particular attention given to all country orders.
A long experience in and an aptness at the business enables the proprietor to meet the views and ideas of his country friends by letter as well as by a visit to the city.
Designs and Sketches furnished on application. ap25 3m

JAMES M'CRACKEN. GEO. E. BREWSTER.
McCRACKEN & BREWSTER,
DEALERS IN FURNITURE,
Nos. 37, 39 and 41 Royal street.
Manufactory, corner Derbigny and Customhouse streets, New Orleans. my9 6m

CHARLES BALLEJO,
FAMILY GROCER,
St. Charles, corner of Jackson street,
my9 3m New Orleans, La.

GEORGE CRONAN,
(SUCCESSOR TO BENNETT & LUROES,)
SOUTHERN ORNAMENTAL IRON WORKS
Corner Magnolia and Erato Sts.,
Near Jackson Railroad Depot,
my9 3m NEW ORLEANS.

GEORGE JOHN WAGNER,
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF
BOOTS, SHOES AND BROGANS,
Corner of Ursulines and Dauphine Sts.,
(SIGN OF THE RED BOOT,)
NEW ORLEANS.
Every description of articles in the Boot and Shoe line, for Ladies', Gentlemen's and Children's wear, constantly on hand, and offered at the LOWEST PRICES. ap25 3m

JOHN I. ADAMS & CO., (JOHN I. ADAMS, JAY L. ADAMS, GEO. W. WEST, WM. H. RENAUD,)
WHOLESALE GROCERS,
AND DEALERS IN
PROVISIONS, LARD, OILS, ETC., ETC.,
43, 45 and 47 Peters street,
(Formerly New Levee.)
mh21 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ELON G. SMITH, J. L. CHEATHAM,
J. W. DRAUGHON.
SMITH, CHEATHAM & CO.,
(SUCCESSORS TO ELON G. SMITH & CO.)
PORK PACKERS,
Provision and Commission Merchants,
CORNER THIRD AND SPRUCE STREETS,
SAINT LOUIS.
We solicit orders from the trade for goods in our line. oc26 1y

BUSINESS CARDS.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
CANAL ST., COR. ROYAL, NEW ORLEANS,
IMPORTERS OF
WATCHES, JEWELRY, CLOCKS,
PLATED WARE, HOUSEKEEPING GOODS,
Cutlery, Guns, Pistols, Bronzes, Porcelain and Fancy Goods.
MANUFACTURERS OF
PURE COIN SILVERWARE.
Watches and Jewelry carefully repaired. Every article sold fully guaranteed.
no23 1y

C. HUCHEZ,
FAMILY GROCER,
NOS. 95 AND 97 CAMP STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Supplies carefully put up for families moving over the Lake. my30 3m

Carpet Warehouse—17 Chartres Street.
A. BROUSSEAU & CO.,
Importers and dealers, at Wholesale and Retail, in English and American Carpetings,
Floor Oil Cloths, Table and Enameled Oil Cloths,
Window Shades, Table and Piano Covers,
Crumb Cloths, in squares or pieces,
Curtain and Furniture Materials,
Brocatelles, Cotelenes, Terries, Reps, Lace and Nottingham Lace Curtains, Haircloth Ticking, Springs, Buriaps, Step Covers, etc.
no23 1y A. BROUSSEAU & CO.

THE MITCHELL & RAMMELSBERG
FURNITURE COMPANY,
Manufacturers and dealers in all kinds of
Furniture, Mattresses, Looking Glasses,
ETC., ETC.,
103 and 105 Camp street, cor. Poydras,
Moresque Building, New Orleans,
have the largest and best assortment of FURNITURE of any house in the city.
Please give us a call before purchasing elsewhere. my23 1y

LOUISIANA STEAM
SASH, BLIND AND DOOR FACTORY,
ROBERTS & CO., PROPRIETORS,
301, 303, 305 and 307 Gravier Street,
NEW ORLEANS. my30 1y

JOHN LAZARUS,
PRACTICAL OPTICIAN,
6.....ST. CHARLES ST.....6
Near Canal, New Orleans.
Sole Agent for the celebrated Pantascopic Star Spectacles and Eye Glasses. mt.21 6m

C. SAMPSON. F. G. SAMPSON.
SAMPSON BROTHERS,
(Late C. C. Sampson,)
FURNITURE,
33 & 35..... ROYAL STREET .....33 & 35
NEW ORLEANS.
Established in 1833. jal1 1y

E. HEATH. M. LARA. J. P. HEATH.
HEATH, LARA & HEATH,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
UPHOLSTERERS' MATERIALS,
WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES,
CORNICES AND CURTAIN GOODS,
Fixtures, Frames, Moldings, Looking Glasses and Clocks,
NO. 99 CAMP STREET.
no16 1y NEW ORLEANS.

J. THOMSON. G. THOMSON. W. H. THOMSON.
J. THOMSON & BROS.,

Manufacturers of Carriages, Baroches, Buggies, Phaetons,
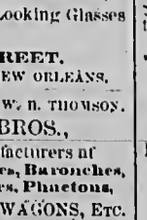
SPRING WAGONS, ETC.
68 and 70 Rampart Street,
Bet. Common and Gravier, New Orleans, La.
Repairing done in all its branches. no30 1y

T. H. McMAHAN & CO.,
BANKERS,
And Dealers in Foreign and Domestic Exchange,
GALVESTON, TEXAS.
We have prompt and reliable correspondents at all the principal points throughout this State, and upon all collections payable in this city or Houston make no charge for collecting, and only actual charge upon interior collections.
Immediate and prompt attention given to all business intrusted to us. feb1 1y.

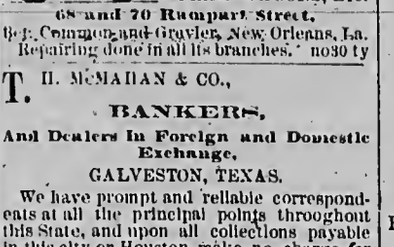
RICHARD BRODERICK,
CISTERN MAKER,
132.....Julia street 132
Bet. Camp and Magazine, New Orleans.
Second hand Cisterns always on hand. All work guaranteed.
All orders left at Box 30, Mechanics' and Dealers' Exchange, will meet with prompt attention. my2 1y.

HILL & VEAZIE,
74.....Camp street.....74
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
LAMPS AND OILS, CHANDELIERS,
Globes, Chimneys, Shades, Trimmers, Wicks, Cans, Fillers, etc.
PRATTS' ASTRAL OIL, non-explosive and non-inflammable. jal8 1y

R. H. NOBLE. J. B. WOODS.
NOBLE & WOODS,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS,
Nos. 9 and 11 Delta street, and 10 and 12 Front street,
jal8 1y NEW ORLEANS, LA.

WATER
The Records of Tests
AT LOWELL, MASS., PROVE
N. F. BURNHAM'S
New Turbine


superior to all others. It gave a higher percentage than any other wheel of common finish. Pamphlet and Price List by N. F. BURNHAM, York, Pa. ap25 6m

READY-PREPARED
PLASTIC SLATE ROOFING.


Thoroughly Fire-Proof and Durable.
Adapted to any style of roof, steep or flat. Can be applied by any one. Its cost on the roof is less than shingles in nearly every section of the country, and the water from it is of the best quality. Sample sent on application to
EDWARD THOMPSON, Manufacturer,
je27 1m 184 Peter street, New Orleans.

THE BECKWITH SEWING MACHINE.

PATENTED APRIL 10, 1871.

PRICE, $10, including Hemmer, Guide, four Needles, Bottle of Oil and Can.

The First and Only Successful Low-Priced Machine Made.

PRACTICAL, DURABLE, SIMPLE and Beautiful. Capable of making by hand upward of 800 Stitches per Minute and there is very little Family Sewing that this machine will not do as well as a $75 machine, and some work it will do better.

It is well and strongly made of the best material, but compact and light, and takes up but little room. Nickel-plated throughout.

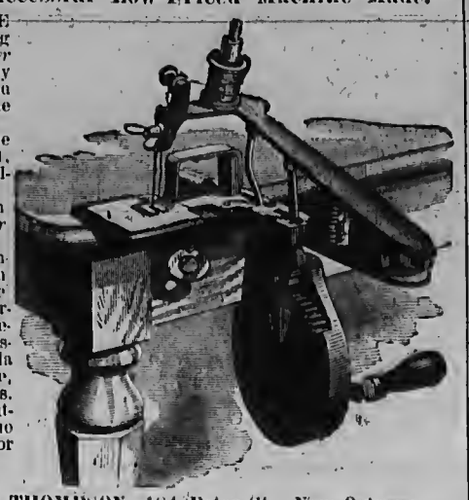
Its SIMPLICITY adapts it to all capacities. Every machine is fully warranted for Two Years.

Full directions for running the machine, hemming, tucking, hem-stitching, etc., accompany every machine.

Parties in the city wishing to purchase a machine can see one in operation at Mrs. Robertson's, dressmaker, corner of Camp and Julia streets, up stairs, over the cigar store, and where they can leave their orders.

Single machines sent to any address, carefully boxed, with all the equipments, on receipt of $10. For full particulars send for circular.

Address



EDWARD THOMPSON, 184 Peter St., New Orleans,
Agent of the Manufacturer.

Energetic Agents Wanted. (je27 6m)

"Southern Books for Southern Schools."

School-Books which are Unsectional, Unpartisan, and Unpolitical.

PREPARED BY THE MOST EMINENT SOUTHERN SCHOLARS, AND

ENTIRELY ACCEPTABLE TO SOUTHERN TEACHERS AND PARENTS.

The University Publishing Co.,

An Association composed of many of the most eminent citizens of the several Southern States, feeling the necessity for a series of School Books which should be entirely unsectional, unpartisan, and unpolitical, and in their teaching should not be offensive to the thought and feeling of the Southern people—which should present only the facts of history and science—are now issuing a complete series of School and College Text-books by the eminent Southern scholars and educators named below, which are the

Cheapest, Best, and Most Beautiful School-Books

Now published. The "University Series" embraces

MAURY'S GEOGRAPHICAL SERIES,

By Commodore M. F. Maury, of the Virginia Military Institute. A series of books which mark an era in the study of this science, and which, in the words of a well known and accomplished Southern teacher, "are characterized by a felicity of arrangement and simple freshness of style which must ever render them attractive to the young, and which will be used by all who wish to teach Geography as a science, as something to make pupils think, and not merely as an enumeration of dry facts."

Holmes' Readers and Spellers,

By George F. Holmes, LL.D., Professor of History and General Literature in the University of Virginia. A series of Readers unequalled in cheapness, excellence, and typographical beauty. They are steadily progressive in character, bright and fresh in their selections of prose and verse, and illustrative of Southern scenes, incidents, and history.

Venable's Arithmetical Series,

By Charles S. Venable, LL.D., Professor of Mathematics in the University of Virginia. These books are received everywhere by intelligent teachers with the highest satisfaction, as being most admirably adapted for mental drill, as well as for business education. Their methods, rules, and reasonings are clear, distinct, logical, and comprehensive, and the series is carefully graded throughout.

Holmes' History of the United States,

By George F. Holmes, LL.D., of the University of Virginia. It is enough to say of this admirable work, interesting, impartial, and truthful, as well as pure and graceful in style, that it is the only History of the United States which is acceptable to Southern teachers and parents. It comes down to the present date.

THE "UNIVERSITY SERIES" OF SCHOOL-BOOKS

COMPRISES, ALSO,

De Vere's French Grammar, Readers, etc.,

By M. Schele DeVere, LL.D., Professor of Modern Languages in the University of Va.

Gildersleeve's Latin Series,

By B. L. Gildersleeve, Ph.D., LL.D., of the University of Virginia.

Carter's Elements of General History,

By Rev. J. P. Carter, A.M., of Baltimore, Maryland.

Holmes' English Grammars,

By George F. Holmes, LL.D., of the University of Virginia.

LeConte's Scientific Series,

By the Professors LeConte, late of the University of South Carolina.

Johnston's English Classics,

By R. M. Johnston, A.M., late Professor of Rhetoric and Belles-Lettres in the University of Georgia.

To which list other books in other departments will early be added.

Send for our full ILLUSTRATED DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, which will be mailed free to any teacher or school officer. Liberal terms given for introduction.

Address

UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING COMPANY,
155 and 157 Crosby Street, New York.

A full supply of "The University Series" always on hand, and teachers and schools supplied by R. J. HARP, Bookseller, 112 Camp St., New Orleans,
And by all prominent booksellers throughout the South.
W. IRVING CLARKE, the General Agent, will furnish any information, and afford every facility to teachers for examining the series. Office—92 CAMP ST., New Orleans mh7 1y.

Carpet and Oil Cloth Warehouse.
J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.
ELKIN & CO.,
168..... CANAL STREET 168
Near Baronne, New Orleans,
IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF ENGLISH CARPETINGS, RUGS, Etc.
—ALSO—
Oil Cloths, Mattings,
Lace and Damask Curtains,
Window Shades, etc.,
—AND A—
Complete Assortment of Upholstery Goods.
fe8 1y

MINERAL SPERM OIL.
GUARANTEED AS SAFE AS SPERM OR LARD OIL.
It Will Not Take Fire in Case of Breakage of the Lamp.
THE OIL WILL EXTINGUISH the FLAME.
The Oil itself has no odor while burning. It gives a Light of TEN-CANDLE POWER at a cost not exceeding ONE-HALF CENT PER HOUR, and for lighting railroad cars, steamers, factories and dwelling houses it is invaluable and cannot be too highly recommended.
The Oil is patented, and made by a process which insures its uniformity.
It burns with great brilliancy in the
DUAL BURNER,
requires but little attention and no trimming. The Oil never gums in the lamp, as it absorbs no oxygen from the atmosphere. It does not deteriorate by age. This Burner fits all ordinary coal oil lamps
BOSTICK & SEYMOUR,
Sole Agents for Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi and Texas,
45 and 47 Front st., and 46 and 48 Fulton st.,
mh28 6m New Orleans.

EXCHANGE HOTEL,
JOHN SUMMERS, PROPRIETOR,
GALVESTON, TEXAS.
This is the only Hotel in the city which has FREE OMNIBUSES to and from the cars and boats for the use of guests. Ask for Exchange Hotel Omnibus. feb1 1y

AGENTS! QUICK! or you will miss choice of territory (there is a rush for it) on DIO LEWIS' last and greatest work,
OUR DIGESTION,
OR MY JOLLY FRIEND'S SECRET.
It is by odds the most taking and salable book in the field. 1. It is on a vitally important subject. 2. It is by America's most popular writer on health. 3. It is, for the price, the largest and handsomest book ever sold by subscription. Agents, the people are eager for such a book, and will urge you to bring it to them. Write for terms, etc., free.
GEORGE MACLEAN, Publisher,
my2 3m 733 Sansom st., Philadelphia.

CRAB ORCHARD SPRINGS, KY.,
115 MILES (6 hours' run) from Louisville, on the Knoxville Branch of the L. and N. Railroad.
Correspondence solicited from principals, with the view of occupying the commodious Brick Hotel building now in process of erection, with all modern improvements for school uses, during the regular academic term. Capacity for 300 students. The location of this property, its surroundings, the well-known and peculiar qualities of its Epsom, Iron and Lick Spring Waters and Salts, all combine to render this point above all others the most fitting to establish a first-class Female Seminary upon a permanent basis. Address ISAAC SHELBY, my23 2m Shelby City, Boyd county, Ky.

GREAT CHANCE FOR AGENTS.
Do you want an agency, local or traveling, with an opportunity to make $5 to $20 a day selling our new 7-strand White Wire Clothes Lines? They last forever; sample free, so there is no risk. Address at once Hudson River Wire Works, cor. Water St. and Malden Lane, New York, or 16 Dearborn street, Chicago, Illinois. ap24 1y

JOHN D. MACLIN, L. C. MACLIN,
(Late R. D. Maclin.)
COAL! WOOD! COAL!
Pittsburg, Anthracite and Cannel Coal, Oak, Ash and Pine Wood, at the lowest market rates, delivered to any part of the city.
Offices—26 Carondelet street, and corner of Third and Tchoupitoulas. mh7 1y

MEDICAL.

Dunbar's Wonderful Discovery,

BETHESDA MINERAL WATER.
The acknowledged cure for Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Liver and Bilious Affections, Kidney and Urinary diseases.
Sold, wholesale or retail, at 38 Magazine street. H. D. HUFF,
Sole Southern Agent.
Address Glass Box 825. my30 3m

CONSUMPTION.....CONSUMPTION.
NEW TREATMENT BY
DUCRO'S ALIMENTARY ELIXIR,
prepared with raw meat and alcohol. Recommended by the highest medical authority in Paris. A radical cure, and in desperate cases a
CERTAIN RELIEF.
Agreeable to the taste. Incontestably superior to Cod Liver Oil, the hypophosphites, and other preparations. This Elixir, the basis of which is raw meat and alcohol, is moreover one of the most powerful tonics for persons convalescing or feeble, for chlorotic young girls, debilitated old persons, etc.
Depot in New Orleans at
MR. P. CUSACHS',
Corner St. Philip and Royal streets,
my16 3m New Orleans,
Sole agent for the United States.

MISCELLANEOUS.

R. L. NEILL,
198 Gravier street, New Orleans,
SOLE AGENT FOR THE
Supercarbonated Mineral Waters
MANUFACTURED BY
CANTRELL & COCHRANE, Belfast, Ireland.
Ginger Ale, Lemonade, and Lime-Juice Syrup.
Delicious summer beverages, refreshing and healthy. Teetotalers will find these the very finest substitutes ever introduced.
The Double Soda Water
manufactured by Messrs. Cantrell & Cochrane is a much superior article to the mixture of Carbonic Acid Gas and Water which is generally sold for Soda Water. It contains a proper quantity of Carbonate of Soda, and to those suffering from acidity of the stomach it is invaluable.
Kali, or Potassa Water,
possesses a great solvent power for Uric Acid, and is a wonderful curative for Calcareous Complaints, Gout, Rheumatism, etc. Sufferers from Dyspepsia will find great relief, and most probably a permanent cure, by taking regularly a bottle of this Water about half an hour before breakfast. my23 3m

SWINTON'S CONDENSED
SCHOOL HISTORY.
(From the Virginia Educational Journal.)
Mr. Swinton's reputation led us to examine this book. What is of most importance in the work is its extreme fairness. It is vastly superior, in this respect, to any history issued at the North that we have seen. Where accuracy seems almost impossible, he comes nearer to the truth than the others.

NEW SCHOOL BOOKS.
SWINTON'S WORD ANALYSIS.
CATICART'S YOUTH'S SPEAKER.
ARITHMETICAL EXAMPLES (Mental and Written.)
KERL'S SHORTER COURSE IN GRAMMAR.
A Descriptive Catalogue of the American Educational Series, and our Educational Reporter, mailed free to any address upon application.
Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co.,
Or T. MORONEY, General Agent,
mh28 1y 92 Camp street, New Orleans.

PUBLICATIONS FOR ALL
Prominent Benevolent Organizations.
100,000 SOLD!—Masonic, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Red Men, Mechanics, Temperance, etc.
Sale unrivaled by anything heretofore offered. Agents with no experience are selling 20 Pictures and upward a day. One of our agents has cleared over $1,200 in three months. The Brethren welcome these works. Our inducements are UNPRECEDENTED. Our commissions are positively one-fourth larger than any other house does or CAN offer. Send for circular of Order to which you belong, giving No. of your Lodge, and state where you saw this advertisement. You will certainly engage with us.
J. HALE POWERS & CO.,
Fraternity Publishers,
my9 7m Cincinnati, Ohio.

FRATERNITY.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY,
Established in 1837.

Superior Bells for Churches, Schools, etc., of Pure Copper and Tin, fully warranted, and mounted with our Latest Improved Rotary Hangings, the best in use.
Illustrated Catalogue sent free
VANDUZEN & TIFT,
102 & 104 E. Second St., Cincinnati
fe22 1y

SOAP MANUFACTORY,
Cor. St. Andrew & Howard.
Office and Salesroom:
110 Gravier, Cor. Bank Place.
fe14 1y

PRICE WILLIAMS & SON,
Exchange and Real Estate Brokers
MOBILE, ALABAMA.
Dealers in Bills, Bonds, Notes and Stocks of every kind. Plantations, and lands unimproved, for sale in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. Also every class of Real Estate in Mobile, Alabama. Rent, and pay taxes and insurance on Real Estate in Mobile. Invest money on mortgages, etc., and collect claims.
REFERENCES.
Messrs. Baker, Lawler & Co., Mobile, Ala.
Moses Waring, Esq., Mobile, Ala.
Hon. Milton Brown, Jackson, Tenn
Bishop J. C. Keener, New Orleans
Bishop Paine, Mississippi.
Bishop McTyeire, Nashville, Tenn.
Messrs. John T. Farwell & Co., Chicago.
Dean, McGinnis & Co., N. Y. no26 1y

WM. PHILLIPS, UNION STABLES, 180 Calliope, near St. Charles street, has every accommodation in the line of Pleasure and Family Carriages, such as hacks, brettes, phetons, buggies, etc., for the use of the public, and at rates to correspond with the stringency of the times. All hacking done below tariff rates. Orders for weddings, balls, picnics, races, etc., will be attended to so as to guarantee satisfaction. I am also prepared to hire vehicles (alone) to parties having their own horses. de14 1y

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

(From the New Orleans Price Current.)

The weather has been seasonable, but not unusually warm, with daily showers. The previous worm reports have been confirmed, and on Saturday were more serious, since which we have heard less complaint on the subject, except from the Red river, where they are apparently increasing. The condition of the crop, and the copious rains at this point, render it by no means improbable that these pests may prove highly destructive; but thus far nothing has occurred to cause more than some uneasiness, and it is hoped that a timely spell of hot, dry weather will remove all cause for apprehension. There can be no doubt, however, that they have appeared in sufficient number, at many points in the cotton districts, to excite some fears of their future ravages.

The river is 10 feet 2 inches below high water mark.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the twelfth instant:

Louisiana and Mississippi.....bales..	274
Arkansas.....	12
Total.....	286

On Saturday the only sale reported was 23 bales pickings, and nothing transpired to indicate any variation in prices. There was, however, a limited inquiry, without success, for small lots at inside rates. On Monday there was no apparent change. The business was confined to 72 bales, mostly pickings, taken by one broker, furnishing no basis for quotations. We again noticed, however, some inquiry—rather more than on Saturday—at previous rates, but the buyers either found factors asking above their limits, or in the limited stock on sale were unable to find the kinds wanted. On Tuesday the market was at a stand-still until the latter part of the day, when 170 bales changed hands at prices showing a falling off of ⅛@¼c., factors yielding in accordance with the decline of ¼c. at New York and 1-16d. at Liverpool, and accepting offers which they would have previously refused.

The receipts proper at this port, since the first of September, (exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas,) are 952,499 bales, against 1,424,389 bales to the same date last year, and the decrease in the receipts at all the ports, up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 1,241,141 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same date last year, there is an increase of 52,168 to France, and a decrease of 887,137 to Great Britain, and of 334,323 to other foreign ports.

We quote:

Good ordinary.....	20½ @ 20½
Low middling.....	21½ @ 21½
Middling.....	22½ @ 22½

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1871, bales.	25,323
Arrived past three days.. 286
Arrived previously.....1,049,521
Waste and damaged cotton, samples, etc..... 14,939—1,064,740
	1,090,069
Exported past three days. 2,629
Exported previously.....1,074,076—1,076,705
Stock on hand and on shipboard..	13,364

SUGAR.—On Tuesday there was a good demand, when 300 hhds., in the sheds and on the landing, sold to dealers at 9⅛@9⅜c. for fair, 10⅛c. for good fair, 10⅝c. for fully fair to prime, and 11c. for strictly prime. Demarara sugar is retailing in the sheds at 10¾@11c. ℔ lb. Of city refinery, yellow clarified is selling on orders at 11¼@11½c., white 12¼@12½c., crushed and powdered 13@13¼c., cut loaf 14@14¼c. ℔ lb.

MOLASSES.—The receipts were sold at 30c. ℔ gallon for poor cistern bottom, and 50@52½c. for fair. City refinery is jobbing at 30c. for inferior, 40c. for common, 50c. for fair, 55c. for prime, 60c. for choice, and 80c.@$1 ℔ gallon for golden sirup.

CORN.—On Tuesday 3,300 sacks sold at 58@60c. for mixed, 72@73c. for white, and 75c. for fancy white.

OATS.—On Tuesday 2,550 sacks sold at 38c. for inferior, in second-hand bags, 42@43c. for prime St. Louis, and 44@45c. for choice Galena.

BRAN—Has continued dull, with a fair supply, at about previous prices. On Tuesday 650 sacks sold at $1.07½ @$1.10 ℔ 100 lbs.

PORK.—On Tuesday the market was quiet but firm, with mess held at $13.25 ℔ bbl., and no sales excepting 750 bbls. on private terms. It is retailing at $13.75 ℔ bbl.

BACON.—On Tuesday the market was quiet but firm, with a light stock on hand. There were sales of 60 casks at 6⅜c. for shoulders to arrive, and 8¾c. ℔ lb. for clear sides on the spot. Shoulders are quoted at 6⅜@6½c., clear rib sides 8¾c., clear sides 9¼c. ℔ lb.

HAMS.—Choice sugar-cured continue scarce and in demand, and command full prices. On Saturday 100 tierces sold, in lots, at 14½@14¾c. ℔ lb. On Monday and Tuesday small sales were made to the trade at these prices. Favorite brands of choice sugar-cured hams command readily 14¾@15c. ℔ lb. in small lots.

DRY SALT MEAT.—There is none in first hands. There have been some small receipts which were consigned to dealers, who are retailing shoulders at 6¾c., and clear rib sides at 7½c. ℔ lb.

LARD.—On Tuesday only small or job sales were made. A lot of 20 tierces kettle-rendered sold at 9c. ℔ lb.

BUTTER.—The stock is only moderate, with a better demand.

BEEF.—The stock is light, with only a moderate local demand. Texas mess commands $11.50@$12, extra mess $12.50 ℔ bbl., and $9 for half bbls. Tierces are quoted at $17@$17.50 for mess, and $18@$18.50 for prime mess. Western is scarce, and selling at $15.50 @$16. There is very little Northern here; it commands $17 ℔ bbl.

MONETARY.

Gold opened on Tuesday at 113½@ 113¾, (against 114¾ at New York,) and closed at 113¾@114, (against 114½ at New York.)

The sales of silver were confined to $600 in American half dollars on Tuesday at 108.

New Orleans Wholesale Prices.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
Agricultural Implements:
Cotton scrapers	4 50	6 00
Cotton sweeps	4 50	6 00
Cultivators, Diam. & shovel-tooth	7 75	10 50
Cultivators, riding	45 00	60 00
Cultivators, walking	30 00	35 00
Shovels	7 00	14 50
Spades	7 00	16 00
Axes	10 00	15 00
Potato diggers	13 50	— —
Shovel plows	6 00	7 00
Half do., with cutters	8 00	9 00
Manly's D. S. plow	6 00	9 75
Corn mills, Coleman's	120 00	425 00
Bread, ℔ 100 lbs:
Pilot	5 00	6 00
Loaf	— —	— —
Crackers	5 00	12 00
Navy	— —	4 50
Cream crackers	11 00	12 00
Bricks, ℔ M:
Lake	13 00	16 00
English fire	— —	50 00
American fire	40 00	— —
Candles, ℔ lb:
Sperm, New Bedford	33	36
Tallow	16	18
Chocolate, ℔ lb:
Cocoa	38	60
No. 1	50	52
Sweet and spiced	25	— —
Cider, ℔ bbl:
Western	— —	— —
Coal, ℔ ton:
Anthracite	12 00	13 00
Western, ℔ bbl	— —	80
Corks, ℔ 1000:
Regular	4 00	4 50
Pointed	2 70	4 00
Coffee, ℔ lb:
Havana (currency)	— —	— —
Java	25	27
Cordova	— —	— —
Copper, ℔ lb:
Braziers'	48	— —
Copper bolts	48	— —
Yellow metal	30	32
Cordage, ℔ lb:
Manilla	19	20
Tarred, American	— —	16
Russian	16	— —
Cotton seed:
Rough, ℔ ton	— —	14 00
In sacks	— —	18 50
Dyes, ℔ lb:
Logwood, Camp'y	4	4½
Logwood, St. Domingo	4½	4¾
Fustic, Tampico	5	6
Indigo, ℔ lb	1 40	1 60
Madder	15	18
Eggs, ℔ dozen:
Western	15	20
Feathers, ℔ lb	80	90
Fish, ℔ box:
Cod	1 40	— —
Herrings	35	— —
Mackerel, No. 1, ℔ bbl	13 50	— —
Mackerel, No. 2	10 50	— —
Mackerel, No. 3	8 00	— —
Flaxseed, ℔ lb	4½	5½
Flour, ℔ bbl:
Double extra	6 00	— —
Superfine	5 00	5 50
Fine	4 75	5 00
Fruit, ℔ lb:
Prunes	10½	13
Currants, new	9½	10
Almonds, soft shell	17½	18½
Almonds, shelled	30	— —
Glass, ℔ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	3 50	4 00
French, 10 by 12	3 75	4 25
French, 12 by 18	4 00	4 50
Gunny bags, ℔ bag	18	— —
Hay, ℔ ton:
Primo	26 00	— —
Choice	28 00	— —
Iron, ℔ ton:
Pig	54 00	55 00
Country bar, ℔ lb	— —	— —
English	5½	7½
Swedes, assorted	6½	8½
Hoop	6½	8
Sheet	7	8½
Boiler	7½	8½
Nail rods	— —	9
Castings, American	5½	6
Lead, ℔ 100 lbs:
Pig	— —	9 50
Bar, ℔ lb	8½	8¾
Sheet	12	— —
Pipe	12	— —
Leather, ℔ lb:
Sole, hemlock	33	34
Sole, oak	37	43
Harness	33	45
Calf skins, ℔ dozen	42 00	70 00
Texas, rough, ℔ lb	24	28
Lime, ℔ bbl:
Western	1 25	1 75
Cement	2 50	3 00
Plaster Paris	4 50	— —
Lumber, ℔ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	13 00	15 00
Boards, cypress	25 00	30 00
Flooring, dressed	25 00	30 00
Flooring, rough	15 00	18 00
Ceiling, dressed	20 00	25 00
Weatherboards, dressed	19 00	20 00
Weatherboards, rough	13 00	15 00
Scantling	13 00	15 00
Shingles, ℔ M	3 50	4 25
Laths	2 50	3 00
Moss, ℔ lb:
Country picked	4½	6
Clean picked	6½	7
Nails, ℔ keg:
American, 4@6d	5 60	5 75
Wrought, German, ℔ lb	14	16
Wrought, English	14	16
Oils:
Lard, ℔ gallon	68	73
Coal oil, in barrels	26	28
Coal oil, in cases	31	34
Linseed, raw	98	1 00
Sperm	— —	2 00
Whale, refined	95	1 00
Cotton seed, crude	— —	46
Cotton seed, refined	60	65
Castor	1 65	1 85
Olive, 22@24 oz	6 75	7 00
Olive, 11@12 oz	7 00	7 25
Tanner's, ℔ gallon	75	85
Soap, ℔ lb:
Western	5½	7
Northern	5½	7
Southern	4½	6½
Castile, genuine	12	— —
Castile, imitation	11	— —
Sardines:
Half boxes	34	35½
Quarter boxes	23½	24
Spices, ℔ lb:
Cassia	40	45
Cloves	19	20
Nutmegs	1 20	1 25
Pepper	21	21½
Pimento	12	12½
Sugar, ℔ lb:
Havana, white	— —	— —
Havana, yellow	10½	11½
Havana, brown	10½	11
Crushed	13	13½
Pulverized	13	13½
Teas, ℔ lb:
Imperial	45	1 10
Gunpowder	75	1 50
Hyson	75	1 25
Young Hyson	75	1 10
Oolong	45	1 10
Pouchong	30	50
Tin, ℔ box:
Block	— —	— —
In plates, I. X	18 25	18 50
In plates, I. C	16 00	16 25
Leaded plates, 1. X	17 25	17 50
Leaded plates, 1. C	15 00	15 25

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, July 16, 1872.

Texas beeves, choice, ℔ head	$50 00	@	55 00
Texas beeves, 1st qual, ℔ head	35 00	@	45 00
Texas cattle, 2d qual, ℔ head	20 00	@	28 00
Texas cattle, 3d qual, ℔ head	14 00	@	18 00
Western beeves, ℔ lb. net	10	@	13
Hogs, ℔ lb. gross	4½	@	6
Sheep, first quality, ℔ head	5 00	@	6 00
Sheep, second qual., ℔ head	3 00	@	4 00
Sheep, third quality, ℔ head	2 00	@	2 50
Milch cows, choice, ℔ head	80 00	@	100 00
Milch cows, ℔ head	50 00	@	80 00
Texas cows, with calves	— —	@	— —
Calves, ℔ head	7 00	@	10 00
Yearlings, ℔ head	8 00	@	12 00

Special Notices.

Notice.

The delegates to the Seashore District Conference, which is to convene on Thursday, the first of August, at Moss Point, East Pascagoula circuit, will be furnished transportation on Wednesday and Thursday, from East Pascagoula station to Moss Point, free of charge.

U. B. PHILIPS.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting, commencing on the sixth day of September, half-way between Pleasant Hill and Mansfield, in DeSoto parish, Louisiana. The people are expected and requested to come with wagons and tents, provided to take care of themselves. It is a new camp ground, and we do not know of any public entertainment.

R. PARVIN.

Union Springs District Conference.

The District Conference for the Union Springs district, Alabama Conference, will be held in Troy, Alabama, July 31 and August 1–4, inclusive. The opening sermon will be preached on Wednesday night, July 31, by Rev. Elisha Phillips, of Fort Deposit, Alabama. A full attendance is earnestly requested, as ample accommodations will be made for all.

J. W. SHORES, P. E.

Eufaula District Conference.

The District Conference for Eufaula district, Alabama Conference, is to be held at Clayton, commencing August 8.

JAS. L. COTTEN, P. E.

Seashore District Conference.

The District Conference of the Seashore district, Mississippi Conference, will be held at Moss Point church, East Pascagoula circuit, August 1–4. Bishop Keener will preside. All the preachers on the district are expected to attend, and make full and exact reports. The local preachers and lay delegates are also expected.

C. F. GILLASPIE, P. E.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

VICKSBURG DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Natchez	July 13, 14
Rocky Springs, at Steele chapel	Aug. 3, 4
North Warren, Millsdale and Sanflower, at Beechland	10, 11
Cayuga, at Bear Creek	17, 18
South Warren, at Red Bone	24, 25
Clover Hill, at Tallula	30, Sept. 1
Rolling Fork	Sept. 7, 8
Fayette, at Belle Grove	14, 15
Kingston	21, 22

JOHN A. B. JONES, P. E., Port Gibson, Miss.

SUMMIT DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Pontchatoula and Livingston	July 6, 7
Summit and Magnolia	20, 21
Holmesville	27, 28
Amite City	Aug. 3, 4
Covington	10, 11
Greensburg	17, 18
Big Creek	24, 25
Franklinton	Sept. 7, 8
St. Helena	14, 15

The Summit District Conference will commence at Tangipahoa, Louisiana, on Friday, September 27, and embrace the fifth Sunday.

J. NICHOLSON, P. E.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Wayne circuit, at Scott's chapel	July 6, 7
Shubuta circuit, at Quitman	13, 14
Enterprise circuit, at Concord	20, 21
Enterprise station	27, 28
Marion circuit, at Toomsuba	Aug. 3, 4
Paulding circuit	10, 11
Clarke circuit	17, 18
Meridian station	31, Sept. 1

WM. B. HINES, P. E.

JACKSON DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Yazoo City sta. and Silver Creek mission	July 6, 7
Madison circuit, at Vernon	13, 14
Sharon ct., at Thornton chapel	20, 21
Yazoo circuit, at Tranquil	27, 28
Mount Olivet circuit and Yazoo mission, at New Hope	Aug. 3, 4
Raymond circuit	10, 11
Brownsville circuit	17, 18
Sulphur Springs circuit, at Madisonville	24, 25
Camden and Thomastown circuits	31, Sept. 1
Carthage circuit	Sept. 7, 8

H. H. MONTGOMERY, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Brandywine, at Sarepta	July 6, 7
Scotland, at Sweet Water	13, 14
Pleasant Valley, at Pleasant Val'y	20, 21
Burtenton, at Zion	27, 28
Beauregard, at Beauregard	Aug. 3, 4
Georgetown, at Georgetown	10, 11
Jackson, at Forest Hill	17, 18
Bogue Chitto	24, 25
Brookhaven and Brookhaven mission	31, Sept. 1
Crystal Springs and Crystal Spr'gs mission	Sept. 7, 8

The District Meeting will be held September 5, at nine o'clock A. M., at Crystal Springs. Bishop J. C. Keener will preside. A camp meeting is in prospect at the same time and place, on the plan recommended by the last District Conference.

W. E. M. LINFIELD, P. E. Post Office, Hazlehurst.

WOODVILLE DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

East Feliciana, at Oak Grove	July 13, 14
East Baton Rouge, at Black Water	20, 21
Jackson	27, 28
Wilkinson, at Pisgah	Aug. 3, 4
Buffalo, at Friendship	10, 11
Meadville, at Meadville	24, 25
Amite, at Bond's camp ground	31, Sept. 1

The District Conference for the Woodville district of the Mississippi Annual Conference will begin on the twenty-fifth of July, at half-past seven o'clock P. M., in the town of Jackson, Louisiana. Opening sermon by President Andrews. Brethren on their arrival will call at the Methodist church. Full written reports will be expected from the pastors, as the Discipline directs.

J. L. FORSYTH, P. E.

SEASHORE DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Pearlington ct., at Pearlington	July 6, 7
White Plains ct., at Little Biloxi	13, 14
Ocean Springs ct., at Handsboro	20, 21
West Pascagoula circuit, at Mt. Pleasant	27, 28
East Pascagoula circuit, at Moss Point	Aug. 3, 4
Greene mission	10, 11

Our District Conference will be held at Moss Point, commencing on Thursday, the first day of August.

C. F. GILLASPIE, P. E.

BRANDON DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Brandon circuit, at Shiloh	July 6, 7
Hillsboro circuit, at Good Hope	13, 14
Forest circuit, at Carr's church	20, 21
Philadelphia ct., at Philadelphia	27, 28
Decatur mission, at Hebron	Aug. 3, 4
Lake circuit, at Scotland chapel	10, 11
Morton circuit	24, 25
Trenton circuit	31, Sept. 1
Raleigh circuit	Sept. 7, 8
Taylorsville mission	14, 15
Garlandsville circuit	21, 22

The District Conference will convene at Forest, August 16, at nine o'clock A. M. All the members, both elect and ex officio, will please be on time, as important business will come up on the first day of the conference. Dear brethren, as prominence is to be given to religious exercises at our District Conferences, let us make this a subject of special prayer, that it may be "a refreshing time from the presence of the Lord."

F. M. WILLIAMS, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

YAZOO DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Winona, at Winona	July 6, 7
Greenwood and McNutt	13, 14
Valden, at Midway	20, 21
Durant, at Spring Hill	27, 28
Kosciusko and Bethel, at Bethel	Aug. 3, 4
Black Hawk	10, 11

There will be a camp meeting at Bethel, Attala county, Mississippi, beginning on Friday, August 2, embracing the first Sunday in August.

There will be a camp meeting at Spring Dale, Attala county, Mississippi, beginning August 16, embracing the third Sunday in August.

The District Conference of the Yazoo district, North Mississippi Conference, will meet in Black Hawk, Carroll county, Mississippi, August 29, embracing the first Sunday in September. The Black Hawk camp meeting will begin at the same time and place. All who can are cordially invited to attend these camp meetings, the ministerial brethren particularly. Our camp meetings are expected to be largely self-sustaining—that is, all attending will provide for themselves and their invited friends. We found this plan a good one last year. Let us come up in the spirit of prayer, nothing doubting, and the Master will be there.

The new Methodist church in Kosciusko will be dedicated on Sunday, July 14.

W. P. BARTON, P. E.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

DEMOPOLIS DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Greene, at Palmetto	July 6, 7
Demopolis	26, 21
Forkland, at Watson's chapel	27, 28
Gainesville, at Ramsey	Aug. 3, 4
Cuba, at York	10, 11
Bladen, at Providence	17, 18
Butler, at Bright Water	24, 25
Gaston, at Thompkinsville	31, Sept. 1

S. H. COX, P. E.

MOBILE DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

St. Francis street	July 6, 7
Citronelle	13, 14
St. Stephen's, at Simms' chapel	20, 21
Eastern Shore	27, 28
Mount Pleasant, at Red Hill	Aug. 3, 4
Grand Bay mission, at Elliagton	10, 11
Pollard ct., at Shepherd's chapel	17, 18
Pensacola	24, 25
Milton	31, Sept. 1

H. URQUHART, P. E.

SELMA DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Uniontown station	July 6, 7
Choctaw Corner circuit, at Choctaw Corner	13, 14
Peachtree circuit	20, 21
Selma station	27, 28
East Selma station	Aug. 3, 4
Rembert Hills ct., at Camp ground	10, 11
Orrville circuit	17, 18
Dayton and Spring Hill, at Spring Hill	24, 25
Linden and Flatwoods mission, at Spring Hill	24, 25

A. J. BRIGGS, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

LAKE PROVIDENCE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Oak Ridge and Prairie Mer Rouge, at Oak Ridge	July 13, 14
Waterproof, at Tensas chapel	Aug. 3, 4
Wesley and Jordan, at Jordan	10, 11
Lake Providence, at Illawarra	17, 18
Bastrop, at Island Desaird	24, 25
Floyd and Delhi, at Midway	31, Sept. 1
Oak Grove, at Oak Grove	7, 8
Lind Grove, at Lind Grove	14, 15
Sicily Island, at Bœuff Prairie	22, 23
Winnsboro, at Oakley	28, 29
Rayville, at Little Creek	Oct. 6, 7

J. T. DAVES, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Franklin (protracted meeting)	July 24–31
New Iberia	Aug. 3, 4
Bayou Bœuff	10, 11
Opelousas	17, 18
Plaquemine Brulee	24, 25
Couleo Croche	31, Sept. 1
Abbeville	Sept. 7, 8

I hope to spend at least five days at each quarterly meeting.

B. F. WHITE, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Carondelet street	July 7
Cadiz street, Louisiana avenue and Carrollton	14, 21
Quarterly Conference at Louisiana avenue, Monday night	22
Algiers and Thibodaux—preaching at Houma	28
Quarterly Conference at Algiers	Aug. 4
Felicity street	11
German charges—Quarterly Conference at Dryades street	10
Plaquemine	Sept. 1
Moreau street	15
Baton Rouge	28, 29

LINUS PARKER, P. E.

MINDEN DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Minden circuit, at Pine Grove	July 13, 14
North Bossier, at Red River	20, 21
South Bossier, at Cotton Valley	27, 28
Sparta, at Sparta	Aug. 10, 11
Mount Lebanon, at Athens	17, 18
Bisteneau, at Liberty chapel	31, Sept. 1

The District Meeting for Minden district will be held at Minden, commencing Wednesday, October 2, including the first Sabbath in the month. Preachers and official members of the church within the bounds of the district are specially invited. Visiting ministers will be heartily received.

N. M. SKIPWORTH, P. E.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NEW ORLEANS BRANCH

Southern Life Insurance Company

OF MEMPHIS, TENNESSEE.

Office—46 Carondelet St., New Orleans.

☞ Good and reliable Solicitors wanted.

my23 3m

THE Buck-Eye BEE-Hive

IS THE VERY BEST

Movable Frame and Moth-Proof Hive

IN THE MARKET.

Farm, County and State Rights for sale in Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana.

For circulars, prices, etc., address

J. K. RUGG,

ap25 3m Nashville, Tennessee.

SUGAR MILLS

FOR THE VERY BEST AND

Latest Improved Sugar Machinery,

consisting of CANE MILLS, Evaporators, Clarifiers, Grates, Doors, Skimmers, etc., also CIDER MILLS, and the celebrated COTTAGE FRUIT DRYERS, address, for Price List and Catalogue,

SOUTHERN MANUFACTURING CO.,

je20 2m Nashville, Tenn.

MENEELY'S BELLS.

THE genuine Troy Church Bells known to the public since 1826, which have acquired a reputation unequaled by any, and a sale exceeding that of all others—including more than seventy chimes and peals. One thousand testimonials received during the last six years. Every Bell made of best Copper and Tin, and formally warranted. New Patent Rotary Fixtures. Catalogues free. No agencies.

Post office address, either TROY or WEST TROY, N. Y.

je13 1y E. A. & G. R. MENEELY.

A FULL AND COMPLETE ASSORTMENT. E. BUTTERICK & CO.'S CELEBRATED PATTERNS, all styles and sizes. Send for descriptive catalogue at the office of WM. E. COOPER & CO.,

No. 89 Canal street,

Agents for the Singer Improved Family Sewing Machine.

Now ready, the new "Dolly Varden" Pattern, all sizes. je6 2m

DRY GOODS—CLOTHING.

D. H. HOLMES,

155.....CANAL STREET.....155

—AND—

15.....BOURBON STREET.....15

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER

—IN—

ALL DESCRIPTIONS

—OF—

DRY GOODS,

—SUCH AS—

SILKS, TISSUES, EMBROIDERIES, LACES, SHAWLS, CLOAKS, MADE SUITS, ETC.

The attention of the public is respectfully called to our stock, which will be found most complete, embracing every kind of Fancy and Staple Goods.

ap25 6m

W. H. PIERSON. E. L. HEWS.

PIERSON & HEWS,

DEALERS IN

Fine Clothing & Furnishing Goods,

NOS. 13 AND 15 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

feb15 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

ORGANS.

SEND TO

ROBERT J. HARP, AGENT,

112 Camp St., New Orleans,

FOR

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUES

OF THE

WOODS ORGANS,

FOR

Churches, Families, Sabbath Schools and Schools.

☞ NO BETTER IN THE MARKET. ☜

my2 tf

IMPORTANT TO PLANTERS.

IRON COTTON TIES.

THE ARROW TIE

AND ALL OPEN-SLOT TIES.

The above-described Ties are the best and most popular Ties in use for Baling Cotton. They are manufactured of the best quality of English Iron, by J. J. McCOMB, Liverpool, England, and are sold under full guarantee, at the lowest market price, by all dealers in Baling Stuffs in New Orleans, Mobile, Galveston, Savannah, Charleston, Wilmington, Petersburg, Baltimore, Memphis, Louisville, Nashville, New York, and by country merchants generally throughout the Cotton States.

BARTLETT & RAYNE,

General Agents,

48 Carondelet street, cor. Union,

my30 6m New Orleans.

SHERMAN HOUSE, NO. 1 WEST TWENTY-Sixth street, New York.—MR. EDKINS, Proprietor. Strangers visiting New York, desiring the comforts and retirement of a home and attendance of a hotel, in a first-class central location, can find the same at from $25 to $40 per week for a gentleman and wife; transient, $3 per day; American plan; lodgings, $1. je27 3m

STEAMSHIPS.

New Liverpool Line of Steamers,

Built expressly for the New Orleans trade, to cross the Bar at all times without detention.

Liverpool and Mississippi Steamship Company.

First-class Powerful Screw Steamers.

ST. LOUIS, Capt. Smith	1,827 tons.
MEMPHIS, Capt. Weeks	2,300 ..
MISSISSIPPI, Capt. Pierson	2,500 ..
TEXAS, (building)	2,500 ..
VICKSBURG, ..	2,500 ..
MISSOURI, ..	2,500 ..

FOR LIVERPOOL DIRECT—The steamship

———, commander,

To sail on ———, 1872,

from her wharf, foot of St. Mary street, Fourth District. Will receive and sign through bills of lading to Havre, Bremen, Hamburg, Antwerp, Rotterdam and all Continental ports.

Parties desirous of sending for their friends can purchase prepaid emigration tickets here. A reduction allowed when applied for in groups.

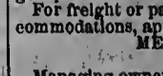
For freight or passage, having superior accommodations, apply to

MEEKER, KNOX & CO., 49 Carondelet street.

Managing owners—FLINN, MAIN & MONTGOMERY, 12 Launceiot Hay, Chapel street, Liverpool. my16 3m

FOR NEW YORK.

The Cromwell New York and New Orleans Steamship Line.



Steamers of this Line leave New Orleans for New York EVERY SATURDAY at 5 P. M.

Cabin passage	$50 00
Steerage passage	25 00

Through bills of lading to foreign and coastwise ports issued.

ALFRED MOULTON, 41 Carondelet street.

mh21 1y

FOR NEW YORK.

MERCHANTS' STEAMSHIP LINE.

Sailing from New York and New Orleans EVERY SATURDAY.

Cabin passage	$50 00
Steerage passage	25 00

Through tickets to Liverpool and the Continent.

New Orleans wharf, foot of Jefferson street. New York wharf, Pier No. 4, North river.

JOHN H. LUDWIGSEN, Agent, No. 190 Common street.

feb8 1y

MOBILE ADVERTISEMENTS.

JOHN DOUGLAS, DEALER IN

Fancy and Staple Dry Goods,

NOS. 102 AND 104 DAUPHIN STREET, MOBILE, ALABAMA.

Agent for the Florence Sewing Machine. All goods warranted as represented, and sold at the lowest rates for Cash, our object being large sales and small profits. ja4 1y

OTIS' STEAM SAW, PLANING AND GRIST MILLS, AND BLACKSMITH'S SHOP,

Corner of Water and Madison Streets, MOBILE, ALABAMA.

Orders received at the above Mills for all kinds of Lumber, dressed or rough. Fresh Meal, bolted or unbolted, always on hand. Also all styles of Moldings.

my2 3m WILLIAM OTIS.

WAVERLY STABLES. HAYDEN & MEENAN, Proprietors.

LIVERY AND SALE STABLES.

No. 39 North Royal Street, Mobile.

Carriages and Buggies of the latest styles, and superior Horses, furnished at all hours. Calls of every description will receive prompt attention. ja4 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

IMPROVED

EAGLE COTTON GINS.

THE GREAT POPULARITY of the EAGLE COTTON GINS is established from the well-known fact that they are the most reliable, strongest and best built Cotton Gins ever made. The Eagle Cotton Gin runs lighter than any other gin, thus having a great advantage for planters who wish to run by horse power. All the numerous planters who use the Eagle Cotton Gin will certify to the fact that when their cotton is sent to market it always brings the highest market price, as no other gin can produce a finer or a better sample of cotton than the Eagle Cotton Gins. Over seventeen thousand of the Eagle Cotton Gins have been made and sold. During a period of twenty years the undersigned has had the agency of the Eagle Cotton Gin in New Orleans. He has never had a gin returned or rejected out of the immense number sold. The saw cylinders of all the Eagle Cotton Gins are twelve inches in diameter, which is two inches larger than most other kinds of gins, thus giving our forty-saw gin more teeth, and they are more than equal to the fifty-saw gins of other makers, who use only a ten-inch cylinder, and the same great advantage of the twelve-inch cylinder in larger sized gins can be easily estimated. Planters who wish a reliable cotton gin, with an established reputation, can purchase an Eagle Cotton Gin with a certainty that they are not making an untried experiment, but will obtain a cotton gin which is indorsed by the oldest and largest planters in the country as the best in use. A large stock of the Eagle Cotton Gins are always kept on sale in New Orleans, ready for immediate shipment. Planters should be particular to state if they want right or left-hand motion gins.

	PRICES.
40-Saw Gin	$200	65-Saw Gin	$325
45-Saw Gin	225	70-Saw Gin	350
50-Saw Gin	250	75-Saw Gin	375
55-Saw Gin	275	80-Saw Gin	400
60-Saw Gin	300

All orders should be addressed to

W. L. CUSHING, No. 61 St. Charles street, Sole Agent for the Southern States.

Agents wanted. jy4 3m

JOHN GIBSON,

ENGRAVER AND

Steam Power Lithographic Printer,

82 BEEKMAN ST., NEW YORK.

Checks, Notes, Drafts, Receipts, Bonds, Certificates of Stock and Deposit, Bill, Letter and Note Headings, Business Cards, Envelopes, Druggists' Fancy and Perfumery Labels, etc. Druggists wishing Labels, send for Catalogue. je27 1y

A GRADUATE OF SOME EXPERIENCE, who can teach all the branches usually taught in Female Colleges, desires a situation. Prefers a select school in some village, or good neighborhood. For information address REV. S. P. RICHARDSON, Summerfield, Alabama.

je6 3m

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. XVIII. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JULY 25, 1872. NO. 30.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

New York, July 17.—Panama papers of July received. The steamer Hessler, with Agassiz and party, arrived at Panama June 25. The frigate Saranac arrived on the twenty-ninth. Minister Thomas sailed from Panama for Lima, Peru, July 5. Instructions have been received at Aspinwall by the American consul to retain the steamer Edgar Stewart there until further orders are received. Central American advices state that thirty-nine Capuchin friars were ejected from their convent in Guatemala under an escort of soldiers, and their property confiscated by the government. The Jesuits are also being expelled from Salvador.

The United States exploring party had nearly finished the survey of the route for the Inter-Oceanic Canal by way of the Sappoa river, and would return to the United States the latter part of June.

San Francisco, July 18.—The mayor of Yeddo, Japan, dined with the alumni of the State University this evening. He made an official visit to the mayor of San Francisco to-day.

The mail stage between Dallas and Canon City, Oregon, was stopped by highwaymen yesterday. The robbers, three in number, obtained about $15,000 from the mail bags.

Montgomery, Ala., July 20.—The damage by the late flood in this State will reach $5,000,000. The waters in central Alabama are higher than ever before known. Houses along the streams were swept away by scores. Cotton and corn on the highlands were badly damaged by heavy rains. The cotton crop of the State is cut forty thousand bales short by floods, rains and other causes.

FOREIGN.

London, July 17.—An influential meeting of Roman Catholics was held here last night, the Duke of Norfolk presiding. Resolutions were adopted protesting against the action of the Italian government toward the papal authorities, and condemning the recent law passed by the German Parliament for persecuting the Jesuits.

London, July 18. — Dispatches from Port Said announce the arrival there and subsequent departure for England of Stanley, the hero of the Livingstone search, accompanied by a son of Dr. Livingstone.

The British agent at Geneva has presented a demurrer, praying that the tribunal exclude the cases of the Tallahassee, Chicamauga, Sumter, Nashville, Retribution, Boston, Sallie, Jeff. Davis, V. H. Jay and Music. Pending the decision, each side presented a process containing the essence of the argumentative portions of the case and counter case. A summary of the American argument and statement in the case of the Florida was presented to-day.

Geneva, July 18.—Preliminaries are settled, and the board has finally decided to take up the case of each ship seriatim.

Prof. Montague Bernard arrived to-day. Roofs and balconies of hotels are again decorated with flags and streamers.

Madam, July 19, 4 A. M.—At midnight last night the carriage of the King and Queen was fired upon by a party of assassins. The King and Queen, who were the only occupants of the carriage, escaped uninjured. One of the assassins was killed by an attendant, and two were captured. The royal family are now at the palace receiving the congratulations of the populace.

The tranquillity of the city is undisturbed, although when accounts of the affair began to be generally circulated there was much excitement, and crowds gathered in the neighborhood where the attack had been made. By four o'clock in the morning almost the entire population of Madrid was hastening through the streets.

Their majesties remained self-possessed during the scene of excitement which ensued upon the attack and the brief conflict with the assassins. When quiet had been in a measure restored, they proceeded to the palace, where they are now receiving members of the ministry, civil and military authorities of the city, and deputations from the people. All classes are enthusiastic in rejoicing over the failure of the murderous attack.

Madrid, July 19, evening.—The King and Queen assisted at a Te Denm at the royal chapel to-day. The King subsequently walked through the streets, and was cheered with enthusiasm by the people. All classes are hastening to show their loyalty and sympathy for the dynasty.

A crowd to-day attempted to take the assassins out of jail and shoot them, but a strong police force prevented them from doing so. Judicial inquiry is actively progressing into the circumstances of the attempted assassination. There is no doubt but that all those connected with the crime will be dealt with according to the utmost rigor of the law.

London, July 20.—Advices from St. Petershurg state that the cholera epidemic is gradually making its way from the Eastern provinces, and is steadily gaining a foothold in the central and western portions of the empire. Moscow is now suffering from its ravages, and the disease there has assumed a most malignant form.

The proportion of deaths to recoveries is placed at eight to one. This terrible fatality has created a panic among the inhabitants, and thousands of the better classes are fleeing into western Europe. At St. Petershurg a few sporadic cases have appeared. The authorities are taking most rigid precautions to cut off communication between the capital and the infected districts.

Geneva, July 22.—The claims for damages caused by the vessels Boston, Sallie, Jeff. Davis, Joy and Music have been dismissed by the arbitrators. The demurrer of Great Britain concerning the other vessels is overruled. The case of the Florida was concluded to-day. The decision, it is believed, awards $2,600,000 damages for her depredations. The board took up the case of the Alabama to-day.

London, July 23.—In the House of Commons this evening there was some discussion upon the subject of the arrival of French Communists in England, during which a significant question was put to the government by Sir Robert Peel. After alluding to the fact that Germany had expelled the Jesuits, he asked the premier whether the government intended to enforce the section of the Roman Catholic relief act of 1829, which provides for the banishment from England of all members of the Society of Jesus.

Mr. Gladstone, in reply, said the subject was an important one, and must be taken into serious consideration by the government. He added that although the law in question has now been enacted nearly half a century, no steps had yet been taken for its enforcement.

WHAT OUGHT WE TO DO?

What ought we to do? is a question that we should put to ourselves very often. You will, perhaps, like to hear the questions which Susan put to her sister Patty.

"Patty, come here," said Susan, "for I want to ask you some curious questions that my mother has been asking me. What ought we to do in March, when the wind blows?"

"What ought we to do? Why, to hold our bonnets fast, that they may not be blown away."

"Yes; but that is not the answer. I will tell you what it is; we ought to 'love one another.'"

"Very true; but I did not think of that."

"Now for another question. What ought we to do in April, when the showers fall?"

"Why, to put up the umbrella, or run under a tree, or into the house."

"You have not given me the right answer now. This is the right answer: We ought to 'love one another.'"

"That is just the same as the other."

"Yes, it is; and now for my last question. What ought we to do when May comes with the spring flowers?"

"Why, to 'love one another,' I suppose."

"You are right, Patty. Let the month be what it may—whether the wind blows, the showers fall, and the flowers spring or not, just the same. Every month of the year, and every hour of the day, we ought to keep the commandment of the Savior—'Love one another.'"

Bridget came up to her mistress and asked for a needle and thread. "Do you want it fine or coarse?" asked the lady. "Sure an' I don't know, mum," said Bridget. "What do you want it for?" said her mistress. "Well, mum, the cook has jist towld me to sthring the beans, an' sure an' I want a needle an' thrid for that."

A loving wife, on the decease of her husband, sent the following telegram to a distant friend: "Dear John is dead. Loss fully covered by insurance."

THE FLOODS IN ALABAMA.

We give some extracts from the country papers, referring to this great calamity.

Several days ago the Warrior river, which had been down for many weeks at low water mark, began to rise. Yesterday morning, when it became stationary, it had risen sixty-two feet and six inches at our wharf.

Such a freshet, at this season of the year, is without precedent in the memory of the oldest inhabitant, or in the history of the country, since the year 1819, when, as tradition tells, a similar rise in the Warrior occurred.

The flood of waters soon overflowed the river banks and inundated the bottoms for miles on both sides of the main channel. In consequence, the growing crops of corn and cotton have been entirely submerged, the water rising to the depth of forty or fifty feet over many of the finest plantations. The loss which has thus been inflicted upon the planting interest of the county is immense. Some idea of the nature and extent of the loss may be inferred from the following facts: The Warrior river, pursuing a somewhat sinuous course south of the city, runs a distance of about fifty miles to its point of exit, from this county into the county of Greene. The alluvial bottoms, lying on both sides of it, have an average aggregate breadth of about three miles, are extremely fertile, and are mostly under cultivation. The crops of the present year, both corn and cotton, growing upon these river plantations were all in good condition, were generally laid by, and were the finest that have been grown upon them during the last thirty or thirty-five years. The average yield of corn was estimated at fifty bushels per acre, and the yield of cotton, it was thought, would have been immense. Over all this alluvial belt the deluge of water has swept for several days to the depth of many feet above the top of the growing crops, which have thus been engulfed in a watery grave, and either totally destroyed or damaged beyond the possibility of even the minimum yield of the shortest crops ever grown upon the same lands in former years. The consequent loss to the owners of these fine river plantations is immense. Sober estimates, by the best informed persons with whom we have conversed upon the subject, place the aggregate loss for Tuskaloosa county alone at one-half a million of dollars. The calamity is truly an appalling one. — Tuskaloosa Times, July 17.

A correspondent of the Tuskaloosa Times, writing from Little Sandy, Tuskaloosa county, July 16, says:

"I write to say that the destruction on the Warrior river is complete. One vast sea of water rests quietly over our destroyed crops. Being perfectly familiar with all the plantations on the river, from Tuskaloosa to the county line, I have carefully enumerated the probable number of families, both laborers and farmers, on said plantations, and find that there are five hundred and sixty families left destitute! Averaging the families at five each, we have twenty-eight hundred souls whose all is swept away. How many there are above Tuskaloosa that are sufferers I will not attempt to say; but some are, I know—enough to swell the present figures considerably."

Our afflicted people have a new calamity to bear in the freshets now prevailing throughout the valleys of the Alabama, the Tombigbee, and their tributaries. It is to be hoped that the estimates of damage done are exaggerated, but, with all allowance, it must be fearful.

A private letter just received from Camden, Wilcox county, written on the seventeenth instant, says:

Such an overflow has not been known by the oldest citizen at this season of the year. Planters are ruined. Thousands of acres of cotton and corn are under water. In some instances planters have lost their entire crop.—Mobile Tribune, July 20.

We learn that the late heavy rains have been very damaging to many of the railroads. One embankment, fifteen feet high, on the Mobile and Montgomery railroad, below the Perdido, we are told, was badly broken, and the stone masonry of a culvert even was moved by the tremendous force of the water. In consequence of the damages to the road, trains have been very irregular for the last three or four days.—Greenville Advocate, July 18.

The river is receding very rapidly. The green surface of the lately submerged lands is beginning to appear here and there, but it is somewhat soiled with mud. It is thought by some of our best-posted friends that the loss resulting from the late freshet throughout the State will approximate $4,000,000.—Montgomery Advertiser, July 19.

For the Advocate.

Young Men's Christian Association of New Orleans.

Mr. Editor: This institution, which was organized about a year ago, under many discouraging circumstances, with a membership of about one hundred young men, has accomplished wonders. It now numbers nearly five hundred members, about one-half of whom are members of some evangelical church in this city. It has a library numbering more than one thousand volumes, and, besides this, some two hundred leading newspapers (fifty-eight of which are dailies) on file, all of which has been opened to the public free of charge. The rooms are open day and evening, Sundays excepted.

Religious services have been held at the Charity Hospital, Parish Prison, Workhouse, and Boys' House of Refuge every Sunday, and these services have been conducted by laymen—with an occasional exception—who have distributed Bibles, tracts and religious newspapers among that class of people who are generally considered beyond the reach of church influence.

The association does not pretend to take the place of the various churches in any field of labor, but to prepare work for the church in reclaiming young men, and promoting their spiritual, intellectual and social condition by placing before them attractions which ennoble and fit them for the great battle of life. Especially is the young stranger cordially welcomed into their midst—a first-class boarding house, with Christian associations, sought out for him, and, if necessary, steps taken to procure him employment; thus lessening the chances of such an one being led into dens of infamy and habits of vice, especially if he be from the rural districts.

The rooms occupied by this association are at 82 Camp street, up stairs, where he who desires can go and realize the usefulness of this organization.

To carry on this work, and do it successfully, requires no small amount of the "needful," a large proportion of which must come from outside parties, as the dues from members are quite small—being only two dollars per year. Last year several of our prominent merchants and business men gave liberally of their means, promising to give the same amount for two succeeding years, and yet the amount subscribed falls short of the estimated expense for the current year. The association now appeals to those who have not yet assisted in this work to give what they can toward its support, pledging themselves that they will make the best use of all the means intrusted to their care, believing that thereby not only will the result be a blessing to the city of New Orleans, but an honor to the cause of Christ. Books are open for subscriptions at the following places: W. C. Shepard & Co., Camp street; Wason & Nelson, 171 Gravier street; M. M. Greenwood & Son, 189 Gravier street; J. L. Dunnica & Co., 50 Tchoupitoulas street, and at the rooms of the association, 82 Camp street. Subscriptions may be sent by mail to the general secretary, Box Q, paper department, New Orleans post office. The association desire to express their deep gratitude for the liberal contributions made by their friends during the past year, and hope that as "in the morning they have sown seed, they will not in the evening withhold their hands."

Contributor.

The idealess way in which many people converse reminds us of two Dutchmen, living opposite each other, who had for years been in the habit of smoking by their door-sides in silence.

Said one: "What sort of wedder you tink it will be to-day, neighbor?"

The other, after two or three hasty puffs, replied:

"Well, I don't know; what sort of wedder you tink it will be?"

The first, somewhat nettled:

"I tink it will be such wedder as you tink it will be."

The other, acquiescingly:

"Well, I tink so too."

For the Advocate.

HISTORY OF "AN ARTICLE."

Mr. Editor: Not long since you requested your correspondents to furnish contributions to the Advocate. I instantly determined to forward a letter for publication. But what to write about was the question.

SIMON PETER

was the first subject suggested. Not the first Simon Peter we read of, and the so-called founder of the papacy, but our laborious and efficient Bible agent.

Rev. S. P. Richardson visited Greenville not long ago, and preached so well, and labored so successfully for the Bible cause, that we concluded it would be well for us and our people if he could call about once a month, and take up collections for the Bible or some other good cause.

COMMENCEMENT

was the next theme I picked up to print an article upon. But contributions to the Advocates on this subject are so common at this season of the year that they have very decidedly declined in value.

Right here your correspondent paused to indulge in brief exultation. Why have we occasion for so many "commencement" articles in our church papers? Plainly, because we have so many excellent institutions of learning under the patronage of our church. Think of the list of noble and pious men at the head of these institutions—Arbogast, Cunnyughain, Price, Hargrove, Wilson, McVoy, Larrabee, Tarrant, Henry Moore, Cox, Connor, Belvin, Allen Andrews, C. G. Andrews, O. L. Smith, and Mills and Ross, and a host of others, with whose names I might fill a whole column of the Advocate. I am far from being the first who has looked upon the great and good men of the church of God with admiration and exultation. We praise the name of God for this glorious fecundity of her who is "the mother of us all." Of Zion it shall be said that this and that man were born in her (Psalms lxxxvii, 5)—not imported, not begged for, not bought, not made in theological molds—thank God, born in her! I have the honor to be one of the trustees of noble old Centenary Institute at Summerfield, Alabama, and desired greatly to be present at its commencement exercises; but duty made it absolutely necessary that I should be at the

TUSKEGEE FEMALE COLLEGE.

Unfortunately these two colleges held their examination and commencement exercises at the same time. This should be avoided in future, if possible.

Tuskegee Female College had its most brilliant commencement last week. A multitude of people attended upon its exercises. The spacious chapel and galleries were packed and overflowed. A throng of citizens, who had known President Price from his early childhood, seemed determined to catch the last eloquent sentence that fell from his lips, and bid him a tearful farewell. His sermon on Sunday was just such an one as we all expected—strong as an apennine, fruitful as the summer tropics. It should be printed, as a solemn, emphatic protest against some of the evils peculiar to our times. On Wednesday twelve young ladies, after reading excellent compositions, which everybody could hear, received the diplomas, to which the president pronounced them well entitled. In his address to the graduating class the speaker manifested a desire to avoid the pathetic. The feelings were natural and proper to such an occasion, and the circumstances gathered force from the effort to restrain them.

The retiring president announced that the institution he was leaving was flourishing and prosperous. He declared it to be well organized and well officered, and abreast of the very best institutions of our land. He commended his successor, Rev. Henry D. Moore, as a gentleman every way worthy of their confidence and esteem.

PROF. SCHNEIDER,

who was in charge of the music department, gave us the very best music we ever heard on such an occasion. This gentleman excited our wonder. He is small of stature and of ruddy complexion; seems to be endowed with limitless perseverance and patience. We heard him play, and play well, on so many instruments that we came to the conclusion that he knew the whole of music. His pupils, by the performance of the most difficult pieces, gave assurance that he could impart his knowledge to others. Prof. Schneider is a musical prodigy, and, unlike most prodigious men, he is a scholarly gentleman beside.

One of the pleasantest features of the occasion to us was the number of

PREACHERS PRESENT.

Morgan C. Turrentine, who has passed his threescore years and ten. Straight enough to lean a little the other way, and young enough to delight in all the things that are lovely and of good report.

William A. McCarty, presiding elder of the district. Genial and young-looking, yet slyly delighting in the name of "grandfather."

John Motley, looking decisive and critical, carrying abundance of sunshine inside of him. One of the best lovers of the church, and one of its most liberal supporters.

E. S. Smith, pastor of the church in Tuskegee, by whose goodness, popularity and energy the church building, begun many years ago, is about to be carried forward to completion. Bro. Smith labors literally with his own hands about the church building. He is carpenter, bricklayer, hod-carrier, anything, everything. He received many reproofs for his bad example to pastors. Who is in danger of following it?

Dr. Isaac Spangler was there, and put me to reasoning upon an old, bothersome question, namely, What amount of influence does a man's name have upon his life and habits of thought? Were Dr. Green and Dr. Spangler to meet and scintillate, even disease and sorrow must forget their power to annoy.

George W. F. Price, John Wesley Rush and William M. Motley were school-fellows and playmates in Tuskegee many years ago. It was refreshing to see them forget their intervening years. John W. Rush has come lately from Columbus, Mississippi, where he preached the commencement sermon.

All these preachers were child-like, and had not lost the power of growth. "Grow," says the word of God; and woe to that man of whom it may be said: He has gotten his growth. Happy they who can, in child-like simplicity, adapt themselves to all the circumstances in which the providence of God may place them.. J. Barker.

Greenville, Ala., July 5, 1872.

FROM THE WORK

Demopolis District, Alabama Conference.

Mr. Editor: Bro. T. S. Abernathy has just closed a protracted meeting at Jefferson, in the bounds of his circuit, the results of which were sixteen accessions to our church and some twenty-five conversions. A striking feature was the number of adults converted. Only two of the whole number were children, the rest being grown, and several of them heads of families. Bro. Abernathy, though feeble from the infirmities of age, retains all the fire of former days, and works with a zeal worthy of the cause which has inspired his course for nearly fifty years.

From most of the charges in this section I hear good reports. Bro. Mangum is running well at Uniontown. Bro. Brown is, from all reports, doing well at Dayton and Spring Hill. I saw Bro. McCann, of Green circuit, a few days ago, and he is hopeful. From Talladega, in the North Alabama Conference, I learn that Dr. Oliver is conducting a protracted meeting with promise of much good. Dr. Hamilton was expected to assist. Bro. Patton, of Belmont circuit, has suffered much from personal and family afflictions, which have to some extent interfered with his success. The sympathies of the church are with him. Our presiding elder, Dr. Cox, is all that goodness and zeal can make any man, and is, of course, efficient and beloved. The church at this place is in a healthful condition, and before long I hope to report great things from the Lord.

R. B. Crawford.

Demopolis, Ala., July 12, 1872.

Not Adapted.—During the war a lady, passing from cot to cot through the wards of a hospital, was shocked to hear a soldier laughing at her, and turned to reprove him. "Why, look here, madam," said the soldier, "you have given me a tract on the sin of dancing, when I've both legs shot off."

"Your Master is Out."—"Walter," said a big boy, going into a shop, "your master is out; now give us a handful of raisins."

"My Master is always in," said Walter. The all-seeing God was Walter's Master. Always try to remember that you are in his sight; it will help to keep you from sin.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JULY 25, 1872.

THY KINGDOM COME.

BY JEAN INGELOW.

Thy kingdom come,
I heard a seer cry: "Thy wilderness,
Thy solitary place,
Shall yet be glad for him, and he shall bless
(Thy kingdom come) with his revealed face
The forests; they shall drop their precious gum,
And shed for him their balm: and he shall yield
The grandeur of his speech to charm the field.

"Then all the soothed winds shall drop to listen,
(Thy kingdom come.)
Comforted waters waxen calm shall listen
With bashful tremblement beneath his smile;
And Echo ever the while
Shall take, and in her awful joy repeat
The laughter of his lips (thy kingdom come);
And hills that sit apart shall be no longer dumb;
No, they shall shout and shout,
Raining their lovely loyalty about the dewy plain,
And valleys round about.

"And all the well-contented land, made sweet
With flowers she opened at his feet,
Shall answer, shout, and make the welkin ring,
And tell it to the stars, shout, shout and sing:
Her cup being full to the brim,
Her poverty made rich with him.

"Her yearning satisfied to the utmost sum—
Lift up thy voice, O Earth, prepare thy song.
I shall not yet be long.
Lift up, O Earth, for he shall come again,
Thy Lord; and he shall reign, and he shall reign—
Thy kingdom come."

For the Advocate.

FROM A HOME TRAVELER.

MR. EDITOR: The Blue mountain route proved very desirable in passing from the din and dust of the city to the cool mountain heights of Virginia; and while here in a sequestered vale, beautified by all that makes nature lovely, I will recount a few of those objects which were most conspicuously presented to my eyes. There was little of note seen, until the cars rolled within the boundaries of Tennessee, save large levels of cultivated fields exceedingly promising to the hopeful farmer, and herds of cattle quietly feeding in the pastures. But when Chattanooga was reached a marked change was everywhere seen. Mount Lookout loomed up before our vision in sublime grandeur, and called from our party a long breath of admiration. From neighboring ranges the fresh wind seemed to blow from our skirts every breath of Louisiana's heated clime, and at once we were exhilarated. It would be hard to express the emotions called forth while we passed through the Switzerland of America, gazing with wonder at the overhanging cliffs and rising mounts, and involuntarily realizing to a degree the power of their Creator.

We landed at Emory, at which place the Emory and Henry College is situated. This institution takes its name from two of America's most distinguished sons—Bishop Emory, remarkable for his profound and extensive erudition, and Patrick Henry, Virginia's soul of oratory. Dr. E. E. Wiley, of the Holston Conference, is its president. The college is under the auspices of the same Conference. We arrive in good time for the commencement exercises, and during the interim used our time in viewing the surroundings. The main building is a large antique brick house, capable of accommodating upward of one hundred and fifty students. Dormitories on the east side can take about one hundred students, and, together with the homes of neighboring farmers, three or four hundred students can find quarters here.

The curriculum is advanced, including, in the classics, a mastery of the principles from the alphabet to the best authors. In mathematics there is almost a university course. The natural sciences are extensively studied, theoretically and practically. The laboratory and apparatus are good; the mineral specimens are excellent in their variety. Modern languages are made a specialty; the ancient Hebrew is also taught. The moral science course is immediately under Dr. Wiley.

Turning from the interior, we were agreeably astonished at the magnificent campus, which gracefully slopes from the college hill to the embankments of the railroad. Away to the east are boarding houses, and above one of them the society halls are built. These are elegantly furnished; in fact offering a great contrast to the ungarnished attire of the alma mater. We would not be flattering, we think, if we should pronounce the literary societies the best we have ever seen. In Virginia they have no equals, and in America, we venture, no superiors. After this tramp we found a cool spring of limestone water, and here we quenched our thirst. This water is admirably beneficial to growing youth, its lime supplying a continual accretion of bone.

Commencement exercises were heralded by a brass band tuned to those martial airs which always excite the nerve of our youth. Under a large pavilion the representatives of the college lifted up their voices to Apollo's praise and the honor of the college, for never did eloquence burn more than upon the lips of the speakers. Among them we too felt that our Southland is a land of orators, not of those alone who by labor cultivate this God-sent gift, but of that native talent which spontaneously flows, shaped in such manner as to gain the applause of all listeners. An award of medals and the benediction closed the entertainment.

And now one word. Why is it that our Southern youth still patronize Northern institutions—those very institutions which have given birth to and promulgated doctrines subversive to Southern interests? Black in their Abolitionism and bloody in their hate, Northern institutions of learning have cultivated those voices which first sounded the death-knell to Southern liberty and prosperity, and even now they harbor that element which would, if possible, degrade our glorious institutions. It is hard to believe that Southern youth do, by patronizing these institutions, give passive encouragement to this spirit. As long as we virtually acknowledge the inferiority of our schools by patronizing Northern institutions, we may expect a delay in the establishment of a national literature. Our religion, people and manners are in many respects unlike those of our Northern neighbors, and for Southern youth to imbibe that training, more intolerable than any other to our institutions, is wrong, emphatically wrong.

We have schools of learning in our land officered by Southern talent and energy, and any Southern man who spends his thousands at Northern schools is recreant to the interests of his country. Is there any university in America superior to the University of Virginia? Can you find a more perfect academical course? Are the professions taught any better anywhere? What university stands higher than it in the estimation of European universities, and where is a more perfect scholar sent out than the master of arts of Virginia's university? We have good colleges—the Centenary of Louisiana, the Southern University of Alabama, the Oxford of Mississippi, and scores of others, all which can give three or four years' good mental training to the young, thus preparing them for our university schools, if desired. Southern institutions depend on Southern patronage for their sustentation. Let us give it them. P. P. W.

SHARON SPRINGS, VA., July 9, 1872.

For the Advocate.

REFLECTIONS ON OUR MISSIONS.

MR. EDITOR: Is it true, in our practice, that we as a church sustain our avowed missionary character? Does the offering of fifteen cents per member for such purposes correspond to the assumption? And is this manifest display of covetousness a becoming evidence, on our part, of the gratitude we express in view of the daily gifts of good from a Heavenly Father? How shall we be able to reconcile our omissions in this particular, and clearly and righteously answer for our prodigality in things of less essential importance? There are questions demanding reflection and solution at the same time. With some, reflection, I am aware, is a stranger, but in such cases a mere suggestion at times opens a field for the exercise of thought, and this leads to action. May God inspire us to think and act wisely. Perhaps, were the volume of thought now put forth by the teachers of all kinds in the church less diffusive, and directed to points of prime value rather more, the membership would be more compacted in every aggression upon the kingdom of darkness. The field is too grand for ordinary minds to grasp, as now presented. We have a grand central university, local colleges, high schools for districts, foreign and domestic missions, book houses, papers, reviews, magazines, church buildings, parsonages, various church meetings and conferences, besides the purely local work of stations and circuits, to engross the mind, and these diverse matters necessarily cause the mind to wander and dissipate. Now there can be no doubt as to the evil which such a combination has produced. It has tended to create sectional feeling, to empty some Conferences and fill to overflowing others, to breed a hungering for desirable stations and comfortable et ceteras, to the drawing of unchristian distinctions between brethren, and thus leading the mind of the church from her true mission to a too large imitation of the fashion of the world. If history teaches one lesson well, it is this: that when singleness of purpose is overlaid with a desire to grasp everything, failure ensues. But in a religious point of view this voracious disposition to endeavor all, leads to a perfect emasculation of spirituality in the mass of believers, and builds up a beautiful structure to outward appearance, but inwardly it has no fragrance of holiness.

Are we not verging in that direction? From articles in your paper it would seem that some sound-minded brethren are so disposed to think. Then look at the home truth put forth by our missionary secretary. By the side of his statement we read of stately churches being built, and the rich tones of the organ intended therefor, of the liberal allowance of the pastor, and of many other similar evidences of profusion. But the stern voice of truth speaks none the less loud over omission of the grandest Christian act—the preaching of the gospel to every creature. It may be laid down as a safe maxim that in proportion to the missionary spirit of a church will be her spirituality, and the converse will hold good where this spirit is wanting. There is one important fact to be observed in connection with this idea, viz.: this missionary spirit must not express a desire to proselyte, but a desire to have the human heart new-created in Christ Jesus. Twenty years has dwarfed the earnestness of the church to the vision of many. The æsthetic has surmounted the plain but solid style; centralization peeps out from several loop-holes; disproportion in support is catching the Argus eye of the outside world, without any super-amount of labor being involved; luxuriousness of style, both in living and dress, has taken the place of simplicity; recondite and ornate preaching pushes to the wall the modest delivery of the gospel, and the pure stream of salvation is tarnished by contact with the muddy waters of the world's streamlets.

Would a little heart-work be amiss amidst the unnatural commingling of elements so entirely antagonistic, and would not the church shed a more healthful influence by a serious regard to her Master's injunctions than by her present too close following of the ways of the world? No outward reformation will answer. There must be deep internal consciousness of delinquency in duty, and a soul-earnest purpose to be faithful to our high trust before the rekindling of the heavenly fire, and a Christ-like love combine to move us in the way of God. We must harmonize our ways to his ways, and then shall we experience a rebaptism of the Holy Ghost. The dead wood must be pruned out, else the whole body will droop and sicken. Let us begin in time, lest delay cause the evil thing to corrupt the whole mass. The doing of our Heavenly Father's will is the only way leading to heaven.

INDAMORA.

CALCASIEU, July, 1872.

For the Advocate.

THE PRESIDING ELDERSHIP.

NO. III.—ITS TRIALS.

These are not appreciated by those who have not given the subject some careful thought; indeed, by none except those who have had more or less experience in the office.

Of course it cannot be expected that in this brief paper I should enumerate all those trials. We will only consider a few of them.

1. It is a trial to the presiding elder to be so often, and for such long-continued seasons, from home. This may be said of almost all our itinerant ministers who do their whole duty in preaching and in visiting pastorally among their charges, but it is particularly true of the presiding elders, and, I might add, of all our beloved and honored Bishops. The districts are generally large, both as regards territory and the number of appointments in them; and such is the poverty or indifference of our people that they have not generally purchased or built district parsonages. On account of the latter fact, some of our presiding elders have to live beyond the bounds of the district which they serve. Now, in order to travel through those several districts and discharge all the duties of the presiding eldership, these honored fathers and brethren must necessarily be from home a great deal—from two-thirds to ten-twelfths of the time, and sometimes perhaps more than the latter. I am fully willing to admit that this is nothing more than our fathers endured, and it is very laudable, and, verily, these honored ones shall have their reward by and by, when the great Master shall call the laborers and give them their hire; but the point which I make here is, there is great and sore trial in all this. I know of no other class of men who endure such trial, unless it be that class of unfortunate sinners, of monomaniacs, who are bewildered and blinded by the god of this world! Yet I would not compare ministers of the gospel to these, for they are actuated by higher and nobler motives. Of all the men I have ever known, none appreciate home more fully than do ministers. In their estimation "there is no place like home," though it be but the humble home of a minister of the gospel. It is the place where loved ones abide. There are gathered a thousand precious interests. All these, like so many golden cords, constantly and strongly twine about the man of God to hold him there. But no! He must not stay. His duty is far away in his widespreading district. Ah! it is no wonder, as he turns to leave and speaks the word "farewell," the silent tear wells up from his noble heart and steals adown his manly face!

2. It is a trial to the presiding elder to be deprived of opportunities for and means of study. One of our Bishops once made this remark to me; "Our young men who are on circuits and stations ought to esteem and use their opportunities for study; if they do not, they will regret it by, and by if they ever get to be presiding elders and Bishops. They ought to out-preach any other class of our ministers, and," said he, "I believe they do, not even excepting the Bishops." On conversing further with him, I found out that, according to his experience and observation, the high officials of the church have very little time to prepare for the pulpit. "We are compelled," said he, "most generally to fall back upon our old sermons, and the result is, before we are presiding elders and Bishops very long we become comparatively very poor preachers. And," he continued, "this is very unfortunate for both Bishops and presiding elders: the people who go to hear us preach expect more than they do of other preachers." Then, according to the Bishop's view, and according to my own, the presiding elder is constantly subjected to a very great trial, in that he is seldom permitted to enjoy frequent and undisturbed study amid his books at home.

3. It is a trial to the presiding elder to endure the fatigue and exposure of so much travel. He is nearly always going, seldom stopping even a day to rest, and he is therefore obliged to be exposed to all kinds of weather,

"Cold, heat, and moist and dry."

How can he keep from becoming weary? If he goes by rail, he gets weary of the music of the wheels and the whistle. If he goes by private conveyance, the up and down hill, and across the valley and the plain, soon become monotonous to him. So, along the weary way he would sink down and give up in despair but for the fire of the Lord which is burning in his brain, in his heart, and in all his very bones, that constantly and powerfully impells him onward in his great mission of love and salvation. It is then the faithful presiding elder lifts up his voice and sings:

"The love of Christ doth me constrain
To seek the wandering souls of men;
With cries, entreaties, tears to save,
To snatch them from the gaping grave!

"For this let men revile my name;
No cross I shun, I fear no shame:
All hail reproach, and welcome pain;
Only thy terrors, Lord, restrain.

"My life, my blood, I here present,
If for thy truth they may be spent:
Fulfill thy sovereign counsel, Lord:
Thy will be done, thy name adored.

"Give me thy strength, O God of power,
Then let winds blow, or thunders roar,
Thy faithful witness will I be:
'Tis fixed; I can do all through thee!"

4. It is a trial to the presiding elder to fill his place as he should in the Bishops' Cabinet. If he is not a good man—a conscientious and holy man—he should not dare to enter there! If he is a good man he certainly will feel it to be a great trial to be there! He is burdened with a great and overwhelming responsibility. In his hands, to a very large extent, are the itinerant preachers of his district, and the preachers of the Conference, with their wives and their precious children. Beside all these, he has in those hands the interests of the charges which are in his district and all those of the entire Conference. He is the Bishop's adviser in regard to the pastors and the charges. That Bishop is, perhaps, a stranger, but the presiding elder, with his fellow-presiding elders of the Conference, knows the men and all the fields of labor. The Bishop must have the information which the presiding elder can give. Without it he could not proceed in making the appointments. Then, the presiding elder is almost entirely responsible for the Bishop's work! If he does his duty well his hands, his skirts and his heart will be free from "the blood of souls;" but otherwise, woe be to the presiding elder! This is, perhaps, the greatest trial of the presiding eldership. O that Heaven may ever help every one who is in that high and holy office!

And now, in conclusion, I would urge a few considerations in regard to the presiding eldership:

First. That there is no more important and efficient office in our church.

Second. That we who are pastors should show our high estimate of it by interesting the entire church in it, so that we may raise them up to a high standard of liberality, by which every district may have a suitable parsonage for the presiding elder, thereby relieving him, as far as possible, of some of the peculiar trials of his office.

Third. That every district should ever extend to its presiding elder sympathy and co-operation amid all his self-denying and arduous labors.

Fourth. That we should always offer up our ardent prayers for the presiding elder. Amen!

A PASTOR.

SPEAKING of the dividing of the Red sea, Talmage says: "The billows reared as God's hand pulled back upon the crystal bits."

For the Advocate.

A QUESTION OF DISCIPLINE.

MR. EDITOR: Has a preacher a right to allow a member of our church, under report of immorality, to withdraw from the church without a regular trial?

I propose the above interrogatory for the purpose of eliciting a reply from you or some one else.

The Discipline, chapter 6, section 5, page 130, gives specific directions as to the manner in which a member reported guilty of some crime, expressly forbidden in the word of God, shall be brought to trial. But these directions were evidently given under the presumption that the accused denies the charge. In that case I do not think a preacher has a right to vary a hair's breadth from the rule. The object of a trial is to establish the guilt or innocence of the accused; and when this object is attained by the confession of the offender, it appears to me absurd to go through the formalities of a trial to ascertain what we knew before. But when the accused not only acknowledges his crime, but also requests the privilege of withdrawing from the church under a sense of unfitness, may not the preacher allow it by the law of the church? Your correspondent believes he may, provided he publicly announces that the offender has withdrawn, so that the world may no longer hold the church responsible for his conduct. This course is the easiest and speediest way of disposing of cases of this sort. The church is vindicated, and all the ends to be attained by a regular church trial are accomplished in a more satisfactory manner. But it is thought by some that proceeding in this way lets off the offender too lightly. I confess that I cannot see any practical difference between expulsion and withdrawal. In both cases the guilt of the offender is established as the cause of the expulsion or withdrawal, as the case may be. One withdrawn from the church sustains precisely the same relation to the church and the world as if he had been expelled. In fact it is virtually expulsion.

In conclusion, Mr. Editor, will you oblige your correspondent, and others too, perhaps, by giving your views on the subject of this communication? D. G. W. ELLIS.

DEKALB, MISS., July 8, 1872.

[NOTE BY EDITOR.—What appears to be the easiest and speediest way in dealing with the case may not be best. Withdrawal does not in itself carry presumption of guilt or immorality, or of church censure; and the interest of the church may demand a regular trial and expulsion. Where the guilt is open and confessed, the ordinary and right course, we judge, would be to bring the offender to trial. A member has the right to dissolve his connection with the church by voluntary withdrawal, but as the consent of the church is necessary, this cannot be given under circumstances calculated to injure the church.]

For the Advocate.

Hermeneutical Canons to Aid the Bible Student.

1. The divine character must never be impeached.—Gen. xviii, 25.

2. Human accountability must never be removed.—Rom. xiv, 12.

3. No interpretation involving a contradiction must be allowed.

4. Literal texts must be explained by literal ones, and figurative Scripture by figurative. See this violated.—John viii, 51, 52.

5. The simple should explain the obscure, and not the obscure explain the simple.

6. That sense is to be preferred which is the most simple, natural and consistent.

7. When an absolute or unlimited sense is impossible or absurd, it must be limited or modified.—Second Thess. iii, 10.

8. The figurative sense must be adopted when a literal one is absurd or impossible.—Matt. xvi, 12; Luke xiv, 26; Gen. xli, 26, 27; Rev. i, 20.

The following rule, as applicable to prophecy, has been suggested by the Rev. S. D. Baldwin, in his work on Dominion, page 106, and may be found useful:

"Whatever legitimate sense of the text is fulfilled is the correct one, when there is a perfect coincidence of events between the prophecy and its fulfillment." J. A. SPENCE.

IT WAS A SAYING of the first Napoleon that every man should make his opportunities—his chances. But as a general thing, while ten men watch for chances, only one makes chances; while ten men wait for something to turn up, only one turns something up; so while ten men fail, one succeeds, and is called a man of luck, and the favorite of fortune. There is no luck like pluck, and fortune most favors those who are most indifferent to fortune.

ONE reason that the world is not reformed is because everybody would have others to make the beginning, and thinks not of himself.

For the Advocate.

Reminiscences of the Alabama Conference.—No. I.

MR. EDITOR: After a lapse of some thirty-eight years, it may not be uninteresting to some of your readers to read a sketch from one who then enjoyed and participated in the labors of the young but rapidly-growing Alabama Conference, especially as he was blessed with the privilege of organizing some little portion of that very interesting field of labor, and may be the only one living who can give something like a correct sketch of the organization of our church in the particular region to which he refers in the following remarks.

At the Annual Conference held at Tuskaloosa, fixing the appointments for the year 1834 (I write wholly from memory,) I was appointed preacher in charge of the Choctaw mission, located west of the Tombigbee river, with R. L. Kennon and William Wier as the junior preachers. R. L. Kennon's appointment was merely nominal, as he was preparing to settle in Sumpter county. Bro. Wier and myself were of the same age in the ministry, yet in years and attainments he was greatly my superior. His health, however, was feeble, and it was supposed that he could not travel so extensively as was necessary in the organization of this very inviting field.

The footprints of the Choctaw Indians were scarcely washed from the sand until such a tide of emigration poured into that country as I have never seen elsewhere, from North and South Carolina, Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi, etc.; and as a general thing they were emigrants of the very best class for intelligence, wealth and moral worth. There had been some churches formed in Sumpter county the previous year, and as Bro. Wier had a large family, and was rather feeble, by mutual consent he confined his labors to the more thickly-settled portions of Sumpter county for a large portion of the year, coming to my aid at more distant points only on particular occasions. Indeed we both labored in this circumscribed field until the winter rains subsided, as there were no roads or bridges; nothing but the Indian trail or the emigrants' scattered blaze to direct the traveler.

Livingston, the county site of Sumpter, was headquarters. It had grown in a few short months to be a village of respectable proportions. Prominent among the membership at this place was Seaburn Mimms, Henry Potts, Bro. Boyd, a prominent lawyer, and others. By the time spring had fully opened we had organized churches pretty much all through that region of country situated between Noxubee and Sookanatchee rivers. Patton's Hill was a place of some importance. Here the Presbyterians were respectable in number and influence. Connected with our church at this place, as prominent members, were Dr. Patton, Thomas Webb and others.

The excellency of a superstructure depends upon the solidity of its foundation and the durability of its timbers. Gainesville was not noted for Methodism in the early settlement of the place. Churches were located at Jones' Bluff, in the Shropshire settlement, on the road from Livingston to Demopolis.

I was invited to a settlement down in the fork of Bigbee and Sookanatchee. Here we had a few scattered members. In my visits to this community occasionally I felt a little concerned, as it was located near a notorious family by the name of Magrew. Some two or three of this family were in the habit, when they caught a fellow alone, to make him dance for their amusement, and sometimes the dance was protracted until it became quite a burden. I was informed they were not very partial to Methodist preachers, and I could not tell but it might come to my turn some time; and having no practice nor skill in this particular exercise, and in principle opposed to it, I frequently debated in my mind my policy in case the crisis came. But I was fortunately, however, saved from the experiment. About this time quite an incident occurred with Bill Magrew, the most notorious among them. He owned a ferry on the Bighee river, and Bill was passing a family across the river. When about midway Bill ordered the traveler to take to the water or die. The wife slipped to the back part of the wagon and drew out an old musket, cocked and presented it, and told Magrew to take to the water. He hesitated. He caught her eye. She touched the trigger, and he took to the water. Matched for once! J. MATTHEWS.

CHAPPELL HILL, TEXAS, June 12, 1872.

A LITTLE BOY, after watching the burning of the school house until the novelty of the thing had ceased, started down the street saying: "I'm glad the old thing's burned down; I didn't have my jography lesson, nohow!"

MEN live half the year by deceit and by art; by art and deceit men live the other part. Who gives this bad character of mankind? MAN.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JULY 25, 1872.

[illegible] CURIOSITY.

The following is taken from the Gentleman's Magazine, of London, for 1792. It is interesting as a literary curiosity, and on account of its unaffecting simplicity.

Like as the damask rose you see,
Or like the blossom on a tree,
Or like the dainty flower of May,
Or like the morning of the day,
Or like the sun, or like the shade,
Or like the gourd which Jonas had;
Even such is man, whose thread is spun,
Drawn out and cut, and so is done.
The rose withers, the blossom blasteth,
The flower fades, the morning hasteth,
The sun sets, the shadow flies,
The gourd consumes, and man he dies.

Like to the grass that's newly sprung,
Or like a tale that's new begun,
Or like the bird that's here to-day,
Or like the pearled dew of May,
Or like an hour, or like a span,
Or like the singing of a swan;
Even such is man who lives by breath,
Is here, now there, in life and death.
The grass withers, the tale is ended,
The bird is flown, the dew's ascended,
The hour is short, the span not long,
The swan near death; man's life is done.

Like to a bubble in the brook,
Or in a glass much like a look,
Or like a shuttle in a weaver's hand,
Or like the writing on the sand,
Or like a thought, or like a dream,
Or like the gliding of a stream;
Even such is man who lives by breath,
Is here, now there, in life and death.
The bubble's out, the look's forgot,
The shuttle's flung, the writing's blot,
The thought is past, the dream is gone,
The water glides, man's life is done.

Like to a blaze of fond delight,
Or like a morning clear and bright,
Or like a frost, or like a shower,
Or like the pride of Babel's tower,
Or like the hour that guides the time,
Or like the beauty in her prime;
Even such is man, whose glory lends
His life a blaze or two, and ends.
Delights vanish, the morn o'ercasteth,
The frost breaks, the shower hasteth,
The tower falls, the hour spends,
The beauty fades, and man's life ends.

Like to an arrow from the bow,
Or like swift course of water flow,
Or like that time 'twixt flood and ebb,
Or like the spider's tender web,
Or like a race, or like a goal,
Or like the dealing of a dole;
Even such is man, whose brittle state
Is always subject unto fate.
The arrow's shot, the flood soon spent,
The time's no time, the web soon rent,
The race soon run, the goal soon won,
The dole soon dealt, man's life is done.

Like to the lightning from the sky,
Or like a post that quick doth hie,
Or like a quaver in a short song,
Or like a journey three days long,
Or like the snow when summer's come,
Or like the pear, or like the plum;
Even such is man who heaps up sorrow,
Lives but this day, and dies to-morrow.
The lightning's past, the post must go,
The song is short, the journey's so,
The pear doth rot, the plum doth fall,
The snow dissolves, and so must all.

Prof. Park on Extempore Preaching.

EXTRACTS FROM AN ARTICLE IN THE BIBLIOTHECA SACRA.

RULES FOR EXTEMPORARY PREACHING.

The direction more fundamental than any other is, cherish an earnest religious spirit. A minister's expressions must be the fresh outflowings of his own heart, or they will not reach the hearts of others. A man must live behind his sermon; not a professional man, but a real breathing man of God.

This general rule comprehends many specific ones. Among them are the following:

"Think more of doing good than of doing well. His effort should be to make his sermon as useful as, amid all its unfitness, he can make it, and thus to acquire a kind of relative, while he despairs of an absolute, perfection. But in order to do this he must think more of his subject and less of himself; more of making other men Christians, and less of making himself a perfect orator. Volumes of homiletics are compressed into that hackneyed saying of John Milton: 'True eloquence I find to be none but the serious and hearty love of truth; and that whose mind soever is fully possessed with a fervent desire to know good things, and with the dearest charity to infuse the knowledge of them into others, when such a man would speak, his words, like so many nimble and airy servitors, trip about him at command, and in well-ordered files, as he would wish, fall aptly into their own places.'"

Cherish a deeper interest in the approval of God than in that of man. A felt harmony with the Framer of our spirits is like a hand of music cheering us onward in our discourse. The loudest plaudits of a congregation are less enlivening than the still small voice of conscience as it anticipates the decision: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

Do not imagine that a few mortifying failures prove your unfitness for free speech. The example not only of Demosthenes, but of other eminent men, may encourage us to persevere in an exercise which balks our hopes at first. A minister will not extemporize well unless he be humble enough to use imperfect powers, and hopeful enough to make his two talents four, and his five talents ten.

Continue the practice of elaborate writing as an aid to the practice of extemporary preaching. Foreign critics say of Americans that we begin the culture of speech-making before we "begin the culture of thought;" we "dissolve instead of crystallizing truth in words;" we "do not regard a word as a thing too precious to be squandered." When a man is devoting all his energies to the writing of one exact and well-proportioned discourse, he is preparing himself for numerous extemporary addresses; is excavating a dam which will result in turning a thousand spindles.

Discipline your mind rigidly in such exercises as will be of immediate advantage to your sermons. He who preaches extempore ought to be a solid thinker, able not only to look over a subject easily, but also to look into it and through it. If he not only knows the truth, but also knows that he knows it, he will go forward like a man treading on firm ground, and will avoid that vacillating spirit which betrays itself in incoherent language.

Study the Bible with especial care. Arrange for yourself in a logical or rhetorical order the more important proof-texts. Commit them to memory in their fitting relations. They are, and they give, intellectual and moral wealth.

Study the truths of theological science. Form for yourself a syllabus of them. Express each of these truths in terse, suggestive language. Repeat that expression often, and engrave it on your memory. Let a single brief paragraph be such as will intimate the nature and relations of the truth, as a single bone intimated to Cuvier the whole anatomical structure of the animal to which it belonged.

Persevere in the habit of reading religious truth in the book of nature, in the secular sciences, in the useful and fine arts, in history. There are "sermons in stones," in water-wheels, in noble actions, in wars, in shipwrecks. Pictures are in sermons, and sermons in pictures.

It is said that a minister must know something of everything. If he knows nothing except theology, he does not know theology. A man who is merely a preacher will be a lopsided one.

Accustom yourself to speak extempore in an orderly and apposite style on the more difficult themes of sermons. If you can manage hard themes in private, you can manage easy themes in public. Daily express your thoughts on some doctrine or duty, explaining the nature of it, the reasons for it, the objections to it.

The minister must discipline himself also in the art of expression. We may reasonably expect that he will be as diligent as the statesman is in gaining a command of his mother tongue. Lord Mansfield not only translated all Cicero's orations into English, but also translated the English orations into Latin.

In his system of parochial visitations the minister learns as well as teaches; he finds every parlor in his diocese a school for himself; he forms the habit of unfolding his thoughts and emotions when they are needed, of using those plain Saxon words which are fitted to touch the hearts of plain men.

Make a special as well as a general preparation for each one of your extemporary sermons. Before you begin to preach be sure that you are able at once to decompose your subject by analysis, and instantly recompose it by synthesis.

Strive to regulate yourself, so that in preparing and delivering your discourse your mind may work naturally and easily.

While preparing and delivering your extemporary discourse, keep your mind sacredly under the influence of your subject. The true orator lets the idea come out; the declaimer tries to say something smart or sublime. Let the preacher keep himself under the power of his subject, and his phrases, if we may borrow a simile, will fall over that subject as drapery over a statue, and will adapt themselves to its distinctive outlines, as the drapery rises and falls with the protuberances and depressions of the body which it clothes.

A soldier lay dying in the hospital. A visitor asked him: "What church are you of?" "The church of Christ," he replied. "I mean, of what persuasion are you?" then inquired the visitor. "Persuasion?" said the dying man, as his eyes looked heavenward, beaming with love to the Savior; "I'm persuaded that neither death nor life, nor angels, nor principalities nor powers, nor things present nor things to come, nor height nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate me from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus."

How to Obey.—Do it at once. Never wait to be told a second time.

Do just what you are told to do. Do not try to have your own way, even in part.

Do it cheerfully. Do not go about it in a surly, cross, peevish way. Don't fret and grumble, and talk back. Only cheerful obedience can be pleasing to God and man.—Congregationalist.

At a school concert the parson, who prided himself on the quickness and cleverness of his little ones, said: "Boys, when I heard your beautiful song to-night I had to work hard to keep my feet still. Now what do you think was the matter with them?" The answer came with great promptness: "Chilblains!"

ON MINISTERIAL LIBRARIES.

My Dear Paul: I think it a very good plan for a young minister to form a ministerial library, and to begin early in life to do it, though, as I said in my last, I should begin by amassing not books, but a library fund. Whether this course is pursued or not, whether, that is, you spend your capital or only your interest for books, there are certain principles to be pursued in their purchase. To buy books is one thing; to organize a library is another. The latter is an operation requiring time, skill, patience. A true library is always a growth, and growth requires time. Most ministers are in a hurry; the consequence is their library is crude; indeed it is not a library at all—it is a mere collection of books.

Advice as to individual books is of very little use. But there are certain principles which I think are of universal application. Here are some of them; I do not attempt to exhaust the subject.

1. The foundation of a good library is a good collection of reference books. First comes the Bible and a concordance, of course; next a good dictionary, Webster's or Worcester's unabridged, with perhaps Roget's Thesaurus and Crabbs's Synonymes. The minister's instrument is language, and he ought to have good facilities for its study. Next, I suppose, comes a good commentary or commentaries. It is the part of wisdom to get what your people are not likely to have. They will have "Barnes," and "Owens," and perhaps "Scott," and "Matthew Henry." Seek sources not open to them—"Alford," or "Wordsworth," or "Olshausen," or the "Speaker's Commentary," or possibly "Langs," which one will depend in part on a principle indicated below. One good commentary on the original tongue is better than half a dozen common ones, which the minister shares, practically, with his people. Next comes a good Bible dictionary, then an encyclopedia—Zell, Appleton or Chambers, each has its advantages; then an atlas, and then special cyclopedias on science, art, mythology, theology, etc. A man who has spent $100 wisely in books of reference has a better library, with fewer books, than the man who has expended double the amount in a miscellaneous collection of books that he either never reads, or that are used up in a single reading. In the formation of a library the first thing is to get tools.

2. Get books that you have read rather than books that you want to read. The value of a book depends not on what it contains, but on what effect it produces on the mind; and no man can tell with any certainty what effect a given book will produce on the mind till he has tried it. This rule does not apply to books of reference, but it does to books for reading, and especially to all that class of books whose office is to stimulate rather than to inform the mind. Many a reader finds himself in the predicament of young David when he tried on Saul's too cumbrous armor; he essays a piece or course of reading which some wise man has recommended to him, and cannot do anything with it, because it does not fit his stature. I have known men pore for weary hours, unprofitably, over Plato, because Ralph Waldo Emerson recommends his philosophy to the student. Find out what books are of use to you; get such as you have proved. Be chary of buying unknown books. It is on this principle I would advise you to act in getting a commentary. Do not get what some other scholar recommends, but what on personal examination proves suggestive and valuable to yourself.

3. Give your library a broad scope and a diversified character. A minister's library ought not to be purely professional. Such libraries are apt to abound in treatises on theology; and technical theology is just the thing which above all others the common people care least about. Make up the greater part of your professional library in helps to the interpretation of the Scriptures. Add to it books on the topics which interest your parishioners. If you are in a manufacturing town take the Scientific American; if in an agricultural parish, the Agriculturist. Know, at least in theory, the things which concern your people's daily life. I once went through Henry Ward Beecher's library. Side by side with his Alford and his Smith's Bible Dictionary were Kent's Commentaries and Copeland's Medical Dictionary. A broad library makes a broad man.

4. Get food for every faculty. Feed the reason, but also feed the observation, the affections, the spiritual nature, the imagination. Read some good fiction. Dr. Payson was a great reader of the best novels. Henry Ward Beecher is a student of Walter Scott. It will be worth your while to read and reread the Pilgrim's Progress. Learn to paint word pictures by studying the works of word painters. Especially look out carefully for good memoirs, and eschew bad ones. A good biography, one that really lets you into the inner life of a Christian man, a Chalmers, a Lyman Beecher, a Hamilton, a Payson, a Martyn, a Harlan Page, is next to their living company. The power of the pulpit is not learning, nor rhetoric, nor imagination, nor elocution, but spiritual power. And chiefest in your library, worth more than commentary or encyclopedia, are those books which experience points out to you as possessing the power to quicken zeal and hope and faith and love in your own soul.—Rusticus, in Christian Weekly.

Bismarck's Law Against the Jesuits.

A Berlin letter of June 22 to the London Times treats of Bismarck's latest bold movement in pressing through the German Parliament the bill for the expulsion of the Jesuits. The bill abolishes the convents and other establishments of the order on German soil. It extends the same veto to all other orders and religious sects connected with the Jesuits, leaving to the government to determine which these societies are, and it confers on the administrative authorities the right, not, indeed, to expel the Jesuits, as at first proposed, but to assign to them localities where alone they may reside. The latter clause will, of course, have the same effect as expulsion, for no Jesuit will allow himself to be banished to the Danish frontier, to live under surveillance among a party of Protestant people. The blow struck will be felt by more than the three hundred avowed Jesuits, and perhaps three thousand other monks and congregationalists connected with them resident in Germany.

The correspondent says that the Jesuit law will be taken as a hint, by the Catholic clergy at large, that if they continue agitating in favor of Ultramontane candidates for Parliament something worse will ensue. It will serve to advise the whole ecclesiastical retinue that if the Pope goes on defending all possible and impossible enemies in preference to William the First, he must expect no quarter in return.

By a decree of the minister of education, school brothers and sisters of a Catholic order, expressly established for filling the youthful mind with the deepest Roman love, are to be gradually dismissed from Prussian elementary schools.

The semi-official Nord Deutsche Zeitung states that the Pope's position having been entirely changed by recent dogmatic enactments, revised to absolute supremacy over kings and governments, none of his successors can be allowed to exercise even spiritual functions in Germany, unless recognized by Germany.

THE DECLINE OF RACES.

The London Builder says: "As a matter of history there seems good reason for the opinion that races of men, like their predecessors in the animal kingdom, have passed through the phases of infancy, maturity and decline; race replacing race, but no declining people ever regaining their earlier vigor. In what quarter to look for the hope of the present age it is not easy to say. Marks of decline meet us everywhere. In the most martial and most cultured of European nations the very general use of spectacles betrays an enfeebling of the reflective nervous system. In France stature has been reduced many inches in consequence of the wars of the first empire and other causes; nor is it the physical man alone that shows marks of extreme degradation of type. In Italy very widespread disease saps the brilliant beauty which yet lingers in certain narrowly-limited districts. In England the prosperity of dentists, and other symptoms easy to indicate, tell of anything but a vigorous vitality, especially in the young. In Australia the English race has bloomed into a new and delicate beauty; but it is as fragile as it is attractive. In America the hard, pained, drawn expression of the native Red Indian tribes has been communicated, without intermixture of blood, to the descendants of the European immigrants. Of the one ancient race, which, in its own Syrian country, still possesses some relics of its former beauty, the European representatives do not give any very hopeful promise. No human beauty is historically more famous than that of the royal and sacerdotal line of Judah, of Benjamin and of Aaron; but the prohibition of iconography, which formed part of the ancient law, and which is reflected by that of Islam, has left us altogether without the means of forming any adequate idea of that wonderful grace that was equally admired in the East and in the West, that was found fairest among the women of Persia, and that made Herod the Great tremble lest Mark Antony should behold the children of Antigonus."

A sarcastic lady says the only thing which keeps Lent is her best silk umbrella.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The Rev. Thomas Drew, late of Shepton Mallett, England, has come with a colony of English Congregationalists to Wyliesburg, Charlotte county, Virginia.

Episcopalians have started another German church in New York, on Fifty-eighth street. It is a handsome chapel, but fails to attract an audience. On a late Sunday the audience consisted of two, including the sexton.

There are said to be in Switzerland 1,556,000 Protestants, against 1,084,655 Catholics. The Catholics have gained ground so rapidly even at Geneva, the old cradle of Calvinism, that they now number in that canton no less than 47,857, against 43,606 Protestants.

The Congregationalists and Methodists in Buckland, Massachusetts, have temporarily coalesced. The Congregationalists furnish the meeting house and the Sunday school teachers, while the Methodists contribute a ministry and Sunday school superintendent.

A Conference of Protestant ministers at Dusseldorf adopted resolutions of sympathy with the Alt Catholics, offering them the evangelical churches, marriage and burial offices, etc. They also passed a resolution to try and bring about a better union of the different kinds of Protestants.

Rev. Charles Howard Malcolm, who defends the open-communionists in the Baptist Church in this country, says he has letters from many parts of the United States, from Maine to California, revealing a great crowd of witnesses in favor of the Lord's table being free to all the Lord's people.

Mohammedans in Syria can now become Christians without molestation. On the portions of Mount Lebanon where Roman Catholics are in power, there is no toleration for Protestants. Papal priests recently cruelly scourged back into their church a community of simple-minded Christians who had been under Protestant instruction six months.

Late English advices say that the decision of the privy council of the Anglican Church appeal case of Rev. Bennett, Vicar of Rome, has created widespread interest. This decision declares that the doctrine of the real presence in Eucharist is true, and not a Romish error. Rev. Bennett taught this doctrine and his conduct was sustained. Trouble is predicted in the church from this decision.

Moravian.—The Society of the United Brethren for Propagating the Gospel claims to be the oldest foreign missionary society in the country. It was organized at Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, in the year 1787, and was incorporated in the following year (1788.) Its special aim was the support of missions among the Indians. The female missionary societies in the congregations at Bethlehem, Nazareth and Litiz are each more than fifty years old.

The "Church of England Balance Sheet" shows that the average annual receipts of the Church of England are £10,154,152, of which £2,000,000 are from ancient endowments, and £2,400,000 from endowments acquired since the Reformation. The annual voluntary contributions amount to £5,400,000. Four hundred thousand pounds sterling are given every year for the relief of the poor, £500,000 to foreign missions, and £650,000 goes toward church building and consecration.

The Presbyterian Church of England has flourishing missions in China and India. During last year 13 English missionaries labored in the former country, assisted by 41 native evangelists and 14 teachers. Amoy, Swatow and Formosa were the districts occupied, in which 380 new members were added to the churches, making a total of 1,367 members in the Christian community of about 6,000. Unusual activity and success have characterized the missionary efforts in Formosa. In India steady advance has been made; and in Bengal much improvement is reported in the organization, order and efficiency of the native ministry, from whose assistance greater progress has been obtained than ever before. About $50,000 is expended in support of this society's operations.

During the last year there has been a great falling off in attendance on Hindoo and other ceremonies in India. Formerly the rites in connection with the car of Juggernaut was attended throughout Lower Bengal by hundreds of thousands of persons, accompanied by the most degrading practices of heathenism. Now these gatherings are composed of a comparatively small number of persons and are marked by little enthusiasm. At Hurdwar, the gate of the god Hari, a place particularly holy in the estimation of all Hindoos, lately our missionaries were reproached by the Brahmin priests for spreading the Christian religion and drawing away their followers. As this is the sacred source of Hindooism, whatever is done there is felt throughout the land; and, if the priests are alarmed, the people cannot fail to know the cause.

One of the most wonderful transformations, or new creations, of the present century has taken place in the Fiji Islands. At a recent meeting of the Baptist Missionary Society in London, Rev. W. Wilson, of these islands, said: "Thirty-seven years ago Fiji was an entire blank; not a book, a chapel, a church or a Christian man in it, and God's name was never pronounced, except perhaps by a castaway sailor, and then not in the most proper fashion. They now had 104,000 converts, and 22,709 members in full church communion; they had 47,240 in their Sunday schools and 590 chapels; and this work had been accomplished in thirty-seven years." Who, after this, can have the boldness to say that Christian missions have accomplished nothing, or less than the same amount of labor at home?

Church Accommodations.—It is well to know what are the accommodations for religious worship provided by the chief religious bodies of the country. The last census gives them thus: Baptist, regular, 3,997,116; Baptist, other, 368,019; Catholic, 1,990,514; Congregational, 1,117,212; Episcopal, 991,051; Lutheran, 997,332; Methodist, 6,523,209; Presbyterian, regular, 2,198,908; Presbyterian, other, 499,344. The value of the church property owned by these denominations is: Baptist, regular, $30,229,221; Baptist, other, $2,878,877; Catholic, $60,985,566; Congregational, $25,069,698; Episcopal, $36,514,549; Lutheran, $14,917,747; Methodist, $69,854,121; Presbyterian, regular, $47,828,732; Presbyterian, other, $5,536,524. It must be borne in mind that very many Catholic churches have several distinct congregations during Sunday. The total number of church edifices is 63,074.

Rev. James Everett has recently deceased in England, at the age of eighty-eight. He caused that disruption which led to the foundation of the Wesleyan Free Church. His ability attracted the attention of Dr. Adam Clarke, and he became the friend and confidant of Southey, the poet. He had a fine library of about six thousand volumes. One curious volume he bequeathed to the British Museum, viz.: the first copyright copy of "Clarke's Commentaries," which he had interleaved so as to make twenty-eight volumes, and inserted in it valuable portraits of great men, amounting to between two and three thousand in number. He also had in his house one of the strangest museums, made up of religious relics. But the chief objects of his collections were John Wesley's inkhorn and umbrella, some of Catherine Parr's hair, a scarf of Joanna Southcott's, a piece of the granite of Mount Sinai, broken off by Dr. Clarke's nephew, a canister of prepared meat taken out of the arctic regions by Captain Parry, left in the wreck of the Fury, Robert Burns' drinking cup, Jack Shepard's lantern, and an immense number of autographs.

Old Catholic.—The programme of the Roman "Old Catholic" Committee has been published in the Esperance de Rome. It asks earnestly and emphatically for a reform of the church, which, it says, "has been obstinately denied us," and expresses the conviction that such reform is possible only by going back of the division of the East and West, and resting on the basis of the first eight Christian centuries. The following expresses the doctrinal position of the committee: "Firmly attached to the faith which Christ and his apostles established in the church, we accept, together with the Holy Scriptures, all traditions of a divine origin, and all the legitimate decrees of the Catholic Church. But we reject, in the most absolute manner, all human traditions which have mingled with the deposit of revelation, and the misuse of authority whereby it has been sought to maintain and impose them. We do especially reject the Council of the Vatican, as having lacked both liberty and the ecumenical character, and the dogmas which it decreed we reject as being the consecration of all the errors and abuses previously introduced into the Church Catholic." After saying that "nothing could move us to separate ourselves from the Catholic Church for the purpose of founding a new sect; we acknowledge the lawful authorities which represent that church; but, at the same time, we assert our right and our duty to resist arbitrary and a fortiori iniquitous decrees, which can in no wise bind the conscience of a Christian," the programme recommends that arrangements be made "for the assembling of a truly free and ecumenical council, and for the choice of pastors faithful to the ancient faith, and to that spirit of charity and liberty which should reign in the Church of Christ.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, JULY 25, 1872.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.
ROBT. J. HARP, Publisher.

OFFICE--No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. HARP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR ALABAMA CONFERENCE:
REV. W. A. McCARTY.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
A. W. LAMPKIN, ESQ.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR, D. D.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

REDUCTION.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers hereafter at the following rates:

For One Year	$2 00
For Six Months	1 25
For Three Months	75

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

to all ministers of the gospel, traveling or local, and widows of deceased traveling preachers.

FREE ONE YEAR

to any person forwarding to us four new yearly subscribers with EIGHT DOLLARS.

TELLING EXPERIENCE.

It is a point of importance that truly awakened and converted people have an experience. It is something usually as well defined as any great sorrow or joy, and remains as a present feeling and realization of divine things. A type of Christianity, in which religion is a mere routine and development of prescribed forms and doctrinal opinions, has no experience. It has a personal history, an epoch of sacraments, and the recognition of some definite outward relation to ecclesiastical authority and rites, but there is nothing which can be properly called experience. Experience is the sum of our awakenings, our conviction of sin, the penitential travail, the effort and the victory of faith, and the vicissitudes and progress of holiness in the soul. A living gospel develops these elements of experience wherever the heart is brought under its sway, and demands them as the result and fruit of its application to the conscience. Religion, when it becomes a matter of regeneration and assurance, and of daily conflict and prayer, is at once intensely personal and real. God has done something great and marvelous in the believing soul. The new creature is there, wherein old things are passed away, and all things are become new. It is not fancy or mere imagination—"a cunningly-devised fable" palmed off upon the mind—but an experience. This is a characteristic of vital piety, that it has an experience—a well-defined consciousness of the inward work of the Holy Spirit, and a clear apprehension of the nature and grounds of its hope.

The telling of experience usually follows its possession. This is the tendency of the converted soul: to seek utterance for the new-born emotions, and to tell the story of love and grace. David craved a fitting audience when he exclaimed: "Come and hear, all ye that fear God, and I will tell you what he hath done for my soul." The prophetical books abound in passages of an experimental character, and the New Testament, especially the Epistles, are full of the same thing. Paul's noblest defenses—the finest specimens of eloquence in literature—are but little else than the simple relation of his experience. The duty and the utility of telling are for subsequent reflection; but the first and almost irrepressible desire is to follow the example of the Gadarene, and to publish "how great things" Jesus has done unto us. The early disciples seem to have yielded freely to this afflatus of their first love. The wonderful works of God, and praising God, were constantly upon their tongues. Doctrines were not formulated then, the written gospels scarcely existed, and every convert was a witness and exponent of the truth. It is remarkable how strong this disposition to tell the experience is when a revival influence prevails. True, there are many silent Christians who never speak of their personal feelings and exercises, but it is often owing to the repression of the Spirit that is in them, or to the predominance of wrong views, and a timidity which controls what it does not altogether destroy. They do not speak, but they would give the world if they could. The desire is strong in them, but the expression is held back by a reserve which is full of unrest and dissatisfaction. The fire burns within, there is a longing for utterance, but the word never reaches the lips.

It is evident that God designs that Christians should tell their experience. It is good for themselves as a means of grace, and they are strengthened and refreshed by it. It has especially the effect of enabling them to reach clearer and more definite views of their own spiritual condition, and of detecting those defects which call for correction. There is hardly any other means which so mellows, deepens and strengthens the spiritual life. Not to talk of our religion is to miss of blessings which nothing else can secure. But as helpful and instructive to others, telling experience must be highly estimated. What it expresses is the net result and crystallization of all gracious influences. It is the gospel as felt in the individual life, and as exhibited in all its manifold and varied operations. A genuine experience of converting power, though told in rough words and with stammering tongue, has more of edification in it than the most elaborate sermon. These unwritten biographies, these spiritual monologues, are among the richest treasures of the church and the world. The aggregate of this kind of testimony to the present operations of a supernatural life and power in the hearts of men, is the strongest refutation of materialistic infidelity. Thousands and millions of people, constantly appealing to their own experience in proof that Christianity is a supernatural realization of divine things, is no insignificant fact.

It is, however, a necessity of the religious life, especially of the church life; and the churches which provide best for the expression of experience are likely to be most prosperous and aggressive. In accounting for the progress of Methodism, we are surprised that more stress has not been laid upon this peculiar feature in her economy. To have an experience, and then to tell it, are points equally insisted on. Men and women are alike participants in the love-feasts and class meetings, the almost exclusive object of which is the relation of experience. By these institutions the telling of experience has been kept prominent as the duty and privilege of all believers, and they have in this way kept up the spirituality of the church. Any decline in their interest and observance is an omen of sad import. Our love-feasts should never be omitted from the stated meetings of the church, and the classes where they have been neglected should by all means be restored. Religion is a heartfelt experience of divine power in man, and the expression of it is both a duty and a necessity. We have briefly developed the idea with a view to its bearings upon the individual conscience, as an essential element of practical piety, and also with the ulterior purpose of bringing out the vital importance of our experience meetings. We put the whole matter into the single statement: that religion is an experience, and that this experience should be told. We must keep sharply, persistently to both of these points—have it and tell it. The work of God in the soul must be powerful and assured, the love of Christ a flame, and the believer himself a ready witness to the marvelous light into which he has been called.

WE HAVE RECEIVED the annual catalogue of Central College, Missouri. This institution appears to be under good headway, and with a promising future.

QUESTIONS.

Our respected correspondent who sends us an article from an Episcopal paper, on Methodist Tendencies, has our thanks. The most of the article is made up of caricatures and lies, and is, on the whole, not deserving of serious notice. Methodism will go on all the same with her class meetings and revivals, preaching the gospel to the masses and saving the people, while this dignified little sect of rather less than two hundred thousand members barks and snarls like a poodle after a railroad train. If it were not for Methodism and her revivals the Protestant Episcopal Church would be in a bad way for both preachers and members. Gathering so much of their life and substance from us, they ought to be more respectful. But how can bigotry and decency go together?

The same correspondent writes:

Will you inform me whether the views of Bishop McTyeire, as set forth in a sermon on the Intermediate State, published in the Methodist Pulpit South, are considered orthodox, especially these words: "No one has yet been saved in heaven; no one sent to hell."

We believe our church has uttered no opinion on the subject. There are those who harmonize with Bishop McTyeire, and those who reject his views. We cannot meddle with a Bishop in such high matters; only we would suggest that the novelty of his views lies more in their expression than in their real import. It is, we apprehend, more a difference in the meaning of words than of things. The intermediate state, as distinguished from the final consummation, is comprehensible. It precedes the resurrection and the last judgment, and is by these circumstances different from the ultimate and completed glory, and the final perdition of the ungodly. Whether the terms heaven and hell shall be reserved in their application to the state following the resurrection and the judgment is a matter of taste. Words, rather than doctrines, are involved. Dead sinners are in torment, even as the rich man was while his brethren were alive on earth, and it is of little consequence by what name their state is designated. There is doubtless a hell before the resurrection, and a greater hell afterward. The dead in Christ are with the Savior. So Paul seems to believe when he affirms his desire "to depart and to be with Christ," and declares his willingness "to be absent from the body and to be present with the Lord." Now we know where Christ is, and it is fair to infer that the righteous dead are with him in heaven. We may call this intermediate glory Paradise, but it is heaven in such measure as is possible before the resurrection and the final awards. The broader terms of sheol and hades embrace the distinctive conditions of happiness and of misery, and the states of heaven and hell, as existing prior to the judgment.

Dr. Summers has an inquirer on nearly the same subject, and we are glad to give our readers his clear and authoritative views. The doctor answers his interrogator as follows:

A correspondent informs us that he heard a Methodist preacher state that at the resurrection of Christ all the holy dead were raised and carried with him to heaven, and that before that their spirits were kept in an intermediate state; but now all at death go immediately to heaven or hell. He wants our opinion about this. It is nothing but the popish notion of a Limbus Patrum—a terra incognita, like purgatory. Not a particle of inspiration favors this conceit. When Abel died his spirit went to paradise—a figurative name for heaven; so Enoch and Elijah, only they carried their bodies with them, changed and glorified, of course. The spirit of Jesus, accompanied by that of the penitent thief, went to the same place at death, and that of Jesus returned and took his body thither at the ascension. Thither all the departed faithful are—"absent from the body, present with the Lord," who, we know, "is gone into heaven." They are of course in an intermediate state, and in one sense are not yet made perfect, because they have not their glorified bodies and their final crowns, which will be awarded them all together "at that day." There never was a time when "the spirits of them that departed hence in the Lord" did not "live with him"—"with whom the spirits of the faithful, after they are delivered from the burden of the flesh, are in joy and felicity"—and where they await their several crowns, which will be given them by God at the resurrection, after which they shall "have their perfect consummation and bliss, both in body and soul, in his eternal and everlasting glory."

PRESIDING ELDERS.

A correspondent from the Alabama Conference sends us a brief communication, taken from the St. Louis Advocate, on the presiding eldership, with a request to publish. We give the most of it, as follows:

But as to the men we want for the office, your correspondent is right. We do not want effete functionaries here; neither do we want drones or drum-heads, however young or capable, if the capability be not used.

For the sake of Methodism, give us no district presidents who are too dull for station work. That has been our habit in some instances. Please tell our Bishop presiding this fall not to make any man presiding elder simply because he has been presiding elder for years before. We have been ridden to prostration by them—some of them. Will the Bishop also please put no man on a district who has not been an active, industrious, conscientious pastor. If he is dull, put him under a live presiding elder, who may quicken him into life, or else report him to Conference as too slow to do the work of an evangelist. Give us efficient presiding elders, and the work will go forward. Let our presiding elders be men who have, as pastors, edified the church, built houses of worship, founded schools, secured parsonages, collected moneys and converted men to God.

It is right that these statements, representations and complaints should be heard, and we presume that our Bishops have heard them often enough. Some mistakes will occur under the most vigilant administration. The office in question has several sides, and an average effectiveness in all of its functions is doubtless the desideratum. Then the Bishops have the material before them—the circumstances of families, the general demands of the work—and they cannot always do as they would wish in the selection of men for the position. The best that they can do for the whole work may create some local friction, and sometimes bear the appearance of an inexcusable blunder. We want the first order of ability and effectiveness in the presiding eldership, but neither the Bishop nor his advisers are always to be blamed where this is not realized.

WE NOTICE that Rev. J. M. Pugh, of the Mississippi Conference, and recently president of the female college at Sharon, has accepted the presidency of Marvin College, Waxahachie, Texas. We shall regret Bro. Pugh's departure from his old Conference, but we are glad that our Texas friends have secured him for the important institution over which he is to preside. We see from the circular that the college has a full and able faculty. Dr. F. Olin Dannelly is professor of natural science.

THE ADVERTISEMENT of Randolph Macon College, which appears in our present issue, will call the attention of our readers to one of our oldest and best institutions. The worthy president, Dr. Duncan, is so widely and favorably known that the college needs no further indorsement. This college has turned out many of the most distinguished men of the times, and is still doing a noble work in the education of young men. Mr. James Harrison, A. M., son of our brother, J. P. Harrison, of New Orleans, is the professor of ancient languages.

OUR READERS, who are seeking for a first-class college for girls, will not fail to notice the advertisement of Martha Washington College, which appears this week. The representations made by Dr. Cunnyngham and President Jones can be relied upon. For economy, healthfulness and high grade of instruction this institution stands among the first in the land.

THE SOUTHERN FIELD AND FACTORY for July is an excellent number.

WITH many readers, brilliancy of style passes for affluence of thought; they mistake buttercups in the grass for immeasurable gold mines under ground.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY.

Besides what Bishop Keener wrote about the commencement at Greensboro, here is what Dr. Winfield says in the columns of the Western Methodist:

Sunday morning, June 30.—Beautiful day; large crowd. Ask Dr. Summers about the sermon. The doctor himself was to have preached at eight P. M., before the class of young ministers attending the University, but the preacher in the morning stole his thunder, and the thunder in the evening with the rain kept us all at home. Doctor, you owe us that sermon. I will not write of the commencement exercises in extenso, as others have promised. The exercises were all pleasant and on the best model, excepting the sermon, of course. The two literary societies had a magnificent programme, and it was well executed. The address before them by Hon. David Clopton, on Communism, was really grand and truly Christian. The speeches of the graduating class I never heard excelled. All of them were so fine I will draw no invidious distinction, only to say that the one on the Divinity of Beauty was truly sublime; but then it could not be otherwise, as Dr. Mitchell says the young man's father always attends Quarterly Conference. The Baccalaureate of Dr. Andrews was excellent—could not have been better. The ex tempore talk of Bishop Keener was as apples of gold in pictures of silver. A pleasant social gathering on Wednesday night, and another happy commencement of the Southern University was over. Our University is happily located. Although the breath of war has swept away the large fortunes of the citizens of Greensboro, they still have a splendid competency, and know how to dispense an elegant hospitality. A more refined people is nowhere to be found. My stay was very pleasant indeed. I am much indebted to the noble president and his family. It was a constant treat. All vied to show a live Arkansas man a little kind attention. Tell Dr. McFerrin ours were magnificent dinners, but they were not prepared for a Bishop—oh! no. Arkansas and Nashville were the order of the day. Altogether, it was a time of rich intellectual and social enjoyment—a beautiful picture to gild the walls of memory! A full chapter of the University next week.

BALANCED MINDS.

How to acquire and sustain a well-balanced mind is a question of vital importance to all, especially to professing Christians. Without this state of mind there can be but little true happiness. To be thrown off our balance is like a bird by storm-winds driven from its native shore, away out over the bosom of the restless ocean, where there is no place of rest; to fly on weary wings from point to point, in the vain search for some place of repose and shelter from the raging elements. It is to walk perpetually over the quicksands that threaten to swallow us at every step, and keep our minds in a state of ceaseless torture. It is to be perpetually expectant and still disappointed of the things anticipated. It blinds despair with hope, and flings a dash of bitterness in every cup of joy.

All manner of troubles, in all manner of shapes, come to those whose minds are unsettled, unbalanced—all arising from the fact that such persons have failed to take heaven's receipt for the cure of their disease. And what is that receipt? Here it is: "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart, and lean not unto thine own understanding." It is simple, it is plain, but it is a sure cure for the ills referred to. As an assurance of the validity of this prescription, it is said: "Happy is the man that maketh the Lord his trust." Again: "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on thee, because he trusteth in thee." Again: "They that trust in the Lord shall be as Mount Zion, which cannot be removed." How long will men suffer affliction with an infallible remedy before them? Yet the want of a well-settled, well-balanced mind is one of the sorest evils among men. Restlessly they search for the cure, when to every one there is a God-given remedy—an unwavering trust in the goodness and mercy of God.—Raleigh Christian Advocate.

THE sixth annual catalogue of the Kentucky Wesleyan University makes a hopeful exhibit of patronage, and presents a curriculum and organization most satisfactory. The president, Rev. B. Arbogast, A. M., is a man of broad culture and large experience. The University is located at Millersburg, Bourbon county, Kentucky, a most healthful and beautiful region.

GOD has so made the mind of man that a peculiar deliciousness resides in the fruits of personal industry.—Wilberforce.

PREACHERS AND SINGERS.

The children of this world are more liberal in their generation than the children of light. Many excellent ministers labor a whole year for two or three hundred dollars, which a singer or a player will pocket in one night. Madam Patti is to have $8,000 a month for singing at St. Petersburg next season; Miss Nilsson $7,000, and Madam Volpini $4,500. Miss Nilsson has just been paid $1,000 a night for twelve nights at Drury Lane, and Madam Patti has $600 a night at Covent Garden. Madam Paulina Lucca is to have $7,000 a month in gold, and a benefit, for singing in the United States during the coming season, and Mademoiselle Fioretti, the danseuse, is to have $5,000 a month at the Scala theater, Milan. It may be said that the latter sing and play for this world, and the former preach and pray for the world to come. True, but the laborer is worthy of his hire, even in this world—and so hath the Lord ordained. Churches must see to this. Indeed, all classes of people are interested in the institutions of Christianity, which relate to both worlds, and which cannot be maintained without a class of men set apart to this work. What would our civilization be worth without Christianity? And where would Christianity be without the church and ministry?—Nashville Christian Advocate.

DO NOT SEND MONEY BY MAIL.

The uncertainty and irregularity of the mails render it impracticable for the Publishing House to take any risk on money sent in this way. Every day complaints reach us that orders have been sent for books or periodicals that have not come to hand.

In one instance five letters were written and mailed at a leading railroad town within twelve hours of Nashville, not one of which ever found its way to our House.

Brethren, sometimes thinking that we are careless or indifferent, failing to receive replies from us, decline further correspondence, and thus leave the matter unexplained. All orders addressed to us, and which reach us, are promptly filled, or explanations sent; so that if any one sends an order, and should not hear from it, he may know that it has been lost on the route.

Send money only by post office order, draft, in exchange, or by express. (Do not, in any instance, send money in registered letter, as this is a notice to any dishonest postmaster along the route. Where a preacher cannot procure post office order, draft or exchange on any of the Northern, Western or Southern cities, or cannot send by express, then let him order what he wants; whether periodicals or books, and retain the money until he can forward it in the way specified.

In all orders, will brethren please append the name of the Conference to which they belong to their names?

A. H. REDFORD, Agent.
NASHVILLE, TENN., July 13, 1872.

WEEK OF PRAYER.

It is recommended by the Bishops of the church that the week of August 11–18 be observed for special religious services throughout our communion—the Friday included, as a day of fasting.

The following objects are set forth, upon which our prayers and supplications may be united:

That the Lord would send more laborers into his vineyard.

For his blessing upon our institutions of learning, and the conversion of the young.

For the increase of his kingdom among men.

DEATH OF THE REV. CHARLES R. JEWETT.—Dr. Haygood, who returned last week from Georgia, gives us the sad intelligence of the death of the Rev. Charles R. Jewett, of the South Georgia Conference. He had been in feeble health during the year. He passed away in peace, July 10, at the home of his father-in-law, Mr. Howard, eight miles from Macon. He was one of the most effective ministers of the Georgia Conference.—Nashville Christian Advocate.

WHILE there is much misery and sin in the world, a man has no right to lull himself to sleep in a paradise of self-improvement and self-enjoyment, in which there is but one supreme Adam, one perfect specimen of humanity, namely, himself. He ought to go out and work—fight, if it must be, wherever duty calls him.

WESLEY'S ADVICE ON PRAYER MEETINGS.—"Let the prayer be very short—a few minutes—and frequent intervals of singing; and let different persons pray for different things."

IF MEN would but hate themselves as they do their neighbors, it would be a good step toward loving their neighbors as they do themselves.—M. Laurin.

Married.

On the tenth of July, 1872, by Rev. R. A. Davis, Mr. CARTER H. BRADLEY to Miss ELLA DAVIS, eldest daughter of Rev. J. S. Davis, of the Louisiana Conference, all of Caldwell parish, Louisiana.

Raleigh Christian Advocate please copy.

Obituaries.

GEORGE A. REGAN was born in Kentucky, May 25, 1818, and died in Perry county, Alabama, May 15, 1872. He retired at night in his usual health; before morning the summons came, and his spirit left its tenement of clay. He probably died of apoplexy, or something of that sort. His wife knew nothing of his death until morning. He seems to have died during his sleep, without a struggle. Although called away thus suddenly, and without leaving a dying testimony, we trust he was ready. He joined the church when a young man, and those who knew him best testify that he led a consistent Christian life. He was the only member of the church at Hamburg that would pray in public. Having stayed with him on Saturday night before his death, I learned that he had been neglecting family prayer for some time, and I urged him to recommence it. His wife tells me that he did so on Monday night.

When he was but a child his father removed from Kentucky to Alabama. In 1842 he married Miss Nancy Morris, by whom he had four children—three sons and one daughter. These are all grown. His wife died in the early part of 1859, and in December of the same year he married Miss Mary Y. Stilwinder, who is now left a widow with five children of her own.

Bro. Regan was a member of the Masonic fraternity, and was buried with Masonic honors. The burial service of our church was read by Bro. J. Bancroft.

W. A. MONTGOMERY.

DIED, near Pattersonville, St. Mary parish, Louisiana, June 8, Mrs. MARY M. KNIGHT, in the ninetieth year of her age.

She was raised and educated in the Church of Rome, and she continued nominally a member of that church until her sixty-fourth year. In the year 1847 she embraced religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South, of which church she continued a faithful and acceptable member until her death. Her great age and her many infirmities prevented her attending the house of God for several years before her death, but at her special request the sacrament was frequently administered to her at her home. She frequently expressed her astonishment at the strange providence of God that left her so infirm and useless an inhabitant of earth so long, while multitudes were called away in the midst of health, strength and usefulness. But when reminded that her prayers were yet needed in behalf of the church, she cheerfully acquiesced, adding that if her prayers could be of any benefit, she was willing to live to pray for the church. And her last years were truly devoted to the great work of pouring out her soul in prayer to God for the church. Who can tell to how great an extent these prayers have already been answered, and will yet be answered, in the conversion of her numerous descendants from the errors of Romanism to Protestant Christianity?

Her final sickness was rather the result of extreme age, and the failing of the powers of nature, than any particular type of disease. The silver cord was loosened; the wheel was broken at the cistern. The dust returned to dust, and the spirit went to God who gave it. Her dying testimony to the supporting grace of God was clear and decided. Her children have abundant assurance that their loss is her infinite gain.

G. BRIGHT.

Agt's & Publisher's Department

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS OF LETTERS and Funds, Received by Mail, for the week ending July 20, 1872:

A—D Appleton & Co 3 lots, W R Alexander, American Tract Society, Edwin Alden 2 lots $12, F Alexander.

B—James F Blackman, Mrs T W Briscoe $2, John Buchanan, G D Bustamente, W P Barton, Brown & Jukes, Burg, Warren & Co, J W Boswell, Bigbow & Main, D A Ballard, Miss Kate Baymard, W E Ballard $2.

C—Robert Carter & Bros, A M Collins, Son & Co, W T Copeland 2 lots, N A Cravens, Connecticut Publishing Co, A W Campbell $4, R Crawford, C W Carter $75, Connecticut Valley Paper Co, F R Carlos, A W Crawford, E H Cushing, Carlton, Zahm & Roberts, W G E Cunaynghan, P C Cheney & Co, W J Carlton, Claremont Manufacturing Company, R Clegg $5.

D—Joel T Daves, W B Dennis, D W Dillehay $2, J P Drake, George Dicks & Sons, Dodd & Mead, Joseph G Ditman, Davis & Armstrong.

E—J V Enochs, A G Elliot.

G—Malcolm M Graham $5.95, W W Graham $3.04, James A Godfrey, John Gibson, A D Gaskill.

H—Thomas W Hines, Hitchcock & Walden, John R Heartsell $20, J B Harper, Jos W Hall $1, Chas W Harris, Geo Hurdle, A T Hussell $7, Jas H Houston $5, R Hoe & Co, Perry Hawkins $4, G C Halsted.

J—H F Johnson, Mrs. S A S Jones, Mrs M J Johnson $5, J D Johnson.

K—C Kelmer & Son, J M Kidd.

M—H H Montgomery $10, McNeil, Irving & Rich, Chas Magorge & Co, J M McKee, G R McHenry, E H & G R Meneely $40, Martin & Goodman $36.75, W & A Moder, L P Meador, John Mays, Manning & Peckham, M C Manley, Thos H Morris $58.85, John McLean, John A Miller, Geo Mayo $2.

N—A J Norwood, Henry Noraman, E Nicholson $2, Thos Nugent & Co, Nashua Card and Paper Co, C J Nugent.

O—Orrs & Co, Otsego Paper Works, N E Oprey.

P—U B Phillips, Geo W T Price, James S Parker, 1 J Price, L A Pon $2, John B Packer $10.

R—W C Rowland, J T Randall $3, A H Redford, E E F Ross, Geo Robertson & Son, T G Richardson, John Ritchey, J C Reed $6, A Riser $37.88.

S—H H Stollenwreck & Bro, W W Sheperd & Co, Belle W Stanard $2.60, Thos M Smith, F W Sharbrough, Stephens & Thompson, Geo S Scofield, J W Schermerhorn, W F Shelman, C B Stuart, John R Swain $4.

V—Van Benthuysen & Co.

W—Chas Wells & Co 2 lots, Waverly Paper Mills, D P White, John F Wynne $18.75, L C Woodruff & Co, T B White, Thos Ward White, E C & P H Warren, John Wilkinson $10, J M Weems, Jas W Wilcox & Co.

ADVOCATE PRESS FOR SALE.—Our press is too small. Our present size, 29 by 43 inches, is the largest we can print on it. The increase of business and demands of our readers require that we should part with our beautiful Hoe cylinder printing machine, which, with eighteen pounds of steam, will print from thirteen hundred to fifteen hundred per hour. See the work, as in our issue, and call or send a competent judge on Mondays or Wednesdays to see it in motion, if you wish to buy. We will entertain propositions from first-class manufacturers for exchange. Address

ROBT. J. HARP, Publisher.

MR. E. E. F. ROSS, our resident advertising agent, is now on a brief tour through the West and North, and we commend him to the attention of our patrons, and shall be thankful for courtesies extended to him. They are assured that Mr. Ross has no other business, but devotes his entire time to the paper, and is entitled to all the consideration of one of its business corps. Mr. Ross may be found at the Sherman House, No. 1 West Twenty-Sixth street, New York.

OUR AGENT FOR LONDON AND LIVERPOOL.—Robert Babington, Esq., will represent the claims of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE during the season in London and Liverpool, and other parts of the United Kingdom.

THE BECKWITH SEWING MACHINE.—The poorest family can now afford to have a sewing machine; the wealthier can have several. Ten dollars cannot be invested to a better purpose than in the purchase of one of these machines. Simple and good, a child can operate it. See advertisement.

THE LAST DAYS of the great clearance sale of dry goods at Braselman & Adams' are approaching, and it behooves those in search of bargains to call at once, or send their orders to Nos. 586 and 588 Magazine street. Orders from the country will receive prompt attention.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Beyond a Doubt.—More diseases are the result of the derangement of the Liver than from any other cause. When that organ is diseased, every part of the system sympathizes with it, and general prostration and decline is the result. The best, safest and speediest remedy for Liver Complaint, and all the diseases that follow, is TUTT'S VEGETABLE LIVER PILLS. They are peculiarly adapted to the climate of the South. They are sold by druggists everywhere.

AUGUSTA, GA., Nov. 1, 1869.

DR. WILLIAM H. TUTT—Sir: For several years past I have been subject to bilious attacks, and always was a firm believer that there was no remedy for the complaint but mercury, until about a year and a half ago, as an experiment, I tried your Vegetable Liver Pills, and was agreeably surprised to find that they accomplished all the results, and more besides, of Blue Mass or Calomel, without any of their bad effects. I was always an unbeliever in patent medicines, but can say this for your Pills: that since I commenced using them I have not taken a particle of mercury in any shape, and I consider this fact an important one, and one that those who are in the habit of taking mercury for bilious diseases can properly appreciate. I cordially recommend them as the best Liver medicine ever introduced.

Yours, etc., E. H. GRAY,
Jy25 1t No. 249 Broad street.

Dr. Tutt's Hair Dye Acts Like Magic.

Best and Oldest Family Medicine.—Sanford's Liver Invigorator.—A purely Vegetable Cathartic and Tonic, for Dyspepsia, Constipation, Debility, Sick-headache, Bilious attacks, and all derangements of Liver, Stomach and Bowels. Ask your druggist for it. Beware of imitations. Jal1 1yeow

Use Dr. Henry's World's Tonic and BLOOD PURIFIER.—It is the great household remedy, pleasant to take, yet potent for the prevention and cure of diseases. It is better than Bitters, Cordials, Buchu or Sarsaparilla. Sold by druggists. Jy18 1y

Dr. Henry's Root and Plant Pills.—Mild yet thorough; no nausea or griping; entirely vegetable; great Liver remedy. Price, 25 cents. Sold by druggists. Jy18 1y

Mrs. Whitcomb's Syrup.—The great soothing remedy. Price only 25 cents. Gives rest to the mother and health to the child. Sold by druggists. Jy18 1y

Undisputed Facts.—It has been truly and significantly said that domestic happiness is more dependent on good digestion than virtuous creeds or moral codes. If the dogma holds, the oracle can be consulted by a prompt application to Price, the Delphic author of the Celebrated Aromatic Stomach Bitters. Wherever, within the length and breadth of the land, Price's Bitters have penetrated, every household has been illumined by the sunshine of an unclouded joy, and every family reveled in the sweets of health and contentment. The sparkling eye, the ruddy cheek, the cheerful smile and happy glance, no less than the elastic step and the unfaltering tread, what are they but the eloquent telltales of some vitalizing elixir? No secret Rotany holds the charm, no scientific alchemy creates the spell. The days of miracles are gone; the magic, mysteriously working wonders have passed away, and the age is a plain, practical one; give us a simple tonic that, by a happy amalgamation, restores to energy and strength the enervated system. Take Price's Celebrated Aromatic Stomach Bitters, and you bid an eternal farewell to such unwelcome guests as dyspepsia, indigestion, nervousness, neuralgia, flatulency and debility.

JAMES W. PRICE & Co., manufacturers and sole proprietors, Lock Box 166, New Orleans, Louisiana. Sold by druggists, grocers and dealers throughout the South. Je27 1m

Have your Printing and Binding Done at

THE PELICAN JOB OFFICE,

113 and 114 Poydras St., New Orleans.

Jal8 1y

The Equitable Life Assurance Society, New York.

Assets, $18,000,000. Income, $8,000,000.
Branch office—33 CAMP STREET.

A. P. CLEVELAND,
fe8 1y General Agent.

Caution!—Every genuine box of DR. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS bears the signature of Fleming Brothers, Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, and their private United States stamp. ☞ Take no other; the market is full of imitations.

It is the popular verdict that people who have been accustomed to the use of Bitters or Cordials are obliged eventually to resort to McLane's Liver Pills for permanent relief. ap25 6m

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

S. COLLINS & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS OF

PRINTING INK,

Office and Depot—26 Frankfort Street,

Jy25 6m NEW YORK.

AGENTS WANTED TO SELL PARTON'S LIFE OF

HORACE GREELEY,

The Patriot, Statesman and Philanthropist.

Every citizen who is interested in the remarkable career of our next President should read the truthful story of his life, as told by the greatest American Biographer. A work of rare interest, and full of instruction. For circulars and terms address

NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.,
Jy25 2m Memphis, Tenn.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

WESLEYAN FEMALE INSTITUTE,

STAUNTON, VIRGINIA,

WILL BEGIN ITS TWENTY-THIRD ANNUAL Session

SEPTEMBER 19, 1872.

Than this no college ranks higher. The president, Rev. W. A. HARRIS, is aided by twenty teachers and officers. System of teaching thorough, and based upon the plan of the University of Virginia. English Science and Literature are taught by experienced graduates of our first universities and colleges. French is taught by a native master of the language; Music by six professors and teachers, among whom are two of the most distinguished vocal teachers of the South. Great attention paid to the special training of the voice.

This is one of the healthiest climates in the world. Its marked effect is the rapid promotion of the physical health and vigor of our pupils. Those who come here from the South, with feeble constitutions, chills and climatic diseases, are entirely restored.

Buildings elegant—fanned by the purest breezes, and commanding the most magnificent rural and mountain scenery for thirty miles along the beautiful Valley of Virginia, making it one of the most delightful college homes in the Union.

It is attended by over one hundred boarding pupils, from the States reaching from Maryland to Texas.

EXTRACTS FROM TESTIMONIALS.

From the Baltimore Conference.

The teachers are efficient and faithful; the pupils are studious, healthy and happy. No college for our daughters ranks higher.

From Mrs. (General) John B. Floyd.

* * * If I had daughters to educate, and were going to Europe to remain until they had completed their collegiate course, I know of no gentleman I would select before Mr. Harris, nor any family than his I would prefer to leave them with, feeling satisfied that they would not only be thoroughly and properly educated, but raised to suit my ideas of refinement and taste.

From Judge John N. Hewbren, M. A., University of Virginia.

I regard the Wesleyan Female Institute, under the management of Rev. William A. Harris, as one of the very best and most attractive schools in the State.

From Hon. John B. Baldwin.

The Wesleyan Female Institute is managed by a gentleman who is, by character, capacity and experience, admirably adapted to his position, and is surrounded by influences which make it, in all respects, a most desirable place for the care and education of the daughters of Christian parents.

From Prof. William E. Peters, LL. D., of University of Virginia.

* * * The sterling worth of Prof. Harris as a man, his Christian character, his devotion to duty, and his mature scholarship, as also his successful experience as a teacher, furnish ample assurance that young ladies committed to his charge will enjoy advantages of moral and intellectual training rarely found.

From Rev. William E. Mausey, D. D.

* * * From personal knowledge I believe that, as the president of a female college, Rev. William A. Harris has no superior; indeed, within the purview of my acquaintance he has no equal.

From Rev. S. S. Rossell, D. D.

We believe, regret sincerely, and as confidently affirm, Harris is the best home school for the daughters of our church with which we are acquainted.

From Bishop E. M. Marvin, D. D.

The Wesleyan Female Institute is an honor to the church. Instruction is thorough. All classes stand high. In music, advantages are offered of very high order. The most talented professors are employed, and neither pains nor expense are spared to make this department eminent. The school is very prosperous, and deserves to be so.

TERMS FOR THE ENTIRE COLLEGIATE YEAR.

Board and tuition in the Collegiate course, $240. Music and other extras moderate.

For catalogue of fifty-four pages address

REV. W. A. HARRIS,
Jy25 2t Staunton, Virginia.

UNIVERSITY OF LOUISIANA,

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT,

NEW ORLEANS.

FACULTY—A. H. CENAS, M. D., Emeritus Professor of Obstetrics.

JAMES JONES, M. D., Professor of Obstetrics.

T. G. RICHARDSON, M. D., Professor of Surgery.

SAMUEL M. BEMISS, M. D., Professor of Medicine.

STANFORD E. CHAILLE, M. D., Professor of Physiology.

FRANK HAWTHORN, M. D., Professor of Materia Medica.

JOSEPH JONES, M. D., Professor of Chemistry.

SAMUEL LOGAN, M. D., Prof. of Anatomy.

E. SURCHON, M. D., Demonstrator of Anatomy.

The Thirty-fifth annual course of instruction in this Department will commence on Monday, the eighteenth of November, 1872, and terminate on the second Saturday of March, 1873. Preliminary Lectures on Clinical Medicine and Surgery will be delivered in the amphitheater of the Charity Hospital, beginning on the eighteenth of October, without any charge to students. The Anatomical rooms will be opened at the same time.

The members of the Faculty are Visiting Physicians and Surgeons to the Charity Hospital, where more than six thousand patients are annually treated, and give instruction daily at the bedside of the sick. The practical advantages thus offered to students are unsurpassed.

FEES.—For all the Lectures, $140; Matriculation, $5; Practical Anatomy, $10; Graduation, $30. Payment required in advance.

For further information address

T. G. RICHARDSON, M. D.,
Jy25 1m Dean.

RANDOLPH-MACON COLLEGE,

Ashland, Hanover Co., Va.,

OFFERS, ON VERY LOW TERMS, THE advantages of thorough instruction, high grade of scholarship, best religious influences in a refined community, and at a location remarkable for healthfulness—just sixteen miles north of Richmond, on the R., F. and P. Railroad. Only $110 will pay all necessary for the half session! For catalogue address

REV. JAS. A. DUNCAN, D. D.,
President, or
REV. ALEX. G. BROWN, Sec.,
Jy25 2m P. O., Ashland, Va.

AGENTS WANTED for the Autobiography of HORACE GREELEY. A new illustrated edition, now ready. Get this, the only edition written by himself and indorsed by the Tribune; and our 1872 CAMPAIGN MANUAL for all parties, just out; price, $1.50. One agent sold 80 in three days. Splendid Steel Portraits of Greeley, also of Grant. $300 a month made selling the above.

E. B. TREAT, Publisher,
Jy25 1m 805 Broadway, N. Y.

WANTED.—BY A SINGLE LADY OF this city, a thorough graduate in the Collegiate course, with the best references, a SCHOOL, or a situation in a school. Would not object to a situation in the country. Address LETTER "A," Advocate Office, 112 Camp street, New Orleans. Jy25 1m

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S

STEEL PENS,

OF THE OLD STANDARD QUALITY.

TRADE MARK: JOSEPH GILLOTT, Or Descriptive Name and Designating Number. Warranted.

The well-known Original and Popular Nos.,

303.....404.....170.....351,

having been assumed by other Makers, we desire to caution the public in respect to said imitations. ☞ ASK FOR GILLOTT'S.

JOS. GILLOTT & SONS,
Jy25 1y 91 John street, N. Y.

MARTHA WASHINGTON COLLEGE,

ABINGDON, VA.,

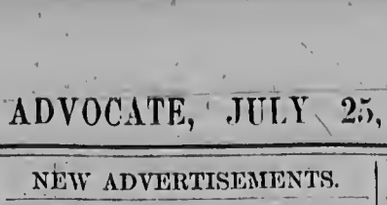
ON THE VIRGINIA AND TENNESSEE RAILROAD.

$105 IN ADVANCE will pay Board and Tuition for five months in this institution, beautifully situated amid the mountains. For healthfulness, high grade and extent of instruction, and excellence of facilities, no institution in the land surpasses this. Session begins SEPTEMBER 19.

For catalogue or particulars apply to
REV. W. G. E CUNNYNGHAM, D. D.,
Or R. W. JONES, M. A., President.
Jy25 2m

LOOK TO YOUR CHILDREN.

The Great Soothing Remedy!



MRS. WHITCOMB'S SIRUP. Cures Colic and Griping in the Bowels, and facilitates the process of Teething. Subdues Convulsions and overcomes all diseases incident to Infants and Children. PRICE, 25 CENTS.

MRS. WHITCOMB'S SIRUP. Cures Diarrhea, Dysentery and Summer Complaint in Children of all ages. Relieves pain, weakness or exhaustion in 15 or 20 minutes; giving tone and power to the system. PRICE, 25 CENTS.

It is the—Infants' and Children's great Soothing Remedy. In all disorders brought on by teething or any other cause.

Be particular to call for MRS. WHITCOMB'S SIRUP, and take no other.

Prepared by the GRAFTON MEDICINE CO., St. Louis, Mo. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicine everywhere. Jy25 1yeow

Are You a Bankrupt?—Do not resent this question, reader. It is not an impertinence. We have no right to inquire into your business affairs, and don't intend to. But are you Bankrupt in Health? If so, recruit, regulate and renovate your insolvent system with Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient.

Turn its reserves of latent strength and vitality into active, vital capital with that most agreeable of all tonics, that mildest of evacuants, that most genial of stomachics, that most salubrious of exhilarants. It puts dyspepsia and biliousness to flight, cures constipation, braces the nerves, clears the brain, and refreshes, reanimates and purifies the whole physique. Sold by all druggists. Jy25 2t

BUY ME AND I'LL DO YOU GOOD

DR. HENRY'S ROOT & PLANT PILLS.

By cleansing the blood and arousing the liver and secretive organs to a healthy action, Dr. Henry's Root and Plant Pills cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, such as Headache, Pain in the Side, Numbness of the Hands and Feet, Dullness, Chilliness, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Loss of Appetite, Bilious Dysentery, Kidney Affections, Constipation, Debility, Fevers of all kinds, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body, or obstruction of its functions.

Being free from mercury and other poisons, they can be taken at all times and under all circumstances, without regard to diet, business or pleasure.

They stimulate the weakened and distempered parts into healthy action, giving them strength to disburden themselves and throw off the obstructions which are the first cause of disease, without producing either nausea or griping.

All heavy and drowsy sensations, which are the forerunners of direful diseases, such as Apoplexy, Paralytic Strokes, etc., are effectually warded off by a few doses of these searching Pills.

Full directions around each box, in English, German, French and Spanish. Price, 25 Cents a Box.

Prepared by the GRAFTON MEDICINE CO., St. Louis, Mo. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicine everywhere. Jy25 1yeow

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS A BOX FOR BEAUTIFUL INITIAL PAPER

AND ENVELOPES,

by mail to any address.

ROBT. J. HARP, Agent,
Jy18 2t 112 Camp street.

PIANO AT A BARGAIN.

A MAGNIFICENT SQUARE PIANO, Seven Octave, solid Rosewood frame, beautifully carved, front board Pearl inlaid, having been made to order by a first-class maker, will be sold at ONE-THIRD COST PRICE within next thirty days. Address

PIANO, care ADVOCATE Office,
Jy18 1m 112 Camp street.

T. W. HOUSE,

39 and 41 Main Street, Houston, Texas,

BANKER AND EXCHANGE DEALER.

Collections made and promptly remitted.
feb1 6m

FOR SCHOOL BOOKS,

MAILED FREE to any address on receipt of price, send to

ROBT. J. HARP, Agent,
Jy18 1m 112 Camp street.

WANTED.—A Gentleman and his Wife (both graduates) desire to secure first-class positions in some Seminary or Academy. Would not object to the control of some large Public School. They have had years of professional experience, and understand the most approved methods of Normal School management. Testimonials and references furnished. Address TEACHERS, Fort Calhoun, Washington county, Nebraska, until August 15. Je27 6t

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

TUSKALOOSA FEMALE COLLEGE,

TUSKALOOSA, ALABAMA.

THE NEXT SESSION OPENS SEPTEMBER 23, 1872.

The beautiful and healthy city of Tuskaloosa, Alabama, is unsurpassed as a location.

The Faculty will consist of three Professors and eight or ten Lady Assistants.

Course of study thorough. Domestic arrangements complete. Young ladies' sleeping apartments elegantly furnished and carpeted. Health department includes a finely-conducted Gymnasium. This College is believed to be equal to the best in the United States, and the cheapest in the South. Special advantages for orphan children whose guardians wish to furnish them a home and school in one. For particulars and catalogue address the proprietor,

REV. R. F. LARRABEE,
Jy18 3m Tuskaloosa, Alabama.

Kentucky Wesleyan University,

MILLERSBURG, KENTUCKY.

SESSION FOR 1872-73 OPENS SEPTEMBER 26, 1872, and closes June 4, 1873.

The expense of the entire session can be brought within $240 by those who pay tuition, and $40 less by those who come on scholarships. All bills due the University are payable strictly in advance. Board bills are payable monthly.

This University is situated in the heart of the Blue Grass region of Kentucky. Climate invigorating and healthful. The Faculty of Instructors is now full. Persons seeking a good school for their sons are invited to correspond with the President, or A. G. Stitt, Financial Secretary, or to send for catalogue.

Jy18 10t B. ARROGAST, President.

HOMŒOPATHIC DOMESTIC MEDICINE.

BY LAURIE & M'CLATCHEY.—FIRST American from the Twenty-first English edition. 1,037 Pages Octavo. Price, $5.

This is the most complete work on Domestic Practice in the English language. Twenty-one thousand copies of it are in circulation in England and in this country. Two full editions sold within less than twelve months.

A full set of Remedies (103 vials,) in a solid Mahogany case, will be furnished for $12. Book and case will be sent, carefully packed, to any address, on receipt of $17.

Address BOERICKE & TAFEL,
Homeopathic Pharmaceutist and Medical Publishing House,
145 Grand st, New York.
☞ Established in 1835. Jy11 3m

PUBLICATIONS FOR ALL

Prominent Benevolent Organizations.

FRATERNITY.

100,000 SOLD!—Masonic, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Red Men, Mechanics, Temperance, etc.

Sale unrivaled by anything heretofore offered. Agents with no experience are selling 20 Pictures and upward a day. One of our agents has cleared over $1,200 in three months. The Brethren welcome these works. Our inducements are UNPRECEDENTED. Our commissions are positively one-fourth larger than any other house does or CAN offer. Send for circular of Order to which you belong, giving No. of your Lodge, and state where you saw this advertisement. You will certainly engage with us.

J. HALE POWERS & CO.,
Fraternity Publishers.
my9 7m Cincinnati, Ohio.

For Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FINE-TONED, WARRANTED, LOW-PRICED. Descriptive circular sent free.

BLYMER, NORTON & CO.,
661-663 W. Eighth st., Cincinnati, O.
Ja25 26teow

AGENTS WANTED, everywhere, for

The Home of God's People.

The grandest and most successful new book out. It contains nearly 200 magnificent Engravings. $2,500 per annum can be made by any energetic male or female agent in taking orders for this valuable, fascinating and popular work. Our circulars (sent free) will convince you of this, give you our terms, full particulars, etc.

QUEEN CITY PUBLISHING CO.,
my30 3meow Cincinnati, Ohio.

HISTORY OF THE GREAT REFORMATION.

Now ready, complete in one volume, the People's Illustrated Edition of D'Aubigne's Great Work, of over 1,000 pages, with numerous engravings, and maps on steel and wood.

AGENTS WANTED.—Send $1.75 for outfit, and secure your choice of territory at once. Circulars, terms and advance sheets free.

WILLIAM FLINT & CO.,
my2 3meow Savannah, Ga.

STATE OF LOUISIANA,

PARISH OF ORLEANS,

CITY OF NEW ORLEANS.

BE IT KNOWN that on this twentieth day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, and of the Independence of the United States of America the ninety-sixth, before me, ANDREW HERO, JR., a Notary Public in and for the Parish of Orleans, State of Louisiana, duly commissioned and qualified, and in the presence of the witnesses hereinafter named and undersigned, personally came and appeared the several persons, residents of this city, whose names are hereto subscribed, who declared that, availing themselves of the provisions of the Statutes of Louisiana relative to the organization of CORPORATIONS in this State, they have covenanted and agreed, and do by these presents covenant and agree, and bind themselves, and those whom they represent, to form themselves into a corporation for the objects, and under the stipulations, regulations and obligations following, to wit:

ARTICLE FIRST.

The name and style of this corporation shall be THE CONSOLIDATED PORTABLE GAS-LIGHT COMPANY OF NEW ORLEANS.

ARTICLE SECOND.

The domicile of this Association shall be the city of New Orleans, in the State of Louisiana, and its object shall be the manufacture, sale and use of Carburetted Hydrogen Gas, and the manufacture and sale of Gas Machines; and the sale of the right to use said machines in the States of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Arkansas and Florida. The company shall also have power to purchase patent rights for the manufacture, use and sale of other gas machines than those now owned by them for the above-named States, or for any other States for which they may acquire patents.

ARTICLE THIRD.

The said corporation shall have and enjoy succession by its corporate name for the period of twenty five years; shall contract, sue and be sued. It shall hold, receive, purchase, sell and otherwise convey, as well as mortgage and hypothecate, under its corporate name, property, both real and personal, movable and immovable; shall name and appoint such managers, directors and officers as its interest or convenience may require; it shall make and establish such by-laws, rules and regulations for the proper management of its business and affairs as may be necessary and proper, and shall possess generally all such powers and privileges as are given by law to corporations. All legal processes shall be served on the president of the company. The company shall have a seal with such device as the Board of Directors may determine.

ARTICLE FOURTH.

The capital stock of this corporation shall be Fifty Thousand Dollars, divided into five hundred shares of One Hundred Dollars each, two hundred and forty shares of which are to be declared full-paid and transferred to the present owners of the patent rights and franchises which are to form the basis of the operations of this Association; and are to be in full payment for the transfer to the company of all such rights and franchises. Ten per centum of all other stock subscribed shall be paid at the time of subscription; ten per centum more within thirty days; and ten per centum more within the next thirty days, making in all thirty per centum of subscription to the capital stock to be paid in cash within sixty days from date of subscription. The remainder may be called for by the Board of Directors in installments not to exceed ten per centum within any thirty consecutive days.

All installments called for shall be paid within ten days after due notice be given thereof, and any neglect or refusal to pay the same shall forfeit to the corporation the entire stock of such delinquent stockholder, together with the amount paid thereon and all accumulations, interest or benefit thereto belonging; provided, that the Board of Directors may extend said payments for a term not exceeding sixty days, upon the payment of interest thereon at the rate of eight per cent. per annum.

ARTICLE FIFTH.

The capital stock of this corporation may be increased to ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS, or any part thereof, whenever deemed necessary by the Board of Directors, and they shall have the right of fixing the time and manner of paying the same; provided, that subscriptions to any increase of the capital stock shall be open first for ten legal days to those already stockholders, pro rata, on the amount of stock owned by each, and if not all taken up, then secondly to the stockholders at will for three legal days, after which any remaining stock may be open for public subscription.

ARTICLE SIXTH.

Dividends may be declared by the Board of Directors, either annually, semi-annually or quarterly; provided, however, that where the amount of such dividend may exceed the rate of ten per cent. per annum on amount paid up on stock, all such excess of ten per cent. per annum shall be credited upon any unpaid balance of the subscribed stock, until such subscribed stock shall have been declared full-paid.

No certificate of stock shall be issued until the same shall have been declared by the Board of Directors fully paid up, and no transfer of less than one share of the capital stock shall be made on the books of the Association.

ARTICLE SEVENTH.

The powers of the corporation are vested in the Board of Directors, consisting of six stockholders, (three of whom shall form a quorum for the transaction of business,) who shall be elected annually on the second Tuesday in June, beginning with the second Tuesday in June, 1874, by the stockholders, at such place in the city of New Orleans as may be selected, after ten days' advertisement in one of the daily newspapers published in the city of New Orleans, or by special notice to each stockholder; said Directors to hold office for one year, or until their successors are elected. The fiscal year of the company shall end on the thirty-first of May of each year, and the newly-elected Board of Directors shall take their seats on the first Monday in July following.

Any stockholder shall be eligible as a Director who may own five shares of the stock of the Association, and who is not a delinquent subscriber to the stock of the company.

All elections of Directors shall be by ballot, and held under the superintendence of a committee of three stockholders, to be appointed by the Board of Directors. Every owner of stock shall be entitled to one vote for each share of stock owned by him, her or them; provided, that no one shall be entitled to vote on any share or shares that have not stood in his, her or their names on the books of the Association for sixty days prior to any such election; also, that no one shall be entitled to vote at any election of stockholders who has not paid up all the installments called for by the terms of the charter or by the Board of Directors.

Proxies may vote when the authority is in writing. A plurality of the votes cast shall be sufficient to elect.

ARTICLE EIGHTH.

No stockholder shall ever be held liable for the contracts or faults of this corporation in any further sum than the unpaid balance due to the Association on the shares owned by him; nor shall any mere informality in organization have the effect of rendering this Charter null, or of exposing a stockholder to any liability beyond the amount of his stock.

No transfer of any stock not full-paid shall be made without the consent of the Board of Directors.

ARTICLE NINTH.

Any modification, additions to, or any changes in this act of incorporation may be made or the corporation may be dissolved by two-thirds of the stock represented and voting at any meeting of stockholders called for that specific purpose; provided due notice shall have been given of such meeting as provided in Article Seventh.

ARTICLE TENTH.

At the expiration of the term of this act of incorporation, or at its earlier termination, as provided in the preceding article, the affairs of the Association shall be liquidated, its debts and all other liabilities paid, and the balance of its funds, if any, shall be divided pro rata among the stockholders; all to be done under the supervision of a Board of three Commissioners, to be appointed by the Board of Directors, who shall continue to act until the business of the Association shall be entirely closed and liquidated; and in the case of the death of either one or two of them, the survivor or survivors shall act.

ARTICLE ELEVENTH.

The Board of Directors shall elect annually, at their first meeting, a President and such other officers, clerks or agents as shall be necessary to carry on the operations and objects of the corporation for such time as they may choose; they shall fix the salaries of all officers and the amount of security to be required from each. The Board shall also have the power to fill vacancies caused by the death, resignation or insolvency of any of its members.

The following-named persons shall constitute the first Board of Directors, and they shall hold their seats until the first Monday in July, 1874, or until their successors shall have been elected and qualified in accordance with the provisions of this charter, viz.: John L. Hamilton, Fergus Hathorn, Robert M. Walmsley, Henry N. Soria, John Lawrence Gubernator and Joseph Walker Champlin.

THUS DONE AND PASSED, in my office, at New Orleans aforesaid, in the presence of George Cenas and Paul A. Conand, witnesses, both of this city, who hereunto sign their names with the parties and me, the said Notary, the day and date aforesaid.

Original Signed: J. L. Gubernator, F. Hathorn, E. C. Palmer & Co., C. L. Walmsley & Co., and others.

GEO. CENAS.
P. A. CONAND.
ANDREW HERO, Jr.,
Notary Public.

I, the undersigned Recorder of Mortgages, in and for the parish and city of New Orleans, State of Louisiana, hereby certify that the within act of incorporation was this day duly recorded in my office, in Society Book No. 8, Fo. 757.

NEW ORLEANS, June 22, 1872.
[SEAL.] (Signed)
C. BARCANTEL, Deputy.

I certify the above and foregoing to be a true copy of the original act extant in my Current Register.

In faith whereof, I grant these presents under my signature and the impress of my seal of office.

NEW ORLEANS, June 22, 1872.
ANDREW HERO, Jr.,
Je27 5t Notary Public.

The Child's Corner.

THE RAIN CONCERT.

Millions of tiny rain-drops
Are falling all around;
They're dancing on the house-tops,
They are hiding in the ground.

They are fairy-like musicians,
With anything for keys,
Beating time upon the windows,
Keeping time upon the trees.

A light and airy treble
They play upon the stream,
And the melody enchants us
Like the music of a dream.

The deeper bass is sounding
When they're dropping into caves,
With a tenor from the zephyrs,
And an alto from the waves.

Oh! 'tis a shower of music,
And Robin don't intrude.
If when the rain is weary
He drops an interlude.

It seems as if the warbling
Of the birds in all the bowers
Had been gathered into rain-drops,
And was coming down in showers.

The blossoms all are bathing
In the liquid melodies,
Breathing thanks in sweetest odors,
Looking up into the skies.

TO THINK ABOUT.

NURSERY JINGLES.

Love me—I love you—
Love me, my baby;
Sing it high, sing it low,
Sing it as it may be.

Mother's arms under you,
Her eyes above you;
Sing it high, sing it low;
Love me—I love you.

Baby cry,
Oh! fie,
At the physic in the cup;
Gulp it twice,
Gulp it thrice,
Baby, gulp it up.

Rossetti's "Sing-Song."

In the Lighthouse.

The lighthouse I am going to tell you about stood on a heap of rocks nearly a dozen miles from the nearest land. All around, about there were other rocks, sometimes just showing above the sea like porpoises, but oftener quite buried by the billows that boiled over them. In very fine weather the top of the lighthouse rocks was above water, and the keepers could ramble about in the little space round the foot of the lighthouse, taking care not to tumble off, just as if they had been walking on a table. They could fish then for the cod and haddock and lobsters that might sometimes be found in the cranny-creeks through which the fierce cross-currents generally rattled about loose big blocks of rock as you might rattle about mere marbles; or they could take a shot at a seal, a gull, a gannet, or a puffin. But for the most part, the wild waves roared over the foundation of the lighthouse, sending their spray in a curve over its lantern; sometimes surging up bodily scores of feet, and threatening to stave in its windows, in spite of the stout storm-shutters and the double glass. Weltering waters, flying foam, rain, hail, snow, seabirds, hurried along like scraps of white paper; a rare ship struggling hard in its distress to give as wide a berth as possible to the dreadful rocks, the shooting gleam and trembling glimmer of their warning light—these, sometimes for weeks together, were the only outside sights which the lighthouse-keepers beheld during the dark day and the darker howling night. They were as cut off from any other human creatures as if they had been planted on a burnt-out volcano in the moon.

When the two keepers, of whom I am about to write, first went to the lighthouse, they were very friendly together. By day they fished and shot, and cooked and ate, and drank and smoked, and scrubbed and scoured and burnished in perfect harmony. At night they cheerfully relieved each other in their turn-and-turn-about four-hours' watches. It was exceptionably fine weather. For a whole week a day did not dawn on which they could not see the distant land; they had a visit from a party of pleasure-takers; white sails flecked the unwontedly blue sea in unusual abundance. Every day at low tide the causeway leading to the landing-place could be seen, and the keepers could descend, backward like bears, the metal ladder, fastened to the solid granite basement of the lighthouse, which led from their "front door" to their "play ground." They were new to each other, and so each had a fresh listener to his old yarns, and fresh yarns to listen to. They did not feel imprisoned; and when worse weather came, so long as it was not bad enough to threaten to keep them on the rock beyond their time, they still continued friends. For out-at-sea lighthouses now-a-days four keepers are employed, who shift in turn, so that there are always three on the rock and one on the land; but at this lighthouse two men went on duty at the same time for a spell of six weeks. But seven weeks, eight weeks, passed, and Jackson and Graham were still confined to the rock. The winds howled ceaselessly, the wild waters roared on without a moment's lull, dashing against the lighthouse as if they were determined, though it was founded on a rock, and itself made of thousands of tons of rock cunningly cemented and clamped together with metal, to sweep it before them in ruin. Massive as it was, it sometimes seemed to give a little shiver, as if it feared secretly that its enemies might possibly prevail. Day in the lighthouse was almost drearier than the night, for at night the flashing star at the top of the tower cheered and warmed the blackness, but not a blink of sunlight could be seen throughout the whole of the gray, wild day, and yet the storm-shutters had always to be kept closed. The ninth, the tenth week passed, and Jackson and Graham were no longer friends. Each snapped when the other called him to take his watch at night. "You have waked me too soon," each said, and each would have liked to add: "I must slumber again." By day they snarled at each other when they were obliged to be together, and when they were not they sulked in different rooms; taking the trouble to climb up and down ever so many ladders, on the wrong side, so to speak, in order to get as far as possible out of each other's way. They had nearly a dozen floors between them to choose from, and when in sing bed-room and a cozy sitting-room were included among these, it certainly did seem very absurd that one man should go and growl to himself in the coal-cellar and the other in the oil-scented lantern—not only very absurd, but also very wicked. Still, something worse was to come. When fourteen weeks had gone by, and the lighthouse-keepers were still utterly cut off from the land, these two men, instead of doing their best to cheer themselves by doing their best to cheer each other, grew to hate the sight of each other's faces, the sound of each other's voices, even the very creak of each other's boots. Jackson wished that he could get rid of Graham, and Graham had the same wish about Jackson. It seems strange, doesn't it? but when people, who do not belong to one another, are compelled to keep one another's company exclusively day after day, they are almost sure, after a time, to begin to dislike one another, unless they put great command on themselves and try very hard to be cheerful and polite. Of course it is very sad, as well as very silly, that people should behave so, but so they do behave; and now you will understand how it was that Jackson and Graham felt toward each other as they did.

And even worse still came: The winds and waters still rushed, ever raving, past the lighthouse that defied them proudly in spite of its secret shiver. Nearly four months had gone by, and still the keepers had had no communication with the shore. Provisions were wasting away, and each kept a jealous eye on the other to see that he did not take more than his share. Dark thoughts began to flit through their minds. Each wished that he could get rid of the other anyhow, and each, knowing that he wished this, took secret precautions that he might not be got rid of anyhow. When both were awake, they watched each other furtively, but with a ceaseless, ferocious vigilance, out of the corners of their eyes. Each, before he went to sleep, barricaded himself in his bed. The weather showed no signs of abatement. "How long could things go on as they were going?" each of the silently savage men began to ask himself, and to excuse himself for the wicked answer he silently gave himself by saying silently that he was only thinking of doing to the other what the other was thinking of doing to him.

Though the two keepers had come to hate each other so, neither neglected his lighthouse duties. Jackson one day saw the ragged, straggling vanguard of a great army of mist galloping in from windward, and went out on the balcony to make sure that the fog-bell was not too rusty to do its duty. He was almost carried off his feet by the wind, and as he clung to the iron rails, some evil being whispered, and yet so as to be heard in the midst of all that rushing roar: "Call up Graham to help you, and then—you can swear the wind did it, and you'll have food enough left to last till you're relieved, and you'll be able to do your duty all the same, because if you rest all day you'll be able to watch all night." Jackson was struggling back to the doorway in obedience to this wicked whisper, when the wind dashed two blown-away land-birds at his feet. In another instant they would have been blown out to sea again, had not Jackson, though he was thinking of treacherously murdering his comrade, instinctively caught them in his hat. As he did so he noticed that one covered the other with its wings. They were little teachers. Jackson's heart gave a wince, as if it had been stabbed; and with the birds in his hand he went down to Graham, and confessed the evil thoughts that he had had, and Graham confessed the evil thoughts that he had had; and then the men clutched hands and vowed that, whatever might happen, each would be true to the other.

All day long the fog bell tolled, and all night long too, as the reconciled keepers sat together watching the flashing light which the dense mist blurred. But an hour or two after dawn the mist rolled away, and the sunshine sparkled brightly on the still swollen but subsiding waters. The wind had gone down, and before noon the little yawl with their "relief" had arrived. Before evening Jackson and Graham had landed, taking with them the little teachers. They took charge of them turn-and-turn about in their cottages, and—still continuing mates—carried them back to the lighthouse in joint charge when they returned to their home in the wild sea. The birds sang there as merrily as on shore, and the men blessed the little peacemakers.—Good Words for the Young.

HOUSEKEEPERS' DEPARTMENT.

SIMPLE AND SURE CURE FOR INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM.—Two ounces sulphur, one and a half ounce gumguiacum, two nutmegs, pulverized, sifted and put in twelve ounces sweet sirup. Take a teaspoonful every night before retiring to bed. Mix up well before taking. Should the above affect the bowels, take less. One-half mixed at a time might cure some persons.

TOMATO SOUP.—Take bones, or bits of meat left from any dish, and boil well to extract all nutriment, then strain; or if you have none on hand, take a rich stock, put in cabbage, carrots, parsnips, or any other vegetables you like; boil till well done, then add the tomatoes—a dozen fresh, or half a can of winter tomatoes; boil twenty minutes, then strain and serve hot.

REMEDY FOR CHILLS AND FEVER.—G. W., Macon, Georgia, writes the Rural New Yorker that he has cured cases of two or three years' standing with two doses, given on separate days, of (for an adult) one tablespoonful of mandrake or May apple (Podophyllum peltatum) root. He says: "Grind it in a coffee mill; clean the mill with corn-meal; it can be made into pills with a small amount of flour." Those afflicted should try this remedy.

The Farm and Garden.

Vines Over a Cottage.

One of the greatest improvements to a small cottage is the prevalence of vines clambering over it so as to almost entirely conceal its outline. For this purpose nothing can be better than the American ivy (Ampelopsis) and golden-vined honeysuckle (Lonicera aurea reticulata,) closely intertwined, so that during the autumn months the effect of the golden and crimson foliage is beautiful beyond description. Over the front of the house, especially if there should be a porch, the effect will be heightened by a ramp ant-growing clematis, either C. Vitalba, the European Travelers' Joy, or C. Virginia, our native Virgin's Bower. The abundance of pure, white, fragrant bloom on each of these, aided by a dense mass of foliage, is productive of good results.

The prairie roses, owing to their entire hardiness and free-flowering habits, are also worthy of due consideration as cottage runners; but there is an air of stiffness and primness about them which never harmonizes so well with their surroundings as do the vines before mentioned. When the cottagers of America are willing to receive a lesson in floriculture from the Paisley weavers of England, we may then date an era of progression which is sadly needed through our land to-day. The few hours spent during the evening or early in the morning on a bed of choice flowers will return compound interest in pleasure on a capital invested in labor; and my reputation for veracity will never be questioned when I state that, when men are once induced to feel an interest in plants, it increases with their years, so that rarely is it ever forsaken.—Journal of Agriculture.

Clean and Dry Stables.

A horse will endure severe cold weather without much inconvenience, so long as he is furnished with a dry stable. But require him to stand on a wet and foul floor, and his health will soon begin to fail. Horses often suffer from cold feet and legs. A great many stables have damp and wet floors. Few men who handle horses give proper attention to the feet and legs. Especially is this the case on farms. Much time is spent of a morning in rubbing, brushing and smoothing the hair on the sides and hips, but at no time are the feet examined and properly cared for. Now, be it known that the feet of a horse require more care than the body. They need ten times as much, for in one respect they are almost the entire horse. All the grooming that can be done won't avail anything if the horse is forced to stand where his feet will be filthy. In this case the feet will become disordered; and then the legs will get badly out of fix; and with bad feet and bad legs there is not much else of the horse fit for anything. Stable prisons generally are very severe on the feet and legs of horses; and unless these buildings can afford a dry room, where a horse can walk round, lie down, or roll over, they are not half so healthy or comfortable to the horse as the pasture, and should be avoided by all good hostlers in the country.—Vermont Farmer and Recorder.

Limerick and Belfast Hams.

These hams are cured in the following manner: They are cut fresh from the pig, with the hip bones left in them, and are placed on a flagged floor, and front of the second ham resting upon the shank of the first, and so on until all are placed; they are then sprinkled with strong pickle from a watering pot, and a small quantity of salt is shaken over them. Next day the hams are taken up, well rubbed with salt, and laid down as before, when saltpeter is shaken over them in quantities proportionate to their size; they are left so for two days, and then taken up and rubbed as before, when they are laid down again, according to the space they have to fill—from three to six hams in height, with layers of salt between. After six days the hams are reversed in the piles—that is, those that were packed on the top are put at the bottom. They then remain for six days longer in the pile, when they are considered cured. They are then taken up and washed, and hung up to dry in the air. When they are to be smoked they should be placed in a house made for that purpose, and smoked—in Belfast with wheaten straw and saw-dust, in Limerick with peat or turf.

CERTAIN CURE FOR FOUNDER.—As soon as you discover that the horse is foundered, take him to the nearest branch or stream of water and tie him standing in the water nearly up to his belly—his head being so high that he cannot drink. If the weather is warm, let him stand in the stream several hours; then take him out, rub his legs thoroughly to promote circulation, and again tie him in the water, if he is still lame. By repeating this process two or three times the horse will be effectively cured. If the weather is cold when the horse is foundered, the horse must not be allowed to stand in the water more than about twenty minutes at a time; he should be taken out and legs rubbed diligently till they become dry and warm, and the circulation of the blood made active, and this process must be repeated till the horse is cured, which will be generally within twenty-four hours. This remedy will cost nothing, can do no possible harm, and will, in every instance, cure if the disease has not been of too long standing. Don't be afraid to try it.—Rural World.

TO KEEP FLIES FROM HORSES.—One of the simplest means of keeping flies from annoying horses or cattle is to take a bunch of smart-weed, bruise it so as to make the juice exude, and rub the animal thoroughly with this bunch of bruised weed, especially upon his neck, legs and ears. Neither flies nor other insects will trouble him for at least twenty-four hours. If preferred, an infusion may be made by steeping the weed, and the liquid applied with a sponge.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ARE YOU GOING EAST OR NORTH?

Take the Iron Mountain, and Chicago and Alton Railroads,

THE ONLY ALL-RAIL ROUTE FROM all points South to

CHICAGO.

The only line running the Pullman Palace Cars from all points South to St. Louis and Chicago.

Passengers by this line arrive in Chicago one hour in advance of all competing lines, and avoid 25 miles of steamboat transfer, and the annoying changes of cars incident to other lines. For all points in the Northwest, St. Paul, Milwaukee, or all points in the Canadas, New York, Boston and all Eastern cities, this is the pleasantest and most direct route. Parties going East via this line can lay over in Chicago and visit the Burnt District, and resume their trip at their leisure. Fare as low as by all other routes. Tickets to be had at all ticket offices in the South.

W. R. ALLEN,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent, Iron Mountain Line, St. Louis.
JAMES CHARLTON,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent, Chicago and Alton Line, Chicago.
D. A. FREER,
my30 4m Southern Traveling Agent.

LOUISVILLE AND CINCINNATI SHORT-LINE R. R. connections are 5½ hours QUICKER to Eastern cities than any other Rail Line from Louisville, and 19 hours in advance of the River route. This is the only line making Baltimore in 26 hours, Philadelphia in 27 hours, Washington in 27 hours, New York in 30½ hours, Boston in 35 hours.

Southern Fast Line, daily, except Sunday	Leave. 7.50 A.M.	Arrive. 8.05 P.M.
Cincinnati Express, daily	3.55 P.M.	12.40 P.M.
Cincinnati Night Express, daily, except Saturday	10.40 P.M.	5.00 A.M.
Lexington Mail, daily; except Sunday	6.00 A.M.	6.35 P.M.
Lexington Express, daily, except Sunday	2.30 P.M.	10.30 A.M.
Frankfort Accommoda'n, daily, except Sunday	4.55 P.M.	8.15 A.M.
Shelbyville Accommod'n, daily, except Sunday	3.55 P.M.	10.30 A.M.

Sleeping car on 10 40 P. M. Round-trip tickets to Cincinnati and Covington at reduced rates. Ticket Offices—Depot, Third and Main streets, Galt House, Louisville Hotel and Willard Hotel. Telegrams to secure sleeping car berths to Eastern cities will be sent free.

S. S. PARKER,
General Passenger and Ticket Agent.
J. E. GUNPERLING,
my16 3m Superintendent, Louisville, Ky.

Formerly WOOD & MANN.

These Engines are so well and favorably known that a description of them here is not deemed necessary.

They are EQUALED by FEW, SURPASSED by NONE, perfect in workmanship, complete in appointments, safe, simple and substantial. Every boiler is practically tested before leaving the factory. By the use of a CIRCULATING WATER BOTTOM around and underneath the furnace, which lessens the

RISK FROM FIRE,

they are particularly adapted for GINNING COTTON. Engines of all sizes, at prices which challenge comparison for equal size of steam cylinder and measurements of boiler. A full stock of these Engines will be kept constantly on hand by the undersigned, who has been appointed general agent

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN,
No. 9 Union street,
mh21 6m New Orleans, La.

CRESCENT MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANY.

TWENTY-THIRD ANNUAL STATEMENT.

NEW ORLEANS, May 18, 1872.

The Trustees, in conformity to the charter, submit the following statement of the affairs of the company on the thirtieth of April, 1872:

Fire premiums for the year	$194,069 44
Marine premiums for the year	61,350 64
River premiums for the year	183,299 36
Total	$438,718 44
Earned premiums, less reinsurance and return premiums	358,153 65
Net profits	79,823 81

The company has assets to the amount of $732,129.40.

The Board of Trustees resolved to pay interest at SIX PER CENT. CASH on all the outstanding CERTIFICATES OF SCRIP, to the legal holders thereof, on and after the second Monday in June next.

They have also declared a SCRIP DIVIDEND OF THIRTY-THREE AND ONE-THIRD PER CENT. on the earned premiums entitled to participate for the year ending April 30, 1872, for which certificates will be issued on and after the first Monday in August next, free of government tax.

THOMAS A. ADAMS, President.
HENRY V. OGDEN, Secretary.

TRUSTEES.

Samuel H. Kenaedy.	John Phelps.
C. T. Baddecke.	P. H. Foley.
A. G. Ober.	A. Thomson.
E. H. Summers.	B. Newgass.
P. N. Strong.	Victor Meyer.
Joseph Bowling.	E. J. Gay.

je20 6t S. B. Newman.

MILLER'S Bible and Publishing House.

NEW ILLUSTRATED FAMILY BIBLE.

The Cheapest and Best Bible published. LARGE PRINT, Beautiful Bindings, more than two hundred Engravings.

THE CHRISTIAN HARMONY,

a new and choice collection of Sacred Music, based on system of seven-shaped character notes. Any one can learn to read music, and sing in one-fourth the time required by the old methods. Address

Miller's Bible and Publishing House,
1102 and 1104 Sansom street,
je27 6m Philadelphia, Penn'a.

OCEAN SPRINGS.

Summer Resort.—Board at the Seaside.

THE SUBSCRIBER has taken the MORRIS HOUSE, at Ocean Springs, which has just undergone a thorough repair, and will be open to boarders who wish to enjoy a pleasant home, good bathing, fresh sea air, and luxuriate on fish and oysters during the heat of summer.

Terms for board: $40 per month, $10 per week, and $2 per day. Apply to the subscriber by mail at Ocean Springs.

Refer to Bishop Keener, Rev. Robert J. Harp, J. L. Donnica & Co., and Samuel Russ, Esq., New Orleans.

WM. C. CHAMBERLIN.
APRIL 20, 1872. ap25 tf

HARDWARE, STOVES, ETC.

KURSHEEDT & BIENVENU,

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

Plantation and Builders' Hardware,

MARBLE, MARBLEIZED SLATE AND IRON MANTLES,

Grates, Hearths and Fire Bricks,

NO. 114 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

my2 1y

THE UNRIVALED

BUCK'S BRILLIANT STOVE.

Every Brilliant Is Fully Guaranteed.

H. HALLER,
No. 49 Camp street, New Orleans,
Sole Agent for Louisiana.

Sole Agent for the

CELEBRATED RINGEN WASHER,

in the States of Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi. oc19 1y

G. W. W. GOODWYN,
No. 53 Gravier Street,
DEALER IN

Stoves and Tinware of All Kinds.

While he is prepared to furnish, at the lowest rates, Cooking and Heating Stoves of all the various styles and patterns sold in this market, he makes a specialty of the following, to wit:

Cottage, Cricket, The Best, Relief, Gray Jacket, and Diadem.

These Stoves are sold under a guarantee, and may be returned if they do not perform well.

NOTE BY P. M. GOODWYN.—Lack of health has obliged me for a time to give up my regular calling—that of the ministry. In the meanwhile, in order to do what I can for a support, I have engaged as an assistant in my brother's establishment, as above advertised. And I take this method of soliciting from among the readers of the ADVOCATE—many of whom are my personal acquaintances and friends—a share of their patronage whenever they may have need of anything in the above line. Orders sent through their merchants, or to either of us direct, will receive prompt attention. mh7 6m

GROCERIES—GLASSWARE.

PURE LOUISIANA SUGAR, MOLASSES AND SIRUPS.

REFINED SUGAR.—Cut Loaf, Crushed and Powdered.

A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

GOLDEN SIRUP.—A superior article of pure Louisiana, from the Crescent City Refinery. A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

REFINED SIRUP AND MOLASSES.—Crescent City Refinery, Orleans, Louisiana, Chalmette and Pelican brands.

A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

LOUISIANA MOLASSES.—Various grades of Plantation, in barrels, half barrels and kegs. A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

CLARIFIED SUGAR.—Various grades of White and Yellow, in hogsheads and barrels.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

LOUISIANA SUGAR.—Various grades of Plantation, in hogsheads and barrels.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

FOREIGN SUGAR.—Cuba, Demerara and Porto Rico, in hogsheads and boxes.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
my9 6m 48 Tchoupitoulas street.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,

—IMPORTERS OF—

CHINA, CROCKERY AND GLASS,

55.....CAMP STREET.....55

New Orleans.

Country dealers supplied with ASSORTED CRATES or from SHELF upon the most favorable terms.

Contents of our English Iron Stone China Dinner Set, No. 1:

12 Dinner Plates,	1 Round Soup Tureen,
12 Breakfast Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Tea Plates,	1 Salad,
12 Soup Plates,	1 Pair Covered Dishes,
12 Preserve Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Pickle Dishes,
12 Tea cups and saucers	4 Meat Dishes.

112 pieces best English Ware..... $15

Our Stone China Dinner and Tea Set, No. 2, contains

158 pieces..... $25

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 1, contains

12 Dinner Plates,	4 Meat Dishes,
12 Breakfast Plates,	1 Soup Tureen, round,
12 Tea Plates,	2 Covered Dishes, oval
12 Soup Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Preserve Plates,	1 Salad,
12 Tea cups and saucers	2 Pickles,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes.

112 pieces best French Ware..... $30

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 2, contains

166 pieces..... $45

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 3, contains

255 pieces..... $65

A large variety of the best SELF-SEALING FRUIT JARS always on hand.

Sole agents for the celebrated BLANCHARD CHURN. The best churn made.

The most complete stock of HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS in the South.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,
ap4 6m No. 55 Camp st., New Orleans.

New Orleans Savings Institution,
187 CANAL STREET.

Incorporated March 15, 1855.

OFFICERS.

L. F. GENERES, President.
THOS. A. ADAMS, first Vice President.
THOS. ALLEN CLARKE, second Vice President.
CHARLES J. LEEDS, third Vice President.
SAM JONES, Jr., Treasurer.

DIRECTORS.

Dr. W. Newton Mercer.
L. F. Generes.	David Urquhart.
George Jonas.	John G. Gaines.
Thos. A. Adams.	Carl Kohn.
Thos. Allen Clarke.	Christian Schaelder.
Charles J. Leeds.	Samuel Jamison.

Six per cent. Interest on deposits.
my30 3m

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

WESLEYAN FEMALE INSTITUTE,

STAUNTON, VIRGINIA,

WILL BEGIN ITS TWENTY-THIRD ANNUAL Session

SEPTEMBER 10, 1872.

Than this no college ranks higher. The president, Rev. W. A. HARRIS, is aided by twenty teachers and officers. System of teaching thorough, and based upon the plan of the University of Virginia. English Science and Literature are taught by experienced graduates of our first universities and colleges. French is taught by a native master of the language; Music by six professors and teachers, among whom are two of the most distinguished vocal teachers of the South. Great attention paid to the special training of the voice.

This is one of the healthiest climates in the world. Its marked effect is the rapid promotion of the physical health and vigor of our pupils. Those who come here from the South, with feeble constitutions, chills and climatic diseases, are entirely restored.

Buildings elegant—fanned by the purest breezes, and commanding the most magnificent rural and mountain scenery for thirty miles along the beautiful Valley of Virginia, making it one of the most delightful college homes in the Union.

It is intended by over one hundred boarding pupils, from the States reaching from Maryland to Texas. jy18 6t

MEMPHIS CONFERENCE FEMALE INSTITUTE,

JACKSON, TENNESSEE.

REV. A. W. JONES, D. D., PRESIDENT.

THIS OLD AND POPULAR INSTITUTION is most favorably located at the junction of the Mobile and Ohio and Mississippi Central railroads, in the healthy, intelligent, refined and religious community of Jackson, and furnishes all the advantages of a first-class Female College. The best professors and teachers employed. The discipline mild, firm and parental. The course of study thorough and extensive. The library large and valuable. The chemical and philosophical apparatus ample and appropriate. The buildings and grounds well arranged, commodious and beautiful. The conveniences and accommodations in all departments complete, excellent and satisfactory. The attention to the health, manners and comfort of pupils constant and faithful. For more than seventeen years no young lady has died within the walls of the Institute, while the cases of severe sickness have been few.

Fall session begins on the FIRST MONDAY IN SEPTEMBER, and the opening address and concert on the following Tuesday evening. Spring session begins on the fourth Monday in January. Commencement day, the second Wednesday in June.

TUITION.

Collegiate department	$25 00
Music and use of piano	30 00
Latin and French, each	10 00
Board, washing, etc	90 00

Other charges moderate. Payments one-half in advance. For particulars address the president, or jy11 4m PROF. A. B. JONES, A. M.

EMORY AND HENRY COLLEGE,

VIRGINIA.

THE FALL SESSION of this Institution begins on the FIFTEENTH OF AUGUST next. One Hundred and Fifteen Dollars will pay all the necessary expenses of a five-month session, including board, tuition, fuel, room-rent, washing and contingent fees. Payments are required in advance, except for board, which is $13 per month, and payable monthly in advance. If you will consult the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and her ministers generally, our annual and students, or the professors of the University of Virginia, who have authorized this reference, you will be assured that we are offering excellent opportunities for a thorough collegiate training, surrounded by healthful, moral, religious influences. If you desire a catalogue, or any additional information, address

E. E. WILEY, President,
je20 4m Emory P. O., Virginia.

GREEN FARM HIGH SCHOOL,

NEAR BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

REV. F. M. GRACE, PROPRIETOR.

THE FIRST SESSION of this School will begin on the FIRST MONDAY IN AUGUST, 1872, and will continue forty weeks, with a recess of one week at Christmas. The cost of board and tuition will be $20 per month, or $200 per annum. The course of study will embrace all branches usually taught in schools and colleges, and will be adapted to the end the student has in view.

The school is private property, but will be conducted in the interest of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

The buildings and grounds are ample for a private boarding school, and are located in a most beautiful and healthful situation. Boys will be treated with paternal kindness, and the younger pupils will receive especial attention. On Saturday before the opening of the session the proprietor will meet his pupils at Birmingham with private conveyance to the school.

Correspondence is solicited, and circulars will be sent on application to the President at Birmingham, Alabama. For references he respectfully gives his former pupils in the Southern States. je13 2m

HOMER COLLEGE.

THE EXERCISES OF THE TWELFTH scholastic year of Homer College, begin on the first Tuesday in September, 1871. The term is divided into a short Fall Session and a long Spring Session, with a Christmas Vacation of two weeks.

FACULTY:

Rev. J. E. COBB, President and Professor of Mental, Moral and Commercial Science.
J. W. NICHOLSON, A. M., Professor of Pure and Mixed Mathematics.
A. C. CALHOUN, A. B., Professor of Languages.
E. M. CORRY, A. B., Tutor in Physical Science.

TERMS—IN ADVANCE:

Tuition for Fall Session	$16 and $20 00
Tuition for Spring Session	24 and $30 00
Incidental fee (per session)	1 50
Board (per month)	15 00

Students admitted at any time in classes already formed, and charged until the end of the session.

A course of study as full and thorough as that of any college in the land, an ample corps of instructors, a complete library and apparatus, recently purchased and adapted to the present demands of science and learning, the sure prospect of a permanent endowment, now in progress, an eminently healthful location, a surrounding community intelligent and refined, invite the patronage of the Southwest to Homer College.

For further particulars, address

REV. J. E. COBB,
President Homer College, La.
W. F. MORELAND,
se21 tf President Board of Trustees.

CENTENARY COLLEGE

OF LOUISIANA.

THE SESSION OF THIS COLLEGE WILL begin on the FIRST MONDAY in October next. The session embraces forty weeks.

EXPENSES.

Collegiate department, per session	$60 00
Preparatory department, per session	40 00
Incidental expenses	5 00

Tuition for five months payable in advance.

Boarding can be had in good families at from $15 to $20 per month.

For further particulars address,

PROF. A. R. HOLCOMBE,
se10 1y Jackson, La.

Scientific.

DREDGING off the mouth of the Rio Doce, in a depth of three thousand feet of water, Count Pourtales brought up a number of deep-water shells, including two beautiful species of Pleurotoma, identical with species found near Florida and the Barbadoes, and with them a new mollusk, allied to the fossil Pecten paradoxus of the lias of Germany. The living animal possesses the same distinct and prominent radiating ribs rising on the inner surface of the shallow valve, to which the fossil owes its specific name; and from this structural peculiarity both are regarded as belonging to a new genus of a distinct type.

About forty miles east of Cape Frio another fulfillment of the expectations of Prof. Agassiz was met with in a very curious crustaccan, which in general appearance closely resembles Serolis; with this marked difference, however, that the thoracic rings are much more numerous and the abdomen is much smaller. Its resemblance to the Trilobites is unmistakable and very striking. The head stands out from the thoracic regions like the buckler of Trilobites, together with a similar facial suture across the cheeks, and the presence of a hypostome of the mouth. The large reniform facetted eyes, recall those of Calymene; and were it not for the presence of antennæ which project from the lower side of the anterior margin of the buckler, in two unequal pairs, and ally the specimen to isopods, these resemblances would amount to an absolute identity of structure. For this new crustacean, which comes so closely to a recovery of the extinct Trilobites, and which combines so many of those characteristic structural features of other independent groups which he first distinguished under the name of "synthetic types," Prof. Agassiz proposes the name Tymocaris Pierci, in honor of Prof. Pierce, of the coast survey.

LOST RIVER, in Orange county, Indiana, is so named from the fact that it has no outlet, but disappears in the ground about seven miles from Lancaster. The well of the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago railroad at that place, which is forty feet in depth, having failed to supply any longer, it was determined to dig another well about one-fourth of a mile south of the present tank. Mr. John Zahn, master mechanic of bridge construction, and in charge of water-tanks, located the well by the superstitious forked peach stick, and proceeded to have it dug. At the depth of eighteen feet the men struck water, which came up through the gravel with such force that further digging had to be abandoned. Four pumps were placed in the well, and pumping has been going on for several days, so as to enable the masons to wall up the well, but so far the work has not been successful. It is believed that the rush of water is from the bed of Lost river, which disappears in the ground about seven miles from that point.

A GERMAN WRITER shows that a great variety of colors and dyes can be readily developed from common plants, mostly by obtaining a strong decoction of them. The blueberry, when boiled down, with an addition of a little alum and a solution of copperas, develops an excellent blue color. The same decoction treated with a solution of nutgalls gives a dark brown; while with alum, verdigris and sal-ammoniac, various shades of purple and red can be obtained. The juice of the elderberry treated with alum affords a good blue. The berries of the privet, when over-ripe and boiled in a solution of salt, yield a scarlet. The seeds of the common burning-bush, when treated with sal-ammoniac, produce a beautiful purple red; currant-juice, mixed with a solution of alum, gives a bright red; the bark, treated in the same way, affords a brown. Yellow can be obtained from the bark of the apple-tree, the box, the ash, the buckthorn, the poplar and the elm, when treated with alum. A bright green is furnished by the broom-corn.

SELF-REGISTERING EARTHQUAKE INDICATOR.—Erkmann has laid before the Natural History Society of Prussian Rhineland and Westphalia a plan of a self-registering apparatus for recording earthquakes, which, although somewhat complicated, is said to be not without its merits. The principal objects of this apparatus are, first, to record the exact hour and minute in which an earthquake has taken place at any given point; second, to determine the number and duration of the oscillations of the pendulum, and the relative force of the earthquake; third, from the difference of time at different stations, to determine the velocity of the propagation of the wave; fourth, to ascertain the duration of the earthquake, as also its beginning and ending, and whether acting by shocks in waves and radii; fifth, to indicate the shocks that without its agency would be inappreciable, and thus determine the absolute frequency of this phenomenon.

IT IS STATED that tobacco in any form may be used with great advantage against snakes of all kinds. By pouring a decoction of it in suspected places they are driven away, and this fact is known to both the natives of Hindostan and to those of North and South America. If it can be administered to them it is certain death.

COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

PRICE, HINE & TUPPER,
General Commission Merchants,
FACTORS, AND
Agents of Attakapas Mail Transportation Co.,
NO. 26 CARONDELET STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Advances made on consignments to T. Tupper & Sons, Charleston, S. C.; Williams, Dimmie & Co., and Leverich & Co., New York. no21y

W. H. SUTTON. J. R. POWELL.
SUTTON & POWELL,
COTTON FACTORS
AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
186.....COMMON STREET.....186
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
se21 1y

H. F. GIVEN. LUCIEN J. DOIZE.
H. F. GIVEN & CO.,
COTTON, TOBACCO AND SUGAR FACTORS,
—AND—
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 64 Baronne street, New Orleans.
oe5 1y

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.
AIKEN & WATT,
Cotton Factors and Commission Merchants,
60.....CARONDELET STREET.....60
NEW ORLEANS.
Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. no2 1y

J. L. DUNNICA, New Orleans. T. A. HAMILTON, Memphis.
O. P. HARRISON, New Orleans.
J. L. DUNNICA & CO.,
FLOUR, PRODUCE AND PROVISION
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
50.....TCHOUPITOULAS ST.....50
NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA.
oc22 1y

J. U. PAYNE. W. H. DAMERON. H. M. PAYNE
PAYNE, DAMERON & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
64 & 66....BARONNE STREET....64 & 66
Between Union and Gravier streets,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
je10 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,
Cotton Factors and General Commission Merchants,
31.....PERDIDO STREET.....31
oc3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

BUSINESS CARDS.

THE MITCHELL & RAMMELSBERG
FURNITURE COMPANY,
Manufacturers and dealers in all kinds of
Furniture, Mattresses, Looking Glasses,
ETC., ETC.,
103 and 105 Camp street, cor. Poydras,
Moresque Building, New Orleans,
have the largest and best assortment of FURNITURE of any house in the city.
Please give us a call before purchasing elsewhere. my23 1y

J. THOMSON. G. THOMSON. W. R. THOMSON.
J. THOMSON & BROS.,

Manufacturers of Carriages, Baronches, Baggies, Phaetons,
SPRING WAGONS, ETC.
68 and 70 Rampart Street,
Bet. Common and Gravier, New Orleans, La.
Repairing done in all its branches. no3n 1y

YUT, SING & CO.,
Agents for FOOK, HING & Co., and TONG, WO & Co., of San Francisco, DIRECT IMPORTERS (VIA SAN FRANCISCO). OF
CHINA AND JAPAN TEAS,
Silks, Lacquer Ware and Fancy Goods, and Dealers in Provisions,
No. 40 Royal Street, New Orleans, La.
je6 2m

JAMES M'CRACKEN. GEO. E. BREWSTER.
MCCRACKEN & BREWSTER,
DEALERS IN FURNITURE,
Nos. 37, 39 and 41 Royal street.
Manufactory, corner Derbigny and Customhouse streets, New Orleans. my9 6m

CHARLES BALLEJO,
FAMILY GROCER,
St. Charles, corner of Jackson street,
my9 3m New Orleans, La.

GEORGE CRONAN,
(SUCCESSOR TO BENNETT & LUROES,)
SOUTHERN ORNAMENTAL IRON WORKS
Corner Magnolia and Ernto Sts.,
Near Jackson Railroad Depot,
my9 3m NEW ORLEANS.

JOHN L. ADAMS & CO., (JOHN L. ADAMS, JAY L. ADAMS, GEO. W. WEST, WM. H. RENAUD,)
WHOLESALE GROCERS,
AND DEALERS IN
PROVISIONS, LARD, OILS, ETC., ETC.,
43, 45 and 47 Peters street,
(Formerly New Levee.)
mh21 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ELON G. SMITH, J. L. CHEATHAM, J. W. DRAUGHON.
SMITH, CHEATHAM & CO.,
(SUCCESSORS TO ELON G. SMITH & CO.)
PORK PACKERS,
Provision and Commission Merchants,
CORNER THIRD AND SPRUCE STREETS,
SAINT LOUIS.
We solicit orders from the trade for goods in our line. oc26 1y

Carpet Warehouse—17 Chartres Street.
A. BROUSSEAU & CO.,
Importers and dealers, at Wholesale and Retail, in English and American Carpetings.
Floor Oil Cloths, Table and Enameled Oil Cloths.
Window Shades, Table and Piano Covers.
Crumb Cloths, in squares or pieces.
Curtain and Furniture Materials.
Brocatelles, Cotelenes, Terries, Reps, Lace and Nottingham Lace Curtains, Haircloth Ticking, Springs, Burlaps, Step Covers, etc.
no23 1y A. BROUSSEAU & CO.

BUSINESS CARDS.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
CANAL ST., COR. ROYAL, NEW ORLEANS,
IMPORTERS OF
WATCHES, JEWELRY, CLOCKS,
PLATED WARE, HOUSEKEEPING GOODS,
Cutlery, Guns, Pistols, Bronzes, Porcelain and Fancy Goods.
MANUFACTURERS OF
PURE COIN SILVERWARE.
Watches and Jewelry carefully repaired.
Every article sold fully guaranteed.
no23 1y

C. HUCHEZ,
FAMILY GROCER,
NOS. 95 AND 97 CAMP STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Supplies carefully put up for families moving over the Lake. my30 3m

LOUISIANA STEAM
SASH, BLIND AND DOOR FACTORY,
ROBERTS & CO., PROPRIETORS,
301, 303, 305 and 307 Gravier Street,
NEW ORLEANS. my30 1y

JOHN LAZARUS,
PRACTICAL OPTICIAN,
6.....ST. CHARLES ST.....6
Near Canal, New Orleans.
Sole Agent for the celebrated Pantascopic Star Spectacles and Eye Glasses. my21 6m

C. SAMPSON. F. G. SAMPSON.
SAMPSON BROTHERS,
(Late C. C. Sampson,)
FURNITURE,
33 & 35.....ROYAL STREET.....33 & 35
NEW ORLEANS.
Established in 1843. ja11 1y

E. HEATH. M. LARA. J. P. HEATH.
HEATH, LARA & HEATH,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
UPHOLSTERERS' MATERIALS,
WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES,
CORNICES AND CURTAIN GOODS,
Pictures, Frames, Moldings, Looking Glasses and Clocks,
NO. 99 CAMP STREET,
no16 1y NEW ORLEANS.

T. H. McMAHAN & CO.,
BANKERS,
And Dealers in Foreign and Domestic Exchange,
GALVESTON, TEXAS.
We have prompt and reliable correspondents at all the principal points throughout this State, and upon all collections payable in this city or Houston make no charge for collecting, and only actual charge upon interior collections.
Immediate and prompt attention given to all business intrusted to us. feb1 1y

RICHARD BRODERICK,
CISTERN MAKER,
132.....Julia street.....132
Bet. Camp and Magazine, New Orleans.
Second hand Cisterns always on hand. All work guaranteed.
All orders left at Box 30, Mechanics' and Dealers' Exchange, will meet with prompt attention. my2 1y

HILL & VEAZIE,
71.....Camp street.....71
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
LAMPS AND OILS, CHANDELIERS,
Globes, Chimneys, Shades, Trimmers, Wicks, Cans, Fillers, etc.
PRATTS' ASTRAL OIL, non-explosive and non-inflammable. ja18 1y

R. H. NOBLE. J. B. WOODS.
NOBLE & WOODS,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS,
Nos. 9 and 11 Delta street, and 10 and 12 Front street,
ja18 1y NEW ORLEANS, LA.

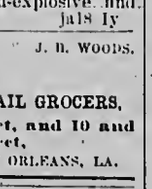
PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

O. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER. E. T. MERRICK, Former Ch. Jus. La.
RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,
Attorneys, Counselors and Solicitors,
Cor. of Camp street and Commercial Place,
se25 NEW ORLEANS.

W. W. EDWARDS,
COUNSELOR AT LAW
AND
COMMISSIONER OF DEEDS,
No. 88 Common street,
se14 1y New Orleans.

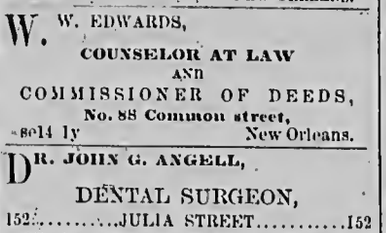
DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,
DENTAL SURGEON,
152.....JULIA STREET.....152
All operations in Operative, Mechanical and Surgical Dentistry carefully performed.
Nitrous Oxide and other Anæsthetics administered. no30 1y

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,
Office—680 Magazine Street,
Between Philip and First sts., New Orleans.
Will call daily at College building, corner Common and Baronne streets, between eleven and twelve o'clock. je29 1y

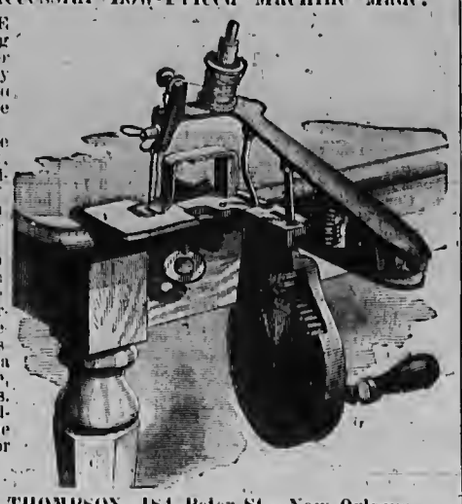
The Records of Tests
AT LOWELL, MASS., PROVE
N. F. BURNHAM'S
New Turbine


WATER
superior to all others. It gave a higher percentage than any other wheel of common tidish. Pamphlet and Price List by N. F. BURNHAM, York, Pa. ap25 6m

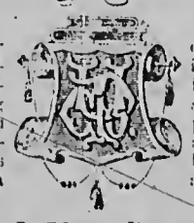
FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL BOOKS,
AT LOWEST CASH PRICES, address
ROBT. J. HARP, Agent,
112 Camp street.
Jy18 1m

READY-PREPARED
PLASTIC SLATE ROOFING.


Thoroughly Fire-Proof and Durable.
Adapted to any style of roof, steep or flat. Can be applied by any one. Its cost on the roof is less than shingles in nearly every section of the country, and the water from it is of the best quality. Sample sent on application to
EDWARD THOMPSON, Manufacturer,
je27 1m 184 Peter street, New Orleans.

THE BECKWITH SEWING MACHINE.
PATENTED APRIL 10, 1871.
PRICE, $10, Including Hemmer, Guide, four Needles, Bottle of Oil and Can.
The First and Only Successful Low-Priced Machine Made.


PRACTICAL, DURABLE, SIMPLE and Beautiful. Capable of making by hand upward of 800 Stitches per Minute and there is very little Family Sewing that this machine will not do as well as a $75 machine, and some work it will do better.
It is well and strongly made of the best material, but compact and light, and takes up but little room. Nickel-plated throughout.
Its SIMPLICITY adapts it to all capacities. Every machine is fully warranted for Two Years.
Full directions for running the machine, hemming, tucking, hem-stitching, etc., accompany every machine.
Parties in the city wishing to purchase a machine can see one in operation at Mrs. Robertson's, dress maker, corner of Camp and Julia streets, up stairs, over the cigar store, and where they can leave their orders.
Single machines sent to any address, carefully boxed, with all the equipments, on receipt of $10. For full particulars send for circular.
Address
EDWARD THOMPSON, 184 Peter St., New Orleans,
Energetic Agents Wanted. (je27 6m) Agent of the Manufacturer.

"Southern Books for Southern Schools."
School-Books which are Unsectional, Unpartisan, and Unpolitical.
PREPARED BY THE MOST EMINENT SOUTHERN SCHOLARS, AND
ENTIRELY ACCEPTABLE TO SOUTHERN TEACHERS AND PARENTS.
The University Publishing Co.,


An Association composed of many of the several Southern States, feel—School Books which should be entirely unpolitical, and in their teaching thought and feeling of the Southern the facts of history and science—of School and College Text-books and educators named below, which of the most eminent citizens of ing the necessity for a series of finely unsectional, unpartisan, and should not be offensive to the people—which should present only are now issuing a complete series by the eminent Southern scholars are the
Cheapest, Best, and Most Beautiful School-Books
Now published. The "University Series" embraces
MAURY'S GEOGRAPHICAL SERIES,
By Commodore M. F. Maury, of the Virginia Military Institute. A series of books which mark an era in the study of this science, and which, in the words of a well known and accomplished Southern teacher, "are characterized by a felicity of arrangement and simple freshness of style which must ever render them attractive to the young, and which will be used by all who wish to teach Geography as a Science, as something to make pupils think, and not merely as an enumeration of dry facts."
Holmes' Readers and Spellers,
By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL.D., Professor of History and General Literature in the University of Virginia. A series of Readers unequalled in cheapness, excellence, and typographical beauty. They are steadily progressive in character, bright and fresh in their selections of prose and verse, and illustrative of Southern scenes, incidents, and history.
Venable's Arithmetical Series,
By CHARLES S. VENABLE, LL.D., Professor of Mathematics in the University of Virginia. These books are received everywhere by teachers with the highest satisfaction, as being most admirably adapted for mental discipline, as well as for practical business education. Their methods, rules, and reasonings are clear, [illegible] comprehensive, and the series is carefully graded throughout.
Holmes' History of the United States,
By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL.D., of the University of Virginia. It is enough to say of this admirable work, interesting, impartial, and truthful as well as pure and graceful in style, that it is the only History of the United States [illegible] to Southern teachers and parents. It comes down to the present date.
THE "UNIVERSITY SERIES" OF SCHOOL-BOOKS
COMPRISES, ALSO,
De Vere's French Grammar, Readers, etc.,
By M. SCHELE DEVERE, LL.D., Professor of Modern Languages in the University of Va.
Gildersleeve's Latin Series,
By B. L. GILDERSLEEVE, Ph.D., LL.D., of the University of Virginia.
Carter's Elements of General History,
By Rev. J. P. CARTER, A.M., of Baltimore, Maryland.
Holmes' English Grammars,
By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL.D., of the University of Virginia.
LeConte's Scientific Series,
By the Professors LECONTE, late of the University of South Carolina.
Johnston's English Classics,
By R. M. JOHNSTON, A.M., late Professor of Rhetoric and Belles-Lettres in the University of Georgia.
To which list other books in other departments will early be added.
Send for our full ILLUSTRATED DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, which will be mailed free to any teacher or school officer. Liberal terms given for introduction.
Address
UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING COMPANY,
155 and 157 Crosby Street, New York.
A full supply of "The University Series" always on hand, and teachers and schools supplied by R. J. HARP, Bookseller, 112 Camp St., New Orleans,
And by all prominent booksellers throughout the South.
W. IRVING CLARKE, the General Agent, will furnish any information, and afford every facility to teachers for examining the series. Office—92 CAMP ST., New Orleans. mh7 1y

Carpet and Oil Cloth Warehouse.
J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.
ELKIN & CO.,
168.....CANAL STREET.....168
Near Baronne, New Orleans,
IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF ENGLISH CARPETINGS, RUGS, Etc.
—ALSO—
Oil Cloths, Mattings,
Lace and Damask Curtains,
Window Shades, etc.,
—AND A—
Complete Assortment of Upholstery Goods.
fe8 1y

MINERAL SPERM OIL.
GUARANTEED AS SAFE AS SPERM OR LARD OIL.
It Will Not Take Fire in Case of Breakage of the Lamp.
THE OIL WILL EXTINGUISH the FLAME.
The Oil itself has no odor while burning. It gives a Light of TEN-CANDLE POWER at a cost not exceeding ONE-HALF CENT PER HOUR, and for lighting railroad cars, steamers, factories and dwelling houses it is invaluable and cannot be too highly recommended.
The Oil is patented, and made by a process which insures its uniformity.
It burns with great brilliancy in the
DUAL BURNER;
requires but little attention and no trimming. The Oil never gums in the lamp, as it absorbs no oxygen from the atmosphere. It does not deteriorate by age. This Burner fits all ordinary coal oil lamps.
BOSTICK & SEYMOUR,
Sole Agents for Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi and Texas.
45 and 47 Front st., and 46 and 48 Fulton st.,
mh28 6m New Orleans.

EXCHANGE HOTEL,
JOHN SUMMERS, PROPRIETOR,
GALVESTON, TEXAS.
This is the only Hotel in the city which has FREE OMNIBUSES to and from the cars and boats for the use of guests. Ask for Exchange Hotel Omnibus. feb1 1y

AGENTS! QUICK! or you will miss choice of territory (there is a rush for it) on HO LEWIS' last and greatest work,
OUR DIGESTION,
OR MY JOLLY FRIENDS' SECRET.
It is by odds the most taking and salable book in the field. 1. It is on a vitally important subject. 2. It is by America's most popular writer on health. 3. It is, for the price, the largest and handsomest book ever sold by subscription. Agents, the people are eager for such a book, and will urge you to bring it to them. Write for terms, etc., free.
GEORGE MACLEAN, Publisher,
my2 3m 733 Sansom st., Philadelphia.

MENEELY'S BELLS.
THE genuine Troy Church Bells known to the public since 1826, which have acquired a reputation unequaled by any, and a sale exceeding that of all others—including more than seventy chimes and peals. One thousand testimonials received during the last six years. Every Bell made of best Copper and Tin, and formally warranted. New Patent Rotary Fixtures. Catalogues free. No agencies.
Post office address, either TROY or WEST TROY, New York.
je13 1y E. A. & G. B. MENEELY.

A FULL AND COMPLETE ASSORTMENT, E. BITTERICK & CO.'S CELEBRATED PATTERNS, all styles and sizes. Send for descriptive catalogue at the office of WM. E. COOPER & CO.,
No. 89 Canal street,
Agents for the Singer Improved Family Sewing Machine.
Now ready, the new "Dolly Varden" Pattern, all sizes. je6 2m

WM. PHILLIPS, UNION STABLES, 180 Calliope, near St. Charles street, has every accommodation in the line of Pleasure and Family Carriages, such as hacks, broughams, phætons, buggies, etc., for the use of the public, and at rates to correspond with the stringency of the times. All hacking done below tariff rates. Orders for weddings, balls, picnics, races, etc., will be attended to so as to guarantee satisfaction. I am also prepared to hire vehicles (alone) to parties having their own horses. de14 1y

MEDICAL.

Dunbar's Wonderful Discovery,

BETHESDA MINERAL WATER.
The acknowledged cure for Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Liver and Billious Affections, Kidney and Urinary diseases.
Sold, wholesale or retail, at 38 Magazine street.
H. D. HUFF,
Sole Southern Agent.
Address Glass Box 825. my30 3m

CONSUMPTION.....CONSUMPTION.
NEW TREATMENT BY
DUCRO'S ALIMENTARY ELIXIR
prepared with raw meat and alcohol. Recommended by the highest medical authority in Paris. A radical cure, and in desperate cases a
CERTAIN RELIEF.
Agreeable to the taste. Incontestably superior to Cod Liver Oil, the hypophosphites, and other preparations. This Elixir, the basis of which is raw meat and alcohol, is moreover one of the most powerful tonics for persons convalescing or feeble, for chlorotic young girls, debilitated old persons, etc.
Depot in New Orleans at
MR. P. CUSACHS',
Corner St. Philip and Royal streets,
my16 3m New Orleans,
Sole agent for the United States.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A POPULAR MUSIC BOOK!
AT A POPULAR PRICE!
"THE SCEPTER,"
By Dr. A. BROOKS EVERETT,
ONLY $1.00.—BY THE DOZEN, $10.50.
"THE SCEPTER" contains a large variety of most valuable material, embracing Hymn-tunes, Anthems, Glees, the "Everett System of Teaching Vocal Music," etc., by the well-known professor of music, Dr. A. BROOKS EVERETT, recognized throughout the Southern States as a most successful and popular teacher of the art of singing, as well as the author of many of the most popular tunes contained in the Tabor or Richmond Collection.
"THE SCEPTER"
also contains contributions by Profs. E. M. McIntosh, B. H. Everett and other well-known composers, as well as a large number of old standard tunes.
Every Choir Leader and Teacher of Music should examine "THE SCEPTER."
Sent, post paid, on receipt of $1.
PUBLISHED BY
BIGLOW & MAIN, NEW YORK,
SUCCESSORS TO WM. B. BRADBURY,
Publishers of the most popular series of SUNDAY SCHOOL SONG BOOKS—Golden Chain, Shower and Censer, Fresh Laurels, Bright Jewels, Pure Gold, etc. For sale by Booksellers generally. jy18 3m

SWINTON'S CONDENSED
SCHOOL HISTORY.
(From the Virginia Educational Journal.)
Mr. Swinton's reputation led us to examine this book. What is of most importance in the work is its extreme fairness. It is vastly superior, in this respect, to any history issued at the North that we have seen. Where accuracy seems almost impossible, he comes nearer to the truth than the others.
NEW SCHOOL BOOKS.
SWINTON'S WORD ANALYSIS.
CATHCART'S YOUTH'S SPEAKER.
ARITHMETICAL EXAMPLES (Mental and Written.)
KERL'S SHORTER COURSE IN GRAMMAR.
A Descriptive Catalogue of the American Educational Series, and our Educational Reporter, mailed free to any address upon application.
Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co.,
Or T. MORONEY, General Agent,
mh28 1y 92 Camp street, New Orleans.

SAVE $20.

THE NEW WILSON UNDER-FEED.
The Best and Cheapest First-Class Shuttle SEWING MACHINE In the World.
Agents Wanted.
WM. GREGG & CO., Gen'l Southern Agents, No. 189 Canal street, New Orleans, La.
je27 6m

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY,
Established in 1837.
Superior Bells for Churches, Schools, etc., of Pure Copper and Tin, fully warranted, and mounted with our Latest Improved Rotary Hangings, the best in use.
Illustrated Catalogue sent free
VANDUZEN & TIFT,
102 & 104 E. Second St., Cincinnati
fe22 1y

fe11 1y

PRICE WILLIAMS & SON,
Exchange and Real Estate Brokers
MOBILE, ALABAMA.
Dealers in Bills, Bonds, Notes and Stocks of every kind. Plantations, and lands unimproved, for sale in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. Also every class of Real Estate in Mobile, Alabama. Rent, and pay taxes and insurance on Real Estate in Mobile. Invest money on mortgages, etc., and collect claims.
REFERENCES.
Messrs. Baker, Lawler & Co., Mobile, Ala.
Moses Waring, Esq., Mobile, Ala.
Hon. Milton Brown, Jackson, Tenn
Bishop J. C. Keener, New Orleans
Bishop Paine, Mississippi.
Bishop McTyeire, Nashville, Tenn.
Messrs. John T. Farwell & Co., Chicago.
Dean, McGinnis & Co., N. Y. no26 1y

JOHN D. MACLIN, (Late R. D. Maclin.) L. C. MACLIN,
COAL! WOOD! COAL!
Pittsburg, Anthracite and Cannel Coal, Oak, Ash and Pine Wood, at the lowest market rates, delivered to any part of the city.
Offices—20 Carondelet street, and corner of Third and Tchoupitoulas. mh7 1y

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

(From the New Orleans Price Current.)

The weather has continued showery. The accounts from Mississippi of worms and excessivo rains nre assuming a much more serious character, and those from parts of Louisinna, northern Texas and Arkansas are also discouraging, while the reports from Alabama show disasters from tho floods in the tributaries of the Alabama which are almost without precedent. It is estimated there that the crop has heen cut off 40,000 bales by these calamities, and, whether this be oxaggerated or not, it is manifest that there must be a large falling off. From middle and southern Texas, on the contrary, wo hear of none but the most favorable reports. Worms havo appeared there also, hut the plant is so much ndvnnced, and its foliage so tough and matured, that they cause hut little uneasiness, and the prospects aro thnt the yield will be largely in excess of last yenr.

The river is 11 feet 6 inches below high water mark.

COTTON.—Tho following are the arrivals since the nineteenth instant:

Louisiana and Mississippi.....bales..	281
Mobile.....	71
Florida.....	2
Texas.....	11
Total.....	365

On Satnrday the only sale reported was 75 bales, taken for Liverpool, at —. On Monday 78 bales changed hnnds, including 75 to one buyer at 20½c. for striet good ordinary, nnd 20½c. for n trifling lot of low middling, for which, however, no order of nny magnitude could have been filled at less than 21c. On Tuesday 192 bales were taken by two buyers at 19c. for strict ordinary to good ordinary, 19½c. for good ordinary, and 20½@20¾c. for low middling. A high style of low middling, approximting if not fully striet, was offered at 21c.

The receipts proper at this port, since the first of September, (exclusive of the arrivals from Mohile, Florida and Texas,) are 953,014 bales, against 1,428,169 bales to the same date last year, and the decrease in the receipts at all the ports, up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 1,247,324 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the snme date last year, there is an increase of 51,057 to Frnnce, nnd a decrease of 898,836 to Great Britain, and of 334,875 to other foreign ports.

We quote:

Good ordinary.....	19½ @ 20
Low middling.....	20½ @ 21

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1871, bales.		25,323
Arrived past three days..	765
Arrived previously.....1,056,148
Waste and damaged cotton, samples, etc.....	14,939—1,065,472
		1,090,795
Exported past three days.	3,187
Exported previously.....1,078,983—1,082,170
Stock on hand and on shipboard..		8,625

SUGAR.—On Tuesday the market was dull, and the sales from first hnnds were confined to 10 hhds. yellow clnrified nt 11c. for first and 10c. for second. There were also resales of nearly 100 hhds. on the basis of the foregoing prices. Of city refinery, yellow clarified is selling on orders nt 11¼@11½c., white 12¼@12½c., crushed and powdered 13@13¼c., cut loaf 14@14¼c. ₱ lb.

MOLASSES.—A few bbls. thin and inferior were received from plantation and sold at 15c. ₱ gallon. City refinery is jobbing at 30c. for inferior, 40c. for common, 50c. for fnir, 55c. for prime, 60c. for choice, and 80c.@$1 ₱ gallon for golden sirup.

CORN—Has been in fair supply, with a moderate demand, at nbout previous prices. On Tuesday 4,500 sacks sold at 59c. for yellow mixed, 60c. for yellow and yellow mixed, and 70@71c. for white mixed, and 72c. for choice white.

OATS—Have been in good supply on the landing, with a fair demand at about previous prices. On Tuesday the sales embraced 4,500 sacks at 40c. for ordinary St. Louis, 40½@41c. for prime St. Louis, and 43c. for choice Galena.

BRAN—Has been in fair supply, and the demand being limited, prices ruled a little in favor of buyers. On Tuesday 1,000 sacks sold at $1.05@1.07½ ₱ 100 lbs.

PORK.—On Tuesday the market was quiet but firm. Mess was held at $13.25@$13.50 ₱ bbl., with offers of $13.12½ refused. 200 and 100 bbls. mess sold nt $13.25 ₱ bbl.

BACON.—On Tuesday the snpply was light and prices were higher. Shoulders were held at 7c., clear rib sides 9¼c., clenr sides 9½c. ₱ lb. The sales embraced 125 casks, in lots, at 9½c. for clear rib sides on the spot, 9⅜@9½c. for clear sides on the spot, and 9¼c. for clear sides to arrivc.

HAMS.—Choice sugar-cnred have continued scarce nnd in demnnd at full prices, and command 15@16c. ₱ lb. readily. There have been sales to the trade at these prices. On Saturday 100 tierces sold, in two lots to arrive, at 15c. ₱ lb. On Monday 55 tierces choice sold, to arrive, at 15¼@16c. ₱ lb.

LARD.—Keg lard is scarce and in demand, and higher, while tierce continues in moderate supply and fair demand for small lots.

BREAKFAST BACON.—The market is firm, with a fair supply, though there is not much demand. Western is quoted at 10¼@10½c. ₱ lb. Some 85 boxes were sold on Monday at these prices. Northern commands 11½c. ₱ lb.

BEEF.—The stock is light, with only a moderate local demand. Texas mess commands $11.50@$12, extra mess $12.50 ₱ hbl., and $9 for half bbls. Tierces are quoted at $17@$17.50 for mess, and $18@$18.50 for prime mess. Western is scarce, and selling at $15.50 @$16.

MONETARY.

Gold opened on Tuesday at 114⅛@114⅜, (against 114⅜ at New York,) and closed at 114¼@114½, (against 114⅝ at New York.)

The sales of silver embraced $4,000 in American half dollars on Saturday at 107½, and $3,500 on Monday at 108, and 500 Mexican dollars at 3 and 5 ₱ cent. premium in gold.

New Orleans Wholesale Prices.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
Agricultural Implements:
Cotton scrapers	4 50	6 00
Cotton sweeps	4 50	6 00
Cultivators, Diam. & shovel-tooth	7 75	10 50
Cultivntors, riding	45 00	60 00
Cultivators, walking	30 00	35 00
Shovels	7 00	14 50
Spades	7 00	16 00
Axes	10 00	15 00
Potato diggers	13 50	— —
Shovel plows	6 00	7 00
Half do., with cutters	8 00	9 00
Manly's D. S plow	6 00	9 75
Corn mills, Coleman's	120 00	425 00
Bread, ₱ 100 lbs:
Pilot	5 00	6 00
Loaf	— —	— —
Crackers	5 00	12 00
Navy	— —	4 50
Cream crackers	11 00	12 00
Bricks, ₱ M:
Lake	13 00	16 00
English fire	— —	50 00
American fire	40 00	— —
Candles, ₱ lb:
Sperm, New Bedford	33	36
Tallow	16	18
Chocolate, ₱ lb:
Cocoa	38	60
No. 1	50	52
Sweet and spiced	25	— —
Cider, ₱ bbl:
Western	— —	— —
Coal, ₱ ton:
Anthracite	12 00	13 00
Western, ₱ bbl	— —	80
Corks, ₱ 1000:
Regular	4 00	4 50
Pointed	2 70	4 00
Coffee, ₱ lb:
Havana (currency)	— —	— —
Java	25	27
Cordova	— —	— —
Copper, ₱ lb:
Brazlers'	48	— —
Copper bolts	48	— —
Yellow metal	30	32
Cordage, ₱ lb:
Manilla	19	20
Tarred, American	— —	16
Russian	16	— —
Cotton seed:
Rough, ₱ ton	— —	14 00
In sacks	— —	18 50
Dyes, ₱ lb:
Logwood, Camp'y	4	4½
Logwood, St. Domingo	4½	4¾
Fustic, Tampico	5	6
Indigo, ₱ lb	1 40	1 60
Madder	15	18
Eggs, ₱ dozen:
Western	10	18
Feathers, ₱ lb	80	90
Fish, ₱ box:
Cod	1 40	— —
Herrings	35	— —
Mackerel, No. 1, ₱ bbl	13 00	— —
Mackerel, No. 2	10 50	— —
Mackerel, No. 3	8 00	— —
Flaxseed, ₱ lb	4½	5½
Flour, ₱ bbl:
Double extra	5 12½	5 62½
Superfine	4 75	5 00
Fine	4 50	4 75
Fruit, ₱ lb:
Prunes	10½	13
Currants, new	9½	10
Almonds, soft shell	17½	18½
Almonds, shelled	30	— —
Glass, ₱ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	3 50	4 00
French, 10 by 12	3 75	4 25
French, 12 by 18	4 00	4 50
Gunny bags, ₱ bag	18	— —
Hay, ₱ ton:
Prime	26 00	— —
Choice	27 00	28 00
Iron, ₱ ton:
Pig	54 00	55 00
Country bar, ₱ lb	— —	— —
English	5½	7½
Swedes, assorted	6½	8½
Hoop	6½	8
Sheet	7	8½
Boiler	7½	8½
Nail rods	— —	9
Castings, American	5½	6
Lead, ₱ 100 lbs:
Pig	— —	9 50
Bar, ₱ lb	8½	8½
Sheet	12	— —
Pipe	12	— —
Leather, ₱ lb:
Sole, hemlock	33	34
Sole, oak	37	43
Harness	33	45
Calf skins, ₱ dozen	42 00	70 00
Texas, rough, ₱ lb	24	26
Lime, ₱ bbl:
Western	1 25	1 75
Cement	2 50	3 00
Plaster Paris	4 50	— —
Lumber, ₱ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	13 00	15 00
Boards, cypress	25 00	30 00
Flooring, dressed	25 00	30 00
Flooring, rough	15 00	18 00
Ceiling, dressed	20 00	25 00
Weatherboards, dressed	19 00	20 00
Weatherboards, rough	13 00	15 00
Scantling	13 00	15 00
Shingles, ₱ M	3 50	4 25
Laths	2 50	3 00
Moss, ₱ lb:
Country picked	4½	6
Clean picked	6½	7
Nails, ₱ keg:
American, 4@6d	5 60	5 75
Wrought, German, ₱ lb	14	16
Wrought, English	14	16
Oils:
Lard, ₱ gallon	68	73
Coal oil, in barrels	26	28
Coal oil, in cases	31	34
Linseed, raw	90	92
Sperm	— —	2 00
Whale, refined	95	1 00
Cotton seed, crude	— —	46
Cotton seed, refined	60	65
Castor	1 65	1 85
Olive, 22@24 oz	6 75	7 00
Olive, 11@12 oz	7 00	7 25
Tanner's, ₱ gallon	75	85
Soap, ₱ lb:
Western	5½	7
Northern	5½	7
Southern	4½	6½
Castile, genuine	12	— —
Castile, imitation	11	— —
Sardines:
Half boxes	34	35½
Quarter boxes	23½	24
Spices, ₱ lb:
Cassia	40	45
Cloves	19	20
Nutmegs	1 20	1 25
Pepper	21	21¼
Pimento	12	12¼
Sugar, ₱ lb:
Havana, white	— —	— —
Havana, yellow	10½	11½
Havana, brown	10¼	11
Crushed	13	13½
Pulverized	13	13¼
Teas, ₱ lb:
Imperial	45	1 10
Gunpowder	75	1 50
Hyson	75	1 25
Young Hyson	75	1 10
Oolong	45	1 10
Pouchong	30	50
Tin, ₱ box:
Illock	— —	— —
In plates, I. X	18 25	18 50
In plates, I. C	16 00	16 25
Leaded plates, I. X	17 25	17 50
Leaded plates, I. C	15 00	15 25

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, July 23, 1872.

Texas beeves, choice, ₱ head	$50 00	@	55 00
Texas beeves, 1st qual, ₱ head	35 00	@	45 00
Texas cattle, 2d qual, ₱ head	20 00	@	28 00
Texas cattle, 3d qual, ₱ head	14 00	@	18 00
Western beeves, ₱ lb. net	10	@	13
Hogs, ₱ lb. gross	4½	@	6
Sheep, first quality, ₱ head	5 00	@	6 00
Sheep, second qual., ₱ head	3 00	@	4 00
Sheep, third quality, ₱ head	2 00	@	2 50
Milch cows, choice, ₱ head	80 00	@	100 00
Milch cows, ₱ head	50 00	@	80 00
Texas cows, with calves	— —	@	— —
Calves, ₱ head	7 00	@	10 00
Yearlings, ₱ head	8 00	@	12 00

Special Notices.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting held at Carthage, Jackson district, Mississippi Conference, commencing on Thursday before and embracing the second Sabbath in September. It will be conducted on the primitive style. Provision will be made for all ministers and persons living at a distance. Persons living within ten or twelve miles of the camp ground must not expect accommodations from the citizens or tent-holders. All ministers are respectfully invited and urged to attend.

J. M. WEEMS, P. C.

Camden District Conference.

The Camden District Conference will be held at Georgiana, on the Mobile and Montgomery railroad, fifteen miles below Greenville, Alabama, August 21-25. Rev. M. E. Butt will preach the opening sermon on Wednesday night, August 21. The chairmen of committees are as follows: Denominational Education, S. A. Pilley and William Stott; Sunday Schools, M. E Butt and P. H. Saffold; Books and Periodicals, Nell Gillis and W. W. Drane; Missions, S. F. Pilley and W. G. Perry; Finance, T. M. Williams and F. C. Johnson; Parsonages, J. L. Skipper and Jere. S. Dudley; State of the Church, J. M. Scott and A. R. A. Purifoy; Temperance, D. J. Wright and J. M. Johnston. Let each of the above-named prepare a report for his committee. By resolution of the last District Conference, all preachers in charge are to have written reports, on separate slips of paper, for all the committees, on the first day of the session.

D. M. HUDSON, P. E.

Notice.

The delegates to the Seashore District Conference, which is to convene on Thursday, the first of August, at Moss Point, East Pascagoula circuit, will be furnished transportation on Wednesday and Thursday, from East Pascagoula station to Moss Point, free of charge.

U. B. PHILLIPS.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting, commencing on the sixth day of September, half-way between Pleasant Hill and Mansfield, in DeSoto parish, Louisiana. The people are expected and requested to come with wagons and tents, provided to take care of themselves, it is a new camp ground, and we do not know of any public entertainment.

R. PARVIN.

Union Springs District Conference.

The District Conference for the Union Springs district, Alabama Conference, will be held in Troy, Alabama, July 31, and August 1-4, inclusive. The opening sermon will be preached on Wednesday night, July 31, by Rev. Elisha Phillips, of Fort Deposit, Alabama. A full attendance is earnestly requested, as ample accommodations will be made for all.

J. W. SHORES, P. E.

Eufaula District Conference.

The District Conference for Eufaula district, Alabama Conference, is to be held at Clayton, commencing August 8.

JAS. L. COTTEN, P. E.

Seashore District Conference.

The District Conference of the Seashore district, Mississippi Conference, will be held at Moss Point church, East Pascagoula circuit, August 1-4. Bishop J. C. Keener will preside. All the preachers on the district are expected to attend, and make full and exact reports. The local preachers and lay delegates are also expected.

C. F. GILLASPIE, P. E.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

VICKSBURG DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Natchez	July 13, 14
Rocky Springs, at Steele chapel	Aug. 3, 4
North Warren, Hildale and Sunflower, at Beechland	10, 11
Cayuga, at Bear Creek	17, 18
South Warren, at Red Bone	24, 25
Clover Hill, at Tallula	30, Sept. 1
Rolling Fork	Sept. 7, 8
Fayette, at Belle Grove	14, 15
Kingston	21, 22

JOHN A. B. JONES, P. E., Port Gibson, Miss.

SUMMIT DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Pontchitonla and Livingston	July 6, 7
Summit and Magnolia	20, 21
Holmesville	27, 28
Amite City	Aug. 3, 4
Covington	10, 11
Greensburg	17, 18
Big Creek	24, 25
Franklinton	Sept. 7, 8
St. Helena	14, 15

The Summit District Conference will commence at Tangipahoa, Louisiana, on Friday, September 27, and embrace the fifth Sunday.

J. NICHOLSON, P. E.

JACKSON DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Yazoo City sta. and Silver Creek mission	July 6, 7
Madison circuit, at Vernon	13, 14
Sharon ct., at Thornton chapel	20, 21
Yazoo circuit, at Tranquil	27, 28
Mount Olivet circuit and Yazoo mission, at New Hope	Aug. 3, 4
Raymond circuit	10, 11
Brownsville circuit	17, 18
Sulphur Springs circuit, at Madisonville	24, 25
Camden and Thomastown circuits	31, Sept. 1
Carthage circuit	Sept. 7, 8

H. H. MONTGOMERY, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Brandywine, at Sarepta	July 6, 7
Scotland, at Sweet Water	13, 14
Pleasant Valley, at Pleasant Valley	20, 21
Burtenton, at Zion	27, 28
Beauregard, at Beauregard	Aug. 3, 4
Georgetown, at Georgetown	10, 11
Jackson, at Forest Hill	17, 18
Bogue Chitto	24, 25
Brookhaven and Brookhaven mission	31, Sept. 1
Crystal Springs and Crystal Sp'gs mission	Sept. 7, 8

The District Meeting will be held September 5, at nine o'clock A. M., at Crystal Springs. Bishop J. C. Keener will preside. A camp meeting is in prospect at the same time and place, on the plan recommended by the last District Conference.

W. E. M. LINFIELD, P. E. Post Office, Hazlehurst.

WOODVILLE DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

East Feliciana, at Oak Grove	July 13, 14
East Baton Rouge, at Black Water	20, 21
Jackson	27, 28
Wilkinson, at Pisgah	Aug. 3, 4
Buffalo, at Friendship	10, 11
Meadville, at Meadville	24, 25
Amite, at Hond's camp ground	31, Sept. 1

The District Conference for the Woodville district of the Mississippi Annual Conference will begin on the twenty-fifth of July, at half-past seven o'clock P. M., in the town of Jackson, Louisiana. Opening sermon by President Andrews. Brethren on their arrival will call at the Methodist church. Full written reports will be expected from the pastors, as the Discipline directs.

J. L. FORSYTH, P. E.

BRANDON DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Brandon circuit, at Shiloh	July 6, 7
Hillsboro circuit, at Good Hope	13, 14
Forest circuit, at Carr's church	20, 21
Philadelphia ct., at Philadelphia	27, 28
Decatur mission, at Hebron	Aug. 3, 4
Lake circuit, at Scotland chapel	10, 11
Morton circuit	24, 25
Trenton circuit	31, Sept. 1
Italeigh circuit	Sept. 7, 8
Taylorville mission	14, 15
Garlandsville circuit	21, 22

The District Conference will convene at Forest, August 16, at nine o'clock A. M. All the members, both elect and ex officio, will please be on time, as important business will come up on the first day of the conference. Dear brethren, as prominence is to be given to religious exercises at our District Conferences, let us make this a subject of special prayer, that it may be "a refreshing time from the presence of the Lord."

F. M. WILLIAMS, P. E.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Wayne circuit, at Scott's chapel	July 6, 7
Shubuta circuit, at Quitman	13, 14
Enterprise circuit, at Concord	20, 21
Enterprise station	27, 28
Marion circuit, at Toomsuba	Aug. 3, 4
Paulding circuit	10, 11
Clarke circuit	17, 18
Meridian station	31, Sept. 1

WM. B. HINES, P. E.

SEASHORE DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Pearlington ct., at Pearlington	July 6, 7
White Plains ct., at Little Biloxi	13, 14
Ocean Springs ct., at Handsboro	20, 21
West Pascagoula circuit, at Mt. Pleasant	27, 28
East Pascagoula circuit, at Moss Point	Aug. 3, 4
Greene mission	10, 11

Our District Conference will be held at Moss Point, commencing on Thursday, the first day of August.

C. F. GILLASPIE, P. E.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

DEMOPOLIS DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Greene, at Palmetto	July 6, 7
Demopolis	20, 21
Forkland, at Watson's chapel	27, 28
Gainesville, at Ramsey	Aug. 3, 4
Cuba, at York	10, 11
Bladen, at Providence	17, 18
Butler, at Bright Water	24, 25
Gaston, at Thompkinsville	31, Sept. 1

S. H. COX, P. E.

MOBILE DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

St. Francis street	July 6, 7
Citronelle	13, 14
St. Stephen's, at Simms' chapel	20, 21
Eastern Shore	27, 28
Mount Pleasant, at Red Hill	Aug. 3, 4
Grand Bay mission, at Ellington	10, 11
Pollard ct., at Shepherd's chapel	17, 18
Pensacola	24, 25
Milton	31, Sept. 1

H. URQUHART, P. E.

SELMA DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Uniontown station	July 6, 7
Choctaw Corner circuit, at Choctaw Corner	13, 14
Peachtree circuit	20, 21
Selma station	27, 28
East Selma station	Aug. 3, 4
Reubert Hills ct., at Camp ground	10, 11
Orrville circuit	17, 18
Dayton and Spring Hill, at Spring Hill	24, 25
Linden and Flatwoods mission, at Spring Hill	24, 25

A. J. BRIGGS, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

YAZOO DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Winona, at Winona	July 6, 7
Greenwood and McNutt	13, 14
Valden, at Midway	20, 21
Durant, at Spring Hill	27, 28
Kosciusko and Bethel, at Bethel	Aug. 3, 4
Black Hawk	10, 11

There will be a camp meeting at Bethel, Attala county, Mississippi, beginning on Friday, August 2, embracing the first Sunday in August.

There will be a camp meeting at Spring Dale, Attala county, Mississippi, beginning August 16, embracing the third Sunday in August.

The District Conference of the Yazoo district, North Mississippi Conference, will meet in Black Hawk, Carroll county, Mississippi, August 23, embracing the first Sunday in September. The Black Hawk camp meeting will begin at the same time and place. All who can are cordially invited to attend these camp meetings, the ministerial brethren particularly. Our camp meetings are expected to be largely self-sustaining—that is, all attending will provide for themselves and their invited friends. We found this plan a good one last year. Let us come up in the spirit of prayer, nothing doubting, and the Master will be there.

The new Methodist church in Kosciusko will be dedicated on Sunday, July 14.

W. P. BANTON, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

LAKE PROVIDENCE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Oak Ridge and Prairie Mer Rouge, at Oak Ridge	July 13, 14
Waterproof, at Tensas chapel	Aug. 3, 4
Wesley and Jordan, at Jordan	10, 11
Lake Providence, at Ilawarra	17, 18
Bastrop, at Island DeSalrd	24, 25
Floyd and Delhi, at Midway	31, Sept. 1
Oak Grove, at Oak Grove	7, 8
Lind Grove, at Lind Grove	14, 15
Shelly Island, at Bonff Prairie	22, 23
Winnsboro, at Oakley	28, 29
Rayville, at Little Creek	Oct. 6, 7

J. T. DAVES, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Franklin (protracted meeting)	July 24-31
New Iberia	Aug. 3, 4
Bayou Bonff	10, 11
Plaquemine Brulee	24, 25
Coulee Croclie	31, Sept. 1
Abbeville	Sept. 7, 8

I hope to spend at least five days at each quarterly meeting.

B. F. WHITE, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Carondelet street	July 7
Cadiz street, Louisiana avenue and Carrollton	14, 15
Quarterly Conference at Louisiana avenue, Monday night	22
Algiers and Thibodaux—preaching at Houma	28
Quarterly Conference at Algiers	Aug. 4
Felicity street	11
German charges—Quarterly Conference at Dryades street	16
Plaquemine	Sept. 1
Morgan street	15
Baton Rouge	28, 29

LINUS PARKER, P. E.

MINDEN DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Minden circuit, at Pine Grove	July 13, 14
North Bossier, at Red River	20, 21
South Bossier, at Cotton Valley	27, 28
Sparta, at Sparta	Aug. 10, 11
Mount Lebanon, at Athens	17, 18
Bistineau, at Liberty chapel	31, Sept. 1

The District Meeting for Minden district will be held at Minden, commencing Wednesday, October 2, including the first Sabbath in the month. Preachers and official members of the church within the bounds of the district are specially invited. Visiting ministers will be heartily received.

N. M. SKIPWORTH, P. E.

SUGAR MILLS

FOR THE VERY BEST AND

Latest Improved Sugar Machinery,

consisting of CANE MILLS, Evaporators, Chrifiers, Grates, Doors, Skimmers, etc., also CIDER MILLS, and the celebrated COTTAGE FRUIT DRYERS, address, for Price List and Catalogue,

SOUTHERN MANUFACTURING CO., je20 2m Nashville, Tenn.

NEW ORLEANS BRANCH

Southern Life Insurance Company

OF MEMPHIS, TENNESSEE.

Office—46 Carondelet St., New Orleans.

☞ Good and reliable Solicitors wanted. my23 3m

A GREAT CHANCE FOR AGENTS. Do you want an agency, lean or travelling, with an opportunity to make $5 to $20 a day selling our new 7-strand White Wire Clothes Lines? They last forever; sample free, so there is no risk. Address at once Hudson River Wire Works, cor. Water St. and Maiden Lane, New York, or 16 Dearborn street, Chicago, Illinois. au24 1y

DRY GOODS—CLOTHING.

D. H. HOLMES,

155.....CANAL STREET.....155

—AND—

15.....BOURBON STREET.....15

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER

—IN—

ALL DESCRIPTIONS

—OF—

DRY GOODS,

—SUCH AS—

SILKS, TISSUES, EMBROIDERIES, LACES, SHAWLS, CLOAKS, MADE SUITS, ETC.

The attention of the public is respectfully called to our stock, which will be found most complete, embracing every kind of Fancy and Staple Goods.

ap25 6m

W. H. PIERSON. E. L. HEWS.

PIERSON & HEWS,

DEALERS IN

Fine Clothing & Furnishing Goods,

NOS. 13 AND 15 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

feb15 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

ORGANS.

SEND TO

ROBERT J. HARP, AGENT,

112 Camp St., New Orleans,

FOR

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUES

OF THE

WOODS ORGANS,

FOR

Churches, Families, Sabbath Schools and Schools.

☞ NO BETTER IN THE MARKET. ☜ my2 1f

IMPORTANT TO PLANTERS.

IRON COTTON TIES.

THE ARROW TIE AND ALL OPEN-SLOT TIES.

The above-described Ties are the best and most popular Ties in use for Baling Cotton. They are manufactured of the best quality of English iron, by J. J. McCOMB, Liverpool, England, and are sold under full guarantee, at the lowest market price, by all dealers in Baling Stuffs in New Orleans, Mobile, Galveston, Savannah, Charleston, Wilmington, Petersburg, Baltimore, Memphis, Louisville, Nashville, New York, and by country merchants generally throughout the Cotton States.

BARTLETT & RAYNE, General Agents, 48 Carondelet street, cor. Union, my30 6m New Orleans.

SHERMAN HOUSE, NO. 1 WEST TWENTY-Sixth street, New York.—MR. ELKINS, Proprietor. Strangers visiting New York, desiring the comforts and retirement of a home and attendance of a hotel, in a first-class central location, can find the same at from $25 to $40 per week for a gentleman and wife; transient, $3 per day; American plan; lodgings, $1. je27 3m

STEAMSHIPS.

New Liverpool Line of Steamers,

Built expressly for the New Orleans trade, to cross the Bar at all times without detention.

Liverpool and Mississippi Steamship Company.

First-class Powerful Screw Steamers.

ST. LOUIS, Capt. Smith	1,827 tons.
MEMPHIS, Capt. Weeks	2,300 "
MISSISSIPPI, Capt. Pierson	2,500 "
TEXAS, (building)	2,500 "
VICKSBURG, "	2,500 "
MISSOURI, "	2,500 "

FOR LIVERPOOL DIRECT—The steamship

——, commander,

To sail on ——, 1872,

from her wharf, foot of St. Mary street, Fourth District.—Will receive and sign through bills of lading to Havre, Bremen, Hamburg, Antwerp, Rotterdam and all Continental ports.

Parties desirous of sending for their friends can purchase prepaid emigration tickets here. A reduction allowed when applied for in groups.

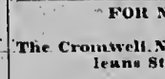
For freight or passage, having superior accommodations, apply to

MEEKER, KNOX & CO., 40 Carondelet street.

Managing owners—FLINN, MAIN & MONTGOMERY, 12 Launcelot Hay, Chapel street, Liverpool. my16 3m

FOR NEW YORK.

The Cromwell New York and New Orleans Steamship Line.



Steamers of this Line leave New Orleans for New York EVERY SATURDAY at 5 P. M.

Cabin passage	$50 00
Steerage passage	25 00

Through bills of lading to foreign and coastwise ports issued.

ALFRED MOULTON, mh21 1y 41 Carondelet street.

FOR NEW YORK.

MERCHANTS' STEAMSHIP LINE.

Sailing from New York and New Orleans EVERY SATURDAY.

Cabin passage	$50 00
Steerage passage	25 00

Through tickets to Liverpool and the Continent.

New Orleans wharf, foot of Jefferson street. New York wharf, Pier No. 4, North river.

JOHN H. LUDWIGSEN, Agent, feb8 1y No. 190 Common street.

MOBILE ADVERTISEMENTS.

JOHN DOUGLAS, DEALER IN

Fancy and Staple Dry Goods,

NOS. 102 AND 104 DAUPHIN STREET, MOBILE, ALABAMA.

Agent for the Florence Sewing Machine. All goods warranted as represented and sold at the lowest rates for Cash, our object being large sales and small profits. ja1 1y

OTIS' STEAM SAW, PLANING AND GRIST MILLS, AND BLACKSMITH'S SHOP,

Corner of Water and Madison Streets, MOBILE, ALABAMA.

Orders received at the above Mills for all kinds of Lumber, dressed or rough. Fresh Meal, bolted or unbolted, always on hand. Also all styles of Moldings.

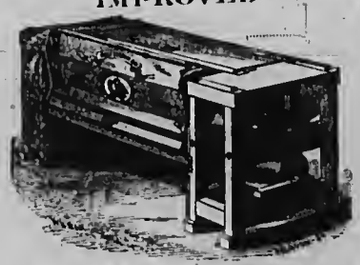
my2 3m WILLIAM OTIS.

WAVERLY STABLES, HAYDEN & MEENAN, Proprietors, LIVERY AND SALE STABLES, No. 39 North Royal Street, Mobile.

Carriages and Buggies of the latest styles, and superior Horses, furnished at all hours. Calls of every description will receive prompt attention. ja4 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

IMPROVED



EAGLE COTTON GINS.

THE GREAT POPULARITY of the EAGLE COTTON GINS is established from the well-known fact that they are the most reliable, strongest and best built Cotton Gins ever made. The Eagle Cotton Gin runs lighter than any other gin, thus having a great advantage for planters who wish to run by horse power. All the numerous planters who use the Eagle Cotton Gin will certify to the fact that when their cotton is sent to market it always brings the highest market price, as no other gin can produce a finer or a better sample of cotton than the Eagle Cotton Gins. Over seventeen thousand of the Eagle Cotton Gins have been made and sold. During a period of twenty years the undersigned has had the agency of the Eagle Cotton Gin in New Orleans. He has never had a gin returned or rejected out of the immense number sold. The saw cylinders of all the Eagle Cotton Gins are twelve inches in diameter, which is two inches larger than most other kinds of gins, thus giving our forty-saw gin more teeth, and they are more than equal to the fifty-saw gins of other makers, who use only a ten-inch cylinder, and the same great advantage of the twelve inch cylinder in larger sized gins can be easily estimated. Planters who wish a reliable cotton gin, with an established reputation, can purchase an Eagle Cotton Gin with a certainty that they are not making an untried experiment, but will obtain a cotton gin which is indorsed by the oldest and largest planters in the country as the best in use. A large stock of the Eagle Cotton Gins are always kept on sale in New Orleans, ready for immediate shipment. Planters should be particular to state if they want right or left-hand motion gins.

PRICES.

40-Saw Gin	$200	65-Saw Gin	$325
45-Saw Gin	225	70-Saw Gin	350
50-Saw Gin	250	75-Saw Gin	375
55-Saw Gin	275	80-Saw Gin	400
60-Saw Gin	300

All orders should be addressed to W. L. CUSHING, No. 61 St. Charles street. Sole Agent for the Southern States. Agents wanted. jy4 3m

JOHN GIBSON,

ENGRAVER

AND

Steam Power Lithographic Printer,

83 BEEKMA

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. XVIII. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, AUGUST 1, 1872. NO. 31.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

Washington, July 24.—The Marquis de Noailles was to-day introduced to the President by the Secretary of State, and delivered his credentials as minister plenipotentiary of the French Republic.

New York, July 25.—About eight o'clock last night a fire broke out in the carpenter shops of the Erie Railroad Company, near the shore end of the long dock, in Jersey City, of which the shops formed the eastern end. Some workmen state that the fire was occasioned by fires left unbanked in the blacksmith shop when the men left at six o'clock. Another account says a barrel of oil exploded—cause unknown. Still another account locates the commencement in the carpenter shop, where evidences were first discovered. Over five hundred workmen are thrown out of employment. The machinery amounts to $177,000, the locomotives to $345,000, the buildings to $80,000. The conflagration was witnessed by probably thirty thousand people. All the books and papers in the shops were destroyed.

The loss of the Erie buildings in Jersey City last night, by the latest estimate, is placed at $800,000, fully covered by insurance in thirty different companies.

San Francisco, July 29.—Advices from Japan say that the Mikado avoided a difficulty about the presentation of foreign ministers by consenting to both parties standing during reception, which satisfies the English minister. The first party so presented was Admiral Jenkins, of the United States navy.

Disaffection and threatened revolt is reported among the Chinese troops at Foo Chow.

The crews of two Lechn vessels that were wrecked on the coast of Formosa were massacred by the natives.

New York, July 30.—A heavy fire is raging at Hunter's Point. Over seven vessels have been destroyed by the flames, and tugs are engaged in towing others away. The conflagration has caused a panic among the people at Hunter's Point. The Standard Oil Works were entirely consumed by three o'clock.

Washington, July 30.—Mr. Sumner has written to a number of citizens who addressed him. Mr. Sumner declares for Greeley.

Selma, July 30.—The army and boll worms have appeared in large numbers, and are doing much damage to the black lands west of Selma. The crop will be short.

Jefferson, Tex., July 30.—A fire broke out, at three o'clock this morning, in the upper part of Freeman's Hall, totally destroying the building and the two entire blocks bounded by Market, Vale and Austin streets and the bayou. Some twenty business houses were destroyed, including the St. Charles Hotel. The total lose is estimated at $150,000. Supposed incendiarism.

FOREIGN.

Matamoras, July 24.—General Rocha telegraphed from Monterey, this afternoon, that President Juarez had died on the night of the eighteenth instant, from an attack of apoplexy, which had seized him at five o'clock P. M. of that day, and directed that the flags of the government should be placed at half-mast. The news was received by all classes with astonishment, and was not credited until it was confirmed by a second dispatch from General Rocha.

The presidency of the republic will devolve upon Lerdo de Tejada, the chief justice of the Supreme Court, until Congress shall order an election to fill the vacancy. Tejada, until recently, was secretary of foreign affairs in President Juarez's cabinet, but lately has been in opposition to the government, and regarded as sympathizing with the revolutionists, although remaining in the City of Mexico and taking no active part with the insurgents.

St. Petersburg, July 24.—The cholera is abating in virulence. The deaths the past week are as follows: St. Petersburg, one hundred and twenty-six; Moscow, thirty-two; Odessa, eighty-four.

London, July 27.—Mademoiselle Christine Nilsson was married at Westminster Abbey to-day to M. Ronseand, of Paris. The nuptials were witnessed by an immense assemblage of people, including many of the aristocracy and well-known artists.

Matamoras, July 29.—A special dispatch of the twenty-eighth says: An official communication was received here to-day, via Tamplco, from the minister of war, Metfia confirming the report of the death of President Juarez, on the eighth instant, of heart disease. Lerdo de Tejada was immediately inaugurated.

Brussels, July 29.—The Independence Belge states that the awards of the Geneva Tribunal of Arbitrators, in cases of the privateers Florida and Alabama, will together amount to £1,500,000.

Madrid, July 29.—The statement that the government intends selling the property which it has seized, belonging to persons engaged in the Cuban insurrection, is to-day denied.

Another band of Carlist insurgents has been defeated, with the loss of eight killed and thirty wounded.

Rome, July 29.—The Pope will shortly issue an encyclical, declaring the Society of Armenian Catholics to be separated from the Church of Rome, and placing them under the ban of major excommunication.

MR. GLADSTONE.

Dr. Cuyler, in the New York Observer, gives us a sketch of the British premier as he appeared at home!

On Tuesday morning I spent a most interesting and delightful half hour with the Hon. Mr. Gladstone, at his residence in Carlton House Terrace. The premier lives very handsomely in a stately old mansion, well adorned with paintings and sculpture. He receives his guests with much of the affable dignity of Daniel Webster. I wish that I dare to report the noble utterances of the great statesman during his conversation on the unhappy controversy now raging between the two nations. It was not only the utterance of a true statesman, but of a true Christian. I have had the good fortune to converse freely with some of the most eminent men of Britain and America; but no one of them ever so impressed me by his simple grandeur of bearing, of speech and of pure moral purpose as did William E. Gladstone. He has a warm heart withal, and large, loving sympathies with the poorest and lowliest.

Some time ago a poor street-sweeper, while sick, told his minister that he had been "visited by Mr. Gladstone!" "What Gladstone?" inquired the rector. "Why," replied the sick man, "the only Mr. Gladstone. I used to sweep his crossin'; and one day he missed me, and he hears that I am sick, and so he comes and sees me and prays with me." With such a man we can safely trust any negotiations on any great question of moral right.

This morning I had the honor of breakfasting with the premier; the other guests being the venerable Dean Ramsay, of Edinburg, and the Rev. Newman Hall, and Prof. Talbot, of Oxford. The impression produced in my first impression was deepened when I saw the great statesman in the familiar freedom of his own happy home. He unbent into the most lively playfulness, and a cozier chat I never enjoyed around a breakfast table. After breakfast came in the official dispatches from Geneva. The premier read them and said to me: "Everything looks well. I do not see what can possibly hinder the happy settlement of all our difficulties."

Mrs. Gladstone is not only a lady of most genial and attractive manners, but is thoroughly devoted to labors of love among the poor. Her "pet" institution of charity is a hospital for convalescents near Woodford. This she visits every week. She often goes to see the poorest sufferers in the old "city" end of London, sometimes leaving fresh flowers, as well as material aid, in the room of suffering. From no woman in England have I heard more noble utterances of devout and tender Bible religion than from the wife of the British premier. They have a large family, one of the sons being an Episcopal clergyman. As I left the mansion, this morning, I met the Duke of Argyll in the hall, paying his usual morning visit to the head of the government. The real ruler of England is not in Windsor Palace. He is in Carlton House Terrace; and God grant that he may long be there!

The poor woman who complained that her photograph was very homely, was told to come again with a handsome face.

The Iowa House of Representatives has passed a bill totally abolishing the death penalty, by the vote of 66 yeas to 22 nays.

MOUNT STERLING HIGH SCHOOL.

Mr. Editor: Let us speak of what we are proud—our school. The commencement sermon was preached on Sunday, the twenty-third ultimo, by Rev. Mr. Kirvin, of Marengo. Seldom has it been our pleasure to listen to a better sermon. His subject was "Wisdom," and he handled it as one who had "studied to show himself approved a workman, rightly dividing the word of truth." As a minister he is up with the spirit of the times and the progress of the age, and wields a heavy sword in defense of truth and piety.

The examination of pupils continued Monday and Tuesday. We have attended many similar exercises, conducted on various plans, but never one more fair—one that gave greater satisfaction to the public and to patrons; one that did more honor to teachers and more credit to pupils. It was an eminent success—a success that places this school among the very first of our Southern high schools.

On Tuesday evening, at half-past seven o'clock, the largest and most fashionable audience that we have ever seen in Choctaw met in the Methodist church of the village. The hum and bustle of the large crowd was finally stilled by the introduction of the first speaker of the evening, Mr. —— Taylor, late of Mobile, who addressed the audience in an eloquent style on the "Philosophy of Labor."

Happy was he in the choice of his subject, happy in its treatment, and proud he should be of the applause and compliments won from his appreciative listeners.

The second speaker was Prof. S. S. Mellen, the principal of the school, whose high character as a speaker secured him profound attention under the most unfavorable auspices. His theme was "The Teacher." In this field he was perfectly at home, and well and beautifully did his discourse demonstrate the fact. He took its dimensions with the hand of a master, and in his strides after truth he exposed with the boldness of sincerity the vice and ignorance too often found in this arena, but held out in eloquent periods the virtue and merit of the true teacher.

Wednesday was the great day. The young ladies read compositions, and the boys and young gentlemen delivered extracts and original speeches. The compositions, so far as we could hear, were good in matter and correctly read; the extracts well spoken, and the original speeches in good taste and handsomely delivered.

At the close of this exhibition the chairman of the examining committee read their report, in which they passed the highest encomiums on the school and faculty, and commended it to the patronage of the public.

Captain S. T. Prince was then introduced, and although the audience had been seated four hours, they seemed chained in fixed attention during his address on the two words—Time and Duty. Captain Prince is a young gentleman of brilliant parts and of unusual promise—a rising pet of the people of Choctaw, one of whom we are justly proud. His address on this occasion was pregnant with the soundest advice to his young countrymen, and although highly practical in its application, it was draped in the richest garlands of polished rhetoric, heightened in eloquence by the commanding person and graceful bearing of the orator.

All these exercises were appropriately interspersed with delightful music, under the direction of that highly gifted and most accomplished lady, Mrs. V. M. West, whose services and exquisite taste, on this occasion, will ever be remembered by a grateful community.

A sumptuous dinner was then spread for the vast crowd, of which all partook with a hearty good relish.

Dinner being over, Captain Woodie Stone, in command of the steamer Virginia, invited the young people to repair to Tuscahoma and participate in an excursion up the river to Tompkinsville. This festivity was managed only as Captains Woodie and Frank can manage such entertainments. They are always doing something to make themselves more and more beloved by the people along the Bigbee and Warrior. Long may their crafts plow our Southern waters, and our river friends extend to them that patronage that their genial manners and kind hearts entitle them to.

The Mount Sterling High School is located at Mount Sterling, a beautiful and healthful village in Choctaw county, Alabama, four miles from Tuscahoma Bluff, on the Bigbee river. It was taught this year by Prof. S. S. Mellen, assisted by Mr. V. M. West. Prof. Mellen is too well known to need any introduction at our hands. A thorough scholar, with an experience of thirty years, and the testimony of the faculties of nearly every college in the South as to the standing of his applicants, is a higher commendation than anything we might say.

We are sorry to say that Mr. West has found it necessary to remove to Mississippi. He is a scholar and a Christian gentleman, deserving the confidence and patronage of any community. He and his accomplished lady carry with them the love and best wishes of this community. Prof. Mellen has secured the services of Mr. Moody for the next scholastic year—a young gentleman whose attainments and character will do honor to any faculty with which he may be associated. Yours truly, A.

Mount Sterling, Ala., July 1, 1872.

SHARON FEMALE COLLEGE.

Mr. Editor: The subject of female education ought to attract, and is attracting, the attention of the country generally, and ought universally, as all are interested in it.

This old college, since 1836, has been sending out its pupils, instructed by the thousands, to bless and elevate society. They are to be found in nearly every State in the South, and in the Northwestern and Northern States. Her graduates have been successful as teachers. May her halls long be the gathering place for the daughters of this land, and may they go forth from them instructed, learned, moral and religious, to be blessings to the world and church.

The examinations and commencement exercises at the close of the last session, July 16, 17 and 18, gave evidence of the diligence, application, energy and faithfulness of teachers and pupils. Rev. J. M. Pugh, the president, is an earnest and persevering and successful educator. He deserves success, and his untiring application will secure success. The examination in the usual English branches was thorough and satisfactory, especially the senior class in the higher mathematics. That class of young ladies will make an impression on the circles where they may move and live. Three young ladies graduated and received the degree of mistress of English literature, viz.: Misses Mattie E. Holliday, Mary J. O'Leary, Emma M. Wiggins. The examinations passed by these young ladies gave evidence of thoroughness on their part. Their essays on commencement day were rich, and called forth the admiration and praise of the crowd—not by vociferous noise, but the smiling face, beaming eye, and words of praise—afterward. The literary address of the Rev. J. J. Smylie was appropriate, and pleased every one. Loud calls for its publication were made, but he declines.

This community is moral, and the large majority of old and young here are members of the church; only three or four persons are not connected with the Sunday school. It is one of the most healthy localities in the State. It costs less to educate a young lady here than in any school in the State, and as thorough scholars are made here as can be made of the material anywhere. Patronage ought to flow to this school.

The commencement exercises gave universal satisfaction, and sent all home in a fine good humor. Those from a distance said they had not witnessed one so grand and impressive anywhere before.

One Present.

Mr. Henry Bergh, president of the New York city Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, has protested against muzzling dogs during the summer, however great the heat may be. He says that the muzzle is a cruel instrument at such times, for dogs can only perspire through the open mouth. It is a relic of an old superstition that hydrophobia is caused by the heat, whereas careful observation by the veterinary surgeons of France, and other competent authorities, proves that canine madness is most prevalent not in the hottest but in the wettest seasons, and the summer months are just the period of the year when it is least common. From the records kept at the famous veterinary school of Alfort, near Paris, it appears that twice or three times as many cases occur in April, November and December as in June, July and August.

FROM THE WORK.

Castor Circuit, Louisiana Conference.

Mr. Editor: The good Lord is again visiting this part of the work with revival seasons. At all the appointments the church has been greatly blessed. Our second quarterly meeting has just closed, and was a time of power. Bro. Scott, presiding elder, was at his post, and long, long will the people of Pine Grove remember this his first visit among them. On the Louisville circuit, which was added to Castor at the last Conference, we have built a new, neat and well-arranged house of worship, and I think that Louisville, so long a terror to itinerants, will soon take her place alongside the first circuits in the Conference. The local preachers are rendering us great assistance. We have received into the church, to date, thirty-one, and we have just commenced a series of meetings with the most encouraging prospect.

J. W. Hearn.

Brookline, July 10, 1872.

Kosciusko, Mississippi.

Mr. Editor: Kosciusko has now the most beautiful church in Mississippi, so far as I know. We dedicated it yesterday, in the presence of a great multitude of deeply-interested friends. This beautiful house has been built this year, at a cost of $3,400, and paid for by the good people of Kosciusko and vicinity. Not a dollar collected abroad; not a cent raised on strawberry suppers, fairs, sociables, raffles or otherwise. It was built by the building committee, greatly aided and stimulated by the pastor, Rev. A. P. Sage, whose taste, tact, industry and skill are equal to any church building enterprise, if he only had Bro. John C. Lucas to carry out his plans. When we reached here on Saturday we found a debt of $1,500 to be provided for before the church could be dedicated on Sunday. That was a dark cloud, but it had its silver lining: Bishop Keener was expected hourly. We knew his herculean powers in such trials, and felt quiet, till a dispatch came informing me he could not come. I felt a chill at my heart; the clouds thickened, the rain came, and I felt gloomy. The Sabbath came, and though there was a sad disappointment—no Bishop—clouds threatening, the people filled the beautiful temple. We preached as best we could for a Bishop. We then made a statement of the case. We wanted $1,500, and proposed to take up $500 of that in $100 subscriptions. The building committee took several shares at once, and in a few minutes' $600 were raised on the hundred-dollar proposition. We then fell to $50 and to $25, then to $10 and $5, until we had more than we called for, and omitted the hat collection, that would have increased our receipts a few hundred more. On the twenty-five dollar call nearly all the young gentlemen contributed. It was the heartiest and best collection I ever witnessed. Our Presbyterian brethren, in addition to giving us the use of their house while ours was building, contributed freely, one brother giving $150.

For the benefit of others, let me tell how this beautiful church was built. The builder, Bro. J. C. Lucas, was backed up by a good committee, who resolved to have a good church, and, if need be, divide the expense of building among themselves. That is right—if men want a house for the Lord, let them resolve to have it. They felt assured, if they built such a church as the good sense and taste of the community approved, this good people would divide the burden with them. So they completed the work in the best style of the builder's art, fenced in with a neat oak fence dressed for the painter's brush, which will be applied at once. In the meantime the community have not been annoyed by suppers, fairs, raffles, etc.—no begging allowed under any pretext. When the building was completed every one saw it was just what was wanted, and when asked to pay the expense of building, you see the committee were not mistaken in the generosity of the community. They not only cheerfully paid the $1,500 due, but say that if any more is needed to add any finishing touches to fence, yard, etc., to call and get it. God bless this people. When the railroad reaches this point, which it is expected to do in 1873, Kosciusko, with its health, good society, churches and schools, will be one of the choice spots of Mississippi.

W. P. Barton.

Kosciusko, July 15, 1872.

The new bridge across Lake Champlain measures one thousand eight hundred feet in length—one-third of a mile.

CAMP MEETINGS.

Mr. Editor: The committee appointed by the Jackson (Mississippi Conference) District Conference, to consider the propriety of having and locating a district camp ground, met in Canton, Mississippi, on the nineteenth of July, 1872.

From the lights before them, owing to the territorial extent and peculiar shape, and other circumstances connected with the district, they did not deem it advisable to attempt to locate a district camp ground, but recommended that at least three camp grounds be located for what seemed to be the three divisions of the district, viz.: One at a spring north of the Stokes place, in Madison county; one at a spring north of the Pond, on the Benton and Yazoo City road, in Yazoo county; and one near Bolton, in Hinds county. The first would serve for the gatherings of preachers and people from Camden, Thomastown, Carthage, Sulphur Springs and Sharon circuits, and Canton station; the second for Yazoo circuit, Yazoo mission, Mount Olivet circuit, Yazoo City station, and Silver Creek mission; and the third for Brownsville, Raymond and Madison circuits, Jackson station and Canton station, if they may so desire.

The chairman of the committee was requested to publish these items in the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

H. H. Montgomery,
Chairman of Committee.

Camp Meeting, Crystal Springs, Miss.

Mr. Editor: Please announce that a meeting will be held at the new camp ground established in Copiah county, within three-fourths of a mile of Crystal Springs, beginning September 12.

Ample accommodations will be made for the members of the District Conference and visiting ministers, and others.

There will be a public boarding tent on the ground, furnishing the best meals and lodging at moderate charges. Besides, ample space will be left for those who desire to come in their own wagons, at their own charges.

Please accept a special invitation for yourself and the publisher of the Advocate, Bro. Harp, to be present and take part with us in our contemplated feast of tabernacles.

The time of holding the Crystal Springs quarterly meeting has been changed to September 14 and 15, to coincide with the time of the district meeting.

W. E. M. Linfield.

Rev. Messrs. Carson and Whisner.—We have been requested by our worthy and honored brethren, says the Baltimore Episcopal Methodist, to publish the following card, which will explain itself:

"We, the undersigned, members of the Committee of Investigation in the case of Dr. Huston, in view of the confusion in the mind of the church and public, produced by conflicting statements in the newspapers in regard to the verdict of the committee, and because our signatures to the verdict seem to be the cause of this conflict, deem it due to truth to make the following explanation:

There was a division of the committee upon some of the accusations, in which we were in the minority, and we signed the verdict of acquittal as the statement of a fact, that 'the charge is not sustained, as no one of the specifications has been sustained' by a majority vote of the committee.

Thos. E. Carson.
P. H. Whisner."

NO CAMP MEETING.

For good reasons there will be no camp meeting at Black Hawk, Mississippi. But the District Conference for Yazoo district will meet at Black Hawk, as formerly announced. Brethren, be prompt.

W. P. Barton, P. E.
K. A. Jones, P. C.

July 23, 1872.

Carthage Circuit, Jackson District, Mississippi Conference.

Mr. Editor: Unforeseen obstacles, and such as lie beyond the control of myself and those interested, have recently appeared, which make it impossible for us to hold our camp meeting. Yours truly, etc.,

J. M. Weems.

Carthage, Miss., July 28, 1872.

The Golden Key.—Begin every day with prayer. It is the golden key that unlocks heaven to pour down blessings on you.

End every day with prayer. It is the same golden key that locks you up under heaven's protection.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 1, 1872.

NO NIGHT THERE.

No night shall be in heaven—no gathering gloom
Shall o'er that glorious landscape ever come;
No tears shall fall in sadness o'er those flowers
That breathe their fragrance through celestial bowers.

No night shall be in heaven—no dreadful hour
Of mental darkness, of the tempter's power;
Across these skies no ominous clouds shall roll,
To dim the sunlight of the happy soul.

No night shall be in heaven—no cause to weep;
These eyes no more their mournful vigils keep;
Their fountains dried, their tears all wiped away,
They'll gaze undazzled on eternal day.

No night shall be in heaven—no sorrows reign,
No secret anguish, no corporeal pain,
No shivering limbs, no burning fever there,
No weary days, no winter of despair.

No night shall be in heaven—but endless noon;
No fast-declining sun, nor waning moon;
But breezes ever fresh with love and truth
Shall brace the frame with an immortal youth.

No night shall be in heaven—no parting there
From "darlings" whom our hearts hold dear;
In that happy home "pleasures banish pain,
And death hath no more power to reign."

No night shall be in heaven—but night is here:
The night of sorrow and the night of fear;
We mourn the ills that now our steps attend,
And shrink from others that may yet impend.

No night shall be in heaven—O had I faith
To rest in what the faithful witness saith,
That faith should make these hideous phantoms flee,
And leave no night henceforth on earth to me!

For the Advocate.

SPIRITUAL DEATH.

Mr. Editor: In order to get at the merits of the subject, we will take the sentence from Ezekiel xviii, 4: "The soul that sinneth, it shall die." These were the words of the Prophet Ezekiel when addressing himself to the house of Israel. We regard it as the word of God, divinely spoken through his prophet. The grand idea with him seems to be to persuade the children of Israel to turn from their wickedness back again to the service of God. He speaks to them a prophecy yet to be fulfilled. The occurrences of every day taught them that they must die, which was only a verification of the mandate that long before had emanated from God. But he also endeavors to impress upon them that the death of the body was not all the death there was to die, and hence he tells them that the soul shall die; that there was a dark, mysterious, unrevealed future yet to be opened and awaiting the soul, and that sin inevitably would be the death of that soul.

Then, again, in Hebrews ix, 27 we have: "And as it is appointed unto men once to die, but after death the judgment." This seems to me to mean that the body of man, which was made of the dust of the ground, and which is subject to decay, is to die. This body is the tenement or house of clay in which lies concealed or imbedded what we understand by the soul. The one was created from the dust of the ground, the other was the breath of God.

Philosophy for long ages sought to give materiality to the soul of man, and, writing up their determination in regard to its existence, gave it a residence in the head; its special seat beneath the base of the brain, resting upon the sphenoid bone. But anatomy, in all its dissection, has never been able to find but two kinds of matter in the head different from other portions of the human system, and even then its appendages ramify through the entire system, according to the demand for the same; and yet no vestige of a soul. If left entirely to anatomy the soul of man would never have been discovered, or determined an existence. But physiology, enlightened by divine inspiration or holy writ, has revealed a new existence and offered to man a new destiny. Upon the tombs of the ancients was written, "Death is an eternal sleep;" but engraved upon the tombstones of moderns we find, "We rest in hope."

The Bible has revealed to us the fact that there is a living, vital principle that does not become extinct at the death of the body; neither does it roam through boundless space—no spot on which to rest—nor does it habilitate itself with the body of the brute, and still live on, roaming the vast expanse, eating the grass, and wet with the dew of heaven, as was Nebuchadnezzar, but which returns to the God who gave it. From this living principle emanates thought, will, judgment, etc., the attributes of the mind, which are only the channels of communication, while the mind itself has been aptly termed "the window of the soul."

But death—what is it? It is sometimes of great comfort to contemplate the end of all material existence. We look out upon the genial spring, when every breath of air bears new life to all created nature; and while we hear the joyous note of the little songster as he welcomes the first rays of the rising sun; the little daisies just bursting into bloom, giving back a sweet fragrance as a note of praise and thanks to the Creator; the world around you breathing through its gorgeous vitality notes of praise—it is then the soul of man would catch the inspiration of nature, and in silent reverence praise his God. But this smile of nature cannot last, and before the summer is past, the leaves that have played and laughed and frolicked in every breeze, whether a calm or a terrible storm, have heard the still small voice, and are preparing for decay. The hidden and mysterious vitality of nature declines slowly from the high noon of existence, and one by one the little leaves are robed in gorgeous splendor and brilliant hues, that tell only of departing glories. The sighing breezes and the melancholy murmur of the falling leaf only tell of the cold grave of winter just beyond. The falling leaf in nature tells us that the hour is coming when we shall hear the still small voice, and must obey its summons. We tread the leaves beneath our feet, just as future generations will walk in our silent dust, and man of to-day will be but the atom of to-morrow. Such is death, physical death, the end of that which was in material essence.

This, however, is not the end of man, for he is composed of two material personages, wrapt in unity—the one mortal, the other immortal. He is not the product of chance, for chance knows no law, and has not the power of creation, and all around and about him manifest that all things were made by an unerring Hand and governed by unchanging laws. But the Bible tells us that God made man of the dust of the ground and breathed into him the breath of life, and he became a living soul. Here we see that the body of man—that mortal part—was first made, and when made it was devoid of life. It was but a mass of earth molded with the impress of God upon it. But there was no light that as yet had broken through the inception of time which could penetrate his mortal vision, until God breathed upon him the breath of life. And we might here pause, and, as we wonder in thought over this mighty creation, ask, What was this life? Life is an essence, an ethereal existence, the substance of another world. It is here clothed in form, made subject to time for a period, and amenable to its laws, but ever on probation. Still it holds a conscientious knowledge that it is an immortal essence, an inhabitant of eternity. When we remember the song of the poet,

> "'Tis not all of life to live,
> Nor all of death to die,"

and

> "There is a death whose pang > Outlasts the fleeting breath," we naturally conclude, as it is immeasurable, impassable, imponderable, that it must be the soul itself. Its origin was not of earth, for the inanimate clay, in all its artistic beauty, laid motionless until moved by the breath of God. Oh! what a moment when the eyes first opened to the grandeur of Omnipotence—when the rays of ethereal light spread before it the panorama of creation in all its glory, in all its grandeur and sublimity. Man, the child of innocence, the heir of heaven, was taught of God the words, sentences and very language of heaven. He had no other companion, and God was his instructor. Hence we are ready to exclaim: Light! light! God is light, and this light is the life of men.

From this we conclude that life is that material essence which bears the nearest affinity to God, and which can never die. We see man created a little lower than the angels, and enshrined within his frame is that spiritual essence which the Bible calls a living soul. Thus created, he was placed in the Garden of Eden, in a state of blessed purity. Not a breath but that of heaven playing upon his brow, and not a thought akin to sin as yet had ever enticed his soul; but in the Garden, where all was light and life and love, he seemed essentially happy, for he was walking in companionship with his God.

But long prior to this date we learn that there had been a mighty contest in heaven, and from it had been banished one who, formerly an angel of light, was now the ruler of hell, and known as the Devil. Full of all subtilty, he is watching this hallowed spot, the Garden of Eden, and when opportunity offers he invades its sanctuary, implants the first poisoned arrow in the heart of man, and makes him a rebel in the eyes of God. A heart that had never before pulsated but with love and joy to God is now filled with sorrow, throbbed with pain, and for the first time was wrapt in moral darkness. Man here lost his holiness—or, what is synonymous, his spirituality—but still retained his identity of body and spirit. Purity had fled, and impurity had taken its place in his soul. Ashamed, he hid when he heard the sound of the footsteps of God in the Garden, and but slowly answered to his name when called. No longer pure, no longer holy or angelic, he dreaded the searching eye of him who saw the depths of his depravity. And yet, though fallen from his high estate, though banished from the Garden of Paradise, though wrapt in the habiliments of sin, a seared conscience, a blighted faith, with a curse resting upon him—yet he was not spiritually dead, for his sighs, his sorrows, his tears, as he passed the gate, entered heaven as a prayer, and hope of yet regaining his lost estate still lingered in his soul. Not dead spiritually, or else the promise would be unavailing—that "the seed of the woman should bruise the serpent's head." Not dead spiritually, or else no good thought could ever find access to his soul, and no good deed ever make an impress upon his being. He is a wicked man, a man not justified before God, but still possessed of a spirit-essence that is susceptible of holy influences, or else the death of Christ is of no effect. But, thanks be to God, who giveth us the victory through our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, like Peter he has fallen, like Peter wrapt in sorrow, he may shed tears of repentance, throw himself behind the propitiation made for sin, and be justified by a living faith, washed and made clean by the blood of Christ.

The spirit of man is as a young and tender plant that by nature is crooked—distorted and ungainly from sin. As this rough, ugly plant may be cultivated, pruned and nursed to a perfect tree, so the spirit, that is clothed with iniquity, may be clothed with righteousness, and brought from dead works to the service of the living God.

From the writings of the fathers, as also from the sacred desk at the present day, we learn that conversion is a turning to God. Naturally the soul is in the service of the Devil, and there is no good thing in it. Life, as a muddy stream, is gliding on to its destiny in sin. When converted, this stream has reversed its course, and is running toward the temple and city of our God.

If the soul was spiritually dead there would not have been vitality enough about it ever to have turned; and to say that it can be converted is to admit that it may be not only impressed, but that this impression has aroused a latent biotic force, that admits of growth and expansion.

In Hebrews ix, 14 we have: "How much more shall the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without spot to God, purge your conscience from dead works to serve the living God." In other words, regenerate, purify, cleanse the spirit, or, as rendered, the conscience. Works are dead here, and not the spirit.

In the writings of St. Paul to the Corinthians we have (First Cor. xv, 45, 46:) "The first man Adam was made a living soul; the last Adam was made a quickening spirit. Howbeit that was not first which is spiritual, but that which is natural, and afterward that which is spiritual." Does this show that anything like spiritual death existed in Adam? Does it not, on the other hand, show that the spirit existed or lived, ready to be operated upon by influences to its purification? What do we understand by the expression, "that which is natural," for this was the first part created? It meant the body, which was, like all material essence, subject to natural laws; such is rise, progress and decay. But when we reflect upon the latter part of the verse, "that which is spiritual," we can only conclude that it had direct reference to the soul, which does not possess an attribute of matter, which is subject to no natural law, neither can be; but which is immortal, which came as the breath of God, which cannot die, but must return to God.

Man was here placed by God, after his fall, in a probationary state, and that in this state he might have a chance of seeking the purification of his soul, as none but the pure in heart can see God. The soul alone can glorify him in the eternal world; and as the body is created subject to natural laws, so the soul is alike subject to spiritual laws, and these laws are the commands of God, obedience to which will be productive of eternal or spiritual life, and disobedience will result in eternal death, or death to that spirit, or spiritual death.

We turn again to Ezekiel xviii, 4: "Behold, all souls are mine; as the soul of the father, so also the soul of the son is mine; the soul that sinneth, it shall die." Here is direct reference to spiritual death. There is no qualification but one—"that sinneth"—and the result is death. Death to what? Not to the body, for we know that the penalty of death is already inflicted upon it; and as there is no other part of man but a living soul upon which it can operate, we draw the natural conclusion that it is the soul that must die.

Here we pass the limits of time and enter upon the eternal world, and, as a natural consequence, draw near that distant future, freighted with such terrible anticipations—the general judgment of God—in which all, both the quick and the dead, shall appear before God: they that have done good to the resurrection of life, and they that have done evil to the resurrection of damnation. Then there must be a resurrection of the dead before there is spiritual death.

We learn here, in this state of probation, that the wages of sin is death; but for the good there is life and peace.

We learn from the Bible "that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God, neither can corruption inherit incorruption."—Hence it is necessary that these vile bodies of ours shall be changed to meet the mighty change that awaits them on the day of final accounts.

Romans vi, 16–22: "What fruit had ye, then, in those things whereof ye are now ashamed? For the end of those things is death." Not death to the body, we again say, for in the next verse we have: "But now, being made free from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life." So we see that it not only establishes that spiritual death is here referred to, but also that spiritual death and eternal death are one and the same, for we have everlasting life as the reward for holiness of life, and the end of every wicked spirit is everlasting death, or eternal death.

Then we conclude that the spiritual body appears at the resurrection, and, when judgment has been rendered, some enter into life, while others (the wicked) "shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power." This is spiritual death. Prince.

For the Advocate.

Disadvantages of Neglecting to Cultivate the Habit of Vocal Prayer.

My Dear Brethren: The first disadvantage of not learning to pray orally, whenever and wherever it is your duty to do so, is personal. The refusal is a great loss to yourself. If you will not take up the cross you cannot enjoy the advantages of bearing it. By your neglect you deprive yourself of a large share of the sensible favor, presence and love of God. I have known many brethren who, in other respects, were good and useful members of the church, but they would neither pray in their families nor in the social meetings of the church, and I have generally found them with a becloaded evidence of their acceptance in Christ, without much spiritual enjoyment, and only a vague, unsatisfactory hope of heaven. Their general complaint has been: "My leanness, my leanness; woe unto me!" Many brethren have constant leanness in their souls, who might be fat and flourishing if they would only enter heartily upon the discharge of this public Christian duty.

In the next place, the man who neglects to pray in his family loses the greater part of his exemplary influence over his household. There is seldom much family religion of a decided character found under his roof. His children either go off with the gay and wicked world, or go into some other branch of the church, having but little to attract them to the church of their only half religious parents. The power of family religion, properly exemplified, is great, often all-controlling, over the susceptible minds of children; but this holy influence you lose by neglecting family prayer, with its usual attendant of reading the Holy Scriptures.

Furthermore, Christian men are expected, as a matter of course, to be praying men, and you are liable to be called on at all suitable times and places to lead in prayer. When you incidentally spend the night with praying families, they will expect you to lead their family devotions; or if you fall in with a prayer meeting—especially where your non-praying habits are not known—you are liable to be called on by the brethren to take your part in the exercises; or you may be called on suddenly to pray for the sick and dying; but if you have never cultivated the habit of extemporaneous prayer, you have to subject yourself to the mortification of asking to be excused, and your brethren to the disappointment of having asked in vain for your expected Christian services. You are liable to sickness and death in your family. How would you feel if one of your dear children, dying, perhaps, without hope in Christ, should entreat you, in nature's last struggle, to kneel at the bedside and pray that they might be forgiven and saved, and you constrained to decline from the fact that you had never prayed orally in your lives? In case of the death of that child, could you ever forgive yourself for such neglect? Just such cases have occurred. On my first circuit, a young man, who had been piously raised but had never embraced religion, lived with a sister and brother-in-law, who were members of the Presbyterian Church, but neither of them had ever prayed vocally in their family or elsewhere. This young man had a most violent and dangerous spell of sickness. He thought he was going to die, and felt wholly unprepared for it. He called on his brother-in-law, in his great extremity, to pray for him, but not a word could he utter; he had no experience in oral prayer. His physician, who had been brought up among the Scotch Presbyterians, but had never professed religion or attempted a public prayer, came in, and the young man turned his desponding eyes toward him and entreated him to pray for him. The doctor felt that it was a case of extremity, and that the best remedy that could be applied would be to relieve his patient of that exhausting anxiety about the salvation of his soul; and having been taught the obligation and advantages of prayer, he fell on his knees and offered up the best oral prayer at his command; and surely God was in that prayer! The young man soon became calm; felt a sweet assurance that God, for Christ's sake, had pardoned his sins; passed the crisis, and came out of that sickness a new creature in Christ Jesus, and for more than forty years lived an exemplary and useful member of the Presbyterian Church. But how few of our non-praying brethren would do as this non-professing doctor did! And how many would shirk their duty as the brother-in-law did, and risk all the consequences!

Finally, brethren, unless you learn to pray in your families and with your fellow-Christians, I fear you will never be worth much as spiritual, working, useful members of the church. In some places our church is already literally dying out for the want of praying men and women. If the pastor happens to be sick or absent, the prayer meeting must be called in, for no one will be there to lead the meeting. If God favors the congregation with an outpouring of his awakening Spirit, the jaded pastor has to lead all the singing and praying and talking to the penitents, for the members stay away off yonder and will not come to his relief. He commences a protracted meeting and has a most encouraging prospect, but, having all the work to do, he breaks down and is compelled to quit in the middle of a brightening prospect, just for the want of a few working men and women to relieve him from an overshare of singing and praying. O brethren, I fear your skirts will be red with the blood of souls unless you do better. Generally where the members do their whole duty in this important matter of prayer there is a constant increase in the church. I heard a beloved minister say, not long since, that he was pastor of a church once for eighteen months, at which there was an increase in the membership at every regular church meeting, which he attributed to the fact that every man in the church prayed in public, and every female took her part in the ladies' prayer meeting, and the minor children kept up a regular children's prayer meeting every week. O! if we had such praying churches generally, instead of having those little spasmodic revivals only now and then, and which too often result in no permanent good to the church, we might have a steady increase of truly converted souls until the millennium. O brethren, I believe if we would "pray everywhere, lifting up holy hands, without wrath and doubting," we would soon have such a revival all over this country as even the Methodists of the present generation have never seen. Then let us pray.

J. G. Jones.

Port Gibson, Mississippi.

Speaking of the cosmopolitan character of New York, the Post of that city says: "There is a Norwegian community and a Swedish community and a Polish community in this city, to say nothing of a Russian church and of a Swiss military and charitable organization. And, besides all this, we have a Welsh place of worship, where a clergyman from Grythblwrylid can preach in his native consonants to the exiles from the banks of the flowing Ap-Llogllwrygwith or from the breezy heights of Wrythwgglbydidodd."

"When a stranger treats me with want of respect," said a poor philosopher, "I comfort myself with the reflection that it is not myself that he slights, but my old and shabby hat and cloak, which, to say the truth, have no particular claim to adoration. So, if my hat and coat choose to fret about it, let them; but it is nothing to me."

If man or woman wishes to realize the full power of personal beauty, it must be by cherishing noble hopes and purposes; by having something to do and something to live for, which is worthy of humanity, and which, by expanding the capacities of the soul, gives expansion and symmetry to the body which contains it.—Prof. Upham.

"Who's there?" cried a patrol to a passing figure, one dark night. "It's I, patrol; don't be afraid," kindly replied an old colored woman.

For the Advocate.

Reminiscences of the Alabama Conference.—No. II.

Another church was organized on a large creek called Bodka, on the road leading from Gainesville out west. Here Rev. Obediah Lovelady, a local preacher of precious memory, had settled with a large family, all members of the church; and, like Abraham, wherever he journeyed his first business was to erect an altar to his God. He soon collected his scattered neighbors, and erected a rough log house, that served for both church and school purposes. Bro. Lovelady was a characteristic man, fond of frontier life, and a great hunter. In the chase of the deer and bear he took great delight. He was also a successful farmer, and was passionately fond of fine horses. With all, his devotion to his God, and the church of his choice, was without abatement. Almost every Sabbath found him in some surrounding settlement, feeding the lambs of the flock and calling sinners to repentance. He was a lovely and sweet-spirited man. He was the father-in-law to Rev. Leroy Massengale, of the Alabama Conference. There will be many in the great day who will rise up and call him blessed. I will here relate an incident which I received from him. At one time, while his corn was in roasting ears, a large bear commenced depredating upon it. He prepared a potion of brandy and honey, and placed it at the point of crossing. On his next visit to the field, as he passed, he emptied the contents of the bowl, took his bait of corn, but on his return, the brandy having taken effect, cuffy was unable to recross the fence. Early in the morning Bro. Lovelady paid him a visit, found him rolling about apparently in a very fine humor, took hold of his paw, congratulated him, and after some little ceremony dispatched him.

About this time we extended our labors into Lauderdale county, Mississippi. Here some interesting settlements had been formed from lower Mississippi. These people were remarkable for their morality and religion. We gathered up the scattered sheep that were without a shepherd, and organized some promising societies. About the line of Sumpter and Lauderdale counties a settlement had been formed on a beautiful body of land. The settlers were in moderate circumstances, yet industrious and enterprising. They had, by mutual consent, designated their respective portions of land, and opened their little farms, and very soon provided a place for preaching. They were mainly Presbyterians and Methodists. We proposed to organize all into one church, and take them under our pastoral care until such time as they could have access to the church of their choice. This was readily assented to, and our association with them was very pleasant.

In the meantime a wealthy man by the name of Shaw came up from lower Mississippi and located himself in the midst of them, and spread out quite a farm, stating to them that he was abundantly able, and that when those lands came into market he would buy them, without doubt. Fortunately for them, however, before these lands came into market the pre-emption law passed, and they had the privilege of dividing the fruits of his toil among themselves.

About this time an incident occurred with the writer which he has not forgotten. There still remained a few scattered Choctaw Indians in this region of country. They held a ball-play at Patton's Hill, at which time the cholera broke out among them, and began to spread through the community. I was passing, and heard that it was in the family of my special friend, Bro. Webb. I paid them a visit, found one member of the family dead, and others struggling with the disease. As soon as their family physician found a moment of time, he asked what I was doing there, and advised me to leave immediately. I took his advice, and had traveled but a little distance before I began to feel the symptoms of the disease. I called and dined with an old Presbyterian friend, and endeavored by all possible means to banish all thought of it from my mind, but in vain. I mounted my horse and rode some ten miles to my friend, Bro. Lovelady's. Unfortunately for me, I found him perusing a treatise on the premonitory symptoms of cholera. He asked me to read for him, and as I read I could feel all the symptoms. I spent a restless night, ashamed to divulge my true state. Early in the morning I mounted my horse, and rode some twenty miles out of hearing of the disease, and in a short time found entire relief. I have written this to show the power of imagination upon my youthful mind, inspired by the suggestions of an old physician, in whom I had great confidence; and I have believed ever since that if I had remained in the midst of the excitement I would have been the subject of it, and death the result. J. Matthews.

Chappell Hill, Texas, June 22, 1872.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 1, 1872.

A ROSE OF JUNE.

There never was a fairer May,
A sweeter month of flowers,
For well I marked it every day,
Its sunshine and its showers.
I saw the wind-flowers speck with white
The woodlands and the hills;
I saw the garden-plots grow bright
With golden daffodils;
And round the bloomy apple trees,
That brushed my lattice-pane,
I heard the humming honey-bees
Sing many a soft refrain.

Yet, "wax and wane with speed," I cried,
"O mellow moon of May,
And usher in the summer-tide
I long for every day!
For when the honeysuckles shed
Their sweetness through the air,
And when the roses white and red
Go climbing everywhere,
A bud of hope will bloom at last,
And you shall see, O Moon,
Upon my happy, happy breast
The fairest rose of June!"

And so the young May moon grew old,
For seasons wax and wane,
And heed the happiness they hold
As little as the pain.
One morning when the east was red
With promise of the day,
I looked, and lo! upon my bed
The dainty blossom lay.
A rose of June, beyond compare—
For ah! what roses blow,
With dimpled cheeks and golden hair,
And violet eyes below!

And never yet was rose of June
That blossomed all the year;
But mine—ah, you shall see it, Moon!—
As lovely will appear,
When winter wraps the frozen fields
In burial robes of white,
As when the radiant summer yields
Her treasures of delight.
Nay, more—when all the flowers are dead,
And all the seasons o'er,
My rose will lift a fearless head,
In amaranthine bloom arrayed,
Beyond the shining shore!

A DAY IN THE ISLE OF WIGHT.

BY THEO. L. CUYLER, D. D.

One hundred and seventy years ago good Isaac Watts looked out from his window in Southampton across the Solent, at the verdant shores of the Isle of Wight. The beautiful landscape suggested to him those two lines of his immortal hymn on a Christian's dying hours:

"Sweet fields beyond the swelling flood Stand dressed in living green."

To-day they are as green and as welcome to "tired eyes" as they were when Watts loved to gaze on them. At each previous visit to Europe I have failed to see this far-famed isle. So this morning I set off with my friend, Wells, of Chicago, on a pilgrimage to the scenes of Legh Richmond's labor. The Queen has a summer palace on the island at "Osborne," and Tennyson's home is a shady villa—called "Faringford"—on the chalk cliffs of the western shore. But neither queen nor poet has thrown such a charm over the Isle of Wight as a plain, godly parish minister, who lived there seventy years ago, and wrote two short stories about two poor and humble girls! Legh Richmond immortalized himself in immortalizing them. I would rather be the author of the "Dairyman's Daughter" than of all the essays of Macaulay or all the romances of Walter Scott. It will weigh more at the day of judgment.

We crossed from Portsmouth in a little steamer to the pretty town of Ryde. Osborne House was in full view. Graceful yachts were skimming the waters like swans. Up in Portsmouth harbor lies Lord Nelson's stout old battle-ship, the "Victory." She is dear to Englishmen as a bit of the "true cross" to a papist; and Nelson is the ideal British hero. He was coarse but plucky, and smelled of the brine.

From Ryde we took a cozy little railway train to Brading, only four miles off. This was Legh Richmond's residence; but the house in which he wrote his famous tracts has been pulled down. The village is a quiet, drowsy one, with cheerful pots of geraniums and roses in almost every cottage window. The English surpass us in the universal culture of flowers, especially among the poorer classes. For example, we went to the little thatched cottage in which "Little Jane" lived and died—the very spot in which Richmond so often visited the gentle, pious child whose story he has written. It is in a by street, and was only a cabin covered with straw. But the profusion of flowers and creeping vines made it positively beautiful. From the cottage we went to the church in which Legh Richmond preached. It is a fine old Norman structure, built before America was discovered. In the quiet graveyard and close to the church wall is a plain white headstone, on which is carved:

"SACRED TO THE MEMORY OF LITTLE JANE,
who died on the 30th of January, 1799, in the fifteenth year of her age.

"Ye who the power of God delight to trace
And mark with joy each monument of grace,
Tread lightly o'er this grave, as ye explore
The short and simple annals of the poor.

"A child reposes underneath this sod,
A child to memory dear, and dear to God;
Rejoice, but shed the sympathetic tear—
Jane, the 'Young Cottager,' lies buried here."

While we were going about Brading, in search of some vehicle to carry us to Arreton, we spoke to several children in the street about "little Jane;" and they all seemed familiar with her, as if she had been their own sister. How strange that, at the end of almost a century, a poor child who died at fifteen, in an obscure cottage, should be the best remembered person in a whole community. Noblemen have been buried with pomp and parade in that island many a time; but the peasant-girl alone is unforgotten!

At length, after a long search, we succeeded in finding a basket-chaise and pony, and a very bright lad to drive us over to Arreton, which lies five miles away, in the heart of the island. Oh! what a delicious ride was that ride in the basket-wagon. The sun was as bright as if it shone from an American sky. The June air was soft and balmy. The rich green hedgerows—pride and joy of the English landscape—were in the early bloom of the hawthorn. And poppies and the golden broom (or "whins") flamed brightly among the verdure. Occasionally we passed a picturesque cottage; and occasionally, from a high ground, we caught a glimpse of the distant and breezy blue sea. Over this delightful road Legh Richmond used to trot with his pony, on his way to visit the Dairyman's Daughter. Richmond was lame, and an old man said to me: "I often used to help him get on his pony, when I was a boy at Arreton."

After riding five miles through the bewitching landscape, our lad said to us: "Yonder is the cottage." It looked precisely as I expected. By the roadside stand three elms; and under them, a few feet back from the road, is a lowly-thatched cottage, which is the perfect picture of rural taste and neatness. I trembled lest some intrusive showman might be there to exhibit the relics, and to sell us photographs, and then wait for his fee. How thankful I was to find one sacred spot in Europe into which this impertinent intermeddler has not thrust his ugly presence. Not a single creature was visible. We knocked at the cottage door, and a young girl opened it. We entered a neatly-furnished room—the room in which Richmond held those memorable conversations with Elizabeth, when "the sands of time were sinking and the dawn of heaven broke." The young girl said but little to us; and we were thankful. She showed us no relics, and we asked to see none. The spot was too sacred to be turned into a museum of curiosities. We stepped out of the door silently. Over one-half of the front of the cottage a rose was climbing, and it was in full flower. Just above the roses was a little arched window, standing open. That was Elizabeth's room. From that lowly chamber her glorified spirit soared away to her Father's house in the heavens. We looked up at it until the tears came into our eyes.

Getting into our wagon, we rode on to Arreton, over the very road by which the funeral procession passed along, while the hymn was sung so sweetly in the still Sabbath air. How touchingly Legh Richmond describes that rural funeral. I used to weep over it when I was a boy.

We found the village almost deserted; the people were off at their work. The church-yard gate stood open. The church is about five hundred years old, with a low tower. Richmond's pulpit and the dairyman's pew are still there. Not a living creature was to be seen as we entered the sweet, green burial-ground. How glad we were. By a sort of instinct we found our way among the tombstones to one not far from the church. It is a plain white marble stone, of the precise shape most common in our own country burying-grounds. On it are these words:

IN MEMORY OF ELIZABETH WALLBRIDGE,
THE 'DAIRYMAN'S DAUGHTER.'
Who died May 30, 1801. Aged 31.
"She, being dead, yet speaketh."

A few lines of respectable poetry follow this beautiful inscription. They might have been omitted. On the green sod were growing the cheerful white daisies. No costly monument, no profusion of flowers; only pure white daisies over the ashes of this gentle Christian girl, whom we all love and shall look for in heaven. Yes, it is true "she speaketh," and has spoken to millions in all tongues and nations. The "Dairyman's Daughter" will be speaking yet when the millennium dawns; and her one endless theme is: JESUS CHRIST AND HIM CRUCIFIED. Independent.

LONDON, ENG., June 15, 1872.

SWEET to think that the eye of the Lord is upon us, to deliver our soul from death. It seems to me, as a nurse keeps her eye upon her child, lest it should destroy itself, or as a keeper keeps his eye upon his poor lunatic, "the Lord is thy keeper." Then unbelief jumps up and says: "How do you know all this is for you?" Then I do not know what to say but: "My Master told me so."

A MAN should never be ashamed to own he has been in the wrong, which is but saying, in other words, that he is wiser to-day than he was yesterday.—Pope.

The Veteran Preacher of Georgia.

It is more than sixty years since I first listened to a Methodist sermon. It was preached by a young, spare man, with sallow complexion, and black eyes and hair. I remember the gleam of his eye, and the deep, startling tones of his voice—his earnest and fervent manner; and only yesterday, in the Baronne Street (New Orleans) Methodist Church, I listened to an old man, upward of eighty years of age, preaching the ordination sermon of four new Bishops of the Methodist Church. It was he to whom I had first listened; the eye was still brilliant, the face still sallow, but wrinkled now, the voice and manner still fervent and earnest, and the great mind, though not the same, still powerful. It was that venerable, good man, Lovick Pierce, the father of the great and eloquent Bishop. What has he not seen! what changes, what trials, what triumphs! Generations before his eyes have passed into eternity; the little handful of Methodist communicants grows into a mighty and intelligent body; thousands of ministers are heralding her tenets all over the Protestant world—mighty in learning, mighty in eloquence—yet none surpass the eloquence, the power and the purity of Lovick Pierce.

When I first heard him, Bishop Asbury, James Russell and he were nursing the seed sown by John Wesley and George Whitefield a little while before, upon the soil of Georgia. All but Pierce have long been gathered to their fathers, and have rested from their labors. He still remains, bearing his cross in triumph, and still preaching the Redeemer to the grandchildren of those who first welcomed him and united with him in the good work of his mission. How much his labors have done to form and give tone to the character of the people of the State of Georgia none may say; but under his eye and aid has arisen a system of female education which has worked and is working wonders throughout the State. He has seen the ignorant and untaught mothers rear up virtuous, educated and accomplished daughters; and, in turn, these rearing daughters and sons, an ornament and an honor to parents and country. Above all, he has seen, and sees, a standard of intelligence, high breeding and piety pervading the entire State. The log cabin gives way to the comfortable mansion, the broad fields usurping the forest's claim, and the beautiful church building pointing its taper spire up to heaven, where stood the rude log house, and where first he preached. He has lived on and watched this growing moral and physical beauty, whose germs he planted, and whose fruits he is now enjoying in the eighty-fourth year of his age, still zealous, still ardent and eloquent, and a power in the land. Should these lines ever meet his eye, he will know that the child whose head he stroked as he sat upon his knee, the youth whom he warned and counseled, loves him yet, now that he is wrinkled, old and gray.

From parents such as I have described, and under the teaching of such men, grew up the remarkable men who have shed such luster upon the State of Georgia.—The Memoirs of Fifty Years, by W. H. Sparks.

OVERWORKED BRAINS.

The following article, written by Dr. R. T. Trall, for the Philadelphia Evening Star, will interest our readers:

That funniest of the funny poets, Oliver Wendell Holmes, M. D., calls the human brain a seventy-year clock. I do not see where the pun comes in, unless it be considered comical for beings so highly organized as the genus homo to be continually running their brains to ruin in all sorts of ways. And there is a weeping as well as a laughing side to this view of the subject.

A majority of the human brains that are born do not run five years; only one-fourth part run a quarter of a century, and less than one in a hundred take a note of time for seventy years. Occasionally, however, some brain will work on and work well for more than a hundred years. Humboldt, for example, at the age of ninety-five, was working his brain as vigorously on his great "Cosmos" as he worked it seventy years before.

Now the capacity of the brain to run and to endure is to be measured by its greatest achievement, not its shortest duration, and I am inclined to think that brain labor cannot be excessive, that the brain organ knows nothing of fatigue, wear and tear, exhaustion, etc., which are so frequently ascribed to it by "hard-thinking" persons. Indeed I regard the whole hue and cry about overworked brains, excessive mental activity, too much head for the body etc., as veritable humbug.

The brain is a mass of nervous convolutions, soft, pulpy, exceedingly mobile, and composed of more than seven-eighths water. Its molecules really float in water, so as to have the greatest possible freedom of motion with no appreciable friction. A million drops of water might be placed in a vessel and shaken up and tumbled against each other forever, without the least friction or wear, as in the case with the drops whose aggregate constitutes the ever-rolling ocean. The brain is nearly exempt from abrading friction. And the organ of mind should be so.

Moreover, the brain has nothing to do with constructing and repairing the vital machinery—it has no supplying or depurating functions; hence is not liable to obstructions, as are all of the merely vital organs. It is simply the organ of external relations. Its function is simply the recognition of actual subjects, this recognition being manifested in thought and feeling, or intellection and affection.

Through the nervous chords—its telegraphic channels—the mind transmits its influence to the muscles, thus inducing all voluntary motions. The mind recognizes objects through the media of the senses—seeing, hearing, smelling, tasting and feeling. Is it hard work to see, hear, etc.? No; the brain never tires. But all parts of the living body, except the brain, may be overworked or underworked, or otherwise misused or abused and destroyed.

Brains are especially protected from friction by their semi-fluidity, and from adverse external influences by a bony wall. There is no inlet except through the nerves, and no way to hurt them except by mechanical injuries from without or bad blood from within. If the body is well cared for the brain will run regularly and keep good time till the last breath. There are living to-day men and women who, at fourscore years, are wielding their pens as easily, and perhaps more effectively, than they did fifty years ago. Witness William Cullen Bryant and Sarah J. Hale.

Those who perform much brain labor, and die young, do not damage their brains. They only destroy their bodies. If they maintain the normal vital conditions they cannot hurt the brain by any amount of work it can be made to do. I have had many supposed cases of softening of the brain to treat, and I invariably found the difficulty to be hardening of the bowels. The nutritive channels were clogged, or the outlets of the body were obstructed; some organs were overloaded with blood and others were deficient; hence the balance of the circulation was destroyed, and the wear and tear of the vital machinery, not of the brain but of the supplying and depurating organs, were very great and sometimes speedily fatal.

Show us the person who complains of mental weariness, and I will find in him a torpid liver, obstructed kidneys, a dyspeptic stomach, constipated bowels, or an inactive skin. If the brain-worker does not sleep enough, nor exercise enough, nor eat enough, or if he eats too much, or takes improper food, his digestive organs run down, and the clock-work of the brain, having no way to reconstruct the machinery through which it receives impressions and transmits volitions and impulses, is obliged to cease work.

The moral is, in brief: keep the body in health, and the brain will take care of itself, work it all you can.

GRANDMOTHER'S STAFF.—What do you think it was? A gold-headed cane? No, indeed. Grandmother was too poor to have anything like that. Why, her best Sunday-go-to-meeting gown was a faded delaine, and her woolen shawl was worn almost threadbare. Yet, poor as she was, she wouldn't have given her staff for all the gold-headed canes that ever were made. It was an odd sort of a staff, too—a sort one does not see very often. It was nearly five feet high, and had a head for all the world like that of a wide-awake, sunny-faced boy of fifteen. I had to look twice before I could believe my eyes; and while I was looking, I heard a brave young voice say: "Keep tight hold of me, grandmother; there's such a crowd to-day."

But the best of it all was, that while he seemed very proud of grandmother, keeping her arm in his all the way down Broadway, he didn't seem one bit proud of himself. Grandma was proud, though—of her staff.—Hearth and Home.

A ROOM with pictures in it, and a room without pictures, differ by nearly as much as a room with windows and one without. Nothing, we think, is more melancholy, particularly to a person who has to pass much time in his room, than blank walls; for pictures are loop-holes of escape to the soul, leading it to other scenes and other spheres.

A NEW YORK Bohemian, speaking of the price of meat, said that "beef was never so high since the cow jumped over the moon." Now this is pure humor, and the author of it laughs with everybody and laughs at nobody.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

A RELIC of St. Monica, mother of Augustine, was lately brought to Algiers from Rome, and set up for veneration in the church of Notre Dame d'Afrique.

THE Church of God, or Winebrenarians, as they are generally called, have closed their third triennial convention, which was held at Mount Carmel, Illinois. They are not making any appreciable advance as a denomination.

THE Swedenborgian Church has held its fifty-third annual convention in Boston. About two hundred delegates were in attendance. They have nineteen societies in Massachusetts, and in Ohio, Illinois and Minnesota about ten each.

THE Baptist Home and Mission Sunday schools in Chicago number 8,507 scholars. There are in addition about 1,500 scholars in Bible classes, a large portion of them adults—all employing a corps of between five and six hundred teachers.

THE Wesleyan Methodists have opened a college in Melbourne, Australia. The buildings are very extensive, and cost, as far as they have gone, $50,000, and a much larger sum will be required to finish them according to the original plan. The course of instruction is on the university plan.

JEWS COMING TO CHRIST.—There is a great religious awakening among the Jews in Germany. They come in crowds to hear the gospel, and listen with attention to the message concerning Christ as the Messiah. May we not hope that this awakening will result in their conversion to Christ?

THE remains of the Jesuits who were murdered in Paris during the Commune are now working miraculous cures. The last cure reported is that of a boy suffering from a serious nervous malady, "and physicians were in vain." He made a Novena (nine days' devotion) to the holy Jesuit martyrs, and the malady was gone.

TWO NEW PAPERS have been established on the Continent of Europe in the interest of the Old Catholics—one, the Renovation Religieuse, at Brussels, under the control of Canon Mouls; and the other, the Iglesia Espanola, of Madrid, organ of the "Free, Catholic and Apostolic Church of Spain," edited by the Abbe Aguayo y Molina.

CHINA.—Great prosperity has attended the English Presbyterian mission in Formosa, China. A revival influence is largely enjoyed, and the converts go in bands of six or seven to different parts of the island to hold religious meetings. The fourteen chapels in Formosa are all self-supporting but three. The work of God there is great and glorious.

AT THE RECENT London yearly meeting of Friends it was announced that by arrangement with the London Missionary Society, a district in Madagascar as large as the English county of Norfolk had been left under the superintendence of Friends. Mr. Sewell, one of the missionaries of the Friends returned from Madagascar, had, with the permission of the government, brought home two native lads to receive an English education.

THE London Watchman brings the sad news of the death of Rev. Elijah Hoole, Sr., secretary of the Wesleyan Missionary Society. Dr. Hoole was in the seventy-fifth year of his age, and had served the church as a minister for over fifty years. He spent five years as a missionary in Madras. For thirty-eight years he served as one of the missionary secretaries. He took the liveliest interest in all mission work, and one of his last expressions was: "Thank God, we have got a footing in Rome."

THE Archbishop of Canterbury, in presiding at the annual meeting of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, mentioned that it has been calculated that a sum of £777,256 is collected annually throughout the United Kingdom for missionary purposes. To this sum the Church of England societies contribute £327,695; Nonconformist societies, £259,951; and the rest is contributed by societies jointly carried on by members of the Church of England and by Nonconformists.

SOUTH AFRICA.—Rev. Dr. James, at the recent anniversary of the Wesleyan Missionary Society, in Exeter Hall, London, said that within the last six years the increase in those districts occupied by the Wesleyan Society had been fifty per cent., while the increase at home during that time had been but five per cent. In 1865 our membership there was eight hundred. To-day it is nearly thirteen hundred. Should not the church at home be aroused to greater activity by the extraordinary success attending its labors in foreign fields?

AT THE Wesleyan district meetings held in May of each year, the returns of numbers in society are collected. The last returns received by us include all the districts with the exception of North Wales and the Isle of Man, and show a decrease of about three hundred. The decrease affects some of the old centers of Methodist power; thus Cornwall shows a falling off of 48 and Newcastle of 312; Leeds shows a gain of 250, Manchester of 213, Liverpool of 213, Macclesfield of 140, and Bedford and Northampton of 101. Thus the manufacturing North is, on the whole, the most prosperous part of the Wesleyan field.—Methodist.

IN A missionary journey through the Wuchang district of China, Rev. D. Hill, of the Wesleyan Missionary Society, was met on the banks of the Yangtoze creek by a deputation of three men from a distant country village, Kai Lin, requesting him to come to their homes to give the people Christian instruction. Some of them had obtained a little catechism, and its reading had awakened a strong desire for a further knowledge and explanation of the truths of the gospel. As representatives of the others, therefore, they begged him, at least, to give their village a visit. Mr. Hill, though most deeply impressed with these men and their message, was compelled to tell them he could not go, bidding them give all attention to reading, and not neglect to pray until the Lord should send them a Christian teacher. This is only one of many indications that the prayers of the church for the opening of the land to the preaching of the gospel are answered faster than it is sending men to proclaim that gospel of salvation.

ROME AS IT IS.—At a public meeting in London, a few days since, Mr. Henry Lee, of Chester, spoke as follows of the change which has taken place since the Pope was relieved of his temporal care of the place: "The other day I was at Rome. My guide was an old Garibaldian soldier. I said to him: 'Tell me what was the condition of Rome before the Italian government got possession of it.' He replied: 'We had forty thousand (?) French troops marching about the streets; we had forty generals to control them, and we were armed to the teeth in every public highway, and before every public palace.' 'But,' I said, 'are the Italians satisfied with the present state of things?' He answered: 'Look about you; we have now only twelve hundred troops, and most of them are raw recruits, going about unarmed.' I saw the soldiers moving about the streets without any weapons; and the conclusion I drew, from what I saw and heard, was that the Roman people are very well satisfied with the change which has taken place, and are ready to receive instruction very different from that which they have received in past days."

ONE of the most remarkable instances of rapid missionary success in late years has just occurred in the Island of Formosa, off the coast of China. Two races inhabit the island, the aborigines and the Chinese, among the former of which the great change has taken place chiefly. Dr. Maxwell, a medical missionary of the English Presbyterian Church, opened a dispensary, which brought people from all quarters in search of healing, to the hearing of the gospel. Two of those who heard the preaching of these truths, on returning to their native place, cast away their idols, kept the Sabbath, themselves became preachers of salvation through the cross of Christ; and now, as the result of this simple means, from six to seven hundred of their people assemble regularly to listen to their preaching of Jesus. In like manner the entire work has been introduced and carried on by native agency. A soldier, who had come to the dispensary to be treated for opthalmia, at length became a convert, and a zealous laborer in his neighborhood. In a short time a chapel was built, and now a congregation of above fifty persons assembles there for Christian worship. A little girl, who had also been a patient, by taking home her hymn book and by learning and continually singing verses, spread the knowledge of the new way of life. Another convert was wont to travel sixteen miles to attend Christian service, until he found means to erect a chapel in his own neighborhood, which is now filled by a flourishing church and assembly. One of the most encouraging features of the movement is the self-sustaining as well as self-originating character. Out of fourteen chapels that have thus far been erected, only three were built or assisted by funds of the mission. So great is the gratitude and joy of the people that they freely devote one-tenth of their earnings for the spread of the gospel, in systematic beneficence. The native churches also have adopted a system of united prayer for the extension of Christ's cause over the whole island, for particular stations, for the brethren at Amoy, and for Christians in England—a system daily growing in organization and power. Independent.

FRIENDSHIP requires action; love requires not so much proofs as expressions of love. Love demands little else than the power to feel and to requite love.—Jean Paul.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 1, 1872.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.
ROBT. J. HARP, Publisher.

OFFICE—No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. Harp, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. Linus Parker, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Agents—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR ALABAMA CONFERENCE:
REV. W. A. McCARTY.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
A. W. LAMPKIN, ESQ.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR, D. D.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

REDUCTION.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers hereafter at the following rates:

For One Year	$2 00
For Six Months	1 25
For Three Months	75

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

to all ministers of the gospel, traveling or local, and widows of deceased traveling preachers.

FREE ONE YEAR

to any person forwarding to us four new yearly subscribers with EIGHT DOLLARS.

WEEK OF PRAYER.

It is recommended by the Bishops of the church that the week of August 11–18 he observed for special religious services throughout our communion—the Friday included, as a day of fasting.

The following objects are set forth, upon which our prayers and supplications may he united:

That the Lord would send more laborers into his vineyard.

For his blessing upon our institutions of learning, and the conversion of the young.

For the increase of his kingdom among men..

A WEEK OF PRAYER.

The Bishops, in their recommendation of the week of prayer, have indicated the objects. First among them is "that the Lord would send forth more laborers into his vineyard." The warrant for prayer on this subject is made clear by the Savior's language: "The harvest truly is plenteous, hnt the laborors are few. Pray ye, therefore, the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth laborers into his harvest." It is in a peculiar sense God's prerogative to send preachers. Something more than his providence is invoked, because they are to he moved by the Holy Ghost to this calling. The object comes, therefore, within the scope of prayer as few others do. It is prayer that the voice of the Spirit may he lifted up, and that his luminous rays may shine to this particular purpose. It is an instructive circumstance that while Jesus was moved with compassion hy the fainting sheep, and the plenteous harvest with its few laborers calls for immediate relief, he sends his disciples directly in prayer to the Lord of the harvest. Naturally enough they might have gone ont seeking and sending such as they could find, or of calling a school together for instrnction in the work. But this they are neither commanded nor permitted. It is God's business, and he will not give his glory to another. This is the first and the essential means for replenishing the ranks of the ministry—prayer to God for this special thing, that he will send out laborers, that he will move such as ought to go, and qualify them for their duties. Praying for more preachers has this singular and important significance, that they nre directly called and sent of God, and that no intermediate agencies can meet the condition or set it nside. The dependence upon God is of this primary and spiritual nature. Not such as we realize in an overruling Providence, and in the direction and government of secondary causes, wherein our own endeavors may be an important factor in the process, hut of this immediate character in which God must not hefore the church can take n single step. If teachers, stewards and trustees are needed, they can he made at will; if agents, editors or other officers are demanded, we have hut to choose them as we can; if churches nre required, we may rise up and build; hut if preachers are wanted, we must appeal directly to the Lord of the harvest. Herein we cannot move until God moves. We must wait till God gives us the preachers, whatever we may do for them or with them afterward. However great the destitution, it is only these men, divinely called and ponetrated with a sense of it in their own souls, that are needed. No others are likely to do the hard and rongh work which is to be done, or to make these sacrifices which the ministry demands. Before the church lays her hands upon a man, both the church and the man himself must he well persuaded that he is called of God. Perhaps the object of prayer for more laborers may include the deeper and more effective conseeration of those who have already assumed the ordiuation vows. There is oecasion for thought and prayer in this direction. In reference to this whole subject we hope that there will he much fervent prayer, and a good deal of clear and forcible preaching.

Another object indicated is: "For his hlessing upon our institutions of learning, and the conversion of the young." We are glad to find this recommendation, and that our church is called to pray for her schools. It will be well to make mention of them by name, and to give such information as shall enable the people to pray intelligently. If we can get them to praying for them, they will he led to appreciate the value of education, nnd to give as well as pray for our struggling and impoverished colleges. By making them the special object of prayer they are raised at once to their true position as vitally related to the welfare of the church and the country. The outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon the students is, of course, to he made prominent. Our colleges and schools have been wonderfully blessed in this respect during the last few years. We might mention Homer, Centenary, the Southern University, Randolph Macon, Emory, Emory and Henry, and many of our female colleges in this connection. The young men and women who go forth from these academic halls, more than others, are to make their mark in history and upon society, and it is most important that their learning should he consecrated to Christ. The conversion of these thousands of students should lie near to the heart of the church. Hundreds of believing parents, whose hoys and girls are away at school, will join most feelingly in this prayer. Most appropriately is the conversion of the young connected with prayer for the institutions of learning. Whether in these institutions or out of them, the conversion of the children is the object of prime solicitude. In no other wny can the world he saved, and in no other way can the judgments of God he kept back. "And he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come and smite the earth with a curse." In all the modern movements for the religious care of the yonng there is this turning of parents and of children to each other. It is a movement without which the direst of curses will smite the earth. The conversion of the young! It is something to he prayed for as for nothing else. The church must get near to God, near to the heart of Jesus, and be filled with the Holy Ghost, in urging her plea for the children. As much as we have felt and done for them, parents, teachers and preachers are yet to see this subject in a light absolutely startling and overwhelming.

The last object of prayer is: "For the increase of his kingdom among men." Besides the general import of this language, it would not be amiss to make the reference more pointedly to the cause of missions. We shall he all the hetter for directing our prayers to objects away from home. No church can shut itself up in a local field and prosper spiritually. The spirit and obligation of the great commission must be felt, and the love of Christ must constrain to labor and pray for the salvation of those who are "nfar off." It will be an occasion for heart-searching and honest self-examination concerning the measure of our duty and the extent of its performance. This week of prayer shonld have the effect of quickening the missionary spirit, of enlarging the operntions of the church in this direction, and of greatly increasing our liberality in the snpport of hoth foreign and domestic missions. But in praying for the increase of the kingdom there should be a direct effort for the reviving presence of the Holy Spirit in all our congregations, and for the immediate conversion of souls. It is not too much to believe or expect that, if the week of special services be generally observed, a sweeping revival of religion will he inaugurated which shall kindle the whole church into a blaze. It is the auspicious season, the set time to favor Zion. Why should not the Pentecostal power come upon us, if with one accord we pray for it? It is with a full persuasion of the availability of prayer, and with all these precious interests dear to their hearts, that our chief pastors have indicated the time and its objects. We appenl to preachers and people to make their preparations, and to come up to the help of the Lord against the mighty. Come with consecrated hearts, come with a strong faith, come expecting that God will fulfill his promises. Bring all the fithes into the storehouse, and open your hearts, while God opens the windows of heaven. "His going forth is prepared as the morning; and he shall come unto us as the rain, as the latter and former rain upon the earth."

The Anti-Jesuit Bill, recently passed by the German Parliament, is an event of considerable significance. The hill abolishes the convents and other establishments of the order on German soil. It does not, however, directly expel the Jesuits, but confers on the administrative authorities the right to assign them the localities where they may reside. They are thus placed under the control of the civil government, so that their power for mischief-making may be counteracted. At one time or another the order has been expelled from nearly every civilized country of the world, and so great was the pressure that in 1773 Pope Clement the Fourteenth issued the famous hrief, Dominus ac Redemptor noster, by which the snppression of the society in all the States of Christendom was declared. The order was restored hy Pius the Seventh, in 1814. The history of the Jesuits in their crafty wiles and intermeddling with the political affairs of the nations, and the almost universal suspicion and detestation which they have excited even in Catholic countries, are sufficient to hrand them as enemies of mankind. At present they govern the Roman Church, and the infallihility dogma is the latest spawn of this monster of error and iniquity. The principals of Jesuitism are arrayed against religious and civil liberty, and the grand objective point is the supremacy and universal dominion of the Pope. While their power is waning in Europe, and especially in those countries but recently nnder their control, they are more than ever aiming at the control of American politics, and to shape the affairs of the United States. The New York Observer, remarking upon the action of the German Reichsrath, gives the following pertinent paragraph:

The action of the German imperial government—expelling the Jesuits, and putting down the political power of Romanism—is one of the grandest indications of enlightened statesmanship and advancing liberty. The existence of any other government is impossible where Romanism is in the ascendant; and as at the present time the Jesuit Society governs the Romish Church, it is simply a question of life or death with any political government, when it debates the expediency of allowing these enemies to guide its affairs. Bismarck is alive to this fact, and in laying the fonndations of the mighty empire of the nge, he acts wisely in clearing out these monsters of iniquity, whose hatred of civil and religious freedom is only equaled by their craft, cunning and cruelty. They overshot the mark when they engineered the Vatican Council into the farce of infallibility, and then their star set, to rise, we trnst, no more. They lost Italy then. France fell away. Spain is gone. And now that Protestant Germany gives them notice to quit, we may expect that free America will enjoy their augmented labors.

Our weapons to fight them are not carnal, hut they are mighty and will prevail.

It is also heldly proclaimed that Germany has set down its feot that the next Pope shall be n man who will wholly withdraw from polities, and confine himself to the affairs of his spiritual kingdom. To this end the powers of Italy, Spain and Austria are united with Germany, and France will probably join the Holy Alliance, whose object is to make the next Pope mind his own business.

AFTER THE MEETING.

The following note, from one who signs herself "Camp-Meeting Sister," is exceedingly suggestive and encouraging. We suppose the New Orleans district camp meeting, held near Biloxi, in June, is the occasion alluded to. From all we can learn, these after-fruits and gleanings of the vintage have been more abundant than the immediate harvest. The haskets of fragments are still being gathered, and promise to overrun the original feast. At several of our appointments lately we have heard the testimony, in love-feast and at the communion, of those who first hegan to seek and follow the Savior at the meeting on the sea-shore. At Ocean Springs and other points quite a revival influence continues. The wind of God thus blows the good seed far and wide, and it continues to spring up and wave in golden sheaves. But here is our Camp Meeting Sister's note:

Mr. Editor: Please say, through the Advocate, to the dear brethren and friends of the camp meeting, that my mother, for whom they there prayed, though not converted on the twenty-seventh, has since made peace with God and joined the church. I ask this in compliance with their request.

"Let us patiently endure,
And still our wants declare:
All the promises are sure
To persevering prayer.
Till we see the perfect day,
And each wakes up a spotless saint,
Pray we, every moment pray,
And never, never faint."

SOUTHERN SCHOLARSHIP.

Under this head the Christian Observer, noticing the recent alumni dinner at Baltimore, says:

For many years it has been fashionable in some of the Northern colleges to sneer at the Southern students as a roystering set, who were of no account as scholars, and could hardly he endnred for their immoralities. Dr. James McCosh, the Scotch-Irish president of Princeton, is of a different opinion. At a dinner given by the alumni of that college, in Baltimore, recently, Judge Mason, at the close of an eloqnent speech, thanked Dr. James McCosh, the president of the college, who sat at his right, for the honor of his presence, and called upon him to respond to the toast: "Princeton, Present and Future."

The venerable and distinguished president was warmly received, and after expressing in cordial terms the pleasure he felt in meeting the association upon such a happy occasion, he proceeded to state at considerable length the present condition and prospects of their venerated Alma Mater, giving an account well calculated to satisfy the most ambitious of her sons.

In alluding to the devotion to duty and study which had chnracterized the students at Princeton during the past year, he states that of the sixty students from the south of the Potomac, not one had given him a moment's care, and that not one was immoral. He further said that during last session the sixty students from the South took more honors than the three hundred from the North. The first three honors at the late commencement at Princeton were carried off hy young men from the South; and three of the other nine honors also fell to the lot of Southerners.

Rev. T. Moody reports a fine meeting at Jordan river, an appointment recently taken into the Penrlington circuit. Twenty-four members have been received there recently, and a new church, the first ever undertaken, is nearly completed. Two hundred persons came forward for prayer on Sunday, the twenty-eighth instant.

From the Richmond Christian Advocate we learn that Rev. B. H. Johnson, of the Virginia Conference, is dead. He was in the regular work thirty-four years.

LETTER FROM IRELAND.

Mr. Editor: It is one hundred and three years since Methodism held its first Conference in Ireland, and since then its growth has been the most rapid and marvelous of any religious movement of ancient or modern times. Indeed, to those who look upon us from a purely philosophical, psychological or worldly standpoint, its success is an inexplicable phenomenon. To those, however, who are acquainted with the method of its operations, and the inspiration and source of its power, its progress is not so amazing after all; and yet it has been such as to cause the most boastful of its sons to exclaim: "Not unto us, O Lord, but unto thy name be the praise."

The Conference assembled this year in Dublin, and has just closed its deliberations. Last year it held its sessions in Belfast, and among the ministerial visitors who looked in upon its deliberations was the excellent and able Mr. Tudor, now of your city, who won a very high place in the esteem of at least one eminent member of the Conference with whom he had some intercourse. This year several members of the Methodist Episcopal Church visited the assembly, as did also two or three from Canada. When the Conference was constituted, the president, Dr. J. H. James, delivered a felicitous address, after which he introduced his companions from England, the Revs. John Farrar, John Rattenbury, E. E. Jenkins and Gervase Smith.

There were two vacancies in the Legal Hundred, occasioned by the retirement from active work of the Revs. James B. Gillman and John Saul. The Rev. James Hughes was chosen on the ground of seniority, and the Rev. Gibson McMillen by nomination. All the ministers in full connection voted, although an attempt was made by the Rev. Wallace McMullen to restrict the voting to ministers of ten years' standing and upward. Some of the members of the Conference are exceedingly conservative, and fear any modification or change in the constitution of the body.

The preparatory committees, which meet prior to the assembling of Conference, may he said to transact all the financial business of the connection, the Conference seldom if ever interfering with their decisions. These committees are composed of laymen and ministers. Their deliberations were marked with great unanimity, and evinced, on the part of the laymen, a deep and growing interest in the welfare of the denomination. All the funds are in an efficient condition, and every department of the work is healthy and prosperous. The college has succeeded more during the past year than during any previous year of its existence. Dr. Robert Crook, the principal, although succeeding so eminent a man as William Arthur in its presidency, has every reason for congratulation at the progress which has been made during his year of office. And he has been unanimously re-elected president, and all the other officers have been re-elected also.

The representatives who were chosen to attend the English Conference are the Revs. W. P. Applebe, LL. D., Wallace McMullen and Gibson McMillen. Two ministers died during this year. A fourth general missionary has been appointed. Seven or eight circuits asked for additional ministers, but the Conference could not respond affirmatively to all. The openings are in excess of the men and means. Methodism in this country never had finer prospects for usefulness than now, and if it could increase the number of its ministry so as to enter every opening, great indeed would he its achievements.

The assembly protested against denominational education as tending to hand over the education of three-fourths of the children of Ireland entirely into the hands of the Romish priesthood, and thus entailing a great evil upon the country. The General Assembly of the Irish Presbyterian Church passed a similar resolution. Altogether the Conference has been one of the most interesting and harmonious ever held.

The Primitive Methodist Conference for this year has just been held at Yarmouth, England. It reports an increase in the membership of the body, but not so large as in former years. The connectional editor, the Rev. James Macpherson, was elected president, and the Rev. Samuel Antliff secretary. This body has been the most successful of all the minor branches of the great Methodist family. Its ministers have been men of one work, mighty in prayer and indefatigable in effort, and their labors have been eminently owned of the Head of the Church.

The death of the Rev. James Everett, whose expulsion, with Samuel Dunn and William Griffith, from the English Wesleyan Conference in 1849, cost the Wesleyan body the loss of one hundred thousand members, is an event which has been widely chronicled. Mr. Everett was a peerless hunter-up of relics, and had a large and unique collection. He was the intimate friend and biographer of Adam Clarke, and the confidante of Southey. Many of the distinguished literati sought his friendship and valued his acquaintance. He wrote the life of Sammy Hick, and was the biographer of William (Billy) Dawson. These two works have made his name familiar to Methodists throughout the world. He was a trenchant, caustic and vigorous writer, and brilliant, as well as strong and severe. He reached the patriarchal age of eighty-eight, and died with Christian hope and trust. No history of Methodism can ever he written without his name occupying a prominent place therein, and the future historian who will impartially review the troublous times in which he was compelled to take a conspicuous part will not hold him responsible for their disaster, hut will affiliate much of that responsibility upon the act of the Wesleyan Conference, which expelled him and others from its communion.

Hibernicus.

Belfast, Ireland, July 1, 1872.

Death of the President of Mexico.—Benito Juarez is reported to have died on the eighth of July. He was descended from pure aboriginal stock, and horn in humble circumstances in 1807. In 1857 he was appointed by Comonfort president of the Supreme Court of Justice, and in 1858, hy the withdrawal of Comonfort, Juarez, by virtue of his office, became president of the republic. Juarez was n Liberal, and represented the policy which opposed the encroachments and intolerance of the Church of Rome. His death, in a political and religious point of view, is an event of importance, and may prove a calamity to that already distracted country. It is too soon as yet to predict what the result will be. His successor is Lerdo de Tejada, the president of the Supreme Court of Justice, but his policy and ability are yet to be developed. He was supposed to be in heart with the revolutionists and opposed to Juarez.

We have had occasion, from time to time, to notice that model school for boys, the Baton Rouge Collegiate Institute, over which about the best educator in the South, Prof. W. H. N. Magruder, presides. It is only needful for the merits of this institution to be known to insure for it an overwhelming patronage. We have heretofore spoken of this school as a model of excellence, and we are more and more convinced that it is truly so. It is the Rugby of the Southwest, and fortunate are the boys who have the advantages which it affords. Prof. Magruder has never made any charge for tuition for the sons of our preachers. For particular information let our readers refer at once to the advertisement which appears this week.

The advertisement of Marvin College, Waxahachie, Texas, appears this week. As noticed last week, Rev. J. M. Pugh, a leading member of the Mississippi Conference, and president of the Sharon Female College, has accepted the presidency, and will leave about the middle of August for his new and responsible post of duty. It will bo seen that Marvin College is ably officered, and that the terms for board and tuition are remarkably low. Bro. Pugh will he reluctantly surrendered hy the institution over which he has recently presided, and hy his brethren of the Mississippi Conference. We wish him abundant prosperity and usefulness in the field to which he has been called.

We regret to learn that Rev. William C. Chamberlain, a valuable and estimable local preacher, died recently nt Ocean Springs, Mississippi. An obituary will be furnished us for publication shortly. Bro. Chamberlain's end wns eminently peaceful—so we are informed by his son, the Rev. C. Chamberlain, of the Mississippi Conference, who was with his father in his last hours.

The cataloguo of Mansfield Female College, for the present year, is the handsomest yet issued by this institution, and presents a most gratifying exhibit of its condition, past history, and the management and course of study.

The pleasantest things in the world are pleasant thonghts; and the greatest art in life is to have as many as possible.

Married.

In the Methodist church in the city of Montgomery, Alabama, July 16, 1872, by Rev. H. Urquhart, Mr. HENRY HOBBIE and Miss LEONORA JACKSON, daughter of J. W. A. and M. E. Jackson.

At St. Stephen's, Alabama, by the Rev. H. Urquhart, July 24, 1872, Dr. LAFAYETTE STULER and Miss GEORGIA PELHAM, daughter of J. A. Pelham.

Obituaries.

MRS. CORINNE J. BAKER, wife of Andrew J. Baker, of Duck Hill, and daughter of Colonel Walter G. Kearney, of Madison county, Mississippi, died, at her late residence, April 16, 1872.

Many things conspire to make this death peculiarly afflicting. Mrs. Baker was taken away in the twenty-third year of her age, and in the fourth year of her married life; she was the oldest child of her parents, and leaves an affectionate husband, and two little daughters, the youngest about nine months old. What an aching void has been made in the hearts of her loved ones! How irreparable the loss to her children!

The circumstances of her life, and her peaceful death, serve much to mitigate these afflictions, and bid the weeping ones to "sorrow not, even as others who have no hope."

Her life was spent pleasantly and profitably. She was liberally educated and plously nurtured. Well endowed mentally, of attractive personal appearance, and blessed with temporal advantages, she was deservedly popular. Going with her husband to Duck Hill after their marriage, among elder strangers, she very soon gathered around her many warm friends, and came to be regarded as a bright ornament to society. Her great delight seemed to be to beautify her home and make her friends happy.

She became a Christian when quite young, and never lost sight of her duty. She seemed to think she would die, even after the crisis of her disease was thought to have passed, but expressed no fears of death, and requested her mother to read to her the sacred Scriptures.

May the consoling influence of the Holy Spirit be felt upon the hearts of the bereaved parents and disconsolate husband; and may the loss of a mother's tenderness and care be compensated, in his own way, by their loving Heavenly Father, to the dear helpless little ones.

C. G. ANDREWS.

WE MENTION affectionately the name of SUSAN A. HOLLINGSWORTH, wife of J. T. Hollingsworth, and daughter of Horatio Gates and Mary Shaw O'Neal; born in Middletown, Maryland, August 10, 1808; died suddenly, June 22, 1872, at her home near New Iberia, Louisiana.

But four brief days had elapsed since death had flung his unerring shaft, and Mrs. Caldwell, the daughter, is the victim; now the fond wife and mother is suddenly cut down. O inexorable death!

Sister Hollingsworth professed religion at the age of fourteen or fifteen; lived at Fredericksburg eight or ten years; moved to Washington City in 1846; married Bro. Hollingsworth in 1854, went to his home in Madison county, Mississippi, and from thence to the place of her death, three years ago. These data will furnish to her numerous friends, at her several places of residence, the means of reviewing her life. She kept in the closest identity with the church of God, carrying and giving in her certificate of church membership, observing the ordinances, enjoying the benefits and doing her part in bearing the burdens imposed on her by her profession. The Sunday school work, and attentions to the poor and destitute, was a prominent trait of character wherever she lived, until for the past seven years, she was severely afflicted with rheumatism, and for a long time so sorely as to be unable to walk.

The high esteem placed upon her for intelligence, earnest piety and gentleness is manifested in the contributions in her album, by many of the good and excellent with whom she had been in association.

Her children—and only hers by marriage—regarded her as a natural mother.

We might eulogize the virtues of Sister Hollingsworth, but no valid panegyric would exalt her in the estimation of those who knew her, nor add to her glory in the world of spirits. "Her works do follow her." To us, what a fragrance in her memory!

With the afflicted family we bow in meek and humble submission to a wise and merciful Providence, responding, in the language of Christian faith: "The Lord gave, the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord!"

THOMAS B. WHITE, Pastor.
Baltimore Episcopal Methodist please copy.

WE ARE called upon to chronicle the death of JAMES E. FULLER, only son of Mrs. Mary H. Fuller, which occurred in St. Martinsville, Louisiana, after an illness of nearly three weeks, May 9, 1872, aged twenty-four years.

Jimmie, as he was familiarly called, was a noble young man, possessed of many excellent qualities—genial-spirited, confiding, high-toned, friendly, and ever actuated by a high sense of moral obligation. Though a pilot of one of our Teche steamers by profession, yet he was noted for his good morals. His praise is in the mouth of his compeers, showing that even in that business a man can exemplify and illustrate the power of early education and wholesome religious influence. To his fellow-craftsmen this is a warning, and stands forth as an example that one can pursue the honorable and legitimate occupation of pilot, and "fear God and keep his commandments."

Sister Fuller is certainly bereft, and calls forth our sincerest sympathies. Her husband, the late Captain E. W. Fuller, of notoriety as captain of a gunboat in these waters during the late war, died in Christian triumph, on Johnson's Island, a prisoner of war—another trite exemplification of that hymn-line, full of Christian theology:

"A thousand ways has Providence
To bring believers home."

Jimmie was the only help and stay of his widowed mother; his father took great comfort in this fact. God often takes away the props on which we lean, that we may lean more strongly on him.

About two years ago Jimmie was baptized in the church, since which his life has been consistent—hesitating to be regarded as a member of the church, feeling the sacredness of the obligation.

It was my painful pleasure to visit and converse with him a few days previous to his death. He was much engaged in prayer, and gave the most hopeful evidence that he was setting his house in order. We are warranted in believing that he "sleeps in Jesus;" and such "will God bring with him; therefore comfort your hearts."

At his request he was buried by the "church and the Masons." Rest on,

"Till he shall bid thee arise,
To hail him in triumph descending the skies."

T. R. WHITE, Pastor.

OUR AGENT FOR LONDON AND LIVERPOOL.—Robert Babington, Esq., will represent the claims of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE during the season in London and Liverpool, and other parts of the United Kingdom.

BOOTS AND SHOES.—We take pleasure in again calling attention to the advertisement of our neighbor, William Hogan. We advise our friends to call at 99 and 101 Camp street, and examine for themselves his stock and prices of boots, shoes, trunks, valises and bags before purchasing.

TEAS.—We have no hesitation in recommending the teas of J. W. Platt & Co., 102 Camp street, corner of Poydras. We have never purchased tea from any other house since they went into business, and can say they have given perfect satisfaction. See their advertisement elsewhere.

Agt's & Publisher's Department

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS OF LETTERS and Funds, Received by Mail, for the week ending Jul, 27, 1872:

A—American Tract Society 2 lots, C G Andrews 2 lots, F Alexander $1.25, American Sunday School Union, A Friend to the Advocate.

B—A G Brown, John W Boswell, A A Butte, D P Bradford, J E Benning, Barnes & Wilkinson.

C—Robert Carter & Bros, John F Cook $20, C W Carter, E H Cushing.

D—R A Davis, Thos F Dixon, W C Digges 50 cts, M DuBose, W B Dennis, A Dowling, C B DuBose $9.80.

E—Edw J Evans & Co, Elliot, Binkeslee & Noyes, John W Elliot $6.

F—James D Flowers, W H Foster, E N Freshman.

G—C LeG Goodrich, W J Gorham $7.50, H B Graham & Bro.

H—J Hamilton, W B Hines, H G Horton $1.90, R K Hargrove $15, W Harrington, W H Hogen, W W Hurst, P Howard, F A Hutchinson & Co, M C Hoffmnn, J W Hearn, D M Hudson, T Wallnes, J H Holland $1, W A Harris, E Hill, E J Hale & Son.

J—H F Johnston, Seba Johnston.

L—J B Lippincott & Co, W S Leak, Lyerly, Woolverton & Co, A C Littlejohn.

M—H H Montgomery $5, M J Monlteth, John Mathews $15, Mrs M S McCauley, Chas McArthur, J S Meek, Geo W McMillan $7.50, Jas M McKee 3 lots, D Merchant, J W Merchant $1, J Z T Morris, N P Moore $10, W H N Magruder, C & G Merriam, S H McMasters.

N—Jos D Newsom, National Temperance Society, Thos Nelson & Sons, A H Nicholson, John C Newberry $4.

P—Price, Williams & Co, Pittsburg Paper Manufacturing Co, Ira W Porter $2, S F Pilley, C Pope, Powers Paper Co, Pierce & Terry.

R—E E F Ross 2 lots, A D F Randolph, R H Rosberry $1.50.

S—E W Simmons $10, R F Shelton, Geo S Scofield, H L Smith $1, G S Sandell $10.

W—Worthington, Dustin & Co, W H Wetherby $8, J L Wright $11, Wilson, Winkle & Co. Mrs Anna Watson $5.

ADVOCATE PRESS FOR SALE.—Our press is too small. Our present size, 21 by 33 inches, is the largest we can print on it. The increase of business and demands of our readers require that we should part with our beautiful Hoe cylinder printing machine, which, with eighteen pounds of steam, will print from thirteen hundred to fifteen hundred per hour. See the work, as in our issue, and call or send a competent judge on Mondays or Wednesdays to see it in motion, if you wish to buy. We will entertain propositions from first-class manufacturers for exchange. Address

ROBT. J. HARP, Publisher.

MR. E. E. F. ROSS, our resident advertising agent, is now on a brief tour through the West and North, and we commend him to the attention of our patrons, and shall be thankful for courtesies extended to him. They are assured that Mr. Ross has no other business, but devotes his entire time to the paper, and is entitled to all the consideration of one of its business corps. Mr. Ross may be found at the Sherman House, No. 1 West Twenty-Sixth street, New York.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Use Dr. Henry's World's Tonic and BLOOD PURIFIER.—It is the great household remedy, pleasant to take, yet potent for the prevention and cure of diseases. It is better than Bitters, Cordials, Bucha or Sarsaparilla. Sold by druggists. jy18 fy

Dr. William H. Tutt—Dear Sir: In my young days I was rather wild, and became the victim of a loathsome disease. I was treated by an eminent physician, and thought I was cured. After moving to this State I was horrified at finding that the disease was making its appearance again, in a secondary form. Ulcers formed in my mouth and on different parts of my body. I also became afflicted with severe rheumatism. I employed different physicians, and used various patent medicines for months, all to no purpose. During a visit to Jacksonville I saw your Sarsaparilla and Queen's Delight, and concluded to try it. I have taken a dozen bottles, and believe that the poison is entirely driven from my system. I intend continuing it, however, to make a sure thing of it. At the request of your agent, I send this to you. You are at liberty to use it as you like. Yours respectfully, JOHN H. GUILFORD.
MILLVILLE, FLA., Sept. 22, 1860. aug 1t

LIVER COMPLAINT AND BILIOUSNESS. Dr. Tutt's Liver Pills exert a direct and powerful influence on the Liver, and will with certainty relieve that important organ from disease, and restore its normal functions.

Dr. Tutt's Hair Dye is Sold Everywhere.

Dr. Henry's Root and Plant Pills.—Mild yet thorough; no nausea or griping; entirely vegetable; great Liver remedy. Price, 25 cents. Sold by druggists. jy18 ly

Mrs. Whitcomb's Sirup.—The great soothing remedy. Price only 25 cents. Gives rest to the mother and health to the child. Sold by druggists. jy18 ly

Have your Printing and Binding Done at

THE PELICAN JOB OFFICE,

112 and 114 Poydras St., New Orleans.
jy18 ly

The Equitable Life Assurance Society, New York.

Assets, $18,000,000. Income, $8,000,000.
Branch office—33 CAMP STREET.
A. P. CLEVELAND,
fc8 ly General Agent.

Caution—Every genuine box of DR. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS bears the signature of Fleming Brothers, Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, and their private United States stamp. ☞ Take no other; the market is full of imitations.

It is the popular verdict that people who have been accustomed to the use of Bitters or Cordials are obliged eventually to resort to McLane's Liver Pills for permanent relief. ap25 6m

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Whitworth Female College,
AT BROOKHAVEN, MISS.

THE CONTINUED SUCCESS OF THIS INSTITUTION is one of the best evidences of its merit. During the past term there were in attendance two hundred and twenty-nine pupils.

The members of the Faculty—eleven in number—are selected on account of their ability to teach.

Prof. ECKHARDT, Music Director, has few equals.

Madame JULIUS, a Parisian lady of eighteen years' successful experience as a teacher, has been engaged to take charge of the French and Ornamental Department.

The very best care is taken of our pupils, both as to health and manners. Fires are provided for all.

No extravagance in dress is allowed.

The good health of Brookhaven is proverbial. Pupils from the miasmatic regions of Louisiana and Mississippi find this as healthful a school as can be found anywhere.

The charges are believed to be lower than in any school in the Southwest where similar advantages are afforded. Only from $230 to $265 for all expenses, excepting music, French and the ornamental branches.

No expense is spared in purchasing the most approved apparatus, maps, charts, etc., and all necessary school furniture.

Brookhaven is located on the New Orleans, Jackson and Great Northern Railroad, 128 miles from the city.

Catalogues sent free on application to aug 6m REV. H. F. JOHNSON, Prest.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE,
AT BATON ROUGE, LOUISIANA.

THE EXERCISES OF THIS SCHOOL will be resumed on Wednesday, the Second of October next.

For circulars, with all necessary information, apply to Rev. R. J. Harp, 112 Camp street, New Orleans, or to myself, at Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

aug 6m W. H. N. MAGRUDER.

MARVIN COLLEGE,
WAXAHACHIE, TEXAS.

THE NEXT SESSION OF THIS SCHOOL will open on the FIRST MONDAY IN SEPTEMBER, 1872, under the supervision of Rev. J. M. PUGH, President.

COLLEGIATE DEPARTMENT.

Rev. J. M. PUGH, A. M., Professor of Moral Science and Biblical Literature.
Mr. E. F. YEAGER, A. B., Professor of Languages.
Rev. F. OLIN DANNELLY, Professor of Natural Science.
Mr. JOHN E. BISHOP, Prof. of Mathematics.

PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

Rev. JAMES B. SHAW, Principal.
Mrs. ANNIE E. GASS, Assistant.

MUSICAL DEPARTMENT.

Mr. F. H. LINDEN, Professor of Music.

PRIMARY DEPARTMENT.

Rates of Tuition—Four Months.

Primary class	$8 00
Preparatory	12 00
Higher	16 00
Collegiate	20 00
Music on piano	20 00

A small fee will be required of each student in the musical department for the use of instrument.

Every student will be charged from date of entrance till the close of session, except when providentially hindered, and all bills are due when the student enters.

Ministers' children (who are not our pastors) received free of charge.

We hope the friends of the College who have heretofore patronized this school, and others, will add us in building up a school of high grade by sending their children and wards to this College, guaranteeing them as favorable privileges as at any other school in the State.

Board can be had for $14.50 per month.
F. P. RAY,
President Board of Trustees.
JAS. E. SMITH, Secretary. jy11 1m

TEAS FREE OF DUTY.
GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICE.

J. W. PLATT & CO.,
102 Camp street, corner of Poydras.

RECEIVE THEIR TEAS direct from the importers, and furnish the public consumers in any quantity desired, with one small profit only added on Cargo Prices in New York, or about one-third less than store charge for similar goods at fashionable retail stores. Housekeepers who wish to reduce the cost of their household stores will please notice the following Price List, which includes the finest Teas imported:

IMPERIAL (Green,) 50 cts., 80 cts.; Choice, $1 per lb.; Extra choicest, $1.25 per lb.
YOUNG HYSON (Green,) 80 cts.; Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.25 per lb.
GUNPOWDER (Green,) Choice, $1.25; Extra choicest, $1.50 per lb.
OOLONG (Black,) 50 cts., 80 cts.; Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.20 per lb.
ENGLISH BREAKFAST, 50 cts., 75 cts.; Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.25 per lb.
JAPAN (Natural Leaf,) Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.20 per lb.
ORANGE PEKOE (Black,) Extra choicest, $1.50 per lb.
MIXED (Green and Black,) 50 cts., 75 cts.; Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.20 per lb.

We recommend our Extra Choicest Teas as the best in market. Special prices to wholesale buyers. aug 1m

WILLIAM HOGAN,
Manufacturer of and Dealer in
BOOTS, SHOES, TRUNKS, VALISES AND BAGS,
FRENCH AND AMERICAN.
Also Agent for the EMPIRE SEWING MACHINE,
99 AND 101 CANAL STREET,
aug 3m New Orleans.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE ILLUSTRATED
HISTORY OF THE BIBLE
By Wm. SMITH, LL.D.
AUTHOR OF SMITH'S BIBLE DICTIONARY.

It contains over 250 fine Scripture Illustrations and 1,105 pages, and is the most comprehensive and valuable History of the Bible ever published. The labor and learning of centuries are gathered in this one volume to throw a strong, clear light upon every page of the Inspired Word.

AGENTS WANTED.—Send for circulars and see our terms and a full description of the work. Address
NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.,
aug 1m Philadelphia, Pa.

Uniform Lessons for 1872.

FOR TEACHERS.—The Sunday School World contains the explanations and studies prepared by Rev. John Hall, D. D., for teachers.

SCHOLARS' PAPER.—With the text of the lesson, and suggestive helps for the study of it; and questions at the foot of each page, to be answered in writing by the scholar.

INTERMEDIATE LESSON PAPER.—Adapted to the use of less advanced scholars, with questions and explanations.

Price of each Lesson Paper of four pages, at the rate of 75 cents per 100 copies for one month, or $3 per 100 copies yearly.

☞ Catalogues of the Society's publications and sample copies of its periodicals furnished gratuitously on application at the Depository of the AMERICAN SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION,
aug 3m 1122 Chestnut st., Philadelphia.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

CENTENARY COLLEGE,
JACKSON, LOUISIANA.

THE NEXT TERM OF THIS VENERABLE INSTITUTION OPENS ON THE FIRST MONDAY IN OCTOBER, 1872.

FACULTY.

Rev. C. G. ANDREWS, A. M., President, and Professor of Mental and Moral Science, Political Economy and International Law.
Rev. A. R. HOLCOMBE, A. M., Professor of Mathematics and Adjunct Professor of Natural Science.
G. H. WILEY, A. M., Professor of Ancient and Modern Languages.
T. S. JONES, M. D., Professor of Natural Science.
———, Principal of the Preparatory Department.

CHARGES.

Tuition, per session of forty weeks, in College	$60 00
Tuition, per session of forty weeks, in Preparatory Department	40 00
Contingent expenses	5 00

A matriculation fee of $5 must be paid on entering any regular college class. One-half the charges must be paid when the student enters; the other half on the beginning of the second term, March 1.

BOARD.

Board, including lodging, washing, lights and fuel, can be had in the best of families for $20 per month. Day-boarding with the same families, $13 per month. Rooms provided in the dormitories free of rent. Board to be paid in advance at least one month.

LOCATION.

This institution is located in the lovely village of Jackson, about twelve miles from Bayou Sara, in a grove of pine, magnolia, oak and beech. The location is remarkable for its beautiful woodlands, its bland and delightful atmosphere, its pure water, its unrivaled healthfulness, and its cultivated and refined society.

WHEN FOUNDED.

The college was established by the State of Louisiana in 1825, and ceded to the Methodist Episcopal Church South in 1845.

ALUMNI.

Its Alumni numbers 203, and they are to be found in the most honorable and useful stations in the land.

APPARATUS AND CABINET.

The college possesses a valuable set of Philosophical, Astronomical and Chemical Apparatus, and also a well-selected Mineralogical and Geological Cabinet. The apparatus includes a new Reflecting Telescope (focal distance, seven feet,) a Theodolite, Sextant, Compass, Chronometer, Atwood's Machine, Whirling Tables, Electrical Machine, Air Pump, Steam Engine, various combinations of the Mechanical Powers, Batteries, Chemical Tests, etc., sufficient for a thorough and extended course of observations and experiments. Steps have been taken by the Board of Trustees to put these in thorough repair.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are two regular Literary Societies connected with the institution. These are of great utility to young men acquiring a liberal education—improving them in the art of public speaking, making them in some degree familiar with the proceedings of deliberative bodies, and in cultivating systematic business habits. Each Society has a convenient hall and a well selected library—about 1,600 volumes each, which, added to the College Library of 2,000 volumes, makes over 5,000 volumes in the college.

BUILDINGS.

The Trustees are determined to continue the repairs on the buildings till completed. The grand Center Building is a noble specimen of architectural beauty and adaptation to the purposes of its erection. The wings, built of solid brick, present each a front of two hundred feet, with upper and lower galleries the entire length, supported by Tuscan columns, and with the center making in the perspective a continuous front of 7,000 feet.

PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

In the Preparatory Department students are fitted for regular college classes, or may obtain a thorough English or commercial education.

ITS FACULTY are men of experience and success in teaching.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

Rev. Bishop J. C. KEENER, D. D., President, New Orleans.

Rev. J. A. Godfrey, Clinton.	Hon. A. K. Farrar, Adams county, Miss.
Hon. John McVea, Clinton.	Hon. Edward J. Gay, parish of Iberville.
Hon. and Rev. Jas. H. Muse, St. Helena par.	Samuel J. Norwood, Esq., Shumsport, La.
Hon. Edward Mellichee, Woodville, Miss.	C. G. McGehee, Esq., Wilkinson co., Miss.
Hon. E. T. Merrick, New Orleans.	Rev. W. H. Watkins, D. D., Natchez, Miss.
Prof. W. H. N. Magruder, Baton Rouge.	Rev. W. G. Millsaps, Jefferson county, Miss.
Rev. John C. Miller, Jackson.	Rev. J. A. B. Jones, Port Gibson, Miss.
Rev. R. J. Harp, New Orleans.	Rev. John A. Ellis, Meridian, Miss.
Hon. J. G. Fuqua, Baton Rouge.	B. H. Moss, M. D., New Orleans.
T. F. Collins, Esq., East Feliciana.	Josiah D. Nettles, Esq., East Feliciana.
Rev. J. L. Forsythe, Jackson.	Wilmot H. Goodale, Esq., Baton Rouge.
Rev. L. Parker, D. D., New Orleans.	Rev. C. G. Andrews, Jackson, La.
D. C. Harder, Esq., Clinton.

THE BEST ROUTE to the college is to leave the Mississippi river at Port Hudson, take the Clinton and Port Hudson railroad to Midway station, report to Captain F. A. Haynes as a steamer for Centenary, and he will convey you to the college, a distance of seven miles; 50 cents for single passengers, or one and a half where several are together. Address aug 6m C. G. ANDREWS, President, Jackson, La.

AGENTS WANTED TO SELL THE
ILLUSTRATED
HISTORY OF THE BIBLE
By Wm. SMITH, LL.D.
AUTHOR OF SMITH'S BIBLE DICTIONARY.

It contains over 1,100 fine Scripture Illustrations and 1,105 pages, and is the most comprehensive and valuable History of the Bible ever published. The labor and learning of centuries are gathered in this one volume to throw a strong, clear light upon every page of the Inspired Word.

Send for circulars, and see our terms and a full description of the work. Address
NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.,
274 and 276 Second street,
aug 6m Memphis, Tenn.

AGENTS WANTED FOR
SECRETS OF THE CONVENT AND CONFESSIONAL.
BY JULIA M'NAIR WRIGHT.

The most thrilling and powerful book ever written on this subject. It presents a startling array of facts, and contains revelations never before made public.

Send for circulars and terms to
NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.,
274 and 276 Second street,
aug 6m Memphis, Tenn.

S. COLLINS & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS OF
PRINTING INK,
Office and Depot—26 Frankfort Street,
jy25 6m NEW YORK.

PIANO AT A BARGAIN.

A MAGNIFICENT SQUARE PIANO, Seven Octave, solid Rosewood frame, beautifully carved, front board Pearl inlaid, having been made to order by a first-class maker, will be sold at ONE-THIRD COST PRICE within next thirty days.—Address
PIANO, care ADVOCATE Office,
jy18 1m 112 Camp street.

THREE YEARS IN A Man-Trap. By T. S. ARTHUR, is now ready. It is a thrilling recital of a three years' life in a city dram-shop, shows up the vile deceptions practiced in barrooms, and is the most powerful work of the kind ever written—is certain to have an immense sale. Apply for an agency, and make money.
QUEEN CITY PUBLISHING CO.,
Cincinnati, O. my23 3meow

FOR SCHOOL BOOKS,

MAILED FREE to any address on receipt of price, send to
ROBT. J. HARP, Agent,
jy18 1m 112 Camp street.

WANTED.—A Gentleman and his Wife (both graduates) desire to secure first-class positions in some Seminary or Academy. Would not object to the control of some large Public School. They have had years of professional experience, and understand the most approved methods of Normal School management. Testimonials and references furnished. Address TEACHERS Fort Calhoun, Washington county, Nebraska, until August 15. je27 6t

THE GREAT HOUSEHOLD REMEDY.

As an Invigorator, Liver Corrector and Blood Renovator is superior to all the Bitters, Elixirs, Cordials and Sarsaparillas in use. It is so adapted to the whole system that every organ and function in the body is brought under its exhilarating influence. It gives tone and strength to the digestive apparatus, dispels languor and debility, invigorates the Liver, regulates the Kidneys and Bowels, removes the effect of excess or over-taxation of any kind, and gives vitality and richness to the blood.

Its curative powers after and completely reorganize the entire mass of fluids, and even the solids of the human system, thereby preventing and curing Dyspeptic and Consumptive symptoms, Fever and Ague, Bilious diseases, Fevers of all kinds, Nervous Debility, Affections of the Stomach and Bowels, etc. As a mild and delightful invigorant for delicate females it has no superior.

By its use new life and vigor is given to both body and mind, sending a glow of vitality through every part, which is permanent and lasting.

It is the most effectual remedy for the relief of human suffering ever discovered, and is pleasant to the taste.

WE CHALLENGE THE WORLD

to produce a more delicious medicine to take, yet so potent for the prevention and cure of diseases, than DR. HENRY'S

WORLD'S TONIC AND BLOOD PURIFIER.
Price, $1 or Six Bottles for $5.

Prepared by the GRAFTON MEDICINE Co., St. Louis, Mo. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicines everywhere. jy18 1yeow

Agents WANTED FOR THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD. A GRAND and popular Repository of Religious Knowledge. Agents sell 100 per week. A splendid quarto, with 200 magnificent Illustrations on STEEL and WOOD. Agents who sell this can have a prospectus free of our Pictorial Home Bible, published in English and German. Address at once, to secure terms and territory, WM. FLINT & CO., Savannah, Ga. my9 3morow

T. W. HOUSE,
39 and 41 Main Street, Houston, Texas,
BANKER AND EXCHANGE DEALER.
Collections made and promptly remitted.
feb1 6m

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

WESLEYAN FEMALE INSTITUTE,
STAUNTON, VIRGINIA,

WILL BEGIN ITS TWENTY-THIRD ANNUAL Session

SEPTEMBER 19, 1872.

Thus this no college ranks higher. The president, Rev. W. A. HARRIS, is aided by twenty teachers and officers. System of teaching thorough, and based upon the plan of the University of Virginia. English Science and Literature are taught by experienced graduates of our first universities and colleges. French is taught by a native master of the language; Music by six professors and teachers, among whom are two of the most distinguished vocal teachers of the South. Great attention paid to the special training of the voice.

This is one of the healthiest climates in the world. Its marked effect is the rapid promotion of the physical health and vigor of our pupils. Those who come here from the South, with feeble constitutions, chills and climatic diseases, are entirely restored.

Buildings elegant—fanned by the purest breezes, and commanding the most magnificent rural and mountain scenery for thirty miles along the beautiful Valley of Virginia, making it one of the most delightful college homes in the Union.

It is attended by over one hundred boarding pupils, from the States reaching from Maryland to Texas.

EXTRACTS FROM TESTIMONIALS.

From the Baltimore Conference.

The teachers are efficient and faithful; the pupils are studious, healthy and happy. No college for our daughters ranks higher.

From Mrs. (General) John B. Floyd.

* * * If I had daughters to educate, and were going to Europe to remain until they had completed their collegiate course, I know of no gentleman I would select before Mr. Harris, nor any family than his I would prefer to leave them with, feeling satisfied that they would not only be thoroughly and properly educated, but raised to suit my ideas of refinement and taste.

From Judge John N. Headeon, M. A., University of Virginia.

I regard the Wesleyan Female Institute, under the management of Rev. William A. Harris, as one of the very best and most attractive schools in the State.

From Hon. John B. Baldwin.

The Wesleyan Female Institute is managed by a gentleman who is, by character, capacity and experience, admirably adapted to its position, and is surrounded by influences which make it, in all respects, a most desirable place for the care and education of the daughters of Christian parents.

From Prof. William E. Peters, LL. D., of University of Virginia.

* * * The sterling worth of Prof. Harris as a man, his Christian character, his devotion to duty, and his mature scholarship, as also his successful experience as a teacher, furnish ample assurance that young ladies committed to his charge will enjoy advantages of moral and intellectual training rarely found.

From Rev. William E. Mmassey, D. D.

* * * From personal knowledge I believe that, as the president of a female college, Rev. William A. Harris has no superior; indeed, within the purview of my acquaintance he has no equal.

From Rev. S. S. Roszell, D. D.

We believe, conscientiously, and as confidently affirm, that this is the best home school for the daughters of our church with which we are acquainted.

From Bishop E. M. Marvin, D. D.

The Wesleyan Female Institute is an honor to the church. Instruction is thorough. All classes stand high. In music, advantages are offered of very high order. The most talented professors are employed, and neither pains nor expense are spared to make this department eminent. The school is very prosperous, and deserves to be so.

TERMS FOR THE ENTIRE COLLEGIATE YEAR.

Board and tuition in the Collegiate course, $270. Music and other extras moderate.
For catalogue of fifty-four pages address
REV. W. A. HARRIS,
jy25 2t Staunton, Virginia.

THE FAMILY PAPER.

The Illustrated Christian Weekly,

NOW IN ITS SECOND YEAR, IS THE

ONLY ILLUSTRATED

Religious Weekly published in the country. It is unsectarian in its character, and has been warmly welcomed by Christian people everywhere. Its illustrations are not excelled by any secular publication, while the reading matter is carefully prepared by eminent writers of various denominations.

Send for Specimen Copy.—Two Dollars a Year.

Agents wanted in every community. Liberal terms to Sabbath schools.

AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY,
Publishers,
je27 7teow5p 150 Nassau st., New York.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S
STEEL PENS,
OF THE OLD STANDARD QUALITY.
TRADE MARK: JOSEPH GILLOTT, Name and Design Warranted. Or Descriptive and Numbered.

The well-known Original and Popular Nos.
303 ..... 404 ..... 170 351,
having been assumed by other Makers, we desire to caution the public in respect to said imitations. ☞ ASK FOR GILLOTT'S.
JOS. GILLOTT & SONS,
jy25 1y 91 John street, N. Y.

OCEAN SPRINGS.
Summer Resort.—Board at the Seaside.

THE SUBSCRIBER has taken the MORRIS HOUSE, at Ocean Springs, which has just undergone a thorough repair, and will be open to boarders who wish to enjoy a pleasant home, good bathing, fresh sea air, and luxuriate on fish and oysters during the heat of summer.

Terms for board: $10 per month, $10 per week, and $2 per day. Apply to the subscriber by mail, at Ocean Springs.

Refer to Bishop Keener, Rev. Robert J. Harp, J. L. Dunnica & Co., and Samuel Ross, Esq., New Orleans.
WM. C. CHAMBERLIN.
Apru. 20, 1872. ap25 1t

AGENTS WANTED for the Autobiography of HORACE GREELEY. A new Illustrated edition, now ready. Get this, the only edition written by himself and indorsed by the Tribune; and our 1872 CAMPAIGN MANUAL for all parties, just out; price, $1.50. One agent sold 80 in three days. Splendid Steel Portraits of Greeley, also of Grant. $300 a month made selling the above.
C. R. TREAT, Publisher,
Jy25 1m 805 Broadway, N. Y.

WANTED.—BY A SINGLE LADY OF this city, a thorough graduate in the Collegiate course, with the best references, a SCHOOL, or a situation in a school. Would not object to a situation in the country. Address LETTER "A," Advocate Office, 112 Camp street, New Orleans. jy25 1m

The Child's Corner.

GRANDPAPA'S SPECTACLES.

BY ELIZABETH SILL.

Grandpapa's spectacles cannot be found;
He has searched all the rooms, high and low, round and round;
Now he calls to the young ones, and whist does he say?
"Ten cents for the child who will find them to-day."

Then Henry and Nelly and Edward all ran,
And a most thorough hunt for the glasses began;
And dear little Nell, in her generous way,
Said: "I'll look for them, grandpa, without any pay!"

All through the big Bible she searches with care,
That lies on the table by grandpapa's chair;
They feel in his pockets, they peep in his hat;
They pull out the sofa; they shake out the mat.

Then down on all-fours, like two good-natured bears,
Go Harry and Ned under tables and chairs,
Till, quite out of breath, Ned is heard to declare,
He believes that those glasses are not anywhere.

But Nelly, who, leaning on grandpapa's knee,
Was thinking most earnestly where they could be,
Looked suddenly up in the kind, faded eyes,
And her own shining brown ones grew big with surprise.

She clapped both her hands; all her dimples came out;
She turned to the boys with a bright roguish shout:
"You may leave off your looking, both Harry and Ned.
For there are the glasses on grandpapa's head!"

The Nursery.

The White Rose-Bush.

BY REV. J. D. STRONG.

How do you think you would feel, little reader, were you to come back to your birthplace after twenty years' absence? Probably just as I did, when I wandered by a half-wild path into the old burying-ground. Like most homes of the dead in country places, it had been badly neglected. The fence was half broken down; bushes choked the paths; weeds and tall grass grew on the graves; the grave-stones were leaning, and many of them broken; the flowers that grief and love had planted on the little mounds were cramped and half hid; and the whole seemed so neglected and lonely, and it was so difficult for me to find the old places, that I turned with a sort of half shudder away.

Just then I saw a small white rose-bush struggling up through the rank growth of grass, and stopped to look at it. It had five buds, and one full-blown flower, and it seemed to be so fragrant with love for the little darling that slept below, that I kneeled down and began to tear away the grass to see the name on the head-stone. But the letters were all overgrown and hid with moss. I cleaned it away with my knife, and read:

"TABITHA EMILY."

"BEAUTIFUL IN LIFE—LAMENTED IN DEATH."

These words told me that the little rose-bush had stood there a generation and a half, wrestling with the winds and snows of winter, and shedding sweet odors on the air in summer, as a beautiful emblem of a mother's love. They took me back more than forty years, to a bright spring morning when my mother carried me in her arms to that spot and then planted the little rosh-hush on the grave of my favorite sister.

I was but two years and a half old, and she five, when she died; yet I remembered her so distinctly that I could almost see her again, as I knelt by her grave. All the little things we had said and done to each other, though I had not thought of them for years before, rose up instantly like beautiful pictures before me. The little white rose-bush had marshaled them all in order, and sent them trooping through my memory like a glorious procession of angels in a dream; and there, in the tall grass by the small head-stone, I lived them over again. We again walked hand-in-hand in the meadow for blueberries and buttercups; we gathered the wild cherries and plucked the cowslips, and made grass chains and dandelion whistles; we played school, built coh-houses, arranged cupboards of broken crockery, had dollies' feasts, and cooked dirt pies in our little stone oven; we dressed puss up in the baby's night-gown; we put spectacles on old Rover's nose, and then rolled in the grass, and laughed to see how grave and wise and deacon-like he looked.

But the little prayer meeting we used to hold on the Sabbath came back freshest of all; and the very tones of that dearly-loved and long-remembered sister seemed to be again in my ear, as she plead in a low but earnest voice that God would "take care of her baby brother and make him good!" Those prayers, though out of infant lips, have certainly been answered, and have done more to mold the character and shape the life of that brother than all the influences of later years.

And then she was so good while she lived! and it was so sweet to remember how kind and gentle and loving she always was! I could not recollect one naughty word or deed she ever said or did. The little hands, that were so cold and stiff down there in the grave at my feet, had never struck me; the little blue eyes, now closed forever under those clods, had never flashed on me in anger; the little face beneath that grass-tangled turf had never scowled at me in hate and passion; the little tongue, now so still down there in the ground, had never called me a hard name; and the lips that were turning to dust under that white rose-bush had never pouted, nor mocked, nor reviled me, nor uttered an unkind word that I could remember.

It made me very happy, and I said: O! that all brothers and sisters could see this rose-bush as I see it to-day, and could understand as I do what they are now doing to each other! and could feel as they will feel, by and by, when they come back from long absence and stand by the graves of their lost ones! for then, I think, they would treat each other very differently from what they now sometimes do.

BROTHERS AND SISTERS.—Some brothers and sisters are unkind to each other. It is a pity they should ever be so. The story is this: Which Rose-Bush?" teach them that it is better to be kind and loving. I am sure it will be a good story to remember. The moral of it is: "Be kind."—The Child at Home.

Swallowing Fifteen Cows.

"Swallowed fifteen cows!" said Bertie in astonishment, looking up from her play. Her ears had caught the words in a conversation that was going on in the room.

"Yes," answered her brother. "He drank them all up."

"Drank fifteen cows! I don't believe it," answered the little maiden firmly.

"He sold them and bought whisky and beer with the money," explained her Aunt Katy.

"Oh, oh, that was it. I see now. Well, it is funny."

"No, not funny, dear, but sad," said Aunt Katy. "The man had a wife and two little children, and he sold the milk from the fifteen cows and bought them food and clothing. But now, having swallowed the cows, as we were saying, his wife and children go hungry and cold, and he, a poor, miserable drunkard, is in the almshouse. Isn't it dreadful to think of?"

The children looked very sober.

"You'll never catch me drinking up fifteen cows, nor one either," said George very positively.

"I don't know as to that," replied Aunt Kate. "The man we were talking about was once a little boy like you, with a healthy taste for food and clear, cold water. As to ever swallowing a cow, much more fifteen cows, such a thing never entered his head. But you see what he came to be at last. How was it? He began by taking a glass of ale or beer, or a little wine at parties now and then. This corrupted his pure taste and gave him an unnatural thirst, which only strong drink could satisfy. After ale and beer came whisky, rum and brandy; and the more and oftener he drank the more his thirst increased, until he became a poor, miserable drunkard.

So, you see, George, that no man can tell what he may come to. May be, instead of swallowing fifteen cows, you will get down, one of these days after you become a man, forty or fifty cows, and a house into the bargain."

"Now, aunty, this is too bad!" exclaimed George. "You know I will not."

"So hundreds and thousands of little boys might once have said, who, now that they are grown to be men, are drunkards. There is only one way of safety."

"What is that, aunty?" asked the boy, looking up with serious eyes.

"It is the way of total abstinence, as we call it—the only way of safety for boys or men. If you never drink a drop of intoxicating liquor you will never be a drunkard. If you depart from this rule no man can say to how low a depth of wretchedness and degradation you may fall. The worst drunkard in the land was once a pure and innocent boy."

"I'll never swallow oven a calf!" exclaimed George, starting up and speaking with great earnestness.

"Touch not, taste not, handle not the unclean thing," said Aunt Kate, "and all will be well with you. But indulge ever so little in drinking as you grow to manhood, and none can tell into what a great deep of hopeless ruin you may fall."

Up There.

Jane was going to bed. A dear little sister used to sleep on the snow-white pillow beside her. Where was she now?

"Mamma," asked, Jane, "who do you think Fanny sleeps with now in heaven?"

"There is no night there," answered her mother.

"Mamma," asked the little girl, "does a soul have eyes to see with? Will Fanny know us when we come?"

"The Bible tells us that we shall see as we are seen, and know as we are known," replied the mother.

"We shall see then," said the little girl; "but our eyes will not be crying eyes, will they, mamma?"

"No, my child. God will wipe away all tears," said her mother. As she spoke a small tear stood in her own eye, but it quickly went away. Little Jane saw it, and said within herself: "God wipes away mamma's tears now."

"There will be nothing to hurt in heaven, and no dark; will there be?" asked the little one.

"No, my child, for the glory of God lightens it, and the Lamb is the light thereof."

"And what dress shall we wear?"

"Jesus has a dress for all his little ones," said mamma; "the beautiful garments of righteousness. They are white and shining."

"And I must keep it so nice, mamma."

"Yes, my child; an unkind word will spot it; a sinful thought will stain it; but there is no sin in heaven; and it is the beauty of heaven that we shall not want to do or to think a wrong thing."

"And we shall not keep wanting things," said little Jane, thinking, perhaps, of the rocking-horse and the candy, and the big doll of Emma's which she could not have.

"No, my darling," said her mother, taking her little girl in her arms; "for we shall be satisfied when we awake in his likeness."

"Then, mamma," said little Jane, "we must not want Fanny back, but think most of going to her."

O yes, it will be so precious to meet our darling ones in heaven!—Heavenly Tidings.

TWENTY-FIVE or thirty years ago Rev. Charles G. Finney, now president of Oberlin College, was carrying on a series of revival meetings in some Eastern city—Boston, we think. One day a gentleman called to see him on business. Mr. Finney's daughter, perhaps five years old, answered his ring.

"Is your father in?" asked the stranger.

"No," replied the demure maiden, "But walk in, poor dying sinner! Mother can pray for you."—Hearth and Home.

The Farm and Garden.

Motherhood.

She laid it where the sunbeams fall
Unscanned upon the broken wall,
Without a tear, without a groan,
She laid it near a mighty stone
Which some rude swain had haply cast
Thither in sport, long ages past,
And time with mosses had o'erlaid,
And fenced with many a tall grass-blade,
And all about bid roses bloom
And violets shed their soft perfume.
There, in its cold and quiet bed,
She set her burden down and fled;
Nor thing, all eager to escape,
One glance upon the perfect shape
That lay, still warm and fresh and fair,
But motionless and soundless there.

No human eye had marked her pass
Across the linden-shadowed grass
Ere yet the minster clock calmed seven;
Only the innocent birds of heaven—
The magpie, and the rook whose nest
Swings as the elm-tree waves its crest—
And the lithe cricket and the hoar
And huge-limbed hound that guards the door,
Looked on when, as a summer wind
That, passing, leaves no trace behind,
All unapparelled, barefoot all,
She ran to that old ruined wall,
To leave upon the chill dank earth
(For ah! she never knew its worth)
'Mid hemlock rank, and fern, and fog,
And dews of night, that precious thing!
And there it might have lain forlorn
From morn till eve, from eve to morn;
But that, by some wild impulse led,
The mother, ere she turned and fled,
One moment stood erect and high;
Then poured into the silent sky
A cry so jubilant, so strange,
That Alice—as she strove to range
Her rebel ringlets at her glass—
Sprang up and gazed across the grass;
Shook back those curls so fair to see,
Clapped her soft hands in childish glee;
And shrieked—her sweet face all aglow,
Her very limbs with rapture shaking—
"My hen has laid an egg, I know;
And only hear the noise she's making!"

From "Fly Leaves."

Transplanting Turnips.

In addition to various hints on turnip culture, recently published in these columns, we advise a trial of transplanting the young roots from a seed-bed to the field, after the manner of transplanting cabbages, sweet potato draws, etc. It is often very difficult, during the very hot and sultry weather of July and August, to get a good "stand" of turnips in the open field, and with ordinary preparation and management. By using a properly made seed-bed, however, and availing ourselves of all the advantages of shade and water, we can always get an early start of young turnips; and while these are growing we gain time for a more thorough plowing, pulverizing and manuring of the field into which they are to be transplanted.

By the middle or last of July the field should be all ready, with plenty of manure in flat and broad drills, and only waiting a good shower of rain. When this comes, take up the young turnips carefully, cut off most of the tap-roots with a sharp shears, dip the roots into a grout or batter of water, woods earth and a little fresh cow-manure, and set out precisely as you do strawberry plants, sweet potato draws or onion sets—planting from eight to fifteen inches in the row, according to the size of the variety.

The young turnips may be transplanted at any time after the appearance of the rough leaf; and if carefully performed, as we describe, the result cannot fail to be satisfactory.—Our Home Journal.

Jute.

"I deem it almost as great an acquisition to the country as cotton itself. It yields one of the cheapest fibers which nature produces. It is raised in India, and, I presume, can be raised here, for less than one-half the cost of hemp, and for one-fourth the cost of cotton. It has been produced in India for one cent per pound of fiber. It is woven not only into gunny cloth and gunny bags, but enters largely into carpets and many kinds of tissues. In India jute has been constantly gaining upon cotton. England has imported from India, of this article, more than one hundred and twenty million pounds in a single year; and we last year imported more than nineteen million, which cost more than $3,000,000, and sold at the South for $5,000,000. It is used there chiefly to envelop cotton."

The above statements from the Agricultural Bureau reports are, I suppose, correct, says a correspondent of the Southern Farm and Home. If so, they exhibit an immense outlay by our people for which there is no necessity. We can certainly raise all the jute we need to manufacture our bagging, for less than one-fifth of the sum we now pay.

The culture of jute and its management are almost the same as of hemp, and the machinery and the process of manufacture into bagging and gunny cloth are simple and inexpensive. Why, therefore, do not some of our people make an experiment in jute raising?

Barren Pear Trees.

A correspondent says he has a number of dwarf pear trees, large enough to bear, which, up to the present time, have not even bloomed; and he asks us what he shall do with them. It is a difficult question for us to answer, with the meager facts before us; but we would suggest root-pruning, if the trees have produced an extra growth of wood, and are over-luxuriant. If, on the contrary, the soil is thin and poor, it is advisable to give the ground around the trees a good top-dressing of compost of ground or broken bones, ashes, woods mold and a little charcoal. Root-pruning, to induce fruitfulness, is simply performed by digging, with a sharp spade, a shallow trench all around the tree, and cutting off all the surface or superficial roots. This trench may be directly under the extremities of the branches (or even a little nearer to the body of the tree,) and should be filled up as soon as the roots are cut off.

Few soils, however, are too rich for the pear or quince stock; and we imagine that our friend's trees need a supply of proper food instead of "short rations." Shall he glad of a fuller diagnosis of the case.—Our Home Journal.

HARDWARE, STOVES, ETC.

AUBERT & BIENVENU,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
Plantation and Builders' Hardware,
MARBLE, MARBLEIZED SLATE
AND IRON MANTLES,
Grates, Hearths and Fire Bricks,
NO. 114 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
my2 1y

THE UNRIVALED

BUCK'S BRILLIANT STOVE.
Every Brilliant Is Fully Guaranteed.

H. HALLER,
No. 49 Camp street, New Orleans,
Sole Agent for Louisiana.

Sole Agent for the
CELEBRATED RINGEN WASHER,
In the States of Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi. oc19 1y

G. W. W. GOODWYN,
No. 53 Gravier Street,
DEALER IN
Stoves and Tinware of All Kinds.

While he is prepared to furnish, at the lowest rates, Cooking and Heating Stoves of all the various styles and patterns sold in this market, he makes a specialty of the following, to wit:

Cottage, Cricket, The Best, Relief, Gray Jacket, and Diadem.

These Stoves are sold under a guarantee, and may be returned if they do not perform well.

NOTE BY P. M. GOODWYN.—Lack of health has obliged me for a time to give up my regular calling—that of the ministry. In the meanwhile, in order to do what I can for a support, I have engaged as an assistant in my brother's establishment, as above advertised. And I take this method of soliciting from among the readers of the ADVOCATE—many of whom are my personal acquaintances and friends—a share of their patronage whenever they may have need of anything in the above line. Orders sent through their merchants, or to either of us direct, will receive prompt attention. mh7 6m

GROCERIES—GLASSWARE.

PURE LOUISIANA
SUGAR, MOLASSES AND SIRUPS.

REFINED SUGAR.—Cut Loaf, Crushed and Powdered.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

GOLDEN SIRUP.—A superior article of pure Louisiana, from the Crescent City Refinery.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

REFINED SIRUP AND MOLASSES.—Crescent City Refinery, Orleans, Louisiana, Chalmette and Pelican brands.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

LOUISIANA MOLASSES.—Various grades of Plantation, in barrels, half barrels and kegs,
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

CLARIFIED SUGAR.—Various grades of White and Yellow, in hogsheads and barrels.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

LOUISIANA SUGAR.—Various grades of Plantation, in hogsheads and barrels.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

FOREIGN SUGAR.—Cuba, Demerara and Porto Rico, in hogsheads and boxes.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
my9 6m 48 Tchoupitoulas street.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,
—IMPORTERS OF—
CHINA, CROCKERY AND GLASS,
55.....CAMP STREET..... 55
New Orleans.

Country dealers supplied with ASSORTED CRATES or from SHELF upon the most favorable terms.

Contents of our English Iron Stone China Dinner Set, No. 1:

12 Dinner Plates,	1 Round Soup Tureen,
12 Breakfast Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Tea Plates,	1 Salad,
12 Soup Plates,	1 Pair Covered Dishes,
12 Preserve Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Pickle Dishes,
12 Tea cups and saucers	4 Meat Dishes.

112 pieces best English Ware..... $15

Our Stone China Dinner and Tea Set, No. 2, contains
158 pieces..... $25

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 1, contains

12 Dinner Plates,	4 Meat Dishes,
12 Breakfast Plates,	1 Soup Tureen, round,
12 Tea Plates,	2 Covered Dishes, oval
12 Soup Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Preserve Plates,	1 Salad,
12 Tea cups and saucers	2 Pickles,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes.

112 pieces best French Ware..... $30

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 2, contains
166 pieces..... $45

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 3, contains
255 pieces..... $65

A large variety of the best SELF-SEALING FRUIT JARS always on hand.
Sole agents for the celebrated BLANCHARD CHURN. The best churn made.
The most complete stock of HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS in the South.
W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,
ap1 6m No. 55 Camp st., New Orleans.

New Orleans Savings Institution,
187 CANAL STREET.
Incorporated March 15, 1855.

OFFICERS.
L. F. GENERES, President.
THOS. A. ADAMS, first Vice President.
THOS. ALLEN CLARKE, second Vice President.
CHARLES J. LEEDS, third Vice President.
SAM JONES, JR., Treasurer.

DIRECTORS.
Dr. W. Newton Mercer,

L. F. Generes,	David Urquhart,
George Jonas,	John G. Gaines,
Thos. A. Adams,	Carl Kohn,
Thos. Allen Clarke,	Christian Schneider,
Charles J. Leeds,	Samuel Jamison.

Six per cent. interest on deposits.
my30 3m

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

UNIVERSITY OF LOUISIANA,
MEDICAL DEPARTMENT,
NEW ORLEANS.

FACULTY—A. H. CENAS, M. D., Emeritus Professor of Obstetrics.
JAMES JONES, M. D., Professor of Obstetrics.
T. G. RICHARDSON, M. D., Professor of Surgery.
SAMUEL M. BEMISS, M. D., Professor of Medicine.
STANFORD E. CHAILLE, M. D., Professor of Physiology.
FRANK HAWTHORN, M. D., Professor of Materia Medica.
JOSEPH JONES, M. D., Professor of Chemistry.
SAMUEL LOGAN, M. D., Prof. of Anatomy.
E. SOUCHON, M. D., Demonstrator of Anatomy.

The Thirty fifth annual course of instruction in this Department will commence on Monday, the eighteenth of November, 1872, and terminate on the second Saturday of March, 1873. Preliminary Lectures on Clinical Medicine and Surgery will be delivered in the amphitheater of the Charity Hospital, beginning on the eighteenth of October, without any charge to students. The Anatomical rooms will be opened at the same time.

The members of the Faculty are Visiting Physicians and Surgeons to the Charity Hospital, where more than six thousand patients are annually treated, and give instruction daily at the bedside of the sick. The practical advantages thus offered to students are unsurpassed.

FEES.—For all the Lectures, $140; Matriculation, $5; Practical Anatomy, $10; Graduation, $30. Payment required in advance.
For further information address
T. G. RICHARDSON, M. D.,
jy25 1m Dean.

MARTHA WASHINGTON COLLEGE,
ABINGDON, VA.,
ON THE VIRGINIA AND TENNESSEE RAILROAD.

$105 IN ADVANCE will pay Board and Tuition for five months in this institution, beautifully situated amid the mountains. For healthfulness, high grade and extent of instruction, and excellence of facilities, no institution in the land surpasses this. Session begins SEPTEMBER 19.
For catalogue or particulars apply to
REV. W. G. E. CUNNYNGHAM, D. D.,
Or R. W. JONES, M. A., President.
jy25 2m

Kentucky Wesleyan University,
MILLERSBURG, KENTUCKY.

SESSION FOR 1872-73 OPENS SEPTEMBER 16, 1872, and closes June 4, 1873.
The expense of the entire session can be brought within $240 by those who pay tuition, and $40 less by those who come on scholarships. All bills due the University are payable strictly in advance. Board bills are payable monthly.
This University is situated in the heart of the Blue Grass region of Kentucky. Climate invigorating and healthful. The Faculty of Instructors is now full. Persons seeking a good school for their sons are invited to correspond with the President, or A. G. Stitt, Financial Secretary, or to send for catalogue.
jy18 10t B. ARBOGAST, President.

RAILROADS.

ARE YOU GOING EAST OR NORTH?

Take the Iron Mountain, and Chicago and Alton Railroads,

THE ONLY ALL-RAIL ROUTE FROM all points South to CHICAGO.

The only line running the Pullman Palace Cars from all points South to St. Louis and Chicago.
Passengers by this line arrive in Chicago one hour in advance of all competing lines, and avoid 25 miles of steamboat transfer, and the annoying changes of cars incident to other lines. For all points in the Northwest, St. Paul, Milwaukee, or all points in the Canadas, New York, Boston and all Eastern cities, this is the pleasantest and most direct route. Parties going East via this line can lay over in Chicago and visit the Burnt District, and resume their trip at their leisure. Fare as low as by all other routes. Tickets to be had at all ticket offices in the South.
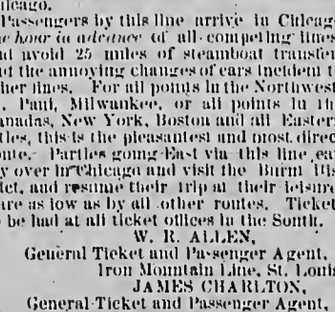
W. R. ALLEN,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent,
Iron Mountain Line, St. Louis.
JAMES CHARLTON,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent,
Chicago and Alton Line, Chicago.
D. A. FREEH,
my30 4m Southern Traveling Agent.

LOUISVILLE AND CINCINNATI SHORT-LINE R. R. connections are 5½ hours QUICKER to Eastern cities than any other Rail Line from Louisville, and 12 hours in advance of the River route. This is the only line making Baltimore in 26 hours, Philadelphia in 27 hours, Washington in 27 hours, New York in 30½ hours, Boston in 35 hours.

Southern Fast Line, daily, except Sunday.....	Leave. 7.50 A.M.	Arrive. 8.85 P.M.
Cincinnati Express, daily	3.55 P.M.	12.40 P.M.
Cincinnati Night Express, daily, except Saturday	10.40 P.M.	5.00 A.M.
Lexington Mail, daily, except Sunday.....	6.00 A.M.	6.35 P.M.
Lexington Express, daily, except Sunday.....	2.30 P.M.	10.30 A.M.
Frankfort Accommodation, daily, except Sunday..	4.55 P.M.	8.15 A.M.
Shelbyville Accommodation, daily, except Sunday	3.55 P.M.	10.30 A.M.

Sleeping car on 10.40 P. M. Round-trip tickets to Cincinnati and Covington at reduced rates. Ticket Offices—Depot, Third and Main streets, Galt House, Louisville Hotel and Willard Hotel. Telegrams to secure sleeping car berths to Eastern cities will be sent free.
S. S. PARKER,
General Passenger and Ticket Agent.
J. E. GUNPERLING,
my16 3m Superintendent, Louisville, Ky.

THE UTICA STEAM ENGINE CO.



H. DUDLEY COLEMAN, Agent. NO. 9 UNION STREET, New Orleans.

Formerly WOOD & MANN.

These Engines are so well and favorably known that a description of them here is not deemed necessary.
They are EQUALED by FEW, SURPASSED by NONE, perfect in workmanship; complete in appointments, safe, simple and substantial. Every boiler is practically tested before leaving the factory. By the use of a CIRCULATING WATER BOTTOM around and underneath the furnace, which lessens the
RISK FROM FIRE,
they are particularly adapted for GINNING COTTON. Engines of all sizes, at prices which challenge comparison for equal size of steam cylinder and measurements of boiler. A full stock of these Engines will be kept constantly on hand by the undersigned, who has been appointed general agent.
H. DUDLEY COLEMAN,
No. 9 Union street,
mh21 6m New Orleans, La.

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

MEMPHIS CONFERENCE
FEMALE INSTITUTE,
JACKSON, TENNESSEE.
REV. A. W. JONES, D. D., PRESIDENT.

THIS OLD AND POPULAR INSTITUTION is most favorably located at the junction of the Mobile and Ohio and Mississippi Central railroads, in the healthy, intelligent, refined and religious community of Jackson, and furnishes all the advantages of a first-class Female College. The best professors and teachers employed. The discipline mild, firm and parental. The course of study thorough and extensive. The library large and valuable. The chemical and philosophical apparatus ample and appropriate. The buildings and grounds well arranged, commodious and beautiful. The conveniences and accommodations in all departments complete, excellent and satisfactory. The attention to the health, manners and comfort of pupils constant and faithful. For more than seventeen years no young lady has died within the walls of the Institute, while the cases of severe sickness have been few.

Fall session begins on the FIRST MONDAY IN SEPTEMBER, and the opening address and concert on the following Tuesday evening. Spring session begins on the fourth Monday in January. Commencement day, the second Wednesday in June.

TITTION.

Collegiate department	$25 00
Music and use of piano	30 00
Latin and French, each	10 00
Board, washing, etc	90 00

Other charges moderate. Payments one-half in advance. For particulars address the president, or jy11 4m PROF. A. B. JONES, A. M.

TUSKALOOSA FEMALE COLLEGE,
TUSKALOOSA, ALABAMA.

THE NEXT SESSION OPENS SEPTEMBER 23, 1872.
The beautiful and healthy city of Tuskaloosa, Alabama, is unsurpassed as a location.
The Faculty will consist of three Professors and eight or ten Lady Assistants.
Course of study thorough. Domestic arrangements complete. Young ladies' sleeping apartments elegantly furnished and carpeted. Health department includes a finely-conducted Gymnasium. This College is believed to be equal to the best in the United States, and the cheapest in the South. Special advantages for orphan children whose guardians wish to furnish them a home and school in one. For particulars and catalogue address the proprietor,
REV. B. F. LARRABEE,
jy18 3m Tuskaloosa, Alabama.

RANDOLPH MACON COLLEGE,
Ashland, Hanover Co., Va.,

OFFERS, ON VERY LOW TERMS, THE advantages of thorough instruction, high grade of scholarship, best religious influences in a refined community, and at a location remarkable for healthfulness—just sixteen miles north of Richmond, on the R. F. and P. Railroad. Only $110 will pay all necessary for the half session! For catalogue address
REV. JAS. A. DUNCAN, D. D.,
President, or
REV. ALEX. G. BROWN, Sec.,
jy25 2m P. O., Ashland, Va.

EMORY AND HENRY COLLEGE,
VIRGINIA.

THE FALL SESSION of this institution begins on the FIFTEENTH OF AUGUST next. One Hundred and Fifteen Dollars will pay all the necessary expenses of a five-month session, including board, tuition, fuel, room-rent, washing and contingent fees. Payments are required in advance, except for board, which is $13 per month, and payable monthly in advance. If you will consult the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and her ministers generally, our alumni and students, or the professors of the University of Virginia, who have authorized this reference, you will be assured that we are offering excellent opportunities for a thorough collegiate training, surrounded by healthful, moral, religious influences. If you desire a catalogue, or any additional information, address
E. E. WILEY, President,
Je20 4m Emory P. O., Virginia.

GREEN FARM HIGH SCHOOL,
NEAR BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
REV. F. M. GRACE, PROPRIETOR.

THE FIRST SESSION of this School will begin on the FIRST MONDAY IN AUGUST, 1872, and will continue forty weeks, with a recess of one week at Christmas. The cost of board and tuition will be $20 per month, or $200 per annum. The course of study will embrace all branches usually taught in schools and colleges, and will be adapted to the end the student has in view.
The school is private property, but will be conducted in the interest of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.
The buildings and grounds are ample for a private boarding school, and are located in a most beautiful and healthful situation. Boys will be treated with paternal kindness, and the younger pupils will receive especial attention. On Saturday before the opening of the session the proprietor will meet his pupils at Birmingham with private conveyance to the school.
Correspondence is solicited, and circulars will be sent on application to the President at Birmingham, Alabama. For references he respectfully gives his former pupils in the Southern States. je13 2m

HOMER COLLEGE.

THE EXERCISES OF THE TWELFTH scholastic year of Homer College, begin on the first Tuesday in September, 1871. The term is divided into a short Fall Session and a long Spring Session, with a Christmas Vacation of two weeks.

FACULTY:
Rev. J. E. COBB, President and Professor of Mental, Moral and Commercial Science.
J. W. NICHOLSON, A. M., Professor of Pure and Mixed Mathematics.
A. C. CALHOUN, A. B., Professor of Languages.
E. M. CORRY, A. B., Tutor in Physical Science.

TERMS—IN ADVANCE:

Tuition for Full Session	$16 and $20 00
Tuition for Spring Session	24 and $30 00
Incidental fee (per session)	1 50
Board (per month)	15 00

Students admitted at any time in classes already formed, and charged until the end of the session.
A course of study as full and thorough as that of any college in the land, an ample corps of instructors, a complete library and apparatus, recently purchased and adapted to the present demands of science and learning, the sure prospect of a permanent endowment, now in progress, an eminently healthful location, a surrounding community intelligent and refined, invite the patronage of the Southwest to Homer College.
For further particulars, address
REV. J. E. COBB,
President Homer College, La.
W. F. MORELAND,
se21 tf President Board of Trustees.

CENTENARY COLLEGE
OF LOUISIANA.

THE SESSION OF THIS COLLEGE WILL begin on the FIRST MONDAY in October next. The session embraces forty weeks.

EXPENSES.

Collegiate department, per session	$60 00
Preparatory department, per session	40 00
Incidental expenses	5 00

Tuition for five months payable in advance.
Boarding can be had in good families at from $15 to $20 per month.
For further particulars address
PROF. A. R. HOLCOMBE,
se10 1y Jackson, La.

Scientific.

A Physiologist, Haring, having asserted that the heaviest requirement on the memory is laid by the demands of the pianist's art, Prof. Schmidt determined to count the notes played by a famous performer, Herr Rubinstein, from memory alone, and found them to number sixty-two thousand nine hundred and ninety, thus fully justifying the physiologist's assertion. Not satisfied, however, with this problem, he proceeded to calculate the amount of pounding actually performed, by taking an Austrian silver kreutzer for a dynamometer, and finding how many were required to strike a key on Herr Rubinstein's piano by the pressure of their weight. Twenty-four were necessary, equivalent to two and one-fifth Troy ounces. The force, therefore, actually exerted by the pianist in playing the piece of sixty-two thousand nine hundred and ninety notes amounted to nine thousand five hundred pounds. Another piano, of slightly harder touch, but one on which Herr Rubinstein would have played without noticing the difference, would have required a pressure of eleven thousand eight hundred pounds, or nearly six tons!

Tattooing Among the Japanese.—We are so accustomed to associate tattooing almost entirely with the natives of New Zealand and the Indians of North America, that it comes to us almost as a new fact, to learn what a high standard the art of tattooing has reached among the Japanese. There we find men who make it their business to tattoo others, and these "professors of tattooing" are artists of no mean power, "for no India rubber or ink-eraser can possibly take out a false line once imprinted, and they invariably, in the 'printing in,' improve upon the drawings previously made." The bettoes or Japanese grooms will frequently have depicted on their skins not only perfectly-drawn pictures of birds, reptiles, beasts and fishes, but also representations of whole scenes, often from some old legend or history. A very common device is the red-headed crane, the sacred bird of Japan, depicted standing on the back of a tortoise; and this is emblematic of woman's beauty treading down man's strength. The designs are pricked in by a needle, and two or three colors are used.

A superior fiber for ropes, cordage, etc., is found in New Zealand flax, a species of Phormium, which, with a material derived from a kind of Agave Aloe from Yucatan, competes with Manilla hemp, and would probably supersede it if it could be obtained in greater quantity. Leaves of from one to two years' growth are taken from the plant, and then stripped of their outer layer by being passed through rollers with projecting beaters, revolved with great speed, without injury to the inner fiber. This is then thoroughly washed and bleached; afterward, when dressed by the barrel-scutch, for the purpose of burnishing the fiber, it is baled for the market. Phormium increases by branching underground stems, which, as soon as rootlets appear, may be removed and transplanted. Plants growing on high, dry ground afford the best material. Its average value in England at the present time is $110 per ton.

Gigantic Roots.—Mr. Finlayson, a botanist attached to an embassy from the Governor-General of India to the Court of Siam, visited some of the Shican islands, on the coast of Cochin China. On one of them he discovered a species of menispernum, that puts all potatoes or beets into the shade on this side of the globe. One root weighed one hundred and fifty pounds; a second three hundred and fifty, and a third four hundred and seventy-nine pounds. The last measured nine feet and a half in circumference.

The stalk, communicating with light and air, was only about half an inch thick. Two-thirds of those monster roots were out of the ground. They were elephantine yams, of a farinaceous character, slightly bitter, but tolerable food rightly prepared. Several specimens were carried to the botanical garden in Calcutta. The native name is pai-pun-chang.

A New Yorker has invented an apparatus, which can be attached to ships, which is of such a nature that when the keel of a vessel strikes any very cold stratum of water an alarm is sounded. Thus if the ship is approaching an iceberg a seasonable warning is given. The exact temperature of the water below the vessel will be exhibited by this instrument at all times.

Sponges.—The sponges of commerce are mostly obtained from the Mediterranean and the Bahmas. At the port of Nassau about thirty thousand pounds are gathered annually. The French and Austrian governments have begun to raise the sponge artificially, and the experiment has been pronounced not only successful, but very profitable.

COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

PRICE, HINE & TUPPER,
General Commission Merchants,
FACTORS, AND
Agents of Attakapas Mail Transportation Co.,
No. 26 CARONDELET STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Advances made on consignments to T. Tupper & Sons, Charleston, S. C.; Williams, Birnie & Co., and Leverich & Co., New York. no2 1y

W. H. SUTTON. J. R. POWELL.
SUTTON & POWELL,
COTTON FACTORS
AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
186.....COMMON STREET.....186
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
se21 1y

H. F. GIVEN. LUCIEN J. DOIZE.
H. F. GIVEN & CO.,
COTTON, TOBACCO AND SUGAR FACTORS,
—AND—
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 64 Baronne street, New Orleans.
oc5 1y

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.
AIKEN & WATT,
Cotton Factors and Commission Merchants,
60.....CARONDELET STREET.....60
NEW ORLEANS.
Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. no2 1y

J. L. DUNNICA, New Orleans. T. A. HAMILTON, Memphis.
G. P. HARRISON, New Orleans.
J. L. DUNNICA & CO.,
FLOUR, PRODUCE AND PROVISION
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
50.....TCHOUPITOULAS ST.....50
NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA.
oc22 1y

J. U. PAYNE. W. H. DAMERON. H. M. PAYNE
PAYNE, DAMERON & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
64 & 66...BARONNE STREET...64 & 66
Between Union and Gravier streets,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
je19 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,
Cotton Factors and General Commission Merchants,
31.....PERDIDO STREET.....31
oc3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

BUSINESS CARDS.

E. HEATH. M. LARA. J. P. HEATH.
HEATH, LARA & HEATH,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
UPHOLSTERERS' MATERIALS,
WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES,
CORNICES AND CURTAIN GOODS,
Pictures, Frames, Moldings, Looking Glasses and Clocks,
NO. 99 CAMP STREET,
no18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

THE MITCHELL & RAMMELSBERG
FURNITURE COMPANY,
Manufacturers and dealers in all kinds of Furniture, Mattresses, Looking Glasses,
ETC., ETC.
103 and 105 Camp street, cor. Poydras,
Moresque Building, New Orleans,
have the largest and best assortment of FURNITURE of any house in the city.
Please give us a call before purchasing elsewhere. my23 1y

J. THOMSON. G. THOMSON. W. B. THOMSON.
J. THOMSON & BROS.,

Manufacturers of
Carriages, Barouches, Buggies, Phaetons,
SPRING WAGONS, Etc.
68 and 70 Rampart Street,
Bet. Common and Gravier, New Orleans, La.
Repairing done in all its branches. no30 1y

LOUISIANA STEAM
SASH, BLIND AND DOOR FACTORY,
ROBERTS & CO., Proprietors,
301, 303, 305 and 307 Gravier Street,
NEW ORLEANS. my30 1y

JAMES M'CRACKEN. GEO. E. BREWSTER.
M'CRACKEN & BREWSTER,
DEALERS IN FURNITURE,
Nos. 37, 39 and 41 Royal street.
Manufactory, corner Derbigny and Customhouse streets, New Orleans. my9 6m

CHARLES BALLEJO,
FAMILY GROCER,
St. Charles, corner of Jackson street;
my9 3m New Orleans, La.

GEORGE CRONAN,
(SUCCESSOR TO BENNETT & LURGES.)
SOUTHERN ORNAMENTAL IRON WORKS
Corner Magnolia and Erato Sts.,
Near Jackson Railroad Depot,
my9 3m NEW ORLEANS.

JOHN I. ADAMS & CO., (JOHN I. ADAMS, JAY L. ADAMS, GEO. W. WEST, WM. H. RENAUD.)
WHOLESALE GROCERS,
AND DEALERS IN
PROVISIONS, LARD, OILS, ETC., ETC.,
13, 15 and 17 Peters street,
(Formerly New Levee.)
mh21 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ELON G. SMITH, J. L. CHEATHAM, J. W. DRAUGHON.
SMITH, CHEATHAM & CO.,
(SUCCESSORS TO ELON G. SMITH & CO.)
PORK PACKERS,
Provision and Commission Merchants,
CORNER THIRD AND SPRUCE STREETS,
SAINT LOUIS.
We solicit orders from the trade for goods in our line. oc26 1y

C. SAMPSON. F. G. SAMPSON.
SAMPSON BROTHERS,
(Late C. C. Sampson,)
FURNITURE,
33 & 35.....ROYAL STREET.....33 & 35
NEW ORLEANS.
Established in 1833. ja11 1y

Carpet Warehouse—17 Chartres Street.
A. BROUSSEAU & CO.,
Importers and dealers, at Wholesale and Retail, in English and American Carpetings.
Floor Oil Cloths, Table and Enameled Oil Cloths.
Window Shades, Table and Piano Covers.
Crumb Cloths, in squares or pieces.
Curtain and Furniture Materials.
Brocatelles, Cotelenes, Terries, Reps, Lace and Nottingham Lace Curtains, Haircloth, Tickling, Springs, Burlaps, Step Covers, etc.
no23 1y A. BROUSSEAU & CO.

BUSINESS CARDS.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
CANAL ST., COR. ROYAL, NEW ORLEANS,
IMPORTERS OF
WATCHES, JEWELRY, CLOCKS,
PLATED WARE, HOUSEKEEPING GOODS,
Cutlery, Guns, Pistols, Bronzes, Porcelain and Fancy Goods.
MANUFACTURERS OF
PURE COIN SILVERWARE.
Watches and Jewelry carefully repaired.
Every article sold fully guaranteed.
no23 1y

C. HUCHEZ,
FAMILY GROCER,
NOS. 95 AND 97 CAMP STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
☞ Supplies carefully put up for families moving over the Lake. my30 3m

YUT, SING & CO.,
Agents for Fook, Hing & Co., and Tong, Wo & Co., of San Francisco, DIRECT IMPORTERS (VIA SAN FRANCISCO) OF
CHINA AND JAPAN TEAS,
Silks, Lacquer Ware and Fancy Goods, and Dealers in Provisions,
No. 40 Royal Street, New Orleans, La.
je8 2m

JOHN LAZARUS,
PRACTICAL OPTICIAN,
65.....ST. CHARLES ST.....65
Near Canal, New Orleans.
Sole Agent for the celebrated Panlascopic Star Spectacles and Eye Glasses. ma21 6m

T. H. McMAHAN & CO.,
BANKERS,
And Dealers in Foreign and Domestic Exchange,
GALVESTON, TEXAS.
We have prompt and reliable correspondents at all the principal points throughout this State, and upon all collections payable in this city or Houston make no charge for collecting, and only actual charge upon interior collections.
Immediate and prompt attention given to all business intrusted to us. feb1 1y

RICHARD BRODERICK,
CISTERN MAKER,
132.....Julia street.....132
Bet. Camp and Magazine, New Orleans.
Second-hand Cisterns always on hand. All work guaranteed.
All orders left at Box 30, Mechanics' and Dealers' Exchange, will meet with prompt attention. my2 1y

HILL & VEAZIE,
74.....Camp street.....74
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
LAMPS AND OILS, CHANDELIERS,
Globes, Chimneys, Shades, Trimmers, Wicks, Cans, Fillers, etc.
PRATTS' ASTRAL OIL, non-explosive and non-inflammable. ja18 1y

R. H. NOBLE. J. B. WOODS.
NOBLE & WOODS,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS,
Nos. 9 and 11 Delta Street, and 10 and 12 Front street,
ja18 1y NEW ORLEANS, LA.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

G. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER. E. T. MERRICK, Former Ch. Jus. La.
RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,
Attorneys, Counselors and Solicitors,
Cor. of Camp street and Commercial Place,
se25 NEW ORLEANS.

W. W. EDWARDS,
COUNSELOR AT LAW
AND
COMMISSIONER OF DEEDS,
No. 88 Common street,
se15 1y New Orleans.

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,
DENTAL SURGEON,
152.....JULIA STREET.....152
All operations in Operative, Mechanical and Surgical Dentistry carefully performed. Nitrous Oxide and other Anæsthetics administered. no30 1y

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,
Office—680 Magazine Street,
Between Philip and First sts., New Orleans.
Will call daily at College building, corner Common and Baronne streets, between eleven and twelve o'clock. je29 1y

WATER
The Records of Tests
AT LOWELL, MASS., PROVE
N. F. BURNHAM'S
New Turbine

superior to all others. It gave a higher percentage than any other wheel of common finish. Pamphlet and Price List by N. F. BURNHAM, York, Pa. ap25 6m

PUBLICATIONS FOR ALL
Prominent Benevolent Organizations.
FRATERNITY.
100,000 SOLD!—Masonic, Odd-Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Red Men, Mechanics, Temperance, etc.
Sale unrivaled by anything heretofore offered. Agents with no experience are selling 20 Pictures and upward a day. One of our agents has cleared over $1,200 in three months. The Brethren welcome these works. Our inducements are UNPRECEDENTED. Our commissions are positively one-fourth larger than any other house does or CAN offer. Send for circular of Order to which you belong, giving No. of your Lodge, and state where you saw this advertisement. You will certainly engage with us.
J. HALE POWERS & CO.,
Fraternity Publishers,
my9 7m Cincinnati, Ohio.

FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL BOOKS,
AT LOWEST CASH PRICES, address
ROBT. J. HARP, Agent,
jy18 1m 112 Camp street.

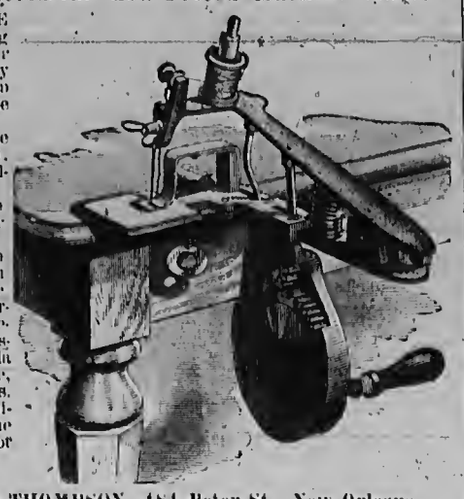
MILLER'S
Bible and Publishing House.
NEW ILLUSTRATED FAMILY BIBLE.
The Cheapest and Best Bible published. LARGE PRINT, Beautiful Bindings, more than two hundred Engravings.
THE CHRISTIAN HARMONY,
a new and choice collection of Sacred Music, based on system of Seven-shaped character notes. Any one can learn to read music, and sing in one-fourth the time required by the old methods. Address
Miller's Bible and Publishing House,
1102 and 1104 Sansom street,
jo27 6m Philadelphia, Penn'a.

THE BECKWITH SEWING MACHINE.

PATENTED APRIL 10, 1871.

PRICE, $10, including Hemmer, Guide, four Needles, Bottle of Oil and Can.

The First and Only Successful Low-Priced Machine Made.



PRACTICAL, DURABLE, SIMPLE and Beautiful. Capable of making by hand upward of 800 Stitches per Minute, and there is very little Family Sewing that this machine will not do as well as a $75 machine, and some work it will do better.

It is well and strongly made of the best material, but compact and light, and takes up but little room. Nickel-plated throughout.

Its SIMPLICITY adapts it to all capacities. Every machine is fully warranted for Two Years.

Full directions for running the machine, hemming, tucking, hem-stitching, etc., accompany every machine.

Parties in the city wishing to purchase a machine can see one in operation at Mrs. Robertson's, dressmaker, corner of Camp and Julia streets, up stairs, over the cigar store, and where they can leave their orders.

Single machines sent to any address, carefully boxed, with all the equipments, on receipt of $10. For full particulars send for circular.

Address
EDWARD THOMPSON, 184 Peter St., New Orleans,
☞ Energetic Agents Wanted. (je27 6m) Agent of the Manufacturer.

"Southern Books for Southern Schools."

School-Books which are Unsectional, Unpartisan, and Unpolitical.

PREPARED BY THE MOST EMINENT SOUTHERN SCHOLARS, AND

ENTIRELY ACCEPTABLE TO SOUTHERN TEACHERS AND PARENTS.

The University Publishing Co.,

An Association composed of many of the most eminent citizens of the several Southern States, feeling the necessity for a series of School Books which should be entirely unsectional, unpartisan, and unpolitical, and fit their teaching thought and feeling of the Southern should not be exclusive to the people—which should present only the facts of history and science—are now issuing a complete series of School and College Text-books by the eminent Southern scholars and educators named below, which are now in use in the

Cheapest, Best, and Most Beautiful School-Books

Now published. The "University Series" embraces

MAURY'S GEOGRAPHICAL SERIES,

By Commodore M. F. Maury, of the Virginia Military Institute. A series of books which mark an era in the study of this [illegible] which, in the words of a well known and accomplished Southern teacher, "are characterized by a felicity of arrangement and simple freshness of style which must ever render them attractive to the youngest and which will be used by all who wish to teach Geography as [illegible] nothing to make pupils think, and not merely as an enumeration of dry facts."

Holmes' Readers and Spellers,

By George F. Holmes, LL.H., Professor of History and General Literature in the University of Virginia. A series of Readers unequalled in cheapness, excellence, and typographical beauty. They are steadily progressive in character, bright and fresh in their selection of prose and verse, and illustrative of Southern scenes, incidents, and history.

Venable's Arithmetical Series,

By C. S. Venable, LL.D., Professor of Mathematics in the University of Virginia. [illegible] practical teachers with the highest [illegible] as well as for business education. The [illegible] logical, and comprehensive, and the [illegible]

Holmes' History of the United States,

By George F. Holmes, [illegible] Professor of Virginia. It is enough to say of this admirable [illegible] as pure and graceful in style, the [illegible] Southern writer acceptable to Southern teachers [illegible]

THE "UNIVERSITY SERIES" OF SCHOOL-BOOKS

FOR HIGH SCHOOLS AND

De Vere's French Grammar, Readers, etc.,

By M. S. De Vere, C.T., Professor of Modern Languages in the University of Va.

Gildersleeve's Latin Series,

By B. L. Gildersleeve, Ph.D., LL.D., Professor in the University of Virginia.

Carter's Elements of General History,

By Rev. J. P. Carter, A.M., of Baltimore, Maryland.

Holmes' English Grammars,

By George F. Holmes, LL.D., of the University of Virginia.

LeConte's Scientific Series,

By the Professors LeConte, late of the University of South Carolina.

Johnston's English Classics,

By R. M. Johnston, A.M., late Professor of Rhetoric and Belles-Lettres in the University of Georgia.

To which list other books in other departments will early be added.

Send for our full ILLUSTRATED DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, which will be mailed free to any teacher or school officer. Liberal terms given for introduction.

Address
UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING COMPANY,
155 and 157 Crosby Street, New York.

☞ A full supply of "The University Series" always on hand, and teachers and schools supplied by R. J. HARP, Bookseller, 112 Camp St., New Orleans,
And by all prominent booksellers throughout the South.
W. IRVING CLARKE, the General Agent, will furnish any information, and afford every facility to teachers for examining the series. Office—92 CAMP ST., New Orleans. mh7 1y

Carpet and Oil Cloth Warehouse.
J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.
ELKIN & CO.,
168.....CANAL STREET.....168
Near Baronne, New Orleans,
IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF ENGLISH CARPETINGS, RUGS, Etc.
—ALSO—
Oil Cloths, Mattings,
Lace and Damask Curtains,
Window Shades, etc.,
—AND A—
Complete Assortment of Upholstery Goods.
fe8 1y

MINERAL SPERM OIL.
GUARANTEED AS SAFE AS SPERM OR LARD OIL.
It Will Not Take Fire in Case of Breakage of the Lamp.
THE OIL WILL EXTINGUISH the FLAME.
The Oil itself has no odor while burning. It gives a Light of TEN-CANDLE POWER at a cost not exceeding ONE-HALF CENT PER HOUR, and for lighting railroad cars, steamers, factories and dwelling houses it is invaluable and cannot be too highly recommended.
The Oil is patented, and made by a process which insures its uniformity.
It burns with great brilliancy in the
DUAL BURNER,
requires but little attention and no trimming. The Oil never gums in the lamp, as it absorbs no oxygen from the atmosphere. It does not deteriorate by age. This Burner fits all ordinary coal oil lamps
BOSTICK & SEYMOUR,
Sole Agents for Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi and Texas,
45 and 47 Front st., and 46 and 48 Fulton st.
mh28 6m New Orleans.

EXCHANGE HOTEL,
JOHN SUMMERS, PROPRIETOR,
GALVESTON, TEXAS.
☞ This is the only Hotel in the city which has FREE OMNIBUSES to and from the cars and boats for the use of guests. Ask for Exchange Hotel Omnibus. feb1 1y

AGENTS! QUICK! or you will miss choice of territory (there is a rush for it) on DIO LEWIS' last and greatest work,
OUR DIGESTION,
OR MY JOLLY FRIENDS' SECRET.
It is by odds the most taking and salable book in the field. 1. It is on a vitally important subject. 2. It is by America's most popular writer on health. 3. It is, for the price, the largest and handsomest book ever sold by subscription. Agents, the people are eager for such a book, and will urge you to bring it to them. Write for terms, etc., free.
GEORGE MACLEAN, Publisher,
my2 3w 733 Sansom st., Philadelphia.

MENEELY'S BELLS.
THE genuine Troy Church Bells known to the public since 1826, which have acquired a reputation unequalled by any, and a sale exceeding that of all others—including more than seventy chimes and peals. One thousand testimonials received during the last six years. Every Bell made of best Copper and Tin, and formally warranted. New Patent Rotary Fixtures. Catalogues free. No agencies.
Post office address, either Troy or West Troy, New York.
je13 4y E. A. & G. R. MENEELY.

A FULL AND COMPLETE ASSORTMENT. E. BUTTERICK & CO.'S CELEBRATED PATTERNS, all styles and sizes. Send for descriptive catalogue at the office of WM. E. COOPER & CO.,
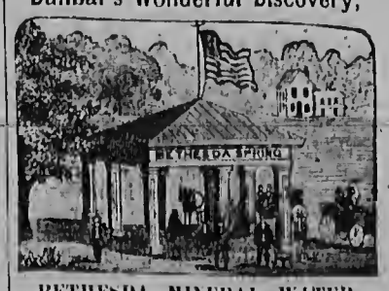
No. 83 Canal street,
Agents for the Singer Improved Family Sewing Machine.
Now ready, the new "Dolly Varden" Pattern, all sizes. je6 2m

WM. PHILLIPS, UNION STABLES, 180 Calliope, near St. Charles street, has every accommodation in the line of Pleasure and Family Carriages, such as hacks, broughams, phaetons, buggies, etc., for the use of the public, and at rates to correspond with the stringency of the times. All hacking done below tariff rates. Orders for weddings, balls, picnics, races, etc., will be attended to so as to guarantee satisfaction. I am also prepared to hire vehicles (alone) to parties having their own horses. de14 1y

MEDICAL.

Dunbar's Wonderful Discovery,


BETHESDA MINERAL WATER.
The acknowledged cure for Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Liver and Bilious Affections, Kidney and Urinary diseases.
Sold, wholesale or retail, at 38 Magazine street. H. D. DUFF,
Sole Southern Agent.
Address Glass Box 825. my30 3m

CONSUMPTION.....CONSUMPTION.
NEW TREATMENT BY
DUCRO'S ALIMENTARY ELIXIR
prepared with raw meat and alcohol. Recommended by the highest medical authority in Paris. A radical cure, and in desperate cases a
CERTAIN RELIEF,
Agreeable to the taste. Incontestably superior to Cod Liver Oil, the hypophosphites, and other preparations. This Elixir, the basis of which is raw meat and alcohol, is moreover one of the most powerful tonics for persons convalescing or feeble, for chloratic young girls, debilitated old persons, etc.
Depot in New Orleans at
MR. P. CUSACHS',
Corner St. Philip and Royal streets,
my16 3m New Orleans,
Sole agent for the United States.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A POPULAR MUSIC BOOK!
AT A POPULAR PRICE!
"THE SCEPTER,"
By Dr. A. Brooks Everett,
ONLY $1.00.—BY THE DOZEN, $10.50.
"THE SCEPTER" contains a large variety of most valuable material, embracing Hymn-tunes, Anthems, Glees, the "Everett System of Teaching Vocal Music," etc., by the well-known professor of music, Dr. A. Brooks Everett, recognized throughout the Southern States as a most successful and popular teacher of the art of singing, as well as the author of many of the most popular tunes contained in the Tabor or Richmond Collection.
"THE SCEPTER"
also contains contributions by Profs. R. M. McIntosh, B. H. Everett and other well-known composers, as well as a large number of old standard tunes.
☞ Every Choir Leader and Teacher of Music should examine "THE SCEPTER."
Sent, post paid, on receipt of $1.
PUBLISHED BY
BIGLOW & MAIN, NEW YORK,
SUCCESSORS TO WM. B. BRADBURY,
Publishers of the most popular series of SUNDAY SCHOOL SONG BOOKS. Golden Chain, Shower and Censer, Fresh Laurels, Bright Jewels, Pure Gold, etc. For sale by Booksellers generally. jy13 3m

SWINTON'S CONDENSED
SCHOOL HISTORY.
(From the Virginia Educational Journal.)
Mr. Swinton's reputation led us to examine this book. What is of most importance in the work is its extreme fairness. It is vastly superior, in this respect, to any history issued at the North that we have seen. Where accuracy seems almost impossible, he comes nearer to the truth than the others.

NEW SCHOOL BOOKS.
SWINTON'S WORD ANALYSIS.
CATHCART'S YOUTH'S SPEAKER.
ARITHMETICAL EXAMPLES (Mental and Written.)
KERL'S SHORTER COURSE IN GRAMMAR.
☞ A Descriptive Catalogue of the American Educational Series, and our Educational Reporter, mailed free to any address upon application.
Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co.,
Or T. MORONEY, General Agent,
mh18 1y 92 Camp street, New Orleans.

SAVE $20.

THE NEW WILSON
UNDER-FEED.
The Best and Cheapest First-Class Shuttle SEWING MACHINE In the World.
Agents Wanted.
WM. GREGG & CO., Gen'l Southern Agents, No. 189 Canal street, New Orleans, La.
je27 6m

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY,
Established in 1837.

Superior Bells for Churches, Schools, etc., of Pure Copper and Tin, fully warranted, and mounted with our Latest Improved Rotary Hangings, the best in use.
Illustrated Catalogue sent free
VANDUZEN & TIFT,
102 & 104 E. Second St., Cincinnati
fe22 1y

SOAP MANUFACTORY,
Cor. St. Andrew & Howard.
Office and Salesroom:
110 Gravier, Cor. Bank Place.
fe11 1y

PRICE WILLIAMS & SON,
Exchange and Real Estate Brokers
MOBILE, ALABAMA.
Dealers in Bills, Bonds, Notes and Stocks of every kind. Plantations, and lands unimproved, for sale in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. Also every class of Real Estate in Mobile, Alabama. Rent, and pay taxes and insurance on Real Estate in Mobile. Invest money on mortgages, etc., and collect claims.
REFERENCES.
Messrs. Baker, Lawler & Co., Mobile, Ala.
Moses Waring, Esq., Mobile, Ala.
Hon. Milton Brown, Jackson, Tenn.
Bishop J. C. Keener, New Orleans.
Bishop Paine, Mississippi.
Bishop McTyeire, Nashville, Tenn.
Messrs. John T. Farwell & Co., Chicago.
Dean, McGinnis & Co., N. Y. no26 1y

JOHN D. MACLIN, L. C. MACLIN,
(Late R. D. Maclin.)
COAL! WOOD! COAL!
Pittsburg, Anthracite and Cannel Coal, Oak, Ash and Pine Wood, at the lowest market rates, delivered to any part of the city.
Offices—26 Carondelet street, and corner of Third and Tchoupitoulas. mh7 1y

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

(From the New Orleans Price Current.)

The weather has been warm, with occasional showers. We hear of nothing decisive from the country. At the latest accounts the worms were numerous in localities where few or none had been previously seen, but we have no accounts of any serious injury from them yet. The damages to the crop in Alabama are now said to have been not at all exaggerated. The general tenor of the correspondence from Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi indicates a liberal yield, unless cut off by the caterpillars or contingencies later in the season.

The river is 10 feet 7 inches below high water mark.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the twenty-sixth ultimo:

Louisiana and Mississippi.....bales..	181
Lake.....	1
Arkansas.....	20
Alabama and Tennessee.....	52
Texas.....	1
Total.....	255

On Saturday we did not hear of a sale, nor did we notice any inquiry. On Monday two buyers came forward and took respectively 21 and 47 bales at 19c. for stained, 20c. for low middling, and 20¼c. for strict. At the opening there was hardly a bale on shipboard not cleared, and none reported as going aboard or engaged for shipment. On Tuesday the sales embraced 193 bales, taken by one buyer, at 18½c. for clean stained, and 20c. for strict low middling.

The receipts proper at this port, since the first of September, (exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas,) are 953,448 bales, against 1,432,910 bales to the same date last year, and the decrease in the receipts at all the ports, up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 1,255,748 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same date last year, there is an increase of 51,122 to France, and a decrease of 897,690 to Great Britain, and of 334,875 to other foreign ports.

We quote:

Good ordinary.....	19 @ 19¼
Low middling.....	19¾ @ 20

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1871, bales.		25,323
Arrived past three days..	255
Arrived previously.....1,050,713
Waste and damaged cotton, samples, etc.....	14,939	1,065,907
		1,091,230
Exported past three days.	274
Exported previously.....1,082,428		1,082,702
Stock on hand and on shipboard..		8,528

SUGAR.—On Tuesday the receipts from plantation were much larger than usual, and comprised 189 hhds. The market was dull, and only about 50 hhds. of the receipts were sold, on the landing, at 9⅞c. for fully fair, and 11¼c. for strictly prime to choice. Some 60 hdds. sold, in the sheds, at 10@10¼c. for good fair, 10½c. for fully fair, and 11¼@11½c. for yellow clarified. Of city refinery, yellow clarified is selling on orders at 11¼@11¾c., white 12¼@12½c., crushed and powdered 13⅛@13½c., cut loaf 14@14½c. ₱ lb.

MOLASSES.—On Tuesday some 40 bbls. were received from plantation, but only a few barrels thin reboiled were sold at 57½c. ₱ gallon. City refinery is selling at 30c. for inferior, 40c. for common, 50c. for fair, 55c. for prime, 60c. for choice, and 80c.@$1 ₱ gallon for golden sirup.

CORN.—The supply is only moderate, but there is not much demand, and prices have ruled a little in favor of buyers. On Tuesday the sales were confined to 1,000 sacks, in lots, at 58c. for mixed, and 66@67c. for white mixed.

OATS—Have been in fair supply, but have not met with much demand. On Tuesday 3,000 sacks sold at 42½c. for St. Louis, and 42@43c. for choice Galena.

BRAN—Is in good supply, but the demand is very limited, and the market is dull and easier for buyers. On Tuesday 650 bags sold, in lots, at $1.02½@$1.05 ₱ 100 lbs.

PORK.—The market has been quiet but steady and much firmer, and although there has not been much demand, prices have advanced fully 25c. ₱ bbl. On Tuesday 200 bbls. mess sold at $13.62½, and 150 at $13.75 ₱ bbl. It is retailing at $14 ₱ bbl.

BACON.—On Tuesday the market was in light supply and very firm, with a good demand. Shoulders were quoted at 7¼, 7⅜@7½c., clear rib sides 7⅝c., clear sides 9⅞@10c. ₱ lb. There were sales of 200 casks, in lots, at 7¼c. for shoulders, to arrive, and 7¼@7⅜c. on the spot, 9¾c. for clear rib sides, and 9⅞c. for clear on the spot.

HAMS.—Liberal receipts have weakened the market, and choice sugar-cured are now quoted at 15¼@15½c. ₱ lb. There have been sales to the trade at these prices. On Monday 300 tierces choice sugar-cured sold, to arrive, at 15¼c. ₱ lb., and 10 on the spot at 15½c.

DRY SALT MEAT.—There is none in first hands. There are only a few shoulders remaining in the hands of dealers, who are retailing them at 6¾c. ₱ lb., and sides at 7¼c. for clear rib, and 8½c. for clear sides.

LARD.—On Tuesday the receipts were a little larger than usual, and 275 tierces refined sold, in two lots, at 9¼@9½c., and 75 kegs refined, in two lots, at 10⅞@11c. ₱ lb.

BEEF.—There is a fair supply of Texas, with a small stock of Western and Northern. We quote Texas mess $11@$12, extra mess $12.50 ₱ bbl, and $9 for half bbls. Tierces are quoted at $17@$17.50 for mess, and $18@$18.50 for prime mess. Western $14@$15 in bbls., and Northern $15.50@$16 for bbls., and $9 for half bbls.

BREAKFAST BACON.—The market is firm, with a fair supply, though there is not much demand. Western is quoted at 10¾@10¾c. ₱ lb.

MONETARY.

Gold opened on Tuesday at 114⅛@114¾ (against 114¾ at New York,) and closed at 114⅝@114½ (against 115 at New York.)

The sales of silver embraced $2,300 in American half dollars on Saturday at the advanced rate of 108½.

New Orleans Wholesale Prices.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
Agricultural Implements:
Cotton scrapers	4 50	6 00
Cotton sweeps	4 50	6 00
Cultivators, Diam. & shovel-tooth	7 75	10 50
Cultivators, riding	45 00	60 00
Cultivators, walking	30 00	35 00
Shovels	7 50	14 50
Spades	7 50	16 50
Axes	10 00	15 00
Potato diggers	13 50	— —
Shovel plows	6 00	7 00
Half do., with cutters	8 00	9 00
Manly's D. S plow	6 00	9 75
Corn mills, Coleman's	120 00	425 00
Bread, ₱ 100 lbs:
Pilot	5 00	6 00
Loaf	— —	— —
Crackers	5 00	12 00
Navy	— —	4 50
Cream crackers	11 00	12 00
Bricks, ₱ M:
Lake	13 00	16 00
English fire	— —	50 00
American fire	40 00	— —
Candles, ₱ lb:
Sperm, New Bedford	33	36
Tallow	16	18
Chocolate, ₱ lb:
Cocoa	38	60
No. 1	50	52
Sweet and spiced	25	— —
Cider, ₱ bbl:
Western	— —	— —
Coal, ₱ ton:
Anthracite	12 00	13 00
Western, ₱ bbl	— —	60
Corks, ₱ 1000:
Regular	4 00	4 50
Pointed	2 70	4 00
Coffee, ₱ lb:
Havana (currency)	— —	— —
Java	25	27
Cordova	— —	— —
Copper, ₱ lb:
Braziers'	48	— —
Copper bolts	48	— —
Yellow metal	30	32
Cordage, ₱ lb:
Manilla	19	20
Tarred, American	— —	16
Russian	16	— —
Cotton seed:
Rough, ₱ ton	— —	14 00
In sacks	— —	18 50
Dyes, ₱ lb:
Logwood, Camp'y	4	4½
Logwood, St. Domingo	4½	4½
Fustic, Tampico	5	6
Indigo, ₱ lb	1 40	1 60
Madder	15	18
Eggs, ₱ dozen:
Western	10	18
Feathers, ₱ lb	80	90
Fish, ₱ box:
Cod	1 40	— —
Herrings	35	— —
Mackerel, No. 1, ₱ bbl	13 00	— —
Mackerel, No. 2	10 50	— —
Mackerel, No. 3	8 00	— —
Flaxseed, ₱ lb	4½	5½
Flour, ₱ bbl:
Double extra	5 75	6 25
Superdne	5 25	5 37½
Fine	4 75	5 00
Fruit, ₱ lb:
Prunes	10½	13
Currants, new	9	10
Almonds, soft shell	17	18½
Almonds, shelled	30	— —
Glass, ₱ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	3 50	4 00
French, 10 by 12	3 75	4 25
French, 12 by 18	4 00	4 50
Gunny bags, ₱ bag	18	— —
Hay, ₱ ton:
Prime	25 00	— —
Choice	27 00	— —
Iron, ₱ ton:
Pig	54 00	55 00
Country bar, ₱ lb	— —	— —
English	5½	7½
Swedes, assorted	6½	8½
Hoop	6½	7
Sheet	7½	8
Boiler	8	9
Nail rods	— —	8
Castings, American	5½	— —
Lead, ₱ 100 lbs:
Pig	— —	9 50
Bar, ₱ lb	8½	8½
Sheet	12	— —
Pipe	12	— —
Leather, ₱ lb:
Sole, hemlock	33	34
Sole, oak	37	43
Harness	38	45
Calf skins, ₱ dozen	42 00	70 00
Texas, rough, ₱ lb	24	28
Lime, ₱ bbl:
Western	1 25	1 75
Cement	2 50	3 00
Plaster Paris	4 50	— —
Lumber, ₱ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	13 00	15 00
Boards, cypress	25 00	30 00
Flooring, dressed	25 00	30 00
Flooring, rough	15 00	18 00
Ceiling, dressed	20 00	25 00
Weatherboards, dressed	19 00	20 00
Weatherboards, rough	13 00	15 00
Scantling	13 00	15 00
Shingles, ₱ M	3 50	4 25
Laths	2 50	3 00
Moss, ₱ lb:
Country picked	4½	6
Clean picked	6½	7
Nails, ₱ keg:
American, 4@6d	5 50	5 75
Wrought, German, ₱ lb	14	16
Wrought, English	14	16
Oils:
Lard, ₱ gallon	68	73
Coal oil, in barrels	26	28
Coal oil, in cases	31	34
Linseed, raw	90	92
Sperm	95	2 00
Whale, refined	95	1 00
Cotton seed, crude	— —	46
Cotton seed, refined	60	85
Castor	1 65	1 85
Olive, 22@24 oz	6 75	7 00
Olive, 11@12 oz	7 00	7 25
Tanner's, ₱ gallon	75	85
Soap, ₱ lb:
Western	5½	7
Northern	5½	7
Southern	4½	6½
Castile, genuine	12	— —
Castile, imitation	11	— —
Sardines:
Half boxes	34	35½
Quarter boxes	23½	24
Spices, ₱ lb:
Cassia	40	45
Cloves	19	20
Nutmegs	1 20	1 25
Pepper	21	21½
Pimento	12	12½
Sugar, ₱ lb:
Havana, white	12½	— —
Havana, yellow	10½	11½
Havana, brown	10½	11
Crushed	13½	13½
Pulverized	13½	13½
Teas, ₱ lb:
Imperial	45	1 10
Gunpowder	75	1 50
Hyson	75	1 25
Young Hyson	75	1 10
Oolong	45	1 10
Pouchong	30	50
Tin, ₱ box:
Block	— —	— —
In plates, I. X	18 25	— —
In plates, I. C	16 00	— —
Leaded plates, I. X	17 25	— —
Leaded plates, I. C	15 00	— —

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, July 30, 1872.

Texas beeves, choice, ₱ head	$50 00	@	55 00
Texas beeves, 1st qual, ₱ head	35 00	@	45 00
Texas cattle, 2d qual, ₱ head	20 00	@	28 00
Texas cattle, 3d qual, ₱ head	14 00	@	18 00
Western beeves, ₱ lb. net	10	@	13
Hogs, ₱ lb. gross	4½	@	6
Sheep, first quality, ₱ head	5 00	@	6 00
Sheep, second qual., ₱ head	3 00	@	4 00
Sheep, third quality, ₱ head	2 00	@	2 50
Milch cows, choice, ₱ head	80 00	@	100 00
Milch cows, ₱ head	50 00	@	80 00
Texas cows, with calves	— —	@	— —
Calves, ₱ head	7 00	@	10 00
Yearlings, ₱ head	8 00	@	12 00

Special Notices.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting held at Mount Zion, on the Hynesville circuit, seven miles north of Homer, Louisiana, commencing on Thursday, August 22, and embracing the fourth Sabbath in August. It will be a joint meeting between Homer and Hynesville circuits. People and preachers are earnestly requested to attend. The preachers will be provided for in every way with accommodations. There will be a boarding tent on the ground for transient visitors; board at reasonable rates.

N. A. CHAVENS, P. C., Homer circuit.
JOHN A. MILLER, P. C., Hynesville circuit.

[The above notice would have been published before this, but for the neglect of the writer to state the time of holding the camp meeting.]

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting held at Carthage, Jackson district, Mississippi Conference, commencing on Thursday before and embracing the second Sabbath in September. It will be conducted on the primitive style. Provision will be made for all ministers and persons living at a distance. Persons living within ten or twelve miles of the camp ground must not expect accommodations from the citizens or tent-holders. All ministers are respectfully invited and urged to attend.

J. M. WEEMS, P. C.

Camden District Conference.

The Camden District Conference will be held at Georgiana, on the Mobile and Montgomery railroad, fifteen miles below Greenville, Alabama, August 21-25. Rev. M. E. Butt will preach the opening sermon on Wednesday night, August 21. The chairmen of committees are as follows: Denominational Education, S. A. Pilley and William Stott; Sunday Schools, M. E. Butt and P. B. Suffold; Books and Periodicals, Nell Gillis and W. W. Drane; Missions, S. F. Pilley and W. G. Perry; Finance, T. M. Williams and F. C. Johnson; Parsonages, J. L. Skipper and Jere. S. Didley; State of the Church, J. M. Scott and A. R. A. Purifoy; Temperance, D. J. Wright and J. M. Johnston. Let each of the above-named prepare a report for his committee. By resolution of the last District Conference, all preachers in charge are to have written reports, on separate slips of paper, for all the committees, on the first day of the session.

D. M. HUDSON, P. E.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting, commencing on the sixth day of September, half-way between Pleasant Hill and Mansfield, in DeSoto parish, Louisiana. The people are expected and requested to come with wagons and tents, provided to take care of themselves. It is a new camp ground, and we do not know of any public entertainment.

R. PARVIN.

Eufaula District Conference.

The District Conference for Eufaula district, Alabama Conference, is to be held at Clayton, commencing August 8.

JAS. L. COTTEN, P. E.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

VICKSBURG DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Rocky Springs, at Steele chapel	Aug. 3, 4
North Warren, Milldale and Sunflower, at Beechland	10, 11
Cayuga, at Bear Creek	17, 18
South Warren, at Red Bone	24, 25
Clover Hill, at Tallula	30, Sept. 1
Rolling Fork	Sept. 7, 8
Fayette, at Belle Grove	14, 15
Kingston	21, 22

JOHN A. B. JONES, P. E., Port Gibson, Miss.

SUMMIT DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Amite City	Aug. 3, 4
Covington	10, 11
Greensburg	17, 18
Big Creek	24, 25
South Warren, at Red Bone	24, 25
Clover Hill, at Tallula	30, Sept. 1
Rolling Fork	Sept. 7, 8
Fayette, at Belle Grove	14, 15
Kingston	21, 22

JOHN A. B. JONES, P. E., Port Gibson, Miss.

SUMMIT DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Amite City	Aug. 3, 4
Covington	10, 11
Greensburg	17, 18
Big Creek	24, 25
Franklinton	Sept. 7, 8
St. Helena	14, 15

The Summit District Conference will commence at Tanglipahoa, Louisiana, on Friday, September 27, and embrace the fifth Sunday.

J. NICHOLSON, P. E.

JACKSON DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Mount Olivet circuit and Yazoo mission, at New Hope	Aug. 3, 4
Raymond circuit	10, 11
Brownsville circuit	17, 18
Sulphur Springs circuit, at Madisonville	24, 25
Camden and Thomastown circuits	31, Sept. 1
Carthage circuit	Sept. 7, 8

H. H. MONTGOMERY, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Beauregard, at Beauregard	Aug. 3, 4
Georgetown, at Georgetown	10, 11
Jackson, at Forest Hill	17, 18
Bogue Chitto	24, 25
Brookhaven and Brookhaven mission	31, Sept. 1
Crystal Springs and Crystal Springs mission	Sept. 14, 15

The District Meeting will be held September 14-15, at nine o'clock A. M., at Crystal Springs. Bishop J. C. Keener will preside. A camp meeting is in prospect at the same time and place, on the plan recommended by the last District Conference.

W. E. M. LINFIELD, P. E. Post Office, Hazlehurst.

WOODVILLE DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Wilkinson, at Pisgah	Aug. 3, 4
Buffalo, at Friendship	10, 11
Meadville, at Meadville	24, 25
Amite, at Bond's camp ground	31, Sept. 1

J. L. FORSYTH, P. E.

BRANDON DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Decatur mission, at Hebron	Aug. 3, 4
Lake circuit, at Scotland chapel	10, 11
Morton circuit	24, 25
Tremon circuit	31, Sept. 1
Raleigh circuit	Sept. 7, 8
Taylorville mission	14, 15
Garlandsville circuit	21, 22

The District Conference will convene at Forest, August 16, at nine o'clock A. M. All the members, both elect and ex officio, will please be on time, as important business will come up on the first day of the conference. Dear brethren, as prominence is to be given to religious exercises at our District Conferences, let us make this a subject of special prayer, that it may be "a refreshing time from the presence of the Lord."

F. M. WILLIAMS, P. E.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Marion circuit, at Toomsuba	Aug. 3, 4
Paulding circuit	10, 11
Clarke circuit	17, 18
Meridian station	31, Sept. 1

WM. B. HINES, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

YAZOO DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Kosciusko and Bethel, at Bethel	Aug. 3, 4
Black Hawk	10, 11

There will be a camp meeting at Spring Dale, Attala county, Mississippi, beginning August 16, embracing the third Sunday in August.

The District Conference of the Yazoo district, North Mississippi Conference, will meet in Black Hawk, Carroll county, Mississippi, August 29, embracing the first Sunday in September. The Black Hawk camp meeting will begin at the same time and place. All who can are cordially invited to attend these camp meetings, the ministerial brethren particularly. Our camp meetings are expected to be largely self-sustaining—that is, all attending will provide for themselves and their invited friends. We found this plan a good one last year. Let us come up in the spirit of prayer, nothing doubting, and the Master will be there.

W. P. BARTON, P. E.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

DEMOPOLIS DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Gainesville, at Ramsey	Aug. 3, 4
Cuba, at York	10, 11
Bladen, at Providence	17, 18
Butler, at Bright Water	24, 25
Gaston, at Thompkinsville	31, Sept. 1

S. H. COX, P. E.

MOBILE DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Mount Pleasant, at Red Hill	Aug. 3, 4
Grand Bay mission, at Ellington	10, 11
Pollard ct., at Shepherd's chapel	17, 18
Pensacola	24, 25
Milton	31, Sept. 1

H. UNQUHART, P. E.

SELMA DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

East Selma station	Aug. 3, 4
Rembert Hills ct., at Camp ground	10, 11
Orrville circuit	17, 18
Dayton and Spring Hill, at Spring Hill	24, 25
Linden and Flatwoods mission, at Spring Hill	24, 25

A. J. BRIGGS, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Caddo circuit, at Friendship	Aug. 17, 18
Mansfield circuit, at Forest Grove	24, 25
Kenchie circuit, at Bell Bower	31, Sept. 1
Pleasant Hill circuit, at Bethel	Sept. 7, 8
Springville circuit, at Coushatta Academy	21, 22
Minny circuit, at Bayou Lee	Oct. 5, 6
Anacoco circuit, at Kisatchie	12, 13
Shreveport	19, 20

The District Conference will be held at Keachie, commencing on Thursday, September 26, at ten A. M. The Bethel camp meeting will commence on the sixth of September, and the Bethlah camp meeting will commence September 11.

JOHN PIPES, P. E.

LAKE PROVIDENCE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Waterproof, at Tensas chapel	Aug. 3, 4
Wesley and Jordan, at Jordan	10, 11
Lake Providence, at Illawarra	17, 18
Bastrop, at Island Desaird	24, 25
Floyd and Bethel, at Midway	31, Sept. 1
Oak Grove, at Oak Grove	7, 8
Lind Grove, at Lind Grove	14, 15
Sicily Island, at Bceuff Prairie	22, 23
Winnsboro, at Oakley	28, 29
Bayville, at Little Creek	Oct. 6, 7

J. T. DAVES, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

New Iberia	Aug. 3, 4
Bayou Boeuff	10, 11
Plaquemine Brulee	24, 25
Contee Croche	31, Sept. 1
Abbeville	Sept. 7, 8

I hope to spend at least five days at each quarterly meeting.

B. F. WHITE, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Quarterly Conference at Algiers	Aug. 4
Felicity street	11
German charges—Quarterly Conference at Dryades street	16
Plaquemine	Sept. 1
Morgan street	13
Baton Rouge	28, 29

LINUS PARKER, P. E.

MINDEN DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Sparta, at Sparta	Aug. 10, 11
Mount Lebanon, at Athens	17, 18
Bistineau, at Liberty chapel	31, Sept. 1

The District Meeting for Minden district will be held at Minden, commencing Wednesday, October 2, including the first Sabbath in the month. Preachers and official members of the church within the bounds of the district are specially invited. Visiting ministers will be heartily received.

N. M. SKIPWORTH, P. E.

MISCELLANEOUS.

HOMEOPATHIC DOMESTIC MEDICINE.

BY LAURIE & McCLATCHEY.—FIRST American from the Twenty-first English edition. 1,037 Pages Octavo. Price, $5.

This is the most complete work on Domestic Practice in the English language. Twenty-one thousand copies of it are in circulation in England and in this country. Two full editions sold within less than twelve months.

A full set of Remedies (102 vials,) in a solid Mahogany case, will be furnished for $12. Book and case will be sent, carefully packed, to any address, on receipt of $17.

Address BOERICKE & TAFEL, Homœopathic Pharmaceutist and Medical Publishing House, 145 Grand st., New York.

Established in 1835. jy11 3m

AGENTS WANTED TO SELL PARTON'S LIFE OF

HORACE GREELEY,

The Patriot, Statesman and Philanthropist.

Every citizen who is interested in the remarkable career of our next President should read the truthful story of his life, as told by the greatest American Biographer. A work of rare interest, and full of instruction. For circulars and terms address

NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., jy25 2m Memphis, Tenn.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT. TRADE MARK. REGISTERED.

Are You a Bankrupt!—Do not resent this question, reader. It is not an impertinence. We have no right to inquire into your business affairs, and don't intend to. But are you Bankrupt in Health? If so, recruit, regulate and renovate your insolvent system with Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient.

Turn its reserves of latent strength and vitality into active, vital capital with that most agreeable of all tonics, that mildest of evacuants, that most genial of stomachics, that most salubrious of exhilarants. It puts dyspepsia and biliousness to flight, cures constipation, braces the nerves, clears the brain, and refreshes, reanimates and purifies the whole physique. Sold by all druggists. jy27 2t

SUGAR MILLS

FOR THE VERY BEST AND

Latest Improved Sugar Machinery,

consisting of CANE MILLS, Evaporators, Clarifiers, Grates, Doors, Skimmers, etc., also CIDER MILLS, and the celebrated COTTAGE FRUIT DRYERS, address for Price List and Catalogue.

SOUTHERN MANUFACTURING CO., Je29 2m Nashville, Tenn.

NEW ORLEANS BRANCH

Southern Life Insurance Company

OF MEMPHIS, TENNESSEE.

Office—16 Carondelet St., New Orleans.

Good and reliable Solicitors wanted. my23 3m

A GREAT CHANCE FOR AGENTS. Do you want an agency, local or traveling, with an opportunity to make $5 to $20 a day selling our new 7-strand White Wire Clothes Lines? They last forever; sample free, so there is no risk. Address at once Hudson River Wire Works, cor. Water St. and Maiden Lane, New York, or 16 Dearborn street, Chicago, Illinois. au24 1y

DRY GOODS—CLOTHING.

D. H. HOLMES,

135.....CANAL STREET.....135

—AND—

15.....BOURBON STREET.....15

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER

—IN—

ALL DESCRIPTIONS

—OF—

DRY GOODS,

—SUCH AS—

SILKS, TISSUES, EMBROIDERIES, LACES, SHAWLS, CLOAKS, MADE SUITS, ETC.

The attention of the public is respectfully called to our stock, which will be found most complete, embracing every kind of Fancy and Staple Goods.

ap25 6m

W. H. PIERSON. E. L. HEWS.

PIERSON & HEWS,

DEALERS IN

Fine Clothing & Furnishing Goods,

NOS. 13 AND 15 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

fe15 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

ORGANS.

SEND TO

ROBERT J. HARP, AGENT,

112 Camp St., New Orleans,

FOR

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUES

OF THE

WOODS ORGANS,

FOR

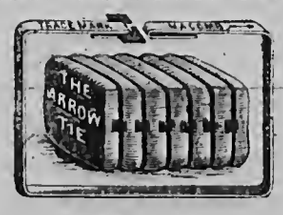
Churches, Families, Sabbath Schools and Schools.

NO BETTER IN THE MARKET. my2 tf

IMPORTANT TO PLANTERS.

IRON COTTON TIES.

THE ARROW TIE. AND ALL OPEN-SLOT TIES.



The above-described Ties are the best and most popular Ties in use for Baling Cotton. They are manufactured of the best quality of English Iron, by J. J. McCOMB, Liverpool, England, and are sold under full guarantee, at the lowest market price, by all dealers in Baling Stuffs in New Orleans, Mobile, Galveston, Savannah, Charleston, Wilmington, Petersburg, Baltimore, Memphis, Louisville, Nashville, New York, and by country merchants generally throughout the Cotton States.

BARTLETT & RAYNE, General Agents, 48 Carondelet street, cor. Union, my30 6m New Orleans.

SHERMAN HOUSE, NO. 1 WEST TWENTY-Sixth street, New York.—MR. ELKINS, Proprietor. Strangers visiting New York, desiring the comforts and retirement of a home and attendance of a hotel, in a first-class central location, can find the same at from $25 to $40 per week for a gentleman and wife; transient, $3 per day; American plan; lodgings, $1. je27 3m

STEAMSHIPS.

New Liverpool Line of Steamers,

Built expressly for the New Orleans trade, to cross the Bar at all times without detention.

Liverpool and Mississippi Steamship Company.

First-class Powerful Screw Steamers.

ST. LOUIS, Capt. Smith	1,827 tons.
MEMPHIS, Capt. Weeks	2,300 ..
MISSISSIPPI, Capt. Pierson	2,500 ..
TEXAS, (building)	2,500 ..
VICKSBURG, ..	2,500 ..
MISSOURI, ..	2,500 ..

FOR LIVERPOOL DIRECT—The steamship

——, commander,

To sail on ——, 1872,

from her wharf, foot of St. Mary street, Fourth District. Will receive and sign through bills of lading to Havre, Bremen, Hamburg, Antwerp, Rotterdam and all Continental ports.

Parties desirous of sending for their friends can purchase prepaid emigration tickets here. A reduction allowed when applied for in groups.

For freight or passage, having superior accommodations, apply to MEEKER, KNOX & CO., 49 Carondelet street.

Managing owners—FLINN, MAIN & MONTGOMERY, 12 Launcelot Hay, Chapel street, Liverpool. my16 3m

FOR NEW YORK.

The Cromwell New York and New Orleans Steamship Line.

Steamers of this Line leave New Orleans for New York EVERY SATURDAY at 5 P. M.

Cabin passage	$50 00
Steerage passage	25 00

Through bills of lading to foreign and coastwise ports issued.

ALFRED MOULTON, mh21 1y 41 Carondelet street.

FOR NEW YORK.

MERCHANTS' STEAMSHIP LINE.

Sailing from New York and New Orleans EVERY SATURDAY,

Cabin passage	$50 00
Steerage passage	25 00

Through tickets to Liverpool and the Continent.

New Orleans wharf, foot of Jefferson street. New York wharf, Pier No. 4, North river.

JOHN H. LUDWIGSEN, Agent, feb8 1y No. 190 Common street.

MOBILE ADVERTISEMENTS.

JOHN DOUGLAS, DEALER IN

Fancy and Staple Dry Goods,

NOS. 102 AND 104 DAUPHIN STREET, MOBILE, ALABAMA.

Agent for the Florence Sewing Machine.

All goods warranted as represented, and sold at the lowest rates for Cash, our object being large sales and small profits. jy1 1y

OTIS' STEAM SAW, PLANING AND GRIST MILLS, AND BLACKSMITH'S SHOP, Corner of Water and Madison Streets, MOBILE, ALABAMA.

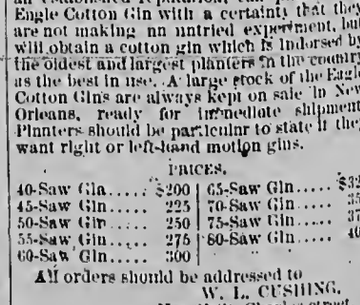
Orders received at the above Mills for all kinds of Lumber, dressed or rough. Fresh Meal, bolted or unbolted, always on hand. Also all styles of Moldings. my2 3m WILLIAM OTIS.

WAVERLY STABLES, HAYDEN & MEENAN, Proprietors. LIVERY AND SALE STABLES, No. 39 North Royal Street, Mobile.

Carriages and Buggies of the latest styles, and superior Horses, furnished at all hours. Calls of every description will receive prompt attention. jy1 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

IMPROVED



EAGLE COTTON GINS.

THE GREAT POPULARITY of the EAGLE COTTON GINS is established from the well-known fact that they are the most reliable, strongest and best built Cotton Gins ever made. The Eagle Cotton Gin runs lighter than any other gin, thus having a great advantage for planters who wish to run by horse power. All the numerous planters who use the Eagle Cotton Gin will certify to the fact that when their cotton is sent to market it always brings the highest market price, as no other gin can produce a finer or a better sample of cotton than the Eagle Cotton Gins. Over seventeen thousand of the Eagle Cotton Gins have been made and sold. During a period of twenty years the undersigned has had the agency of the Eagle Cotton Gin in New Orleans. He has never had a gin returned or rejected out of the immense number sold. The saw cylinders of all the Eagle Cotton Gins are twelve inches in diameter, which is two inches larger than most other kinds of gins, thus giving our forty-saw gin more teeth, and they are more than equal to the fifty-saw gins of other makers, who use only a ten-inch cylinder, and the same great advantage of the twelve inch cylinder in larger sized gins can be easily estimated. Planters who wish a reliable cotton gin, with an established reputation, can purchase an Eagle Cotton Gin with a certainty that they are not making an untried experiment, but will obtain a cotton gin which is indorsed by the oldest and largest planters in the country as the best in use. A large stock of the Eagle Cotton Gins are always kept on sale in New Orleans, ready for immediate shipment. Planters should be particular to state if they want right or left-hand motion gins.

PRICES.
40-Saw Gin	$200	65-Saw Gin	$325
45-Saw Gin	225	70-Saw Gin	350
50-Saw Gin	250	75-Saw Gin	375
55-Saw Gin	275	80-Saw Gin	400
60-Saw Gin	300

All orders should be addressed to W. L. CUSHING, No. 61 St. Charles street. Sole Agent for the Southern States. Agents wanted. jy4 3m

JOHN GIBSON, ENGRAVER AND Steam Power Lithographic Printer, 82 BEEKMAN ST., NEW YORK.

Checks, Notes, Drafts, Receipts, Bonds, Certificates of Stock and Deposit, Bill, Letter and Note Headings, Business Cards, Envelopes, Druggists' Fancy and Perfumery Labels, etc. Druggists wishing Labels, send for Catalogue. je27 1y

A GRADUATE OF SOME EXPERIENCE, who can teach all the branches usually

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. XVIII. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, AUGUST 8, 1872. NO. 32.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Aug. 1.—The State election to-day was one of the most quiet that has been held in this city for years. A large vote was polled, and the utmost exertions were made by both sides.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The Department of Agriculture to-day commenced the distribution of several superior varieties of fall wheat to all States and Territories adapted to its growth. This distribution will be completed during the current month, thus giving ample time for sowing in all the localities where winter wheat is cultivated. A large distribution of rye will follow this distribution of fall wheat. The department has made an arrangement for an early distribution of vegetable and grass seeds to its correspondents and others in the South.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 4.—Official and partial returns have been received from seventy-five counties, which reduce the Conservative majority to some two thousand. The remaining seventeen counties are mostly small, and will not materially change these figures. The Republicans concede the State by from fifteen hundred to two thousand majority. There is still intense interest felt in the result, as the Democrats are slow to believe in a victory until the fact is established. The rejoicing in the State will be great as soon as the positive returns will exhibit the election of the Democratic ticket.

DENVER, COLORADO, Aug. 4.—Reliable parties here state that diamonds and other precious stones, exhibited in San Francisco, were brought from some point south of this place and taken through to San Francisco. It is said they were found near the northern line of New Mexico and Arizona. In confirmation of this story, a party in San Francisco are telegraphing their friends in Denver, asking how far from Denver are the diamond fields. But it seems impossible to give the desired information.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 5.—Eight hundred German Catholics held a meeting to-night and passed resolutions of indignation at the expulsion of the Jesuits from the German empire. The meeting was addressed by Father Leopold, one of the expelled Jesuits, who is now settled over a church in this city. They resolved to send copies of their resolutions to Emperor William and Count Bismarck.

NEW YORK, August. 6.—The Tribune, by authority, says: The lately published reports that Chief Justice Chase is in a very critical condition, that he is suffering from a complication of disorders, and even so grave have been the stories that he is fast losing his intellect through softening of the brain, are alike unwarranted and wanton.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 6.—The very latest dispatches from Republican sources in North Carolina, received here to-day, claim Caldwell's (Republican) election by about fourteen hundred majority. These telegrams are based mostly on official returns. The Republicans also claim four Congressmen. The New York World, to-day, thinks Caldwell is elected. The Herald says official returns are necessary to decide. The Tribune believes that Merrimon (Conservative) is elected by thirteen hundred majority.

There were eleven deaths from smallpox in this city last week. The disease is rapidly abating.

MONTGOMERY, Aug. 6.—The first bale of new Alabama cotton received by A. & H. Strassburger, of Montgomery, and which was raised by B. W. Bryant, of Lowndes county. It weighed five hundred and seventy pounds and brought sixty cents per pound, and was shipped to Proskour & Co., Mobile.

FOREIGN.

MATAMORAS, MEXICO, Aug. 1.—The military authorities to-day announced that a general amnesty had been proclaimed at the City of Mexico, embracing all engaged in the recent revolution, and restoring them to their civil and political rights.

Congress has ordered a general election for President of the republic to occur shortly.

LONDON, Aug 1.—The Prince of Wales visited the American fleet yesterday. It was a grand affair. Lieutenant Fred. Grant was invited to participate, but was absent. General Sherman inspected the fleet.

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—Three cases of Asiatic cholera have occurred in this city.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Lord Hatherly, Lord High Chancellor, has resigned in consequence of failing eyesight.

A dispatch from Suez reports that two thousand Egyptians are advancing on Abyssinia with a view to conquest.

The Emperor Kazazi is marching to meet them, but it is thought his defeat is certain, and Magdala will eventually fall into the hands of the invaders.

FROM THE WORK.

Rocky Springs Circuit.

MR. EDITOR: On Friday, the fifth of July, we began a protracted meeting at Steel's chapel, which lasted for ten days, during which time Bros. J. A. B. Jones, presiding elder, R. Trippett and D. A. J. Parker preached and worked fervently and faithfully. During the meeting twenty-five joined the church, about twenty-five were baptized, and fourteen or fifteen converted, leaving there a membership three times its original strength, warm and zealous for the cause. Indications are good over all the circuit for a general revival. I expect to send in some good reports very soon.

Yours, H. R. SINGLETON.
JULY 25, 1872.

North Alabama Conference.

MR. EDITOR: I am thankful that I can inform you that the Holy Spirit is at work on this circuit. I have just closed a meeting, which terminated, I think, in great good to the church, and also to many who were in the broad road to ruin. This meeting was held at Four Mile church. It continued ten days and nights. The prevailing doctrine in that community is of the Calvinistic sort—the very hardest kind. The Holy Spirit attended the ministry of truth, and melted the hardened shell. Sinners flocked to the standard of Jesus, and forty or more found mercy and pardon. I have never witnessed brighter conversions in all my life. Many backsliders were reclaimed, both among Methodists and other denominations. Thirty-two joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South. A few others will follow soon.

R. G. RAGAN, P. C.

P. S.—One of the converts had to be immersed. Twenty-seven received baptism according to the apostolic mode. R. G. R.

ALEXANDRIA CIRCUIT, July 26, 1872.

Opelousas District Conference, Louisiana Conference.

MR. EDITOR: Conference convened July 18, and closed its business sessions on the twentieth. Representation of lay and clerical members rather small. Those present entered into the spirit of the business heartily, and express great satisfaction at being present. Passed under careful review all the interests of the church in our district bounds. The presiding elder filled the chair to the entire satisfaction of all.

The report on finance was gratifying and encouraging for these hard times.

The report on missions was able, replete; would have passed muster on a greater occasion.

The report on education was not as satisfactory as desired. Schemes inaugurated by wise theorists a year ago, at the District Conference, have been but a partial success, as the originators, by transfer, removal, etc., have not stayed to see "whether it would work." How well for men to execute themselves what they plan. The hearty and unanimous vote was to take no "backward step" on this important interest.

The report on the spiritual state of the church, observances of the ordinances, etc., was searching, and contained these words: "The spiritual condition of the church may be safely proclaimed as 'improving;' 'experimental religion predominates in almost every congregation.'"

The report on Sunday schools was very gratifying indeed. Over one thousand children are in attendance at twenty-four schools, with one thousand seven hundred and fifty volumes in libraries—a handsome forward movement since the last district meeting.

Preaching twice every day—Sabbath four times; love-feast, preaching and Sunday school celebration in the afternoon; preaching at night.

Best of all, God was with us, and was pleased to pour out the Holy Ghost as in the day of Pentecost. We sat together "in heavenly places in Christ Jesus." The word preached was owned and honored; the slain of the Lord were many; conversions were gradual and instantaneous; not a few—twenty-three set to their seal that the Lord is true, and were enrolled with the sacramental host. The meeting continues. O, it was a time of mellow religious enjoyment! It was like the scenes of twenty-five years ago.

Crops of corn, cotton, cane, peas, potatoes, etc., greet the eye, all through the country, in more promising luxuriance than for many years. The heart is filled with gratitude at these expressions of a bountiful and beneficent Providence.

Vermilionville, where the meeting was held, is a beautifully located inland town of say fifteen hundred inhabitants (a Roman Catholic population,) where the New Orleans, Mobile and Texas railroad is crossed by the old Opelousas railroad, projected before the war. Both roads are now being constructed. The former will, it is believed, be completed to Vermilionville by winter, and will be the great thoroughfare from New Orleans to Texas. It will open up this fair and lovely prairie to commerce and trade, and these beautiful and fertile lands will be sought by emigrants. Vermilionville has a flattering prospect to become a large inland city. Such is human calculation and expectation.

Our church and doctrine are well planted and rooted here. It is now faithfully served by Bro. Clegg, in connection with another church in the country.

Delegates: T. H. Lewis, David Riggs, G. G. Zenor and Rev. R. S. Isbel. Alternates: Dr. J. D. Saint, Dr. William M. Richardson, R. S. Wilkins and Rev. Joseph Knight.

By order of the Opelousas District Conference. T. B. W.,
Secretary pro tempore.
NEW IBERIA, LA., July 24, 1872.

CAMP MEETING.

MR. EDITOR: In accordance with the resolutions adopted at the last Brookhaven district meeting of the Methodist Church, a camp meeting will be held near Crystal Springs, beginning on Wednesday, September 11. It has been fixed at this date in order to take advantage of moonlight nights for the occasion.

The camp ground is conveniently situated and easy of access, being within the corporate limits of Crystal Springs and less than a mile from the depot. Ample arrangements will be made to preserve good order.

Fine springs of excellent water, for which the vicinity is noted and from whence the town takes its name, are convenient to the ground.

A large and substantial preaching shed is already erected and the adjacent ground thoroughly cleaned off.

The camp meeting will be on the self-supporting plan, which has been tried with such great success at the different camp meetings held throughout the South last year.

A public boarding tent, kept by an experienced caterer, will be on the ground, and meals will be furnished at reasonable rates; sleeping accommodations will also be provided.

Ample spaces reserved for those who wish to erect their own tents. Those who desire to tent are requested to make known their intention promptly, in order that lots may be set apart for them. There is abundant room for all who may apply, but the committee desire an early notification.

A number of distinguished preachers from this and other Conferences are expected to be present to aid in the services.

A cordial invitation is hereby extended to all persons who may desire to attend. The camp-fires which in former days burned brightly in old Crystal Springs, and rendered that famous camp ground a place of resort for great numbers of Christians, are about to be rekindled. The co-operation of all who can help to make the meeting a success is earnestly desired.

Fresh meats will be supplied tenters from our market, daily, at reasonable rates.

Any further information on the subject can be had on application by mail or in person to

I. J. HENKINGTON,
Chairman of Committee.
CRYSTAL SPRINGS, July 24, 1872.

THE LIBERAL STATE CONVENTION is in session in this city. Committees of conference have been appointed between the different parties, but no results have been reported up to Wednesday morning, the time we go to press. It is to be hoped that the honest men of Louisiana will unite to save the State from utter ruin.

AFTER Father Taylor, the Boston pulpit eccentricity, had lost the use of one arm by paralysis, he was met by a friend who inquired how he was. "Famously," the sailor-preacher replied; "sculling to heaven with one arm!"

THE PROPERTY QUESTION.

The Baltimore Episcopal Methodist, speaking of this matter as existing in the bounds of the Baltimore Conference, says:

The question of ownership, as to church property within the bounds of our Conference, has not been legally decided, except in a few cases. There are a few other cases now in litigation. We claim to have a legal right to all the property held and used by us, and much more now held and used by the Methodist Episcopal Church. This is, however, a question which can only be decided by legal process, or by compromise, the latter of which is infinitely preferable.

The Nashville Advocate asks the New York Methodist to point out any instances in which Southern Methodists have possession of church property belonging to the Northern Methodist Church. The Methodist answers thus:

"We have already done this very fully. In the Methodist of November 4, 1871, we said: 'In the old Baltimore Conference they (the Southern Methodists) have taken possession of nearly all our property in four entire districts—the Lewisburg, Rockingham, Roanoke and Potomac, and part of the fifth, the Winchester. We have heard the number of churches, large and small, really owned by us, but held by them, estimated at five hundred. Added to these is an excellent seminary property at Staunton, Virginia, which, as far as we know, has never been legally transferred.' We believe the facts in these cases are well authenticated. We are surprised that the Nashville Advocate should be ignorant of them."

This is quite a summary way of putting in claims. It reminds us somewhat of the manner in which DeSoto laid claim to the Mississippi river and its large and fertile valley, in the name and by the authority of the sovereign of Spain. It is rather amusing to see a solitary man, standing in the Father of Waters up to his waist, his impotent arms raised toward heaven, and, with a voice that does not ripple the flowing current, or stir a leaf or startle a beast of the surrounding forests, proclaim his sovereign monarch of all he surveys not only within the limits of his visual range, but of his imagination also. And yet the New York Methodist cannot claim the church property in the valley of Virginia by virtue of a similar plea. It belongs to Southern Methodists by right of discovery, of purchase, of improvement, of possession and of equity; and if by right of law, it is for the courts to determine. As to the "excellent seminary property at Staunton, Virginia," according to its charter, which we have examined, neither the Northern nor Southern Baltimore Conference—neither the Northern nor Southern Methodist Episcopal Church—has any legal right to it. These are facts "well authenticated," and "we are surprised that the New York Methodist should be ignorant of them!"

CORRECTION.

The following note explains itself:

MR. EDITOR: I see that in an obituary over my signature, in the ADVOCATE of July 25, the name which I intended for Ryan is printed Regan. I regret this, though I suppose it is my fault. W. A. M.

MESSRS. G. & C. MERRIAM, the publishers, recently filled an order for sixteen copies of Webster's Unabridged, from Colombo, capital of the Island of Ceylon, in the East Indies. During May they had two orders from Japan, one of eighty and one of thirty-six copies; also one of twelve copies from Constantinople; ninety-nine copies also went to the China and Japan market in April, from San Francisco. Webster's Speller keeps up its sale of nearly one million copies per annum. The actual number for the past year was 979,204.—Springfield Republican, June 5.

DEAN STANLEY lately said, in a sermon to the printers of London, that once architecture was the press, and told great thoughts to the world in stone; but now the press was architecture, and is building up the world of ideas and usages.

LITTLE SUSIE went out to play, and soon came in and said "she had been helping God." When asked what she had been doing, she replied: "I found some flowers almost blossomed, and I blossomed them."

BOOKS AND PERIODICALS.

KINGS OF ISRAEL AND JUDAH: THEIR HISTORY EXPLAINED TO CHILDREN. By the author of "Peep of Day." New York: Carter & Bros., 1872.

The plan of this work is excellent, and well carried out. It is a book calculated to entertain and instruct persons of any age, and is specially adapted for the use of teachers and parents in teaching children. The volume is handsomely bound and illustrated, and is a work of decided value.

THE SOUTHERN REVIEW for July is worthy of its name, and not inferior to any number of the past. We have thus far found time to read only Apostolical Succession; Southern Voices, A Survey of the Churches, and Hume's Philosophy. These articles are all first-rate. The book notices are thoughtful and suggestive, but there is not enough of them. We hope that Dr. Bledsoe has had a final settlement with Dr. Wheden, and that he will not feel called upon to turn aside from his higher and to us more congenial work in future. This number contains the following articles: I. Apostolical Succession; II. Southern Voices; III. A Survey of the Churches; IV. Hume's Philosophy; V. Hon. A. H. Stephens on the Late War; VI. Romance of Real Life; VII. London and its People; VIII. D. D. Wheden, D. D.; IX. Notices of Books.

THE METHODIST QUARTERLY REVIEW of July has the following articles: Homer and his English Translators; Richard Rothe; the Higher Educational Institutions of New England; Conservation, Correlation and Origin of the Physical, Vital and Mental Forces; Is God Cognizable by Reason? the Republic of Liberia, Its Status and its Field. The editorial department of the Review is voluminous and able, as usual. Dr. Wheden is rather high-church as a Methodist, and constitutionally radical in many ways, but withal a good commentator and review editor.

STEPPING STONES is a little book for the young, by the author of "Village Missionaries, or to Every One his Work." The work is revised by Dr. Haygood, and issued by our Southern Methodist Publishing House at Nashville, Tennessee. The volume is bound and printed in beautiful style, and contains seven delightful stories. Send for it at once. For sale at our Depository, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

WALKING WITH GOD: THE LIFE HID WITH CHRIST. By Samuel Irenæus Prime. Published by Anson D. F. Randolph & Co., New York. A profitable little book, and elegantly bound. For sale by R. J. Harp, at the Depository, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

THE GALAXY for August has: The Egyptians at Home; My Life on the Plains; the Rev. Charles Kingsley; Was St. Peter ever at Rome? James Gordon Bennett's Scintillations, and other articles, besides Scientific Miscellany, Current Literature, the Galaxy Club, and Nebulæ.

GOOD WORDS FOR THE YOUNG for July is most relishable, and the best of hot weather reading, for even grown folks. The Swans, the Nightingale's Nest, Butter Cups and Daisies, Innocent's Island, and the Deserted Ship are some of the articles.

GOOD HEALTH for August is a very readable and instructive number. It contains: The Unconscious Action of the Brain; Poisons and their Antidotes; Preparing for the End, and many other articles of merit.

THE SOUTHERN MAGAZINE for August contains Dikesborough Tales; the Light of the Plains; Adventures of a Cordova Colonist; General Lee's Report of the Battle of Gettysburg; Notes of the War, and other articles.

THE UNIVERSITY MONTHLY for June and July, a double number, is replete with valuable articles. The illustrated article on Four Odd Beasts is most curious and instructive.

PHILIPS' SOUTHERN FARMER for August is full of agricultural information adapted to the season and climate. Published at Memphis, Tennessee. Price, $2 per annum.

BRAINARD'S MUSICAL WORLD for July, besides the usual quantity of literature and music, has an eight-page extra devoted to the Boston Jubilee.

ARTHUR'S LADIES' HOME MAGAZINE and the Children's Hour for this month are fresh and beautiful, and more abundantly illustrated than usual.

DR. HAYGOOD has the Sunday school papers for August well filled with choice matter. The Magazine, Visitor and Little People are all unusually fresh and instructive.

THE SCIENCE OF HEALTH for August has a number of trenchant articles on topics of interest.

PERSECUTION OF THE SOUTH.

From a strong article in the Baltimore Episcopal Methodist, under this heading, we make the following extract:

There is no record of Roman vengeance, nor of Russian and Austrian vindictiveness, more loathsome and horrible than that which the triumphant party in this war has visited upon the South. And we doubt whether there is any as mean, cowardly and contemptible.

Whatever conquerors have done to the vanquished in the Old World, whether in ancient or modern times, has been done openly and promptly. Even Spain, cruel as she is, strikes as the rattlesnake strikes, with an instant and fatal resentment. When "Vae Victis" was the watchword of old times or modern despots, it meant the vengeance of lions, not of cats. But mark the contrast of the sneaking, whining, pusillanimous and wicked ultraists that wield the sceptre of this part of the American continent. When Lee and Johnson surrendered, they were granted soldierly and generous terms, and assuming those to be the key-note of the Northern disposition, the future seemed to have elements of consolation.

But, alas, all that was only the rainbow in the morning, which all sailors regard as an indication of coming bad weather. As soon as Radicalism found out how thoroughly exhausted the South was by the contest, it set itself to work to glut its malice and hatred with a deliberation and ingenuity which threw completely into the shade the inventive genius of the Spanish Inquisition. It did not venture to put to death even the "head traitor," Jefferson Davis, but it hung a poor old lady from Maryland on the foul and false charge of being privy to the assassination of Abraham Lincoln; it choked to death poor Wirtz on the equally groundless allegation of killing Federal prisoners, and it visited upon Davis in his cell such vile indignities as only the basest and most ignoble of mankind know how to visit upon the fallen objects of their envy and their hate. From that time out it has subjected the South to a living death, now protracted through seven mortal years, with no signs of abatement. Their State governments have been given over to the worst white men of the North—evil beasts, so venomous and sickening that even Northern society could not bear them upon its foul stomach. The negro slaves of the South have been placed over the heads of their masters, not because of the degradation to which their elevation would reduce the Southern people, and the political power it would give their oppressor. Encouraged by their sudden liberation and enfranchisement, these savages have run riot with the property of the South, and even, horrible to relate, white women have been subjected to a fate worse than death, and when Southern men formed associations to defend their homes, Ku-Klux bills were passed by Congress to hunt them down, and send them to penitentiaries, where many of them now are, innocent and good men, wearing the garb and doing the work of felons. This horrible work has lately been renewed in North Carolina, where deputy United States marshals are said to be about to start out to make arrests under the enforcement act. They are reported to have two or three hundred names on the black list. This is the inauguration of a fresh campaign against a miserable and helpless people. What kind of Union is this?

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCHES, NORTH AND SOUTH.—This valuable book is now out of press and offered for sale.

Every Methodist, North and South, should buy it, read it and preserve it. It is a reprint from the Southern Quarterly Review, and is a work of great historical value.

It is a neat little volume, bound in cloth; price, sixty cents, with usual discount to the trade.

Address orders to Southwestern Book and Publishing Company, 510 and 512 Washington avenue, St. Louis, or to Logan D. Dameron, president and manager.

OBITUARIES will be found on the second page.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 8, 1872.

MIDSUMMER.

BY R. W. EMERSON.

Around this lovely valley rise
The purple hills of Paradise.

O, softly on yon banks of haze
Her rosy face fair Summer lays.

Becalmed along the azure sky,
The argosies of cloud and lie,
Whose shores, with many a shining rift,
Far off their pearl-white peaks uplift.

Through all the long midsummer day
The meadow-sides are sweet with hay.
I seek the coolest sheltered seat,
Just where the field and forest meet—
Where grow the pine trees tall and bland,
The ancient oaks austere and grand,
And fringy roots and pebbles fret
The ripples of the rivulet.

I watch the mowers as they go
Through the tall grass, a white-sleeved row;
With even strokes their scythes they swing,
In tune with merry whetstone's ring;
Behind the nimble youngsters run
And toss the thick swaths in the sun;
The cattle graze, while, warm and still,
Slopes the broad pasture, basks the hill,
And bright, when summer breezes break,
And green wheat crinkles like a lake.

The butterfly and humble-bee
Come to the pleasant woods with me;
Quickly before me runs the quail,
The chickens skulk behind the rail.
High up the lone wood-pigeon sits,
And the woodpecker pecks and flits;
Sweet woodland music sinks and swells,
The brooklet rings its tinkling bells,

The swarming insects drone and hum,
The partridge beats his throbbing drum,
The squirrel leaps among the boughs,
And chatters in his leafy house;
The oriole flashes by, and look!
Into the mirror of the brook,
Where the blue-bird trims his coat,
Two tiny feathers fall and float.

As silently, as tenderly,
The dawn of peace descends on me.
O this is peace! I have no need
Of friend to talk or book to read—
A dear Companion here abides;
Close to my thrilling heart He hides;
The holy silence is His voice;
I lie and listen, and rejoice.

For the Advocate.

LETTER FROM WILBRAHAM, MASS.

"Oh, Nature! all thy charms supreme!
Whose votaries feast on raptures ever new!
Oh! for the voice and fire of seraphim,
To sing thy glories with devotion due!"

Mr. Editor: None but those who have witnessed the sudden transition of a cold winter in the North, into spring and summer, can tell the fascinating charms of its lovely landscapes, or appreciate fully their unrivaled beauties. The woodlands, so fresh and inspiring with the melody of birds—its slopes carpeted with the richest of verdure, and meadows radiant with beauty; its purling streams, rocks, and small cascades chiming in sweet music as they flow, overshadowed by dense trees of exquisite loveliness; lakelets which appear like Oriental gems set around with pearls from reflected light, amidst the flashing rays of a vivifying sun, which bring forth vegetation as if touched with a magical wand—everything is redolent with life and motion.

The last year was one of a long season of drought; people suffered in many parts for the lack of water. Wells and springs were dried up that never were known to have been before. Even in this village a bucket of fresh water was highly valued as a gift from a friend. This scarcity was followed by a winter of severe cold—not much snow, but the ground was frozen to a depth perfectly astonishing. Even late in May, when people were digging ditches, ice some feet below the surface was found in cakes. Evergreen trees in the forest, in some places, were killed with the cold, and looked as if the fire had passed over them in the forests and yards. The roots of the grass also were in many fields partially destroyed, making the prospects of fodder for the stock dubious. The winter grain was in some places thinned out, so that farmers are doubtful of their crops, though looking very fresh to the eye.

All along the rich Connecticut valley the attention of farmers seems to be called to the interest of raising tobacco, as much as the South for the cultivation of cotton.

FISK HALL.

I attended a reunion of the alumni at the anniversary of this institution—those who were students at its foundation, their locks now whitening with years. The name of its first principal still lingers around its walls, with whom we associated in the female department. There is something in a name, connected with consecrated learning in a holy life! For his was "A noble aim,

Faithfully kept, is a noble deed,
In whose pure sight all virtues doth succeed."

Dr. Fisk was one who consecrated his time, talents and education entirely to the service of the cause of Christ; and we have heard him say, had he power to live over his brief life again, it would be to make all learning practical, which was within his grasp, more than he ever had done before. The Greeks were not far out of the way when they compared a consistent character of wisdom and goodness to the harmony of music—felt but not explained. We have heard him say that some people carried about them an atmosphere quickly inhaled—one to inspire confidence in its hallowed influence, or repel by a haughty reserve. He was peculiarly gifted with the pure and good, for his presence was calculated to disarm even his enemies.

It was our privilege to become acquainted with his domestic and social life, and there was no detracting from his benevolence in any department of public or private life. He was peculiarly fond of children, although having none of his own. He used to say there would be no heaven without children. He had a remarkable faculty in subduing obstinate tempers in boys. He would often take them in his room alone, and by kindness and affection win them over to obedience.

Although dead, he still lives in the hearts of those who survive him, and the generations who enjoy the fruits of his labors. That little academy, with its terraced walks, and trees we saw planted, is now surrounded by lofty shades, which almost conceal its walls; and another more capacious, named for him, stands along its side. We may well say, with the prophet: "Despise not the day of small things." Look at that little building! Half a century ago a small group of scholars—about thirty—made up the number. Since it has sent out its hundreds, who may be traced in their footsteps around the globe—ministers, bishops, teachers, and others of every department of practical life. We witnessed a revival of religion, while there, that swept through the whole school, and scarcely any left who did not acknowledge and feel the divine power. The school has increased year after year. The village is beautiful with its spacious amphitheater of hills, its lovely shady walks, and level play grounds, many buildings in tasteful forms—a magnificent boarding house, well arranged with every comfort. The rough old unfinished church of ninety years ago gave place to a more modern one many years afterward, which we saw dedicated by Dr. Fisk. Now a splendid Gothic building has substituted its place. The exercises of the last day of the school were held in this edifice. The facilities of the educational department have improved in everything—music especially, and the modern languages. Ladies are taking a high position. About a dozen were graduates, and three of them have been admitted to the University of Middletown, Connecticut, for a regular classical course. One is a young lady from Nashville, Tennessee, only fifteen years of age. She performed an overture of Rossini's without a mistake—kept up her musical attainments with her Greek and Latin and other branches required.

S. B. T.

For the Advocate.

Reminiscences of the Alabama Conference.—No. III.

Spring had now fully opened. Leaving Bro. Wier to cultivate the field already organized, I began to extend my field of operations. At Jamestown—afterward called Warsaw—a few Methodists had settled; among them a local preacher by the name of Henry Johnson. Here a class was organized. In this neighborhood quite a community of Protestant Methodists had located, embracing the families of the Stantons, Liddles and Horns, with Dr. Horn as their pastor. The settlements formed in this region were mainly on the Bighee and Noxubee rivers. We formed a small society at Fairfield, on the Bighee, and also one at Cookville, on the Noxubee river. Between Cookville and Macon we formed an interesting church at the house of Bro. Cheatham. In a short time these people gave place to the more wealthy emigrants, and the preaching place was on the farm of a Mr. Harrison.

We crossed over Noxubee to a settlement located on a large creek, called Warhalock. Here a Bro. Scott, with his mother-in-law, Mrs. Jack, had settled. Mrs. Jack was a lady of fine culture, of deep and uniform piety; in a word, she might be considered the very embodiment of those noble traits that adorn the female character. Another society was organized on a creek called Shookalock, and connected with which was Judge Hardiman, a man of prominence in the community. Near this locality Christopher Callaway commenced his ministerial career, which afterward proved so successful in the Alabama Conference. At Macon, the county seat of Noxubee, quite a Methodistic influence centered at an early day, which grew and strengthened with the tide of population. The success of a church depends very much upon the materials of its first organization. Here lived Messrs. Foot, Burman, Callaway and Macon. Here also lived and died that inestimable lady, Mrs. Macon. She was a member of the first Methodist church that was formed in Columbia, South Carolina. Possessing a strong native intellect, which was well cultivated, a firm constitution, with long and large experience, a piety and energy that knew no abatement, there was no estimating the extent of her usefulness in the church of her choice.

About midsummer, finding my field of labor so much enlarged, and new fields constantly opening before me, I made application to my presiding elder, Rev. E. B. Levert, for additional aid, which he soon furnished me in the person of D. N. B. Sullivan. Bro. Sullivan was a single man, of fair educational advantages, a good preacher, and able to do any amount of work. Of this companion of my youth I had lost sight until I came to Texas. Here I learned that he came to Texas in 1838, taught in Ruterville College two years, and joined the Conference in 1840. He filled several important appointments, and died in Houston, in great peace, in the year 1847.

We arranged the appointments already located, and Bro. Sullivan took charge of them, and I moved forward to seek out and organize other churches in this widespread field. I found a settlement located on a large creek, called Ishooka. Here I organized a class in the house of a Bro. Rodgers, on the hill near where Larry Walker's mill was afterward located. I penetrated into Winston county, and found a settlement located on a creek called Nanawarier. Here I formed a society in the house of Uriah Davis, afterward known as the Murff settlement. Here a fine and living church existed for many years. Here Dr. Avery, of the Louisiana Conference, and James McLeod, of the Alabama, and subsequently of the Texas Conference, were licensed to preach and recommended to the traveling connection.

From this point I made my way to Louisville, the county seat of Winston county. Here we formed a church. Among the early membership of this church was M. T. Colier, Uriah Davis, Dr. Evans, etc. I heard of a settlement in Choctaw county, made my way to it, found an opening, and organized a society, which I believe has been perpetuated to this day. It was known as the Crawford settlement. There many a precious soul was born to God.

After visiting a few scattered families in Choctaw county I made my way to Octibbaha county, striking the waters of Trimcane. Here a few families were located; but there being no opening for success, I sought a more inviting field, and made my way to Starkville, the county seat of Octibbaha.

J. MATTHEWS.

CHAPPEL HILL, TEXAS, July 3, 1872.

For the Advocate.

MY FIELD IN LOUISIANA.

Mr. Editor: When I left Mobile last winter, after hearing Bishop Pierce in his magnificent portraiture of St. Paul as a preacher, the only image that rose before me was a man of colossal stature, lifting a sword with both hands, his face toward the wilderness—"he hummed the songs of old." And all along, while parting with dearest friends, or hurried along the lines of travel, or on that mighty river, still the arguments of the preacher fell upon my heart, "as a hundred hammers fall upon the red son of the furnace." I suppose there is an ideal in the mind of every man, which, if ever reached, he never wishes to be repeated.

Under the influence of these glowing realities I reached and entered upon the field of labor assigned to me in Louisiana, and you will be prepared to imagine the amazement with which I viewed the situation when I present to you a description of this country, its resources and wants, extending from Cotile, on Red river, to Washington, on the Catableau, a distance of one hundred miles in length, and from Alexandria to Calcasieu river, a distance of thirty miles in breadth.

Here we have within these limits more than a million acres of the finest lands I ever saw. Only think of ten thousand acres in one unbroken front, and this a red loam twenty feet deep, and sure to last through all coming time. These lands, when properly tilled, will produce two thousand pounds of good sugar, or five hundred pounds of lint cotton, per acre, and with high farming the yield may be doubled. When you consider the fact that the owners of these lands are offering to furnish land well inclosed, with good houses and good cisterns, together with necessary farming implements and stock to work the land, forage for the stock, etc., all this; and then one-half the yield to the laborer, you must see at once that the inducements to immigration are very great indeed.

As to health, my observation has been that there are fewer deaths here than in any other region of my knowledge. In fact many persons, since the settling of this country, have attained to the advanced age of one hundred years, and there is now a living instance of a man in health, one hundred and twenty-six years old.

We have also a most wonderful variety of soil, from the high pine land to the rich loam and alluvial, so that the most fastidious may be suited. There is a great desire among the resident citizenship for an influx of population. I may safely say that within these bounds there is ample room for fifty thousand additional workers. It is the almost universal opinion of quite a number of intelligent gentlemen residing here, who have lived and traveled in the far-famed Texas, that this is a much better country than that. Although cotton and sugar are the staple growths here, yet such is the nature of our delightful climate and seasons that almost any of the productions of North America may be grown successfully here. In evidence of its adaptation to the growth of fruit, I have often seen, while traveling through this region, from twenty to thirty acres in a body well set with the finest wild grapes, which, as stated by these who have long lived here, when fenced, even in the pine woods, without clearing, will yield large profits. A gentleman right at my side now tells me that near this point there is in one body two or three hundred acres of high, black, sandy land, in the pine woods, well set with wild grapes. And I am assured, furthermore, by those who have made the proper tests, that wine made from this grape is not inferior in either quality or quantity to that made from the best cultivated grape.

I am told that on the little farms of this pine region there is often grown a bale of cotton per acre; and surrounding these small farms there are thousands of acres of public lands, which wait the coming of the people.

The lumber resources of this section are inexhaustible; and I often find myself, charmed by the beauties of nature, wandering far from any road, and, forgetful of time and distance, pause to think of the many beautiful homes the future will reveal. From these resources, developed and undeveloped, I now proceed to set forth the wants of this country; and, as before intimated, we want numbers. Only think of this vast region of four thousand square miles, abounding with streams of limpid water, whose lapse is quiet and noiseless as the travel of a star, and there is not one local preacher of our connection in all its bounds, while the whole country would hail with pleasure the coming of such men. To show the interest felt on this point, a gentleman of undoubted integrity proposes to give, rent free for one year, to any local preacher who will come and settle among us, thirty acres of as good land as Bayou Boeuf affords, with good residence and out-houses needed. This land will produce forty bushels of corn per acre, and not a root or stump in it. "Let him that heareth say come."

We have nine regular appointments on this circuit of one hundred and fifty miles, and loud calls for more. We have several new houses of worship in process of erection, and there would be more if there was any one to preach to the people. Our membership is steadily improving in numbers and in interest, now embracing some of the best citizens of the country. My coming among these people, so far as I can judge, has been appreciated beyond my most sanguine expectations. I am equally welcomed by Methodists, Baptists, Christians and Catholics. Our congregations are ascending beyond the years that are past.

As though impressed with the importance of multitudes, the brethren resolved, at our last quarterly meeting, to have a great camp meeting this fall, which, if held, will be the first for many years south of Red river.

Should any parties wish to know more of this country, let them address me at Cheneyville, Rapides parish, Louisiana.

Very truly, S. H. COOPER.

BAYOU BOEUF AND SPRING CREEK CT., July 10, 1872.

A GOOD IDEA.—The Methodist Recorder has the following sensible paragraph: "We generally omit from items of church news, obituaries, etc., such ejaculatory sentences as 'May the Lord bless such and such a brother, place or enterprise.' Our reason, we think, is orthodox and Methodistic. Prayers should be sent direct to the Lord. If they stray around by way of a printing office, they lose significance and spirituality. The brethren who have missed answers to certain petitions may attribute the fact to the wrong direction."

PEOPLE talk of originality. What do they mean? As soon as we are born the surrounding world begins to operate upon us, and so on to the end; and, after all, what can we truly call our own but energy, power and will? Could I point out all I owe to my great forerunners and cotemporaries, truly there would remain but little over.—Goethe.

ANY ONE can drift; but it takes prayer, religious principle, earnestness of purpose, constant watching to resist the evil of this world, to struggle against the tide.

RELIGION is an insurance against fire in the next world, for which truthfulness and honesty are the best policies.

AS A SHOEMAKER makes shoes, and a tailor coats, so should a Christian pray. Prayer is the Christian's business.

Obituaries.

HATTIE CORNELIA FLUKER, infant daughter of William L. and Sarah E. Fluker, was born in Wilcox county, Alabama, October 9, 1871, and died of cholera infantum, July 21, 1872. Weep not!

"For what you now deplore
Will rise in full, immortal prime,
And bloom to fade no more." ***

MISS EMMA REBECCA EDWARDS, daughter of W. S. and E. A. Edwards, was born in Sumpter county, Alabama, April 19, 1853, and died May 21, 1872, aged nineteen years, one month and two days.

Miss Emma's parents were both members of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. She made no outward profession of faith in Christ until a day or two before her death, at which time she expressed full assurance of peace with God and great joy, earnestly entreating those left behind to meet her in heaven. May her entreaty be heeded—they not delay, but be useful while living.

ROBERT RANDLE.

DEPARTED THIS LIFE, on the twenty-ninth of November, 1871, VICTORIA M., wife of J. B. Thompson, and daughter of Simeon and Mary Duke, of Jasper county, Mississippi, in the twenty-third year of her age.

She professed religion and joined the Baptist Church in 1863, and on the twenty-ninth of November, 1868, she became the happy and blooming bride of her now disconsolate and heart-broken husband, to whom she was ever an affectionate and dutiful wife. For some months previous to her death she often remarked to her husband and friends that she would not remain long in this vale of tears were bright. Home was the theater of her sweetest enjoyment. Her only aim was to make the home hearth the happiest spot on earth. She leaves a devoted husband and two sweet little children and many friends to mourn her loss.

It was our sad privilege to be with our dear sister in her last moments, and listen to her song of praise; and when she saw the angel of death approaching she submitted with Christian fortitude.

A FRIEND.

MRS. ELIZA ANDREWS, daughter of the late Thomas Jackson and Frances Richardson, was born in Sumner county, Tennessee, August 31, 1840. Her father moved to East Feliciana parish, Louisiana, in 1807. She was married to Mr. John Headry in 1821, and had four sons, three of whom survive her. Mr. Hendry died, and she remained a widow until 1840, when she was married to Mr. Elisha Andrews, by whom she had one child. She removed with her husband from East Feliciana parish to St. Helena, where she lost her husband in 1861. She joined the Baptist church at Hepsibah in 1831. The better part of her life was spent in the service of her Savior. With a religious experience ever bright, cheerful and earnest, she made her home attractive even to the irreligious. She died, singing and shouting praises to God, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. W. L. Thompson, March 26, 1872, of typhoid fever, after a painful illness of five weeks. The announcement of her death sent a pang of sorrow to many hearts, and called forth expressions of sympathy from a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

ONE WHO LOVED HER.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

In the Methodist Episcopal Sabbath school of Brandon, Mississippi, on Sunday, May 19, 1872, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, Our Heavenly Father hath in his wisdom taken from the walks of life one of the scholars of this Sabbath school, CHARLES DERRY RICHARDSON; and though we mourn his loss to us, to his family and to the world, yet we are consoled by the hope that one so pure in heart, so amiable in temper, so obedient and affectionate to parents and sisters, and so exemplary in his walk and conversation, is now enjoying the happiness in heaven which he had been taught in this school to believe was reserved for those who loved and served God. We knew him well. He had no enemy. All loved and respected him. And though he has gone from us never to return, we feel it to be our duty, as it is a melancholy pleasure, to bear public testimony to his moral worth, and to express our feelings at his loss; therefore,

Resolved, That in the death of Charles Richardson this school has lost one of its former scholars, whose exemplary life and character were conspicuous, and endeared him to the hearts of all connected with this school; that his fond parents have been deprived of a devoted and obedient son, his sisters of an affectionate brother, and the community of a youth of rare promise for future usefulness in the active pursuits of life.

Resolved, That we tender the bereaved family our sincerest sympathy in their irreparable loss.

Resolved, That these resolutions and preamble be preserved in the records of this school, and a copy be furnished the Brandon Republican and NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE for publication, and that a copy be sent the family of deceased.

JOSEPH WILSON, Superintendent.
P. E. WILLIAMS, Secretary.

THE REV. ALONZO D. BARLOW was born in Charleston, South Carolina, November 23, 1812, of French Huguenot parents. They died when he was but a boy, yet not before they had him dedicated to God in holy baptism. They were strong and staunch Protestants. They left wealth, but, as is often the case, the orphan never received any of it. For a time he lived with a gentleman in Key West, Florida, whose confidence in young Barlow led him to commit large business interests and money into his hands, sending him to Cuba frequently to carry out his plans. But after two or three years his health failed, and he returned to Charleston, where he was apprenticed to learn a trade, in which he excelled and to which he was devoted. To be true and faithful in all he undertook was his motto. While there he was led to join a Methodist Sunday school, and was soon led to a Methodist prayer meeting. Soon he was awakened to a sense of his condition as a sinner, and was led to seek salvation by faith in Christ, which occurred in his sixteenth year. The change realized was great, the work accomplished thorough, the evidence clear and distinct. They called him "the praying Barlow."

He went to New Orleans about 1842, and thence to Madisonville, Mississippi, about 1834. Here he labored at his trade and made money—at least had much due him when the financial crash came in 1840. That swept everything away and left him involved with debt. He availed himself of the benefit of the bankrupt act, but afterward paid every old debt. Industry, attention to business and economy, under the blessing of God, secured to him prosperity pecuniarily, so that he had accumulated a handsome property when the late war broke out. The results of that swept all, or nearly all, away, and reduced him to poverty. The greatest regret to him was that now he could not do for the church and cause of Christ as he had been able to do when he could command money. The poor and needy, too, failed to receive assistance from him as they had received in the years of his prosperity. Yet so far as self-denial or an extra effort could enable him to render them assistance, they received it. Many have had cause to call him blessed, because it is more blessed to give than to receive.

As a local preacher he labored as there were openings—mostly in such places as the regular pastors could not visit on Sundays—and was successful in bringing the people to Christ, and to organize churches, where regular pastoral services have been kept up. Not so logical as hortatory in most of his preaching—earnest and fervent—the people were moved to action under his labors. It was a matter of deep regret to him that he did not enter the regular pastoral work soon after he felt it to be his duty to preach. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Paine in December, 1847, and elder by Bishop Capers in November, 1853.

He died in Canton, Mississippi, June 5, 1872. During his sickness he expressed himself as being perfectly happy and resigned to the will of God, and longing for the home above!

We feel that the world and church are poorer by the loss of such a man. He gave us a good life and a good example. May we live the one and follow the other.

H. H. MONTGOMERY.

DEPARTED this transitory life, at his residence in DeSoto, Clark county, Mississippi, May 8, 1872, after a severe illness of four days, ROBERT MCGEWAN, Sr., aged sixty-five years, nine months and thirteen days.

The subject of this brief memoir was born in the State of Georgia, but moved with his family to Mississippi when he was quite a young man. His home, for many years after he came to this State, was near Columbus, Lowndes county. In January, 1853, he removed to Clark county, Mississippi, and settled on a beautiful farm some nine or ten miles northwest of DeSoto, where he remained till a short time previous to his death.

Our brother was a farmer all his matured life, and a most excellent one too. Being possessed of a large share of intelligence and native good sense, he did a large and thriving business up to the close of the late war. Since that time he has not been so successful, and, becoming wearied and disgusted with a business he could not make profitable, nor even self-sustaining, he sold out his beautiful plantation and removed to DeSoto, from whence, in a few brief months, he removed to his home in heaven.

Robert McGowan was for more than forty years a professor of religion, and an earnest, zealous member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He lived a blameless, orderly, exemplary life; so much so that the tongue of slander never dared assail his Christian character. He loved very dearly the church of his choice, and gave liberally of his means to support her cherished institutions, and make successful her benevolent enterprises. Another most beautiful characteristic of his was that he was a great lover of peace, and was always trying to promote it in the neighborhood where he lived, in the church to which he belonged, and between individuals of his acquaintance. He was emphatically a peacemaker, for whenever dissensions would arise among his neighbors or his brethren he never failed to put forth all his energies and influence to reconcile the contending parties.

He was happy at home, and had a happy family. His chief delight was to see his family and all around him happy, and he used every exertion in his power to make them so. He was an affectionate husband, and a most kind and indulgent father. Nevertheless, he ruled well his own house, and trained his children so as to make them feel that they were made for wise and noble and useful purposes. He enforced the lessons he taught them by his own example. The result of his family training is, that most of his children are members of the church and highly esteemed citizens of the country. The younger ones, not religious, promised him on his dying bed that they would join the church and strive to meet him in heaven.

The sickness that carried our dear brother to his long home was of short duration. He was attacked early on Saturday morning, and died the following Wednesday about six o'clock. From the first hour of his attack it was palpable that his dissolution was at hand. He felt it, and he told his family he was conscious he never should recover. As fast as his strength would enable him, he arranged all his temporal affairs, gave his dying blessing to his family, and summoned all his energies for the final struggle. The writer talked with him, prayed with him, and observed him closely almost up to the last hour of his life. He prayed earnestly, talked coherently, and met death intrepidly. He was often heard to repent, during his last hours, that most touching couplet that closes one of Mr. Watts' most beautiful hymns:

"Here, Lord, I give myself away;
'Tis all that I can do."

He leaves a devoted wife, seven surviving children, and a great many relations and friends to mourn their irreparable loss.

Affectionately inscribed to his memory by HIS PASTOR.

DIED, in Jackson, Mississippi, June 16, 1872, MRS. LOLA HINES, daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth Lumly.

Sister Hines was born in Salisbury, North Carolina, August 26, 1841. She was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South in April, 1861, under the pastorate of Rev. Whitefield Harrington, and was married to Bro. H. H. Hines on the twenty-sixth of May, 1867. Ever since she joined the church she has been a devout and consistent member. She loved the doctrines and discipline of the Methodist Church, though reared in the Presbyterian fold. While there was no bitterness in her heart toward other denominations of Christians, she was deeply devoted to every interest of the church of her choice. She was punctual in the discharge of her Christian duties, faithful and constant in her attendance on the means of grace when not prevented by ill health and family cares, an attentive listener to the word preached, and a practical Christian in the private walks of life. As a daughter, wife and mother she was scrupulously conscientious and exemplary. But how cold our words seem when we attempt a portraiture of her Christian character. A feeling of profound sorrow and sympathy shrouds all our hearts and has pervaded the entire community since last Sabbath evening, at half past five o'clock, when the death of this most estimable Christian lady was announced.

Her pastor visited her several times during her illness, repeatedly prayed with her, and always found her calm and hopeful; but not until Saturday, the fifteenth of June, was her case deemed critical. She then had a hemorrhage from the stomach, and all night grew rapidly worse. On Sunday morning she sent for her pastor, who went immediately in her bedside, and found her evidently dying. She looked up, and, recognizing him, remarked: "Bro. H., I am almost home, and I have sent for you to tell me just what I am to do. I have always tried to live so that I should be prepared for this hour. I have hope, but my way is not as bright as I wish it to be. I want to know for certain about the future." Said he: "You can do nothing now but trust your blessed Savior for what you wish. Commit yourself entirely to him, and believe his promise that he will not forsake you now." Her pastor again repeated to her: "If you, being evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more shall your Heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to them that ask him." She closed her eyes and prayed audibly for a few moments, and such a giving up of soul and body, for time and eternity, into the hands of a loving Savior, we never heard. She then remarked that for two years past she had read that sweetest and most consolatory of chapters—the fourteenth of St. John's gospel—every day, with other chapters, and this had comforted her heart.

From that time all fear was banished, all darkness fled. Certainty took the place of doubt, and her soul was filled with peace. She was full of the glorious hope of soon being in heaven, passed the solemn word of exhortation from one to the other of her weeping friends and relatives as they stood around her, and admonished them to meet her in heaven. About eleven o'clock she remembered that her little babe, about nine months old, was not baptized, and desired that it should be attended to. It was done at her bedside. She gave his name, Claude Eldridge, in a clear, firm voice. What a scene! and what a prayer of consecration went up to the throne that day from that dying mother's heart. She gave him to her husband and sister, with the charge to train him right and take care of him. Calm as the summer eve she passed away, quietly waiting until her change came; and when interrogated by her weeping husband, each time gave the calm assurance that all was right. Her faith failed not, and just before she breathed her last she lifted her hand, and, pointing upward, exclaimed with rapture in her every feature: "Home! Heaven! Happiness!" The church is poorer, the community has lost one of its brightest ornaments, but heaven has another accession to the pure and blood-washed throng in glory.

***

Salisbury (North Carolina) papers please copy.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 8, 1872.

WAITING BY THE RIVER.

I am waiting by the river,
And my heart has waited long;
Now I think I hear the chorus
Of the angels' welcome song;
Oh, I see the dawn is breaking
On the hill-tops of the blest,
"Where the wicked cease from troubling,
And the weary are at rest."

Far away beyond the shadows
Of this weary vale of tears,
There the tide of bliss is sweeping
Thro' the bright and changeless years;
Oh! I long to be with Jesus,
In the mansions of the blest,
"Where the wicked cease from troubling,
And the weary are at rest."

They are launching on the river
From the calm and quiet shore,
And they soon will bear my spirit
Where the weary sigh no more;
For the tide is swiftly flowing,
And I long to greet the blest,
"Where the wicked cease from troubling,
And the weary are at rest."

BURNING BIBLES IN ROME.

BY A CATHOLIC.

In this age of civilization, in this century of intelligence, in this day of Christian charity, and in this year of our Lord 1872, we still burn Bibles in Rome. By "we" I do not mean Christians of the Holy Catholic Church; but Roman Catholics. I personally repudiate and abjure Romanism as applied to Catholic faith and religion—therefore wash my hands of this crime; yet I must in duty hold up the sacrilege to the execration of indignant Christians, bowing in shame while they heap the sacred ashes burning upon my head, as well as others, as being of the household of the faithless.

This recent burning of Bibles took place at Frescati, the nearest town and summer resort of the Romans, which lies across the Campagna, in the lap of the Alban Hills, a half hour's ride by the train; and is, religiously speaking, held by the Jesuits. But the people of the town have manifested a great desire during the last year to possess and read the Bible, and the Protestant missionaries and ministers have given away and sold many hundred copies among them. Of course this was not long in coming to the knowledge of the priests, who have their party in charge and everybody in surveillance; and Bible hunting was soon made a specialty. When a sufficient number was found, a bonfire was made in the yard of the cathedral, the priests lighting the fire. It was a significant fact that the sacred pile was crowned by a portrait of the King, which altogether meant: Thus perish the persecutor of the church and the sum of all heresies—Victor Emanuel and the Bible!

An English Protestant minister of Rome, the Rev. Mr. Wall, being told of the sacrilegious act, went in person to see with his own eyes what he could scarcely believe from hearsay; and saw the smouldering pile and gathered up the fragments of the burnt word of God. It is this gentleman who had given me the facts, and also a burnt page, which I find to be from Matthew x, 15, 16: "Verily I say unto you, it shall be more tolerable for Sodom and Gomorrah in the day of judgment than for that city. Behold, I send you forth as sheep in the midst of wolves; be ye, therefore, wise as serpents and harmless as doves."

Now, we do not believe that these misguided and bigoted priests meant to insult God by this shameless act of destroying his holy word; but they meant to show their hatred of all Christian attempts to let the world know anything of him except what they choose, and what is indorsed by their party and their Pope, and printed by their infallible printing presses, and neither their party nor their Pope indorses the Bible, except with commentaries that condemn it! Nor do we attempt to deny that these Bible-burners are actuated by the same spirit that burnt such as I am—an accuser of priestly atrocities and papal heresies—three hundred years ago. It is the same old spirit that went "mad with zeal" in the Savior's time; and later on, inoculated with the Roman virus; developed into spiritual hydrophobia, and even now it cannot bear the sight of the living water.

And no one knows what papal infallibility and the Syllabus mean who can doubt but that their founders and framers would force us to repentance, if they could—if not with the fagot and thumbscrew, at least with the tender arm of civil law, and prison walls, with bread and water. They dare not, because they cannot. Advancing civilization, science and culture, national unity and international harmony, with the Oriental and Anglican schisms and the Luther's Reform, and, over and above all, the spreading of the word of God, has slowly but surely changed these things; and we can to-day, thank God, live and move, walk the streets unmolested, sleep undisturbed, assemble for prayer, and read our Bible in Rome! But it was not a hundred years ago that we could not do these things—not fifty, nor five, nor two years, until the twentieth of next September!

There was one consoling episode connected with this Bible burning that we cannot omit to record, as it shows that even in the darkest crimes of superstition and bigotry the public sentiment of justice is not entirely obliterated. The boys of the streets, the ragamuffins of Frescati, being witnesses of the impious act, and feeling something of the sentiment of abhorrence and condemnation of sacrilege that must be inherent in every baptized child, stoned the priests that lighted the fire. There is hope for that town. Those poor, ignorant, ragged boys of Frescati will vote some day; and they will never forget the Bibles and the portrait of their King that they saw burnt in the yard of the cathedral by the priests!

It is only now and then that the hidden contest that is raging between light and darkness comes to the surface of society and takes on the form of a battle or an event. Yet the great combat is going on and increasing daily; and one of the most important of the great silent conflicts that is stirring the dominion of Rome is the conflict of the Rosary and the Bible. Time will tell which will be the victor, and which the guide of life and the consolation of the soul—the ten thousand times ten thousand Ave Marias repeated on strings of beads, or the reading of the word of God.

The Protestant ministers have become embarrassed, in turn, not knowing what to do with the rosaries, relics, scapulars, unprofitable books, and the various other objects that make up the petite devotion of many Catholics, which have been given up to them by persons convinced of the uselessness of these things. One of the missionaries, possessing a large stock of these "religious objects," asked my advice as to their disposition. I told him, whatever he did, not to burn them, as bonfires were bad precedents; and that it seemed to me the best thing to do, for the persons who scrupled about returning these objects, would be to give or send them back to their priests, simply and respectfully saying that they had no further use for them. All things should be done in a respectful manner. Charity, charity! As I rewrite this last blessed word I put the test to myself. Perhaps I was a little too indignant against those priests that burnt the Bibles, and a little too glad that the boys threw stones at them. If I was, may God and the priests and the boys forgive me; but, nevertheless, the act was ignoble, infamous and sacrilegious! I am sorry for the priests who burnt those Bibles. I am sorry for the people who gave them up. I am sorry for Rome. I am sorry for the church. I am sorry for myself.

But as the blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church, so the flames of those Bibles burnt in Rome, while they reveal the thick gloom that prevails here, will help to dispel the darkness of Italy and enlighten the world; and their ashes, borne by the winds of heaven, will enrich the seed that is being sown broadcast throughout the earth, and the fruit shall be better and more abundant. God grant there may be harvesters enough to gather it in.—Independent.

ROME, ITALY, June 5, 1872.

HASTE AND HEALTH.—It is not at all wholesome to be in a hurry. Locomotives have been reported to have moved a mile in a minute for short distances. But locomotives have often come to grief by such great rapidity. Multitudes in their haste to get rich are ruined every year. The men who do things maturely, slowly, deliberately, are the men who oftenest succeed in life. People who are habitually in a hurry generally have to do things twice over. The tortoise beats the hare at last. Slow men seldom knock their brains out against a post. Foot races are injurious to health, as are all forms of competitive exercise; steady labor in the field is the best gymnasium in the world. Either labor or exercise, carried to exhaustion or prostration, or even great tiredness, expressed by "fagged out," always does more harm than the previous exercise has done good. All running up stairs, to catch up with a vehicle or ferry-boat are extremely injurious to every age and sex and condition of life. It ought to be the most pressing necessity which should induce a person over fifty to run twenty yards. Those live longest who are deliberate, whose actions are measured, who never embark in any enterprise without "sleeping over it," and who perform all the every-day acts of life with calmness. Quakers are proverbially calm, quiet people, and Quakers are a thrifty folk, the world over.—Dr. Hall.

Oh! when our sun is setting, may we glide,
Like summer evening, down the golden tide;
And leave behind us, as we pass away,
Sweet, starry twilight round our sleeping clay!

AT THE Yarmouth mills, in Maine, brown paper is made from spruce logs in twenty-four hours.

STEALING SERMONS.

We do not refer to that wholesale thieving, of this description, which is habitually committed in the attendance at the sanctuary of persons who, abundantly able to bear their fair pecuniary share of the necessary expenses of public worship, wholly decline to contribute the same; but to that retail form of the vice which is now and then practiced by the preacher himself. An illustration comes to us just now from Australia, where a Presbyterian minister has been cited before the proper church court on the charge of "preaching sermons other than his own composition." It is not, we grieve to say, very long since complaint of the same offense was made against a person occupying a Congregational pulpit much nearer home than Australia.

Over and above being wicked, stealing sermons is about the meanest and most unprofitable species of larceny. To appropriate without credit a discourse no better than the thief could write himself, would be an offense so motiveless as to be incredible in the case of a sane man. While to pilfer one that is decidedly above his own average is—as a pure piece of policy, waiving its moral aspect—a weakly, irrational act. Will he keep on cribbing, and so every Sunday broaden the chances of detection? or will he drop back to his own level, and so confirm the suspicions which his great flight was calculated to excite?

The kind of talk with which we have sometimes heard a defense of this crime attempted is sickeningly silly.

"A man is excusable for giving the best he can to his congregation." Yes, the best he can. But his congregation could hire a schoolmaster to read the most eloquent sermons ever printed for a tenth part of what they pay; and they have covenanted with their pastor to do his own best, and not another man's.

"One is bound to preach what he thinks will do the most good." Yes, but at the same time a Christian man ought to know that to tell a lie as many times as there are words in a sermon, which is what a minister practically does who undertakes to preach another man's discourse as his own—is not a procedure reasonably calculated to do the most good in the domain of morals and religion.

"If judiciously selected, it is not at all likely to be found out; and it will be a great treat to the people." The latter may be true. Most likely it would be; for the habitual efforts of that style of intellect which lacks the power to conceive of the decalogue as operative upon ministerial conduct, would not be likely to be of a very high order. But the fact is that such a theft is very apt to be found out, indeed providentially apt to be.

But all that needs to be said upon such a subject surely is to stigmatize its essential immorality. People do expect their ministers, having availed themselves of all reasonable previous aid, to give them in the pulpit their own thoughts in their own language. And to fail to do this is dishonest in the minister. He wants to cheat his hearers into thinking he is more clever than he is. He tries to stand on a false pretense, in the very act of warning from all falsehood—for this all true preaching must be.

We did once know a minister who put in another plea than any above noted, for preaching one of Mellville's sermons. He said he was too lazy to write one of his own, and so copied a "Golden Lecture" verbatim. His statement staggered our faith. We would rather write three new sermons than to copy one—looked at merely as an act of manual labor, and from the standpoint of laziness. We asked him why he didn't dodge the labor of copying, and read from the printed leaves. He replied that "it wouldn't look well from the galleries." Which remark shed all the light we cared to have upon this man's own inward conviction of the real morality of the procedure.—Congregationalist.

WHAT IS RITUALISM?

We propose to state exactly what Ritualism is. We shall not here discuss its right or its wrong, its wisdom or its folly; we shall merely state it. It is the worship of Christ, God and man, on the altar, under the forms of bread and wine. The purpose of all the ceremonial, which has created so much discussion, so much scandal, so much confusion in the church, has been to introduce that worship. The question of Ritualism is not a question of the manner of worship, but of the object of worship. Having decided on the object, the manner necessarily follows—all the decorations of the altar, all the dresses, all the gestures, have reference to the object of worship. It is claimed that our communion service is only truly celebrated with reference to that object—Christ under the form of bread and wine. Some while since, in some communications in the New York Herald, a writer on the Ritualistic side, professing to speak for the party, took exactly the line of argument and explanation we have taken here. It was written to show that the Ritualists were not children nor fools; that they were not undergoing "persecution" for the sake of a candlestick or a stole; that in themselves these were trifles; what people ordinarily understood by Ritualism—the forms only—was only folly; that the real thing was underneath, and the ceremonial only its outward symbolism, and that that thing was the adoration of God under the form of bread and wine. The whole defense of Ritualism, then, as a means of adding to "the glory and beauty" of divine service, as an increase of solemnity or dignity to such service, was only for the sake of gaining toleration for the time. The real question is the question of eucharistic adoration, of introducing a specific sort of worship, which is certainly new to churchmen of this generation. The ceremonial has all its value from reference to the object. Ritualism, we repeat, then, is the worship of God under the form of bread and wine on the altar. "Eucharistic vestments," candles, prostrations, genuflexions, elevations, bowings and turnings to the altar, all grew up in the first case around that worship, and are its expression. That worship gives them all their meaning now, and this is the declaration of those, both in England and America, who have the right to speak for the "Ritualistic party." The introduction of that worship is the purpose of that "party."—Church Journal, New York.

WANTING ADVICE.

Thus saith the Christian Union: It is very pleasant and profitable to receive letters, giving the ripest views of people of elegant leisure on the proper method of conducting a journal. Probably the failure of almost all the unsuccessful papers may be traced to the lack of advice. We have reaped inestimable advantages from this friendly intervention. When we were informed that the facetious features of our paper were not in the least funny, we were enabled through this valuable suggestion to commit that entire department to a gentleman who has taken a full course in one of our first theological seminaries, and no further complaints on that subject are forthcoming.

We hope to accomplish the same improvements in the matter of style, which occasionally exercises the pure mind of some correspondent from the remoter districts. It is a mere question of time and a more perfect acquaintance with the wishes of our subscribers. All styles are alike to this editorial staff. Our steady gait is Milton's prose, but we are quite willing to drop, in a friendly way, into the once popular methods of Macaulay, Washington Irving or Charles Lamb. Of course all these cannot be given in any single issue. The gentleman who does the Johnsonese was furloughed to play the big drum at the Boston Jubilee, and the Addison man has gone a-fishing for the summer. The Carlylist and the Browningonian, too, are not allowed outside the Puzzle department. Still, much can be done with those who remain. Let us have light. Advice is what we want. One hundred and twenty-nine thousand nine hundred and fifty subscribers still to be heard from. Keep on writing.

IN A CERTAIN Western village once lived a cordwainer, whose fault-finding properties had won for him a cognomen of "Old Growler." Opposite his shop was the store of a merchant, who enjoyed getting off a joke at the expense of his surly neighbor. So one morning, when a stranger came into the store in search of a pair of boots and found none to fit, the obliging shop-keeper informed him that may be "Old Growler" across the way could fit him with a pair. Over the way he went, and asked: "Mr. Growler, can you fit me to a pair of boots?" The cordwainer, irate at thus being trifled with, instantly sprang to the door, and applied his own boot to the person of the offender with such force as to effect his speedy exit from the room, at the same time mildly inquiring: "How does that pair fit?"

FORETHOUGHT.—Mamma: "Well, Johnny, I shall forgive you this time, and it's very pretty of you to write a letter to say you're sorry." Johnny: "Yes, ma; don't tear it up, please." Mamma: "Why, Johnny?" Johnny: "Because it will do for next time."—Judy.

THE EDITOR of a country paper, having received a bank note detector, returns thanks, and modestly asks for some bank notes upon which to test its accuracy.

ON RECEIVING the decoration of the order of St. Stanislus from the Czar of Russia, the artist Bierstadt simply remarked: "Huz Czar!"

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

A BAPTIST CHURCH of sixteen members was organized at Salt Lake City on May 1. It is served by the Rev. Sewall Brown, who is also pastor of a church at Evansville, Wyoming Territory.

THE General Synod of the Reformed Church in America (Dutch,) lately in session in Brooklyn, appointed a committee to consider the subject of union with the Southern Presbyterian Church.

IN HOF the unusual sight was seen of a Catholic priest ministering before a Protestant altar, of a Protestant organist playing, and a choir of both confessions singing the service of the mass.

THE recent Primitive Methodist Conference of Canada established the salaries of married ministers as follows: Besides house rent, part furniture, and children's allowance, in cities, $650; in towns, $550; and in country stations, $450 and their fuel.

THE Canada Presbyterians have a mission at Prince Albert settlement on the Saskatchewan, where are one hundred and sixteen persons. The morning service, in English, is attended by about seventy persons. They appear to be of mixed race, as it is said that much progress has not been made with the pure Indians. The mission property is estimated at $5,000.

CHRISTIAN TRAINING.—The Moravians, who select their mission fields among the most hopeless people, are successfully carrying on Christian labors among the aborigines of Australia. Their religious services and Sunday schools are well attended, and the people are abandoning their evil customs and superstitions, and beginning to practice the habits of civilized life and industry.

WATER PROVIDED.—The Moravian states that after many discouragements and great difficulties, the building of the cistern for the use of the Hospital for Lepers, at Jerusalem, has been completed. During the dry season water, which is an especial necessity in such a hospital, can only be obtained there at high prices. The hospital is full of lepers, several of whom are Christians.

LIBERAL EDUCATION.—One-fifth of the students of the graduating class at Dartmouth College, New Hampshire, or fourteen out of sixty-nine, are Roman Catholics. This mingling of Protestant and Romanist young men, not only in our public schools, but in the more advanced institutions of learning, cannot fail to liberalize the mind, and to break down the narrow and bitter prejudices which, if fostered, lead to bigotry and sectarian hate.

AT THE recent union meeting of the three religious societies of Harvard College, Rev. Edward E. Hale said that the two greatest miracles of modern times are the grand success of the Methodist movement which saved Protestantism to the world, and the American Board of Foreign Missions, which is fulfilling Christ's command to preach the gospel to every creature; both of which movements originated in the consecration of college students.

BRITISH BENEVOLENCE.—Christian Work for June gives the income for the past year of the leading benevolent societies that have recently held their anniversaries, making an aggregate of £1,450,000, or $7,250,000. The two leading publication societies, the British and Foreign Bible Society and the Religious Tract Societies reported $1,530,000; 11 foreign missionary societies, $3,218,700; 11 home missionary societies, $1,060,000; 6 Colonial, Continental and Jewish missions, $409,000; 8 educational societies, $536,000, and 26 miscellaneous societies, $497,000.

IT IS SAID that there is no place on the globe where Jews live where the gospel is not preached, and the gospel among them has secured many trophies. Of 30,000 Jews living in London, 2,000 are members of Christian churches. Of 18,000 in Berlin, 2,000 are said to be converted; in the University, three years ago, 28 were Christian Jews. The total number of Jews in Europe is reckoned at 3,431,700, and of these 20,000 are reckoned as Christian converts. In the Episcopal Church in England 100 ministers are said to be of Jewish birth.

THE experiment of founding a boarding place or home for young women, tried recently by the Women's Christian Association of Philadelphia, has proved a success.—Nearly forty young persons enjoy its benefits, and it is self-supporting. An eating-house, with reading room and facilities for rest, was opened under the auspices of the association on the fourth of June. This building also has accommodations for women coming to the city as strangers, and needing a temporary home, and also an employment department, where persons wishing situations may find them, and persons wishing to employ such may be a[illegible] to do so.

ACCORDING to the North German Gazette, there are in Prussia 97 religious orders of men and congregations, containing in all 1,069 members. Of these there are 11 houses of the Jesuits, with 160 members; and 5 houses of Redemptorists, with 69. In Bavaria there are 71 convents, composed of 1,045 members; and in the Grand Duchy of Hesse Darmstadt 4, with 29. The entire number of female orders and associations in Prussia is 626 establishments, with 5,586 religious, or about 1,800 above the number in 1865. Bavaria has 188 establishments, with 2,533 members. The convents of males are mainly under the control of superiors of Italian nationality, though there are a number with French superiors.

IN SCOTLAND there is still a small but steady body of the old Camerenians, honored for its adherence to the Covenant. This synod includes about 7,000 communicants. The late synod reports an advance in contributions and a small increase in membership during the year. One of the discouraging features is that the young people are strongly inclined to unite with other denominations. It must be said, to the credit of this synod, that in proportion to its numbers, it does more in foreign missionary work than any other branch of the Presbyterian Church. At its last meeting action was taken condemnatory of the treatment of George H. Stuart, by the Reformed Presbyterian Synod of the United States in 1869.

ACCORDING to the World, Prince Kassa, of Abyssinia, successor of the famous Theodore, has recently written a remarkable letter to the Homeward Mail, ostensibly addressed to the English government and people, in which he complains bitterly of the annoyances to which he is subjected by the intrigues of the Roman Catholic clergy, acting under French influence. He says they impede the collections of his taxes; harbor his enemies, and, though he has several times given them orders to leave his country, "it is all of no use; they will still force their religion on his people and teach them to look to them as their king." He complains, too, that Mr. Munzinger, the French consul at Massowah, had written him a letter, in which he says: "If you do not let the Roman Catholic priests teach their religion in your country, you know that I took the English troops to Magdala and destroyed King Theodore and all his people; and you, if you do not like to receive the Roman Catholic priests, you shall be destroyed, like King Theodore."

SINCE the Pope's present troubles commenced it is said that he has received from Italians alone contributions amounting to over thirty millions of francs. A Dublin paper says that 985,500 francs were collected for the Pope in June and July; and, as these figures are given by the president of the "Society of Catholic Youth" in Italy, it would appear as if this enormous sum came from that country alone. The same paper, the Dublin Crusader, attributes the defeat of the proposed amendments to the Swiss constitution, the clerical gains in the recent Belgian elections, and the clerico-Carlist rising in Spain to the action of associations. Bismarck had best be stirring, if such be the might of Catholic religious unions. In the light of these facts we may, perhaps, be able to see dimly the meaning of Pio Nono, when, in a speech recently addressed to the German Literary Club, of Rome, he said, after complaining of Bismarck's action against the bishops and the Jesuits: "Let us pray to our Father in heaven that the stone may fall which will complete the overthrow of the Colossus."

FOREIGN MISSIONS.—The last meeting of the Board of Managers, says the New York Christian Advocate, was one of unusual interest. The reinforcement of India was ordered, and two active men are to go to the relief of our hardly-pressed band of missionaries. In addition, two will be sent to India, with directions to stop, until otherwise ordered, with Bro. William Taylor in Bombay. The office and the board were most hearty and entirely unanimous in the judgment that the church could not delay in entering the door so suddenly and strangely opened. Cheering reports come from some parts of our Scandinavian missions. Indeed, in our organized missions abroad there are signs of prosperity which ought to cheer the hope and strengthen the faith of the church. Bro. Hall writes from Kin Kiang, China, that the door has been opened, that a number of converts appear well established, and await anxiously baptism and admission into the church. Among these are some of the literary class, who, if faithful, will prove of great service to the infant church. There is also a flourishing school, and the Lord gives the cause favor in the eyes of [illegible] Esq., [illegible]ple of the city. Brother and [illegible]aldwin expect soon to leave [illegible] Celestial Empire; they will [illegible]e of the Western Conference on the route, and we hope Bro. Baldwin will be called upon to bear a hand in the anniversaries. They will sail from San Francisco, October 1.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 8, 1872.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.
ROBT. J. HARP, PUBLISHER.

OFFICE--No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. HARP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR ALABAMA CONFERENCE:
REV. W. A. McCARTY.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
A. W. LAMPKIN, ESQ.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR, D. D.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

REDUCTION.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers hereafter at the following rates:

For One Year	$2 00
For Six Months	1 25
For Three Months	75

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

to all ministers of the gospel, traveling or local, and widows of deceased traveling preachers.

FREE ONE YEAR

to any person forwarding to us four new yearly subscribers with EIGHT DOLLARS.

WEEK OF PRAYER.

It is recommended by the Bishops of the church that the week of August 11–18 he observed for special religious services throughout our communnion—the Friday included, as a day of fasting.

The following objects are set forth, upon which our prayers and supplications may be united:

That the Lord would send more laborers into his vineyard.

For his blessing upon our institutions of learning, and the conversion of the young.

For the increase of his kingdom among men.

A QUALIFICATION TO BE USED.

Parents have in themselves one of the best and most available qualifications for the guidance and discipline of their children. The secret of much wisdom is in recalling accurately and truly what they were themselves in the different periods of their childhood life. They may take it for granted that their children are very much as they were at the same age. It is through their own experience that they are to obtain the clearest insight of the character and dispositions with which they have to deal. Let the mother bring back her girlhood, and she can then understand the daughters growing up around her. Let the father brighten up the memories of his boyhood, and he can then comprehend and minister to the boy natures under his roof. Parents can go back to the root of their own earliest consciousness, and revive the mental and religious states, the first impressions and emotions which stirred the soul. They can travel over again the days and years of their childhood and youth, and thus reproduce in their own minds and hearts precisely what is going on in the thoughts and feelings of their children.

By this retrospective process they will know the heart, the entire nature of a child, and he put in intelligent sympathy with the young. Going back in their own history, the inner life, the good influences of the Holy Spirit, the wrong tempers and propensities, and the entire development of their early years will pass before them. The effects of certain methods of training and instruction will stand out in bold relief, and with sadness, it may be, they will see where their own parents and instructors made the most serious mistakes. They will recall periods in their earlier childhood wherein proper instruction and encouragement would have led them, with little knowledge of sin and no love of vice, to a genuine and hopeful religious experience. But they were not understood, the yearnings of the childish soul after God were not apprehended, and the first and sweetest flowers of piety were crushed. In this way they can best estimate parental influence—its defects and its excellencies. The withering and death-dealing power of harsh words, ill-governed temper, and correction administered in the heat of irritation and passion, will appear. Likewise the baneful consequences of all uncharitable and censorious talk. The effects of a right example, of consistent piety, and of a just and discreet discipline will be brought out even more clearly than when their benign influences were first shed upon them. Without these recollections of themselves there must ever be a vast gulf between parents and their children. There can be no true knowledge of the child's character, capacities and wants where parents ignore their own past history and experience; and, what is still worse, they are utterly incapable of sympathy with the young.

The power to put themselves in the place of their children is the golden rule in the art of training. Without this power to enter into the workings of the mind, the weakness and imperfections of the conscience, the disordered tempers, and the peculiar temptations and passions of childhood and youth, parents are wanting in the most important of qualifications. It is, however, a guide which they do not always invoke. Many seem to have forgotten that they were ever children, and the precious lessons which they ought to have gathered from this most accessible volume of experience are altogether lost. They know nothing but their mature selves, and their views of the child are necessarily distorted and false. Their management and training, without the light which a recollection of their own childhood affords, are full of the most serious errors. The Israelites knew the heart of a stranger, because they had been strangers themselves in Egypt; but there are parents who know not the heart of a child, though they have been children. The patience, considerateness and sympathy which this knowledge alone can supply are lacking. So far from being able to become young, they cannot remember that they ever were so. They know of children only what they see and hear—their outward and phenomenal nature; but nothing of the real nature—the hidden springs and intrinsic elements of child character. Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard. This knowledge enters not into the heart save through the recollection of ourselves. We must go back and restore the past, especially the inward life — the thoughts, feelings and spiritual impressions, and analyze them with care. It will perhaps require patient attention and effort, but the results will pay a thousand fold.

In the father's dealings with his sons it would be of advantage for him to remember just what he was at their age, what were his thoughts, pleasures, aspirations and dangers. Only thus is he prepared firmly, wisely and tenderly to guide them through the swift and perilous rapids of youth. When the mother watches with natural solicitude over her daughters, it would help her, far more than mere books or advice, to restore the inner-life portrait of her own girlhood, and to read in that the revelations of their real character and wants. The parents' childhood and youth are in this view essential preparations for the parental relation. The memory of them supplies the knowledge and sympathy which they need; but this memory may be a book unread and neglected. The text may be perverted, and, like holy writ, be wrested to disastrous results; but it is nevertheless true. The thoughtful Christian parent will gain only good. Errors and blunders in his own raising will be avoided, and he will be more likely to take a healthful and hopeful view of those whom it is his lot to bring up "in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." Neither will the application lead to laxness or indifference in discipline; but while government is divested of passion and weakness, it will be directed and controlled by intelligence and love.

PAYSON SAYS: "When we meet in heaven we shall see how little we knew about it on earth."

REFRESHING TESTIMONY.

The following paragraphs, taken from Episcopal sources, exhibit a hopeful and gratifying tendency, and administer a wholesome and timely rebuke to high church folly. The Episcopal Record administers as follows to the "crack-brained chivalry" of certain ecclesiastical Cervantes:

Of all the cants that are canted in this canting age, the most truly ridiculous is the cant of churchmanship. That mainly and unobtrusive preference for the ecclesiastical economy beneath which their religious hopes and principles have been nurtured, in which very sensible people sometimes indulge, although not always in good taste, is ever worthy of being treated with respect. But this church canting never. It is simply ridiculous, and ought always to be met with a quiet indifference. It is that in which our juvenile theologists, whether in petticoats or pantaloons, invariably indulge whenever they undertake to enlighten the world upon such topics. They are alike in this respect, whether æsthetical young gentlemen in our seminaries or sentimental boarding school misses, who have just left their mammas, it matters not. Sexes make no difference, except that the critic who wears crinoline is usually more romantic, and the one in broadcloth somewhat more warlike in his tendencies. The latter never speaks of "the church" as if it were what the article declares it to be, "a society of faithful men," but some female divinity, to whom worship is to be paid. They generally do it too in the style of the celebrated Knight of La Mancha, who, when speaking of his fair one, "del Totoso," always began with rhapsodies concerning her peerless beauty, and ended with a challenge to all men either to acknowledge her superiority or to meet him in mortal combat. Oh! for the advent of some ecclesiastical Cervantes to put the cap and bells upon this folly, and laugh it out of the church! We trust, however, from the late Glengarry manifestations and other things, which have since happened in the same line, that the age of crack-brained chivalry is passing away.

An illustration of these remarks may be found in a little book which appeared a good many years ago, and lately reappeared, we believe, in a new edition called "Fewell" (whatever that may mean,) by one of the professors at Nashotah. We do not pretend to so much virtuous self-denial as would have enabled us to read the whole book. We have seen enough of it, however, to be able to assure any concerned that neither its spirit nor its literature is particularly calculated to command respect.

Church and State, in an article on Comparative Piety, gives utterance to such sentiments as these:

We have put the question many times to church people, What, in your opinion, are the spiritual fruits of your church, as compared with those of other denominations? And the reply, as a rule, has been, "We think they compare favorably," while in no instance have they given it as their opinion that the advantage is in their favor.

Now, put the same question to members of other denominations, and we believe the reply will be: "We not only think that the spiritual fruits of our own will compare favorably with those of the Episcopal Church, but we think them superior."

Is this, then, the inference? The churchman shall glory in his church, but is less positive about the fruits, while others are confident of the fruits, and say less about the church. How is this? Is it that honest judgment which each, in the consciousness of its weakness, passes upon itself? This we may not decide; but we think it at least a misfortune, if the church is more certain about its ritual and worship than about Christian lives.

In our opinion, churchmen owe it to themselves to say less about the church till they can speak more confidently of Christly lives; less about apostolic succession and more about apostolic piety. We can afford all things sooner than have men question that.

Churchmen often express a wish that members of other Christian bodies—is that the word?—know more about the church. Do they know that these self-same "bodies" sometimes wish that churchmen knew more about religion? We would devoutly wish, indeed, that each knew more about the other, for then they should find much to admire and to inspire a mutual confidence; but certain we are that there is no throwing stones at the sects, which are not likely to be thrown back with as telling effect.

For ourselves we feel disposed to welcome the good fruits whenever we find them. If they are more abundant in our church, we are heartily glad; if not, we should love to do what we may to make them more so. In this bad world we should welcome the figs, even if grown on thistles; but we have it on high authority that figs are not produced in that unnatural way.

That the Episcopal Church is an instrument of usefulness and power should never be questioned, and could never be questioned by those who know its history; but if there is a basis of truth in the remark that its religion is more a matter of form than piety, the church should bestir itself to prove it false.

We are glad to find such plain and evangelical views prevailing in this quarter. Some weeks ago we were called to notice the scurrilous misrepresentations of a bigoted high church organ. It is gratifying to know that there is a leaven of a better sort at work in the Protestant Episcopal Church. May it spread until the whole becomes a new lump, and until the unclean spirit of exclusiveness shall be altogether cast out.

THE SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY.

We take the following extract from a communication written to the Southern Argus by Rev. D. C. B. Connerly. After a glowing and graphic description of the recent commencement exercises at Greensboro, Bro. Connerly says:

Thus closed the exercises of the commencement of the great Southern University, the general "make up" of which entitles the occasion to be styled a success.

The college lacks an audience room, which is a great annoyance to speakers and hearers. What a pity that when any one has a job to execute only once in a life, or for an age, that he does not make that job a good one. The same money expended on that room, wisely directed by some one understanding acoustics, might have erected a hall whose very resoundings would have been eloquence itself. The greatest drawback to the University is that which cramps the whole South—impecuniosity. With an endowment such as she ought to have, and with four more such teachers and workers as Drs. Andrews and Summers, Jr., Profs. Moore and Casey, she would rise to the dignity and power of a great University—a position she can never reach without money and work and patronage; but which three last she ought to have. The faculty, for the number engaged, is a strong team, and they pull well together.

The society of Greensboro, for refinement and high morality, is unsurpassed. The town is accessible by rail in one direction, and soon will be in another. The Southern University is the pet of thousands of Methodists; it has been the recipient of nearly or quite a quarter of a million of dollars; it has been the subject of countless prayers; and yet for all these things she does not have the sympathy and the students that her friends think she ought to have. What is the matter? Nothing but the poverty of our people. When they get rich, our colleges will then be filled to overflowing.

Your correspondent hopes to see the day when all the colleges, especially those that take boys into them before they are prepared, will have as many students as they desire. As things now stand, we have too many colleges and not enough grammar schools or academies.

Bidding good-by to our Greensboro friends, scores of visitors returned in high glee to Selma, where we all rested, and then soon parted, each taking his own road home.

KENTUCKY METHODISM.

Bishop Wightman has recently ended a tour of visitation in Kentucky. From his letter in the Nashville Christian Advocate we make the following extract:

I cannot allow myself to suppose that the Methodist Church in Kentucky is equal in point of efficiency and weight of influence, and consecration of property to the cause of Christ, to her advantages and the means she commands. It would be pleasant to believe that by the "effectual working in the measure of every part," all the agencies she controls were doing the best and utmost in them to edify the church and extend the spiritual kingdom of the Redeemer. But I think there would be no mistake in affirming that after a sharp struggle of some few years with prevailing and boastful forms of error, the Wesleyan theology occupies to-day a position it never before held in the country. There can be little doubt that on the part both of the ministry and membership, the hold on the great spiritual elements of the gospel, not only as matters to be embraced intellectually, but to be realized in a constant and joyous experience, is as firm as ever. Let any one attend a District Conference love-feast, and he shall hear a testimony as distinct and pronounced, as to the power and comfort and hopes of spiritual religion as ever. I think, too, that the decided tendency of the pulpit is in the direction of plain, earnest, spiritual preaching, rather than the handling of those themes which involve airy speculation, or which affect the imagination more powerfully than the conscience.

I was delighted to make the acquaintance, in all parts of Kentucky, of laymen of princely spirit—true and firm in their attachment to the church, ready to devote time and influence and money to the service; men who would have graced any period of Christian history, and been the worthy representatives of the highest excellence of Christian character. And as to the women, I have seen nowhere a manifestation of such deep interest in the operations of the church as among the ladies of Kentucky. At the Annual Conferences and at the district meetings they attended in crowds. Our civilization is safe, our Christianity is safe, so long as the women of the country are pure, intelligent, pious.

A SUGGESTION.

MR. EDITOR: Among the subjects recommended by the Bishops for our consideration during the week of prayer is: "God's blessing on our institutions of learning." Every one will at once see the wisdom and propriety of this recommendation; and all the congregations should most religiously remember this important, this vital interest during that week.

Now the suggestion is this: That on Sunday, the eleventh instant, this subject be made the theme of pulpit discourse, and that the people be asked to contribute the encouragements of money, as well as the benefits of prayer. I do sincerely hope that in the two Alabama Conferences, at least, the occasion will take this practical shape.

In this State we have five colleges, one male and four female, and, from what we see in the papers, I reckon there are perhaps seventy-five or eighty non-paying pupils in regular attendance. Most of these are, doubtless, young preachers, and the sons and daughters of itinerants. Greensboro alone, it is said, has twenty-one. The tuition of these young men and women was once provided for by endowments. But the endowments were lost in the war. Now is it right to let that tuition go unpaid? Can the schools carry such loads? Ought not the church to assist the professors to bear this burden? And, above all, should the preachers, who themselves are the largest beneficiaries of the labors of these professors, stand back on their dignity and refuse to ask the church to aid in this thing? Are there not laymen enough in Huntsville, Athens, Tuscumbia, Decatur, Tuskaloosa, Talledega, Opelika, Tuskegee, Auburn, Eufaula, Union Springs, Greenville, Milton, Mobile, Demopolis, Uniontown, Dayton, Selma, Prattville, Montgomery, Wetumpka, and other towns and neighborhoods, to pay all this tuition and never feel it? There are men who will give $25, or $50, or $100 each, for a number of years, no doubt, if approached properly. And there are churches which would take stock in such an important enterprise. Come, brethren, let us see what we can do. Our children are in these colleges, or will be there soon. Let us appeal to the individual members, and to the congregations. And let the subscription embrace a series of years. It will be good to pray for the institutions of learning, but it will be better to both pray and give. Let all do so on the eleventh.

ALABAMA.

IT IS ONLY NECESSARY for us to mention that Centenary College has an advertisement in the ADVOCATE, where our readers will find all the information they can wish concerning this well-known institution. The preachers of the Louisiana and the Mississippi Conferences especially will, we doubt not, bestir themselves in sending forward students for the approaching session. President C. G. Andrews has approved himself as the very man for the place, and inspires universal confidence and love.

FROM A STATEMENT made by Dr. Redford in the last Nashville Advocate, it appears that a clerk in the postoffice, and also W. P. Hill, one of the employes of the Publishing House, have been detected in the act of abstracting letters and money from the mails of the Publishing House.

WE THANK the brethren for their kind invitations to attend District Conferences, camp meetings and other occasions of interest. That we do not come is not for lack of desire, nor that we do not appreciate these manifestations of courtesy. With the duties of editing the ADVOCATE, and the work of the district on us, we have scarcely a day to devote to other engagements. Bro. Harp, with the business department of the paper and his book agency, is also so fully occupied that he has rarely an hour to spare. It is a matter of regret with us that we cannot circulate more within our patronizing Conferences. But for the present this necessity of staying at home is laid upon us. We hope our friends will accept this explanation, and have an eye to the interests of the ADVOCATE, all the more because we cannot be with them to look after this matter in person.

MANSFIELD FEMALE COLLEGE, located at Mansfield, DeSoto parish, Louisiana, is the property of the Louisiana Conference. We learn that a considerable sum has been raised to be expended in apparatus and other desirable improvements. President Stuart is devoting himself with untiring industry and energy to the interests of the college, and we bespeak for it a large patronage from our friends in Texas and Louisiana. The contemplated railroad from New Orleans to Shreveport will pass through Mansfield, and place this fine institution in a position to meet the wants of a larger field than ever. For information refer to the advertisement in another column.

BY REFERENCE to the advertisement of Whitworth Female College, our readers can inform themselves about the terms and general appointments of one of the most successful schools in the South. The location, at Brookhaven, Mississippi, on the Jackson railroad, is eminently healthful and easy of access. It is one of the few schools which is in the right place to command patronage. President Johnson, with his corps of teachers, is prepared to do full justice to the education of those who are intrusted to his care.

THE fall session of the Tennessee Female College opens on September 5. It is a school of fine character, salubriously located at Franklin, Tennessee, and most effectively officered. President Hargrove has had large experience, and will give satisfaction. See advertisement and send for circulars.

ATHENS, ALABAMA, is a pleasant and salubrious place. Among its chief attractions is the Female Institute, of which Rev. J. M. Wright is the worthy president. See advertisement for particulars. The next session opens on the first Monday in September.

WE OBSERVE that the Tuskaloosa Female College has increased its faculty to eighteen professors, teachers and matrons, and that President Larrabee has every assurance of opening this fall with an unusually large attendance of students.

BISHOP MCTYEIRE left for the Pacific coast July 22. The Nashville Advocate says:

The Bishop has succeeded in getting good reinforcements for the Pacific work. We sample, as follows: The Rev. E. E. Hoss, of the Holston Conference, whose departure we have noticed; the Rev. T. L. Moody, of the Tennessee Conference, and the Rev. E. J. Dawne, of the Arkansas Conference—three capital workmen—will follow in time to take work in the Los Angeles and Columbia Conferences, respectively. Two others are expected to follow, whose names will be reported in due time. Prof. Arnold, of Virginia, is to take charge of Corvallis College, Oregon.

REV. LOVICK PIERCE, D. D.—We learn from Bro. Howard Key, says the Southern Christian Advocate, that Dr. Pierce is quite ill at Union Point. He was very feeble during the whole commencement exercises at Emory, and started on Thursday for the Bishop's residence, known as Sunshine, but was taken so violently ill on the cars that he was compelled to stop at Union Point. Dr. Pierce thinks that his days are numbered, and that there is no probability of his recovery from this attack. Let the churches commend him in prayer to the grace and loving guardianship of our Heavenly Father.

AN EXPERIENCE LETTER.

MR. EDITOR: "How forcible are right words!" I am led to employ this quotation by a perusal of your article on "Telling Experience." I have read it with much interest and pleasure, and, I hope, with profit. In regard to my own experience, it has been a rapid growth within the last few months; though for many years I have been connected with the church, living a Christian life, and having some measure of faith, though little to that which I now enjoy. I feel that now nothing is too difficult for me to do for the sake of Jesus. I can trust him with my dearest interests, and I have daily proofs that he answers my prayers.

For years I have attended class meeting, and must bear testimony to the fact that it has been of great benefit to me. But it has been heretofore a great effort for me to relate my experience. Indeed, looking at experience in the light in which you place it, I had none to relate, though I might always have told of the continued goodness and mercy of God to me. Now I love to think of this mercy and goodness, and speak of it to my Christian friends. There is such a thing as being satisfied with present good, but it ceases to be good if we do not strive to increase it; and talking about it to others is one great means of obtaining more, and of showing us our own hearts, that "they are deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked." But our knowledge of this, and our striving against the evil that is in us, show that we are not satisfied with our present state, but that we are striving for greater knowledge in the divine life. Our conflicts are evidences of our steady advance, for they prove that we are not "at ease in Zion."

In reading the life of Mrs. Fletcher I have been surprised to know that one who had renounced and endured so much for the sake of her religion, should constantly deplore her little faith. I could not understand it then, but now I do. One who had been the most popular of our novelists, who wrote a very beautiful retrospective chapter in the life of a school boy, when he first went to school the head boy seemed to be at so immense a distance as to be ever unattainable by him. But he was encouraged to make the effort, and by industry and perseverance he at last reached that advanced state. Let us act so too, pressing forward steadily, placing in the storehouse of heaven those fruits that make us like our great Master, so that when we enter there we may not be as strangers. H.

CONFERENCE REGISTER.

Conference.	Place.	Time.	Bishop.
Columbia....	Albany.....	Aug 14	McTyeire.
Western...?	Nebr'a City.	Sep. 4	Pierce.
Illinois .:...	Rushville..	Sep. 4	Marvin.
Kentucky...	Harrodsb'g	Sep. 4	Kavanaugh
Missouri...	Mexico...	Sep. 11	Pierce.
Pacific.....	Gilroy.....	Sep. 18	McTyeire.
W. Virginia.	Parkersb'g.	Sep. 18	Kavanaugh
W. St. Louis.	Nevada C'y.	Oct. 2	Pierce.
Louisville...	Lebanon....	Oct. 2	Marvin.
Indian Miss..	Ocmulgee..	Oct. 2	Wightman.
Holston.....	Chattano'a.	Oct. 2	Doggett.
St. Louis....	Arcadia....	Oct. 16	Pierce.
Arkansas...	Hendonville.	Oct. 16	Wightman.
Tennessee...	Nashville..	Oct. 16	Doggett.
Los Angeles.	Los Nietos.	Oct. 16	McTyeire.
N. W. Texas.	Belton.....	Oct. 23	Keener.
White River.	Augusta....	Oct. 30	Wightman.
Trinity.....	Sul. Springs.	Nov. 6	Keener.
Memphis....	Somerville..	Nov. 20	Wightman.
N. Alabama.	Tuskaloosa.	Nov. 20	Doggett.
East Texas..	Tyler.....	Nov. 20	Keener.
Virginia....	Petersburg	Nov. 20	Paine.
N. Georgia..	Atlanta....	Nov. 27	Marvin.
N. Missis'ppi.	Corinth....	Nov. 27	Kavanaugh
Little Rock..	Pine Bluff.	Dec. 4	Wightman.
Texas.....	Bryan.....	Dec. 4	Keener.
N. Carolina..	Raleigh....	Dec. 4	Paine.
S. Georgia...	Thomasv'le.	Dec. 11	Marvin.
Mississippi..	Brandon...	Dec. 11	Kavanaugh
Alabama....	Eufaula....	Dec. 11	Doggett.
West Texas..	Victoria....	Dec. 18	Keener.
S. Carolina..	Anderson..	Dec. 18	Paine.
Louisiana..	N. Orleans.	Jan. 8	Pierce.
Florida.....	Fernandina.	Jan. 8	Marvin.
Baltimore...	Baltimore..	Mar. 6	Paine.

THE Baltimore Episcopal Methodist says: "We are pained to announce the illness of Dr. Thomas E. Bond. For some weeks past the doctor has been quite indisposed, and we learn from his cousin, Mr. James Birkhead, that his condition is considered somewhat critical by his family. He is with his family in Harford, where he receives every attention that the tenderest affection can bestow. The prayers of the whole church will be made in his behalf. May our covenant-keeping God remember him for good, and long preserve his valuable life to his family and the church."

BISHOP VANDERHORST, of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church in America, died in Charleston, South Carolina, July 18. He was sixty-four years of age.

HAPPINESS is like manna—it is to be gathered in grains, and enjoyed every day. It will not keep, it cannot be accumulated; nor have we got to go out of ourselves or into remote places to gather it, since it has rained down from heaven, at our very doors, or rather within side them.—Martyria.

BLESSED are they that are ignorant, for they are happy in thinking that they know everything.

TO BE happy is not the purpose of our being, but to deserve happiness.—Fitche.

Agt's & Publisher's Department

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS OF LETTERS and Funds, Received by Mail, for the week ending Aug. 3, 1872:

A—Edwin Alden $45, Applegate, Pounsford & Co, D Appleton & Co, Phillip Allen.

B—M C Blackburn, Geo W Baynard $13.50, Lizzie W Bickham, W S Brown, Barnes & Wilkinson, A H Batte $5, C J Brown.

C—Wm J Carlton 2 lets, Wm C Conant, C W Campbell $15, F L Constantine, Robert Carter & Bros, L Carley, E H Cushing, B Clegg, C W Carter, S C Collins, H Copeland, N A Crawford.

D—J R Drake, Robert Daniel, J T Daves, Geo J Dicks & Son, L D Dameron & Co, A Dowling $5, A S Dickinson, B W Dunn, W B Dennis.

E—W F Ensterling $4.80.

G—H B Graham & Bro 2 lets, S L Guice, Gould & Lincoln, C R Godfroy $25, T C M Goliand $5, Griffin & Hoffman, Thomas A Green.

H—E J Hale & Son, A C Hundley, W C Halsip, S A Hayden, J H Holt, Jas H Houston $8.45, J W Hearn, Hitchcock & Walden.

I—Robert S Isbell $1.50.

J—Mrs A R James $2.50, Jesse R Jones 80 cts, J W Johnson $4.25.

K—Mrs S B Kent, John C Kittrell, Wm Killebrew.

L—H P Lewis $1, A C Littlejohn 2 lets, Lee, Shepard & Dillingham.

M—N P Moore $25, J Gorton Miller $10, M A McBride, A E Martin, Mrs R Muse 25 cts, Z Mumford, J M Mason, Mrs M J Monteith $4, A H Mitchell, J W Martin $5, W W McGuire, Jas W Medlock.

N—Jos D Newsom $20, "No Name," R A Neblett.

P—Powers Paper Co, Wm A Pond & Co, Jas S Parker, L Prang & Co.

R—A H Redford 3 lets, J H Redding, Jas Robertson, E E F Ross 2 lets, W C Robinson, Geo P Rowell & Co, G Z Russell $3 currency and $22.50 gold, John Ritchie, A Riser.

S—A A Stoddard, Jas Strong Jr $2.70, W R Smart 2 lets, A J Smith, H R Singleton, Geo S Scofield, C B Stuart, Smith Paper Co, Scribner, Armstrong & Co, A Shepherd.

T—J B Tallis, M W Trawick, E J Taylor.

U—J P Underwood $6.40, Union Mutual Life Insurance Co.

W—Thomas B White $6.90, T P Walden, Horace Waters, M H Wells, R S Wilkins $6, J E Wilkinson, J S White $11.25, J M Weems, A R Winfield 2 lets $50, J C Wooters & Co, J L Wright, J M Wright.

ADVOCATE PRESS FOR SALE. — Our press is too small. Our present size, 29 by 43 inches, is the largest we can print on it. The increase of business and demands of our readers require that we should part with our beautiful Hoe cylinder printing machine, which, with eighteen pounds of steam, will print from thirteen hundred to fifteen hundred per hour. See the work, as in our issues, and call or send a competent judge on Mondays or Wednesdays to see it in motion, if you wish to buy. We will entertain propositions from first-class manufacturers for exchange. Address

ROBT. J. HARP, Publisher.

MR. E. E. F. ROSS, our resident advertising agent, is now on a brief tour through the West and North, and we commend him to the attention of our patrons, and shall be thankful for courtesies extended to him. They are assured that Mr. Ross has no other business, but devotes his entire time to the paper, and is entitled to all the consideration of one of its business corps. Mr. Ross may be found at the Bingham House, corner of Eleventh and Market streets, Philadelphia.

OUR AGENT FOR LONDON AND LIVERPOOL.—Robert Babington, Esq., will represent the claims of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE during the season in London and Liverpool, and other parts of the United Kingdom.

THE COMMERCE OF NEW ORLEANS.—Messrs. Louis J. Bright & Co., publishers of the Price Current, will issue their customary annual statement on Saturday, the thirty-first instant. These yearly resumes of our cotemporary have acquired an enviable reputation in commercial and financial circles, throughout Europe and America, on account of their conceded correctness, ability and impartiality. Commercial houses are requested to hand in orders for the quantities they may desire for transmission to their friends and customers, and communications should be addressed to the New Orleans Price Current, Nos. 129 and 131 Gravier street. See advertisement elsewhere in this week's ADVOCATE.

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA.—The reputation and high standard of this great Southern University is attested by the fact that to graduates of the academic department of the session of 1871-72, ten professorships have been offered by colleges and universities; that the students of the medical school obtain high positions in the competitive examinations of the United States Naval Board and city hospitals, and by the professional position attained throughout the country by its graduates in the schools of law and engineering.

WE CALL the attention of persons going North to the advertisement of the Bingham House, corner of Eleventh and Market streets, Philadelphia.

Married.

By Rev. P. Howard, at the residence of Mr. Jesse Ross, on the eighteenth of July, Mr. L. W. WYLIE and Miss MINERVA ROSS, both of Warren county, Mississippi.

By the Rev. J. L. Wright, on the twenty-fourth of July, 1872, in Girard, Louisiana, Mr. GUSTAVUS A. NATIONS and Miss MARY EMMA EDDINS, all of Richland parish, Louisiana.

By the same, at the residence of Dr. McLeroy, July 28, 1872, Mr. WILLIAM M. JONES, of Caldwell parish, and Mrs ELIZA JANE GRIFFIN, of Richland parish, Louisiana.

Use Dr. Henry's World's Tonic and Blood Purifier.—It is the great household remedy, pleasant to take, yet potent for the prevention and cure of diseases. It is better than Bitters, Cordials, Buchu or Sarsaparilla. Sold by druggists. jy18 1y

Best and Oldest Family Medicine.—Sanford's Liver Invigorator.—A purely Vegetable Cathartic and Tonic, for Dyspepsia, Constipation, Debility, Sick-headache, Bilious attacks, and all derangements of Liver, Stomach and Bowels. Ask your druggist for it. Beware of imitations. ja11 1yeow

BUSINESS NOTICES.

The Blessing of the Age.—No more Sick Headache, no more Dyspepsia, no more Indigestion, no more Piles, no more Chills, no more Liver Complaint, no more Jaundice, no more Pain in the Back, no more Kidney Disease, no more Costiveness, no more Heartburn. TUTT'S VEGETABLE LIVER PILL is a certain guarantee against all these distressing complaints.

ATLANTA, June 29, 1869.

DR. WILLIAM H. TUTT—Dear Sir: I am a tailor, and, from want of exercise, lost all appetite, and what little I did eat soured on my stomach. I bought some of your Liver Pills from Redwine & Fox, and have been entirely relieved by them. My appetite is good, and I digest what I eat. I now sleep sound at night, which I had not done for months. WILLIAM J. FERRILL.

au8 1t

Dr. Tutt's Hair Dye is Harmless.

Mrs. Whitcomb's Sirup.—The great soothing remedy. Price only 25 cents. Gives rest to the mother and health to the child. Sold by druggists. jy18 1y

Have your Printing and Binding Done at

THE PELICAN JOB OFFICE,

112 and 114, Paydras St., New Orleans.

ja18 1y

The Equitable Life Assurance Society, New York.

Assets, $18,000,000. Income, $8,000,000.

Branch office—33 CAMP STREET.

A. P. CLEVELAND,

fe8 1y General Agent.

Dr. Henry's Root and Plant Pills.—Mild yet thorough; no nausea or griping; entirely vegetable; great Liver remedy. Price, 25 cents. Sold by druggists. jy18 1y

Caution!—Every genuine box of DR. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS bears the signature of Fleming Brothers, Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, and their private United States stamp. ☞ Take no other; the market is full of imitations.

It is the popular verdict that people who have been accustomed to the use of Bitters or Cordials are obliged eventually to resort to McLane's Liver Pills for permanent relief. ap25 6m

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

MANSFIELD FEMALE COLLEGE,

Mansfield, DeSoto Parish, La.

THIS INSTITUTION, ENTERING UPON its Eighteenth Year, well supplied with Apparatus and other educational aids, and employing the most approved methods of instruction and government, will commence its Fall Session for 1872 on WEDNESDAY, the Twenty-fifth day of September, with a full corps of accomplished Teachers. For catalogues, with all particulars, address

CHARLES H. STUART,

au8 2m President.

ATHENS FEMALE INSTITUTE,

AT ATHENS, ALABAMA.

IS UNDER THE PATRONAGE OF THE North Alabama Conference. The next session will open on

The First Monday in September.

Our arrangements are all complete. A corps of able Teachers, a full course of study, thorough drilling and strict discipline have secured us gratifying success.

Board and tuition in Literary Department, one year, $210.

REV. J. M. WRIGHT,

au8 2in President.

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA,

CHARLOTTESVILLE.

THE SESSION COMMENCES ON OCTOber 1. The institution embraces an Academic Department, and Departments of Law, Medicine, Engineering and Agriculture. For catalogues apply to WM. WERTENBAKER, Secretary of the Faculty, P. O. University of Virginia. CHAS. S. VENABLE, Chairman of the Faculty. au8 1m

ANNUAL STATEMENT

OF

The New Orleans Price Current.

OUR CUSTOMARY ANNUAL STATEment of the COMMERCE OF NEW ORLEANS

will be published on SATURDAY, AUGUST 31. Special attention will be paid to the preparation of the LETTER-SHEET ANNUAL STATEMENT. It will be printed with large, clear, new type, ordered expressly for the occasion, in a compact and convenient form for transmission, and wholly free from irrelevant matter.

We solicit orders from Merchants generally, as well as from our friends and patrons, and we shall be prepared to furnish them with any number of our Newspaper or Letter-Sheet editions they may require for their correspondence, with their business cards or private circulars prominently inserted, if desired. For those who do not deem it necessary to write a private circular, we have a form that will answer every purpose.

Communications should be addressed to the "NEW ORLEANS PRICE CURRENT, Nos. 129 and 131 Gravier street," and our friends will facilitate us by handing in orders at their earliest convenience.

Very respectfully, etc.,

au8 1t LOUIS J. BRIGHT & CO.

BREWER & HILTON,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Thomas Worsley's Celebrated Fancy, Shaving and Toilet Soaps,

Also J. D. SMITH & CO.'S world-renowned Pearl Powders, Lily Whites, Rouges, etc.,

NO. 114 ARCH STREET, PHILADELPHIA.

All goods warranted. au8 3m

BINGHAM HOUSE, PHILADELPHIA,

Corner of Eleventh and Market Sts.

CARLIS DAVIS, PROPRIETOR.

This popular Hotel being centrally located and accessible by street cars from all depots, makes it a desirable stopping place for travelers. It will be conducted in the same liberal manner as heretofore, it being the intention of the proprietor to maintain the reputation it has always enjoyed, of being in all respects a first-class hotel.

Terms, $3 a day. au8 tf

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT.

Quick Transit—The Question Settled. While engineers and capitalists are laying their heads together to send us through space with bird-like swiftness, it may be well to state that the quickest possible transit from a state of debility and despondency to a condition of health and vigor is secured by the use of Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient.

This most refreshing and delightful of thirst quenching beverages is a positive specific for dyspepsia, feverishness, an overflow of bile, constipation, nervous weakness, sick headache, and all disorders of the digestive, secretive and excretive organs. The true article is procurable at all drug stores. au1 2t

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

CENTENARY COLLEGE,

JACKSON, LOUISIANA.

THE NEXT TERM OF THIS VENERABLE INSTITUTION OPENS ON THE FIRST MONDAY IN OCTOBER, 1872.

FACULTY.

Rev. C. G. ANDREWS, A. M., President, and Professor of Mental and Moral Science, Political Economy and International Law.

Rev. A. R. HOLCOMBE, A. M., Professor of Mathematics and Adjunct Professor of Natural Science.

G. H. WILEY, A. M., Professor of Ancient and Modern Languages.

T. S. JONES, M. D., Professor of Natural Science.

——— ———, Principal of the Preparatory Department.

CHARGES.

Tuition, per session of forty weeks, in College	$60 00
Tuition, per session of forty weeks, in Preparatory Department	40 00
Contingent expenses	5 00

A matriculation fee of $5 must be paid on entering any regular college class. One-half the charges must be paid when the student enters; the other half on the beginning of the second term, March 1.

BOARD.

Board, including lodging, washing, lights and fuel, can be had in the best of families for $20 per month. Day-boarding with the same families, $13 per month. Rooms provided in the dormitories free of rent. Board to be paid in advance at least one month.

LOCATION.

This institution is located in the lovely village of Jackson, about twelve miles from Bayou Sara, in a grove of pine, magnolia, oak and beech. The location is remarkable for its beautiful woodlands, its bland and delightful atmosphere, its pure water, its unrivaled healthfulness, and its cultivated and refined society.

WHEN FOUNDED.

The college was established by the State of Louisiana in 1825, and ceded to the Methodist Episcopal Church South in 1845.

ALUMNI.

Its Alumni numbers 203, and they are to be found in the most honorable and useful stations in the land.

APPARATUS AND CABINET.

The college possesses a valuable set of Philosophical, Astronomical and Chemical Apparatus, and also a well-selected Mineralogical and Geological Cabinet. The apparatus includes a new Reflecting Telescope (focal distance, seven feet,) a Theodolite, Sextant, Compass, Chronometer, Atwood's Machine, Whirling Tables, Electrical Machine, Air Pump, Steam Engine, various combinations of the Mechanical Powers, Batteries, Chemical Tests, etc., sufficient for a thorough and extended course of observations and experiments. Steps have been taken by the Board of Trustees to put these in thorough repair.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are two regular Literary Societies connected with the institution. These are of great utility to young men acquiring a liberal education—improving them in the art of public speaking, making them in some degree familiar with the proceedings of deliberative bodies, and in cultivating systematic business habits. Each Society has a convenient hall and a well selected library—about 1,600 volumes each, which, added to the College Library of 2,000 volumes, makes over 5,000 volumes in the college.

BUILDINGS.

The Trustees are determined to continue the repairs on the buildings till completed. The grand Center Building is a noble specimen of architectural beauty and adaptation to the purposes of its erection. The wings, built of solid brick, present each a front of two hundred feet, with upper and lower galleries the entire length, supported by Tuscan columns, and with the center making in the perspective a continuous front of 7,000 feet.

PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

In the Preparatory Department students are fitted for regular college classes, or may obtain a thorough English or commercial education.

ITS FACULTY are men of experience and success in teaching.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

Rev. Bishop J. C. KEENER, D. D., President, New Orleans.

Rev. J. A. Godfrey, Clinton.	Hon. A. K. Farrar, Adams county, Miss.
Hon. John McVea, Clinton.	Hon. Edward J. Gay, parish of Iberville.
Hon. and Rev. Jas. H. Muse, St. Helena par.	Samuel J. Norwood, Esq., Simmsport, La.
Hon. Edward McGehee, Woodville, Miss.	C. G. McGehee, Esq., Wilkinson co., Miss.
Hon. E. T. Merrick, New Orleans.	Rev. W. H. Watkins, D. D., Natchez, Miss.
Prof. W. H. N. Magruder, Baton Rouge.	Rev. W. G. Millsaps, Jefferson county, Miss.
Rev. John P. Miller, Jackson.	Rev. J. A. B. Jones, Port Gibson, Miss.
Rev. R. J. Harp, New Orleans.	Rev. John A. Ellis, Meridian, Miss.
Hon. J. O. Fuqua, Baton Rouge.	B. H. Moss, M. D., New Orleans.
T. F. Collins, Esq., East Feliciana.	Joshua D. Nettles, Esq., East Feliciana.
Rev. J. L. Forsythe, Jackson.	Wilmot H. Goodale, Esq., Baton Rouge.
Rev. L. Parker, D. D., New Orleans.	Rev. C. G. Andrews, Jackson, La.
D. C. Hardee, Esq., Clinton.

THE BEST ROUTE to the college is to leave the Mississippi river at Port Hudson, take the Clinton and Port Hudson railroad to Midway station, report to Captain F. J. Haynes, as a student for Centenary, and he will convey you to the college, a distance of seven miles, for one dollar for single passengers, or one and a half where several are together. Address

au1 6m C. G. ANDREWS, President, Jackson, La.

TENNESSEE FEMALE COLLEGE,

FRANKLIN, TENNESSEE.

Rev. R. K. Hargrove, A. M., President.

FALL SESSION FOR 1872 opens on Thursday, SEPTEMBER 5.

Its organization and equipment are complete, and its facilities of the highest order. It will not substitute graduation for education.

Not one of its hundreds of pupils, for sixteen years past, has ever died in attendance on it.

Board and Collegiate Tuition, including French and Latin, one year, $220. To Itinerant Ministers, literary tuition free, and board on special terms.

Circulars sent on application. au1 2m

AGENTS WANTED TO SELL THE

ILLUSTRATED

HISTORY OF THE BIBLE

By Wm. SMITH, LL.D.,

AUTHOR OF SMITH'S BIBLE DICTIONARY.

It contains 213 fine Scripture Illustrations and over 1,100 pages, and is the most comprehensive and valuable History of the Bible ever published. The labor and learning of centuries are gathered in this one volume to throw a strong, clear light upon every page of the inspired Word.

Send for circulars, and see our terms and a full description of the work. Address

NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.,

274 and 276 Second street,

au1 6m Memphis, Tenn.

AGENTS WANTED FOR

SECRETS OF THE CONVENT AND CONFESSIONAL.

BY JULIA M'NAIR WRIGHT.

The most thrilling and powerful book ever written on this subject. It presents a startling array of facts, and contains revelations never before made public.

Send for circulars and terms to

NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.,

274 and 276 Second street,

au1 6m Memphis, Tenn.

PIANO AT A BARGAIN.

A MAGNIFICENT SQUARE PIANO, Seven Octave, solid Rosewood frame, beautifully carved, front board Pearl inlaid, having been made to order by a first-class maker, will be sold at ONE-THIRD COST PRICE within next thirty days. Address

PIANO, care ADVOCATE Office,

jy18 1m 112 Camp street.

FOR SCHOOL BOOKS,

MAILED FREE to any address on receipt of price, send to

ROBT. J. HARP, Agent,

jy18 1m 112 Camp street.

For Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FINE-TONED, WARRANTED, LOW-PRICED. Descriptive circular sent free.

BLYMER, NORTON & CO.,

664-694 W. Eighth st., Cincinnati, O.

ja25 26teow

LOOK TO YOUR CHILDREN.

The Great Soothing Remedy!

25 CTS. MRS WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN. 25 CTS.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SIRUP. Cures Colic and Griping in the Bowels, and facilitates the process of Teething. Subdues Convulsions and overcomes all diseases incident to Infants and Children. PRICE, 25 CENTS.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SIRUP. Cures Diarrhœa, Dysentery and Summer Complaint in Children of all ages. Relieves pain, weakness or exhaustion in 15 or 20 minutes, giving tone and power to the system. PRICE, 25 CENTS.

It is the Infants' and Children's great Soothing Remedy in all disorders brought on by teething or any other cause.

Be particular to call for MRS. WINSLOW'S SIRUP, and take no other.

Prepared by the GRAFTON MEDICINE CO., St. Louis, Mo. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicine everywhere. jy25 1yeow

BUY ME AND I'LL DO YOU GOOD

DR. HENRY'S ROOT & PLANT PILLS.

By cleansing the blood and arousing the liver and secretive organs to a healthy action, Dr. Henry's Root and Plant Pills cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, such as Headache, Pain in the Side, Numbness of the Hands and Feet, Dullness, Chilliness, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Loss of Appetite, Bilious Dysentery, Kidney Affections, Constipation, Debility, Fevers of all kinds, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body, or obstruction of its functions.

Being free from mercury and other poisons, they can be taken at all times and under all circumstances, without regard to diet, business or pleasure.

They stimulate the weakened and distempered parts into healthy action, giving them strength to disburden themselves and throw off the obstructions which are the first cause of disease, without producing either nausea or griping.

All heavy and drowsy sensations, which are the forerunners of direful diseases, such as Apoplexy, Paralytic Strokes, etc., are effectually warded off by a few doses of these searching Pills.

Full directions around each box, in English, German, French and Spanish. Price, 25 Cents a Box.

Prepared by the GRAFTON MEDICINE CO., St. Louis, Mo. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicine everywhere. jy25 1yeow

AGENTS WANTED for the Autobiography of HORACE GREELEY. A new illustrated edition, now ready. Get this, the only edition written by himself and indorsed by the Tribune; and our 1872 CAMPAIGN MANUAL for all parties, just out; price, $1.50. One agent sold 80 in three days. Splendid Steel Portraits of Greeley, also of Grant. $300 a month made selling the above.

E. B. TREAT, Publisher,

jy25 1m 805 Broadway, N. Y.

A GRADUATE OF SOME EXPERIENCE, who can teach all the branches usually taught in Female Colleges, desires a situation. Prefers a select school in some village or good neighborhood. For information address REV. S. P. RICHARDSON, jy6 3m Summerfield, Alabama.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE,

AT BATON ROUGE, LOUISIANA.

THE EXERCISES OF THIS SCHOOL will be resumed on Wednesday, the Second of October next.

For circulars, with all necessary information, apply to Rev. R. J. Harp, 112 Camp street, New Orleans, or to myself, at Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

au1 6m W. H. N. MAGRUDER.

UNIVERSITY OF LOUISIANA,

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT,

NEW ORLEANS.

FACULTY—A. H. CENAS, M. D., Emeritus Professor of Obstetrics.

JAMES JONES, M. D., Professor of Obstetrics.

T. G. RICHARDSON, M. D., Professor of Surgery.

SAMUEL M. BEMISS, M. D., Professor of Medicine.

STANFORD E. CHAILLE, M. D., Professor of Physiology.

FRANK HAWTHORN, M. D., Professor of Materia Medica.

JOSEPH JONES, M. D., Professor of Chemistry.

SAMUEL LOGAN, M. D., Prof. of Anatomy.

E. SOUCHON, M. D., Demonstrator of Anatomy.

The Thirty-fifth annual course of instruction in this Department will commence on Monday, the eighteenth of November, 1872, and terminate on the second Saturday of March, 1873. Preliminary Lectures on Clinical Medicine and Surgery will be delivered in the amphitheater of the Charity Hospital, beginning on the eighteenth of October, without any charge to students. The Anatomical rooms will be opened at the same time.

The members of the Faculty are Visiting Physicians and Surgeons to the Charity Hospital, where more than six thousand patients are annually treated, and give instruction daily at the bedside of the sick. The practical advantages thus offered to students are unsurpassed.

FEES.—For all the Lectures, $140; Matriculation, $5; Practical Anatomy, $10; Graduation, $30. Payment required in advance.

For further information address

T. G. RICHARDSON, M. D.,

jy25 1m Dean.

TEAS FREE OF DUTY.

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES.

J. W. PLATT & CO.,

102 Camp street, corner of Poydras,

RECEIVE THEIR TEAS directly from the importers, and furnish them to consumers in any quantity desired, with one small profit only added on Cargo Prices in New York, or about one-third less than the usual charge for similar goods at ordinary retail stores. Housekeepers who wish to reduce the cost of their household stores will please notice the following Price List, which includes the finest Teas imported:

IMPERIAL (Green,) 50 cts., 80 cts.; Choice, $1 per lb.; Extra choicest, $1.25 per lb.

YOUNG HYSON (Green,) 80 cts.; Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.25 per lb.

GUNPOWDER (Green,) Choice, $1.25; Extra choicest, $1.50 per lb.

OOLONG (Black,) 50 cts., 80 cts.; Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.20 per lb.

ENGLISH BREAKFAST, 50 cts., 75 cts.; Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.25 per lb.

JAPAN (Natural Leaf,) Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.20 per lb.

ORANGE PEKOE—Black—Extra choicest, $1.50 per lb.

MIXED (Green and Black,) 50 cts., 75 cts.; Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.20 per lb.

We recommend our Extra Choicest Teas as the best in market. Special prices to wholesale buyers. au1 1m

WILLIAM HOGAN

Manufacturer of and Dealer in

BOOTS, SHOES, TRUNKS, VALISES AND BAGS,

FRENCH AND CREOLE AVE.

Also Agent for the Excelsior SEWING MACHINE,

99 AND 101 CANAL STREET,

au1 3m New Orleans.

S. COLLINS & CO.'S

PRINTING INK.

Office and Depot—26 Frankfort Street,

jy25 6m NEW YORK.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE

ILLUSTRATED

HISTORY OF THE BIBLE

By Wm. SMITH, LL.D.

AUTHOR OF SMITH'S BIBLE DICTIONARY.

It contains over 250 fine Scripture Illustrations and 1,100 pages, and is the most comprehensive and valuable History of the Bible ever published. The labor and learning of centuries are gathered in this one volume to throw a strong, clear light upon every page of the inspired Word.

AGENTS WANTED. Send for circulars and see our terms and a full description of the work. Address

NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.,

au1 1m Philadelphia, Pa.

AGENTS WANTED, everywhere, for

The Home of God's People.

The grandest and most successful new book out. It contains nearly 200 magnificent Engravings. $2,500 per annum can be made by any energetic male or female agent in taking orders for this valuable, fascinating and popular work. Our circulars (sent free) will convince you of this, give you our terms, full particulars, etc.

QUEEN CITY PUBLISHING CO.,

my30 5meow Cincinnati, Ohio.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S

STEEL PENS,

OF THE OLD STANDARD QUALITY.

TRADE MARK: JOSEPH GILLOTT, Or Descriptive Name and Designation Warranted.

The well-known Original and Popular Nos.,

303 ..... 404 ..... 170 351,

having been assumed by other Makers, we desire to caution the public in respect to said imitations. ☞ ASK FOR GILLOTT'S.

JOS. GILLOTT & SONS,

jy25 1y 91 John street, N. Y.

OCEAN SPRINGS.

Summer Resort.—Board at the Seaside.

THE SUBSCRIBER has taken the MORRIS HOUSE, at Ocean Springs, which has just undergone a thorough repair, and will be open to boarders who wish to enjoy a pleasant home, good bathing, fresh sea air, and luxuriate on fish and oysters during the heat of summer.

Terms for board: $10 per month, $10 per week, and $2 per day. Apply to the subscriber by mail, at Ocean Springs.

Refer to Bishop Keener, Rev. Robert J. Harp, J. L. Dunnica & Co., and Samuel Russ, Esq., New Orleans.

WM. C. CHAMBERLIN.

APRIL 20, 1872. ap25 tf

WANTED.—BY A SINGLE LADY OF this city, a thorough graduate in the Collegiate course, with the best references, a SCHOOL, or a situation in a school. Would not object to a situation in the country. Address "LETTER A," Advocate Office, 112 Camp street, New Orleans. jy25 1m

The Child's Corner.

BESSIE AND THE HENS.

'Twas a busy Monday morning,
And baby Bessie's mother
Tried to find a place for Bessie,
Where she wouldn't be a bother.

So she took a new clothes-basket,
And put the baby in it,
And set it just outside the door,
In her own sight each minute.

And then she sprinkled crumbs and corn
All around about the basket,
And called the hens to help themselves,
Prince, Pet and old Nantasket.

And baby Bess enjoyed the fun,
Till trouble came to dash it;
She reached too far to grab Pet's tail,
And over went the basket!

Away flew Prince and Pet and Nan,
Almost in fits of terror;
While Bessie screamed and mamma ran,
And Kate cried: "Worra! worra!"

The hens came back to eat the corn
When all the noise was ended;
But Bessie sat in mamma's lap
Till her small heart was mended.

Youth's Companion.

Your Kid Gloves.

BY OLIVE THORNE.

In the first place, they're not kid, probably, but lambskin. Or, if they're extra nice three-button gloves, from Paris, they undoubtedly grew on the back of a colt.

I don't know as that's anything against them. I don't see why the skin of a lamb isn't as pretty as the skin of a kid; and colts, for all I know, have as good skins as either of them.

You see there are not kids enough in the whole world to supply the glove-makers, and that's why they make war on lambs and colts.

I'm afraid there wouldn't be many coltskin gloves if they came to America for skins. We are too fond of horses to kill colts for their skins. But they get them easily from Tartary, for the people of that country eat their colts, as we do lambs.

Besides kids, lambs and colts, sheep-skins are made into gloves in Germany and Italy, and sold in America for kid. They have the advantage of being cheap, so that Bid can buy gloves for a dollar that look as well at a distance as yours that cost three dollars.

But whether sheep, kid, lamb or colt, the skins have to go through several operations before they are put into snug packages of one dozen pairs of gloves.

In the first place, they are collected from the ends of the earth, and sent to the glovemaker—we'll say in Paris, since all gloves profess to come from that city.

The first operation in the factory is to remove the hair. If it was a common skin for shoes it would be taken off with lime, but delicate skins require a different method. So it is soaked in water and Indian meal. What that does to it I'm sure I don't know, but when the meal is well beaten out, the hair comes off with perfect ease.

The skin has next to be cut down a little thinner, and it is then ready to be colored. For this operation it is laid right side up on a large, flat stone, while the color is put on with a brush—painted, as you may say. That's why gloves, of whatever color, are always white inside.

When the color is dry the skin is ready to cut out, and that is a very funny operation.

The glove-cutter has a steel frame, shaped like a pair of open hands, and all around the outside of the frame is a sharp edge. Having laid the prepared skin on this frame, he takes up a club—a droll club it is too, all stuffed and padded so as to be soft—and with it he gives the stretched-out skin one blow. The sharp edges of course cut, and the glove is ready for the sewer. The strips for the inside of the fingers are cut from the edges of the skin. Then they are tied up in bundles of a dozen pairs, and sent out to be sewed.

This is done in the country, by women at their own homes. Perhaps you have noticed—you girls, I mean—that when your glove rips you can never sew it so nicely as it was at first. That is because the woman who first sewed it had a very ingenious little machine to help her. This machine is a sort of a clamp, that holds the edges of the seams together, with little notches for every stitch. The sewer puts her needle in every notch, and she can't get it uneven and clumsy.

After being sewed they go back to the dealer, who puts them up in the packages you've seen in the shops, a dozen different colors in a package.

There are—for ladies—ten different sizes made. The smallest is five and three-eighths, and the largest is eight, though the larger numbers are not sent to America. In fact, we use the smallest gloves made.

Do you know how to tell what size of glove you need? Take a tape-measure and measure your hand around the knuckle. The number of inches and quarters of an inch that it measures is exactly the size of the glove—that is, if it is five inches and three-quarters around, you want gloves No. 5¾.

There's one little thing I want to tell you girls, privately, and that is, nothing makes a young lady's hand look worse than a glove too small. When the palm of the hand is squeezed double, and the first button don't come down fairly on to the wrist, it looks like—well, you'll think it's vulgar—but it does look like a stuffed sausage, and the wearer looks like a weak-minded girl.

A Savior for All.

A friend, who is with me, has been telling me of a class of little boys he teaches at Philadelphia, on Sunday nights. One evening a newspaper boy met him in the street, and said: "O, captain, I'm mighty glad to see ye. There's poor Billy, he's so badly, and so wants to see ye." My friend went with the little boy and found Billy lying on some rags in the corner of a wretched room, very ill. Billy was so delighted when the captain went in! The room was dark, and Billy, with a feeble voice, said: "I's here, captain—I'm mighty glad to see ye." My friend was filled with pity for him, and asked him if he could send him a nurse, or some medicine, or some nice food. "No, captain, it wasn't that I wanted ye for. I wanted to ax ye two questions. The first is, Did you tell us the other night as how Jesus Christ died for every feller?" "Yes, I did; for Jesus Christ tasted death for every man." Billy then said: "I thought so. Now, I've another question. Did you tell us as how Jesus Christ saves every feller that axes him?" "Yes," said my friend; "for every one that asketh receiveth." Billy replied, with a very feeble but happy voice: "Then I knew that he saves me, because I axes him." My friend paused to wipe away the tears that gushed from his eyes, and then bent down to speak to the boy. But Billy's head had dropped back on the pillow of rags, and his happy spirit had gone to Jesus. He is there at the feast; and "yet there is room"—room for every one that asks—room for you.—Newman Hall.

An Allegory.

Once or twice a little leaf was heard to cry and sigh, as leaves often do when a gentle wind is about. And the twig said:

"What is the matter, little leaf?"

"The wind," said the leaf, "just told me that one day it would pull me off and throw me on the ground to die."

The twig told it to the branch and the branch told it to the tree.

And when the tree heard it it rustled all over and sent word back to the leaf:

"Do not be afraid; hold on tightly, and you shall not go off till you want to."

And so the leaf stopped sighing, and went on singing and rustling. And so it grew all summer long till October. And when the bright days of autumn came, the leaf saw all the leaves around becoming very beautiful. Some were yellow, and some were striped with colors. Then it asked the tree what it meant. And the tree said:

"All these leaves are getting ready to fly away, and they have put on these colors because of their joy."

Then the little leaf began to want to go, and grew very beautiful in thinking of it. And when it was gay in colors, it saw that the branches of the tree had no colors in them, and so the leaf said:

"Oh, branch, why are you lead-colored, and we golden?"

"We must keep on our work clothes," said the tree, "for our work is not yet done; but your clothes are for a holiday, because your task is over."

Just then a little puff of wind came, and the leaf let go without thinking of it, and the wind took it up and turned it over, and then let it fall gently down under the edge of a fence, among hundreds of leaves, and it never waked up to tell us what it dreamed about.

The Hindoo Boy's Prayer.

A missionary tells us that he was once walking in his garden, when a poor Hindoo boy, who belonged to the mission school, came after him, and, in a very gentle voice, said:

"If you please, sir, make me a Christian."

The missionary was quite surprised by what he heard, and said to the little heathen boy: "I cannot make you a Christian, my dear child, but God can. You must ask God to forgive your sins for Jesus Christ's sake, and to send his Holy Spirit to live in your heart."

Not a long time after the same little boy came to the missionary, and said, with a soft voice and a sweet smile on his face:

"The Lord Jesus Christ himself has come to live in my heart."

"How is that?" asked the kind missionary.

"I prayed," said the boy, "as you told me; and I said: 'O, Lord Jesus Christ, if you please, make me a Christian.' And he was so kind as to hear me, and to come and live in my heart ever since."

A simple and touching story of the love of Christ to a poor little heathen child! Can all our readers say they have ever made such a prayer in such a spirit as this poor Hindoo boy? And can they say that Christ lives in their hearts? If he does, then they will be like Christ in their temper and conduct, and be trying to please and honor him in every way they can.

A BIT OF ADVICE FOR BOYS.—"You are made to be kind," says Horace Mann, "generous, magnanimous. If there is a boy in school who has a club foot, don't let him know that you ever saw it. If there is a poor boy with ragged clothes, don't talk about rags in his hearing. If there is a lame boy, assign him some part of the game which does not require running. If there is a hungry one, give him a part of your dinner. If there is a dull one, help him to get his lesson. If there is a bright one, be not envious of him; for if one boy is proud of his talents, and another is envious of them, there are two great wrongs, and no more talent than before. If a larger or stronger boy has injured you, and is sorry for it, forgive him, and request the teacher not to punish him. All the school will show by their countenance how much better it is than to have a great fist."

AT NEWBURY, ENGLAND, a gentleman recently made a wager of $5,000 that at eight o'clock on a particular evening he would sit down to a dinner in a well-woven, well-dyed, well-made suit of clothes, the wool of which formed the fleece on the sheep's backs at five o'clock that same morning. The sheep were shorn; the wool washed, carded, stubbed, rove, spun and woven; the cloth was scoured, fulled, tended, raised, sheared, dyed and dressed; the garments were made. At a quarter past six he sat down to a dinner, at the head of his guests, in a complete drab-colored suit, thus winning his wager, with an hour and three-quarters to spare.

A DEVOUT MAN can never be called unfortunate. In the most trying circumstances he has within his breast a source of inexhaustible consolation.

The Farm and Garden.

Clover at the South.

"W.," writing from Milner, Georgia, to the Southern Farm and Home, says:

"The most inevitable doubter as to the possibility of raising clover in the cotton States would be fully persuaded and abandon the controversy if he could see the clover patches in all their present luxuriant growth in the counties of Monroe, Pike and Spalding, in this State. Captain Lampkin's clover, near Forsyth, is as fine as any I ever saw in Virginia, Maryland or Kentucky, and will, I doubt not, yield from three to four tons of cured clover to the acre. It is now (May 1) considerably over knee-high all over the patch, and stands as thick as it is possible for it to stand. The land is not naturally rich, and the sun is about as hot in Forsyth as it is in any part of the cotton belt. I wish all who say that "clover is no account for the South," and who buy Northern hay when fodder "gives out," would come and see this clover. It would prove to them that they do not know as much as they think they know, and might possibly induce them to spend a little of the money they now pay for bales of Northern weeds and brush in raising an abundance of fine clover hay of their own. One example of this kind is worth a dozen book farmers. Here is proof positive that clover can be raised successfully at the South, and that it will pay handsomely. If anybody doubts, let him write to Captain Lampkin, and he will satisfy him."

This reminds us of an interview we had, a few days ago, with a scientific friend from Woodville, Mississippi, in reference to this subject. He said that for some years past he had been experimenting with the grasses, and the result had satisfied him that in many soils throughout the South clover can be grown more successfully than in Ohio. On his farm, near Woodville, he has raised clover five feet long, without special manuring.

We would admonish farmers that it is useless to sow clover on sandy soils, or any soil without thorough previous preparation. The ground must be deeply broken and thoroughly comminuted by frequent plowings and harrowings, and when the seed is sown the surface should be rolled. On clayey soils, with a sufficiency of lime, and with the preparation we have indicated, clover is as certain and as remunerative in the cotton States as in any other section of the Union.—Rural Southland

Preserving Seed-Cane.

It is generally stated that the seed of sugar-cane is running out. Who is in fault? If an advertisement appears in the papers about some extraordinary seed corn, cabbage, melon etc., off goes an order for it; you will not plant your nubbins of corn, but you will go on your cane field and pick all the nubbin—red cane—two, three and four years old stubble, which has no substance in it, and which remains from four to six months in the ground—in windrew—then you are astonished that the cane has run out. The real or pure cane, in my opinion, is the striped or ribbon cane; after five years of trial on the same land, and all circumstances alike, the yield of the ribbon cane has been five hundred pounds more to the acre than the red cane, and the price of the sugar has been one-half cent more for ribbon cane than the red. The ribbon cane, having no coloring matter in it, is easier cleared and bleached than the red.

I have always been successful in saving seed-cane in wind-row on the following plan: In cultivating the cane you intend for seed it should be the very best rattoon, one year, clear middles, not too deep, and then before cutting down the cane; and when you do cut, cut in the ground and get some of the roots—the more the better; take a subsoil plow and run two furrows in the middle, about six inches apart, to create an underdrain, and your cane will not become water-logged; then put your cane down, not too thin in the row, and do not cover very heavy; enough dirt on top so that after the first rain the tops will be just covered about an inch, but let plows, by all means, follow close up to the knives; the quicker covered the better.

I use one right and one left-hand mold-board plow, running two furrows on each side, but not too heavy, and then pass the hoes to close up all uncovered places; dig your crop drains, with a spade, one foot deeper than the cane.

This is my practical experience. I hope some scientific man will not come out with big words and crush me in my argument.—R. M., in Our Home Journal.

AS THE seeds of plants ripen, they should be gathered, properly dried, and put away safely in a glass jar or tin box, for another year. To preserve seeds liable to depredations of insects, such as peas, beans, etc., the best plan is to put them in bottles, in which a small piece of cotton, saturated in spirits of turpentine, has been placed, and then corking up tightly; the fumes of the turpentine will kill the eggs and larva of the insects. In all cases select seed from the best plants, well developed and matured.

Sow Rutabagn turnips—sow as early as possible this month; make a succession of sowings. They are not apt to make large roots if planted after July. Rutabagas require heavy manuring.

Cabbage seed may still be sown for winter cabbage. Some early variety of corn may yet be planted for late "roasting ears." Keep down and kill all weeds in the garden; it will save trouble and expense next season.—Field and Factory.

AN ILLINOIS correspondent says: "Soak doubtful seed-corn in chloride of lime and it will come. If you soak seed-corn in tar water, in which a little copperas has been dissolved, the gophers and crows will give it a wide berth."

HARDWARE, STOVES, ETC.

KURSHEEDT & BIENVENU,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
Plantation and Builders' Hardware,
MARBLE, MARBLEIZED SLATE
AND IRON MANTLES,
Grates, Hearths and Fire Bricks,
NO. 114 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
my2 1y

THE UNRIVALED

BUCK'S BRILLIANT STOVE.
Every Brilliant is Fully Guaranteed.
H. HALLER,
No. 49 Camp street, New Orleans,
Sole Agent for Louisiana.
Sole Agent for the
CELEBRATED RINGEN WASHER,
In the States of Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi. oct9 1y

G. W. W. GOODWYN,
No. 52 Gravier Street,
DEALER IN
Stoves and Tinware of All Kinds.
While he is prepared to furnish, at the lowest rates, Cooking and Heating Stoves of all the various styles and patterns sold in this market, he makes a specialty of the following, to wit:
Cottage, Cricket, The Best, Relief, Gray Jacket, and Diadem.
These Stoves are sold under a guarantee, and may be returned if they do not perform well.
NOTE BY P. M. GOODWYN.—Lack of health has obliged me for a time to give up my regular calling—that of the ministry. In the meanwhile, in order to do what I can for a support, I have engaged as an assistant in my brother's establishment, as above advertised. And I take this method of soliciting from among the readers of the ADVOCATE—many of whom are by personal acquaintances and friends—a share of their patronage whenever they may have need of anything in the above line. Orders sent through their merchants, or to either of us direct, will receive prompt attention mh7 6m

GROCERIES—GLASSWARE.
PURE LOUISIANA
SUGAR, MOLASSES AND SIRUPS.
REFINED SUGAR.—Cut Loaf, Crushed and Powdered.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.
GOLDEN SIRUP.—A superior article of pure Louisiana, from the Crescent City Refinery. A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.
REFINED SIRUP AND MOLASSES.—Crescent City Refinery, Orleans, Louisiana, Chalmette and Pelican brands
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.
LOUISIANA MOLASSES.—Various grades of Plantation, in barrels, half barrels and kegs. A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.
CLARIFIED SUGAR.—Various grades of White and Yellow, in hogsheads and barrels.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.
LOUISIANA SUGAR.—Various grades of Plantation, in hogsheads and barrels.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.
FOREIGN SUGAR.—Cuba, Demerara and Porto Rico, in hogsheads and boxes.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
my9 6m 48 Tchoupitoulas street.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,
—IMPORTERS OF—
CHINA, CROCKERY AND GLASS,
55.....CAMP STREET 55
New Orleans.
Country dealers supplied with ASSORTED CRATES or from SHELF upon the most favorable terms.

Contents of our English Iron Stone China Dinner Set, No. 1:

12 Dinner Plates,	1 Round Soup Tureen,
12 Breakfast Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Tea Plates,	1 Salad,
12 Soup Plates,	1 Pair Covered Dishes,
12 Preserve Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Pickle Dishes,
12 Tea cups and saucers	4 Meat Dishes,
112 pieces best English Ware.....	$15

Our Stone China Dinner and Tea Set, No. 2, contains
158 pieces..... $25

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 1, contains

12 Dinner Plates,	4 Meat Dishes,
12 Breakfast Plates,	1 Soup Tureen, round,
12 Tea Plates,	2 Covered Dishes, oval
12 Soup Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Preserve Plates,	1 Salad,
12 Tea cups and saucers	2 Pickles,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes.
112 pieces best French Ware.....	$30

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 2, contains
166 pieces..... $45

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 3, contains
255 pieces..... $05

A large variety of the best SELF-SEALING FRUIT JARS always on hand.
Sole agents for the celebrated BLANCHARD CHURN. The best churn made.
The most complete stock of HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS in the South.
W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,
ap4 6m No. 55 Camp st., New Orleans.

New Orleans Savings Institution,
187 CANAL STREET.
Incorporated March 15, 1855.
OFFICERS.
L. F. GENERES, President.
THOS. A. ADAMS, first Vice President.
THOS. ALLEN CLARKE, second Vice President.
CHARLES J. LEEDS, third Vice President.
SAM JONES, Jr., Treasurer.
DIRECTORS.
Dr. W Newton Mercer.

L. F. Generes.	David Urquhart.
George Jenas,	John G. Gaines.
Thos. A. Adams.	Carl Kohn.
Thos. Allen Clarke.	Christian Schnoider.
Charles J. Leeds.	Samuel Jamison

Six per cent. interest on deposits.
my30 3m

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.
MARVIN COLLEGE,
WAXAHACHIE, TEXAS.
THE NEXT SESSION OF THIS SCHOOL will open on the FIRST MONDAY IN SEPTEMBER, 1872, under the supervision of Rev. J. M. PUGH, President.
COLLEGIATE DEPARTMENT.
Rev. J. M. Pugh, A. M., Professor of Moral Science and Biblical Literature.
Mr. E. F. Yeager, A. B., Professor of Languages.
Rev. F. Olin Dannelly, Professor of Natural Science.
Mr. John E. Bishop, Prof. of Mathematics.
PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.
Rev. James D. Shaw, Principal.
Mrs. Annie E. Bass, Assistant.
MUSICAL DEPARTMENT.
Mr. F. H. Linden, Professor of Music.
PRIMARY DEPARTMENT.
Rates of Tuition—Four Months.

Primary class.....	$8 00
Preparatory.....	12 00
Higher.....	16 00
Collegiate.....	20 00
Music on piano.....	20 00

A small fee will be required of each student in the musical department for the use of instrument.
Every student will be charged from date of entrance till the close of session, except when providentially hindered, and all bills are due when the student enters.
Ministers' children (who are regular pastors) received free of charge.
We hope the friends of the College who have heretofore patronized this school, and others, will aid us in building up a school of high grade by sending their children and wards to this College, guaranteeing them as favorable privileges as at any other school in the State.
Board can be had for $12.50 per month.
F. P. RAY,
President Board of Trustees.
JAS. E. SMITH, Secretary. aul 1m

Whitworth Female College,
AT BROOKHAVEN, MISS.
THE CONTINUED SUCCESS OF THIS INstitution is one of the best evidences of its merit. During the past term there were in attendance two hundred and twenty-nine pupils.
The members of the Faculty—eleven in number—are selected on account of their ability to teach.
Prof. ECKHARDT, Music Director, has few equals.
Madame JULIUS, a Parisian lady of eighteen years' successful experience as a teacher, has been engaged to take charge of the French and Ornamental Department.
The very best care is taken of our pupils, both as to health and manners. Fines are provided for all.
No extravagance in dress is allowed.
The good health of Brookhaven is proverbial. Pupils from the miasmatic regions of Louisiana and Mississippi find this as healthful a school as can be found anywhere.
The charges are believed to be lower than in any school in the Southwest where similar advantages are afforded. Only from $230 to $265 for all expenses, excepting music, French and the ornamental branches.
No expense is spared in purchasing the most approved apparatus, maps, charts, etc., and all necessary school furniture.
Brookhaven is located on the New Orleans, Jackson and Great Northern Railroad, 128 miles from the city.
Catalogues sent free on application to aul 6m REV. H. F. JOHNSON, Prest.

MARTHA WASHINGTON COLLEGE,
ABINGDON, VA.,
ON THE VIRGINIA AND TENNESSEE RAILROAD.
$105 IN ADVANCE will pay Board and Tuition for five months in this institution, beautifully situated amid the mountains. For healthfulness, high grade and extent of instruction, and excellence of facilities, no institution in the land surpasses this.
Session begins SEPTEMBER 19.
For catalogue or particulars apply to
REV. W. G. E CUNNYNGHAM, D. D.,
Or R. W. JONES, M. A., President.
jy25 2m

Kentucky Wesleyan University,
MILLERSBURG, KENTUCKY.
SESSION FOR 1872-73 OPENS SEPTEMBER 16, 1872, and closes June 4, 1873.
The expense of the entire session can be brought within $240 by those who pay tuition, and $10 less by those who come on scholarships. All bills due the University are payable strictly in advance. Board bills are payable monthly.
This University is situated in the heart of the Blue Grass region of Kentucky. Climate invigorating and healthful. The Faculty of Instructors is now full. Persons seeking a good school for their sons are invited to correspond with the President, or A. G Stitt, Financial Secretary, or to send for catalogue.
jy18 10t B. ARBOGAST, President.

RAILROADS.
ARE YOU GOING EAST OR NORTH?

Take the Iron Mountain, and Chicago and Alton Railroads,
THE ONLY ALL-RAIL ROUTE FROM all points South to CHICAGO.
The only line running the Pullman Palace Cars from all points South to St. Louis and Chicago.
Passengers by this line arrive in Chicago one hour in advance of all competing lines, and avoid 25 miles of steamboat transfer, and the annoying changes of cars incident to other lines. For all points in the Northwest, St. Paul, Milwaukee, or all points in the Canadas, New York, Boston and all Eastern cities, this is the pleasantest and most direct route. Parties going East via this line can lay over in Chicago and visit the Burnt District, and resume their trip at their leisure. Fare as low as by all other routes. Tickets to be had at all ticket offices in the South.
W. R. ALLEN,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent,
Iron Mountain Line, St. Louis.
JAMES CHARLTON,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent,
Chicago and Alton Line, Chicago.
D. A. FREER,
my30 4m Southern Traveling Agent.

LOUISVILLE AND CINCINNATI SHORT-LINE R. R. connections are 5½ hours QUICKER to Eastern cities than any other Rail Line from Louisville, and 19 hours in advance of the River route. This is the only line making Baltimore in 26 hours, Philadelphia in 27 hours, Washington in 27 hours, New York in 30½ hours, Boston in 35 hours.

Southern Fast Line, daily, except Sunday.....	Leave. 7.50 A.M.	Arrive. 8.05 P.M.
Cincinnati Express, daily	3.55 P.M.	12.40 P.M.
Cincinnati Night Express, daily, except Saturday	10.40 P.M.	5.00 A.M.
Lexington Mail, daily, except Sunday.....	6.00 A.M.	6.35 P.M.
Lexington Express, daily, except Sunday.....	2.30 P.M.	10.30 A.M.
Frankfort Accommod'n, daily, except Sunday..	4.55 P.M.	8.15 A.M.
Shelbyville Accommod'n, daily, except Sunday	3.55 P.M.	10.30 A.M.

Sleeping car on 10 40 P. M. Round-trip tickets to Cincinnati and Covington at reduced rates. Ticket Offices—Depot, Third and Main streets, Galt House, Louisville Hotel and Willard Hotel. Telegrams to secure sleeping car berths to Eastern cities will be sent free.
S. S. PARKER,
General Passenger and Ticket Agent.
J. E. GUNPERLING,
my10 3m Superintendent, Louisville, Ky.

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.
MEMPHIS CONFERENCE
FEMALE INSTITUTE,
JACKSON, TENNESSEE.
REV. A. W. JONES, D. D., PRESIDENT.
THIS OLD AND POPULAR INSTITUTION is most favorably located at the junction of the Mobile and Ohio and Mississippi Central railroads, in the healthy, intelligent, refined and religious community of Jackson, and furnishes all the advantages of a first-class Female College. The best professors and teachers employed. The discipline mild, firm and parental. The course of study thorough and extensive. The library large and valuable. The chemical and philosophical apparatus ample and appropriate. The buildings and grounds well arranged, commodious and beautiful. The conveniences and accommodations in all departments complete, excellent and satisfactory. The attention to the health, manners and comfort of pupils constant and faithful. For more than seventeen years no young lady has died within the walls of the institute, while the cases of severe sickness have been few.
Fall session begins on the FIRST MONDAY IN SEPTEMBER, and the opening address and concert on the following Tuesday evening. Spring session begins on the fourth Monday in January. Commencement day, the second Wednesday in June.
TUITION.

Collegiate department.....	$25 00
Music and use of piano.....	30 00
Latin and French, each.....	10 00
Board, washing, etc.....	90 00

Other charges moderate. Payments one-half in advance. For particulars address the president, or jy11 4m PROF. A. B. JONES, A. M.

TUSKALOOSA FEMALE COLLEGE,
TUSKALOOSA, ALABAMA.
THE NEXT SESSION OPENS SEPTEMBER 23, 1872.
The beautiful and healthy city of Tuskaloosa, Alabama, is unsurpassed as a location.
The Faculty will consist of three Professors and eight or ten Lady Assistants.
Course of study thorough. Domestic arrangements complete. Young ladies' sleeping apartments elegantly furnished and carpeted. Health department includes a finely-conducted Gymnasium. This College is believed to be equal to the best in the United States, and the cheapest in the South. Special advantages for orphan children whose guardians wish to furnish them a home and school in one. For particulars and catalogue address the proprietor,
REV. B. F. LARRABEE,
jy18 3m Tuskaloosa, Alabama.

RANDOLPH MACON COLLEGE,
Ashland, Hanover Co., Va.,
OFFERS, ON VERY LOW TERMS, THE advantages of thorough instruction, high grade of scholarship, best religious influences in a refined community, and at a location remarkable for healthfulness—just sixteen miles north of Richmond, on the R., F. and P. Railroad. Only $110 will pay all necessary for the half session! For catalogue address
REV. JAS. A. DUNCAN, D. D.,
President, or
REV. ALEX. G. BROWN, Sec.,
Jy25 2m P. O., Ashland, Va.

EMORY AND HENRY COLLEGE,
VIRGINIA.
THE FALL SESSION of this institution begins on the FIFTEENTH OF AUGUST next. One Hundred and Fifteen Dollars will pay all the necessary expenses of a five-month session, including board, tuition, fuel, room-rent, washing and contingent fees. Payments are required in advance, except for board, which is $13 per month, and payable monthly in advance. If you will consult the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and her ministers generally, our alumni and students, or the professors of the University of Virginia, who have authorized this reference, you will be assured that we are offering excellent opportunities for a thorough collegiate training, surrounded by healthful, moral, religious influences. If you desire a catalogue, or any additional information, address
E. E. WILEY, President,
Je20 4m Emory P. O., Virginia.

GREEN FARM HIGH SCHOOL,
NEAR BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
REV. F. M. GRACE, PROPRIETOR.
THE FIRST SESSION of this School will begin on the FIRST MONDAY IN AUGUST, 1872, and will continue forty weeks, with a recess of one week at Christmas. The cost of board and tuition will be $20 per month, or $200 per annum. The course of study will embrace all branches usually taught in schools and colleges, and will be adapted to the end the student has in view.
The school is private property, but will be conducted in the interest of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.
The buildings and grounds are ample for a private boarding school, and are located in a most beautiful and healthful situation. Boys will be treated with paternal kindness, and the younger pupils will receive especial attention. On Saturday before the opening of the session the proprietor will meet his pupils at Birmingham with private conveyance to the school.
Correspondence is solicited, and circulars will be sent on application to the President at Birmingham, Alabama. For references he respectfully gives his former pupils in the Southern States. je13 2m

HOMER COLLEGE.
THE EXERCISES OF THE TWELFTH scholastic year of Homer College, begin on the first Tuesday in September, 1871. The term is divided into a short Fall Session and a long Spring Session, with a Christmas Vacation of two weeks.
FACULTY:
Rev. J. E. COBB, President and Professor of Mental, Moral and Commercial Science.
J. W. NICHOLSON, A. M., Professor of Pure and Mixed Mathematics.
A. C. CALHOUN, A. B., Professor of Languages.
E. M. CORRY, A. B., Tutor in Physical Science.
TERMS—IN ADVANCE:

Tuition for Fall Session.....	$10 and $20 00
Tuition for Spring Session.....	24 and $30 00
Incidental fee (per session).....	1 50
Board (per month).....	15 00

Students admitted at any time in classes already formed, and charged until the end of the session.
A course of study as full and thorough as that of any college in the land, an ample corps of instructors, a complete library and apparatus, recently purchased and adapted to the present demands of science and learning, the sure prospect of a permanent endowment, now in progress, an eminently healthful location, a surrounding community intelligent and refined, invite the patronage of the Southwest to Homer College.
For further particulars, address
REV. J. E. COBB,
President Homer College, La.
W. F. MEARLAND,
se21 tf President Board of Trustees.

CENTENARY COLLEGE
OF LOUISIANA.
THE SESSION OF THIS COLLEGE WILL begin on the FIRST MONDAY in October next. The session embraces forty weeks.
EXPENSES.

Collegiate department, per session...	$60 00
Preparatory department, per session.	40 00
Incidental expenses.....	5 00

Tuition for five months payable in advance.
Boarding can be had in good families at from $15 to $20 per month.
For further particulars address
PROF. A. R. HOLCOMBE,
se10 1y Jackson, La.

Scientific.

A REMARKABLE PHENOMENON, resembling yet surpassing the "afterglow" of the Alps, or the rich hues of Italian or Grecian hills, following sunset, is described by H. Burkhart Jezler, in Poggendorff's Annalen, as witnessed by himself on the Brazilian coast. It is well known that twilight lasts but a short time in the tropics. But there, after heavy rains or storms, thoroughly purifying the air and leaving a perfectly clear sky, about a quarter of an hour after sunset, as darkness begins to reign, and stars of the third magnitude become visible to the naked eye, then, he says, daylight brightens up again, and the whole western heaven beams with a clear light, as though illuminated anew by an invisible sun. At first this light appears to undulate, and to cause every object on which it falls to tremble in like manner. It is not white alone, nor of one color only; the rays of all the colors of the spectrum stream down, wherever the eye may turn, in continual variation. Dark blue, purple and gold, light green and scarlet intermingled with violet, come and go in wonderfully quick succession, by whose rapid movement trees or shrubs or blades of grass seem to be animated with new, strange life. Soon this action grows less; the hasty change of color ceases; the western sky, which hitherto has shone in a misty irradiation, in a glimmer of white, green and golden brightness, clears up; and a glow of color combining every shade of red and yellow breaks forth, and floods the landscape a golden light, somewhat as it would appear if viewed through a golden-colored glass, yet modified by the shades of the various objects it embraces. The dark woods shine in bluish green, the nearer bushes gleam in lighter hue, the meadows shimmer in greenish gold, the trunks of trees and roofs of houses light up in reddish yellow. Distinct shadows are cast wherever their objects may be sketched by horizontal lines of projection on an adjacent background. At length darkness gradually gathers on the western-turned declivities of the hills, and night returns over the earth, as a faint yellow, and at last a faded white halo lingers behind in the west, the waning of the brilliant display, and anon wholly disappears.

The duration of the trembling light of ever-changing colors varies from eight to ten minutes; the steady glow of orange-red colored radiance lasts from thirty to forty minutes, with the strength of daylight. The natives call this evening glow Arrebol. A conjectural explanation of its causes is attempted in the Annalen by the observer, with optical drawings; too long and abstruse, however, for statement here.

SLEEPING FLOWERS.—Almost all flowers sleep during the night. The marigold goes to bed with the sun, and with him rises weeping. Many plants are so sensitive that they close their leaves during the passage of a cloud. The dandelion opens at five or six in the morning, and shuts at nine in the evening. The goats' beard wakes at three in the morning, and shuts at five or six in the evening. The English daisy shuts up its blossom in the evening, and opens its "day's eye" to meet the early beams of the morning sun. The crocus, tulip and many others close their blossoms at different hours toward the evening. The ivy-leaved lettuce opens at eight in the morning, and closes forever at four in the afternoon. The night-flowering cereus turns night into day. It begins to expand its magnificent sweet-scented blossoms in the twilight; it is full-blown at midnight, and closes, never to open again, with the dawn of day. In a clover field not a leaf opens till after sunrise. Those plants which seem to be awake all night have been called "the bats and owls of the vegetable kingdom."

THE CURIOUS ATMOSPHERE OF NEVADA.—A Nevada paper, speaking of the rarity of the atmosphere of Virginia City, says: "Persons arriving from places near the level of the sea, who at home are rapid walkers, soon find themselves brought up with a round turn, and either raise blood or bleed at the nose. Little brisk walking is ever seen in the city. People do not seem so active as they really are, for the reason that they have been compelled to adopt a gait which, if not lazy, is at least rather leisurely. Hot weather is felt more severely and is much more debilitating than at the sea level. When the thermometer marks eighty degrees in this elevated region, the air is of much less value than it is at the sea level under the same heat. Pigeons that fly very strongly in California are almost like unfledged birds when brought here.

AN OSWEGO special states that a phenomenon occurred in Lake Ontario a few days ago, when the water rose two feet and then fell. Fish came to the surface, and there were other indications of a submarine earthquake.

COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

PRICE, HINE & TUPPER,
General Commission Merchants,
FACTORS, AND
Agents of Attakapas Mail Transportation Co.,
NO. 26 CARONDELET STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Advances made on consignments to T. Tupper & Sons, Charleston, S. C.; Williams, Birnie & Co., and Leverich & Co., New York. no21 1y

W. H. SUTTON. J. R. POWELL.
SUTTON & POWELL,
COTTON FACTORS
AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
186..... COMMON STREET 186
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
so21 1y

H. F. GIVEN. LUCIEN J. BOIZE.
H. F. GIVEN & CO.,
COTTON, TOBACCO AND SUGAR FACTORS,
—AND—
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 64 Baronne street, New Orleans.
oc5 1y

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.
AIKEN & WATT,
Cotton Factors and Commission Merchants,
60.....CARONDELET STREET.....60
NEW ORLEANS.
Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. no2 1y

J. L. DUNNICA, New Orleans. T. A. HAMILTON, Memphis.
G. P. HARRISON, New Orleans.
J. L. DUNNICA & CO.,
FLOUR, PRODUCE AND PROVISION
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
50.....TCHOUPITOULAS ST.....50
NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA.
oc22 1y

J. U. PAYNE. W. H. DAMERON. H. M. PAYNE
PAYNE, DAMERON & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
64 & 66....BARONNE STREET....64 & 66
Between Union and Gravier streets,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
je19 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,
Cotton Factors and General Commission Merchants,
31..... PERDIDO STREET.....31
oc3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

BUSINESS CARDS.

E. HEATH. M. LARA. J. P. HEATH.
HEATH, LARA & HEATH,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
UPHOLSTERERS' MATERIALS,
WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES,
CORNICES AND CURTAIN GOODS,
Pictures, Frames, Moldings, Looking Glasses and Clocks.
NO. 99 CAMP STREET,
no16 1y NEW ORLEANS.

THE MITCHELL & RAMMELSBERG
FURNITURE COMPANY,
Manufacturers and dealers in all kinds of
Furniture, Mattresses, Looking Glasses,
ETC., ETC.,
103 and 105 Camp street, cor. Poydras,
Meresque Building, New Orleans,
have the largest and best assortment of FURNITURE of any house in the city.
Please give us a call before purchasing elsewhere. my23 1y

J. THOMSON. G. THOMSON. W. B. THOMSON.
J. THOMSON & BROS.,

Manufacturers of
Carriages, Barouches, Buggies, Phaetons,
SPRING WAGONS, ETC.
68 and 70 Rampart Street,
Bet. Common and Gravier, New Orleans, La.
Repairing done in all its branches. no30 1y

LOUISIANA STEAM
SASH, BLIND AND DOOR FACTORY,
ROBERTS & CO., PROPRIETORS,
301, 303, 305 and 307 Gravier Street,
NEW ORLEANS. my30 1y

JAMES M'CRACKEN. GEO. E. BREWSTER.
M'CRACKEN & BREWSTER,
DEALERS IN FURNITURE,
Nos. 37, 39 and 41 Royal street.
Manufactory, corner Derbigny and Customhouse streets, New Orleans. my9 6m

CHARLES BALLEJO,
FAMILY GROCER,
St. Charles, corner of Jackson street,
my9 3m New Orleans, La.

GEORGE CRONAN,
(SUCCESSOR TO BENNETT & LURGES,)
SOUTHERN ORNAMENTAL IRON WORKS
Corner Magnolia and Erato Sts.,
Near Jackson Railroad Depot,
my9 3m NEW ORLEANS.

JOHN I. ADAMS & CO., (JOHN I. ADAMS, JAY L. ADAMS, GEO. W. WEST, WM. H. RENAUD,)
WHOLESALE GROCERS,
AND DEALERS IN
PROVISIONS, LARD, OILS, ETC., ETC.,
43, 45 and 47 Peters street,
(Formerly New Levee,)
mh21 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ELON G. SMITH, J. L. CHEATHAM, J. W. DRAUGHON.
SMITH, CHEATHAM & CO.,
(SUCCESSORS TO ELON G. SMITH & CO.)
PORK PACKERS,
Provision and Commission Merchants,
CORNER THIRD AND SPRUCE STREETS,
SAINT LOUIS.
We solicit orders from the trade for goods in our line. oc26 1y

C. SAMPSON. F. G. SAMPSON.
SAMPSON BROTHERS,
(Late C. C. Sampson,)
FURNITURE.
33 & 35..... ROYAL STREET.....33 & 35
NEW ORLEANS.
Established in 1833. ja11 1y

Carpet Warehouse—17 Chartres Street.
A. BROUSSEAU & CO.,
Importers and dealers, at Wholesale and Retail, in English and American Carpetings.
Floor Oil Cloths, Table and Enameled Oil Cloths.
Window Shades, Table and Piano Covers.
Crumb Cloths, in squares or pieces.
Curtain and Furniture Materials.
Brocatelles, Cotelsnes, Terries, Reps, Lace and Nottingham Lace Curtains, Haircloth Ticking, Springs, Burlaps, Step Covers, etc.
no23 1y A. BROUSSEAU & CO.

BUSINESS CARDS.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
CANAL ST., COR. ROYAL, NEW ORLEANS,
IMPORTERS OF
WATCHES, JEWELRY, CLOCKS,
PLATED WARE, HOUSEKEEPING GOODS,
Cutlery, Guns, Pistols, Bronzes, Porcelain and Fancy Goods.
MANUFACTURERS OF
PURE COIN SILVERWARE.
Watches and Jewelry carefully repaired. Every article sold fully guaranteed.
no23 1y

C. HUCHEZ,
FAMILY GROCER,
NOS. 95 AND 97 CAMP STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Supplies carefully put up for families moving over the Lake. my30 3m

JOHN LAZARUS,
PRACTICAL OPTICIAN,
6.....ST. CHARLES ST.....6
Near Canal, New Orleans.
Sole Agent for the celebrated Pantascopic Star Spectacles and Eye Glasses. jn1,21 6m

T. H. McMAHAN & CO.,
BANKERS,
And Dealers in Foreign and Domestic Exchange,
GALVESTON, TEXAS.
We have prompt and reliable correspondents at all the principal points throughout this State, and upon all collections payable in this city or Houston make no charge for collecting, and only actual charge upon interior collections.
Immediate and prompt attention given to all business intrusted to us. feb1 1y

RICHARD BRODERICK,
CISTERN MAKER,
132.....Julia street 132
Bet. Camp and Magazine, New Orleans.
Second hand Cisterns always on hand. All work guaranteed.
All orders left at Box 30, Mechanics' and Dealers' Exchange, will meet with prompt attention. my2 1y

HILL & VEAZIE,
74.....Camp street.....74
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
LAMPS AND OILS, CHANDELIERS,
Globes, Chimneys, Shades, Trimmers, Wicks, Cans, Fillers, etc.
PRATTS' ASTRAL OIL, non-explosive and non-inflammable. ja18 1y

R. H. NOBLE. J. H. WOODS.
NOBLE & WOODS,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS,
Nos. 9 and 11 Delta street, and 10 and 12 Front street,
ja18 1y NEW ORLEANS, LA.

JOHN D. MACLIN, (Late R. D. Maclin,) L. C. MACLIN,
COAL! WOOD! COAL!
Pittsburg, Anthracite and Cannel Coal, Oak, Ash and Pine Wood, at the lowest market rates, delivered to any part of the city.
Offices—26 Carondelet street, and corner of Third and Tchoupitoulas. mh7 1y

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

G. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER. E. T. MERRICK, Former Ch. Jus. La.
RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,
Attorneys, Counselors and Solicitors,
Cor. of Camp street and Commercial Place,
se25 NEW ORLEANS.

W. W. EDWARDS,
COUNSELOR AT LAW
AND
COMMISSIONER OF DEEDS,
No. 88 Common street,
se14 1y New Orleans.

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,
DENTAL SURGEON,
152.....JULIA STREET.....152
All operations in Operative, Mechanical and Surgical Dentistry carefully performed. Nitrous Oxide and other Anæsthetics administered. no30 1y

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,
Office—680 Magazine Street,
Between Philip and First sts., New Orleans.
Will call daily at College building, corner Common and Baronne streets, between eleven and twelve o'clock. je29 1y

WATER
The Records of Tests
AT LOWELL, MASS., PROVE
N. F. BURNHAM'S
New Turbine

superior to all others. It gave a higher percentage than any other wheel of common finish. Pamphlet and Price List by N. F. BURNHAM, York, Pa. ap25 6m

PUBLICATIONS FOR ALL
Prominent Benevolent Organizations.
FRATERNITY.
100,000 SOLD!—Masonic, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Red Men, Mechanics, Temperance, etc.
Sale unrivaled by anything heretofore offered. Agents with no experience are selling 20 Pictures and upward a day. One of our agents has cleared over $1,200 in three months. The Brethren welcome these works. Our inducements are UNPRECEDENTED. Our commissions are positively one-fourth larger than any other house does or CAN offer. Send for circular of Order to which you belong, giving No. of your Lodge, and state where you saw this advertisement. You will certainly engage with us.
J. HALE POWERS & CO., Fraternity Publishers,
my9 7m Cincinnati, Ohio.

FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL BOOKS,
AT LOWEST CASH PRICES, address
ROBT. J. HARP, Agent,
jy18 1m 112 Camp street.

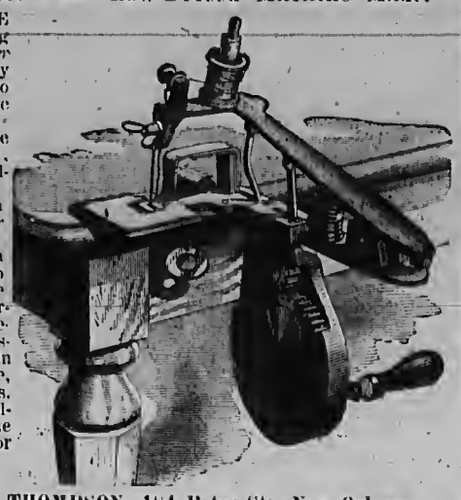
MILLER'S
Bible and Publishing House.
NEW ILLUSTRATED FAMILY BIBLE.
The Cheapest and Best Bible published. LARGE PRINT, Beautiful Bindings, more than two hundred Engravings.
THE CHRISTIAN HARMONY,
a new and choice collection of Sacred Music, based on system of seven-shaped character notes. Any one can learn to read music, and sing in one-fourth the time required by the old methods. Address
Miller's Bible and Publishing House,
1102 and 1104 Sansom street,
je27.6m Philadelphia, Penn'a.

THE BECKWITH SEWING MACHINE.

PATENTED APRIL 10, 1871.

PRICE, $10, including Hemmer, Gaide, four Needles, Bottle of Oil and Can

The First and Only Successful Low-Priced Machine Made.



PRACTICAL, DURABLE, SIMPLE and Beautiful. Capable of making by hand upward of 800 Stitches per Minute, and there is very little Family Sewing that this machine will not do as well as a $75 machine, and some work it will do better.

It is well and strongly made of the best material, but compact and light, and takes up but little room. Nickel-plated throughout.

Its SIMPLICITY adapts it to all capacities. Every machine is fully warranted for Two Years.

Full directions for running the machine, hemming, tucking, hem-stitching, etc., accompany every machine.

Parties in the city wishing to purchase a machine can see one in operation at Mrs. Robertson's, dressmaker, corner of Camp and Julia streets, up stairs, over the cigar store, and where they can leave their orders.

Single machines sent to any address, carefully boxed, with all the equipments, on receipt of $10. For full particulars send for circular.

Address
EDWARD THOMPSON, 184 Peter St., New Orleans,
Energetic Agents Wanted. (je27 6m) Agent of the Manufacturer.

"Southern Books for Southern Schools."

School-Books which are Unsectional, Unpartisan, and Unpolitical.
PREPARED BY THE MOST EMINENT SOUTHERN SCHOLARS, AND
ENTIRELY ACCEPTABLE TO SOUTHERN TEACHERS AND PARENTS.

The University Publishing Co.,

An Association composed of many of the several Southern States, feeling the necessity for a series of purely unsectional, unpartisan, and unpolitical, and in their teaching thought and feeling of the Southern people—which should present only the facts of history and science—are now issuing a complete series of School and College Text-books by the eminent Southern scholars and educators named below, which are the

Cheapest, Best, and Most Beautiful School-Books
Now published. The "University Series" embraces

MAURY'S GEOGRAPHICAL SERIES,
By Commodore M. F. Maury, of the Virginia Military Institute. A series of books which mark an era in the study of this science, and which, in the words of a well known and accomplished Southern teacher, "are characterized by a felicity of arrangement and simplicity of style which must ever render them attractive to the young, and which will be used by all who wish to teach Geography as a science, as something to make pupils think, and not merely as an enumeration of dry facts."

Holmes' Readers and Spellers,
By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL.D., Professor of History and General Literature in the University of Virginia. A series of Readers, unequalled in cheapness, excellence, and typographical beauty. They are steadily progressive in character, bright and fresh in their selections of prose and verse, and illustrative of Southern scenes, incidents, and history.

Venable's Arithmetical Series,
By CHARLES S. VENABLE, LL.D., Professor of Mathematics in the University of Virginia. These books are received everywhere by intelligent teachers with the highest [illegible] as being most admirably adapted for mental drill, as well as for business education. The methods, rules, and reasonings are clear, distinct, logical, and comprehensive, and the series is carefully graded throughout.

Holmes' History of the United States,
By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL.D., of the University of Virginia. It is enough to say of this work that it is interesting, impartial, and truthful, as well as pure and graceful in style. It is the best History of the United States which is acceptable to Southern readers, bringing events down to the present date.

THE "UNIVERSITY SERIES" OF SCHOOL-BOOKS
COMPRISES, ALSO,
De Vere's Practical Grammar, Readers, etc.,
By M. SCHELE DE VERE, LL.D., Professor of Modern Languages in the University of Va.
Gildersleeve's Latin Series,
By B. L. GILDERSLEEVE, Ph.D., LL.D., of the University of Virginia.
Carter's Elements of General History,
By Rev. J. F. CARTER, A.M., of Baltimore, Maryland.
Holmes' English Grammars,
By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL.D., of the University of Virginia.
LeConte's Scientific Series,
By the Professors LECONTE, late of the University of South Carolina.
Johnston's English Classics,
By R. M. JOHNSTON, A.M., late Professor of Rhetoric and Belles-Lettres in the University of Georgia.

To which list other books in other departments will early be added.

Send for our full ILLUSTRATED DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, which will be mailed free to any teacher or school officer. Liberal terms given for introduction.

Address
UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING COMPANY,
155 and 157 Crosby Street, New York.
A full supply of "The University Series" always on hand, and teachers and schools supplied by R. J. HARP, Bookseller, 112 Camp St., New Orleans,
And by all prominent booksellers throughout the South.
W. IRVING CLARKE, the General Agent, will furnish any information, and afford every facility to teachers for examining the series. Office—92 CAMP ST., New Orleans. mh7 1y

Carpet and Oil Cloth Warehouse.
J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.
ELKIN & CO.,
168.....CANAL STREET.....168
Near Baronne, New Orleans,
IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF ENGLISH CARPETINGS, RUGS, Etc.
—ALSO—
Oil Cloths, Mattings,
Lace and Damask Curtains,
Window Shades, etc.,
—AND A—
Complete Assortment of Upholstery Goods.
fe8 1y

MINERAL SPERM OIL.
GUARANTEED AS SAFE AS SPERM OR LARD OIL.
It Will Not Take Fire in Case of Breakage of the Lamp.
THE OIL WILL EXTINGUISH the FLAME.
The Oil itself has no odor while burning. It gives a Light of TEN-CANDLE POWER at a cost not exceeding ONE-HALF CENT PER HOUR, and for lighting railroad cars, steamers, factories and dwelling houses it is invaluable and cannot be too highly recommended.
The Oil is patented, and made by a process which insures its uniformity.
It burns with great brilliancy in the
DUAL BURNER,
requires but little attention and no trimming. The Oil never gums in the lamp, as it absorbs no oxygen from the atmosphere. It does not deteriorate by age. This Burner fits all ordinary coal oil lamps.
BOSTICK & SEYMOUR,
Sole Agents for Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi and Texas,
45 and 47 Front st., and 46 and 48 Fulton st.,
mh28 6m New Orleans.

EXCHANGE HOTEL,
JOHN SUMMERS, PROPRIETOR,
GALVESTON, TEXAS.
This is the only Hotel in the city which has FREE OMNIBUSES to and from the cars and boats for the use of guests. Ask for Exchange Hotel Omnibus. feb1 1y

SAVE $20.
THE NEW WILSON
UNDER-FEED.

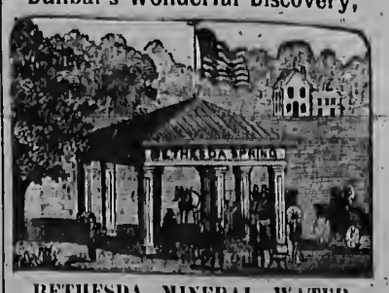
The Best and Cheapest First-Class Shuttle SEWING MACHINE In the World.
Agents Wanted.
WM. GREGG & CO., Gen'l Southern Agents, No. 189 Canal street, New Orleans, La.
je27 6m

fe11 1y

Uniform Lessons for 1872.
FOR TEACHERS.—The Sunday School World contains the explanations and studies prepared by Rev. John Hall, D. D., for teachers.
SCHOLARS' PAPER.—With the text of the lesson, and suggestive helps for the study of it; and questions at the foot of each page, to be answered in writing by the scholar.
INTERMEDIATE LESSON PAPER.—Adapted to the use of less advanced scholars, with questions and explanations.
Price of each Lesson Paper of four pages, at the rate of 75 cents per 100 copies for one month, or $9 per 100 copies yearly.
Catalogues of the Society's publications and sample copies of its periodicals furnished gratuitously on application at the Depository of the
AMERICAN SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION,
aa1 3m 1122 Chestnut st., Philadelphia.

MEDICAL.

Dunbar's Wonderful Discovery,



BETHESDA MINERAL WATER.
The acknowledged cure for Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Liver and Bilious Affections, Kidney and Urinary diseases.
Sold, wholesale or retail, at 38 Magazine street.
H. D. HUFF,
Sole Southern Agent.
Address Glass Box 825. my30 3m

CONSUMPTION.....CONSUMPTION.
NEW TREATMENT BY
DUCRO'S ALIMENTARY ELIXIR
prepared with raw meat and alcohol. Recommended by the highest medical authority in Paris. A radical cure, and in desperate cases a
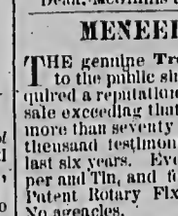
CERTAIN RELIEF.
Agreeable to the taste. Incontestably superior to Cod Liver Oil, the hypophosphites, and other preparations. This Elixir, the basis of which is raw meat and alcohol, is moreover one of the most powerful tonics for persons convalescing or feeble, for chloratic young girls, debilitated old persons, etc.
Depot in New Orleans at
MR. P. CUSACHS',
Corner St. Philip and Royal streets,
my16 3m New Orleans,
Sole Agent for the United States.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A POPULAR MUSIC BOOK!
AT A POPULAR PRICE!
"THE SCEPTER,"
By Dr. A. BROOKS EVERETT,
ONLY $1.00.—BY THE DOZEN, $10.50.
"THE SCEPTER" contains a large variety of most valuable material, embracing Hymn-tunes, Anthems, Glees, the "Everett System of Teaching Vocal Music," etc., by the well-known professor of music, Dr. A. BROOKS EVERETT, recognized throughout the Southern States as a most successful and popular teacher of the art of singing, as well as the author of many of the most popular tunes contained in the Tabor or Richmond Collection.
"THE SCEPTER"
also contains contributions by Profs. R. M. McIntosh, B. H. Everett and other well-known composers, as well as a large number of old standard tunes.
Every Choir Leader and Teacher of Music should examine "THE SCEPTER."
Sent, post paid, on receipt of $1.
PUBLISHED BY
BIGLOW & MAIN, NEW YORK,
SUCCESSORS TO WM. B. BRADBURY,
Publishers of the most popular series of SUNDAY SCHOOL SONG BOOKS—Golden Chain, Shower and Censer, Fresh Laurels, Bright Jewels, Pure Gold, etc. For sale by Booksellers generally.
All publications of Biglow & Main are for sale by ROBT. J. HARP, Agent, 112 Camp street, New Orleans. jy18 3m

SWINTON'S CONDENSED
SCHOOL HISTORY.
(From the Virginia Educational Journal.)
Mr. Swinton's reputation led us to examine this book. What is of most importance in the work is its extreme fairness. It is vastly superior, in this respect, to any history issued at the North that we have seen. Where accuracy seems almost impossible, he comes nearer to the truth than the others.
NEW SCHOOL BOOKS.
SWINTON'S WORD ANALYSIS.
CATHCART'S YOUTH'S SPEAKER.
ARITHMETICAL EXAMPLES (Mental and Written.)
KERL'S SHORTER COURSE IN GRAMMAR.
A Descriptive Catalogue of the American Educational Series, and our Educational Reporter, mailed free to any address upon application.
Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co.,
Or T. MORONEY, General Agent,
mh28 1y 92 Camp street, New Orleans.



BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY,
Established in 1837.
Superior Bells for Churches, Schools, etc., of Pure Copper and Tin, fully warranted, and mounted with our Latest Improved Rotary Hangings, the best in use.
Illustrated Catalogue sent free
VANDUZEN & TIFT,
102 & 104 E. Second St., Cincinnati
fe22 1y

A GREAT CHANCE FOR AGENTS.
Do you want an agency, local or traveling, with an opportunity to make $5 to $20 a day selling our new 7-strand White Wire Clothes Lines? They last forever; sample free, so there is no risk. Address at once Hudson River Wire Works, cor. Water St. and Malden Lane, New York, or 16 Dearborn street, Chicago, Illinois. au24 1y

PRICE WILLIAMS & SON,
Exchange and Real Estate Brokers
MOBILE, ALABAMA.
Dealers in Bills, Bonds, Notes and Stocks of every kind. Plantations, and lands unimproved, for sale in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. Also every class of Real Estate in Mobile, Alabama. Rent, and pay taxes and insurance on Real Estate in Mobile. Invest money on mortgages, etc., and collect claims.
REFERENCES.
Messrs. Baker, Lawler & Co., Mobile, Ala.
Moses Waring, Esq., Mobile, Ala.
Hon. Milton Brown, Jackson, Tenn.
Bishop J. C. Keener, New Orleans
Bishop Paine, Mississippi.
Bishop McTyeire, Nashville, Tenn.
Messrs. John T. Farwell & Co., Chicago.
Dean, McGinnis & Co., N. Y. no26 1y

MENEELY'S BELLS.
THE genuine Troy Church Bells known to the public since 1826, which have acquired a reputation unequaled by any, and a sale exceeding that of all others—including more than seventy chimes and peals. One thousand testimonials received during the last six years. Every Bell made of best Copper and Tin, and formally warranted. New Patent Rotary Fixtures. Catalogues free. No agencies.
Post office address, either TROY or WEST TROY, New York.
Je13 1y E. A. & G. R. MENEELY.

WM. PHILLIPS, UNION STABLES, 180 Calliope, near St. Charles street, has every accommodation in the line of Pleasure and Family Carriages, such as hacks, brettes, phaetons, buggies, etc., for the use of the public, and at rates to correspond with the stringency of the times. All hacking done below tariff rates. Orders for weddings, balls, picnics, races, etc., will be attended to so as to guarantee satisfaction. I am also prepared to hire vehicles (alone) to parties having their own horses. de14 1y

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

(From the New Orleans Price Current.)

The weather has been clear and warm, highly favorable to the maturing crop, and furnishing abundant facilities to the initial pickings. In our last report we noticed the receipt of two additional bales of new crop from Texas, making, inclusive of the two bales which passed in transit through the city, five bales Texas up to Friday evening, and none from the Mississippi valley, against three of the former last year. The receipts since include six bales Louisiana and Mississippi, per Ouachita Belle on Sunday, the fourth instant, and three on Monday. The first receipts of new crop from the Mississippi valley this year have been on the same day as last year, August 4.

The river is 9 feet 8½ inches below high water mark.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the second instant:

Louisiana and Mississippi.....bales.. 121

On Saturday not a sale was reported, except 2 bales new crop at auction, which brought 19¼c. On Monday 1 bale new crop, classing middling, sold at 21½c., and 24 bales at 18½c. for good ordinary, 19¼c. for low middling, and 19½c. for middling. On Tuesday the business embraced 112 bales, including 95 for the North, at about previous rates, the advantage, if any, being on the side of the buyer. Good ordinary to low middling sold at 19c.

The receipts proper at this port, since the first of September (exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas,) are 953,647 bales, against 1,436,892 bales to the same date last year, and the decrease in the receipts at all the ports, up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 1,263,205 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same date last year, there is an increase of 51,122 to France, and a decrease of 901,998 to Great Britain, and of 334,875 to other foreign ports.

We quote:

Good ordinary	18¼ @ 18¾
Low middling	19¼ @ 19¾

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1871, bales.		25,323
Arrived past three days..	121
Arrived previously	1,051,048
Waste and damaged cotton, samples, etc	14,939	1,066,108
		1,091,431
Exported past three days.
Exported previously	1,083,951	1,083,951
Stock on hand and on shipboard..		7,480

SUGAR.—On Tuesday 20 hhds. were received from plantation, 10 of which were yellow clarified and sold at 11½c; 10 are white clarified and are yet unsold. Some small resales were made by dealers in the sheds at the foregoing prices. Of city refinery, yellow clarified is selling on orders at 11¼@11¾c., white 12⅛@12¾c., crushed and powdered 13⅛@13¼c., cut loaf 14@14¼c. ℔ lb.

MOLASSES.—There is little or none coming in from plantation. Some 52 bbls. poor and thin, received on Monday, sold at 27½c. per gallon. City refinery is selling at 30c. for inferior, 40c. for common, 50c. for fair, 55c. for prime, 60c. for choice, and 80c.@$1 ℔ gallon for golden sirup.

CORN.—The supply is good, the demand is limited and prices have ruled in favor of buyers. On Tuesday 4,000 sacks sold at 57c. for yellow and yellow mixed, 60c. for white mixed, and 66@67c. for white.

OATS—Is now in good supply on the landing, and the demand is fair, but at prices about 2c. ℔ bushel easier for buyers. On Tuesday 1,500 sacks sold at 40@40½c. for St. Louis, 42c. for choice do., and 44c. for choice Galena.

BRAN—Is in good supply, with only a fair demand, and prices have ruled in favor of buyers.

PORK.—The market has continued dull, with mess offering at $13.50 ℔ bbl. and no demand, though a lot of 50 bbls. mess sold on Saturday at $13.62½ ℔ bbl. It is retailing at $13.75@$14 ℔ bbl.

BACON.—On Tuesday the demand was active and the market was firm. The sales embraced 350 casks, comprising 175 casks to arrive, at 7¾c. for shoulders, 9½c. for clear rib sides, and 10c. for clear sides, and 200 casks, on the spot, at 7¼@7⅝c. for shoulders, 9¼c. for clear rib sides, and 10c. for clear sides, a lot of 10 casks commanding 10¼c. ℔ lb.

HAMS.—The market is in fair supply and firm, and good brands of sugar-cured are in demand. On Tuesday a lot of 25 tierces choice sugar-cured sold at the railroad depot at 15½c., and 10 tierces on the spot at 15¾c. ℔ lb.

LARD.—On Tuesday the market was firm and unchanged, with small sales to the trade. A lot of 50 kegs refined sold at 11c. ℔ lb.

CHEESE.—The supply is good. Western is selling at 13¼@14½c. ℔ lb., the latter price for small selections of choice factory. New York cream commands 16@17c. ℔ lb.

DRY SALT MEAT.—The light receipts coming in are consigned to dealers, who are retailing shoulders at 6¾c. ℔ lb., and sides at 7½c. for clear rib, and 8½c. for clear sides. On Saturday a lot of 20 casks shoulders sold on the landing at 6¼c. ℔ lb., and on Tuesday 20 casks shoulders sold on private terms.

BREAKFAST BACON.—The market is bare of choice, and some Western expected by the railroad is offering at 12c. ℔ lb. On Saturday and Monday 23 boxes, some in large boxes and some poor and thick sides, sold at 10¼c. ℔ lb. Northern is retailing at 12¼@12¾c. ℔ lb.

BEEF.—There is a fair supply of Texas, with a small stock of Western and Northern. We quote Texas mess $11@$12, extra mess $12.50 ℔ bbl., and $9 for half bbls. Tierces are quoted at $17@$17.50 for mess, and $18@$18.50 for prime mess. Western $14@$15 in bbls., and Northern $15.50@$16 for bbls., and $9 for half bbls.

MONETARY.

Gold opened on Tuesday at 114⅝@114⅞ (against 115¼ at New York,) and closed at 114⅝@114⅞ (against 115¼ at New York.)

The sales of silver have been confined to retail lots.

New Orleans Wholesale Prices.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
Agricultural Implements:
Cotton scrapers	4 50	6 00
Cotton sweeps	4 50	6 00
Cultivators, Diam. & shovel-tooth	7 75	10 50
Cultivators, riding	45 00	60 00
Cultivators, walking	30 00	35 00
Shovels	7 50	14 50
Spades	7 50	16 50
Axes	10 00	15 00
Potato diggers	13 50	— —
Shovel plows	6 00	7 00
Half do., with cutters	8 00	9 00
Manly's D. S plow	6 00	9 75
Corn mills, Coleman's	120 00	425 00
Bread, ℔ 100 lbs:
Pilot	5 00	6 00
Loaf	— —	— —
Crackers	5 00	12 00
Navy	— —	4 00
Cream crackers	11 00	12 00
Bricks, ℔ M:
Lake	13 00	16 00
English fire	— —	50 00
American fire	40 00	— —
Candles, ℔ lb:
Sperm, New Bedford	33	36
Tallow	16	18
Chocolate, ℔ lb:
Cocoa	38	60
No. 1	50	52
Sweet and spiced	25	— —
Cider, ℔ bbl:
Western	— —	— —
Coal, ℔ ton:
Anthracite	12 00	13 00
Western, ℔ bbl	— —	60
Corks, ℔ 1000:
Regular	— —	— —
Pointed	— —	— —
Coffee, ℔ lb:
Havana (currency)	— —	— —
Java	25	27
Cordova	— —	— —
Copper, ℔ lb:
Braziers'	48	— —
Copper bolts	48	— —
Yellow metal	30	32
Cordage, ℔ lb:
Manilla	19	20
Tarred, American	— —	16
Russian	16	— —
Cotton seed:
Rough, ℔ ton	— —	13 00
In sacks	17 00	17 50
Dyes, ℔ lb:
Logwood, Camp'y	4	4½
Logwood, St. Domingo	4½	4¾
Fustic, Tampico	5	6
Indigo, ℔ lb	1 40	1 60
Madder	15	18
Eggs, ℔ dozen:
Western	14	16
Feathers, ℔ lb	80	90
Fish, ℔ box:
Cod	1 40	— —
Herrings	35	— —
Mackerel, No. 1, ℔ bbl	13 00	— —
Mackerel, No. 2	10 50	— —
Mackerel, No. 3	8 00	— —
Flaxseed, ℔ lb	4½	5½
Flour, ℔ bbl:
Double extra	5 75	6 00
Superfine	4 50	— —
Fine	4 00	4 25
Fruit, ℔ lb:
Prunes	10½	13
Currants, new	9	10
Almonds, soft shell	17	18½
Almonds, shelled	30	— —
Glass, ℔ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	3 50	4 00
French, 10 by 12	3 75	4 25
French, 12 by 18	4 00	4 50
Gunny bags, ℔ bag	18	— —
Hay, ℔ ton:
Primo	26 00	— —
Choice	28 00	— —
Iron, ℔ ton:
Pig	54 00	55 00
Country bar, ℔ lb	— —	— —
English	5½	7½
Swedes, assorted	8½	9½
Hoop	6½	8
Sheet	7½	8½
Boiler	8	9½
Nail rods	— —	9
Castings, American	5½	6
Lead, ℔ 100 lbs:
Pig	— —	9 50
Bar, ℔ lb	8½	8¾
Sheet	12	— —
Pipe	12	— —
Leather, ℔ lb:
Sole, hemlock	33	34
Sole, oak	37	43
Harness	39	45
Calf skins, ℔ dozen	42 00	70 00
Texas, rough, ℔ lb	24	26
Lime, ℔ bbl:
Western	1 25	1 75
Cement	2 50	3 00
Plaster Paris	4 50	— —
Lumber, ℔ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	13 00	15 00
Boards, cypress	25 00	30 00
Flooring, dressed	25 00	30 00
Flooring, rough	15 00	18 00
Ceiling, dressed	20 00	25 00
Weatherboards, dressed	19 00	20 00
Weatherboards, rough	13 00	15 00
Scantling	13 00	15 00
Shingles, ℔ M	3 50	4 25
Laths	2 50	3 00
Moss, ℔ lb:
Country picked	4½	6
Clean picked	6½	7
Nails, ℔ keg:
American, 4@6d	5 60	5 75
Wrought, German, ℔ lb	14	18
Wrought, English	14	18
Oils:
Lard, ℔ gallon	68	73
Coal oil, in barrels	28	28
Coal oil, in cases	31	34
Linseed, raw	90	92
Sperm	— —	2 00
Whale, refined	95	1 00
Cotton seed, crude	— —	46
Cotton seed, refined	60	65
Castor	1 65	1 85
Olive, 22@24 oz	6 75	7 00
Olive, 11@12 oz	7 00	7 25
Tanner's, ℔ gallon	75	85
Soap, ℔ lb:
Western	5½	7
Northern	5½	7
Southern	4½	6½
Castile, genuine	12	— —
Castile, imitation	11	— —
Sardines:
Half boxes	34	35½
Quarter boxes	23½	24
Spices, ℔ lb:
Cassia	40	45
Cloves	19	20
Nutmegs	1 20	1 25
Pepper	21	21¼
Pimento	12	12¼
Sugar, ℔ lb:
Havana, white	13	— —
Havana, yellow	10½	11½
Havana, brown	10½	11
Crushed	13½	13¾
Pulverized	13½	13¾
Teas, ℔ lb:
Imperial	45	1 10
Gunpowder	75	1 50
Hyson	75	1 25
Young Hyson	75	1 10
Oolong	45	1 10
Pouchong	30	50
Tin, ℔ box:
Block	— —	— —
In plates, I. X	18 25	— —
In plates, I. C	16 00	— —
Leaded plates, I. X	17 25	— —
Leaded plates, I. C	15 00	— —

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, August 6, 1872.

Texas beeves, choice, ℔ head	$50 00	@	55 00
Texas beeves, 1st qual, ℔ head	35 00	@	45 00
Texas cattle, 2d qual, ℔ head	20 00	@	28 00
Texas cattle, 3d qual, ℔ head	14 00	@	18 00
Western beeves, ℔ lb. net	10	@	13
Hogs, ℔ lb. gross	4½	@	6
Sheep, first quality, ℔ head	5 00	@	6 00
Sheep, second qual., ℔ head	3 00	@	4 00
Sheep, third quality, ℔ head	2 00	@	2 50
Milch cows, choice, ℔ head	80 00	@	100 00
Milch cows, ℔ head	50 00	@	80 00
Texas cows, with calves	— —	@	— —
Calves, ℔ head	7 00	@	10 00
Yearlings, ℔ head	8 00	@	12 00

Special Notices.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting at Providence church, five miles east of Sparta, Louisiana, commencing on Friday evening, September 13, 1872. The people are requested and invited to come in their wagons, provided to take care of themselves. The brethren and friends will please meet me at the place appointed, to select the place for their tents and prepare the ground, on the third day of September. Ministerial brethren are especially invited.

PHILIP ALLEN, P. C.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting at China Grove, Dale county, Alabama, commencing on Friday before the second Sunday in September. The itinerant and local ministers of the Methodist Episcopal Church South are respectfully invited.

A. S. DICKINSON, Pastor.

To the Preachers of the Camden District, Alabama Conference.

DEAR BRETHREN: Please inform me, at your earliest convenience, of the number and names of the delegates and local preachers for whom we may look at our ensuing District Conference, that we, having due notice thereof, may govern ourselves accordingly.

J. L. SKIPPER.

GEORGIANA, ALA., July 29, 1872.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting held at Mount Zion, on the Haynesville circuit, seven miles north of Homer, Louisiana, commencing on Thursday, August 22, and embracing the fourth Sabbath in August. It will be a joint meeting between Homer and Haynesville circuits. People and preachers are earnestly requested to attend. The preachers will be provided for in every way with accommodations. There will be a boarding tent on the ground for transient visitors; board at reasonable rates.

N. A. CRAVENS, P. C., Homer circuit.
JOHN A. MILLER, P. C., Haynesville circuit.

[The above notice would have been published before this, but for the neglect of the writer to state the time of holding the camp meeting.]

Camden District Conference.

The Camden District Conference will be held at Georgiana, on the Mobile and Montgomery railroad, fifteen miles below Greenville, Alabama, August 21-25. Rev. M. E. Butt will preach the opening sermon on Wednesday night, August 21. The chairmen of committees are as follows: Denominational Education, S. A. Pilley and William Stott; Sunday Schools, M. E. Butt and P. B. Saffold; Books and Periodicals, Neil Gillis and W. W. Drane; Missions, S. F. Pilley and W. G. Perry; Finance, T. M. Williams and F. C. Johnson; Parsonages, J. L. Skipper and Jere. S. Dudley; State of the Church, J. M. Scott and A. R. A. Purifoy; Temperance, D. J. Wright and J. M. Johnston. Let each of the above-named prepare a report for his committee. By resolution of the last District Conference, all preachers in charge are to have written reports, on separate slips of paper, for all the committees, on the first day of the session.

D. M. HUDSON, P. E.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting, commencing on the sixth day of September, half-way between Pleasant Hill and Mansfield, in DeSoto parish, Louisiana. The people are expected and requested to come with wagons and tents, provided to take care of themselves. It is a new camp ground, and we do not know of any public entertainment.

R. PARVIN.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

VICKSBURG DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Rocky Springs, at Steele chapel	Aug. 3, 4
North Warren, Millsdale and Sunflower, at Beechland	10, 11
Cayuga, at Bear Creek	17, 18
South Warren, at Red Bone	24, 25
Clover Hill, at Tallula	30, Sept. 1
Rolling Fork	Sept. 7, 8
Fayette, at Belle Grove	14, 15
Kingston	21, 22

JOHN A. B. JONES, P. E., Port Gibson, Miss.

SUMMIT DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Amite City	Aug. 3, 4
Covington	10, 11
Greensburg	17, 18
Big Creek	24, 25
Franklinton	Sept. 7, 8
St. Helena	14, 15

The Summit District Conference will commence at Tangipahoa, Louisiana, on Friday, September 27, and embrace the fifth Sunday.

J. NICHOLSON, P. E.

JACKSON DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Mount Olivet circuit and Yazoo mission, at New Hope	Aug. 3, 4
Raymond circuit	10, 11
Brownsville circuit	17, 18
Sulphur Springs circuit, at Madisonville	24, 25
Camden and Thomastown circuits	31, Sept. 1
Carthage circuit	Sept. 7, 8

H. H. MONTGOMERY, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Beauregard, at Beauregard	Aug. 3, 4
Georgetown, at Georgetown	10, 11
Jackson, at Forest Hill	17, 18
Bogue Chitto	24, 25
Brookhaven and Brookhaven mission	31, Sept. 1
Crystal Springs and Crystal Springs mission	Sept. 14, 15

The District Meeting will be held September 14-15, at nine o'clock A. M., at Crystal Springs. Bishop J. C. Keener will preside. A camp meeting is in prospect at the same time and place, on the plan recommended by the last District Conference.

W. E. M. LINFIELD, P. E. Post Office, Hazlehurst.

WOODVILLE DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Wilkinson, at Pisgah	Aug. 3, 4
Buffalo, at Friendship	10, 11
Meadville, at Meadville	24, 25
Amite, at Bond's camp ground	31, Sept. 1

J. L. FORSYTH, P. E.

BRANDON DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Decatur mission, at Hebron	Aug. 3, 4
Lake circuit, at Scotland chapel	10, 11
Morton circuit	24, 25
Trenton circuit	31, Sept. 1
Raleigh circuit	Sept. 7, 8
Taylorville mission	14, 15
Garlandsville circuit	21, 22

The District Conference will convene at Forest, August 16, at nine o'clock A. M. All the members, both elect and ex officio, will please be on time, as important business will come up on the first day of the conference. Dear brethren, as prominence is to be given to religious exercises at our District Conferences, let us make this a subject of special prayer, that it may be "a refreshing time from the presence of the Lord."

F. M. WILLIAMS, P. E.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Marion circuit, at Toomsuba	Aug. 3, 4
Paulding circuit	10, 11
Clarke circuit	17, 18
Meridian station	31, Sept. 1

WM. B. HINES, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

YAZOO DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Kosciusko and Bethel, at Bethel	Aug. 3, 4
Black Hawk	10, 11

There will be a camp meeting at Spring Dale, Attala county, Mississippi, beginning August 18, embracing the third Sunday in August.

The District Conference of the Yazoo district, North Mississippi Conference, will meet in Black Hawk, Carroll county, Mississippi, August 29, embracing the first Sunday in September. The Black Hawk camp meeting will begin at the same time and place. All who can are cordially invited to attend these camp meetings, the ministerial brethren particularly. Our camp meetings are expected to be largely self-sustaining—that is, all attending will provide for themselves and their invited friends. We found this plan a good one last year. Let us come up in the spirit of prayer, nothing doubting, and the Master will be there.

W. P. BARTON, P. E.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

DEMOPOLIS DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Gainesville, at Ramsey	Aug. 3, 4
Cuba, at York	10, 11
Bladen, at Providence	17, 18
Butler, at Bright Water	24, 25
Gaston, at Thompkinsville	31, Sept. 1

S. H. COX, P. E.

MOBILE DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Mount Pleasant, at Red Hill	Aug. 3, 4
Grand Bay mission, at Ellington	10, 11
Pollard ct., at Shepherd's chapel	17, 18
Pensacola	24, 25
Milton	31, Sept. 1

H. URQUHART, P. E.

SELMA DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

East Selma station	Aug. 3, 4
Rembert Hills ct., at Camp ground	10, 11
Orrville circuit	17, 18
Dayton and Spring Hill, at Spring Hill	24, 25
Linden and Fistwoods mission, at Spring Hill	24, 25

A. J. BRIGGS, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Caddo circuit, at Friendship	Aug. 17, 18
Mansfield circuit, at Forest Grove	24, 25
Keachie circuit, at Bell Bower	31, Sept. 1
Pleasant Hill circuit, at Bethel	Sept. 7, 8
Springville circuit, at Coushatta Academy	21, 22
Minny circuit, at Bayou Lee	Oct. 5, 6
Anacoco circuit, at Kasatchlo	12, 13
Shreveport	19, 20

The District Conference will be held at Keachie, commencing on Thursday, September 26, at ten A. M. The Bethel camp meeting will commence on the sixth of September, and the Beulah camp meeting will commence September 11.

JOHN PIPES, P. E.

LAKE PROVIDENCE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Waterproof, at Tensas chapel	Aug. 3, 4
Wesley and Jordan, at Jordan	10, 11
Lake Providence, at Illinwarra	17, 18
Bastrop, at Island Desaird	24, 25
Floyd and Delhi, at Midway	31, Sept. 1
Oak Grove, at Oak Grove	7, 8
Lind Grove, at Lind Grove	14, 15
Sicily Island, at Bœuff Prairie	22, 23
Wilsboro, at Oakley	28, 29
Rayville, at Little Creek	Oct. 6, 7

J. T. DAVES, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

New Iberia	Aug. 3, 4
Bayou Bœuff	10, 11
Plaquemine Brulee	24, 25
Coulee Croche	31, Sept. 1
Abbeville	Sept. 7, 8

I hope to spend at least five days at each quarterly meeting.

B. F. WUITE, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Quarterly Conference at Algiers	Aug. 4
Felicity street	11
German charges—Quarterly Conference at Dryades street	16
Plaquemine	Sept. 1
Moreau street	15
Baton Rouge	28, 29

LINUS PARKER, P. E.

MINDEN DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Sparta, at Sparta	Aug. 10, 11
Mount Lebanon, at Atheas	17, 18
Bistineau, at Liberty chapel	31, Sept. 1

The District Meeting for Minden district will be held at Minden, commencing Wednesday, October 2, including the first Sabbath in the month. Preachers and official members of the church within the bounds of the district are specially invited. Visiting ministers will be heartily received.

N. M. SKIPWORTH, P. E.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Formerly WOOD & MANN.

These Engines are so well and favorably known that a description of them here is not deemed necessary.

They are EQUALED by FEW, SURPASSED by NONE, perfect in workmanship, complete in appointments, safe, simple and substantial. Every boiler is practically tested before leaving the factory. By the use of a CIRCULATING WATER BOTTOM around and underneath the furnace, which lessens the

RISK FROM FIRE,

they are particularly adapted for GINNING COTTON. Engines of all sizes, at prices which challenge comparison for equal size of steam cylinder and measurements of boiler. A full stock of these Engines will be kept constantly on hand by the undersigned, who has been appointed general agent.

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN,
No. 9 Union street,
mh21 6m New Orleans, La.

FOR THE VERY BEST AND

Latest Improved Sugar Machinery,

consisting of CANE MILLS, Evaporators, Clarifiers, Grates, Doors, Skimmers, etc., also CIDER MILLS, and the celebrated COTTAGE FRUIT DRYERS, address, for Price List and Catalogue,

SOUTHERN MANUFACTURING CO.,
je20 2m Nashville, Tenn.

NEW ORLEANS BRANCH

Southern Life Insurance Company

OF MEMPHIS, TENNESSEE.

Office—46 Carondelet St., New Orleans.

☞ Good and reliable Solicitors wanted.
my23 3m

AGENTS WANTED TO SELL PARTON'S LIFE OF

HORACE GREELEY,

The Patriot, Statesman and Philanthropist.

Every citizen who is interested in the remarkable career of our next President should read the truthful story of his life, as told by the greatest American Biographer. A work of rare interest, and full of instruction. For circulars and terms address

NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.,
jy25 2m Memphis, Tenn.

DRY GOODS—CLOTHING.

D. H. HOLMES,

155.....CANAL STREET.....155

—AND—

15.....BOURBON STREET.....15

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER

—IN—

ALL DESCRIPTIONS

—OF—

DRY GOODS,

—SUCH AS—

SILKS, TISSUES, EMBROIDERIES, LACES, SHAWLS, CLOAKS, MADE SUITS, ETC.

The attention of the public is respectfully called to our stock, which will be found most complete, embracing every kind of Fancy and Staple Goods.

ap25 6m

W. H. PIERSON. E. L. HEWS.

PIERSON & HEWS,

DEALERS IN

Fine Clothing & Furnishing Goods,

NOS. 13 AND 15 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

feb15 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

ORGANS.

SEND TO

ROBERT J. HARP, AGENT,

112 Camp St., New Orleans,

FOR

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUES

OF THE

WOODS ORGANS,

FOR

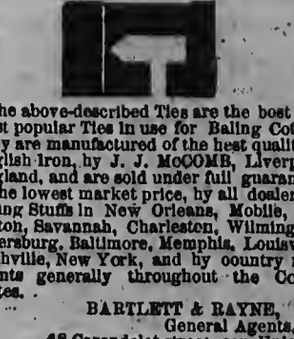
Churches, Families, Sabbath Schools and Schools,

☞ NO BETTER IN THE MARKET. ☜

my2 tf

IMPORTANT TO PLANTERS.

IRON COTTON TIES.



THE ARROW TIE AND ALL OPEN-SLOT TIES.

The above-described Ties are the best and most popular Ties in use for Baling Cotton. They are manufactured of the best quality of English iron, by J. J. McCOMB, Liverpool, England, and are sold under full guarantee, at the lowest market price, by all dealers in Baling Stuffs in New Orleans, Mobile, Galveston, Savannah, Charleston, Wilmington, Petersburg, Baltimore, Memphis, Louisville, Nashville, New York, and by country merchants generally throughout the Cotton States.

BARTLETT & RAYNE,
General Agents,
46 Carondelet street, cor. Union,
my30 6m New Orleans.

SHERMAN HOUSE, NO. 1 WEST TWENTY-Sixth street, New York.—MR. ELKINS, Proprietor. Strangers visiting New York, desiring the comforts and retirement of a home and attendance of a hotel, in a first-class central location, can find the same at from $25 to $40 per week for a gentleman and wife; transient, $3 per day; American plan; lodgings, $1. je27 3m

STEAMSHIPS.

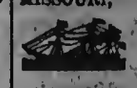
New Liverpool Line of Steamers,

Built expressly for the New Orleans trade, to cross the Bar at all times without detention.

Liverpool and Mississippi Steamship Company.

First-class Powerful Screw Steamers.

ST. LOUIS, Capt. Smith	1,827 tons.
MEMPHIS, Capt. Weeks	2,300 ..
MISSISSIPPI, Capt. Pierson	2,500 ..
TEXAS, (building)	2,500 ..
VICKSBURG, ..	2,500 ..
MISSOURI, ..	2,500 ..



FOR LIVERPOOL DIRECT—The steamship ——, ——, commander, To sail on ——, 1872, from her wharf, foot of St. Mary street, Fourth District. Will receive and sign through bills of lading to Havre, Bremen, Hamburg, Antwerp, Rotterdam and all Continental ports.

Parties desirous of sending for their friends can purchase prepaid emigration tickets here. A reduction allowed when applied for in groups.

For freight or passage, having superior accommodations, apply to

MEEKER, KNOX & CO.,
49 Carondelet street.

Managing owners—FLINN, MAIN & MONTGOMERY, 12 Launcelot Hay, Chapel street, Liverpool. my16 3m

FOR NEW YORK.

The Cromwell New York and New Orleans Steamship Line.

Steamers of this Line leave New Orleans for New York EVERY SATURDAY at 5 P. M.

Cabin passage $50 00
Steerage passage 25 00

Through bills of lading to foreign and coastwise ports issued.

ALFRED MOULTON,
mh21 1y 41 Carondelet street.

FOR NEW YORK.

MERCHANTS' STEAMSHIP LINE.

Sailing from New York and New Orleans EVERY SATURDAY.

Cabin passage $50 00
Steerage passage 25 00

Through tickets to Liverpool and the Continent.

New Orleans wharf, foot of Jefferson street. New York wharf, Pier No. 4, North river.

JOHN H. LUDWIGSEN, Agent,
feb8 1y No. 190 Common street.

MOBILE ADVERTISEMENTS.

JOHN DOUGLAS, DEALER IN

Fancy and Staple Dry Goods,

NOS. 102 AND 104 DAUPHIN STREET,
MOBILE, ALABAMA.

Agent for the Florence Sewing Machine. All goods warranted as represented, and sold at the lowest rates for Cash, our object being large sales and small profits. ja4 1y

WAVERLY STABLES,
HAYDEN & MEENAN, Proprietors.
LIVERY AND SALE STABLES,
No. 39 North Royal Street, Mobile.

Carriages and Buggies of the latest styles, and superior Horses, furnished at all hours. Calls of every description will receive prompt attention. ja4 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

IMPROVED

EAGLE COTTON GINS.

THE GREAT POPULARITY of the EAGLE COTTON GINS is established from the well-known fact that they are the most reliable, strongest and best built Cotton Gins ever made. The Eagle Cotton Gin runs lighter than any other gin, thus having a great advantage for planters who wish to run by horse power. All the numerous planters who use the Eagle Cotton Gin will certify to the fact that when their cotton is sent to market it always brings the highest market price, as no other gin can produce a finer or a better sample of cotton than the Eagle Cotton Gins. Over seventeen thousand of the Eagle Cotton Gins have been made and sold. During a period of twenty years the undersigned has had the agency of the Eagle Cotton Gin in New Orleans. He has never had a gin returned or rejected out of the immense number sold. The saw cylinders of all the Eagle Cotton Gins are twelve inches in diameter, which is two inches larger than most other kinds of gins, thus giving our forty-saw gin more teeth, and they are more than equal to the fifty-saw gins of other makers, who use only a ten-inch cylinder, and the same great advantage of the twelve-inch cylinder in larger sized gins can be easily estimated. Planters who wish a reliable cotton gin, with an established reputation, can purchase an Eagle Cotton Gin with a certainty that they are not making an untried experiment, but will obtain a cotton gin which is indorsed by the oldest and largest planters in the country as the best in use. A large stock of the Eagle Cotton Gins are always kept on sale in New Orleans, ready for immediate shipment. Planters should be particular to state if they want right or left-hand motion gins.

PRICES.
40-Saw Gin	$200	65-Saw Gin	$325
45-Saw Gin	225	70-Saw Gin	350
50-Saw Gin	250	75-Saw Gin	375
55-Saw Gin	275	80-Saw Gin	400
60-Saw Gin	300

All orders should be addressed to

W. L. CUSHING,
No. 61 St. Charles street,
Sole Agent for the Southern States.
Agents wanted. ja4 3m

JOHN GIBSON,

ENGRAVER AND

Steam Power Lithographic Printer,

82 BEEKMAN ST., NEW YORK.

Checks, Notes, Drafts, Receipts, Bonds, Certificates of Stock and Deposit, Bill, Letter and Note Headings, Business Cards, Envelopes, Druggists' Fancy and Perfumery Labels, etc. Druggists wishing Labels, send for Catalogue. je27 1y

HOMEOPATHIC DOMESTIC MEDICINE.

BY LAURIE & McCLATCHEY.—FIRST American from the Twenty-first English edition. 1,037 Pages Octavo. Price, $5.

This is the most complete work on Domestic Practice in the English language. Twenty-one thousand copies of it are in circulation in England and in this country. Two full editions sold within less than twelve months.

A full set of Remedies (103 vials,) in a solid Mahogany case, will be furnished for $12. Book and case will be sent, carefully packed, to any address, on receipt of $17.

Address BOERICKE & TAFEL,
Homeopathic Pharmaceutist and Medical Publishing House,
145 Grand st., New York.
☞ Established in 1835. je11 3m

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. XVIII. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, AUGUST 15, 1872. NO. 33.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

Baltimore, Aug. 7.—Special dispatches of a reliable character, just received here, admit that Caldwell, Republican, has carried North Carolina by fifteen hundred to two thousand majority, and the entire Radical State ticket has been elected.

The Democrats have about fifteen majority, on joint ballot, in the Legislature.

Louisville, Aug. 9.—The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary will be located here. Atlanta, Chattanooga and Nashville competed actively.

Raleigh, Aug. 9.—The city is quiet at last. Caldwell's majority will be some twelve or fifteen hundred. All of the official returns are not yet in. The Democrats demand that the matter shall be contested before the Legislature, in consequence of the alleged frauds in many sections.

Galveston, Aug. 10.—Reports from different sections of the State represent the cotton crop as suffering severely from drought, and it is estimated that only half a crop will be made in some sections in consequence.

New York, Aug. 11.—A Belize, Honduras, letter of the twenty-fourth instant states that the schooner Lizzie Webster, from New Orleans, was wrecked on the Island of Cosamel. The inhabitants discharged the cargo, one-third being seized for the Yucatan government, one-third taken by the inhabitants for salvage, and the remaining third was stolen by the natives. The latter also stole all the clothing and everything else belonging to the passengers—some fifteen in number, including three ladies and seven children. When last heard from they were entirely destitute, and no vessel could be obtained at Belize to go to their succor, on account of the outrageous Mexican laws.

New York, Aug. 12.—Dr. Lowell Mason, Jr., the well-known musical composer, died at Orange on Sunday, aged seventy-one.

New York, Aug. 13.—A private telegram from Rome to Archbishop McCloskey announces the appointment of the Right Rev. William Henry Elder, Bishop of Natchez, to be Archbishop of Baltimore, to succeed the late Archbishop Spaulding. Bishop Elder is a native of Baltimore, where he was born in 1817.

Some excitement was caused among the residents of Staten Island at the arrival, yesterday afternoon, of a Spanish war ship with yellow fever aboard. A strict quarantine is to be maintained, so the scourge will not reach the city.

FOREIGN.

City of Mexico, Aug. 3, via Havana.—The cabinet is still unchanged; Gomez Palacios is spoken of as foreign minister, and Romaro and Rubeo for the treasury. No regular nomination of President has yet been made. The revolutionary chiefs are laying down their arms to accept of amnesty. Negrete, Arahparrita, Jose Postillo and Mariona Gonzales have accepted pardon and arrived at the capital. It is the general belief that Lerdo de Tejada will be elected to the presidency with but little opposition. The country is becoming pacified. Roads are safe, and confidence is being restored.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 7.—A dispatch from Nijni Novgorod states that a great conflagration is now raging in that city. The fire broke out in that quarter of the place where the annual fair is being held, and has already destroyed a great quantity of valuable goods.

Madrid, Aug. 7.—The cabinet has submitted to the King a series of resolutions for the abolition of slavery in the Spanish dominions.

Bealin, Aug. 7.—The Provincial Correspondence considers the approaching meeting of the emperors of Germany, Russia and Austria a guarantee of peace for Europe. It adds that it is the purpose of Germany to maintain and strengthen the bonds between Austria and Russia, for whose friendship she prepared the way.

Geneva, Aug. 8.—The arbitration tribunal met this afternoon at half-past twelve o'clock, and, after a session of two and a half hours, adjourned to meet again on Wednesday next. Several of the arbitrators and counsel are suffering from indisposition caused by excessive toil and disagreeable weather. The object of the court in adjourning for so long a period is to give the members sufficient time for the special study of a number of points involved in the cases which have come before them. It is confidently hoped the labors of the tribunal will be brought to a satisfactory conclusion by the fifteenth of September.

Brussels, Aug. 8.—Owing to the prevalence of rinderpest in Germany and Russia, the Belgian government has issued orders prohibiting all importation of cattle from those countries.

London, August 10.—Parliament prorogued. Queen's speech read by commission. It rejoices that the controversy over indirect claims was composed by the spontaneous declaration of the arbitrators. Perfect harmony between England and the United States was announced. The French government has desired further correspondence upon the termination of the commercial treaty of 1860.

London, Aug. 13.—A special dispatch from Madrid to the London Times says: King Amadeus has not, as reported by telegraph from that city, signed the decree providing for the gradual abolition of slavery in Cuba and Porto Rico. The document which he has signed is simply a code of rules providing for the enforcement of law.

He insisted upon the Cortes making preparation for the gradual emancipation of the slaves in Spanish colonies.

State Liberal Convention.—The State Liberal Convention of Louisiana adjourned on Saturday, the tenth instant. The following is the ticket:

Governor, D. B. Penn, of Orleans; Lieut. Governor, John S. Young, of Concordia; State Auditor, James Graham, of Orleans; Secretary of State, F. E. Dumas, of Orleans; Superintendent of Public Education, J. W. McDonald, of Caddo; Congressman at Large, General George A. Sheridan. The Executive Committee was authorized to make a coalition, if possible, within the next thirty days.

CONFERENCE REGISTER.

Conferences.	Place.	Time.	Bishops.
Western.....	Nebr'a City.	Sep. 4	Pierce.
Illinois	Rushville..	Sep. 4	Marvin.
Kentucky..	Harrodsb'g.	Sep. 4	Kavanaugh
Missouri..	Mexico ..	Sep. 11	Pierce.
Pacific.....	Gilroy.....	Sep. 18	McTyeire.
W. Virginia.	Parkersb'g	Sep. 18	Kavanaugh
W. St. Louis.	Nevada C'y	Oct. 2	Pierce.
Louisville..	Lebanon..	Oct. 2	Marvin.
Indian Miss.	Ocmulgee..	Oct. 2	Wightman.
Holston.....	Chattano'a.	Oct. 2	Doggett.
St Louis...	Arc dia..	Oct. 16	Pierce.
Arkansas ..	Bentonville.	Oct. 16	Wightman.
Tennessee.	Nashville.	Oct. 16	Doggett.
Los Angeles.	Los Nietos.	Oct. 16	McTyeire.
N. W. Texas	Belton..	Oct. 23	Keener.
White River	Augusta...	Oct. 30	Wightman.
Trinity.....	Sul. Springs.	Nov. 6	Keener.
Memphis...	Somerville	Nov. 20	Wightman.
N. Alabama	Tuskaloosa.	Nov 20	Doggett.
East Texas.	Tyler	Nov 20	Keener.
Virginia....	Petersburg	Nov. 20.	Paine.
N. Georgia	Atlanta	Nov. 27.	Marvin.
N. Miss'ppi.	Corinth	Nov. 27.	Kavanaugh
Little Rock.	Pine Bluff	Dec. 4	Wightman.
Texas.....	Bryan, ...	Dec. 4	Keener.
N. Carolina	Raleigh....	Dec. 4	Paine.
S. Georgia...	Thomasv'le.	Dec. 11	Marvin.
Mississippi .	Brandon ...	Dec. 11	Kavanaugh
Alabama	Eufaula	Dec. 11	Doggett.
West Texas.	Victoria	Dec. 18	Keener.
S. Carolina	Anderson	Dec. 18	Paine.
Louisiana .	N. Orleans.	Jan. 8	Pierce.
Florida ...	Fernandina.	Jan. 8.	Marvin.
Baltimore....	Baltimore ..	Mar. 6.	Paine.

From the Missionary Secretary.

To the Juvenile Missionary Society, Craps Street German Church, New Orleans, Louisiana:

My Dear Young Friends—It is with pleasure that I learn that you have sent to Dr. Redford, our treasurer, a contribution to the cause of missions. This will help to teach and instruct in the doctrines of Christ the children of the Chinese, the Indians and poor people, who have no Sabbath and no Bibles and no preaching. How happy will they be when they learn of Jesus and of a happy world where all the good meet after death! I remember your school when we met in the "mass meeting" at your city during the last Conference. Your sweet songs are fresh in my memory.

I thank you for your generosity, and pray God's blessing upon your school. J. B. McFerrin, Sec.

Mission Rooms,
Nashville, Tenn., August 1, 1872.

God Loved Me.—Some years ago two gentlemen were riding together, and as they were about to separate one addressed the other thus:

"Do you ever read your Bible?"

"Yes, but I get no benefit from it, because, to tell you the truth, I feel I do not love God."

"No more did I," replied the other, "but God loved me."

This answer produced such an effect upon his friend that, to use his own words, it was as if one had lifted him off the saddle into the skies. It opened unto his soul at once the great truth that it is not how I loved God, but how much God loves me.

The Vernon Standard (Jackson parish) reports the death at that place of the Rev. Philo Calhoun, a Presbyterian minister, formerly of Virginia, and late of Texas.

FROM THE WORK.

Paulding Circuit, Mississippi Conference.

Mr. Editor: I have just closed my first protracted meeting on the Paulding circuit, Mississippi Conference. This meeting was held at Shady Grove church, in the northeast corner of the circuit. I held the meeting seven days without other ministerial help. It resulted in the conversion of eighteen souls, seven accessions to the church, a number of backsliders reclaimed, and the church greatly revived.

J. H. Holland, P. C.

Hickory Grove, July 28, 1872.

Rayville Circuit, Louisiana Conference.

Mr. Editor: I just wish to say that at the session of our (Lake Providence) District Conference, which was held in Rayville, July 18–22, the good Lord greatly blessed us, and powerfully manifested his presence in the awakening and conversion of souls. Thirteen joined the church. The entire membership, together with the preachers and members of the conference, were greatly refreshed. We are enabled to report the spiritual condition of our work good, and are hoping to bring to the Annual Conference a more cheering report than has ever gone up from this work. Pray for us. Your brother in Christ,

James L. Wright.

July 30, 1872.

Revival on East Pascagoula Circuit.

Mr. Editor: Our District Conference began on the first day of August, at Moss Point, and God was pleased to meet with us. A most gracious revival of religion sprung up, which has continued for ten days, and is likely to continue several days longer. There has been no waning of interest since the commencement of the revival. God meets with us every time we come together. Some very remarkable cases of conversion have taken place, and some twenty-six have been added to the church. Such a revival has not occurred at this place for many years. Bishop J. C. Keener was with us from the second until the sixth day of the meeting. Our best time has been at morning service, when the young converts tell their experience.

E. J. Taylor.

Moss Point, August 10, 1872.

Waynesboro, Wayne Co., Mississippi.

Mr. Editor: I have been requested by Bro. James Shanks, preacher in charge of this circuit, to make a report of a revival of religion in the church at this place. The meeting commenced on Saturday night, July 20, and continued until the next Friday, resulting in eleven conversions and sixteen accessions to the church. The meeting left us with a revival influence such as has not been felt for years at Waynesboro. Some of our most prominent and influential citizens were received into the church and baptized. It was indeed gratifying to see the interest manifested by the people. They all came to church, and were orderly and attentive. In short, Mr. Editor, it was truly a good meeting, and we hope to see and feel the effects of it many days hence.

Yours, etc., John West.

Demopolis District, Alabama Conference.

Mr. Editor: Deeply impressed with the truth that our God was able and willing to save souls, and to purify the heart of his people, I began a meeting on Saturday, the twenty-seventh of July, at Chestnut Grove, Cuba circuit. We experienced much at our meeting, in rich and sweet enjoyment of God's presence, in deep convictions and bright conversions. Ten were added to the church, and one by letter, and the membership greatly revived. Many resolved to seek a higher religious life and purity of heart. O! let us pray the great Head of the Church to fully prepare his servants in heart and with tongue to preach the great gospel "in demonstration of the Spirit and of power." "That their (our) faith should not stand in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God."

George Bancroft.

Toomsuba, Miss., August 2, 1872.

Hamburg, Alabama.

Mr. Editor: After several years of religious dearth in the church at this place, the Lord has again revived his work. Religion was at a very low ebb among all denominations. The fires were well-nigh extinguished upon God's altars. There were very few to stand up for God in opposition to the great wickedness prevailing. We have just held a meeting here of thirteen days' continuance, which resulted in twelve or fifteen conversions. Of this number only a few will join our church, the most of them being children of Baptist parents. But we rejoice in their conversion, let them join what church they may. Several of them were children of quite a tender age, but we doubt not the genuineness of the work of grace in most of their hearts. We hope they may not be left outside the church because of their tender age. We trust that the good work thus begun will continue until many of the large number of young men in the community shall be induced to consecrate themselves to God. W. A. Montgomery.

August 2, 1872.

Castor Circuit, Louisiana Conference.

Mr. Editor: The second Quarterly Conference for Castor circuit was held at Pine Grove church, on Saturday and Sabbath last, at which the great Head of the Church was present in much power. Sinners were awakened, mourners converted, and the membership greatly revived and strengthened. It was truly a time of refreshing from the presence of the Lord. While partaking of the emblems of the broken body and shed blood of the Savior, many were happy, and were made to cry aloud in accents of praise and thanksgiving. Our worthy and efficient presiding elder, Rev. S. S. Scott, was present, taking an active part in the exercises. The meeting, which continued but two days, resulted in ten accessions to the church, with many mourners at the altar, whom we hope to gather into the church before the summer passes and the harvest ends. Some thirty members were added to the church on the circuit during the last quarter, while unto a revival spirit pervades the work. J. B. L.

Indian Village, La., July 3, 1872.

Lake Providence District Conference.

Mr. Editor: The Lake Providence District Conference, Louisiana Conference, met a Rayville, July 18, 1872, Rev. J. T. Daves, presiding elder, in the chair. All the preachers were present but one. The delegates elected to the Annual Conference are: J. Harvey Brigham, H. P. Wells, W. W. Campbell, William Ditto. Alternates: F. H. G. Taylor, H. W. Drake, William Keller, J. B. Beard.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON THE STATE OF THE CHURCH.

There are eleven circuits in this district, and one thousand and twenty-five members of the church. There have been two hundred and forty-two additions to the church this year. Class meetings are held in but three of the circuits; prayer meetings in all of them except four, and with good effect. Daily family prayers are held in about one-third or one-fourth of the Methodist families of the district.

In seven circuits the sacrament of the Lord's Supper is never administered except on quarterly meeting occasions. The members of the church very generally avail themselves of every opportunity of receiving the holy communion.

We have substantial reasons for believing that in six circuits out of eleven there are one or more members of the church who drink ardent spirits as a beverage, and some of them to intoxication. While this is a most humiliating fact, it is gratifying to know that the evil has not the frightful proportions which it had a few years since, and that it is being cured. This improvement has been the result of the combined influence of a higher state of religious life and experience, and of the persistent and earnest agitation of the subject by the preachers and at the District Conference. Five years ago there could hardly be found a dry goods or grocery merchant, in the church or out of it, who did not keep ardent spirits for sale and gratuitous distribution to customers. At present we can hear of but four members of the church who sell it, and not one who keeps it free for all customers. This is a decided improvement.

Our Sun of Righteousness has risen upon us with healing in his wings. Zion beholds the brightness of his rising. She hails him as her Lord.

O! brethren of the Lake Providence district, our souls should magnify the Lord, should exult with unspeakable joy while we behold the sword of the Spirit assert its ancient power to kill and to make alive. Thrust in that sword! It is of heavenly temper keen. Thrust in that sword, brethren, into the recoiling ranks of the already vanquished foe. Give no quarter, make no compromise! Wound to heal, kill to make alive! Brethren, the Bible, the gospel—a preached gospel—is the power of God unto salvation. It is mighty and must prevail.

B. F. Alexander.
J. M. Dieffenwierth.
W. C. Currie.

Selma District, Alabama Conference.

Mr. Editor: This district embraces a territory between the Alabama and Bigbee rivers, from the junction to the Alabama Central railroad. It is favored with the rich bottom lands of the two rivers, many long and large creeks, and a large part of what is known as the canebrake or black belt of Alabama. One would suppose, from the above description, that surely we are well to do in finances. The time has been when a large part of this country abounded in mules, cotton bales and money. But things have changed. Many of the people have died, others have moved away, and the wealth is, to a large extent, gone. As an instance of the fact, the present Orrville circuit was formerly a second-class station, and two or three nice little circuits, filled by some of our strongest ministers, such as J. L. Cotten, J. T. Heard, W. P. Harrison and others. We did expect large things financially in our district this year, but things look rather gloomy at present. The recent rains have caused a great overflow on the river and creek lands, making all low lands a total loss; and now the cotton worms are destroying all the high-land cotton.

The spiritual work is progressing very nicely. We have learned that nearly every work in the district has been visited with a revival of religion. Souls have been converted to God, and we trust that the Lord will do great things for us before the close of the year. We are headed by a presiding elder for the times. By the way, we have old Centenary Institute, at Summerfield, in our district this year. Some of us were highly favored with a visit to the commencement. Surely the Lord has done great things for that community and for the country through that place. Why is it that our good people do not send their sons and daughters to our own schools, and have them brought up in the way that they should go, that when they are old they will not depart from it? This would be much better than to be forever uneasy about the moral condition of their children, and after they have returned home to feel like they are estranged from their early training.

J. F. Evans.

Orrville, Ala., August 2, 1872.

Woodville District Conference.

Mr. Editor: The District Conference of the Woodville district, Mississippi Conference, met at Jackson, Louisiana, July 26, 1872. The presiding elder, Rev. James L. Forsyth, in the chair.

The reports of the pastors as to the spiritual condition of their respective fields of labor showed that while there were a few faithful and zealous members on every circuit and at every station, the general state of piety was far below the Bible standard. Preaching was generally well attended, but social meetings and family prayer much neglected. As to Sunday schools, several more were reported than at the District Conference of last year. The system of uniform lessons has been adopted in some of the schools, giving entire satisfaction wherever used. As to finances, the reports showed a great want of system in the financial affairs of the different charges. With one or two exceptions, the preachers have not received one-half the amount assessed for their salary. Houses of worship are mostly in good condition, while of the five parsonages reported, two are very much in need of repair.

The Committee on Missions, in their report, recommended the forming of the following missions: Homochitto mission, to consist of the following appointments, to wit, Walker's school house, Homochitto chapel, Little Springs, Vernon and Sharon; Buffalo mission, to consist of Smyrna, Pioneer church, Friendship, Hopewell, Mount Carmel and Pleasant Hill; Fort Adams mission, to consist of Fort Adams, Pinckneyville, Percy's Creek and Laurel Hill.

The Committee on Education recommended, in their report, the East Feliciana Female Seminary, under the supervision of Mrs. Wall and Mrs. Dunbar, and the Millwood Female Institute, under the charge of Mr. S. S. Norwood, to the support and patronage of the connection, as promising much for the cause of female education. The committee specially called the attention of the conference to the interests of Centenary College, as being the most important of all the educational agencies under the patronage of the church. The following resolutions, appended to the report, were adopted with the report:

Resolved, That every member of this conference make it a point of duty to see every parent or guardian within the sphere of his influence who has a son or ward likely to attend college, and recommend Centenary College to his patronage.

Resolved, That each of us will use his best influence to get persons within his reach to contribute to the repairs of the college.

A motion was made and carried that every member of this conference be an agent for Centenary College, and that a central committee of three be appointed to correspond with these agents, and that President Andrews represent this matter to the Annual Conference. K. A. Cross, J. A. Godfrey and R. D. Norsworthy were appointed the central committee.

The following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, dancing, theater-going, social dram-drinking and drunkenness are wrong, contrary to the spirit of Christ's teaching, and to the rules of the Methodist Episcopal Church South; therefore, be it

Resolved, That every pastor and official member, as well as every other Christian, ought to feel bound to drive out these evils from the church, and that the pastors of this district renew their pledge to cleanse the church from these evils, so far as may be possible.

Resolved, That the wearing of gold and costly apparel, and the non payment of debts, are in the same category and subject to the same discipline.

Rev. J. A. Godfrey, of the Clinton circuit, reported the loss of three worthy members by death during the past year; of one of whom, Rev. Isaac Wall, he says: "Bro. Wall passed from his well-filled place in the church militant to his reward in the church triumphant on the thirteenth of February last. He was a faithful local elder. His term in the ministry was thirty-six years. For many years he was an efficient steward in the church, a true man in all his relations, beloved by all who knew him—a man of great Christian charity to all mankind."

Resolved, by the conference, That we receive the intelligence of the death of Bro. Isaac Wall with profound regret, feeling that in his death the church has sustained the loss of a faithful minister and godly member.

J. D. Nettles, W. Griffin, W. G. Longmire, and J. E. Jagers, local preacher, were elected delegates to the Annual Conference. Isaac Pipes and J. D. Roberts alternates.

Woodville was selected as the place for holding the next District Conference.

By resolution, a vote of thanks was tendered to the citizens of Jackson for their generous hospitality to the members of the conference during its session.

G. H. Wiley,
B. W. Sewall,
Secretaries.

THE PRIMITIVE PROCESS.

Referring to an estimate that the Methodist Episcopal Church requires eight hundred new recruits annually to fill the itinerant ranks, the Methodist says:

One thing is clear enough, namely, that we cannot expect this great but needed reinforcement from our theological schools. We must keep up, or rather restore, our old recruiting method, by graduating our young men through the orders of licensed "exhorters" and "local preachers," into the traveling ministry. This was the primitive process, and it filled the ranks of the itinerancy with the mightiest men that ever stood in the American pulpit. We need the theological school. We recommend every young candidate to go to it, if he can. But we soberly believe that that day will be disastrous to Methodism when we come to rely exclusively upon our training schools for our ministerial supplies. Let us beware of any such Procrustean policy. It is alike incompatible with the genius and the prospective needs of Methodism.

The Advocate, of Homer, says that the first chair ($25,000) of Homer College has been endowed, and several thousand dollars received on the second. It will now be easy, the Advocate says, to raise $25,000 more.

Rev. C. F. Evans has organized a temperance society at Monroe.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 15, 1872.

THE OLD COUPLE.

They sat in the sun together
Till the day was almost done,
And then, at its close, an angel
Stepped over the threshold stone.

He folded their hands together,
He touched their eyelids with balm,
And their last breath floated upward
Like the close of a solemn psalm.

Like a bridal pair they traversed
The unseen, mystical road
That leads to the Beautiful City,
Whose Builder and Maker is God.

Perhaps, in that miracle country,
They will give her lost youth back,
And the flowers of a vanished spring-time
Shall bloom in the spirit's track.

One draught of the living waters
Shall restore his manhood's prime,
And eternal years shall measure
The love that outlives time.

But the shapes they left behind them—
The wrinkles and silver hair—
Made sacred to us by the kisses
The angel imprinted there—

We'll hide away in the meadow,
When the sun is low in the west,
Where the moonbeams cannot find them,
Nor the wind disturb their rest.

But we'll let no tell-tale tombstone,
With its age and date, arise
O'er the two who are old no longer—
In their Father's house in the skies.

For the Advocate.

AN EVIL UNDER THE SUN,

Mr. Editor: In your issue of July 11 appears an article under this above caption, which, as a Methodist, a subscriber to the Advocate, and a life agent, I desire briefly to notice. I do not propose to take up this article seriatim, but casually and at random, as a whole. In the wealthy and beautiful parishes of "Avoyelles and St. Landry" the fences are all rebuilt, their fine lands in cultivation, "churches are being organized, and houses going up," and "everything looking prosperous," and all this is being done "without money." "Nothing but time, and no money," says this correspondent. Surely this fabled land must contain that wonderful city, discovered by some mountain-lost explorer among the tropics, which was seen from a distance, but never approached, whose dazzling spires and gorgeous palaces were surrounded by mountains, and guarded by impassable barriers from all but the "elect" who were penned up in it. There is only one discrepancy. This astonished traveler failed to go as far as your correspondent, for he did not assure us that all this splendor had risen from chaos without money. In regard to the hard names applied to life agents, and their manner of descending upon the devoted parishes of "Avoyelles and St. Landry," I deem it of no consequence to comment. The children into whose hands the Advocate may fall will doubtless find more interesting if not more wonderful stories than his in such books as the Arabian Nights or Baron Munchausen. As a class, the life agent is the peer of any intelligent, humane, Christian gentleman; if not, he is the wrong man for the place, and should remove to "Avoyelles" or "St. Landry," where strange fellows, in broadcloth and circus wagons, are smart enough to get all the money of those kind but unsophisticated people, very much to the annoyance of somebody, whose claims and merit are unacknowledged by these devotees to life assurance. He says: "It is the greatest imposition ever placed on an enlightened people. It takes all the money from the South to the North, paralyzes all industry, and kills energy."

The growth of life assurance has been much more rapid at the North than in the South, and its vast influence for good among the masses has been felt and acknowledged by the ablest and best men of the country, to an extent to which we may hardly hope to attain for many years to come. Its progress in the South has been almost exclusively confined to the most cultivated, refined and wealthy portion of our citizens; yet its benefits are most peculiarly adapted to the poor, and will be eagerly embraced by this large class of our people whenever they shall have been educated up to the standard of a full comprehension and appreciation of this humane institution. This is the field of labor for the life agent, and we trust the day is not far distant when Christian gentlemen will not be found on the side battling with ignorance and superstition, against progress and Christian humanity. Of course we expect to have stumbling blocks placed in our way by the improvident, ungodly and vicious; but we confidently expect the aid of the wise and good, whose judgments are not beclouded with superstition and prejudice. The general prosperity of the masses of the North, as compared with the stringency of the money market in the South, is one illustration of the influence of life assurance among a people. It is a conceded fact, by men of the most experience and largest business knowledge, that the insured man is more industrious, temperate, prudent, thrifty and reliable than the uninsured. His responsibility is greater, and his vigorous manliness is called more into play. Lord Lyndhurst, late Lord Chancellor of England, said: "A policy of life assurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought; no man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not assured." The late Bishop Hawks, of Missouri, said: "Since manhood reached me, I have kept on my life a perpetual assurance; and I think my duty to those dependent upon me would be undischarged if it were not so." We should not be jealous of the thriftiness of the Northern masses. Science, the offspring of intelligence, is lending its strong arm to the brain-muscle of an active, industrious people, who are not only thriving themselves, but are becoming the greatest insurance people on the globe, thus looking as well to their posterity as to their own selfish gratification. It is no fault of the North that Southern capital seeks investment in her thrifty enterprises. New York and Massachusetts especially have from the first sought to provide every protection in their power to persons insuring in their companies, until it amounts to a moral impossibility to suffer loss through negligence or positive dishonesty of company officials, through what is known as a "reserve fund." This guarantee is far better than is afforded by any other form of security known among financiers. I am not familiar with life assurance in the parishes of "Avoyelles and St. Landry," but can state from statistics around me that more than $100,000 have been paid to the widows and orphans of deceased policyholders, within the scope of my own observation, within a few years, where the aggregated amount of premiums paid during the same time does not approximate this amount. This is, of course, exceptional, and could not occur at the North, where so many are insured. It is a well-known fact that self-imposed or voluntary taxation is less burdensome than when imposed by legislation. The comparatively small amounts raised among the masses in the form of premiums, though inconsiderable atomically considered, have become in the aggregate huge masses of operative capital in the hands of able financiers, to be returned in such amounts and under such circumstances as to render the greatest amount of good to the most needy, at the most critical period of the recipient's life.

Here are some of your correspondent's facts (?) contrasted with the estimates of actuarial tables, which are the basis of all life assurance. He says: "Sixty per cent. of all policies are forfeited for nonpayment of premiums; fifty per cent. of all companies fail. The life of a policy is fifteen years; majority die in first three years." The most liberal estimates give forty-five per cent. of lapses; but among the more recent and improved forms of life policies the lapses fall far below this, and in a mutual company all amounts derived from lapses but swell the amount of dividends, to be returned to those who are too prudent to let their policies lapse. Up to 1870 the failure of a company of any character was unknown among American life companies, and, as yet, in no single instance has it occurred to the injury of policyholders in any State where local legislation requires that companies doing business in said State shall provide a reserve fund sufficient to protect the policyholders. We look for some failures among young companies just struggling into existence, where there is such powerful competition for business; but it will never occur, where any reasonable amount of work is done, if the principles of life assurance are strictly adhered to—if agents do not allow themselves to work up bad subjects for the sake of new work and commissions; if companies, for the sake of business, do not depart from the tabular estimates of respectable actuaries, and venture among the dangers of reduced premiums, and excessive commissions or salaries to agents and officers. I affirm that there is no such thing as failure to a purely mutual, all-cash company under such legislative restraints as are imposed on life companies in New York and Massachusetts. The ambiguity of the above statement, in reference to the "life and death" of a policy, is unanswerable. He says: "Who will insure us against insurance?, for it is worse than fire and sword—the greatest evil that curses the earth." He seems to lay considerable stress on Bishop Marvin's laconic "No." I doubt very much if this decisive monosyllable of the good Bishop's is a pet rejoinder of his to the logical arguments of all life agents; but if it be, it is no detraction from his great and meritorious life to say that he has often said wiser things. Wise men have often before differed, and I subjoin the opinions of a few eminent men who differ in their views from your correspondent on the subject of life assurance. Right Rev. Dr. Hawks, late Bishop of Missouri, says: "I claim that life assurance is not only a humane, but I might almost say a Christian institution." Right Rev. Dr. Potter says: "Life assurance may be employed advantageously for the benefit of families and of individuals of all classes of society, as well as for those in moderate circumstances. All may, by the exertion of a little forethought and a small outlay, protect their families from want, independently of any charitable aid." Dr. Cumming says: "The assurance of life is one of the most Christian things I know; for what is it? It is taking the load that would crush one family, and spreading it over twenty thousand families; so that a mere drop lights upon each, instead of the overwhelming torrent falling upon one." Another eminent man says: "Life assurance confers on the world a mixed benefit. It stimulates and encourages habits of prudence and self-denial, presents the ready means of putting them in practice, assists in providing for the widow and orphan for sickness and old age, and gives, meanwhile, a feeling of confidence, security and independence. These would be works for the philanthropist, if they were not, as happily they are, the labors of the man of business." And thus I might go on quoting the opinions of such men as Prof. Draper, the late Dr. Nicholas Murray, Prof. de Morgan, N. P. Willis, Rev. Dr. Farley, Rev. R. S. Storrs, Rev. Andrew Marship, Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, Rev. Albert Barnes, Dr. Farr, Bulwer, Lord Brougham, and a thousand others of like character, wisdom and piety; but I desist, feeling that I may have said more than the occasion deserved.

T. G. Fowler.

Uniontown, Ala., July 25, 1872.

For the Advocate.

CHILDHOOD.

God bless the children! How my heart swells as I watch the ever-varying expression of their fresh, innocent faces, and listen to the sweet prattle of the little tongues, never weary of asking questions! Ah, those questions! How careful we should be in answering them! Do we think, when we turn them away with an impatient word or look, of the responsibility devolving on us to foster and expand the little minds so eager for information on the many mysterious things opening before their gaze?

The influences that are to mold their future lives—are they the kind to fit them for future usefulness? Is every word and act an endeavor to inculcate strict moral integrity, a firm, unswerving determination to fight bravely the battles of life?

Too often the home, from which are to issue influences for weal or woe that will extend through future generations, is the scene of bitter recrimination, and careless, sinful example, that makes reflective minds shudder to see young, plastic lives surrounded by so tainted an atmosphere—to see the innocent suffer for the guilty! It is a difficult task, the rearing of those immortal beings—to blend amusement with instruction, to ward off present ills while training the shrinking spirits to a future endurance of them. Ah, me! as I see them trip gleefully along life's highway, how my heart yearns to shield their young heads from coming ills, or at least warn them to prepare for struggles that are inevitable. But it cannot be, and I turn reluctantly away, trusting them to "our Father," and earnestly praying that the baneful example of thoughtless parents may be overruled by his tender, loving protection. And these unhappy consequences must follow while so many uncongenial, hasty marriages are entered into—persons with their fancy captivated by personal attractions, without considering the attractions of mind and soul; without preparing themselves or the rearing and culture of the little ones who may be intrusted to their care—their judgment immature, self unrestrained, rush headlong into marriage, God's most sacred, fearfully responsible institution. And the results! After a few short months the total want of congeniality, and the bear and forbear that is willing not to expect perfection, spreads a yawning gulf between a pair bound by the holiest ties. With these examples surrounding their daily paths, is it surprising that so many men and women are sent out into the world with every evil passion paramount—the gratification of self deemed the object of existence, with no recognition of the duty that we owe God and society? Oh! that those who are entering the threshold of manhood and womanhood would consider the true aim of existence—that we were not placed here simply to gratify our selfish desires, but that to every one has been appointed a work to do; character to form that will be firm to do and dare all things! or the morality and well-being of mankind; remembering that; he natures they have molded will be transmitted on and on, and through indefinite ages will thrill a current of weal or woe they have promulgated!

Little Beverly.

To have freedom is only to have that which is absolutely necessary to enable us to be what we ought to be and possess what we ought to possess.

For the Advocate.

STATISTICAL TEACHING.

Mr. Editor: A careful survey of the general recapitulation of the General Minutes, just published, teaches some very important lessons. In these Minutes it is shown that in the Methodist Episcopal Church South there are six hundred and thirteen thousand members, not counting the preachers; and seven thousand nine hundred and forty-five preachers, making an average of one preacher to every seventy-seven members. Also, as you proceed from the East to the West, the ratio of preachers to the members increases. Thus, in the Baltimore Conference there is one preacher to every eighty-two members; in Little Rock, one preacher to every fifty-nine members; and in Los Angeles, one preacher to every twenty members.

During the last Conference year the total increase in white members was thirty-nine thousand three hundred and twenty-two, making an average of nearly five members to every preacher; but if you count only the traveling preachers, it makes an average of a little over thirteen to the preacher. The total number baptized—sixty-four thousand five hundred and ten—shows an average of eight to a preacher, or, counting the itinerants, twenty-two to every preacher.

While the grand total of success gives occasion for thanksgiving to the Father of Lights, yet we have reason to re-examine our spiritual armor, and readjust our panoply for the battle, and in one united, solid front move forward to conquest and victory, which shall far outstrip anything of the kind in all the past. Just think of what might be accomplished by seven thousand faithful, working, untiring preachers of the gospel! If these would make an average of only twenty converts and accessions to our church, it would swell the ranks of success in the grand total to one hundred and forty thousand during the present Conference year.

Another item these Minutes show is quite important, and that is this: There is an average of one preacher in charge of every two hundred and fourteen members, and yet there are many Methodist families into which the pastor has not entered for years. In such instances the attachment grows weaker and weaker for the church of their choice, and the pastor is chargeable with neglect of duty, and in the judgment day will be held to a fearful account.

A. Dowling.

Ozark, Alabama.

For the Advocate.

FRATERNITY.

Mr. Editor: This question, which it now becomes our duty to meet, seems to excite some comment among our church papers. For one I am ready to meet it with open hands. If there are difficulties which the justice or piety of our Northern brethren could not meet, let that not be in our way. If they have our property without title, and will not give it up or pay for it, why let us make them a good and sufficient title to the same. We need not fear to occupy the magnanimity of the Sermon on the Mount. It cannot place us wrong at the tribunal of history. It cannot deprive us of power, nor hinder the work of God in our midst. Some piety has a sublime indifference to the fears and servile jealousies, which nervously scrutinizes the misconduct or questionable fairness of others. They make us an overture. If not on a solid basis of heartfelt fraternity, let us put it there. Let us provoke them to love and good works.

In the settlement of any difficulty one party must always be more or less magnanimous. And this is expected of the most religious. Let us have mercy, and not sacrifice. The truth of the matter is, as the North has been incapable hitherto of making this overture for Christian fraternity, we ought long since to have opened their way by that charity which covers a multitude of sins. You cannot make a man or community more effectually see and forsake their errors than by a sublime contrast in spirit and conduct. Give them the property—make out the titles. We can better afford to give than they can to take and hold. Layman.

The Judgment.—In the Bank of England is a curious machine, into which sovereigns are poured, like grain into a mill. As they pass on, one by one, all that are light weight are thrown to one side, those of full weight to another; so that the distinction is made with unerring certainty. So will it be at the last day. No sin will pass the Great Judge undetected. He knows the secrets of all hearts. Whatever has lain undiscovered by men will stand forth in naked reality then. Counterfeit Christianity and spurious philanthropy will be exposed.

The Astor House, New York, boasts of an old gentleman who registered his name on the books of the hotel the first day it opened, and has been there ever since, a period of nearly thirty-four years.

For the Advocate.

Reminiscences of the Alabama Conference.—No. IV.

On my first visit to Starkville there was but one board cabin—the beginning of a town, and the nucleus of a town. This was the property of a Bro. Hogan, who afterward contributed very much toward the building up of a large church in this place. Near Starkville there had been a missionary station among the Choctaw Indians for many years, under the supervision of the Presbyterian Church; and one of the families engaged in that noble work, by the name of Bardwell, was still there. We collected the few families of the community under a dense shade, a few paces north of where the brick church was afterward located, and preached to them. My pulpit was a stump, and my congregation were seated on a few rails arranged for their accommodation. At an early day a community was located here, which I have never seen excelled for intelligence, morality and religion. For several years there was not a drinking establishment in the whole township.

I here relate an incident that occurred in the history of our labors in this place. The Rev. John G. Jones, of the Mississippi Conference, was once presiding elder of a district embracing this appointment. He commenced a quarterly meeting at Starkville, and very soon there were evident signs of revival. The work first broke out among the families of our Methodist people, but soon extended to the families of our Presbyterian and Baptist friends. A young Presbyterian minister by the name of Bardwell, who had just returned from Andover, a regular theological graduate of that institution, was installed pastor of the church in that place. At the commencement of the meeting he took his seat in the back part of the church, and in every way gave evident signs of an indisposition to cultivate friendly relations. The work continued to spread, until within a few days quite a number of the children of Presbyterian and Baptist families were at the altar for prayer. Mr. Bardwell now fully waked up to the interest of the occasion, came forward and requested Bro. Jones to turn over the meeting into his hands a few days, as he saw many of his people were interested, and supposed we were not likely to succeed with them as he might be able to do. Bro. Jones informed him that when we were through we would let him know. He (Bardwell) stepped about midway into the aisle, and announced a regular meeting, to commence the next day, in the Presbyterian church. A Baptist gentleman by the name of Outlaw, a college mate of his, advised him to recall his appointment at the earliest date, which he did. He returned to our church; we invited him to take part with us, which invitation he accepted. At the close of our meeting we numbered one hundred and thirteen conversions. With Mr. Bardwell and our Baptist friends we made a liberal division. St. Paul says: "Knowledge puffeth up." We have recorded this incident to show the undue importance some attach to an educated ministry. Mr. Bardwell was a Christian gentleman of irreproachable character, of fair literary and, we suppose, theological attainments, yet he was not very successful in winning souls to Christ. The accessions to his church from this meeting, with one of similar results at a subsequent meeting held at the same place, were all the accessions he received to his church from actual conversion for several years.

Another church was organized near the Robinson road, on Noxubee river. Here W. W. Browning had settled. He was a tower of strength among the laity of our church wherever he lived. He heard of and sought for the missionary, carried him to his rude log cabin, and made him welcome to all the comforts he could bestow, and cooperated with him in every way to foster and build up the church organized in his community. He did not labor in vain, for here many a soul was born to God. Some eighteen years since Bro. Browning moved to Texas and settled at Chappell Hill. Here he contributed largely to the educational and religious interests of our church. On the twenty-eighth of June, of last year, he passed away to his reward. A better friend I perhaps never had, living or dead. Our communion was sweet in his departing moments. We shall meet again.

J. Matthews.

Chappell Hill, Texas, July 10, 1872.

There are eight pin factories in the United States, whose annual production is 2,000,000 packs, each pack containing 3,660 pins, a total of 6,720,000,000 pins. One manufacturer's agent in Boston, says the Bulletin, sells every six months from 700 to 1,000 cases of pins per week, each case containing 672,000 pins.

Conscience.—Matthew Henry used to say: "How sweet it is to have the bird in the bosom sing sweetly."

Obituaries.

Martha Jane, daughter of Young D. and Margaret Allen, was born in Claiborne parish, Louisiana, March 21, 1846. She professed religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South at an early age. She lived a consistent, faithful Christian life, and died in the above-named parish and State on the fourteenth day of July, 1872, aged twenty-six years, three months and twenty-three days.

Her disease was consumption, being the third daughter that the deeply-afflicted parents have lost with this much-dreaded disease. It is indeed sad thus to bury child after child, till the trunk stands nearly stripped of all its branches. But in the death of Sister Mattie the bereaved parents, relatives and friends have a great consolation. When she was approaching the margin of the river of death she called for her stricken parents and told them not to weep for her; that she was ready to go and be with Jesus, where she would suffer no more sorrow or pain. With great calmness she made distribution of her things among the family, told them how she wanted to be dressed for her burial, gave directions concerning her funeral, made all arrangements for her departure as one going on a journey, and then calmly fell asleep in the arms of her blessed Savior, as a summer's sun setting behind the waters of a beautiful calm lake, unobscured by a single cloud. Hers was truly the death of a triumphant Christian.

"They die in Jesus, and are blessed;
How kind their slumbers are;
From sufferings and from sins released,
And freed from every snare."

John A. Miller.

George Washington Ramsey, Sr., was born in Jackson county, Georgia, June 15, 1810. When three years old his parents moved to Ray county, Tennessee, where they resided until he was eighteen years of ago. He then went to Morgan county, Alabama, and ultimately settled in St. Clair county, Alabama, where he lived until the fall of 1871, when he moved to Shelby county, Texas, where, on the twenty-third of April, 1872, he breathed his last.

Bro. Ramsey professed religion at Summerset camp ground, during October, 1833, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, and when the division took place, in 1844, he went with the Methodist Episcopal Church South, remaining a faithful and zealous member of the same until death. He was married, January 27, 1835, to Miss Ann Taylor, with whom he spent a happy life. When he moved to himself, after his marriage, the first thing he did was to take his Bible into his house and set up the family altar, which was never taken down during his life. As a consequence of this his children are all members of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, except the baby, a little boy.

As a class-leader and exhorter Bro. Ramsey was excelled by few. He held these offices in the church for a period of twenty-three years. He was peculiarly at home in a revival. Here he was a man of power, and many times has the writer witnessed glorious results from his exhortations. Sinners would fall and cry aloud for mercy, and then, when Bro. Ramsey would go to them and tell them of Jesus, of the blood which cleanseth from all sin, and try to show them, in his peculiar way, how to believe, they would rise and shout the praises of God, and tell what God had done for them. He was a man "full of the Holy Ghost and of power," and we expect to strike hands with him in the eternal city of God.

He gathered his family and friends around his bedside, and told them that he had no fear of death, and said: "Tell Bro. Mountain that I have kept the faith, and therefore there is a crown laid up for me." Thus passed away, in perfect peace, one of the pillars of the church militant. R. F. Mountain.

Ashville, Ala., July 4, 1872.

A very large circle of friends will hear with deep regret of the death of our brother, B. J. Harrison, who departed this life, in this place, July 7, 1872, aged fifty-nine years.

Bro. Harrison was born in Orangeburg, South Carolina. He was consecrated to God in infancy, in baptism, by Rev. J. M. Mellard, known to many in this State. Having enjoyed opportunities for more than ordinary culture in his native State, our brother moved to Alabama, and settled in Valley Creek (now Summerfield) in 1832, where he continued to reside until within two or three years of his death. Some time after settling in Valley Creek he was deeply awakened to a sense of his sinful state, at a camp meeting held near that place. He did not find peace during the meeting, but shortly after its close, while riding along the road, he experienced a gracious change, light and peace flowing into his soul in a manner that filled him with wonder and joy. He soon united with the church, of which he continued an esteemed and valued member until called hence. His integrity, intelligence and uniform consistency made him many friends, and won for him the respect of a wide circle of acquaintances. His intelligent piety early secured him the office of a class-leader; this office he held in the same class some twenty-five years. From that class a large number preceded their leader to the skies, and not a few of them choice spirits, to meet and be with whom in heaven will be a glorious privilege. He was also superintendent of the Sunday school for nearly thirty years. For about twenty-eight years he was a trustee of the Centenary Institute, and for much of that time he was both secretary and treasurer of the board, and thus watched its varying fortunes for a long period. Thus he "served his generation, according to the will of God," in various offices and manifold duties. A year since he was elected by the regents commissary of the University of Alabama; his residence in this community had won for him many friends and general respect. Early last winter his health began to show signs of failure; unfavorable symptoms at length developed into a case of fatal dropsy. What he suffered through the last three months of his life cannot be told; but his sufferings were all borne without murmuring. His prayer often was, "Lord, give me patience;" and that prayer was wonderfully answered.

Bro. Harrison was not naturally a demonstrative man; his emotional nature, even in religion, was in subjection to his judgment and sense of propriety in regard to himself; to the overflow and outbursts of religious joy in others he offered no opposition. His views of divine truth were intelligent, clear and strong; his sense of religious obligation and duty was strong and scriptural; his attachment to the church and its institutions was uniform and intelligent, and the faith and hope that was in him sustained him in the end.

During the first weeks of our brother's sickness his spiritual sky was not clear. He did not realize a nearness to Christ, nor did he find that power and earnestness in prayer that he desired. But on occasion of a visit to him, during religious exercises, the cloud parted, and the sunlight of heaven streamed into his soul, and he broke forth with praise to God. He was all tenderness, love and joy; and henceforth the "clouds returned" no more "after the rain." He remarked to me that he never gave way to his feelings in that manner before. Afterward he was expressing his surprise at that visitation to his wife (and few have been blessed with such,) when she remarked: "I had been praying for that very thing." "Ah!" said he, "that explains it." In his language, on different occasions, was of the most striking and triumphant character. He often repeated the text: "The blood of Jesus Christ, his Son, cleanseth us from all sin;" "I feel that my heart is washed, cleansed from all sin." On another occasion he said: "I do feel so happy, so sweetly, but fear to give way to my feelings." Said he: "I have no wish or desire of my own." He was perfectly submissive to the will of God. He remarked: "I leave my family with perfect confidence in the hands of God." Thus, amid the sufferings of a sinking body, fearfully afflicted, did grace gloriously triumph, and our brother was "more than conqueror." His bereaved family mourn deeply their loss, but their mourning is illuminated by more than hope. "All is well." Servant of God, well done. J. Hamilton.

Tuskaloosa, July 22, 1872.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 15, 1872.

THE THOUGHT OF GOD.

The thought of God is like the tree
Beneath whose shade I lie,
And watch the fleet of snowy clouds
Sail o'er the silent sky.

'Tis like that soft, invading light
Which in all darkness shines,
The thread that through life's somber web
In golden pattern twines.

It is a thought which ever makes
Life's sweetest smiles from tears;
It is a daybreak to our hopes,
A sunset to our fears.

Within a thought so great, our souls
Little and modest grow,
And, by its vastness awed, we learn
The art of walking slow.

The wild flower on the grassy ground
Scarce bends its pliant form,
When overhead the autumnal wood
Is thundering like a storm.

So is it with our humbled souls,
Down in the thought of God,
Scarce conscious, in their sober peace,
Of the wild storms abroad. Faber.

THE POPE'S LAST LETTER.

It is claimed by Catholic publicists, and by the Pope, in his letter of June 16, addressed to Cardinal Antonelli, that the cause of the papacy is identical with that of stable government the world over. Protestantism, they assert, negativing, as it does, the principle of authority in religion, saps the very foundation on which government rests, and leaves every man free to conspire and rebel against the powers that be on any ground that he may himself regard as sufficient to justify his enterprise. Catholics, however, whose religion recognizes in the Pope the authorized expounder of God's law and the supreme judge of controversies, are supposed to await his decision before they rise against their prince; and Catholic governments, too, are supposed to be confined within the limits of law and justice, and restrained from despotic acts, by the fact that the supreme pontiff has the right of revising their decrees, and of annulling them when they are contrary to the divine law, or when they trench upon the rights of the subjects. On this supposition we might expect to find in Catholic countries the rights of the subject and the prerogatives of the crown justly balanced, and, as a consequence, tranquillity and security, prosperity and contentment, the order of the day.

Let us see how the case stands. Italy is a Catholic country; yet, according to the Pope himself, Italy is a pandemonium, where religion is persecuted and outraged in every way, and the most sacred rights of person and property set at naught. The head of the Catholic Church, were he to go out into the streets of Rome, "would witness impious and revolting scenes, and be exposed to insult." France is another Catholic country; yet France is a moral volcano, whose fires may break forth at any moment, and involve religion and society in ruin. Spain has the name of being the most Catholic country of Europe; but what advantage civil order and government in that distracted country derive from the Catholic religion it is difficult to perceive. It is needless to go over the entire list of Catholic countries in Europe and on this continent. The fact is indisputable that social and civil order is in a very disturbed state in them all. Nor do we find that in our own country those who enjoy the Pope's infallible guidance are model citizens, as with their advantages they ought to be. They are hardly eminent, to say the least, in their respect for law and order; and within the past few days we have seen a section of them commended for their law-abiding and peaceful disposition, simply because bitter experience had taught them, a year before, that their comporting themselves like mad bulls was not to be tolerated. In short, look the world over, and it will be seen that the claim the Pope makes of his being the bond of social order and public tranquillity is the absurdest pretension conceivable.

We do not assert that the Catholic religion is accountable for all this disorder; but we do assert that its practical working does not produce those blessed results which are so arrogantly claimed for it. No religion could have a better opportunity for exerting its best influences than the Catholic Church had for hundreds of years in Italy, Spain, France, etc. If social order is insecure in those countries now, the Catholic Church might as well candidly admit that she is powerless to maintain it. At least, she can never again be in a position to mold the people anew. She has been weighed in the balance and found wanting; and, as she cannot be reformed, she must give way.

It is an old observation that a theory which appears to stand the severest tests will break down when reduced to practice. An absolute despotism, as it is the simplest, cheapest and most effective, ought to be the best form of government. But in practice it is found necessary to limit power. So in the present case. The position of the Pope as head of the Catholic Church would appear to favor order and liberty; but it is found to have no such effect. Indeed, it has a contrary effect. Catholic rulers, in rejecting the arrogant claim of the Pope, throw off all restraint and grow despotic; and Catholic peoples, from being the passive subjects of authority in spirituals, become passive, supine and pusillanimous in civil life.—Independent.

THE PRAYER OF THE RIGHTEOUS.

The "personal magnetism" whereby one man is enabled to move another man or masses of men to his will certainly loses nothing by the refinements of education and gentle manners, but can as certainly exist without them. If definable in words at all, it probably means a strong, self-reliant individuality in thought and in action, having its effect as much through originality of manners and unconventional association of ideas as through any exceptional higher resources. Novelty and energy of character combined always have a strong attraction and influence for the masses of mankind, whether in politics, the pulpit or business; and when they are directed to a self-indicating moral purpose, the most polished intellect may be affected by them no less surprisingly than the rudest. Illustration of such magnetic power is found in what the Albany Argus tells in this wise: Years ago the late well-known jurist and statesman, Mr. John Van Buren, then a resident of the above-named city, extended private hospitality to a young English nobleman, at that time traveling in this country. His guest had the reputation of being a rather wild specimen of foreign aristocracy; and, not without regard to this fact perhaps, the son of the then President of the United States persuaded him to go one Sunday to a Bethel church not far from the present site of the Delavan House, where preached with great effect an eccentric exhorter called the Rev. John Miles. Formerly a common sailor, and a very hard character at that, the preacher in question had a pulpit style in which the quaint, grotesque and sublime were strangely commingled; and, ungainly as was his aspect, and uncouth his demeanor and voice, there was a certain tremendous power about the man that few minds could either analyze or resist. Conducting his English friend to the rude aquatic tabernacle in which this earnest natural genius held his crowded conventicles, Mr. Van Buren took occasion to introduce him to the preacher before the latter mounted his pulpit, thinking, perhaps, that Mr. Miles might be thereby induced to refrain from some of the embarrassing personalities wherewith he was wont at times to apply his discourse to his hearers. If this was the intention, it availed not, however; for the opening prayer of the meeting was pointedly and particularly in behalf of the President's son and his titled companion. Then came a characteristic sermon on what the exhorter styled "Salvation's Express Train;" and, wild and extravagant as it was, it yet appealed to the imagination with a power moving the whole congregation alternately to despair and joy. When descending from his pulpit, at the termination of this effort, the ex-sailor shook hands with both Mr. Van Buren and the Englishman, saying to the latter, as they departed: "My prayers shall follow you, young sir." On their way home both host and guest exhibited a seriousness of aspect of which they were by no means unconscious; and the latter confessed, almost with irritation, that the "rant of that sanctimonious mountebank" had produced upon him an effect which he could not shake off. The feeling seemed to pass away at last though, and John Miles to be forgotten; but here is the sequel: A citizen of Albany, now traveling in Europe, writes thence that, having passed a Sunday recently and attended church in Manchester, England, the peculiar excellence and earnestness of the sermon which he there heard induced him to seek an interview with the officiating clergyman. Happening to mention, in the ensuing conversation, that he came from Albany, the capital of New York, he was greatly surprised to hear the reverend gentleman affirm, with signs of strong emotion, that his own first sensibility to sacred things had been developed within him by a sermon delivered in that city. The same speaker then related all the above story; for he was no other than the young nobleman going with Mr. Van Buren to the Albany Bethel, and had resigned title and fame to become a minister of the gospel. "All my religious training and preparation for the ministry," concluded he, "date from that sermon by the American sailor-preacher; and my only wonder is that Mr. Van Buren was not also made a preacher by it." Here was a highly-educated, keen and experienced man of the world, who had listened unmoved, if not contemptuously, to the most eloquent utterances of the greatest pulpit orators in the world, yet changed the course and spirit of his whole life at the ungrammatical prayer and rambling exhortation of a foreign itinerant.—The World.

THE HEALTH OF OUR GIRLS.

On this subject Jennie June has the following sensible remarks:

All that women can ever be they must work out for themselves, and they must commence with the body first. It is idle to expect great achievements from the present race of girls and women; they are physically incapable of it. They fall at once under the pressure, or live short lives, broken by incessant struggles with pain and poverty of body.

All the efforts for the education and advancement of women will be comparative failures, because they commence wrong—they try to achieve a result with inadequate means. Instead of taking the puny, sensitive, nervous, high-strung girl, and trying to make a Greek professor of her, they should rescue her as a baby from her cambric and her "bassinet," put her in warm clothing and a comfortable bed, and have her fed on mother's milk, instead of condensed poison, biscuit-powder and arrowroot.

Boys would be very apt to share the fate of girls if they were left at home; but, fortunately for them, at the close of babyhood their pathways diverge; boys are sent to boys' schools, military training schools, and institutions where physical culture is part of the general system of education. Moreover, when at home they are allowed to run, jump, exercise their limbs and strengthen their lungs, unimpeded by caution or clothing, and thus they escape the puny fate of their sisters, and acquire, at least, some degree of hardihood and manliness.

But girls, from the time they can speak, are taught to subdue all outward manifestation of power and force as vulgar—to control and regulate voice, manner and action by a certain conventional standard—to place the highest value upon dress, and the appearance of beauty and amiability; but to despise realities—to be helpless, instead of helpful—to neglect and discourage the use of the faculties, instead of endeavoring to stimulate and encourage them—to embody, in short, as little of the true genius of womanhood, in their own persons, as possible, and, while endeavoring to get all the good out of the world that they can, to give as little back as the nature of things will allow.

How often we hear it said that there are no children now-a-days, and especially no little girls; and how sadly, bitterly, shamefully true it is! So long as we have no children, no girls, we shall have no women—only such abortions as a stinted physical and moral growth naturally produces.

The folly which controls girls in infancy is exhibited in another form as they approach womanhood. At an age when nature demands plenty of fresh air and exercise, they are immured within four walls, and fastened down to text-books, the cramming from which, in nine cases out of ten, is a merely mechanical process, which fits them for nothing, and is never dreamed of as being applied to any practical purpose. The technical part of their "education," so called, is dropped with their school-clothes; not one in twenty could answer a class question six weeks after leaving school, and they will contemptuously speak of a schoolmate who is a conscientious student as doing it probably because she has "got to teach."

In one city in Hungary, out of a population of 70,000, 48,000 are unable to read and write. In Archangel, Russia, only 1 in every 1,166 of the inhabitants can read and write! In Belgium, in the town of Roulers, out of 13,774 inhabitants, 9,849 are totally illiterate. In the factory districts of Belgium, out of 1,000 workmen only 100 can read and write, and of the rest only 50 can read; and of 130 French officers, recently prisoners of war at Konigsberg, Prussia, 17 could not write their names. Out of every 100 children between the ages of 6 and 13 there attend school in Saxony, Prussia and Wurtemberg, 96 to 99; Switzerland, 95 to 96; Bavaria and Denmark, 89; France, 78; Sweden, 97; Netherlands, Belgium and England, 75 to 77; Mecklenburg, 64; Austria, 51; Spain, 46; Italy and Poland, 35; Greece, 29; Portugal, 14; Turkey, 11; Russia, 6.

That was a sly old Scotchman who, on marrying a very young wife, was rallied by his friends on the inequality of their ages. "She will be near me," he replied, "to close my een." "Weel," remarked another of the party, "I've had twa wives, and they opened my een."

"In the absence of globes, how do you illustrate the shape of the earth to your scholars?" asked a committee of a school teacher. "I shows 'em my head," was the reply.

YOUR BOY'S GUESTS.

Every right-minded home-mother regards it as a matter of importance to make her home agreeable for her husband's guests. If a gentleman is expected for dinner, there is sure to be the best linen on the table, and something more than the ordinary meal prepared. She takes pride and pleasure in making her parlor bright, and her guest's room as comfortable as is in her power.

But how many mothers take pains to make it pleasant for her boy's guests? It is an excellent thing for a boy to have his boy friends, when they are children of good principles and behavior; and it is a lasting blessing to a boy when he has a mother who encourages such intimacies. It is a very easy thing to do. A kind, pleasant word of welcome when he comes will make him at once feel at home. A little pains should be taken to bring out the stereoscope or book of engravings for his amusement, and permission given your boy to take his toys into the parlor for the time. If he likes, a little addition to the table fare—all these trifles make your boy's heart glad, and endear to you the heart of the stranger. O how it chills and sours a child's heart to have mother frown on his friends! How it angers him to be scolded in their presence! Such a course is like sowing the wind, and you will surely reap the whirlwind.

The course of a boy thus treated will be down, down. Far better have him choose his friendships under your eye, and enjoy the companionship of his associates in your parlor, where you may join in the conversation, and cheer and instruct by your pleasant lessons. There is nothing a boy loves so well as an intelligent, talking mother. She may regard it as a great compliment when he coaxes for another half hour at evening with "let's talk a little longer, mother."

Your boy will have associates; if not by your permission, he will by stealth; and companions thus chosen will hardly fail to lead him to destruction. Is it not better to take the trouble to make home pleasant for him and his friends rather than to run such fearful risks?—Lutheran Observer.

Circulation of Religious Newspapers.

The Evening Post of this city, says the New York Methodist, has gathered from the Census Bureau at Washington some most valuable facts illustrative of the growth of journalism in our country. The following table will show some of the aggregates; the papers are classed according to their objects.

	No.	Circulation.	Average.
Political	4,328	8,778,320	2,028
Agricultural	93	770,752	8,072
Societies	81	257,080	3,173
Financial	122	690,200	5,657
Literary	502	4,421,935	8,808
National	20	45,150	2,257
Scientific or professional	207	744,530	3,596
Religious	407	4,764,358	11,706
Sporting	6	7,500	12,250

Thus the religious press, which is a late growth, has attained a total circulation of more than half that of the political press. Its average is, however, much greater, being 11,706 to 2,028 for the political press. Next to the religious come the literary papers, with an aggregate of 4,421,935 circulation. According to the Post, the total circulation of dailies in the United States is 2,606,547; of weeklies, 10,591,743. The weekly press is, therefore, that with which the American people are most familiar, and is, perhaps, that which does the most for their education. The great power of the New York Tribune in its weekly edition.

As persons are less careless of personal cleanliness and tidy apparel, they are infallibly and necessarily less of the angel, more of the animal; more under the domination of passion, less under the influence of principle. Said a poor servant girl: "I can't explain what change religion has made in me, but I look more closely under the door-mat, when I sweep, than I used to." Intelligence, culture, elevation, give purity of body as well as purity of sense and sentiment. Where you see a neat, tidy, cleanly, cheerful dwelling, there you will find a joyous, loving, happy family. But if filth and squalor, and a disregard for the refining delicacies of life prevail in any household, there will be found in the moral character of the inmates much that is low, degrading, unprincipled, vicious and disgusting. Therefore, as we grow in years, we ought to watch eagerly against neglect of cleanliness in person and tidiness in dress.—Hall's Journal of Health.

When Harriet Martineau visited America a number of the wise men and women of the East were assembled to welcome her in a certain house not many miles from Boston. One of these Magi, on approaching the star, was so bewildered by the unlooked-for presentation of her ear-trumpet as the only mode of access that he horrified himself by the utterance of a most malapropos speech. "Madam," said he, "have you observed how charmingly our birds sing?"

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The Jesuits in England.—In the House of Commons, July 23, there was some discussion upon the subject of the arrival of French Communists in England, during which a significant question was put to the government by Sir Robert Peel, member for Tamworth. The right honorable baronet, after alluding to the fact that Germany had expelled the Jesuits, asked the premier whether the government intended to enforce the section of the Roman Catholic relief act of 1829, which provides for the banishment from England of all members of the Society of Jesus. Mr. Gladstone, in reply, said the subject was an important one, and must be taken into serious consideration by the government. He added that though the law in question was now nearly half a century old, no steps had yet been taken for its enforcement.

The Free Church of Scotland has now occupied Constantinople as a mission station to the Jews for twenty-seven years, and, next to Pesth, it is the most important of the fields in which it has labored for the lost of Israel. The large number of conversions and the high character of the converts, especially within the last three years, has been very marked. There has been a work of the Spirit with power, and an evident blessing on the mission. Rev. Mr. Tomory has lately met with even unexpected success in the promptitude with which his appeals in Scotland were responded to, for a fund of $20,000 to enlarge the mission premises. He has every encouragement for believing that a further sum of $10,000 will be readily supplied for placing this mission fully in position to meet the demands of the work. The extensive suburb Hasskeny is almost wholly populated by Spanish Jews.

The following testimony of the Moravian Brother Stephan, missionary at Engotini, in South Africa, may be commended to the consideration of those who have not yet settled the old question, Which should be introduced first among a heathen people, Christianity or commerce, as a civilizing agent?. "We are privileged to see some fruits of our labor, and it is encouraging to see one heathen after another first begin to attend the church, then clothe himself decently—a sure sign that he has received an impression from what he has heard—and at last request baptism. Even the features become gradually transformed as the poor heathen opens his heart to the reception of the gospel. Changes of this kind are, of course, more commonly to be seen in heathen kraals than at the mission stations, where outward conformity to the rules and observances of the community is not unfrequently attained without the preliminary change of the heart."

The passage by the German Reichsrath of the bill authorizing the exclusion of the Jesuits from Germany, recently referred to by us, is only a part of a great movement which Prince Bismarck appears to be carrying on with his accustomed energy, and thus far with his accustomed success. It is difficult for any one to tell what is the ultimate purpose of so astute a statesman as Bismarck, but every public step looks toward the final disestablishment of the Roman Catholic Church in Germany. The result, if this is indeed his purpose, must be either the establishment of a recognized Protestant Church as the State church, or the adoption of the American principle of the complete separation of Church and State, and the subordination of the former to the latter; and this policy would be more in accordance both with German institutions and the German mind. Among the steps already taken in this direction are the bill authorizing the expulsion of the Jesuits, the order requiring one of the Romish bishops to retract an excommunication pronounced against certain of the "Old Catholics," a cutting off of another bishop from all State support because of his disregard of State authority, the opening of certain Romish churches to "Old Catholics," notwithstanding their revolt against the Pope, and the taking of the supervision of education out of the hands of the clergy. Within a year a quiet but radical revolution has been wrought, and already Germany is largely free from the control of the Pope of Rome; so much so, indeed, that it would take comparatively little to sever the State from all connection with the church.

Madagascar.—At the anniversary of the London Missionary Society, Dr. Mullens, the secretary, presented the report of the society, which was a document of great interest. We gather from it the following cheering facts respecting Madagascar: The great wave of spiritual life which broke upon the central provinces of the island two years ago continues in full force. In 1869 no less than 16,000 persons joined the Christian community, and the members of the church increased from 7,066 to 10,546. In 1870 the increase was 78,752 persons, including 10,405 members. During the last year the increase was 63,000 persons, including 18,000 members. In three years the total addition has been 258,000 converts, including 32,000 members. In few things have the Malagozy converts shown stronger determination than in their resolve to provide numerous and suitable places for Christian worship. Chapels have sprung up in all directions; every village which contains any number of converts has its house of prayer, and recently considerable care and taste have been expended upon them. Almost the entire cost of these buildings has been borne by the people themselves. The two thousand native evangelists who aid the English missionaries in instructing their numerous congregations, prove themselves faithful and effective ministers of the gospel. One of the most important agencies maintained by the mission is the Theological Institution. It has been at work four years, and has been very useful in securing a native ministry of a superior order. Its number of students has been forty during the year. The wonderful success which has attended the Madagascar mission is almost without a parallel in the history of the Christian church.

South Sea Missions.—The triumphs of Christianity in the South seas may be seen in the following extract from Dr. Mullens' report, above referred to: "From the Pearl islets in the east, away to the Loyalites in the west, all the groups, great and small, have the gospel provided for them. Apart from our own present spheres, the Wesleyan brethren are receiving a blessing in the Fijis; the Presbyterian brethren have taken charge of the New Hebrides, and the Episcopalians of the Solomon Archipelago—both, alas since ruined by the kidnappers. The French government and their Communist convicts bar the way in New Caledonia. But New Guinea is ready; and at length, after careful thought and preparation, under manifest protection and blessing from above, in July last the mission was commenced upon its shores. The Revs. A. W. Murry and S. McFarlane, with eight native missionaries, opened their commission of mercy on Darnley Island, on the Islands of Tauan and Saibai. The commencement of this mission has imparted new life to the whole of the older missions. Everywhere native preachers and students are offering their services. The field is ready for missionaries from both the Eastern and Western stations; while wise readjustment will at once place English missionaries of experience at command, to reside in the midst of the native brethren. What shall hinder us from establishing, within five years, a very large band of missionaries in useful stations, at a small additional cost to the society? while a new land, grand in its mountains, its broad rivers, its vast forests, its rich resources, and its manly people, shall, as the years go by, be won for him who 'will have all men to be saved and come to the knowledge of his truth.'"

Few places claim our interest so strongly as the early home of our Lord; so that it cannot fail to be a matter of joy to every Christian heart to know that Nazareth is the center of a flourishing Protestant mission. Among its population of four thousand persons Rev. Mr. Zeller, sent out by the Church of England Missionary Society, is laboring with great encouragement. His congregation has of late so increased in number as to require the building of a new church edifice, which was dedicated by Bishop Gobat on the first of October last and may fairly claim to be the first Protestant and church in Palestine proper. It is most prominently situated, and by its architectural beauty forms the most attractive building of the town. On every side greater liberality of mind and freedom of action are succeeding former bigotry and fear, and evince throughout the community a kindlier disposition toward the pure gospel than ever before. Still, very many are known to be convicted by the truth who have not yet the courage to profess it openly. A class of young men are under training to become teachers. A ladies' school, primarily an orphanage, contains twenty-three boarders, and poorly accommodates one hundred day scholars. Besides, this city, which eighteen centuries ago rejected our Savior and his teachings, has become a mission center of his gospel, sending out Christian laborers to several of the villages around, in which evangelical communities have sprung up, that maintain regular Sabbath services and support their own schools.

If you would be well with a great mind, leave him with a favorable impression of you; if with a little mind, leave him with a favorable impression of himself.—Coleridge.

He that would make real progress in knowledge must dedicate his age as well as youth, the latter growth as well as the first fruits, on the altar of truth.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 15, 1872.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.
ROBT. J. HARP, Publisher.

OFFICE—No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. Harp, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. Linus Parker, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Agents—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR ALABAMA CONFERENCE:
REV. W. A. McCARTY.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
A. W. LAMPKIN, ESQ.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR, D. D.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

REDUCTION.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers hereafter at the following rates:

Per One Year	$2 00
Per Six Months	1 25
Per Three Months	75

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

to all ministers of the gospel, traveling or local, and widows of deceased traveling preachers.

FREE ONE YEAR

to any person forwarding to us four new yearly subscribers with EIGHT DOLLARS.

THE DEMONSTRATION OF THE SPIRIT.

It is a hopeless business to attempt to argue men into the kingdom of heaven. Tho utmost array of Christian evidences is easily resisted whilo the mind is under the power of darkness. Few, if any, reach conversion through the discussions of science, and the refutation of falso philosophy. Tho world by wisdom knew not God, and it is safe to assert that by wisdom it never will know him. Astronomical discourses may have their uses as wielded by the ponderous intellect of Chalmers, and the exposure of scientific infidelity subserves a purpose as unfolded by McCosh and others like him; but eloquence, learning and logic are in themselves powerless to open tho blind eyes, and to turn men "from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God." The apostles were comparatively in the dark until the Spirit was given. Christ was to be glorified in the world by the Spirit. By receiving and telling he was to demonstrate all. "No man calleth Jesus Lord but by the Holy Ghost." It is tho Spirit's office to "reprove the world of sin, and of righteousness and of judgment." The truth as it is in Jesus must be presented, Christ himself must be set forth crucified before the eyes of the ungodly; human depravity and sin, the purity and obligations of the moral law, and the great facts of accountability and judgment must be clearly and forcibly exhibited; but all must be taken up and applied to the heart and conscience by the Holy Spirit. Beyond the conclusions of reason, and the proofs and evidences of mere reasoning, is this divine power of conviction and apprehension.

The things of the Spirit of God are spiritually discerned, and the enticing words of man's wisdom can never make them intelligible to the natural man. He can comprehend the geography, history and grammar of the Bible as well as the holiest saint; but when we come to matters of faith, and other deep things of God, he is utterly in the dark. After the preacher has delivered the message, the Spirit must tell it over again by another process than that of the human agent. There is a demonstration of persuasive words, of human wisdom, of argument, eloquence and science; but there is this other—the demonstration of the Spirit. One way to secure the latter is to feel the absolute necessity of it for all practical and saving results. "Not by might nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord." The self-sufficiency and vanity of the preacher, and his reliance upon mere human art, may grieve the Spirit, and deprive his ministry of the divine presence and power. Where reliance is placed in the wisdom of man, the demonstration of the Spirit will be wanting. Another way to have the demonstration of the Spirit is to place ourselves in accord and harmony with the processes of the Spirit in his operations upon the souls of men. The Spirit's office is to take and tell. He must have gospel truth, the doctrines of the gospel, the things of Christ, that he may wield and apply them. Let the book be about geology, and the Spirit has no particular business with it. Let the sermon be occupied with popular science, literature and philosophy, and there will be nothing for him to take and tell. He is to reprove the world of sin, of righteousness and of judgment; but if these matters are scarcely hinted at, there is nothing in his line for him to do. He is to take of Christ's things and show them—demonstrate them, make them luminous, glorify; but if Christ is covered over with rubbish, and only incidentally brought to view, there is little for him to receive or to apply. We have heard some sermons, and read some, so out of accord with the economy of the Spirit that we could see no point in them for his peculiar co-operation.

The Spirit must have a text, as well as the preacher; but while the preacher may preach about anything, the Spirit must have Christ for his theme. The nearer and more direct the better. He may get something out of "the Seven Stars and Orion," and other fanciful and far-fetched spiritualizations, but he would choose the plainest and strongest declarations of Scripture. If tho subject has nothing in it of Christ and salvation to be demonstrated, instead of hovering about the sermon, and carrying the words to the hearer's conscience, he will take his flight. How different where the song, the prayer, the sermon are deeply spiritual and full of the aroma of the cross! There the Spirit finds arrows tipped with blood and feathered with flame to send home to the heart. There he has something to receive and to show. A man reads a work purporting to prove Christianity true, but his skepticism remains; he reads a tract red hot with the positive truths of the gospel, and is convinced. He hears a sermon full of all lore, of faultless elocution, and argumentative to the last degree, but there is no spiritual insight given; he hears some illiterate bungler—earnest, devout and simple—crying, reiterating, and revolving as a wheel upon its axis: "Look unto me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth;" and he looks and is saved. The Spirit's demonstrations are connected with the truth to be demonstrated, and with the hearts and consciences of men. It must be truth congenial to his mission, and in the direct line of human salvation. Whatever other demonstrations may do in arresting attention and exciting thought, his alone opens the eyes, and rends the vail from the heart.

It should be our reverent care and concern to labor in sympathy and in intelligent harmony with this office of the Holy Spirit. If this divine Demonstrator be not with us, "the vail remains untaken away," and no effort of ours can dispel the vapors which enshroud the Sun of Righteousness. The argument, learning and eloquence which are permeated with love and full of Christ, the Spirit delights to honor and wield; but he is grieved and quenched by all that is irrelevant and meretricious. Above all, he loves to put his seal upon the simple, direct and positive declarations of gospel doctrine and promise. He is at once the teacher's teacher and the hearer's hearer. He is mouth and wisdom to the one, and ear and understanding to the other; but the lips must be touched by his coal, the ear must be opened by his breath. The demonstration of the Spirit! Let us never get away from this secret of power, and let us beware of all expedients which even tend to beguile us away from this precious and vital truth of God.

Thought engenders thought. Learn to think, and you will learn to write; the more you think, the better you will express your ideas.

MORE ABOUT THE PROPERTY.

We observe from a report made by a special committee to the Jonesboro District Conference, East Tennessee, that the Northern Church still holds our church property, within the bounds of that single district, to the amount of $23,600. Dr. Summers, in the Nashville Advocate, makes some statements and explanations which should be kept in mind. He says:

Their papers still reiterate the assertion that we hold a great deal of their property in Virginia. They know, or ought to know, that we do no such thing. The Baltimore Conference, after the session of the General Conference of 1860, resolved to adhere to the Southern Church, on the basis of the Plan of Separation, on a certain contingency; that contingency took place, and at the session of that Conference in 1866, by formal vote, it adhered to the Southern Church, and brought with it, of course, its property, according to the provisions of the Plan. This was done in good faith—as all the world knows, or ought to know. Their action was not in the least affected by the contrary action of a recusant part of the Conference, which, by the fortunes of war, had been, to a great extent, cut off from their Virginia brethren. Our Baltimore Conference complains that the Northern body, calling itself by that name, holds property belonging to the former—which we recognize as the true, genuine, legal old Baltimore Conference, and as such it was recognized by our General Conference of 1868. If our brethren in Maryland and Virginia hold a stick or a brick which belongs to the Northern Church we are not aware of it. But let any unprejudiced party look into the history of the case in Tennessee, Louisiana, etc., and it will be seen that, when the accident of war put us in their power, Northern bishops, preachers and courts took from us property to the value of hundreds of thousands of dollars, a great part of which they still hold in their possession, and would have held the rest if they had not been forced in some places by law and public opinion to surrender it to its lawful owners. We challenge a fair and honest investigation of these matters.

THE POLITICAL CHURCH.

Several of our Northern religious exchanges are very much exercised at this time about the political situation. The New York Christian Advocate has opened somewhat under cover, but it is plain that the battery is on the side of the administration. The Independent devotes more space to the support of Grant than to several other things. Bishop Haven, in a late number of the Independent, takes Charles Sumner in hand, and launches out boldly into the deep of the pending campaign. While reading the following extract, remember that he is about the youngest and freshest of the new lot of Bishops, and the one whose home is to be at Atlanta, Georgia.

The time has come when the party that has done this work asks a continuance of power. Its ambitious enemies have beguiled certain of its former supporters from their steadfastness, and are now seeking his co-operation. They go to him with plausible words. They promise equality and fraternity with the negro, open courts, open schools, open churches, open inns, and equality in all places of public resort. They mean no such purpose; they carefully exclude their promises from the reports of their conversation. They hate the party that has conquered—its ideas and its managers. They will drive out those ideas with their managers, so surely as they elect their candidate for the presidency. That body of unrepentant men cast nearly three million of votes in 1868. The friends of the slave, of liberty and of Union cast only a little over three millions—hardly a quarter of a million difference. If that quarter of a million is taken away from Grant and given to Greeley, it will still be the two and three-quarter millions that elect the latter and that will control his policy. Samson could as properly have expected to have been elected king of the Philistines after they had flattered him into their power as Sumner to control these Philistines if they succeed in his capture. They will mock at his pleas. They will hang and slay. The negro of the South will have to hide himself from his murderous foe, or crouch at his feet in revived servility and a more hideous slavery. Their white brothers will have to abandon their posts or refrain from putting forth their just powers for their improvement. The church will feel the blow, and her broad and busy work for the elevation of that country will all be staved.

OUR NEW HOUSE.

The last Nashville Advocate contains a well-executed wood-cut of the new Publishing House as it is to be when completed. A very imposing and beautiful structure indeed, and something worthy of a great and enterprising denomination. Among the list of contributors Louisiana stands about the lowest. True, we have our own House to pay for, but can we not do this and something more? Dr. Redford says:

We take pleasure in presenting to our friends an engraving of the new Publishing House in our paper of this week. The building is rapidly progressing, and, when completed, will be the most imposing structure of the kind we have seen in this country, North or South. It presents a front on the public square of one hundred and sixteen feet, and runs back two hundred and twenty-four feet to the river. The entire cost of the House will be about $110,000, which, together with the stonework that did not require to be taken down, will make the building alone worth $150,000. The ground on which the House will be erected is valued at about $100,000, thus making the property, when the House is finished, worth not less to the church than $250,000. To aid in the erection of this magnificent edifice we have received liberal contributions from many portions of the church, while other sections remain unrepresented. There is not a congregation in our widespread connection that will not be glad to contribute something toward the completion of this work; and thousands of our people who, as yet, have made no investment in it, will regard it as a privilege to send us something. In the meantime the work will go on. Who will help us?

So far as we can learn, the week of prayer is being generally observed by special services. Our city churches are open every night, and thus far the congregations have been large, and a deep spiritual interest is manifested. On Monday night, the occasion of the regular quarterly love-feast at Felicity street, we were exceedingly gratified by the large attendance, and by the prompt manner in which the time was improved. This charge, in spite of the heated term and the large number absent from the city, is in a lively and prosperous condition. We have come to regard the love-feast as about the best gauge of religion among the Methodists.

We notice that John McTyeire, son of the Bishop, has been elected to the chair of Greek and Latin in Arcadia College, Missouri. We feel a double interest in this event, as General L. M. Lewis, the president, was at one time a valued and popular member of the Louisiana Conference, and young Prof. McTyeire is a native of New Orleans. Many of our city readers will remember John as a child, and rejoice with us in the useful and honorable career upon which he has entered. This mention will elicit many prayers and good wishes from the friends and acquaintances of his childhood.

We deeply sympathize with our friend and brother, Dr. E. D. Beach, and his stricken household, in their sore bereavement. Mrs. Beach died on the ninth instant, near Warm Springs, North Carolina. Her death was caused by the upsetting of a stage coach in which the family were being transferred from the railroad station to the Springs. She lived but a few moments after the accident occurred. Her remains were brought home, and the burial took place on Tuesday last. Sister Beach was a member of the Carondelet Street Methodist church of this city—a most estimable lady and exemplary Christian.

Dr. Lovick Pierce.—We are rejoiced to learn that the health of this venerable minister is improving. Bishop Pierce, in a note to Dr. Mitchell, of August 3, says:

My father is up—feeble, but improving. He has gone to a district meeting. I have enjoined him not to preach for awhile.

We are pained to learn that Mrs. Catherine A. Chatfield, wife of Rev. G. W. Chatfield, of the Mississippi Conference, died July 13, 1872. An obituary is furnished, and will appear soon.

Obituaries will be found on the second page.

THE NEW CHURCH IN GALVESTON.

Our brethren in Galveston are enlarging. The corner-stone of the new church was laid, with appropriate ceremonies, on the third instant. Flake's Bulletin gives the following account of the occasion:

The corner-stone of the new St. James Methodist Episcopal Church South, the foundation of which has just been completed at the corner of Postoffice and Fourteenth streets, was laid with appropriate ceremonies on Saturday evening. A convenient platform had been erected at the northwest corner to accommodate the officiating ministers, a company of singers and the Sunday school organ. Between two and three hundred persons witnessed and participated in the ceremonies, among the number the venerable Mr. Ayres and wife, who arrived home from Mississippi on Saturday morning.

After the singing of an appropriate hymn, Rev. Dr. Bunting made the opening prayer; and Rev. Mr. Johns, editor of the Christian Advocate, read the Scripture sentences. Dr. Walker then made a brief but earnest and eloquent address, referring to the interesting event which had brought them together; the many fine churches which Galveston had erected in her brief but prosperous career as a city, and predicting a brilliant commercial future for the city, if she were true to herself. He compared Texas, and her unmatched climate and soil, with France, less in territorial extent and sustaining a population of forty millions of people. Texas, when her railroads are completed, and her surface crossed in all directions by the iron track, could easily sustain twenty millions. Illinois had seven thousand miles of railroads, and Texas, in proportion to her territory, would have forty thousand. But all this commercial and social prosperity would be of little avail if religion and morality were neglected. He drew a beautiful view of the future mission and usefulness of the new church in its saving power for good upon every class destined to be brought under its influence; spoke of the present and prospective facilities for reaching the place from distant parts of the city, and finally thanked the venerable friend who sat near, a witness of the devotions, but unable to hear him, who had already contributed $7,000 toward the enterprise.

A second hymn was sung, and a list of articles and documents to be deposited was read by Rev. J. M. Wesson, who deposited the box in the place prepared for it, and laid the stone above.

The substantial and appropriate corner-stone was cut in marble, lettered and generously presented to the church by William A. Allen, of Center street.

The box of tinned copper deposited contained the following articles:

1. The names of all the presiding elders of the Galveston district, and all the pastors of the Galveston station, from 1840 to 1872.
2. A brief history of the Methodist Church in Galveston and the Sabbath school, from their organization to the present year.
3. The names of the present presiding elder, pastor, trustees of the St. James church, the Sabbath school superintendent, and Brother David Ayres, the first donor to the church.
4. A London edition of the New Testament Scriptures.
5. A hymn book of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.
6. A copy of the Discipline, containing the doctrines, the ritual and government of the Methodist Episcopal Church.
7. One copy each of the Texas, New Orleans and Nashville Christian Advocates.
8. One copy each of the Galveston News and the Bulletin.

A closing hymn and benediction closed the interesting exercises.

The first story will be carried up and roofed for present use for the Sunday schools, and the edifice will be entirely completed as soon as practicable. It will be one of the finest church edifices in the State, and an ornament to the city.

A LEGAL INIQUITY.

It is in no partisan spirit that we notice the existence in our midst of one of the basest and most demoralizing institutions. The evil of a legalized State Lottery in Louisiana is absolutely beyond calculation. It strikes at the very roots of honesty and industry, and affects the material welfare of the country even more disastrously than the enormous and direct taxation to which our oppressed people are subjected. The perpetrators of this outrage upon civilization and good morals deserve the contempt and indignation of all good citizens. Such a piece of legalized gambling as this Lottery is is worse than any pestilence. Thousands and perhaps millions of hard-earned money is being annually squandered by the dupes and victims of this most enticing and deceptive temptation. It is educating the rising generation to become a community of gamblers, and leading them into all vice and dishonesty. We copy from the Picayune some statements on the subject, which our people should carefully consider.

Nothing more exactly marks the misery of the times in which we live than the existence of laws in this commonwealth encouraging gambling and lotteries.

The article of the constitution of Louisiana of 1864, licensing the last of these most heinous offenses against society, is not found in the constitution of 1868, but the evil thus silently ignored in our present fundamental law we find now more rampant than ever in this community. It exists by virtue of the act of the Legislature, found at page 24 of the act of 1868—a law which even Governor Warmoth declined to approve, but which, not having been returned by him to the house where it originated, within the prescribed period, became a law without his approval.

This law is entitled "An act to increase the revenue of the State," etc. By article 5, section 1, it provides that the corporation shall pay $40,000 annually to the State, to be credited to the educational fund, being otherwise exempted from all other taxes or licenses. In other words, the State gets for authorizing the establishment of the Louisiana State Lottery Company $40,000 annually for twenty-five years.

Thus to plant an evil principle, corrupting the youth of our city and State, destroying all incentives to industry—that robs honorable toil of its fruits—that, in a word, saps the very morals of society, the State requires a douceur in the shape of $40,000 for educational purposes. Better, far better for us to have no schools, no means of educating our youth, if such advantages are to be purchased at so dear a rate. Few States of the Union permit, on any terms, this species of gambling, and it is more than fifty years since lotteries were forbidden in England, under heavy penalties.

Again, the law creating this gambling shop is a piece of hypocrisy from beginning to end. Under the plea of "preventing the withdrawal from the State, and the loss of many millions of dollars" by the sale in Louisiana of "Havana, Kentucky, Madrid, and other lottery tickets," and hereafter to protect the State against such withdrawal and loss, the statute gives to certain individuals the right to withdraw from the people of the State and to their loss and impoverishment the very millions referred to. It creates a wretched monopoly, for the enrichment of a few, to the impoverishment of a whole people, and all under the above special plea, and the still more hypocritical one of "raising a fund for educational and charitable purposes for the citizens of Louisiana." Among the many laws destructive to our prosperity as a people, enacted during the past four years, this is the worst because of its insidious character and its thorough iniquity. The poor wife in her want and misery may curse the cause of her poverty and privations; the widow dependent on her boys for subsistence may curse the thief that robs her of the wages of their industry; but what cares the wealthy monopolist for the misery of these people? Is he not engaged in the patriotic purpose of raising a fund for the education of the people, and for charitable purposes?

We say nothing here of a power which permits the wholesale traffic in a game of hazard as a monopoly to a certain party, and alone to sell to the people, under its own auspices, Louisiana State, Havana, Kentucky, Madrid and other lottery tickets, by the sale of which last, under the law, "millions of dollars have been withdrawn from and lost to the State."

It becomes the public press, nay, all citizens, to raise their voices loudly against this crying sin, this subtle poison, that so cankers the morals of the rising generation. It is one of the ills that the present evil times and the corruption of the hour has brought upon our people.

We deeply regret, says the Western Methodist, to hear of the death of the Rev. A. T. Scruggs, Jr., son of the Rev. A. T. Scruggs, of the St. Louis Conference. Last fall he was admitted on probation in the North Mississippi Conference, and appointed to Iuka circuit; but in a short time his health, long feeble, failed altogether, and he was obliged to give up his charge. He died, in great peace, August 1, at the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. George Halo, near Mount Pleasant, Mississippi. He was a lovely young man, of deep piety, and his death is greatly lamented by a wide circle of relations and friends. We hope some one will furnish an obituary notice for publication.

Agt's & Publisher's Department

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS OF LETTERS and Funds, Received by Mail, for the week ending Aug. 10, 1872:

A—D Appleton & Co 3 lots, Adams, Blackmar & Lyon, American Sunday School Union N Y, Daniel F Ashford $30, C G Andrews, W F Alexander.

B—Hornce Bishop, Lovi Beeman $8, Wm N Bonner, Irn L Beebe & Co, Bigiow & Main, T S Bidgood, W P Barton $3.50, Barnes & Wilkinson $139.14, J Bancroft.

C—S C Collins, S H Cooper, C W Carter, John T Cameron, Miss Clarn F Church, Wm J Carlton 2 lots, Thomas Cameron, Robert F Clement, J W Cooley, J C Caldwell, J E Crans.

D—Dndd & Mead, C B DuBoso $28, W D Dennis $1.25, Rowland Dny $4, W B Dennis, Thos F Dickson $13, John V Doalphan, B D Dashiell $22.50.

E—3 C Ellis $3.25, W C Enochs.

F—Jas M Franklin $2, E A Flowers $2, J R Ferguson, T F Freeman, H Walter Featherstun $6.85.

G—J C Garrigus, T & R Gordon, H B Graham & Bro.

H—F A Hutchinson & Co, W W Harding, E L Hill, H H Hines, R H Harris.

J—H F Johnston 2 lots.

K—C Keener.

L—A Lagare, G L Liverman $7, B F Larrabee $20, A C Littlejohn 3 lots, Lee, Shepard & Dillinghnm, W R Lewis, J B Lippincott & Co, Henry P Lewis $25, B Lnulis Jr, A W Lake $37, Limfenmeyer & Bro, H W. Lay.

M—Wm H Mayo, J A Morris, M C Manly, H G McGhee 25 cts, D L Mitchell $12, A H Mitchell $1, Mrs E A Moore, William Meyer, John C Murphy $3.75, Mrs M J Montleth, T A McMullen, W A Montgomery.

N—No nnme $5, Geo F Nesbitt & Co, Pres G Nash Jr.

P—Mrs M Kate Powell, S F Pilley Pierce & Terry $35.99, R T Parish, Powers Paper Co, John E Potter & Co, A Purviance Jr. Pott, Young & Co.

R—A H Redford, E E F Ross, A D F Randolph, J K Randall, S R Robertson $5.50.

S—J W Schermerhorn, Scribner, Welford & Armstrong, H L Smith, Mrs A A Staples 50 cts, H A Spangenberg, C W Smith.

T—Benjamin T Tauer.

W—John Wilkinson $16, John F Winn, F White, T B White, R S Wilkins 50 cts, J C Welch, J W Weems $4.25, A W Williams, Jas G Worley, S White & Co, D J Wright, S G Williamson.

Z—George Zarrows.

ADVOCATE PRESS FOR SALE.—Our press is too small. Our present size, 24 by 42 inches, is the largest we can print on it. The increase of business and demands of our readers require that we should part with our beautiful Hoe cylinder printing machine, which, with eighteen pounds of steam, will print from thirteen hundred to fifteen hundred per hour. See the work, as in our issue, and call or send a competent judge on Mondays or Wednesdays to see it in motion, if you wish to buy. We will entertain propositions from first-class manufacturers for exchange. Address

ROBT. J. HARP, Publisher.

Mr. E. E. F. Ross, our resident advertising agent, is now on a brief tour through the West and North, and we commend him to the attention of our patrons, and shall be thankful for courtesies extended to him. They are assured that Mr. Ross has no other business, but devotes his entire time to the paper, and is entitled to all the consideration of one of its business corps. Mr. Ross may be found at the Bingham House, corner of Eleventh and Market streets, Philadelphia.

WESLEYAN FEMALE COLLEGE, MACON, GEORGIA.—The above-named institution, we believe, is the oldest chartered female college in the world, and in the extent of the course embraced in its curriculum, and the thoroughness of scholarship to which its graduates have attained, it takes rank second to none of its junior sisters. Indeed the average of its alumni will compare favorably with the alumni of the first male colleges in the country. It has been our privilege to attend several of its examinations and commencements in past years, and we may safely say that we have never attended any which gave more complete satisfaction. See advertisement in another column.

NEW LIVERPOOL LINE OF STEAMERS.—The Liverpool and Mississippi Steamship Company deserve the thanks of the entire community interested in the commercial development of New Orleans, and the cities of the Mississippi valley, for their enterprise and indomitable energy in building up the trade which employs their line of splendid steamers, running direct to Liverpool.—Direct importation is an indispensable necessity to our commercial independence. See advertisement elsewhere.

WE INVITE ATTENTION to the advertisement of Messrs. William Gregg & Co., published in the ADVOCATE. The new Wilson sewing machine is represented as equal to any of the first-class machines. It is twenty dollars cheaper, and is warranted to purchasers for five years. Rev. J. D. Adams informs us that his wife has been using one for several months, and says that it possesses all the good qualities claimed for it.

WOMAN'S FRIEND.—Those of our readers who are desirous of procuring a really good washing machine are directed to the advertisement, in this issue, of the Woman's Friend Washing Machine—a machine of small cost, but of great capacity and merit.

Married.

July 16, 1872, at the residence of William C. Currie, by the Rev. W. F. Alexander, Mr. JAMES H. DILFOIL, of Madison parish, Louisiana, to Miss KATE L. CURRIE, of Carroll parish, Louisiana.

In Rondo, Lafayette county, Arkansas, July 29, 1872, by Rev. James A. Anderson, at the residence of Captain M. W. Edwards, the bride's brother, Rev. R. PARVIN, of the Louisiana Conference, and Mrs. M. J. WHEAT, of Rondo, Arkansas.

On the first of August, by the Rev. U. B. Phillips, Mr. DAVID M. YATES and Miss MARY L. HILL, of Moss Point, Jackson county, Mississippi.

On the ninth of August, at the parsonage, by Rev. U. B. Phillips, Mr. EMERY S. SANFORD and Mrs. ERSEY C. THOMAS, of Moss Point, Jackson county, Mississippi.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

A Stubborn Fact.—There is scarcely any disease in which purgative medicines are not more or less required, and much suffering might be prevented were they more generally used. No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails; besides, it soon generates serious diseases, which might have been avoided by a timely use of cathartic medicines. For this purpose DR. TUTT'S VEGETABLE LIVER PILLS are confidently recommended; they are mild, safe, prompt and uniform in their action. They contain no mercury. Persons may eat and drink as usual, and they may be taken at any time.

MILLEN, BURKE CO., GA., Oct. 28, 1869.

DR. WILLIAM H. TUTT—Sir: We have been engaged for some time in selling your preparations, and it affords us pleasure to say that in every instance they have given perfect satisfaction. We can more particularly speak of your Sarsaparilla, Liver Pills and Pain Alleviator, as being all they are represented to be, having used them in our own families with marked success; and would advise every family to keep a supply on hand, as they may be the means of saving many dollars in doctor's bills, and alleviating much pain and suffering. Very truly yours, au15 1t GRAY & DANIEL.

Dr. Tutt's Hair Dye Imparts a Natural Color.

Mrs. Whitcomb's Syrup.—The great soothing remedy. Price only 25 cents. Gives rest to the mother and health to the child. Sold by druggists. jy18 1y

Have your Printing and Binding Done at

THE PELICAN JOB OFFICE,

112 and 114 Poydras St., New Orleans.

jy18 1y

The Equitable Life Assurance Society, New York,

Assets, $18,000,000. Income, $8,000,000.

Branch office—33 CAMP STREET.

A. P. CLEVELAND,
fe8 1y General Agent.

Dr. Henry's Root and Plant Pills.—Mild yet thorough; no nausea or griping; entirely vegetable; great Liver remedy. Price, 25 cents. Sold by druggists. jy18 1y

Use Dr. Henry's World's Tonic and Blood Purifier.—It is the great household remedy, pleasant to take, yet potent for the prevention and cure of diseases. It is better than Bitters, Cordials, Buchu or Sarsaparilla. Sold by druggists. jy18 1y

Caution!—Every genuine box of Dr. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bears the signature of Fleming Brothers, Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, and their private United States stamp. ☞ Take no other; the market is full of imitations.

It is the popular verdict that people who have been accustomed to the use of Bitters or Cordials are obliged eventually to resort to McLane's Liver Pills for permanent relief. ap25 6m

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

MRS. M. G. BROWN'S

CELEBRATED

POOR RICHARD'S

EYE-WATER

derives its name from Benjamin Franklin's Almanac, which is immortal for its philosophical sayings, one of which is: "An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure."

Giving the Eyes a drink, morning and night, of

POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER

would prevent every disease which attacks the human body, thus lengthening life to an indefinite period.

The Body is of the Earth, and the Eye is a Plant, which requires moisture

The dust received into the eyes daily works itself into mortar, which clogs the machinery of the head, and closes up the eight thousand tubes and glands around the eyes; the balls contract and sink; they grow to the socket, and consequently the reviving power is impeded. This is what causes the bloodstreaks, the dark greenish color of the balls, and scum.

When the eyes are neglected the entire machinery of the face becomes distorted; even the countenance is changed. How true: "The light of the body is the eye." It is as necessary to give the eye moisture as any plant of the field.

Language fails to make known the salutary effects upon the entire mental and physical machinery arising from giving the eyes a drink of POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER, morning and night; also the fearful consequence of neglecting so to do from the cradle to the grave.

POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER
Prevents Catarrh.

POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER
Cures Catarrh,
Opens the 8,000 tubes and glands in the head,
Prevents ugliness and pains in the head,
Opens and keeps open the mucous membrane,
Removes phlegm from throat and chest.

POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER
Removes Wrinkles and Blotches,
Gives large, sparkling eyes,
Gives a clear, smooth complexion,
Lifts sunken eyes,
Strengthens weak eyes.

POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER
Removes tan freckles,
Gives blooming cheeks,
Removes all inflammation,
Cures all kinds of headache,
It penetrates through the eyes into the gums
And preserves the teeth,
Gives the sweetest breath,
Opens the gates for rivers
To pass from the head into the system.

POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER
Cures tan, freckles and grubs,
Is clear and beautiful,
Same taste as the tear.

POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER
Restores the memory, brightens the intellect.

Price, Twenty-five cents per bottle. Sold by druggists. E. J. HART & Co., Wholesale Agents, 73 75, 77 and 79 Tchoupitoulas street, New Orleans.

☞ Inclose ten cents to the METAPHYSICAL UNIVERSITY, 51 Bond street, New York, for Mrs. M. G. Brown's pamphlet of sixty-eight pages, giving a synopsis of the Cause, Cure and Prevention of Disease: worth mines of gold to both sick and well. au15 1y

Wesleyan Female College,
MACON, GEORGIA.

THE THIRTY-FIFTH ANNUAL SESSION will begin OCTORER 7, 1872.

For catalogues, containing full information, address

REV. E. H. MYERS, D. D., President, or
C. W. SMITH, Secretary of Faculty.
au15 2m

WANTED.—A NO. 1 PROFESSOR OF Ancient and Modern Languages, graduate of the University of Heidelberg, who can come well recommended, desires a SITUATION in a College or other institution of learning. Address, for further particulars, ADVOCATE OFFICE, au15 3t 112 Camp st., New Orleans.

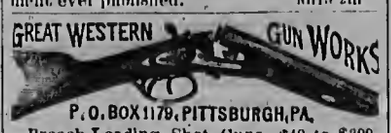
NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

SMITH, ENGLISH & CO.,
BOOKSELLERS AND IMPORTERS,
(ESPECIALLY OF THEOLOGICAL BOOKS,)
No. 710 Arch street, Philadelphia.

S., E. & Co. have on hand the best and most complete assortment of THEOLOGICAL BOOKS for sale in the country. Send for Complete Classified Catalogue, 25 cents, or with Alphabetical Index 50 cents—the best guide to purchasers in this department ever published. au15 2m



P. O. BOX 1179, PITTSBURGH, PA.

Breech-Loading Shot Guns, $40 to $300. Double Shot Guns, $8 to $150. Single Guns, $3 to $20. Rifles, $8 to $75. Revolvers, $6 to $25. Send stamp for Price List. Army Guns, Revolvers, etc., etc., bought or traded for. au15 1yeow

AGENTS WANTED—for the Lives of

Grant Greeley

WILSON BROWN and the leading men of all parties. Over 40 Steel Portraits, worth twice the cost of the book. Wanted everywhere. Agents have wonderful success. Send for circular. Address

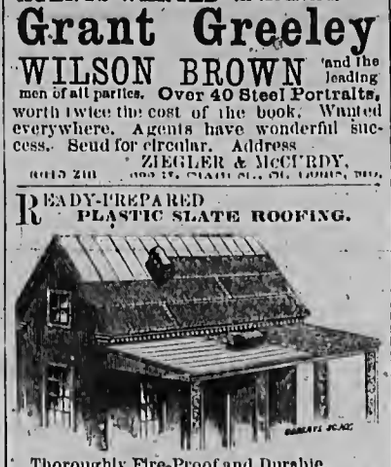
ZIEGLER & McCURDY,
au15 2m 602 Chestnut St., St. Louis, Mo.

READY-PREPARED
PLASTIC SLATE ROOFING.



Thoroughly Fire-Proof and Durable.

Adapted to any style of roof steep or flat. Can be applied by any one. Its cost on the roof is less than shingles in nearly every section of the country, and the water from it is of the best quality. Sample sent on application to

EDWARD THOMPSON, Manufacturer,
je27 6m 184 Peters street, New Orleans.

THE GREAT
HOUSEHOLD REMEDY.

As an Invigorator, Liver Corrector and Blood Renovator is superior to all the Bitters, Elixirs, Cordials and Sarsaparillas in use. It is so adapted to the whole system that every organ and function in the body is brought under its exhilarating influence. It gives tone and strength to the digestive apparatus, dispels langnor and debility, invigorates the Liver, regulates the Kidneys and Bowels, removes the effect of excessor overtaxation of any kind, and gives vitality and richness to the blood.

Its curative powers alter and completely reorganize the entire mass of fluids, and even the solids of the human system, thereby preventing and curing Dyspeptic and Consumptive symptoms, Fever and Ague, Bilious diseases, Fevers of all kinds, Nervous Debility, Affections of the Stomach and Bowels, etc. As a mild and delightful Invigorant for delicate females it has no superior.

By its use new life and vigor is given to both body and mind, sending a glow of vitality through every part, which is permanent and lasting.

It is the most effectual remedy for the relief of human suffering ever discovered, and is pleasant to the taste.

WE CHALLENGE THE WORLD

to produce a more delicious medicine to take, yet so potent for the prevention and cure of diseases, than DR. HENRY'S

WORLD'S TONIC AND BLOOD PURIFIER.
Price, $1, or Six Bottles for $5.

Prepared by the GRAFTON MEDICINE Co., St. Louis, Mo. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicines everywhere. jy18 1yeow

Agents WANTED FOR THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD.

A GRAND and popular Repository of Religious Knowledge. Agents sell 100 per week. A splendid quarto, with 200 magnificent illustrations on STEEL and WOOD. Agents who sell this can have a prospectus free of our Pictorial Home Bible, published in English and German. Address at once, to secure terms and territory, WM. FLINT & CO., Savannah, Ga. my9 3mcow

TENNESSEE FEMALE COLLEGE,
FRANKLIN, TENNESSEE.
Rev. R. K. Hargrove, A. M., President.

FALL SESSION FOR 1872 opens on Thursday, SEPTEMBER 5.

Its organization and equipment are complete, and its facilities of the highest order.

It will not substitute graduation for education.

Not one of its hundreds of pupils, for sixteen years past, has ever died in attendance on it.

Board and Collegiate Tuition, including French and Latin, one year, $220. To itinerant Ministers, literary tuition free, and board on special terms.

Circulars sent on application. au1 2m

AGENTS WANTED FOR

SECRETS OF THE CONVENT AND CONFESSIONAL.

BY JULIA M'NAIR WRIGHT.

The most thrilling and powerful book ever written on this subject. It presents a startling array of facts, and contains revelations never before made public.

Send for circulars and terms to
NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.,
274 and 276 Second street,
au1 6m Memphis, Tenn.

A GRADUATE OF SOME EXPERIENCE, who can teach all the branches usually taught in Female Colleges, desires a situation. Prefers a select school in some village or good neighborhood. For information address REV. S. P. RICHARDSON, je6 3m Summerfield, Alabama.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

CENTENARY COLLEGE,
JACKSON, LOUISIANA.

THE NEXT TERM OF THIS VENERABLE INSTITUTION OPENS ON THE FIRST MONDAY IN OCTOBER, 1872.

FACULTY.

Rev. C. G. ANDREWS, A. M., President, and Professor of Mental and Moral Science, Political Economy and International Law.

Rev. A. R. HOLCOMBE, A. M., Professor of Mathematics and Adjunct Professor of Natural Science.

G. H. WILEY, A. M., Professor of Ancient and Modern Languages.

T. S. JONES, M. D., Professor of Natural Science.

——— ———, Principal of the Preparatory Department.

CHARGES.

Tuition, per session of forty weeks, in College	$60 00
Tuition, per session of forty weeks, in Preparatory Department	40 00
Contingent expenses	5 00

A matriculation fee of $5 must be paid on entering any regular college class. One-half the charges must be paid when the student enters; the other half on the beginning of the second term, March 1.

BOARD.

Board, including lodging, washing, lights and fuel, can be had in the best of families for $20 per month. Day-boarding with the same families, $13 per month. Rooms provided in the dormitories free of rent. Board to be paid in advance at least one month.

LOCATION.

This institution is located in the lovely village of Jackson, about twelve miles from Baton Rouge, in a grove of pine, magnolia, oak and beech. The location is remarkable for its beautiful woodlands, its bland and delightful atmosphere, its pure water, its unrivaled healthfulness, and its cultivated and refined society.

WHEN FOUNDED.

The college was established by the State of Louisiana in 1825, and ceded to the Methodist Episcopal Church South in 1845.

ALUMNI.

Its Alumni numbers 203, and they are to be found in the most honorable and useful stations in the land.

APPARATUS AND CABINET.

The college possesses a valuable set of Philosophical, Astronomical and Chemical Apparatus, and also a well-selected Mineralogical and Geological Cabinet. The apparatus includes a Theodolite, Sextant, Compass, Chronometer, Atwood's Machine, Whirling Tables, Electrical Machine, Air Pump, various combinations of the Mechanical Powers, Batteries, Chemical Tests, etc., sufficient for a thorough and extended course of observations and experiments. Steps have been taken by the Board of Trustees to put these in thorough repair.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are two regular Literary Societies connected with the institution. These are of great utility to young men acquiring a liberal education—improving them in the art of public speaking, making them in some degree familiar with the proceedings of deliberative bodies, and in cultivating systematic business habits. Each Society has a convenient hall and a well selected library—about 1,600 volumes each, which, added to the College Library of 2,000 volumes, makes over 5,000 volumes in the college.

BUILDINGS.

The Trustees are determined to continue the repairs on the buildings till completed. The grand Center Building is a noble specimen of architectural beauty and adaptation to the purposes of its erection. The wings, built of solid brick, present each a front of two hundred feet, with upper and lower galleries the entire length, supported by Tuscan columns, and with the center making in the perspective a continuous front of 7,000 feet.

PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

In the Preparatory Department students are fitted for regular college classes, or may obtain a thorough English or commercial education.

ITS FACULTY are men of experience and success in teaching.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

Rev. Bishop J. C. KEENER, D. D., President, New Orleans.

Rev. J. A. Godfrey, Clinton.	Hon. A. K. Farrar, Adams county, Miss.
Hon. John McVea, Clinton.	Hon. Edward J. Gay, parish of Iberville.
Hon. and Rev. Jas. H. Muse, St. Helena par.	Samuel J. Norwood, Esq., Simmsport, La.
Hon. Edward McGehee, Woodville, Miss.	C. G. McGehee, Esq., Wilkinson co., Miss.
Hon. E. T. Merrick, New Orleans	Rev. W. H. Watkins, D. D., Natchez, Miss.
Prof. W. H. N. Magruder, Baton Rouge.	Rev. W. G. Millsaps, Jefferson county, Miss.
Rev. John C. Miller, Jackson.	Rev. S. A. B. Jones, Port Gibson, Miss.
Rev. R. J. Harp, New Orleans.	Rev. John A. Ellis, Meridian, Miss.
Hon. J. O. Fuqua, Baton Rouge.	B. H. Moss, M. D., New Orleans.
T. S. Collins, Esq., East Feliciana.	Josiah D. Nettles, Esq., East Feliciana.
Rev. J. L. Forsythe, Jackson.	Wilmot H. Goodale, Esq., Baton Rouge.
Rev. L. Parker, D. D., New Orleans.	Rev. C. G. Andrews, Jackson, La.
D. C. Hardee, Esq., Clinton.

THE BEST ROUTE to the college is to leave the Mississippi river at Port Hudson, take the Clinton and Port Hudson railroad to Midway station, report to Captain F. J. Haynes as a student for Centenary, and he will convey you to the college, a distance of seven miles, for one dollar and a half for single passengers, or one dollar each where several are together. Address

au1 6m C. G. ANDREWS, President, Jackson, La.

WOMAN'S FRIEND WASHING MACHINE.

THE UNDERSIGNED OFFERS THIS Machine to the public as the Simplest and Best Washing Machine of the age, while the cost is the lowest. It is the invention of a Kentuckian, and is operated by rocking, and washes the clothes by beating instead of rubbing. It will wash sixteen shirts or twenty-five ordinary pieces of clothing or two single blankets at a time, and it will thoroughly wash, rinse and blue one hundred pieces ordinary clothing in forty-five minutes, without the least wear of the clothing, the breaking of a button or the pulling of a thread.

The most delicate fabrics can be washed with it without the least injury. It gives a grass-bleached whiteness to the clothes. To blankets and woolen clothes it gives a new appearance and feeling. Its construction is so simple that it will last for years with care, and costs less than wash-tubs in the aggregate. Any one can repair it, as there are no cog-wheels or cranks to replace.

The directions for its use are very simple, and every Machine will do as represented if the directions are followed. It is a most excellent Wool-washer likewise. Send for circular and certificates of its merits.

PRICE, $12. WITH WRINGER, $18.

EDWARD THOMPSON, Manufacturer and Proprietor,
je27 6m 184 Peters street, near Julia, New Orleans.

MANSFIELD FEMALE COLLEGE,
Mansfield, DeSoto Parish, La.

THIS INSTITUTION, ENTERING UPON its Eighteenth Year, well supplied with Apparatus and other educational aids, and employing the most approved methods of instruction and government, will commence its Fall Session for 1872 on WEDNESDAY, the Twenty-fifth day of September, with a full corps of accomplished Teachers. For catalogues, with all particulars, address

CHARLES B. STUART,
au8 2m President.

ATHENS FEMALE INSTITUTE,
AT ATHENS, ALABAMA,

IS UNDER THE PATRONAGE OF THE North Alabama Conference. The next session will open on

The First Monday in September.

Our arrangements are all complete. A corps of able Teachers, a full course of study, thorough drilling and strict discipline have secured us gratifying success.

Board and tuition in Literary Department, one year, $210.

REV. J. M. WRIGHT,
au8 2m President.

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA,
CHARLOTTESVILLE.

THE SESSION COMMENCES ON OCTOber 1. The Institution embraces an Academic Department, and Departments of Law, Medicine, Engineering and Agriculture. For catalogues apply to WM. WERTENBAKER, Secretary of the Faculty, P. O. University of Virginia. CHAS. S. VENABLE, Chairman of the Faculty. au8 1m

BREWER & HILTON,
MANUFACTURERS OF
Thomas Worsley's Celebrated Fancy, Shaving and Toilet Soaps,

Also J. D. SMITH & CO.'S world-renowned Pearl Powders, Lily Whites, Rouges, etc.,

NO. 114 ARCH STREET, PHILADELPHIA.
All goods warranted. au8 3m

BINGHAM HOUSE, PHILADELPHIA,
Corner of Eleventh and Market Sts.

CARLIS DAVIS, PROPRIETOR.

This popular Hotel being centrally located and accessible by street cars from all depots, makes it a desirable stopping place for travelers. It will be conducted in the same liberal manner as heretofore, it being the intention of the proprietor to maintain the reputation it has always enjoyed, of being in all respects a first-class hotel.

Terms, $3 a day. au8 tf

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE,
AT BATON ROUGE, LOUISIANA.

THE EXERCISES OF THIS SCHOOL will be resumed on Wednesday, the Second of October next.

For circulars, with all necessary information, apply to Rev. R. J. Harp, 112 Camp street, New Orleans, or to myself, at Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

au1 6m W. H. N. MAGRUDER.

UNIVERSITY OF LOUISIANA,
MEDICAL DEPARTMENT,
NEW ORLEANS.

FACULTY—A. H. CENAS, M. D., Emeritus Professor of Obstetrics.

JAMES JONES, M. D., Professor of Obstetrics.

T. G. RICHARDSON, M. D., Professor of Surgery.

SAMUEL M. BEMISS, M. D., Professor of Medicine.

STANFORD E. CHAILLE, M. D., Professor of Physiology.

FRANK HAWTHORN, M. D., Professor of Materia Medica.

JOSEPH JONES, M. D., Professor of Chemistry.

SAMUEL LOGAN, M. D., Prof. of Anatomy.

E. SOUCHON, M. D., Demonstrator of Anatomy.

The Thirty-fifth annual course of instruction in this Department will commence on Monday, the eighteenth of November, 1872, and terminate on the second Saturday of March, 1873. Preliminary Lectures on Clinical Medicine and Surgery will be delivered in the amphitheater of the Charity Hospital, beginning on the eighteenth of October, without any charge to students. The Anatomical rooms will be opened at the same time.

The members of the Faculty are Visiting Physicians and Surgeons to the Charity Hospital, where more than six thousand patients are annually treated, and give instruction daily at the bedside of the sick. The practical advantages thus offered to students are unsurpassed.

FEES.—For all the Lectures, $140; Matriculation, $5; Practical Anatomy, $10; Graduation, $30. Payment required in advance.

For further information address

T. G. RICHARDSON, M. D.,
jy25 1m Dean.

TEAS FREE OF DUTY.
GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES.

J. W. PLATT & CO.,
102 Camp street, corner of Poydras,

RECEIVE THEIR TEAS directly from the importers, and furnish them to consumers in any quantity desired, with one small profit only added on Cargo Prices in New York, or about one-third less than the usual charge for similar goods at ordinary retail stores. Housekeepers who wish to reduce the cost of their household stores will please notice the following Price List, which includes the finest Teas imported:

IMPERIAL (Green,) 50 cts., 80 cts.; Choice, $1 per lb.; Extra choicest, $1.25 per lb.
YOUNG HYSON (Green,) 80 cts.; Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.25 per lb.
GUNPOWDER (Green,) Choice, $1.25; Extra choicest, $1.50 per lb.
OOLONG (Black,) 50 cts., 80 cts.; Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.20 per lb.
ENGLISH BREAKFAST, 50 cts., 75 cts.; Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.25 per lb.
JAPAN (Natural Leaf,) Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.20 per lb.
ORANGE PEKAE (Black,) Extra choicest, $1.50 per lb.
MIXED (Green and Black,) 50 cts., 75 cts.; Choice, $1; Extra choicest $1.20 per lb.

We recommend our Extra Choicest Teas as the best in market. Special prices to wholesale buyers. au1 1m

WILLIAM HOGAN,
Manufacturer of and Dealer in
BOOTS, SHOES, TRUNKS, VALISES AND BAGS,
FRENCH AND AMERICAN.
Also Agent for the EMPIRE SEWING MACHINE,
99 AND 101 CANAL STREET,
au1 3m New Orleans.

S. COLLINS & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS OF
PRINTING INK,
Office and Depot—20 Frankfort Street,
jy25 6m NEW YORK.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE ILLUSTRATED
HISTORY OF THE BIBLE
By Wm. SMITH, LL.D.
AUTHOR OF SMITH'S BIBLE DICTIONARY.

It contains over 250 fine Scripture Illustrations and 1,185 pages, and is the most comprehensive and valuable History of the Bible ever published. The labor and learning of centuries are gathered in this one volume to throw a strong, clear light upon every page of the inspired Word.

AGENTS WANTED.—Send for circulars and see our terms and a full description of the work. Address

NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.,
au1 1m Philadelphia, Pa.

AGENTS WANTED, everywhere, for
The Home of God's People.

The grandest and most successful new book out. It contains nearly 200 magnificent Engravings. $2,500 per annum can be made by any energetic male or female agent in taking orders for this valuable, fascinating and popular work. Our circulars (sent free) will convince you of this, give you our terms, full particulars, etc.

QUEEN CITY PUBLISHING CO.,
my30 3mcow Cincinnati, Ohio.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S
STEEL PENS,
OF THE OLD STANDARD QUALITY.

TRADE MARK: JOSEPH GILLOTT, Name and Design Warranted. Or Descriptive Name and Number.

The well-known Original and Popular Nos., 303.....404.....170.....351,
having been assumed by other Makers, we desire to caution the public in respect to said imitations. ☞ ASK FOR GILLOTT'S.

JOS. GILLOTT & SONS,
jy25 1y 91 John street, N. Y.

OCEAN SPRINGS.
Summer Resort.—Board at the Seaside.

THE SUBSCRIBER has taken the MORRIS HOUSE, at Ocean Springs, which has just undergone a thorough repair, and will be open to boarders who wish to enjoy a pleasant home, good bathing, fresh sea air, and luxuriate on fish and oysters during the heat of summer.

Terms for board: $40 per month, $10 per week, and $2 per day. Apply to the subscriber by mail, at Ocean Springs.

Refer to Bishop Keener, Rev. Robert J. Harp, J. L. Dunnica & Co., and Samuel Russ, Esq., New Orleans.

WM. C. CHAMBERLIN.
Aprs. 20, 1872. ap25 1f

WANTED.—BY A SINGLE LADY OF this city, a thorough graduate in the Collegiate course, with the best references, a SCHOOL; or a situation in a school. Would not object to a situation in the country. Address LETTER "A," Advocate Office, 112 Camp street, New Orleans. jy25 1m

THE FAMILY PAPER.

The Illustrated Christian Weekly,

NOW IN ITS SECOND YEAR, IS THE

ONLY ILLUSTRATED

Religious Weekly published in the country. It is unsectarian in its character, and has been warmly welcomed by Christian people everywhere. Its illustrations are not excelled by any secular publication, while the reading matter is carefully prepared by eminent writers of various denominations.

Send for Specimen Copy.—Two Dollars a Year.

Agents wanted in every community. Liberal terms to Sabbath schools.

AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY,
Publishers,
je27 7teow5p 150 Nassau st., New York.

THREE YEARS IN A Man-Trap. By T. S. ARTHUR, is now ready. It is a thrilling recital of a three years' life in a city dram-shop, shows up the vile deceptions practiced in barrooms, and is the most powerful work of the kind ever written—is certain to have an immense sale. Apply for an agency, and make money. QUEEN CITY PUBLISHING CO., Cincinnati, O. my23 3mcow

Quick Transit—The Question Settled. While engineers and capitalists are laying their heads together to send us through space with bird-like swiftness, it may be well to state that the quickest possible transit from a state of debility and despondency to a condition of health and vigor is secured by the use of

Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient.

This most refreshing and delightful of thirst quenching beverages is a positive specific for dyspepsia, feverishness, an overflow of bile, constipation, nervous weakness, sick headache, and all disorders of the digestive, secretive and excretive organs. The true article is procurable at all drug stores. au8 2t

The Child's Corner.

CROSS AND CROWN.

BY O. N. ALLEN.

Must Jesus bear the cross alone,
And all the world go free?
No, there's a cross for every one,
And there's a cross for me.

The consecrated cross I'll bear
Till death shall set me free,
And then go home my crown to wear,
For there's a crown for me.

Upon the crystal pavement, down
At Jesus' pierced feet,
Joyful, I'll cast my golden crown,
And his dear name repeat.

And palms shall wave, and harps shall ring,
Beneath heaven's arches high;
The Lord that lives, the ransomed sing,
That lives no more to die.

O precious cross! O glorious crown!
O resurrection day!
Ye angels, from the stars come down,
And hear my soul away.

Coals of Fire.

"O, please don't ge that way, mamma, not that way!"

"Well, don't tug so at my hand, dear. Why den't yon wish to go down this street?"

"Why, Caspar lives in that brown house, you know."

"Yes, I know it; but what of that, Bessie?"

"O, he makes faces at me, and jumps out from behind things, and says 'Boo!' very loud."

"But he never hurt you, did he?"

"No; but it makes me jump and scream sometimes."

"Well, don't scream, then. If you stop jumping and screaming, I am pretty sure Caspar will stop teasing; and really, Bessie, it is too foolish for a little girl as old as you are to be so afraid of nothing at all."

"O dear!" cried Bessie, almost in tears. "If you could only be a little girl again for about five minutes, mamma, and have a big, horrid boy spring out at you"—

"I think if I were that little girl," interrupted her mother, "I should walk straight along, and try not to mind him. Caspar isn't a bad boy at all, only mischievous, like many other boys. He doesn't wish to make you really unhappy, dear, I am sure; and if any one should tell him that it was unkind, I think he would stop."

"No, he is very cruel," said Bessie decidedly. "His eyes are so big and black, and he snaps them hard at me, and—and—sometimes I almost hate him."

The last words were said in a very low tone, for Bessie knew they were naughty. Her mother answered gravely:

"I am sorry to hear you speak so. It is a dreadful thing to hate anybody. Perhaps you won't dislike Caspar so much when I tell you something about him."

Bessie hung her head and was silent, and her mother continued:

"Caspar's mother died when he was quite a little child, and I don't think he can remember her at all. She was a good woman, and would have taught Caspar to be gentle and kind. His father is hardly ever at home, you know, and so he sees very little of him; and I am afraid that Mrs. Brown, who keeps house for them, does not take the care of them she might, and is anything but kind to them. Since he was quite small he has run wild about the streets, with hardly any one to teach him any good. Strong boys do not know how easily little girls are frightened, or how very much they suffer from fear. If they did, I am sure most of them would stop teasing, for it really is very cruel sport."

"I am sorry for Caspar now, mamma; but really it doesn't make me like him very much."

"Do you wish to know what will make you like him, Bessie?"

"Why, will anything, mamma?" asked the little girl, her eyes opened wide with surprise.

"Perhaps so. You can try and see, at any rate. It is a way I have seen tried a good many times, and it generally turned out very well."

"O, do tell me, please, mamma; I want to like him, very much."

Bessie's mother took no notice of the last part of her speech, but went on:

"When you dislike persons for being unkind to you, or, indeed, for any other reason, the best plan is to be kind to them—to go out of your way to do them some kindness. It will probably make you feel more gently toward them, and may very likely make them kinder to you."

"Yes, that would be grateful; I can understand that," said Bessie, "but not how it can make me like them any better."

"Well, dear, the best way to understand it is to do it, and then see what happens afterward. Will you try, darling?"

"I don't think I shall have a chance," said Bessie doubtfully. "I don't like to go very near him."

"There, we got by his house some time ago," said her mother, "and didn't even have a sight of him. How foolish it would have been to go round by the other street. We should not have gained anything by being cowards."

The next morning Bessie had nearly reached school in safety, when she heard from the other side of the hedge an unearthly screech, which nearly made her hair stand on end. Though she really could not help starting a little, she remembered her mother's good advice, and only walked a little faster toward the school house. Caspar could not come near to trouble her in school-time, for the two children were in different classes; and, besides, the teacher was too good and strict to let the scholars play teasing tricks upon each other.

When recess came the little boys and girls took down their luncheon-baskets before going out to play; but Caspar wandered about the room, with his hands in his pockets, whistling.

"Eat your lunch quick, Caspar," said another boy, "or we shan't have time for that game of ball."

"I shan't keep you waiting long," replied Caspar. "I haven't a scrap of lunch to-day; so I'm ready whenever you are."

"Why, what did you do with it?"

"O," said Caspar carelessly, "Mrs. Brown got angry with my dog this morning, and said he stole some meat off the table, so I couldn't have any lunch. I didn't see why, exactly, but it's no matter; I shall only have a better appetite for dinner, I suppose."

Just as he said this he caught sight of Bessie, who was leaning over her desk, holding out to him a sandwich in one hand and a pear in the other. As he looked toward her, the timid little girl grew frightened at her own boldness, and drew back quickly. Caspar did not understand her motion, and thought she meant to tease him by holding something out and then taking it back. So, running up to her desk, he roguishly snatched away the pear, and ran around the room, at last coming back and holding it just out of her reach, pretending to take bites out of it, and saying:

"Don't you wish you could get it?"

"I meant it for you in the first place, and the sandwich too," said Bessie, quite offended; "but I did think you'd take 'em politely, and not snatch like a—a—animal."

Caspar dropped the fruit as if it had been hot.

"I don't want your poor little pear," said he, looking thoroughly ashamed. "I'm sorry, but I thought you were only trying to bother a fellow."

"O, but you must take it," Bessie said eagerly. "I have had all I want, really and truly."

Caspar looked for a moment, with longing eyes, on the sandwich, which seemed very much nicer than the stale scraps with which Mrs. Brown usually favored him. Then he shook his head, and turned to go away; but Bessie was too quick for him. She suddenly raised the sandwich to his lips, and he had to put up one hand to keep it from falling. Then she put the pear into his other hand, and ran away as fast as she could, rather frightened at what she had done, to tell the truth, but rather glad too.

Part of the way to and from school lay through a field, and through this field ran a brook. This brook was just too wide to step or jump over, but a plank was laid across it, which the children used as a bridge. On this particular afternoon Bessie was a little behind the rest of the children, and when she came to the edge of the brook all the others had crossed over. But, just as she was going to follow them, a naughty, rude boy, on the other side, pulled away the plank, and left her with no way of getting across. Fortunately, at this very minute, Caspar happened to turn round, saw poor Bessie's plight, and came running toward her. It did not take long to put back the little bridge, though he got pretty well splashed in doing so; and then he helped Bessie across as carefully as if they had always been the best of friends. All the other children had gone, so they walked along together, neither speaking for a minute or two; but at last Caspar said:

"You were good to give me your lunch to-day, Bessie. What made you do it? I know I'm rather ugly to you sometimes. What did make you, any way?"

Bessie was rather confused at this question, and twisted and untwisted the handle of her bag before she could say: "I thought, may be—my mother said—you see"—and then she got very red in the face, for she was too kind-hearted to tell him about her talk with her mother, and did not know what else to answer. But Caspar spoke instead:

"Well, I know why, if you don't. It's because you're a jolly, good-natured little thing, and I think you'd keep house for us a lot better than Ma'am Brown—give me plenty of doughnuts and all that sort of thing. Well, I won't howl at you over the fence any more. I s'pose you don't like it much, do you?"

"O, thank you," said Bessie gratefully; "and if you'd please not make that dreadfulest kind of a face you did yesterday!"

"Well, you must tell me which one, so I can be sure to remember," said Caspar, in whom the torturing spirit was not entirely conquered. "Was it this one?"

But Bessie turned away with such evident horror that he was quite penitent, and readily promised never to do it again; and by the time she reached home she could tell her mother that she did almost like Caspar.

As the plan had turned out so well on this occasion, Bessie was ready to try it on many others, and it succeeded well with everybody, the more so as she never made a parade of her good nature, but was always a modest, humble girl.—Children's Magazine.

HOUSEKEEPERS' DEPARTMENT.

TO BAKE A TURKEY.—Follow the directions for baking fowls, and allow from two to two and a half hours steady baking for a common sized young turkey; serve with a brown gravy. All roast fowls should be served with dressed vegetables, currant, grape or cranberry jelly, and a baked pudding or pie.

TO BONE FOWLS FOR FRICASSEES, CURRIES AND PIES.—First carve them entirely into joints, then remove the bones, beginning with the legs and wings, at the head of the largest bone; hold this with the fingers, and work the knife carefully around it. The remainder of the birds is too easily done to require any instructions.

TO BOIL A GOOSE.—After it is well dressed, singe it thoroughly. Have ready a dressing prepared of bread crumbs, seasoned with pepper, salt and butter, with the addition of two finely-chopped onions, a little sage, and more pepper than would be used for turkey. Fill the body and close it firmly; put it in cold water, and boil it gently an hour, if tender; if not tender, longer; serve with giblet sauce. The onion can be omitted if not relished.

ANTIDOTES.—A standing antidote for poison by dew, poison oak, ivy, etc., is to take a handful of quick-lime, dissolve in water, let it stand half an hour, then paint the poisoned parts with it. Three or four applications will never fail to cure the most aggravated cases. Poison from bees, hornets, spider bites, etc., is instantly arrested by the application of equal parts of common salt and bicarbonate of soda, well rubbed in on the place bitten or stung.

The Farm and Garden.

Preparation of Manures.

The best gardeners pursue a system something like this: A trench is prepared, two or three feet deep, and large enough to hold what manures may be wanted. In the bottom of this trench a layer of muck, grassy turf, ashes, anything and everything capable of being decomposed, is laid down say a foot deep. On the top of this a thick layer of stable manure, two or three feet deep, then another layer of muck, gypsum, etc. In this way it remains until more manure accumulates around the stables; it is then carried and deposited in another layer, with a layer of the other materials on the top. The manure should always be saturated with moisture, and trodden down firmly to hasten its decay; and if an occasional load of night soil could be mixed with it, all the better. The layer of muck and other substances being always placed on the top, the last layer of manure absorbs the evaporations of the heap, and hastens the decay of all. When stable manure is thrown down and left uncovered, a dense steam will be seen to rise from it; and this is the very evidence of it escaping to be lost; and if it be thrown down in a heap dry, it will immediately burn—that is dry rot. Its enriching ingredients all pass off by evaporation, and nothing is left but its ashes, so to speak.

When the heap has accumulated for four or five months as described, the whole should be turned over, completely mixed, and filled up in a compact, firmly-trodden mass, where it will undergo further decomposition, and in a short time become like paste. Adjoining every manure heap there should be an excavation, to receive its liquid drainage, in order that it may be saved, and either applied in the growing season, in a liquid state, diluted with water, or thrown over the heap.—Barry's Fruit Garden.

A New Use for Cats.

A correspondent of Land and Water writes: "It often appears to me that people, for the most part, are not aware of the great use cats are to us. Of course we know of their use with respect to mice and rats; but do we generally know of the invaluable help they can give us in protecting from birds our garden fruit and flowers? The late heavy rains, this spring, have given us the promise of abundance of strawberries, and in the South, at least, the bloom is magnificent. To keep off the birds, how simple, how certain, how small is the cost of a cat on a small chain sliding on a wire, and giving the animal the walk up and down the whole length of the strawberry beds. A knot at each end of the wire readily prevents the cat from twisting round the post which supports the wire, and a small kennel placed in the middle of the walk affords her shelter and a home for her kittens. In large gardens a second cat is required; and the young ones, in their frequent visits to each other, greatly assist in scaring away the birds. I have for more than thirty years used, and seen used, with perfect success, this easy method of protecting fruit; and the very same plan is equally good in keeping hares and rabbits off flower beds. After the first few days cats in no way dislike this partial restraint, and when set quite free, after a few weeks' watching, they will of their own accord continue on guard. The kittens, more especially, attach themselves to this garden occupation, and of their own accord become the gardener's best allies."

Mowing Strawberry Leaves.

It is not uncommon for our strawberry plants to wither and die out in the latter part of summer; and one remedy for this is thus set forth in a late report of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society: "The principal practical point developed was the advantage of mowing down the leaves after the crop is gathered. This operation appears to be analogous in principle to heading down a tree. The plant having finished the work of the season, and being about to commence a new one, a salutary stimulus is given to it by removing the old and useless, and perhaps fungus-eaten foliage. We may add that one of the most successful growers of strawberries in this State says that, in his opinion, the practice of mowing off the vines, after taking off a crop of fruit, is the most important advance in strawberry culture that has been made for twenty-five years. He further says that no one can afford to raise strawberries on the annual system when the new method becomes established."

If, in addition to mowing off the tops (without cutting the crowns,) the whole ground is covered thickly with chopped straw or forest leaves, the plants will be still more effectually protected from our scorching suns, and will come out fresh and strong immediately after the fall rains.—Our Home Journal.

The Goober and the Peanut.

A correspondent of the Rural Carolinian, writing from Waldo, Florida, says:

An article in your December number confounds the pindar (peanut) with the goober. The former has two kernels; the latter only one; and they differ widely in foliage and habit of growth. I inclose three specimens of the goober. Some of our planters cultivate patches of it for their hogs. These eat it readily, but prefer the peanut. The goober can be cultivated much closer together than the peanut, and the yield per acre is larger. Last year I planted twenty hills, one goober to a hill. The yield varied from forty-three to one hundred and twenty-eight in a hill. Goobers may be drilled, or they may be planted in hills sixteen inches apart.

IT IS probably safe to say that after the crops are housed or stacked, at least ten per cent. of them become the prey of rats and mice.

HARDWARE, STOVES, ETC.

KURSHEEDT & BIENVENU,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
Plantation and Builders' Hardware,
MARBLE, MARBLEIZED SLATE
AND IRON MANTLES,
Grates, Hearths and Fire Bricks,
NO. 114 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
my2 1y

THE UNRIVALED

BUCK'S BRILLIANT STOVE.
Every Brilliant is Fully Guaranteed.

H. HALLER,
No. 49 Camp street, New Orleans,
Sole Agent for Louisiana.

Sole Agent for the
CELEBRATED RINGEN WASHER,
In the States of Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi. oc19 1y

G. W. W. GOODWYN,
No. 58 Gravier Street,
DEALER IN
Stoves and Tinware of All Kinds.

While he is prepared to furnish, at the lowest rates, Cooking and Heating Stoves of all the various styles and patterns sold in this market, he makes a specialty of the following, to wit:

Cottage, Cricket, The Best, Relief, Gray Jacket, and Diadem.

These Stoves are sold under a guarantee, and may be returned if they do not perform well.

NOTE BY P. M. GOODWYN.—Lack of health has obliged me for a time to give up my regular calling—that of the ministry. In the meanwhile, in order to do what I can for a support, I have engaged as an assistant in my brother's establishment, as above advertised. And I take this method of soliciting from among the readers of the ADVOCATE—many of whom are my personal acquaintances and friends—a share of their patronage whenever they may have need of anything in the above line. Orders sent through their merchants, or to either of us direct, will receive prompt attention. mh7 6m

GROCERIES—GLASSWARE.

PURE LOUISIANA
SUGAR, MOLASSES AND SIRUPS.

REFINED SUGAR.—Cut Loaf, Crushed and Powdered.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

GOLDEN SIRUP.—A superior article of pure Louisiana, from the Crescent City Refinery. A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

REFINED SIRUP AND MOLASSES.—Crescent City Refinery, Orleans, Louisiana, Chalmette and Pelican brands.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

LOUISIANA MOLASSES.—Various grades of Plantation, in barrels, half barrels and kegs. A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

CLARIFIED SUGAR.—Various grades of White and Yellow, in hogsheads and barrels.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

LOUISIANA SUGAR.—Various grades of Plantation, in hogsheads and barrels.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

FOREIGN SUGAR.—Cuba, Demerara and Porto Rico, in hogsheads and boxes.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
my9 6m 48 Tchoupitoulas street.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,
—IMPORTERS OF—
CHINA, CROCKERY AND GLASS,
55.....CAMP STREET.....55
New Orleans.

Country dealers supplied with ASSORTED CRATES or from SHELF upon the most favorable terms.

Contents of our English Iron Stone China Dinner Set, No. 1:

12 Dinner Plates,	1 Round Soup Tureen,
12 Breakfast Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Tea Plates,	1 Salad,
12 Soup Plates,	1 Pair Covered Dishes,
12 Preserve Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Pickle Dishes,
12 Tea cups and saucers	4 Meat Dishes.

112 pieces best English Ware..... $15

Our Stone China Dinner and Tea Set, No. 2, contains
158 pieces..... $25

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 1, contains

12 Dinner Plates,	4 Meat Dishes,
12 Breakfast Plates,	1 Soup Tureen, round,
12 Tea Plates,	2 Covered Dishes, oval
12 Soup Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Preserve Plates,	1 Salad,
12 Tea cups and saucers	2 Pickles,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes.

112 pieces best French Ware..... $30

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 2, contains
166 pieces..... $45

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 3, contains
255 pieces..... $65

A large variety of the best SELF-SEALING FRUIT JARS always on hand.
Sole agents for the celebrated BLANCHARD CHURN. The best churn made.
The most complete stock of HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS in the South.
W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,
ap4 6m No. 55 Camp st., New Orleans.

New Orleans Savings Institution,
187 CANAL STREET.
Incorporated March 15, 1855.
OFFICERS.
L. F. GENERES, President.
THOS. A. ADAMS, first Vice President.
THOS. ALLEN CLARKE, second Vice President.
CHARLES J. LEEDS, third Vice President.
SAM JONES, Jr., Treasurer.
DIRECTORS.
Dr. W. Newton Mercer.

L. F. Generes.	David Urquhart.
George Jonas.	John G. Baines.
Thos. A. Adams.	Carl Kohn.
Thos. Allen Clarke.	Christian Schneider.
Charles J. Leeds.	Samuel Jamison.

Six per cent. interest on deposits.
my30 3m

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

MARVIN COLLEGE,
WAXAHACHIE, TEXAS.

THE NEXT SESSION OF THIS SCHOOL will open on the FIRST MONDAY IN SEPTEMBER, 1872, under the supervision of Rev. J. M. PUGH, President.

COLLEGIATE DEPARTMENT.
Rev. J. M. Pugh, A. M., Professor of Moral Science and Biblical Literature.
Mr. E. F. Yeagen, A. B., Professor of Languages.
Rev. F. Olin Dannelly, Professor of Natural Science.
Mr. John E. Bishop, Prof. of Mathematics.
PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.
Rev. James D. Shaw, Principal.
Mrs. Annie E. Hass, Assistant.
MUSICAL DEPARTMENT.
Mr. F. H. Linden, Professor of Music.
PRIMARY DEPARTMENT.

Rates of Tuition—Four Months.

Primary class	$8 00
Preparatory	12 00
Higher	16 00
Collegiate	20 00
Music on piano	20 00

A small fee will be required of each student in the musical department for the use of instrument.
Every student will be charged from date of entrance till the close of session, except when providentially hindered, and all bills are due when the student enters.
Ministers' children (who are regular pastors) received free of charge.
We hope the friends of the College who have heretofore patronized this school, and others, will aid us in building up a school of high grade by sending their children and wards to this College, guaranteeing them as favorable privileges as at any other school in the State.
Board can be had for $12.50 per month.
F. P. RAY,
President Board of Trustees.
JAS. E. SMITH, Secretary. aul 1m

Whitworth Female College,
AT BROOKHAVEN, MISS.

THE CONTINUED SUCCESS OF THIS INstitution is one of the best evidences of its merit. During the past term there were in attendance two hundred and twenty-nine pupils.
The members of the Faculty—eleven in number—are selected on account of their ability to teach.
Prof. ECKHARDT, Music Director, has few equals.
Madame JULIUS, a Parisian lady of eighteen years' successful experience as a teacher, has been engaged to take charge of the French and Ornamental Department.
The very best care is taken of our pupils, both as to health and manners. Fires are provided for all.
No extravagance in dress is allowed.
The good health of Brookhaven is proverbial. Pupils from the miasmatic regions of Louisiana and Mississippi find this as healthful a school as can be found anywhere.
The charges are believed to be lower than in any school in the Southwest where similar advantages are afforded. Only from $230 to $265 for all expenses, excepting music, French and the ornamental branches.
No expense is spared in purchasing the most approved apparatus, maps, charts, etc., and all necessary school furniture.
Brookhaven is located on the New Orleans, Jackson and Great Northern Railroad, 128 miles from the city.
Catalogues sent free on application to aul 3m REV. H. F. JOHNSON, Prest.

MARTHA WASHINGTON COLLEGE,
ABINGDON, VA.,
ON THE VIRGINIA AND TENNESSEE RAILROAD.

$105 IN ADVANCE will pay Board and Tuition for five months in this institution, beautifully situated amid the mountains. For healthfulness, high grade and extent of instruction, and excellence of facilities, no institution in the land surpasses this.
Session begins SEPTEMBER 19.
For catalogue or particulars apply to
REV. W. G. E CUNNYNGHAM, D. D.,
Or R. W. JONES, M. A., President.
jy25 2m

Kentucky Wesleyan University,
MILLERSBURG, KENTUCKY.

SESSION FOR 1872-73 OPENS SEPTEMBER 16, 1872, and closes June 4, 1873.
The expense of the entire session can be brought within $240 by those who pay tuition, and $40 less by those who come on scholarships. All bills due the University are payable strictly in advance. Board bills are payable monthly.
This University is situated in the heart of the Blue Grass region of Kentucky. Climate invigorating and healthful. The Faculty of Instructors is now full. Persons seeking a good school for their sons are invited to correspond with the President, or A. G Stitt, Financial Secretary, or to send for catalogue.
jy18 10t B. ARROGAST, President.

RAILROADS.

ARE YOU GOING EAST OR NORTH?

Take the Iron Mountain, and Chicago and Alton Railroads,

THE ONLY ALL-RAIL ROUTE FROM all points South to CHICAGO.

The only line running the Pullman Palace Cars from all points South to St. Louis and Chicago.
Passengers by this line arrive in Chicago one hour in advance of all competing lines, and avoid 25 miles of steamboat transfer, and the annoying changes of cars incident to other lines. For all points in the Northwest, St. Paul, Milwaukee, or all points in the Canadas, New York, Boston and all Eastern cities, this is the pleasantest and most direct route. Parties going East via this line can lay over in Chicago and visit the Burnt District, and resume their trip at their leisure. Fare as low as by all other routes. Tickets to be had at all ticket offices in the South.
W. R. ALLEN,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent,
Iron Mountain Line, St. Louis.
JAMES CHARLTON,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent,
Chicago and Alton Line, Chicago.
D. A. FREER,
my30 4m Southern Traveling Agent.

LOUISVILLE AND CINCINNATI SHORT-LINE R. R. connections are 5½ hours QUICKER to Eastern cities than any other Rail Line from Louisville, and 19 hours in advance of the River route. This is the only line making Baltimore in 26 hours, Philadelphia in 27 hours, Washington in 27 hours, New York in 30½ hours, Boston in 35 hours.

	Leave.	Arrive.
Southern Fast Line, daily, except Sunday	7.50 A.M.	8.05 P.M.
Cincinnati Express, daily	3.55 P.M.	12.40 P.M.
Cincinnati Night Express, daily, except Saturday	10.40 P.M.	5.00 A.M.
Lexington Mail, daily, except Sunday	6.00 A.M.	6.35 P.M.
Lexington Express, daily, except Sunday	2.30 P.M.	10.30 A.M.
Frankfort Accommoda'n, daily, except Sunday	4.55 P.M.	8.15 A.M.
Shelbyville Accommod'n, daily, except Sunday	3.55 P.M.	10.30 A.M.

Sleeping car on 10 40 P. M. Round-trip tickets to Cincinnati and Covington at reduced rates. Ticket Offices—Depot, Third and Main streets, Galt House, Louisville Hotel and Willard Hotel. Telegrams to secure sleeping car berths to Eastern cities will be sent free. S. S. PARKER,
General Passenger and Ticket Agent.
J. E. GUNPERLING,
my16 3m Superintendent, Louisville, Ky.

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.
MEMPHIS CONFERENCE
FEMALE INSTITUTE,
JACKSON, TENNESSEE.
REV. A. W. JONES, D. D., PRESIDENT.

THIS OLD AND POPULAR INSTITUTION is most favorably located at the junction of the Mobile and Ohio and Mississippi Central railroads, in the healthy, intelligent, refined and religious community of Jackson, and furnishes all the advantages of a first-class Female College. The best professors and teachers employed. The discipline mild, firm and parental. The course of study thorough and extensive. The library large and valuable. The chemical and philosophical apparatus ample and appropriate. The buildings and grounds well arranged, commodious and beautiful. The conveniences and accommodations in all departments complete, excellent and satisfactory. The attention to the health, manners and comfort of pupils constant and faithful. For more than seventeen years no young lady has died within the walls of the Institute, while the cases of severe sickness have been few.
Fall session begins on the FIRST MONDAY IN SEPTEMBER, and the opening address and concert on the following Tuesday evening. Spring session begins on the fourth Monday in January. Commencement day, the second Wednesday in June.

TUITION.

Collegiate department	$25 00
Music and use of piano	30 00
Latin and French, each	10 00
Board, washing, etc	90 00

Other charges moderate. Payments one-half in advance. For particulars address the president, or jy11 4m PROF. A. B. JONES, A. M.

TUSKALOOSA FEMALE COLLEGE,
TUSKALOOSA, ALABAMA.

THE NEXT SESSION OPENS SEPTEMBER 23, 1872.
The beautiful and healthy city of Tuskalonsa, Alabama, is unsurpassed as a location.
The Faculty will consist of three Professors and eight or ten Lady Assistants.
Course of study thorough. Domestic arrangements complete. Young ladies' sleeping apartments elegantly furnished and carpeted. Health department includes a finely-conducted Gymnasium. This College is believed to be equal to the best in the United States, and the cheapest in the South. Special advantages for orphan children whose guardians wish to furnish them a home and school in one. For particulars and catalogue address the proprietor,
REV. B. F. LARRABEE,
jy18 3m Tuskaloosa, Alabama.

RANDOLPH MACON COLLEGE,
Ashland, Hanover Co., Va.,

OFFERS, ON VERY LOW TERMS, THE advantages of thorough instruction high grade of scholarship, best religious influences in a refined community, and at a location remarkable for healthfulness—just sixteen miles north of Richmond, on the R. F. and P. Railroad. Only $110 will pay all necessary for the half session! For catalogue address
REV. JAS. A. DUNCAN, D. D.,
President, or
REV. ALEX. G. BROWN, Sec.,
jy25 2m P. O., Ashland, Va.

EMORY AND HENRY COLLEGE,
VIRGINIA.

THE FALL SESSION of this institution begins on the FIFTEENTH OF AUGUST next. One Hundred and Fifteen Dollars will pay all the necessary expenses of a five-month session, including board, tuition, fuel, room-rent, washing and contingent fees. Payments are required in advance, except for board, which is $13 per month, and payable monthly in advance. If you will consult the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and her ministers generally, our alumni and students, or the professors of the University of Virginia, who have authorized this reference, you will be assured that we are offering excellent opportunities for a thorough collegiate training, surrounded by healthful, moral, religious influences. If you desire a catalogue, or any additional information, address
E. E. WILEY, President,
Je20 4m Emory P. O., Virginia.

GREEN FARM HIGH SCHOOL,
NEAR BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
REV. F. M. GRACE, PROPRIETOR.

THE FIRST SESSION of this School will begin on the FIRST MONDAY IN AUGUST, 1872, and will continue forty weeks, with a recess of one week at Christmas. The cost of board and tuition will be $20 per month, or $200 per annum. The course of study will embrace all branches usually taught in schools and colleges, and will be adapted to the end the student has in view.
The school is private property, but will be conducted in the interest of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.
The buildings and grounds are ample for a private boarding school, and are located in a most beautiful and healthful situation. Boys will be treated with paternal kindness, and the younger pupils will receive especial attention. On Saturday before the opening of the session the proprietor will meet his pupils at Birmingham with private conveyance to the school.
Correspondence is solicited, and circulars will be sent on application to the President at Birmingham, Alabama. For references he respectfully gives his former pupils in the Southern States. je13 2m

HOMER COLLEGE.

THE EXERCISES OF THE TWELFTH scholastic year of Homer College, begin on the first Tuesday in September, 1871. The term is divided into a short Fall Session and a long Spring Session, with a Christmas Vacation of two weeks.

FACULTY:
Rev. J. E. COBB, President and Professor of Mental, Moral and Commercial Science.
J. W. NICHOLSON, A. M., Professor of Pure and Mixed Mathematics.
A. C. CALHOUN, A. B., Professor of Languages.
E. M. CORRY, A. B., Tutor in Physical Science.

TERMS—IN ADVANCE:

Tuition for Full Session	$16 and $20 00
Tuition for Spring Session	24 and $30 00
Incidental fee (per session)	1 50
Board (per month)	15 00

Students admitted at any time in classes already formed, and charged until the end of the session.
A course of study as full and thorough as that of any college in the land, an ample corps of instructors, a complete library and apparatus, recently purchased and adapted to the present demands of science and learning, the sure prospect of a permanent endowment, new in progress, an eminently healthful location, a surrounding community intelligent and refined, invite the patronage of the Southwest to Homer College.
For further particulars, address
REV. J. E. CORB,
President Homer College, La.
W. F. MODELAND,
se21 tf President Board of Trustees.

CENTENARY COLLEGE
OF LOUISIANA.

THE SESSION OF THIS COLLEGE WILL begin on the FIRST MONDAY in October next. The session embraces forty weeks.

EXPENSES.

Collegiate department, per session	$60 00
Preparatory department, per session	40 00
Incidental expenses	5 00

Tuition for five months payable in advance.
Boarding can be had in good families at from $15 to $20 per month.
For further particulars address
PROF. A. R. HOLCOMBE,
se10 1y Jackson, La.

Scientific.

SAWING WOOD WITHOUT A SAW.—Dr. George Robinson, of this city, has invented a process of cutting wood by passing a galvanio current over a platinum wire in sufficient quantity to raise its temperature to a red heat. He has found that gently pressing a piece of wood against a red-hot platinum wiro, especially when aided by a slight sawing movement, the wood was divided in any required direction as by a handsaw, and, of course, without any effort of skill or appreciable expenditure of musoular power. The Scientific American says: "By arranging the wire with handles or other means, so as to guide it readily, the lumber, whether in trees, logs or planks, may be cut easily as desired. There is here, therefore, a simple and easily applied force, which, in a child's hands, may be employed to fell trees, divide them into logs, and, in short, perform all the operations of the saw and the ax. The surface of the wood where thus divided is, of course, slightly charred, but the black layer is very thin, and for many purposes not disadvantageous, as it is known to preserve timber. The battery employed need only be of the simplest character, as quantity, and not intensity, of current is required." Rural New Yorker.

ANCIENT DENTISTRY.—Dr. Reid, of Terre Haute, in a paper upon ancient dentistry, says: "Among the ancients great success was obtained in this art. Casselius was a dentist in the reign of the Roman triumvirs, and gold was used for the filling. But nearly 500 B C. gold was thus used, and gold wire was employed to hold artificial teeth in position, and it does not seem then to have been a new art. A fragment of the tenth of the Roman tables, 450 B. C., has reference to preventing the burial of any gold with the dead except that bound around the teeth. Herodotus declares that the Egyptians had a knowledge of the diseases of the teeth and their treatment 2000 B. C. In Martial, Casselius is mentioned as either filling or extracting teeth; but he specified that he would not polish false teeth with tooth powder. Lucian mentions an old maid that had but four teeth, and they were fastened with gold. These facts cover a period of six hundred years."

THE ENGLISH GOVERNMENT have been making some interesting experiments with gun-cotton of late, and on April 25 two martello towers on the Sussex coast were blown down, one with two hundred pounds of gun-cotton, the other with four times the quantity of gunpowder. The first explosion, effected by the agency of gunpowder, emitted a slow, sullen and upward-darting roar. The second, effected by a far smaller amount of gun-cotton, was quick, sharp and instantaneous as a flash of lightning. The beams and stones of the first were thrown vertically upward; the shattered fragments of the second were dispersed laterally over the sand. The extreme rapidity and tremendous force of the gun-cotton seemed to forbid the slow projection into the air of the disintegrated tower. In the first case it seemed as though the work of devastation was tardily accomplished; in the second, as though destruction had descended upon the lightning's wing.

BUMBLE BEES.—The ordinary honey bee performs its work well in the fertilization of white clover, but its proboscis is not long enough to enable it to reach the nectaries of red clover. For the fertilization of red clover we must rely to a great extent upon the bumble bee.

Darwin has called attention to the intimate connection between the number of cats in a given district and the yield of red clover seed. The mice destroy bumble bees, and the cats destroy the mice; therefore the more cats the more bumble bees, and the more bumble bees the greater is the red clover yield. In order to make red clover grow more abundantly in New Zealand than it does, some enterprising gentlemen are talking of importing colonies of bumble bees from England. Then we should protect what we have, even if it does interfere with the wild pleasures of careless boyhood.

MARVELS OF THE MICROSCOPE.—A beautiful and easily produced exhibition of crystal formation may be seen under the microscope, as follows: Upon a slip of glass place a drop of liquid chloride of gold or nitrate of silver, with a particle of zinc and copper in the silver. A growth of exquisite gold or silver ferns will vegetate under the observer's delighted eye.

A FIRM in Sheffield, England, has just succeeded in rolling the largest armor plates ever made. The plates are intended to protect the turrets of the great war ship Devastation, which is being built at Portsmouth. Each plate weighs twenty-four tons, and measures twenty feet in length, nine feet in breadth, and eight inches in thickness.

COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

PRICE, HINE & TUPPER,
General Commission Merchants,
FACTORS, AND
Agents of Attakapas Mail Transportation Co.,
NO. 26 CARONDELET STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Advances made on consignments to T. Tupper & Sons, Charleston, S. C.; Williams, Birnie & Co., and Leverich & Co., New York. no2 1y

W. H. SUTTON. J. R. POWELL.
SUTTON & POWELL,
COTTON FACTORS
AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
186.....COMMON STREET.....186
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
se21 1y

H. F. GIVEN. LUCIEN J. DOIZE.
H. F. GIVEN & CO.,
COTTON, TOBACCO AND SUGAR FACTORS,
—AND—
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 64 Baronne street, New Orleans.
oc5 1y

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.
AIKEN & WATT,
Cotton Factors and Commission Merchants,
60.....CARONDELET STREET.....60
NEW ORLEANS.
Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. no2 1y

J. L. DUNNICA, New Orleans. T. A. HAMILTON, Memphis.
O. P. HARRISON, New Orleans.
J. L. DUNNICA & CO.,
FLOUR, PRODUCE AND PROVISION
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
50.....TCHOUPITOULAS ST.....50
NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA.
oc22 1y

J. C. PAYNE. W. H. DAMERON. H. M. PAYNE.
PAYNE, DAMERON & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
64 & 66....BARONNE STREET....64 & 66
Between Union and Gravier streets,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
je19 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,
Cotton Factors and General Commission Merchants,
31.....PERDIDO STREET.....31
oc3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

BUSINESS CARDS.

E. HEATH. M. LARA. J. P. HEATH.
HEATH, LARA & HEATH,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
UPHOLSTERERS' MATERIALS,
WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES,
CORNICES AND CURTAIN GOODS,
Pictures, Frames, Moldings, Looking Glasses and Clocks,
NO. 99 CAMP STREET,
no16 1y NEW ORLEANS.

THE MITCHELL & RAMMELSBERG
FURNITURE COMPANY,
Manufacturers and dealers in all kinds of Furniture, Mattresses, Looking Glasses,
ETC., ETC.
103 and 105 Camp street, cor. Poydras,
Moresque Building, New Orleans,
have the largest and best assortment of FURNITURE of any house in the city.
Please give us a call before purchasing elsewhere. my23 1y

J. THOMSON. G. THOMSON. W. B. THOMSON.
J. THOMSON & BROS.,

Manufacturers of
Carriages, Barouches, Buggies, Phaetons,
SPRING WAGONS, ETC.
68 and 70 Rampart Street,
Bet. Common and Gravier, New Orleans, La.
Repairing done in all its branches. no30 1y

LOUISIANA STEAM
SASH, BLIND AND DOOR FACTORY,
ROBERTS & CO., PROPRIETORS,
301, 303, 305 and 307 Gravier Street,
NEW ORLEANS. my30 1y

JAMES M'CRACKEN. GEO. E. BREWSTER.
M'CRACKEN & BREWSTER,
DEALERS IN FURNITURE,
Nos. 37, 39 and 41 Royal street.
Manufactory, corner Derbigny and Customhouse streets, New Orleans. my9 6m

CHARLES BALLEJO,
FAMILY GROCER,
St. Charles, corner of Jackson street,
my9 3m New Orleans, La.

GEORGE CRONAN,
(SUCCESSOR TO BENNETT & LURGES.)
SOUTHERN ORNAMENTAL IRON WORKS
Corner Magnolia and Erato Sts.,
Near Jackson Railroad Depot,
my9 6m NEW ORLEANS.

JOHN I. ADAMS & CO., (JOHN I. ADAMS, JAY L. ADAMS, GEO. W. WEST, WM. H. BENAUD,) WHOLESALE GROCERS,
AND DEALERS IN
PROVISIONS, LARD, OILS, ETC., ETC.,
43, 45 and 47 Peters street,
(Formerly New Levee,)—
mh21 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ELON G. SMITH, J. L. CHEATHAM, J. W. DRAUGHON.
SMITH, CHEATHAM & CO.,
(SUCCESSORS TO ELON G. SMITH & CO.)
PORK PACKERS,
Provision and Commission Merchants,
CORNER THIRD AND SPRUCE STREETS,
SAINT LOUIS.
We solicit orders from the trade for goods in our line. oc26 1y

C. SAMPSON. F. G. SAMPSON.
SAMPSON BROTHERS,
(Late C. C. Sampson,)
FURNITURE,
33 & 35.....ROYAL STREET.....33 & 35
NEW ORLEANS.
Established in 1833. ja11 1y

Carpet Warehouse—17 Chartres Street.
A. BROUSSEAU & CO.,
Importers and dealers, at Wholesale and Retail, in English and American Carpetings,
Floor Oil Cloths, Table and Enameled Oil Cloths,
Window Shades, Table and Piano Covers,
Crumb Cloths, in squares or pieces,
Curtain and Furniture Materials,
Brocatelles, Cotelenes, Terries, Reps, Lace and Nottingham Lace Curtains, Hair Cloth Ticking, Springs, Burlaps, Step Covers, etc.
no23 1y A. BROUSSEAU & CO.

BUSINESS CARDS.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
CANAL ST., COR. ROYAL, NEW ORLEANS,
IMPORTERS OF
WATCHES, JEWELRY, CLOCKS,
PLATED WARE, HOUSEKEEPING GOODS,
Cutlery, Guns, Pistols, Bronzes, Porcelain and Fancy Goods.
MANUFACTURERS OF
PURE COIN SILVERWARE.
Watches and Jewelry carefully repaired. Every article sold fully guaranteed.
no23 1y

C. HUCHEZ,
FAMILY GROCER,
NOS. 95 AND 97 CAMP STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
☞ Supplies carefully put up for families moving over the Lake. my30 3m

JOHN LAZARUS,
PRACTICAL OPTICIAN,
6.....ST. CHARLES ST.....6
Near Canal, New Orleans.
Sole Agent for the celebrated Panlascopic Star Spectacles and Eye Glasses. mh21 6m

T. H. McMAHAN & CO.,
BANKERS,
And Dealers in Foreign and Domestic Exchange,
GALVESTON, TEXAS,
We have prompt and reliable correspondents at all the principal points throughout this State, and upon all collections payable in this city or Houston make no charge for collecting, and only actual charge upon interior collections.
Immediate and prompt attention given to all business intrusted to us. feb1 1y

RICHARD BRODERICK,
CISTERN MAKER,
132.....Julia street.....132
Bet. Camp and Magazine, New Orleans.
Second hand Cisterns always on hand. All work guaranteed.
All orders left at Box 30, Mechanics' and Dealers' Exchange, will meet with prompt attention. my2 1y

HILL & VEAZIE,
74.....Camp street.....74
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
LAMPS AND OILS, CHANDELIERS,
Globes, Chimneys, Shades, Trimmers, Wicks, Cans, Fillers, etc.
PRATTS' ASTRAL OIL, non-explosive and non-inflammable. ja18 1y

R. H. NOBLE. J. B. WOODS.
NOBLE & WOODS,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS,
Nos. 9 and 11 Delta street, and 10 and 12 Front street,
ja18 1y NEW ORLEANS, LA.

JOHN D. MACLIN, (Late R. D. Maclin.) L. C. MACLIN,
COAL! WOOD! COAL!
Pittsburg, Anthracite and Cannel Coal, Oak, Ash and Pine Wood, at the lowest market rates, delivered to any part of the city.
Offices—26 Carondelet street, and corner of Third and Tchoupitoulas. mh7 1y

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

G. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER. E. T. MERRICK, Former Ch. Jus. La.
RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,
Attorneys, Counselors and Solicitors,
Cor. of Camp street and Commercial Place,
se25 NEW ORLEANS.

W. W. EDWARDS,
COUNSELOR AT LAW
AND
COMMISSIONER OF DEEDS,
No. 88 Common street,
se14 1y New Orleans.

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,
DENTAL SURGEON,
152.....JULIA STREET.....152
All operations in Operative, Mechanical and Surgical Dentistry carefully performed. Nitrous Oxide and other Anæsthetics administered. no30 1y

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,
Office—680 Magazine Street,
Between Philip and First sts., New Orleans.
Will call daily at College building, corner Common and Baronne streets, between eleven and twelve o'clock. je29 1y

WATER The Records of Tests
AT LOWELL, MASS., PROVE
N. F. BURNHAM'S
New Turbine

superior to all others. It gave a higher percentage than any other wheel of common finish. Pamphlet and Price List by N. F. BURNHAM, York, Pa. ap25 6m

PUBLICATIONS FOR ALL
Prominent Benevolent Organizations.
FRATERNITY.
100,000 SOLD!—Masonic, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Red Men, Mechanics, Temperance, etc.
Sale unrivaled by anything heretofore offered. Agents with no experience are selling 20 Pictures and upward a day. One of our agents has cleared over $1,200 in three months. The Brethren welcome these works. Our inducements are UNPRECEDENTED. Our commissions are positively one-fourth larger than any other house does or CAN offer. Send for circular of Order to which you belong, giving No. of your Lodge, and state where you saw this advertisement. You will certainly engage with us.
J. HALE POWERS & CO.,
Fraternity Publishers,
my9 7m Cincinnati, Ohio.

FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL BOOKS,
AT LOWEST CASH PRICES, address
ROBT. J. HARP, Agent,
jy18 1m 112 Camp street.

MILLER'S
Bible and Publishing House.
NEW ILLUSTRATED FAMILY BIBLE.
The Cheapest and Best Bible published. LARGE PRINT, Beautiful Bindings, more than two hundred Engravings.
THE CHRISTIAN HARMONY,
a new and choice collection of Sacred Music, based on system of seven-shaped character notes. Any one can learn to read music, and sing in one-fourth the time required by the old methods. Address
Miller's Bible and Publishing House,
1102 and 1104 Sansom street,
je27 6m Philadelphia, Penn'a.

"Southern Books for Southern Schools."

School-Books which are Unsectional, Unpartisan, and Unpolitical,
PREPARED BY THE MOST EMINENT SOUTHERN SCHOLARS, AND
ENTIRELY ACCEPTABLE TO SOUTHERN TEACHERS AND PARENTS.

The University Publishing Co.,

An Association composed of many of the most eminent citizens of the several Southern States, feeling the necessity for a series of School Books which should be entirely sectional, unpartisan, and unpolitical, and in their teaching of the Southern thought and feeling the facts of history and science—should not be offensive to the people—which should present only are now issuing a complete series of School and College Text-books by the eminent Southern scholars and educators named below, which are the

Cheapest, Best, and Most Beautiful School-Books
Now published. The "University Series" embraces

MAURY'S GEOGRAPHICAL SERIES,
By Commodore M. F. Maury, of the Virginia Military Institute. A series of books which mark an era in the study of this science, and which, in the words of a well known and accomplished Southern teacher, "are characterized by a felicity of arrangement and simple freshness of style which must ever render them attractive to the young, and which will be used by all who wish to teach Geography as a science, as something to make pupils think, and not merely as an enumeration of dry facts."

Holmes' Readers and Spellers,
By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL.D., Professor of History and General Literature in the University of Virginia. A series of Readers unequalled in cheapness, excellence, and typographical beauty. They are steadily progressive in character, bright and fresh in their selections of prose and verse, and illustrative of Southern scenes, incidents, and history.

Venable's Arithmetical Series,
By CHARLES S. VENABLE, LL.D., Professor of Mathematics in the University of Virginia. These books are received everywhere by intelligent teachers with the highest satisfaction, as being most admirably adapted for mental drill, as well as for business education. Their methods, rules, and reasonings are clear, distinct, logical, and comprehensive, and the series is carefully graded throughout.

Holmes' History of the United States,
By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL.D., of the University of Virginia. It is enough to say of this admirable work, interesting, impartial, and truthful, as well as pure and graceful in style, that it is the only History of the United States which is acceptable to Southern teachers and parents. It comes down to the present date.

THE "UNIVERSITY SERIES" OF SCHOOL-BOOKS
COMPRISES, ALSO,
De Vere's French Grammar, Readers, etc.,
By M. SCHELE DE VERE, LL.D., Professor of Modern Languages in the University of Va.
Gildersleeve's Latin Series,
By B. L. GILDERSLEEVE, Ph.D., LL.D., of the University of Virginia.
Carter's Elements of General History,
By Rev. J. P. CARTER, A.M., of Baltimore, Maryland.
Holmes' English Grammars,
By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL.D., of the University of Virginia.
LeConte's Scientific Series,
By the Professors LECONTE, late of the University of South Carolina.
Johnston's English Classics,
By R. M. JOHNSTON, A.M., late Professor of Rhetoric and Belles-Lettres in the University of Georgia.

To which list other books in other departments will early be added.
Send for our full ILLUSTRATED DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, which will be mailed free to any teacher or school officer. Liberal terms given for introduction.
Address
UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING COMPANY,
155 and 157 Crosby Street, New York.
☞ A full supply of "The University Series" always on hand, and teachers and schools supplied by R. J. HARP, Bookseller, 112 Camp St., New Orleans.
And by all prominent booksellers throughout the South.
W. IRVING CLARKE, the General Agent, will furnish any information, and afford every facility to teachers for examining the series. Office—92 CAMP ST., New Orleans. mh7 1y

THE UTICA STEAM ENGINE CO.,
H. DUDLEY COLEMAN, Agent, NO. 9 UNION STREET, New Orleans.

Formerly WOOD & MANN.
These Engines are so well and favorably known that a description of them here is not deemed necessary.
They are EQUALED by FEW, SURPASSED by NONE, perfect in workmanship, complete in appointments, safe, simple and substantial. Every boiler is practically tested before leaving the factory. By the use of a CIRCULATING WATER BOTTOM around and underneath the furnace, which lessens the
RISK FROM FIRE,
they are particularly adapted for GINNING COTTON. Engines of all sizes, at prices which challenge comparison for equal size of steam cylinder and measurements of boiler. A full stock of these Engines will be kept constantly on hand by the undersigned, who has been appointed general agent.
H. DUDLEY COLEMAN,
No. 9 Union street,
mh21 6m New Orleans, La.

AGENTS WANTED TO SELL THE ILLUSTRATED
HISTORY OF THE BIBLE
By Wm. SMITH, LL.D.,
AUTHOR OF SMITH'S BIBLE DICTIONARY.
It contains 243 fine Scripture illustrations and over 1,100 pages, and is the most comprehensive and valuable History of the Bible ever published. The labor and learning of centuries are gathered in this one volume to throw a strong, clear light upon every page of the Inspired Word.
Send for circulars, and see our terms and a full description of the work. Address
NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.,
274 and 276 Second street,
ap1 6m Memphis, Tenn.

Carpet and Oil Cloth Warehouse.
J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.
ELKIN & CO.,
168.....CANAL STREET.....168
Near Baronne, New Orleans,
IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF ENGLISH CARPETINGS, RUGS, Etc.
—ALSO—
Oil Cloths, Mattings,
Lace and Damask Curtains,
Window Shades, etc.,
—AND A—
Complete Assortment of Upholstery Goods.
fe8 1y

EXCHANGE HOTEL,
JOHN SUMMERS, PROPRIETOR,
GALVESTON, TEXAS.
☞ This is the only Hotel in the city which has FREE OMNIBUSES to and from the cars and boats for the use of guests. Ask for Exchange Hotel Omnibus. feb1 1y

MINERAL SPERM OIL.
GUARANTEED AS SAFE AS SPERM OR LARD OIL.
It Will Not Take Fire In Case of Breakage of the Lamp.
THE OIL WILL EXTINGUISH the FLAME.
The Oil itself has no odor while burning. It gives a Light of TEN-CANDLE POWER at a cost not exceeding ONE-HALF CENT PER HOUR, and for lighting railroad cars, steamers, factories and dwelling houses it is invaluable and cannot be too highly recommended.
The Oil is patented, and made by a process which insures its uniformity.
It burns with great brilliancy in the
DUAL BURNER,
requires but little attention and no trimming. The Oil never gums in the lamp, as it absorbs no oxygen from the atmosphere. It does not deteriorate by age. This Burner fits all ordinary coal oil lamps.
BOSTICK & SEYMOUR,
Sole Agents for Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi and Texas.
45 and 47 Front st., and 46 and 48 Fulton st.,
mh28 6m New Orleans.

SAVE $20.
THE NEW WILSON
UNDER-FEED.

The Best and Cheapest First-Class Shuttle SEWING MACHINE In the World.
WM. GREGG & CO. General Southern Agents, No. 183 Canal street, New Orleans, La.
Agents Wanted. je27 6m

fe11 1y

Uniform Lessons for 1872.
FOR TEACHERS.—The Sunday School World contains the explanations and studies prepared by Rev. John Hall, D. D., for teachers.
SCHOLARS' PAPER.—With the text of the lesson, and suggestive helps for the study of it; and questions at the foot of each page, to be answered in writing by the scholar.
INTERMEDIATE LESSON PAPER.—Adapted to the use of less advanced scholars, with questions and explanations.
Price of each Lesson Paper of four pages, at the rate of 75 cents per 100 copies for one month, or $9 per 100 copies yearly.
☞ Catalogues of the Society's publications and sample copies of its periodicals furnished gratuitously on application at the Depository of the AMERICAN SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION.
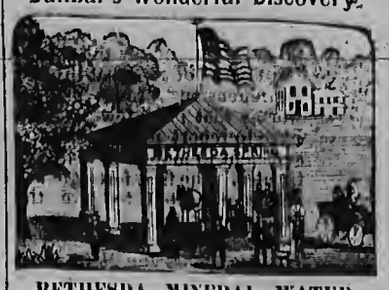
mal 3m 1122 Chestnut st., Philadelphia.

AGENTS WANTED for the Autobiography of HORACE GREELEY. A new, illustrated edition, now ready. Get this, the only edition written by himself and indorsed by the Tribune and our 1872 CAMPAIGN MANUAL 1st of all parties, just out; price, $1.50. One agent sold 80 in three days. Splendid Steel Portraits of Greeley, also of Grant. $300 a month made selling the above.
E. B. TREAT, Publisher,
jy25 1m 805 Broadway, N. Y.

MEDICAL.

Dunbar's Wonderful Discovery.


BETHESDA MINERAL WATER.
The acknowledged cure for Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Liver and Bilious Affections, Kidney and Urinary diseases.
Sold, wholesale or retail, at 38 Magazine street.
H. D. HUFF,
Sole Southern Agent.
Address Glass Box 825. my30 3m

CONSUMPTION.....CONSUMPTION.
NEW TREATMENT BY
DUCRO'S ALIMENTARY ELIXIR
prepared with raw meat and alcohol. Recommended by the highest medical authority in Paris. A radical cure, and in desperate cases a
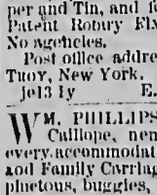
CERTAIN RELIEF.
Agreeable to the taste. Incontestably superior to Cod Liver Oil, the hypophosphites and other preparations. This Elixir, the basis of which is raw meat and alcohol, is moreover one of the most powerful tonics for persons convalescing or feeble, for chlorotic young girls, debilitated old persons, etc.
Depot in New Orleans at
MR. P. CUSACHS',
Corner St. Philip and Royal streets,
my16 3m New Orleans,
Sole Agent for the United States.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A POPULAR MUSIC BOOK!
AT A POPULAR PRICE!
"THE SCEPTER,"
By Dr. A. BROOKS EVERETT,
ONLY $1.00.—BY THE DOZEN, $10.50.
"THE SCEPTER" contains a large variety of most valuable material, embracing Hymn-tunes, Anthems, Glees, the "Everett System of Teaching Vocal Music," etc., by the well-known professor of music, Dr. A. BROOKS EVERETT, recognized throughout the Southern States as a most successful and popular teacher of the art of singing, as well as the author of many of the most popular tunes contained in the Tabor or Richmond Collection.
"THE SCEPTER"
also contains contributions by Profs. R. M. McIntosh, H. L. Everett and other well-known composers, as well as a large number of old standard tunes.
☞ Every Choir Leader and Teacher of Music should examine "THE SCEPTER."
Sent, post paid, on receipt of $1.
PUBLISHED BY
BIGLOW & MAIN, NEW YORK,
SUCCESSORS TO WM. B. BRADBURY,
Publishers of the most popular series of SUNDAY SCHOOL SONG BOOKS—Golden Chain, Shower and Censer, Fresh Laurels, Bright Jewels, Pure Gold, etc. For sale by Booksellers generally.
All publications of Biglow & Main are for sale by ROBT. J. HARP, Agent, 112 Camp street, New Orleans. jy9 3m

SWINTON'S CONDENSED
SCHOOL HISTORY.
(From the Virginia Educational Journal.)
Mr. Swinton's reputation led us to examine this book. What is of most importance in the work is its extreme fairness. It is vastly superior, in this respect, to any history issued at the North that we have seen. Where accuracy seems almost impossible, he comes nearer to the truth than the others.
NEW SCHOOL BOOKS.
SWINTON'S WORD ANALYSIS.
CATHCART'S YOUTH'S SPEAKER.
ARITHMETICAL EXAMPLES (Mental and Written.)
KERL'S SHORTER COURSE IN GRAMMAR.
☞ A Descriptive Catalogue of the American Educational Series, and our Educational Reporter, mailed free to any address upon application.
Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co.,
Or T. MORONEY, General Agent,
ma28 1y 92 Camp street, New Orleans.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY,
Established in 1837.


Superior Bells for Churches, Schools, etc., of Pure Copper and Tin, fully warranted, and mounted with our Latest Improved Rotary Hangings, the best in use.
Illustrated Catalogue sent free.
VANDUZEN & TIFT,
102 & 104 E. Second St., Cincinnati
fe22 1y

GREAT CHANCE FOR AGENTS.
Do you want an agency, local or traveling, with an opportunity to make $5 to $20 a day selling our new 7-strand White Wire Clothes Lines? They last forever; sample free, so there is no risk. Address at once Hudson River Wire Works, cor. Water St. and Maiden Lane, New York, or 16 Dearborn street, Chicago, Illinois. ma24 1y

PRICE WILLIAMS & SON,
Exchange and Real Estate Brokers
MOBILE, ALABAMA.
Dealers in Bills, Bonds, Notes and Stocks of every kind. Plantations, and lands unimproved, for sale in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. Also every class of Real Estate in Mobile, Alabama. Rent, and pay taxes and insurance on Real Estate in Mobile. Invest money on mortgages, etc., and collect claims.
REFERENCES.
Messrs. Baker, Lawler & Co., Mobile, Ala.
Moses Waring, Esq., Mobile, Ala.
Hon. Milton Brown, Jackson, Tenn
Bishop J. C. Keener, New Orleans
Bishop Paine, Mississippi.
Bishop McTyeire, Nashville, Tenn.
Messrs. John T. Farwell & Co., Chicago.
Dean, McGinnis & Co., N. Y. no26 1y

MENEELY'S BELLS.
THE genuine Troy Church Bells known to the public since 1826, which have acquired a reputation unequaled by any, and a sale exceeding that of all others—including more than seventy chimes and peals. One thousand testimonials received during the last six years. Every Bell made of best Copper and Tin, and formally warranted. New Patent Rotary Fixtures. Catalogues free. No agencies.
Post office address, either TROY or WEST TROY, New York.
je13 1y E. A. & G. R. MENEELY.

WM. PHILLIPS, UNION STABLES, 180 Calliope, near St. Charles street, has every accommodation in the line of Pleasure and Family Carriages, such as hacks, brettes, phetons, buggies, etc., for the use of the public, and at rates to correspond with the stringency of the times. All hacking done below tariff rates. Orders for weddings, balls, picnics, races, etc., will be attended to so as to guarantee satisfaction. I am also prepared to hire vehicles (alone) to parties having their own horses. de14 1y

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

(From the New Orleans Price Current.)

The weather has been clear and warm. Our accounts from the country indicate a still greater prevalence of the worms. With the exception of ravages already noticed up the Red river and in Alabama, and some few other localities, we have heard of no great injury; but the apprehensions are as general as the worms that in a few weeks we shall have to report more serious damages, sufficient to materially reduce crop estimates. The first fortnight in September is expected to give the result, whether favorable or unfavorable. The receipts of new crop to date amount to 51 bales, embracing 21 from the Mississippi valley and 30 from Texas, against 6 last year, of which 1 from Louisiana and 5 from Texas.

The river is 10 feet 2 inches below high water mark.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the ninth instant:

Louisiana and Mississippi.....bales..	66
Mobile	4
Texas	30
Total	100

On Saturday the sales embraced 81 bales, mostly picking lots, but including 21 bales low middling at 21¼c. On Monday 105 bales changed hands at 18c. for good stylo good ordinary, 19¼c. for good style low middling, the same for strict, and 19½c. for strict low middling to middling, which was also accepted for 11 bales new crop, same grade. On Tuesday one buyer took 9 bales, and another 81, of which 26 were new crop. The prices paid were about the same for old and new crop, and showed no quotable change. Strict ordinary to good ordinary sold at 17½c., strict low at 19⅝ and 19½c., the latter for new crop, and middling to strict middling, new, at 19½c.

The receipts proper at this port, since the first of September (exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas,) are 953,824 bales, against 1,439,666 bales to the same date last year, and the decrease in the receipts at all the ports, up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 1,270,905 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same date last year, there is an increase of 48,697 to France, and a decrease of 906,532 to Great Britain, and of 334,875 to other foreign ports.

We quote:

Good ordinary	18 @ 18¼
Low middling	19¼ @ 19½

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1871, bales.		25,323
Arrived past three days..	100
Arrived previously	1,051,289
Waste and damaged cotton, samples, etc	14,939	1,066,328
		1,091,651
Exported past three days.	15
Exported previously	1,084,903	1,084,918
Stock on hand and on shipboard..		6,733

SUGAR.—On Tuesday there were no receipts from plantation, but there were dealers' sales, in job lots to grocers, of about 100 hhds., in the sheds, at 9⅞@10c. for fair, and 10⅛@10¾c. for fully fair not refilled. The stock in the sheds is diminishing considerably. Of city refinery, yellow clarified is selling on orders at 11¼@11¾c., white 12¼@12¾c., crushed and powdered 13⅛@13¼c., cut loaf 14@14¼c. ℔ lb.

MOLASSES.—There is little or none coming in from plantation. The previous receipts were poor and thin, and sold at 25c. per gallon. A cargo of 742 hhds. Cienfuegos, in warehouse, sold to a refiner on private terms. City refinery is selling at 30c. for inferior, 40c. for common, 50c. for fair, 55c. for prime, 60c. for choice, and 80c.@$1 ℔ gallon for golden sirup.

CORN.—The market has been in good supply and dull, with previous prices barely sustained. The sales on Saturday and Monday were confined to 4,000 sacks at 57c. for mixed and yellow, 60c. for white mixed and 63c. for white, one or two small lots of very choice white commanding 64@65c. ℔ bushel on Monday.

OATS.—On Tuesday 1,600 sacks sold at 40@41c. for St. Louis, 42c. for choice do., and 44c. for choice Galena.

BRAN—Has been in good supply. The demand has been fair, but at much easier prices for buyers. On Saturday 1,200 sacks sold, in lots, at 92½@97½c., one or two lots commanding $1 ℔ 100 lbs. On Monday 500 bags sold at 92½@$1 ℔ 100 lbs. On Tuesday there was a fair demand, and 1,300 bags sold at 97½@98c. ℔ 100 lbs.

PORK.—There were sales of several hundred bbls. on Saturday and Monday, not reported, said to be at $13.25@$13.37½ ℔ bbl. On Monday a lot of 50 bbls. mess was reported at $13.25, and one of 25 bbls. at $13.62½ ℔ bbl. Round lots of mess are quoted at $13.25 ℔ bbl. It is retailing at $13.75@$14 ℔ bbl.

BACON.—On Tuesday the market was excited. The demand was active at advanced prices, especially for shoulders. Holders did not care to sell even at the advance, and prices were looking still higher. An offer of 7¾c. ℔ lb. was refused for a considerable lot of shoulders. The sales embraced 300 casks at 7½@7¾c. for shoulders, 10@10½c. for clear rib sides, and 10½@10⅝c. for clear sides. The market closed at 7¾@7⅞c. for shoulders, 10½c. for clear rib sides, and 10⅝@10¾c. ℔ lb. for clear sides.

CORN MEAL.—On Tuesday the market was very dull, with holders asking $3.10@$3.15 and buyers offering $3 ℔ bbl. There were sales of 800 bbls. in lots, some on private terms and the balance at $3@$3.05 ℔ bbl.

BEEF.—We quote Texas mess $11@$12, extra mess $12.50 ℔ bbl., and $7@$7.50 for half bbls. Tierces are quoted at $17@$17.50 for mess, and $18@$18.50 for prime mess. Western $14@$15 in bbls., and Northern $15.50@$16 for bbls., and $9 for half bbls.

MONETARY.

Gold opened on Tuesday at 114¾@115 (against 115½ at New York,) and closed at the opening rates in both markets.

The sales of silver embrace $400 in American half-dollars on Monday at 108, and $2,500 at 108¾; and $2,000 on Tuesday at 108¾.

New Orleans Wholesale Prices.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
Agricultural Implements:
Cotton scrapers	4 50	6 00
Cotton sweeps	4 50	6 00
Cultivators, Diam. & shovel-tooth	7 75	10 50
Cultivators, riding	45 00	60 00
Cultivators, walking	30 00	35 00
Shovels	7 50	14 50
Spades	7 50	16 50
Axes	10 00	15 00
Potato diggers	13 50	— —
Shovel plows	6 00	7 00
Half do., with cutters	8 00	9 00
Manly's D. S plow	6 00	9 75
Corn mills, Coleman's	120 00	425 00
Bread, ℔ 100 lbs:
Pilot	5 00	6 00
Loaf	— —	— —
Crackers	5 00	12 00
Navy	— —	4 00
Cream crackers	11 00	12 00
Bricks, ℔ M:
Lake	13 00	16 00
English fire	— —	50 00
American fire	40 00	— —
Candles, ℔ lb:
Sperm, New Bedford	33	36
Tallow	16	18
Chocolate, ℔ lb:
Cocoa	38	60
No. 1	50	52
Sweet and spiced	25	— —
Cider, ℔ bbl:
Western	— —	— —
Coal, ℔ ton:
Anthracite	12 00	13 00
Western, ℔ bbl	— —	60
Corks, ℔ 1000:
Regular	— —	— —
Pointed	— —	— —
Coffee, ℔ lb:
Havana (currency)	— —	— —
Java	25	27
Cordova	— —	— —
Copper, ℔ lb:
Braziers'	48	— —
Copper bolts	48	— —
Yellow metal	30	32
Cordage, ℔ lb:
Manilla	19	20
Tarred, American	— —	16
Russian	16	— —
Cotton seed:
Rough, ℔ ton	— —	13 00
In sacks	17 00	17 50
Dyes, ℔ lb:
Logwood, Camp'y	4	4½
Logwood, St. Domingo	4½	4¾
Fustic, Tampico	5	6
Indigo, ℔ lb	1 40	1 60
Madder	15	18
Eggs, ℔ dozen:
Western	12	16
Feathers, ℔ lb	70	— —
Fish, ℔ box:
Cod	1 40	— —
Herrings	35	— —
Mackerel, No. 1, ℔ bbl	13 00	— —
Mackerel, No. 2	10 50	— —
Mackerel, No. 3	8 00	— —
Flaxseed, ℔ lb	4½	5½
Flour, ℔ bbl:
Double extra	5 75	6 00
Superfine	4 50	— —
Fine	4 00	4 25
Fruit, ℔ lb:
Prunes	10½	13
Currants, new	9	10
Almonds, soft shell	17	18½
Almonds, shelled	30	— —
Glass, ℔ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	3 50	4 00
French, 10 by 12	3 75	4 25
French, 12 by 18	4 00	4 50
Gunny bags, ℔ bag	18	— —
Hay, ℔ ton:
Prime	27 00	— —
Choice	28 00	30 00
Iron, ℔ ton:
Pig	54 00	55 00
Country bar, ℔ lb	— —	— —
English	5½	7½
Swedes, assorted	6½	8½
Hoop	6½	8
Sheet	7½	8½
Boiler	8	9½
Nail rods	— —	9
Castings, American	5½	6
Lead, ℔ 100 lbs:
Pig	— —	9 50
Bar, ℔ lb	8½	— —
Sheet	12	— —
Pipe	12	— —
Leather, ℔ lb:
Sole, hemlock	33	34
Sole, oak	37	43
Harness	38	45
Calf skins, ℔ dozen	42 00	70 00
Texas, rough, ℔ lb	24	26
Lime, ℔ bbl:
Western	1 25	1 75
Cement	2 50	3 00
Plaster Paris	4 50	— —
Lumber, ℔ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	13 00	15 00
Boards, cypress	25 00	30 00
Flooring, dressed	25 00	30 00
Flooring, rough	15 00	18 00
Ceiling, dressed	20 00	25 00
Weatherboards, dressed	19 00	20 00
Weatherboards, rough	13 00	15 00
Scantling	13 00	15 00
Shingles, ℔ M	3 50	4 25
Laths	2 50	3 00
Moss, ℔ lb:
Country picked	4½	6
Clean picked	6½	7
Nails, ℔ keg:
American, 4@6d	5 60	5 75
Wrought, German, ℔ lb	14	16
Wrought, English	14	16
Oils:
Lard, ℔ gallon	68	73
Coal oil, in barrels	26	28
Coal oil, in cases	32	35
Linseed, raw	90	92
Sperm	— —	2 00
Whale, refined	95	1 00
Cotton seed, crude	— —	46
Cotton seed, refined	60	65
Castor	1 65	1 85
Olive, 22@24 oz	6 75	7 00
Olive, 11@12 oz	7 00	7 25
Tanner's, ℔ gallon	75	85
Soap, ℔ lb:
Western	5½	7
Northern	5½	7
Southern	4½	6½
Castile, genuine	12	— —
Castile, imitation	11	— —
Sardines:
Half boxes	34	35½
Quarter boxes	23½	24
Spices, ℔ lb:
Cassia	40	45
Cloves	19	20
Nutmegs	1 20	1 25
Pepper	21	21½
Pimento	12	12½
Sugar, ℔ lb:
Havana, white	13	— —
Havana, yellow	10½	11½
Havana, brown	10½	11
Crushed	13½	13¾
Pulverized	13½	13½
Teas, ℔ lb:
Imperial	45	1 10
Gunpowder	75	1 50
Hyson	75	1 25
Young Hyson	75	1 10
Oolong	45	1 10
Pouchong	30	50
Tin, ℔ box:
Block	— —	— —
In plates, I. X	18 25	— —
In plates, I. C	16 00	— —
Leaded plates, I. X	17 25	— —
Leaded plates, I. C	15 00	— —

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, August 13, 1872.

Texas beeves, choice, ℔ head	$50 00	@	55 00
Texas beeves, 1st qual, ℔ head	35 00	@	45 00
Texas cattle, 2d qual, ℔ head	20 00	@	28 00
Texas cattle, 3d qual, ℔ head	14 00	@	18 00
Western beeves, ℔ lb. net	10	@	13
Hogs, ℔ lb. gross	4½	@	6
Sheep, first quality, ℔ head	5 00	@	6 00
Sheep, second qual., ℔ head	3 00	@	4 00
Sheep, third quality, ℔ head	2 00	@	2 50
Milch cows, choice, ℔ head	80 00	@	100 00
Milch cows, ℔ head	50 00	@	80 00
Texas cows, with calves	— —	@	— —
Calves, ℔ head	7 00	@	10 00
Yearlings, ℔ head	8 00	@	12 00

Special Notices.

Debate.

Rev. D. M. Hudson, of the Alabama Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and Elder J. M. Pickens, of the Christian Church, will discuss the Subjects, Design and Mode of Christian Baptism, and probably also the question of Denominational Names and Written Creeds, in the Baptist church at Pineapple, Wilcox county, Alabama, at the southern terminus of the Selma and Gulf railroad. The debate will commence on Tuesday, September 24, 1872, at ten o'clock A. M., and continue some eight or ten days.

Camp Meeting.

A camp meeting will be held on Clear creek, Rapides parish, twelve miles north of Alexandria, on the old telegraph road to Harrisonburg, beginning on Thursday, September 19, 1872. The Alexandria District Conference will be held at the same time. All ministers, all members of the Quarterly Conferences and all friends are earnestly requested to attend and assist in the meeting.

JOHN F. WINN, P. C.
FRED. WHITE, P. E.

Camp Meeting.

A camp meeting will be held on Spring creek, thirty miles southwest of Alexandria, near Burr's ferry, on the road from mouth of Red river to the Sabine, and on the Opelousas and Natchitoches road, beginning on Friday, October 11. All ministers and all friends are earnestly requested to give us their attendance and assistance.

FRED. WHITE.
S. H. COOPER.
C. KEENER.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting on the Gaston circuit, Demopolis district, Alabama Conference, three miles west of DeSotoville, in the northern portion of Choctaw county, Alabama, commencing on Friday before the first Sabbath in October. Provision will be made for all visitors. Ministers of the gospel are cordially invited.

C. B. DUBOSE, P. C.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting on the Paulding circuit, Meridian district, Mississippi Conference, commencing on Thursday before and embracing the fifth Sabbath in September. It will be conducted on the primitive style. Provision will be made for all ministers and persons living at a distance. Persons living within fifteen or twenty miles of the camp ground must not expect accommodations from the citizens or tent-holders. All ministers are respectfully invited and urged to attend. There will be conveyance for ministers at Enterprise on Thursday morning.

J. H. HOLLAND, P. C.

Shreveport District Conference.

The several brethren are requested to preach on the following subjects at our District Conference, to be held at Keachie, Louisiana, commencing on Thursday, September 26, viz.:

1. On the Obligation to Support the Ministry—Rev. C. B. Smart.
2. On the Obligation and Manner of Keeping Holy the Sabbath Day—Rev. John Wilkinson.
3. On the Importance and Design of Infant Baptism—Rev. C. W. Carter.
4. On Missions—Rev. A. W. Williams.
5. On the Utility of Camp Meetings—Rev. R. Parvin.
6. On Faith or Trust in God—Rev. H. L. Smith.
7. On Experimental Religion—Rev. J. M. Franklin.
8. On Christ a Present Savior—Rev. W. D. Stayton.

JOHN PIPES, P. E.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting at Providence church, five miles east of Sparta, Louisiana, commencing on Friday evening, September 13, 1872. The people are requested and invited to come in their wagons, provided to take care of themselves. The brethren and friends will please meet me at the place appointed, to select the place for their tents and prepare the ground, on the third day of September. Ministerial brethren are especially invited.

PHILIP ALLEN, P. C.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting on China Grove, Dale county, Alabama, commencing on Friday before the second Sunday in September. The itinerant and local ministers of the Methodist Episcopal Church South are respectfully invited.

A. S. DICKINSON, Pastor.

To the Preachers of the Camden District, Alabama Conference.

DEAR BRETHREN: Please inform me, at your earliest convenience, of the number and names of the delegates and local preachers for whom we may look at our ensuing District Conference, that we, having due notice thereof, may govern ourselves accordingly.

J. L. SKIPPER.

GEORGIANA, ALA., July 29, 1872.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting held at Mount Zion, on the Haynesville circuit, seven miles north of Homer, Louisiana, commencing on Thursday, August 22, and embracing the fourth Sabbath in August. It will be a joint meeting between Homer and Haynesville circuits. People and preachers are earnestly requested to attend. The preachers will be provided for in every way with accommodations. There will be a boarding tent on the ground for transient visitors; board at reasonable rates.

N. A. CRAVENS, P. C., Homer circuit.
JOHN A. MILLER, P. C., Haynesville circuit.

[The above notice would have been published before this, but for the neglect of the writer to state the time of holding the camp meeting.]

Camden District Conference.

The Camden District Conference will be held at Georgiana, on the Mobile and Montgomery railroad, fifteen miles below Greenville, Alabama, August 21-25. Rev. M. E. Butt will preach the opening sermon on Wednesday night, August 21. The chairmen of committees are as follows: Denominational Education, S. A. Pilley and William Stott; Sunday Schools, M. E. Butt and P. B. Saffold; Books and Periodicals, Nell Gillis and W. W. Drane; Missions, S. F. Pilley and W. G. Perry; Finance, T. M. Williams and F. C. Johnson; Parsonages, J. L. Skipper and Jere. S. Dudley; State of the Church, J. M. Scott and A. R. A. Purifoy; Temperance, D. J. Wright and J. M. Johnston. Let each of the above-named prepare a report for his committee. By resolution of the last District Conference, all preachers in charge are to have written reports, on separate slips of paper, for all the committees, on the first day of the session.

D. M. HUDSON, P. E.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting, commencing on the sixth day of September, half-way between Pleasant Hill and Mansfield, in DeSoto parish, Louisiana. The people are expected and requested to come with wagons and tents, provided to take care of themselves. It is a new camp ground, and we do not know of any public entertainment.

R. PARVIN.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Spring Hill ct., at Linwood (camp meeting)	Sept. 21, 22
Shubuta, at Shubuta	28, 29
DeKalb ct., at New Hope (camp meeting)	Oct. 5, 6
Wayne circuit, at Frost's Bridge (camp meeting)	12, 13
Paulding circuit	19, 20
Enterprise station	26, 27
Clarke circuit	Nov. 2, 3
Enterprise ct., at Pleasant Valley	9, 10
Marion circuit	16, 17
Meridian station	30, Dec. 1

The preachers' meeting will be held at Meridian, Mississippi, on Wednesday after the first Sunday in September. Question for discussion continued from last meeting, viz.: Will the future happiness of those who are saved be greater than if man had not fallen?

WM. B. HINES, P. E.

SEASHORE DISTRICT.—FOURTH ROUND.

Mount Carmel, at Mount Moriah	Aug. 17, 18
Williamsburg miss., at Dry creek	24, 25
Columbia, at Byrd's chapel	31, Sept. 1
Pearlington, at Jordan river	Sept. 7, 8
Ocean Springs, at Biloxi	14, 15
White Plains, at Poplar Head	21, 22
W. Pascagoula, at Mulberry Grove	28, 29
Green mission	Oct. 5, 6
East Pascagoula, at Salem camp ground	12, 13
Enon, at Enon	19, 20
Rankin	Nov. 30, Dec. 1

C. F. GILLASPIE, P. E.

VICKSBURG DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Rocky Springs, at Steele chapel	Aug. 3, 4
North Warren, Mildale and Sunflower, at Beechland	10, 11
Cayuga, at Bear Creek	17, 18
South Warren, at Red Bone	24, 25
Clover Hill, at Tallula	30, Sept. 1
Rolling Fork	Sept. 7, 8
Fayette, at Belle Grove	14, 15
Kingston	21, 22

JOHN A. B. JONES, P. E., Port Gibson, Miss.

SUMMIT DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Amite City	Aug. 3, 4
Covington	10, 11
Greensburg	17, 18
Big Creek	24, 25
Franklinton	Sept. 7, 8
St. Helena	14, 15

The Summit District Conference will commence at Tangipahoa, Louisiana, on Friday, September 27, and embrace the fifth Sunday.

J. NICHOLSON, P. E.

JACKSON DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Mount Olivet circuit and Yazoo mission, at New Hope	Aug. 3, 4
Raymond circuit	10, 11
Brownsville circuit	17, 18
Sulphur Springs circuit, at Madisonville	24, 25
Camden and Thomastown circuits	31, Sept. 1
Carthage circuit	Sept. 7, 8

H. H. MONTGOMERY, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Beauregard, at Beauregard	Aug. 3, 4
Georgetown, at Georgetown	10, 11
Jackson, at Forest Hill	17, 18
Bogue Chitto	24, 25
Brookhaven and Brookhaven mission	31, Sept. 1
Crystal Springs and Crystal Springs mission	Sept. 14, 15

The District Meeting will be held September 14-15, at nine o'clock A. M., at Crystal Springs. Bishop J. C. Keener will preside. A camp meeting is in prospect at the same time and place, on the plan recommended by the last District Conference.

W. E. M. LINFIELD, P. E. Post Office, Hazlehurst.

WOODVILLE DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Wilkinson, at Pisgah	Aug. 3, 4
Buffalo, at Friendship	10, 11
Meadville, at Meadville	24, 25
Amite, at Bond's camp ground	31, Sept. 1

J. L. FORSYTH, P. E.

BRANDON DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Decatur mission, at Hebron	Aug. 3, 4
Lake circuit, at Scotland chapel	10, 11
Morton circuit	24, 25
Trenton circuit	31, Sept. 1
Raleigh circuit	Sept. 7, 8
Taylorville mission	14, 15
Garlandsville circuit	21, 22

F. M. WILLIAMS, P. E.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

DEMOPOLIS DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Gainesville, at Ramsey	Aug. 3, 4
Cuba, at York	10, 11
Bladen, at Providence	17, 18
Butler, at Bright Water	24, 25
Gaston, at Thompkinsville	31, Sept. 1

S. H. COX, P. E.

MOBILE DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Mount Pleasant, at Red Hill	Aug. 3, 4
Grand Bay mission, at Ellington	10, 11
Pollard ct., at Shepherd's chapel	17, 18
Pensacola	24, 25
Milton	31, Sept. 1

H. URQUHART, P. E.

SELMA DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

East Selma station	Aug. 3, 4
Rembert Hills ct., at Camp ground	10, 11
Orrville circuit	17, 18
Dayton and Spring Hill, at Spring Hill	24, 25
Linden and Fistwoods mission, at Spring Hill	24, 25

A. J. BRIGGS, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Caddo circuit, at Friendship	Aug. 17, 18
Mansfield circuit, at Forest Grove	24, 25
Keachie circuit, at Bell Tower	31, Sept. 1
Pleasant Hill circuit, at Bethel	Sept. 7, 8
Springville circuit, at Coushatta Academy	21, 22
Manny circuit, at Bayou Lee	Oct. 5, 6
Anacoco circuit, at Kasatchie	12, 13
Shreveport	19, 20

The District Conference will be held at Keachie, commencing on Thursday, September 26, at ten A. M. The Bethel camp meeting will commence on the sixth of September, and the Beulah camp meeting will commence September 11.

JOHN PIPES, P. E.

LAKE PROVIDENCE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Waterproof, at Tensas chapel	Aug. 3, 4
Wesley and Jordan, at Jordan	10, 11
Lake Providence, at Illawarra	17, 18
Bastrop, at Island DeSaird	24, 25
Floyd and Delhi, at Midway	31, Sept. 1
Oak Grove, at Oak Grove	7, 8
Lind Grove, at Lind Grove	14, 15
Sicily Island, at Bœuff Prairie	22, 23
Winnsboro, at Oakley	28, 29
Rayville, at Little Creek	Oct. 6, 7

J. T. DAVES, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

New Iberia	Aug. 3, 4
Bayou Bœuff	10, 11
Plaquemine Brulee	24, 25
Coulee Croche	31, Sept. 1
Abbeville	Sept. 7, 8

I hope to spend at least five days at each quarterly meeting.

B. F. WHITE, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Quarterly Conference at Algiers	Aug. 4
Felicity street	11
German charges—Quarterly Conference at Dryades street	16
Plaquemine	Sept. 1
Moreau street	15
Baton Rouge	28, 29

LINUS PARKER, P. E.

MINDEN DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Sparta, at Sparta	Aug. 10, 11
Mount Lebanon, at Athens	17, 18
Homeneau, at Liberty chapel	31, Sept. 1

The District Meeting for Minden district will be held at Minden, commencing Wednesday, October 2, including the first Sabbath in the month. Preachers and official members of the church within the bounds of the district are specially invited. Visiting ministers will be heartily received.

N. M. SKIPWORTH, P. E.

DRY GOODS—CLOTHING.

D. H. HOLMES,

135.....CANAL STREET.....135

—AND—

15.....BOURBON STREET.....15

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER

—IN—

ALL DESCRIPTIONS

—OF—

DRY GOODS,

—SUCH AS—

SILKS, TISSUES, EMBROIDERIES, LACES, SHAWLS, CLOAKS, MADE SUITS, ETC.

The attention of the public is respectfully called to our stock, which will be found most complete, embracing every kind of Fancy and Staple Goods.

ap25 6m

W. H. PIERSON. E. L. HEWS.

PIERSON & HEWS,

DEALERS IN

Fine Clothing & Furnishing Goods,

NOS. 13 AND 15 CAMP STREET,

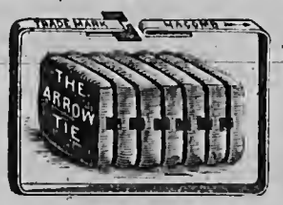
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

feb15 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

IMPORTANT TO PLANTERS.

IRON COTTON TIES.



THE ARROW TIE AND ALL OPEN-SLOT TIES.

The above-described Ties are the best and most popular Ties in use for Baling Cotton. They are manufactured of the best quality of English iron, by J. J. McCOMB, Liverpool, England, and are sold under full guarantee, at the lowest market price, by all dealers in Baling Stuffs in New Orleans, Mobile, Galveston, Savannah, Charleston, Wilmington, Petersburg, Baltimore, Memphis, Louisville, Nashville, New York, and by country merchants generally throughout the Cotton States.

BARTLETT & RAYNE, General Agents, 48 Carondelet street, cor. Union, my30 6m New Orleans.

SUGAR MILLS

FOR THE VERY BEST AND

Latest Improved Sugar Machinery,

consisting of CANE MILLS, Evaporators, Clarifiers, Grates, Doors, Skimmers, etc., also CIDER MILLS, and the celebrated COTTAGE FRUIT DRYERS, address, for Price List and Catalogue,

SOUTHERN MANUFACTURING CO., Je20 2m Nashville, Tenn.

NEW ORLEANS BRANCH

Southern Life Insurance Company

OF MEMPHIS, TENNESSEE.

Office—46 Carondelet St., New Orleans.

☞ Good and reliable Solicitors wanted.

my23 3m

AGENTS WANTED TO SELL PARTON'S LIFE OF

HORACE GREELEY,

The Patriot, Statesman and Philanthropist.

Every citizen who is interested in the remarkable career of our next President should read the truthful story of his life, as told by the greatest American Biographer. A work of rare interest, and full of instruction. For circulars and terms address

NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., jy25 2m Memphis, Tenn.

PIANO AT A BARGAIN.

A MAGNIFICENT SQUARE PIANO, Seven Octave, solid Rosewood frame, beautifully carved, front board Pearl inlaid, having been made to order by a first-class maker, will be sold at ONE-THIRD COST PRICE within next thirty days. Address

PIANO, care ADVOCATE Office, Jy18 1m 112 Camp street.

FOR SCHOOL BOOKS,

MAILED, FREE to any address on receipt of price, send to

ROBT. J. HARP, Agent, jy18 1m 112 Camp street.

SHERMAN HOUSE, NO. 1 WEST TWENTY-Sixth street, New York.—MR. E. ELKINS, Proprietor. Strangers visiting New York, desiring the comforts and retirement of a home and attendance of a hotel, in a first-class central location, can find the same at from $25 to $40 per week for a gentleman and wife; transient, $3 per day; American plan; lodgings, $1. Je27 3m

STEAMSHIPS.

New Liverpool Line of Steamers,

Built expressly for the New Orleans trade, to cross the Bar at all times without detention.

Liverpool and Mississippi Steamship Company.

First-class Powerful Screw Steamers.

ST. LOUIS, Capt. Roberts	1,823 tons.
MEMPHIS, Capt. Weeks	2,500 "
MISSISSIPPI, Capt. Lebouche	2,500 "
VICKSBURG, Capt. Pierson	2,500 "
BELGIAN, —— ——	2,150 "
TEXAS, —— ——	2,500 "
MISSOURI, (building)	2,500 "

Are intended to sail from Liverpool as follows:

Steamship ST. LOUIS, August 10, 1872.
Steamship BELGIAN, August 31, 1872.

FOR LIVERPOOL DIRECT—The steamship

ST. LOUIS,

Roberts, commander,

Sails SEPTEMBER —, 1872, at 8 A. M., from her wharf, foot of St. Mary street, Fourth District. Will receive and sign through bills of lading to Havre, Bremen, Hamburg, Antwerp, Rotterdam and all Continental ports.

Parties desirous of sending for their friends can purchase prepaid emigration tickets here. A reduction allowed when applied for in groups.

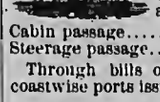
For freight or passage, having superior accommodations, apply to

MEEKER, KNOX & CO., 49 Carondelet street.

Managing owners—FLINN, MAIN & MONTGOMERY, 12 Launcelot Hay, Chapel street, Liverpool. my16 3m

FOR NEW YORK.

The Cromwell New York and New Orleans Steamship Line.

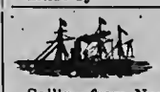


Steamers of this Line leave New Orleans for New York EVERY SATURDAY at 5 P. M.

Cabin passage	$50 00
Steerage passage	25 00

Through bills of lading to foreign and coastwise ports issued.

ALFRED MOULTON, mh21 1y 41 Carondelet street.



FOR NEW YORK.

MERCHANTS' STEAMSHIP LINE.

Sailing from New York and New Orleans EVERY SATURDAY.

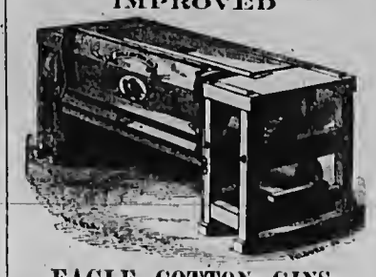
Cabin passage	$50 00
Steerage passage	25 00

Through tickets to Liverpool and the Continent.

New Orleans wharf, foot of Jefferson street.
New York wharf, Pier No 4, North river.
JOHN H. LUDWIGSEN, Agent, feb8 1y No. 190 Common street.

MISCELLANEOUS.

IMPROVED



EAGLE COTTON GINS.

THE GREAT POPULARITY of the EAGLE COTTON GINS is established from the well-known fact that they are the most reliable, strongest and best built Cotton Gins ever made. The Eagle Cotton Gin runs lighter than any other gin, thus having a great advantage for planters who wish to run by horse power. All the numerous planters who use the Eagle Cotton Gin will certify to the fact that when their cotton is sent to market it always brings the highest market price, as no other gin can produce a finer or a better sample of cotton than the Eagle Cotton Gins. Over seventeen thousand of the Eagle Cotton Gins have been made and sold. During a period of twenty years the undersigned has had the agency of the Eagle Cotton Gin in New Orleans. He has never had a gin returned or rejected out of the immense number sold. The saw cylinders of all the Eagle Cotton Gins are twelve inches in diameter, which is two inches larger than most other kinds of gins, thus giving our forty-saw gin more teeth, and they are more than equal to the fifty-saw gins of other makers, who use only a ten-inch cylinder, and the same great advantage of the twelve inch cylinder in larger sized gins can be easily estimated. Planters who wish a reliable cotton gin, with an established reputation, can purchase an Eagle Cotton Gin with a certainty that they are not making an untried experiment, but will obtain a cotton gin which is indorsed by the oldest and largest planters in the country as the best in use. A large stock of the Eagle Cotton Gins are always kept on sale in New Orleans, ready for immediate shipment. Planters should be particular to state if they want right or left-hand motion gins.

PRICES.

40-Saw Gin	$200	65-Saw Gin	$325
45-Saw Gin	225	70-Saw Gin	350
50-Saw Gin	250	75-Saw Gin	375
55-Saw Gin	275	80-Saw Gin	400
60-Saw Gin	300

All orders should be addressed to

W. L. CUSHING, No. 61 St. Charles street, Sole Agent for the Southern States. Agents wanted. jy4 3m

JOHN GIBSON,

ENGRAVER AND

Steam Power Lithographic Printer,

82 BEEKMAN ST., NEW YORK.

Checks, Notes, Drafts, Receipts, Bonds, Certificates of Stock and Deposit, Bill, Letter and Note Headings, Business Cards, Envelopes, Druggists' Fancy and Perfumery Labels, etc. Druggists wishing Labels, send for Catalogue. je27 1y

HOMEO

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. XVIII. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, AUGUST 22, 1872. NO. 34.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

New York, Ang. 14.—Thermometer 100 to 102 in the shade, the highest point this season.

San Francisco, Ang. 14.—The steamship Japan, from China and Japan, arrived to-day. She brings the following news:

Yokohama, July 22, noon.—The Mikado continnes his visits to sevsral shrines at Kioto, his former rssidsnce, Osaka and Hiago, and is now on his way to Nagasaki. He dressss in foreign style, with an ample snpply of gold hraid, and has several attendants who are similarly attired.

The natives look on in amazement at the changes inangurated through the late civil war. The country is quiet, and all sesm to acquiesce in the present state of affairs.

New York, Aug. 18.—The bark Pelayo, from Havana, and brig Baleara, from Central America, with yellow fever on board, arrived here last night. There are now twenty-eight yellow fever patients at Quarantine Hospital.

The Spanish ram Numancio is now at anchor at Southwest Spit, twenty-one miles from the city. Several additional infected vessels are expected to arrive daily. The health authorities are taking all proper precantions.

The news hy the Rising Star from Callao gives particnlars of the recent hloody revolntion in Pern, headed by Gntierrez, minister of war, who, supported by the army, on July 22 imprisoned President Balta and exacted forced loans, bnt a few days afterward was deserted by the troops, after Callao had been the scene of anarchy and street fighting. A hrother of Gutierrez being killed, another brother, to avenge his death, shot and killed President Balta in prison. Afterward Pardo, presidsnt elect, waa placed in power, and the populace hung the three brothers Gutierrez in the plaza at Lima and burned their bodies.

Advicea from Panama report that an attempt at revolntion by Jesuits and Indians in Gnatemala had been suppressed.

An epidemic similar to yellow fever is raging in Carthagsna, over five thonsand people being attacked, but there were only two hnndred deaths dnring June.

Fifteen hnndred deathe occnrred in Valparaiso, more than half from smallpox, which is raging throughout Chili and Peru.

Baltimore, Ang. 19.—It is now ascertained that the Third National Bank loses by last night's robbery about $75,000 in money and $25,000 in negotiable government bonds and other securities. Special depositors, it is supposed, will lose hetween $400,000 and $500,000 in bonds and money, the former largely negotiable.

Edmund T. Bainbridge, formerly of New Orleans, snbsequently of Louisville, and now of Baltimore, alone loses $75,000 negotiable Louisville (Kentneky) Water Works bonds, $1,000 each, from No. 9 to No. 84, speeial deposit.

Many Baltimoreans lose large amounts, bnt heing absnt, particulars cannot be ascertained.

The bank hae a capital of $600,000, and continues to pay promptly. Other hanks to-day loaned it $250,000.

No clne yet obtained to the robhers. A reward of $10,000 has been offered for their arrest.

There were twenty-three deaths from amallpox last week.

Baltimore, Aug. 20.—Rev. Dr. Thomas E. Bond, a distinguished and eloqnent divine of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, for a long time connected with the Baltimore Episcopal Methodist, published here, and recently an editorial writer for the St. Louis Christian Advocate, died yesterday, at his residence in Harford county, Maryland, aged fifty-nine years.

FOREIGN.

Berlin, Ang. 14.—By order of the German authorities the establishments of the Jesuits at Issenhsim, Alsace, have heen closed.

M. Beck, general of the order of the Jesuits, has convoked an assembly of Jesuits at Rome to consider the project of changing form in Prussia, and making as many as possible enter into the orders still suffered there.

London, Aug. 15.—The Daily News has a special diapatch from Florence, stating that it ia rumored there that Cardinal Antonelli has quarreled with the Pope, and threatens to resign, should the latter persevere in his policy of hostility to the Italian government; and also that Antonelli has requested clerical jonrnals to refrain from publishing the speeches of the holy father.

Brighton, Eng., Ang. 16.—At the sitting of the British Association to-day Stanley gave an account of Dr. Livingstone's travels and discoveries in Africa for the past six years. Colonel Jamss A. Grant, who explored the sonrcea of the Nile, with the late Captain Speke, from 1863 to 1865, called in question the correctness of Livingstone'a observations and conclnsions. Stanley replied, and defended the doctor, and was loudly cheered. Sir Henry Rowlinson followed and cordially acknowledged Stanley's services. At the meeting to-day Stanley was introduced to Napoleon and Engenie and the Prince Imperial.

Paris, Ang. 16.—A correspondent of the Standard says: The German government has intimated to M. Thiers its intention to retain possesion of Belfort, though it is willing to make a compensatory concession to France.

Geneva, Ang. 17.—The supplementary arguments of the American counsel before the Board of Arbitration have been published in pamphlet form. The arguments of Mr. Evarts cover one hundred pages; those of Messrs. Cushing and Waite are less extended.

Lonnon, August 18.—Dispatches from Belfast to noon to-day state that the disturbances there continued through Satnrday night and on Sunday, and are not yet ended. The popnlace are divided into hostile Catholic and Protestant moha. Whenever thsy come in collision there is a fight. The police arc using every effort to stop the rioting. They had been obliged to fire on the riotsrs on both sides, and many of the latter were wounded. Troopa with fixed bayonets now occnpy the principal streets and keep the mobs apart. Dragoons of the Fortisth Regiment have arrived at Belfast from Dublin. The constahulary were pouring into the city from all parts. No persons are rsported killed as yet, bnt it is impossible to obtain definite particulars.

Lonnon, Aug. 19, noon.—Dispatches just received give later news from Belfast. Rioting still continues. Four persons were killed in the atreets this morning. Much complaint is made by peaceable citizens of the anthoritiea for want of vigor in anppressing the riot.

Ruffians, with pistols in their hands, stalk throngh the city, whole sections of which are given up to the rioters. The populace are divided into two hostile mohs, Catholic and Protestant. Whenever they come in contact there is a fight.

The troops with fixed bayonets, and the police, in endeavoring to stop the disturhances, have been obliged to fire into the rioters on hoth sides, wounding a number.

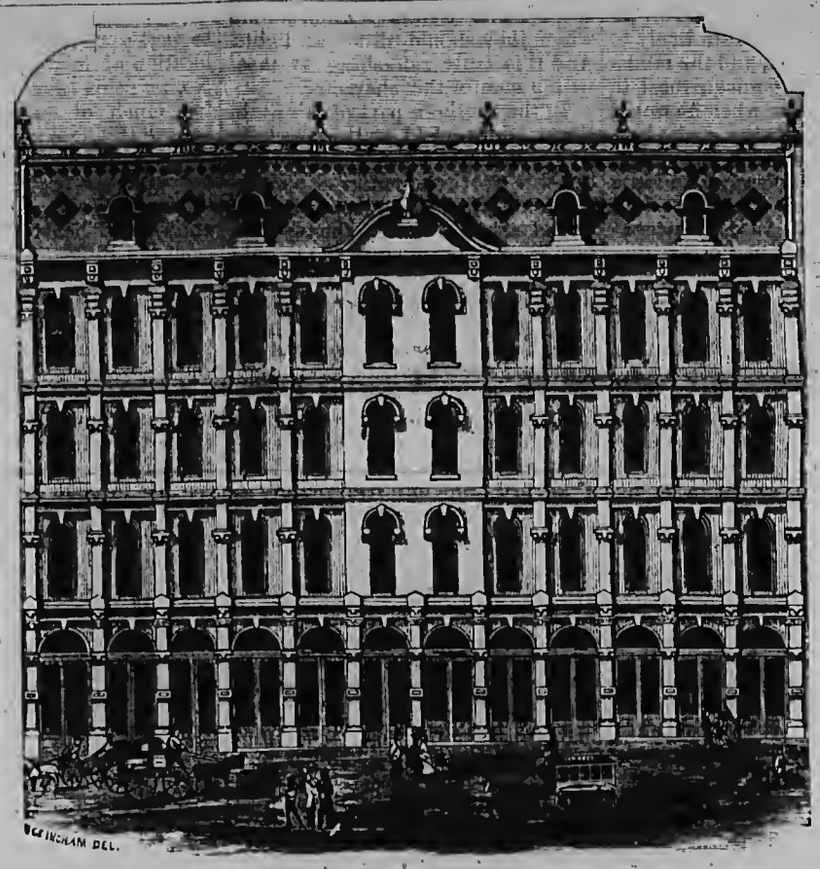
Lonnon, August 20.—Rioting in Belfast continned without abatement yesterday, despite the warning proclamation of the mayor and magistrates. The fighting was kept np by parties of rioters in varions quartera with stones, blndgeons and firearms. The magistrates began yesterday to swear in special conatables to assist in snppressing the disturbance.

A proclamation was issned by the mayor authorizing troops holding atreets to fire upon all riotous assemblages offering resistance. All atorca were closed and business was entirely snspended. Additional troops were sent for and are expected to reach Belfast to-day.

Destructive Fire at Opelousas.—On the fifteenth instant a fire at Opelonsas destroyed the brick "fireproof" store of Mesars. Block & Dupre. It was the largest and finest building in the town of Opelonsas; was hnilt in 1842, by Mr. Pandely, of New Orleans, at a cost of $18,000. Block & Dupre bonght the building three years ago from Mr. Frank Perret, of New Orleans. The store was full of goods, the larger and most valnable portion being stored up stairs and inaccessible to those who tried to save them.

Love is a nniversal master; whether clothed in magnificence or poverty, it is a species of Omnipotence. If a man have love in his hsart he may talk in broken langnage, but it will be eloquence to those who listen. It is a want of snrcharge of divine grace in the heart that makes men lean, barren and fruitless.

Two curious suicides have taken place in Paris, hoth occasioned by the remorse of the victims at having scolded their wives.



THE NEW SOUTHERN METHODIST PUBLISHING HOUSE, NASHVILLE, TENN.

FROM THE WORK.

South Bossier, Louisiana Conference.

Mr. Editor: On last Saturday, the twenty-seventh of July, the third quarterly meeting for this circuit was held at Cotton Valley church.

On Sunday many penitents came to the altar, and it was truly a refreshing season. In the morning an experience meeting and love feast were held with great solemnity and feeling, and many of the old members renewed their vows to Almighty God. The meeting was protracted for five days. The altar, to the last call for penitents, was crowded. Ten joined the church—seven by application and three by letter. Bros. N. M. Skipworth, R. Randle and John A. Miller were present and preached in the power of the gospel of the Son of God.

James Ford.

August 3, 1872.

Mississippi Conference.

Mr. Editor: The following preamble and resolutions were adopted by the Jackson District Conference, June 27–29, 1872:

Whereas, The operations of the Colored Conference and labors of their Bishops, as organized and set apart for usefulness by the Methodist Episcopal Church South, through her legally authorized episcopacy, do not as yet answer the demands growing out of the great and urgent necessities of this class of people in this district; therefore,

Resolved, That this District Conference will do all in its power, by individual exertion, to encourage these people to come into the light of gospel truth.

Resolved, That the presiding elder is hereby urgently requested to direct his co-laborers to set apart some portion of their time to be given to the colored people within the bounds of their respective charges.

Resolved, That the times and places for preaching to the colored people be left with the pastors and stewards of their respective charges.

John T. Cameron, Sec.

Bladen Springs, Alabama.

Mr. Editor: The dove of Christian triumph has at last found rest here for the sole of her foot. The slain Lamb hangs npon the cross in Bladon, and the joy of his resnrrection peals out in musical tones, according in harmony with the touching murmuring of these grand old pines. "Who dedicated our new church, built through the incomparable energy of a faithful shepherd, aided hy a noble, appreciative people? Who presented this beautiful gift to God for only hallowed purposes?" Your own home Bishop, J. C. Keener. And can we ever forget his presentation of all the glowing minntiæ that make np the life and suffering and dying of Christ? Did we not see him as he lived and loved us; as he agonized and died for ns; as he was borne from the cross by two counsslors, two angels and two women; as he walked among the dewy flowers on the resurrection morn; as he ascended to the Father without wings; as the pearly gates flew ajar; aa all the holy host made heaven ring with their ahouts of welcome? We blessed God and took courage in this hitherto neglected vineyard, in a fallen world'a heritage; and, notwithstanding the alluring pleasures of dissipatiou, in its varions forms of fascination, are still a part and parcel of our summer resort, we desired that our friends abroad should know that we have built an altar to the God of Elijah, npon whose aanctity neither Baal nor his prophets dare lay unholy hands. Only those who have been debarred these hallowed things can appreciate our rejoicing that we have now a consecrated place whsreiu to worship God, to marry our children, to baptize our babes, and to say kind words above the atill forms of onr preciona dead.

Julia Westwood.

East Pascagoula Circuit, Mississippi Conference.

Mr. Editor: We have just closed a very interesting meeting at Moss Point—said by many of the oldest citizens to have been productive of greater resulta than any they ever attended in this section of country. A new and blessed day has dawned upon us, and showers of grace have been the rcault. Thirty-four have attached themselvea to the church, most of whom were happily converted. Others were converted who will join the Baptist Church. The church haa been greatly blessed, and we now look for better times in our social meetings.

For two weeks, through heat almost intolerable, the church was crowded with respectful hearers, absorbed with one theme only—the progress of the meeting and the conversion of sinners. We were favored with the presence and labors of several distinguished preachers of the Alabama and Mississippi Conferences. Bishop Keener, full of zeal, both in the pulpit and altar, remained with us four days.

U. B. Philips.

August 16, 1872.

Greensboro District Conference, Alabama Conference.

Mr. Editor: Bishop Pierce was there all the time. He preached four times and delivered one Sabbath school address. He has great powers, hnt these are so sanctified that the Holy Ghost operates through them, and you are nnconsciona that the "diamond is shining through a golden setting." He tonched hearts—moved masses toward the mercy seat.

We have two schools geographically in the bounds of this district, and the property of the Alabama Conference, viz.: the Southern University, at Greenshoro, and the Female College, at Summerfield. Dr Andrews haa charge of the Southern University, which I look upon as "Hawthorne's man with the great stone face." It is the "mold" through which the mind of the yonng men of the church for many miles round is to be run—the great stone-face University that is to give intellectual prosperity and moral culture to all this part of our great connection. Its last session was one of its most prosperous since the war, and, with the patronage that has hitherto gone to Auhurn throwu into its halls, we may expect not less than one hundred and fifty boys next session. It is as well prepared with men and means to educate as any college in the South. Dr. Andrews stands at its helm. He is its gifted and noble president; and as great men abound and good teachers are scarce, I think it due the doctor, and the University requirss that something should be said of its chief officer. His broad forehead, solid face and manly person show that nature exerted itself when it turned out Dr. Andrews; and, as the poet saith:

"It could no further go."

He is one of the few who unites the highest acquirements with the most splendid gifts. As a teacher he is a man, every inch a man; and I hear it already said: "I intend to send my son to Dr. Andrews."

Dr. Andrews is going to give character, add fame, and spread abroad the name of this school. Energy is hnt a feeble word to expreas his character—energy guided by high culture and sound judgment; and if you have a boy to educate you need not he surprised if Dr. Andrews calls for him before the opening of the fall session.

Wm. A. Edwards.

Autaugaville, Ala., Aug. 1, 1872.

Plantersville Ct., Alabama Conference.

Mr. Editor: I will quote from my District Conference report, which was made and received a few days since: The standard of spirituality; if measured by the Bible, is much too low. Family altars are too few; not enough prayer to God, and consequently not enough faith in God, or vice versa, for the one promotes the other. It follows that the social meetings of the church, in which private members are expected to officiate, are very few. The attendance on preaching is very good, hnt the word preached does not seem to profit, not being mixed with faith in a large majority of those who hear it. Our Sunday school material is largely absorbed in union schools. We have but three schools. They are conducted on the uniform lesson paper system, and are doing well. The tendency to unionism and the want of a little liberality are the greatest drawhacks to the Sunday school cause on this work. The cause of education at large does not excite as much interest in the minds of the people as is due it. But we rejoice and are profonndly thankful that we have a Stonewall Institute located in our midst, which is destined to do for us a great work in the promotion of the cause of education in our country. This excellent school is presided over by the worthy and highly esteemed D. C. B. Connerly. This is eminently the school. A better one is not to be found in all these lands for the thorough training of boys in heart and head, for college or for business. The seventh annual commencement was witnessed by thousands—for there were full two thousand present—many of whom were literary and professional men, who were unanimous in their testimony that the occasion was one of the grandest exhibitions of thorough training which it had ever been their pleasure to witness. Our circuit is in its infancy. We have seven churches and two wayside preaching places, all of which are kept in decent order.

Plantersville circuit is beautiful for situation, and ought to be the joy of the whole country round about. It is situated along the line of the Selma, Rome and Dalton railroad, and spreads over a large portion of the beautiful and fertile valley of the Mulberry, and reaches far out into the hills on the east side of said valley—thus embracing all the natural wealth essential to a first-class circuit.

Hope had recently cheered our hearts in the prospect of a hountiful crop. Bnt the flood has come, the hubble has hnrsted, and again onr harps are on the willows. We can only say: "My sonl, hope thou in God;" and we trust that he will, in answer to the prayers of the few good men and women scattered over this conntry—and there are such—yet establish his church here.

B. F. Blow.

Plantersville, Ala., Aug. 14, 1872.

BOOKS AND PERIODICALS.

Human Anatomy, Physiology and Hygiene. A text hook for schools, academies, colleges and families. By Joseph C. Martindale, M. D. Philadelphia: Eldridge & Bro., 1872.

The work is well adapted as a text book for youth, and the author has exhibited learning and jugdment in its preparation. The engravings are numerous, and helpful to the reader and student. A valuable book for schools.

A Compendium of the History of the United States, from the Earliest Settlements to 1872. Designed to answer the purpose of a text book in schools and colleges, as well as to meet the wants of general readers. By Alexander H. Stephens. New York: E. J. Hale & Son, publishers. Columbia, South Carolina: W. J. Duffis, 1872.

The celebrity of the author, as statesman, politician and scholar, and especially as a representative Southern man who filled the office of Vice President under the Confederate government, will secure for this work an extensive circulation. The later periods, embracing the late war, and the administrations of Lincoln, Johnson and Grant, are presented from the standpoint of a Southern statesman, and are treated with truth and impartiality. The entire work displays much ability, and is the best compendium now available for the use of our schools. It is a handsome volume of 513 pages, substantially bound, and of unexceptionable typography.

Among the August magazines not heretofore noticed are Morton's Monthly Home and School, a journal of popular education; the University Monthly; the Medical Examiner, of Chicago; the American Farmers' Advocate, published at Jackson, Tennessee; the Association Monthly, published at New York, and the organ of the Young Men's Christian Association; the Science of Health, published at New York; and the American Agriculturist, a splendid number of this always popular and incomparable periodical.

From the Methodist Publishing House at Nashville we have received the General Minutes for the year 1871. Every preacher should order a copy at once, as it is a most useful work for reference, and embodies the current statistica and history of the church.

The M. E. Churches, North and South, is a neat duodecimo of 90 pages, just issued by the Southwestern Book and Publishing Company, St. Louis. It is the article, under this title, which appeared in the April number of the Southern Review. The article was one of such striking merit that its separate publication in this form was loudly called for. We most earnestly commend it to the careful study of our people, and to all who desire the latest and ablest exposition of a subject which is likely for some time to come to occupy the attention of the churches.

The Pilgrim's Harp is a collection of sacred music, prepared by Asa Hull, and published by Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston, and C. H. Ditson & Co., New York. It is a 12mo of 224 pages, and contains nearly all of the best hymns and music in a convenient form for social worship, for the family and the congregation. There are a good many of the latest and most popular tunes and choruses in the volume, as well as those old songs and airs which have become hallowed by time and universal use. A valuable and useful work, we think.

Demorest's Illustrated Monthly for September is a fine number. It is a publication of value chiefly to the ladies, as it contains fashion plates, cut patterns and engravings which they will find exceedingly useful.

We have received a catalogue of the University of Virginia for 1871 72. There are three hundred and sixty-five students on the roll.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 22, 1872.

THE BIBLE REVISERS.

A Bishop, a Dean and a Canon, they say,
Were discussing a difficult passage one day.
Said the Canon: "I rather Agree with a Father,
And fancy I see
A profound mystery.
Which condemns, when unfolded with stringent severity,
All modern impugners of catholic verity."

Said the Dean: "It is clear
There's a knotty point here;
And I really can't say
That I quite see my way;
And so (since the Canon is wrong, I am sure)
'Tis best, as we find it, to leave it—obscure."

Says the Bishop: "To me
The solutions seem three,
Which I'll call (a,) (b,) (c.)
In favor of (a)
There is much to say;
Something for (b,)
A little for (c.)
Against (a) I find
Reasons strong to my mind,
While by stronger ones yet
(b) and (c) are both met;
So, when all the three I impartially weigh,
I'm disposed to give in my adhesion to (a.")

'Twas thus that the Canon
Patristical ran on;
'Twas thus that the Dean
Halted, doubting between;
'Twas thus that the Bishop
The meaning did fish up;
'Twas thus that Dean, Canon and Bishop, they say,
Discussed that most difficult passage one day.

Madras Times.

For the Advocate.

The Northern General Conference upon Intoxicating Liquors, Games of Chance and Worldly Amusements.

MR. EDITOR: I have no doubt you watched with interest the proceedings of the late General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and noted the various measures which were considered and adopted. That body represented a most popular and powerful denomination—a denomination to which we are closely connected in doctrine, government and history, and to the deliverances of which we must ever pay regard. Its discussions, for the most part, were conducted with dignity and ability, and its decisions seem to have been well considered, and in the main judicious. While its action was in the main conservative, yet it adopted some measures which were truly progressive in their character, and at the same time, in my judgment, admirably proper.

The use of intoxicating liquors and indulgence in worldly games and amusements constitute evils which beset and obstruct the church of God. These evils get such fast hold of men, and so fasciuate and degrade them, that they become deaf to the sounds of the gospel, and live and die unaffected by its precious truths. The church is thus greatly hindered in its work, and its extension materially prevented. Even after men have entered the sacred precincts of the church, and taken upon themselves its solemn vows, these evils cleave to them, prevent their growth in grace, destroy their Christian usefulness, and oftentimes induce their apostasy and destruction. These evils, indeed, are gigantic in their proportions, everywhere present, and lamentable in their effects upon the world and the church.

These are strong terms, I know, but they are justified by all the experience of the present and all the history of the past. No man with any power of discernment can take position in any city, village or country community, and observe for a year or two the course of things around him without being vividly impressed with the calamities resulting to Church and State from these sources. Having reached the meridian of life, having been a member of the church for more than thirty years, having lived in several States, and having never been, I trust, indifferent to the interests of my fellow-men or unobservant of passing events, it seems to me that always and everywhere these evils have been pre-eminent in their wasting effects upon the fortunes of individuals and the progress of Christianity.

The voice of the church has to some extent been raised against these evils, and efforts have been made to limit them; but the voice has often been too feeble, and the effort too unsteady and unsustained. While it has been admitted that these practices are contrary to the genius and spirit of Christianity, and to the fundamental principles of the church, there has been wanting in all denominations, I believe, a specific statute, clear, distinct and unmistakable, patent to all and reaching all, announcing the law and the penalty attached to its violation. In our own denomination the General Rules forbid "drunkenness, or drinking spirituous liquors unless in case of necessity," and "the taking such diversions as cannot be used in the name of the Lord Jesus." It will be seen that nothing is said in regard to the buying and selling of alcoholic liquors, and each individual is left to himself in determining "the case of necessity" which will justify "drinking." Moreover, the forbidding of "such diversions as cannot be used in the name of the Lord Jesus," though answering as a general rule, is not sufficiently direct and specific when certain diversions become the fashion and to a certain extent the bane of society. Formerly the question was asked in our Discipline: "How shall we guard against bribery, dancing, attending circuses and theaters, Sabbath-breaking, and the other evils forbidden in the General Rules?" and, with all due respect to the authorities over me, I must say that I do not think anything has been gained by striking it out and making no substitute for it. In the question and answers thereto the opinion of the church was definitely set forth in regard to certain baleful and insidious practices which are likely to ensnare its members, and the minister had something unequivocal to which he could refer when he would attempt to discipline those who had, in his judgment, acted in derogation of the Christian profession, and in a manner calculated to bring deep discredit thereon. As the matter at present stands, and in the existing state of the law, I presume there are many who do not regard it as in violation of the rules of the church to use or traffic in intoxicating liquors, to play at games of chance, or to indulge in popular amusements. They may have some vague idea that such things are not exactly consistent with the highest style of Christianity; yet as there is no specific statute bearing thereon, they feel at liberty to do them, and at the same time hold themselves members of the church in good standing.

I do not pretend to say that there should be a specific enactment against every evil, because that would make the code too voluminous and burdensome. The common and the better plan is to establish a limited number of general principles, definite and sufficiently comprehensive to embrace, upon a fair construction, the various offenses which it is wished to prohibit. Nevertheless, it is usual and becoming, both in Church and State, under some circumstances, to depart from this plan of legislation. When any evil is or becomes paramount and peculiarly injurious, it is often directly named and prohibited, and the whole power of the government is brought to effect its suppression. If I remember aright, in a recent age and in one or more countries, the mania for committing murder by secret poisoning became so prevalent that it was necessary to condemn it by specific statute, and to use extraordinary efforts to secure its extinction. In our Book of Discipline this principle is acted upon in the provision made against those members of the church who "endeavor to sow dissension in any of our societies, by inveighing against either our doctrine or discipline." Certainly this offense could be regarded as included under the head of "imprudent conduct," or under that of "disobedience to the order and discipline of the church;" yet, because it strikes at the very foundation of the church, and is full of confusion and heresy, it is prohibited by name and the mode of its punishment is indicated.

Further, if there are customs which are permitted by the laws of the country, which are common among people of the world, or are especially patronized in what is termed fashionable life—customs which are peculiarly fascinating and deceptive in their nature, irreligious in their tendency, or destructive in their effects, with which the members of the church are daily liable to come in contact and by which to be tempted—it seems to be the clearest dictate of reason that the church should embody its view of such customs in a special enactment for the guidance of its members and the instruction of the world, and should give such statute a prominent and permanent place in its code. This course upon the part of the church becomes still more obligatory if some of these customs are peculiarly favored by the wealthy and refined portion of worldly society, extensively prevail at gatherings where the young of the two sexes meet, and are supported by arguments which are specious in their character, and calculated to touch and influence the bright and ardent. In another article I will resume the subject.

S.

MANSFIELD, LA., July 27, 1872.

For the Advocate.

"HONESTY."

MR. EDITOR: Your correspondent, "Honesty," in your issue of July 4, touches upon a subject of vital importance to the best interests of our country and of our church. It is shocking indeed to see how demoralized our people have become on the subject of paying their debts. The moral condition of our country in every particular is deplorable, but in no point are we further gone from original righteousness than in this. Every possible pretext by which to evade the payment of just debts is resorted to even by members of the church.

I know a man who was once an acceptable member of a Christian church, a lawyer by profession, and a man of high tone, who said recently that any man was a fool who would pay a debt he could get out of paying. True, whisky is the instrument that has brought him so low, and probably when entirely free from its influence he would hardly utter such sentiments, yet all who know him know that he acts upon that principle in his dealings with his fellow-men. Perhaps the immense quantity of whisky that is consumed by our people may account for the alarming state of morals that prevails in our country.

It is highly important for those who fear the Lord to be harmless and blameless, the sons of God, without rebuke, in the midst of this crooked and perverse nation, among whom they should shine as lights. And it is truly refreshing to meet with a man of this character.

In the southern part of this State there resides an old gentleman whose record is in the Lamb's book of life, but it is worthy of notice as a striking contrast with the instance mentioned above. Before the war he borrowed the sum of $3,000 in gold from some orphan girls, which was their portion of their father's estate, then just closed up. After the war, though impoverished, he went to work and recently paid them every cent, principal and interest, in gold, the proceeds of several years' hard toil. Now, with a clear conscience, he is far happier than he would be if he had gone into bankruptcy, as many would have done, and thus defranded the orphan girls of their rights.

Your correspondent said something about heathen honesty. Well, I do not know much about the heathen, or how much honesty they have, but I think the above instance might be called Christian honesty. The old gentleman is an honored member of the Baptist Church, and I heartily wish we had our country full of such Christian gentlemen as he.

W. B. LEWIS.

FAYETTE, Mississippi.

For the Advocate.

QUARTERLY MEETINGS.

MR. EDITOR: We have recently been asked: Why is it that our Quarterly Conferences now are not such occasions as they once were? We remember when quarterly meetings were a vital power, a time of real interest to the church; but it is not so now. There may be other reasons, but doubtless the main one is that the love-feast no longer has a place in the quarterly meeting. It used to be that the presiding elder invariably held the love-feast on Sabbath morning before preaching, and usually all the membership had a spiritual, happy time, and were peculiarly fitted for the sermon and communion. All were benefited; all were blessed. To the church it was a real religious occasion. But in these latter days, the Sunday school having become a huge wheel in the machinery of the church, and by common consent having fixed on Sabbath morning as the best time to hold its meetings, without any design on the part of any one, the interests of the love-feast and that of the Sabbath school have been made to conflict. The pastor or the presiding elder, or whoever had the power, yielded it to the Sunday school. Consequently the love-feast has no place in the quarterly meeting, and it has lost that part of its vitality. You may hold love-feast on Monday night; but that is outside of the quarterly meeting, and its influence is lost to it. You may hold it on Sabbath evening; but that is an unpropitious time, and the people will not go.

Now our judgment is, after some thought and experience, that we had better come back at once to the old usage, and hold our love-feasts on Sabbath morning at all our quarterly meetings. This, so far from injuring the interests of the Sabbath school, would, we believe, be a real benefit to its efficiency. The prime object of it is to bring souls to Christ, and we hear it often lamented that so few of our Sunday school children are becoming religious; but the love-feast contributes to the spirituality of the church, and whatever adds to the piety of the church must add to the efficiency of the Sabbath school. The Sunday school would lose but little, even in point of time, by giving way to the quarterly meeting. In our stations, admitting that it could meet at no other time, it would lose but four Sabbaths out of fifty-two, and on circuits not half so much. Even that, under the system of the uniform lessons, by a little management upon the part of the superintendent, might easily be made up. Let the lessons be prepared, and on the following Sabbath let the teachers abridge their questions so as to hear both lessons recited. This will give to the children of the church, as well as others, the privilege of hearing Christian experiences, by which we are always made better. We shall insist on having our love-feasts at our quarterly meetings, as in other days, on Sabbath morning before preaching. We believe that it will advance the spiritual interests of the church, and that the Sabbath school may be benefited.

J. P.

MANSFIELD, August, 1872.

An uncomfortable death is not always a prelude to eternal woe; God sometimes undresses his children in the dark.

For the Advocate.

HEAVEN'S LOCATION.

MR. EDITOR: In the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE of June 20, 1872, we find an article written by J. W. H. In this article he asks this question: "May we not conclude that the glorious luminary, the center of our system of worlds, the bulk of which is estimated to be thirteen hundred thousand times larger than the earth, and so brilliant in luster that the human eye is not permitted to gaze upon his refulgence, is the location of heaven?" We answer: No, no; this cannot be so. We are too much of an old Bible fogy to believe this. We are pleased with the eloquent style of the writer, but not with his doctrine, namely, that the material sun is heaven. All we know about heaven is what we learn from the Bible. It teaches us that there is a heaven above, but it does not locate that heaven at any particular point in infinite space. St. Paul was caught up to the third heaven, but he does not tell us where it was. If it had been the material sun, the inspired apostle could have pointed his finger toward the sun, and said, "I was caught up to that visible sun your eyes now see, and heard things not lawful to utter," and not left the false impression on our minds that heaven is invisible. This idea of the third heaven (I mean the heaven of heavens) is taught by all the inspired writers, from the commencement of the Book of Genesis to the close of the Book of Revelation. The inspired writers speak of the sun, moon and stars as being located in the second heaven, and not in the third. The second heaven, where these planets are located, is visible; but the third heaven, where St. Paul was—where he heard those things unlawful for him to utter, where God's throne is, and where Jesus and all the saints and angels are—is invisible to mortal eye. And therefore we conclude that the visible sun is not the third heaven, nor any part of the third heaven, for there is no light of the sun there, for the Lord God of hosts himself is the light of the third heaven. Hear St. John's description of it in his Book of Revelation, twenty-first chapter. He tells us he was in the Spirit on the Lord's day. "And there came unto me one of the seven angels, which had seven vials full of the seven last plagues, and talked with me, saying, Come hither; I will show thee the bride, the Lamb's wife. And he carried me away in the spirit to a great and high mountain, and showed me that great city, the holy Jerusalem, descending out of heaven from God, having the glory of God; and his light was like unto a stone most precious, even like a jasper-stone, clear as crystal; and had a wall great and high, and had twelve gates, and at the gates twelve angels, and names written thereon, which are the names of the twelve tribes of the children of Israel. On the east, three gates; on the north, three gates; on the south, three gates; on the west, three gates. And the wall of the city had twelve foundations, and in them the names of the twelve apostles of the Lamb. And he that talked with me had a golden reed to measure the city, and the gates thereof, and the wall thereof. And the city lieth four-square, and the length is as large as the breadth; and he measured the city with the reed, twelve thousand furlongs. The length, and the breadth, and the height of it are equal. And he measured the wall thereof, an hundred and forty and four cubits, according to the measure of a man—that is, of the angel. And the building of the wall of it was of jasper; and the city was pure gold, like unto clear glass. And the foundations of the wall of the city were garnished with all manner of precious stones. The first foundation was jasper; the second, sapphire; the third, a chalcedony; the fourth, an emerald; the fifth, sardonyx; the sixth, sardius; the seventh, chrysolite; the eighth, beryl; the ninth, a topaz; the tenth, a chrysoprasus; the eleventh, a jacinth; the twelfth, an amethyst. And the twelve gates were twelve pearls; every several gate was of one pearl; and the street of the city was pure gold, as it were transparent glass. And I saw no temple therein; for the Lord God Almighty and the Lamb are the temple of it. And the city had no need of the sun, neither of the moon, to shine in it; for the glory of God did lighten it, and the Lamb is the light thereof. And the nations of them which are saved shall walk in the light of it." Is this a description of the material sun? If not, the material sun is not the third heaven, nor any part of it; for St. John here describes the third heaven, where God and the Lamb are, and saints and angels dwell. The doctrine we here oppose we consider a very dangerous doctrine, and therefore we enter our protest against it.

JAMES SHANKS.

God doth plead with us all: "Give me thine heart!" Oh! let us all be quick to answer: "Father, thy kingdom come!"

Obituaries.

W. E. JEFFCOATS, was born in Lexington district, South Carolina, May 29, 1818, and moved to Alabama when six years old. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South at eighteen years of age, and lived a consistent member. He moved to Jasper county, Mississippi, January 17, 1872, was taken sick March 16, and died April 5, 1872. He departed this happy, and exhorted his wife to meet him in heaven, and selected his preacher and the text to be preached at his funeral, which was Proverbs xxi, 29.

DIED, at his residence in Lauderdale county, Mississippi, June 6, 1872, JAMES GREEN. Bro. Green was born in the State of Georgia, May 8, 1793. He professed religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in the eighteenth year of his age, and in its communion he lived until God translated him to the church triumphant in heaven. I was acquainted with Bro. Green for thirty years; always found him the same good man, full of faith and love. But he is gone. The place that so long knew him here will know him no more forever; and we would bow with submission to God. We loved and respected him in life—we mourn him in death. We will fondly cherish his memory.

THOMAS Y. ARMSTRONG.

REV. W. C. CHAMBERLIN.

The following preamble and resolutions were adopted at the third quarterly meeting, Ocean Springs circuit, Mississippi Conference, held at Handsboro, July 20, 1872:

WHEREAS, It pleased Almighty God, in his wise providence, on July 18, 1872, to remove from our midst our beloved brother and fellow-laborer, W. C. Chamberlin; therefore,

Resolved, That while we deplore the loss we have sustained in his death, we humbly and submissively bow to the will of God, feeling assured that our loss is his eternal gain.

Resolved, That we tender to the bereaved family our most sincere sympathy and confidence, commending them to the grace of God, who is able to comfort them in all their afflictions.

Resolved, That we commend to the consideration of the brethren and friends his useful life and most triumphant death.

Resolved, That one copy of the preamble and resolutions be furnished to the family, and another copy be sent to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE for publication.

E. J. TAYLOR,
D. M. DUNLAP,
M. S. PARK,
Committee.

NANCY WAFER MILLER was born in Georgia, March 18, 1807. She professed religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in her twelfth year, and consequently was a member of our church for more than fifty-five years. She was married to William H. Miller April 8, 1829. She moved with her parents, while young, to Claiborne parish, Louisiana, and remained in that State until 1866, when she moved with her son, W. A. Miller, to the vicinity of Rondo, Arkansas, where she remained until her death, which occurred April 4, 1872. Sister Miller's suffering was long and intense, being confined to her bed since August, 1871; yet she bore it all with Christian fortitude and patience. She was long impressed that her sickness was unto death, yet she was ready. The Master found her waiting. She longed to depart and be with the Lord. She often said God had sustained her through life, and now, when she had come to the Jordan of death, she knew he would not forsake her. It was my good fortune to be with her frequently in her last illness. She was always ready, and at times seemed impatiently anxious to depart and be with the angels. Her constant prayer was that God would give her grace to bear with Christian fortitude her great suffering. He graciously answered her prayer, for she was able to say in all things: "Thy will be done." Thus passed away this mother in Israel. May the children and friends so live as to meet Sister Miller in heaven.

JAMES A. ANDERSON.

MISS JOSEPHINE, daughter of Colonel Fluker, of Henry county, Alabama, was born April 26, 1848, and died January 7, 1872.

In her infancy she was dedicated to God and the church by baptism, and her affectionate and devoted parents were careful to perform their part in the obligations of her baptism. Consequently the principles and precepts of righteousness were deeply and firmly laid in the foundation of her character. Coming to a well-developed character in womanhood, she intelligently and fervently embraced Jesus Christ as her Savior, to the great joy and comfort of her spirit, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South at Andrew chapel, in Henry county, Alabama, July 15, 1865. From that time forth her life was pleasantly uniform in the pathway of heaven. So pure and exalted was her constant influence upon society that she won and held the admiration and love of all who came within the reach of her acquaintance. She was an ornament to the church, a shining light in society, and the joy and life of her father's house. She possessed an intelligent, cultivated mind, a pure and generous heart, and maintained integrity of spirit; was graceful in form, polite and courteous in manners. But noble and worthy as she was, death came, and the prayers and tears of affection and the skill of medicine could not turn him aside. On the seventh of January her saved spirit took leave of the troubles and trials here below, and entered the joys eternal.

"There shall she muse amid the starry glow,
Or hear the fiery streams of glory flow,
Or, on the living cars of lightning driven,
Triumphant wheel around the plains of heaven."

A. DOWLING.

Southern Christian Advocate please copy.

CAPTAIN W. W. RISHER, now living in Trenton, Louisiana, writes us of the death of his daughter BETTIE, a most exemplary young Christian. We sympathize with the bereaved parents, but rejoice that the dear child died in peace and assurance. We give our brother's note as better than any obituary we could write.

TRENTON, August 2, 1872.

REV. LINUS PARKER—Dear Brother: I have a sad request to make of you for my dear daughter Bettie. She has gone home to her reward. She was taken sick with fever on Friday last, and, after much intense suffering, quit this troublesome world on Wednesday evening, at eight o'clock. You will recollect she professed religion at the Felicity church, and she has lived a devoted Christian up to her death. Her whole life seemed to aim at but one thing—to please her Savior—and her death was in accordance with that life. She was in such pain that she said but little, and that little was without complaint, and full of confidence that all was well. She showed by her words that death had lost all terrors for her, and died with a smile on her lips. She had her lamp trimmed and oil in her vessel, and was ready to go when her Savior called. She wanted to see you again and to visit the old church; but this was denied her.

She was sixteen years, four months and six days old, and was still a scholar in the Sunday school in this place.

W. W. RISHER.

MRS. ELIZABETH REYNOLDS, the subject of this brief notice, was the daughter of William and Elizabeth Chapman, and was born in Edgefield district, South Carolina, on the twenty-second of June, 1805. In 1821 the family emigrated to Georgia, and settled in Butts county, where, on the thirteenth of November, 1825, she was united in holy wedlock with Mr. H. W. Reynolds. Thence they moved to Alabama in 1835, and settled in Marengo county, where, in 1841, they both attached themselves to the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1847 they moved to Louisiana, and settled in Union parish, where, on the twelfth of July, 1872, she breathed her last, surrounded by her weeping husband, children and neighbors, aged sixty-seven years and twenty-two days. She was the mother of ten children, eight of whom still survive her. It may be said of her that, after serving her generation, she has fallen asleep in Jesus.

As a member of the church she was faithful in the discharge of duty, her seat in the house of God rarely being vacant. As a Christian she often rejoiced in the knowledge of pardon through Jesus Christ. Nor did this faith forsake her or grow weak at the prospect of death. When interrogated by her pastor as to her future, she replied: "I feel like I am almost home."

Her husband and children find their greatest comfort in God's revealed word: "But I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorrow not even as others which have no hope; for if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him. Wherefore comfort one another with these words."

R. T. PARISH.

Nashville Christian Advocate please copy.

DEPARTED THIS LIFE, April 23, 1872, SARAH C. HARDEN, in her twenty-fourth year. Sister Harden was the daughter of T. Akin, Esq., and L. A. Garlington, and was married to Bro. J. R. Harden in November, 1869. She was born in Claiborne parish, and with her parents removed to Calcasieu parish in 1859.

In the year 1866, during a protracted meeting at Sugartown, this parish, she opened her heart to Jesus, and she became a constant guest therein until summoned up higher. From early childhood she was sedate and gentle in manner, and firm in all her purposes. Her deportment during her religious life was a beautiful illustration of the power of the gospel. When called to leave earth, a kind husband and a sweet little girl, a loved father and mother, kind sisters and brothers, though borne down by intense suffering, her face, like Stephen's, was radiant with a heavenly smile. To each a kind encouragement or gentle reproof, as the case demanded, was given. Her neighbors, who kindly watched at her bedside, were urged to seek Jesus, and tears gushed forth from every eye in response to her touching appeals. As the shadows darkened in the valley, her perceptions became keener, and in nearing the haven she beheld the convoy sent to escort her home. Among the messengers of her Lord she distinctly recognized her sainted grandmother, and her soul became detached from earth. In this condition she remained until the cord was ready to part; when, like as some big hearted soldier, she shouted the note of triumph, and passed the line separating the visible and invisible with the song:

"I'm going home to heaven, to die no more."

A fragrance still lingers around the spot, though the flower that gave it forth has vanished. Blessed indeed are they who die in the Lord.

T. M.

DIED, near Forest Grove, Leake county, Mississippi, July 11, 1872, BENJAMIN F. WATKINS, who was born in the State of Georgia, December 17, 1799, and was married to Miss Mary M. E. Bell, December 31, 1822, to whom were born eight children, four of which number have hitherto gone to their reward; the remaining four still linger upon the shores of time.

Bro. Watkins embraced religion in the year 1825, in the State of Alabama; joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, and was soon called to act officially in the church as class-leader, in which capacity he continued to act during his subsequent life. He removed from Alabama to Mississippi, and settled in the county of Leake, in the year 1836, in which locality he continued to reside until the day of his death. He officiated uniformly as class-leader until July 14, 1871, at which time he was stricken with paralysis, from which he never recovered, suffering much, physically and mentally; he continued to linger until July 11, 1872. The writer has been intimately acquainted with the deceased over twenty-five years, and can say, without flattery, that as a citizen he was qualified for any official position in his country in the gift of the people; in a word, he was a good citizen, a kind neighbor, an affectionate husband and a loving father. The writer has often witnessed his devotion and zeal in the cause of God in the class room, the prayer meeting, the love-feast, and in the great congregation; and more especially at protracted and revival meetings, where his power was always felt, impacting a salutary influence to the cause of Christ. In reference to his gifts in prayer, few perhaps could excel him in revivid meetings. In this exercise there was so much good sense, so much earnestness, so much zeal and so much faith that he, like Jacob, often "prevailed with God." But he is gone. He "rests from his labors, and his works do follow him." The writer visited him often during his illness, and found him strong in the faith, giving glory to God, desiring to "depart and be with Christ."

T. D. TERRY, P. C.

MEMOIR.

Our mother, MRS. CATHERINE A. CHATFIELD, wife of Rev. G. W. Chatfield, of the Mississippi Conference, departed this life, in Newton county, Mississippi, July 13, 1872, in the fifty-sixth year of her age. She was a native of Wilkes county, Georgia, and was married, in 1834, to G. W. Chatfield, then a practicing attorney at law, and a rising young man in his profession. At the time of their marriage our father was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and a short time after marriage our mother joined the church with her husband. From the date of her connection with the church until the year 1843 she was orderly and exemplary as a church member, but did not enjoy the sense of pardoned sin, and the Spirit, bearing witness with her spirit that she was a child of God. In the fall of that year she was blessed with a clear and convincing sense of her acceptance in Christ, and "rejoiced with joy unspeakable and full of glory." So remarkable was the witness, as love divine glowed in her countenance, that scores of people gathered around, some to gaze and wonder, others to rejoice with her. From that day to the hour of her death she was "steadfast in faith, fervent in spirit, serving the Lord." She has often remarked that she could as soon doubt her own existence as her spiritual regeneration.

After this great grace given to his beloved wife, our father determined to enter upon more active duties in the church; and after serving in various offices for two or three years, he entered formally upon the work of the ministry, as he had felt it his duty to do for years, even before his marriage. In this responsible work our mother interposed no obstacle, but ever encouraged him, and earnestly prayed for his success.

A short time before her decease she remarked to her eldest daughter that she would like, if she had strength, to write her personal experience, that her children might know that their mother knew what regeneration and the witness of the Spirit is, and also his sanctifying grace. Though her strength was never sufficient for this task, yet the evidence she gave in her last moments was such as no one who witnessed could doubt. And we, her children, who grew up under her training and influence, bear witness to the purity and holiness of her life. Her example was full worthy of imitation. "Her children rise up and call her blessed; her husband also, and he praiseth her."

The Sabbath before her death the venerable Judge Watts, assisted by our father, administered to her the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Her children, her only surviving sister, Mrs. Martin, of Georgia, and a few other friends knelt around her bedside, and partook of this solemn feast with her. It was a scene rarely witnessed on earth, and verily seemed "quite on the verge of heaven." After this she witnessed the consecration, by baptism, of six of her grandchildren, who were then carried to her bedside to receive her blessing. She then took a solemn farewell of every one present, exhorting them to meet her in heaven, saying that she felt not only resigned to death, but perfectly happy. In this frame of mind she continued until death released her from suffering, when

"Faith was sweetly lost in sight,
And hope in full, supreme delight,
And everlasting love."

MARY C. WATTS AND SISTERS.

Southern Christian Advocate please copy.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 22, 1872.

THE MOWING.

BY CARL SPENCER.

But yesterday I passed this way,
And stopped to watch the daisies growing.
The wind, I guessed, alone had pressed
This field where now the men are mowing.
The tiptoe grass, to see me pass,
Did laugh, and like a song o'erblowing
Did float and sink the bobolink—
Heaven keep his nest amid the mowing!

But oh, what fragrance fills the air,
More dear than all the summer blowing!
These scented banks were gleaming ranks—
Ah, woeful sweet it is, the mowing!
I shut my eyes, I breathe quick sighs,
I hear the cheery labor flowing,
With bird and bee persuading me.
That naught but joy is in the mowing.

But then, alas! fair martyr, Grass,
My Saint Perpetua of the meadow,
Early and late the severing fate
Presses thee, heedless of the shadow.
In crowning hour of leaf and flower,
In pride of life, in beauty glowing,
How rich a heart was riven apart
To yield such incense to the mowing!

Ah, well I mind a soul as kind,
A life all daisy-bloom and clover;
All seemed content that it was meant
For winged things to hover over.
Till swift and keen, with fatal sheen,
She felt the sudden sharpness going,
Low as the dead she bowed her head—
"Good-by, sweet life!" Alas, the mowing!

Then all the air around was 'wre
Of odors blessing it serenely,
And after days she did upraise
A smiling face, and grew more greenly.
"The husbandman must have his plan,
Doubtless, beyond the grasses' knowing."
So spake her faith—O rare sweet breath—
How glad and sad it is, the mowing!

A moment's dread had bowed my head;
Low growth am I, of some one's sowing,
How shall I dare to climb the air,
Beneath that terror of the mowing?
But these that know its utmost woe,
Cry cheerly, "Never stint thy growing:
Not death but gain, and life amain,
Is all the meaning of the mowing."

SCOTCH HYMN.

There are blossams that hae budded,
Been blighted I' the caul'd,
An' lammies that hae perished
Because they left the fauld;
But cower ye in aneath His wings
Wha died upon the tree,
An' fathers in His bosom
Helpless weans like you and me.

In the wurld there's tribulation,
In the wurld there is wae;
But the wurld it is bonnie,
For our Father made it sae.
Then brighten up your armor,
An' be happy as ye gang;
Though your sky be often clouded,
It winna be for lang.

MR. SPURGEON AT HOME.

BY REV. THEODORE L. CUYLER, D. D.

At ten o'clock I drove out with a friend to spend an hour with Mr. Spurgeon. He resides several miles from his church, on the beautiful Nightingale road—Clapham. The road is lined with shade-embowered villas, like Clinton avenue, Brooklyn. "Helensburg House," the residence of the great preacher, is a very attractive mansion, surrounded by the most exquisite bit of garden and velvet lawn that I have yet seen in London. The grounds cover two or three acres, and were purchased by Mr. Spurgeon when this quarter of London was new and unoccupied, and the land was comparatively cheap. In time this place will be a fortune to its owner. Mr. Spurgeon's income from his Tabernacle and from his work is large; but nobly has he earned it, and generously does he use it. One of the most laborious of Christ's workers, he has a right to a beautiful home.

He greeted us in his free, cordial style, which is like my neighbor Beecher's genial manner. There are many points of resemblance between these two foremost preachers of the day; their stout, broad physique, their exuberant spirits, ready wit, marvelous fluency and superabounding juices of a manhood that seems utterly inexhaustible. Spurgeon's hair is just slightly tinged with its first gray; he is as stout as ever. "In this flesh dwelleth no good thing," said he playfully.

We spent a pleasant hour in his library, which overlooks the charming grounds. He showed us twelve or fifteen stately volumes of his printed sermons, besides several of his works translated into Dutch, Norwegian and German. He is now at work on a Bible interspersed with notes and helps of a peculiar kind. But the most interesting object was a small pile of his sermon preparations—each one on a half sheet of note paper, or on the back of an envelope. Only the heads of the sermon are committed to paper, and not one syllable more. When we asked him if he had ever written a discourse, he replied: "I would rather be hung." His usual method is to choose his text, and devote a half hour to preparing the plan and putting it on a bit of paper. All the rest is left to the pulpit. "If I had a month given me to prepare a sermon," said he, "I would spend thirty days and twenty-three hours in something else, and in the last hour I would make the sermon. If I could not do it in an hour, I could not do it in a month." This is certainly an extraordinary mental habit. But let it be observed, that if Spurgeon spends but a few minutes in arranging a sermon, he spends many days in careful, prayerful study of God's word, and of the richest Puritan writers on theology and experimental religion. He is all the time filling up the cask, so that whenever he turns the spiggot a sermon flows out in a few moments. His fluency in language has also become about perfect from long and constant practice. But never does he go to the pulpit without a mental agitation, amounting often to physical distress. "For years," said he, "I suffered so much before entering the pulpit that it often brought on violent attacks of vomiting and profuse outbreaks of perspiration. Only lately have I outgrown these fits of physical suffering."

Mr. Spurgeon took us through his beautiful grounds. In the rear of his garden he has perched up his old "Park Street" pulpit into a tree! The pulpit-stairs wind down around the trunk; and up in this eyrie he sits in a hot summer day. Like our neighbor, Beecher, he has a keen appetite for flowers. His family is small. Two twin-boys, of the age of sixteen, are at school. His invalid wife waved her hand to us as we walked through the grounds before her window. The painful illness of this devoted wife is the shadow that falls over his beautiful home. This "crook in the lot" has been a chastening, mellowing sorrow to him.

The delightful hour which I passed with Bro. Spurgeon only increased my estimate of him as a minister of the Lord Jesus Christ. His marvelous voice, which sweeps over five thousand auditors in the "Tabernacle," is exceedingly pleasing in conversation. As I parted from him I felt anew that there is but one Spurgeon in the world. As he stands in the loftiest pulpit in Europe, long may he continue to have all Christendom for his congregation!—New York Observer.

Personal Reminiscences of Old Ministers.

H. B. BASCOM.

Rev. H. B. Bascom's fame had preceded him. For a long time previous to the appointed hour of service, the large church in Greene street, on the west side of Broadway, was crowded to the outward steps.

When the second hymn, a plaintive, melodious, genuine Methodist hymn, in the minor key, had been sung by the whole congregation, Mr. Bascom arose. That first appeal, which is to the eye, was greatly in his favor. His stalwart person had a commanding presence; and as well in this particular as in the firm, compressed mouth, the simple brow, and large, searching black eyes, he bore a very striking resemblance to Daniel Webster. The expression of his countenance was thoughtful and impressive:

> —"deep on his front, engraven,
> Deliberation sat, and public care;
> His look drew audience still as night,
> Or summer's noon-tide air."

Naming his text in a voice deep but slightly husky, he proceeded somewhat tamely, I thought, although systematically, to lay down his premises, array his arguments, and marshal his proofs. While I was yet in a state of doubt whether or no his congregation were not to be treated to a merely nebulous disquisition of no particular force, and asking myself mentally whether this could be the man whom Henry Clay had pronounced "the greatest natural orator he had ever heard," a brilliant thought, clothed in original and eloquent expression, at once enchained my attention; and thenceforward, to the close of the discourse, I did not in the least realize that I was occupying a narrow spot in the middle of a crowded aisle—"cabined, cribbed, confined, bound in"—with the thermometer at ninety degrees. But such was the actual fact.

When once fully engrossed with his subject (the progress and effects of the Christian faith, and the arguments in favor of its promulgation,) every eye in the congregation was upon the speaker, and each heart beat quicker as the glowing thoughts dropped from his lips. His similes were vivid and striking. His impressions of nature, and the comparisons which he drew from her external aspects, were not minute and in detail—they were upon a noble scale, "taking in whole continents and seas."

Such was the character of that portion of his discourse wherein he spoke of the past ages, to whom the great volume of nature was a sealed book; who saw no God in the works of his hand; who could read the starry rhythm of the heavens, survey the towering mountains, the rivers sweeping to the main; who could hear the roar of the great ocean, and the under-trembling, far-sounding cataract, and see in all these no evidences of the power who spake and they existed, who commanded and they stood fast.

He was scarcely less effective in describing the origin and spread of the Christian faith. The good seed had been sown, and for eighteen hundred years it had, in one way or another, been producing fruit. The germ had expanded, and the tree had arisen and spread, until the nations of the world sat under its branches. Efforts had been made, in a thousand ways, to root it out and to destroy it. The lightnings of persecution had scathed it, the ax of the wicked had sought to lop its boughs, the wild boar of the forest had whetted his tusk against its time-worn trunk; yet still, in living green, it spread its inviting arms abroad, everywhere overshadowing evil with good. Kingdom after kingdom had arisen, flourished and fallen. The wrecks of dead empires—the long labors of emperors and kings, of principalities and powers—had passed away, on that deluge-flood of earthly grandeur, ever rolling onward to the ocean of eternity; yet still, afar widened the blessings of Christianity. Like the beams of the sun, each ray had radiated in separate streams of light; but they soon united, and were swallowed up in one glorious, glad effulgence, blessing all upon whom it fell, even as the common light of heaven.

These remembrances (and they are faithful, as will be attested even now by many readers of the Methodist who heard the discourse) can afford but little save a faint idea of the general character of one or two of his positions and illustrations. The nervous style, the infrequent but always appropriate gesture, the beaming eye, may perhaps be imagined, but they should have been seen to be realized. It may seem strange, but the snap of the thumb and finger of the upraised right hand of the speaker, at the end of one thrilling sentence, was apparently electric, as an illustration of the nothingness of opposition to the will of God in advancing the Christian religion. Its effect upon the great audience, simple as it was, was magnetic. The very hesitation which Mr. Bascom occasionally manifested in making a selection from thoughts which were pressing for utterance was in itself an essential feature of eloquence; for when the key-word unlocked the treasure, the intellectual flood rolled on with irresistible force, all the greater from having been pent up and kept back; while the speaker's language illustrated and adorned his thoughts, as light streaming through colored glass heightens the object it falls upon.

Such were my first impressions of the pulpit efforts of Mr. Bascom; and I know them to be faithful counterparts of those entertained by all who heard, on a memorable hot day, the discourse which I have endeavored to recall.

On a subsequent occasion—indeed, upon the ensuing Sabbath—at the Broadway Tabernacle, Mr. Bascom was less successful. And no marvel. He was placed before an immense auditory, as a clerical "Lion of the West," of whom wonders were anticipated. As he surged with difficulty through a dense crowd of over three thousand eager people to his place in the sacred desk, it was easy to see that the oppressive consciousness of this unexpected appreciation, or rather anticipation, almost overcame him. The discourse was a good one, but that was all; several of his illustrations were apposite and forcible, but there was not one touch of his characteristic eloquence in the entire sermon. And the result, so far as the minister was concerned, was a perfectly natural one. He was, indeed, a clerical lion; but he could not roar by contract, at so much a head for admission from his hearers. L. Gaylord Clark, in the Methodist.

THE PEACE OF GOD.

"The sun is very hot on this side of the boat," said a portly gentleman, who, with two ladies, was standing on the deck of a large steamboat.

"It is boiling," said one of the ladies, fretfully, raising a tiny parasol. "It will ruin my complexion; and on the other end of the boat it is blowing a perfect gale. For my part, I don't see any pleasure in it."

"Nor I," said the other. "It is hollow, like all the other so-called pleasures. I don't believe there is such a thing in the world as happiness. I would be glad to find even peace; but the more you cry 'Peace, peace,' the more you feel that there is no peace."

They were startled by a voice, saying: "O, that thou hadst hearkened to my commandments! Then had thy peace been as a river."

Turning, they saw an old man, leaning heavily on a cane, for he was evidently past his threescore and ten years. His garments were coarse and ill-fitting, though they were carefully brushed; and the ladies drew back with a dignified air. The gentleman was about to order the intruder away, but his gaze was fixed afar off, on the calm-flowing waters of the river, and they contented themselves with drawing away.

The lady who had last spoken leaned over the side of the boat, and looked for a time down into the water; then she said:

"That wasn't a bad comparison of the old fellow, about peace flowing as a river. Just think of it! Calm, but deep, never ceasing, never ending; lost only in an ocean of the same. I would give the world for such a peace as that."

"There is a river, the streams whereof shall make glad the city of God."

The old man was still gazing at the blue waters, and perhaps was speaking aloud unconsciously; but an angry exclamation escaped from the gentleman, and they walked hastily away. Meeting the captain, the gentleman said:

"Captain, why did you take that crazy man on board?"

"What crazy man, Mr. Porter? O!" as his eye followed Mr. Porter's, "that is old Father Reid. He is no more crazy than I am. He used to be a wealthy merchant, but failed. He paid his creditors in full, but he left himself penniless. He says it was a blessed day for him, for it led him to seek for rest and peace, where alone they may be found. He is the happiest man I ever saw, and I meet with a great many men in my trips up and down the river," and the busy captain bowed and passed on.

In the afternoon a thunder-storm arose, the lightning flashed, the thunder pealed, the waters foamed, while the boat shook as if it were a reed at the mercy of the storm. The passengers were terrified, ladies shrieked, and even sturdy men paled. Loud and clear, in the midst of the tumult, rose the voice of Father Reid:

"God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the seas; though the waters thereof roar and be troubled; though the mountains shake with the swelling thereof, * * * God shall help us, and that right early."

The terror-stricken passengers almost felt as if he were a prophet, for even as he spoke the clouds broke, and though the rain still fell gently, a beautiful bow spanned the waters.

"Behold!" said Father Reid. "Behold the sign of God's promise, and he at peace;" and he quietly slipped out of the cabin, followed by Miss Porter, who grasped his hand, and asked:

"Sir, how can I obtain this rest and peace?"

He looked at her with eyes full of love and pity, and said gently:

"Jesus said: 'Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.'"

"I have heard that often before," said she; "but it seems new."

"Yes, it is the old, old story, yet ever new; but it is all you can do. Only trust him and follow him; then, indeed, the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your heart and mind, through Jesus Christ."

A CORRESPONDENT of the Dundee Advertiser, in a recent communication, says: "There are in these days seven or eight peers of the realm who, following the example of the apostles, go about preaching the gospel to the poor. This afternoon the Earl of Dalhousie preached to an audience of over two thousand in the Agricultural Hall, Islington. His lordship's discourse was an admirable one, simple and thoroughly practical. He deplored the fact that so many thousands of British subjects never darken a church-door. If this neglect of worship continues, said his lordship, it will end in the ruin of the country and the loss of the nation's liberty. 'If the people here,' said Earl Dalhousie, 'attended church as they do in some small towns, and in the rural districts of my native country, not only would all the churches in London be overflowing, but the half of the population would be left in the streets.' The earl, in concluding his discourse, pleaded for an increase of the means of regenerating the people and a diminution of the means of degrading them, especially of the public houses. 'Talk to me of the friends of the working classes,' said he; 'those are their friends who would draw them from the public house to the house of God—who would empty the one and fill the other.' The Marquis of Lorne is to preach in the same hall some Sunday soon."

WORDS derive their power not from their number, but from the directness and intensity with which they are delivered. Max Muller says: "A well-educated person in England, who has been at the public school and at the University, who reads his Bible, Shakespeare, the London Times, and all of Mudie's library (i. e., nine-twentieths of all the books published in England,) seldom uses more than three or four thousand words in actual conversation. Accurate thinkers and close reasoners, who avoid vague and general expressions, and wait till they find the word that exactly fits their meaning, employ a larger stock, and eloquent speakers may rise to a command of ten thousand. Milton's works are built up with eight thousand, and the Old Testament says all it has to say with five thousand six hundred and forty-two."

A BRAVE, brave nature meets the ills of life courageously, conquers its difficulties, and rises above them into the sunshine of happiness overhead.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

THE sum of $27,002.73 was collected in the diocese of New York, June 16, for the Pope.

THE Pacific Christian Advocate says a great revival is going on among the Nez Perces Indians.

THE Italian government has seized and appropriated for secular uses thirty-five convents and religious houses in Rome.

THIRTY-NINE Dominican and Capuchin friars, expelled from Guatemala by President Granados, reached San Francisco July 1.

THE Rev. Charles Kingsley is the new editor of the London Good Words, taking the place of the late Norman Macleod.

THE Presbyterians have organized a theological seminary in San Francisco, and there are four students in attendance.

IT IS SAID that the first Christian sermon delivered in Ohio was preached by the Moravian missionary Zeisberger, near New Philadelphia.

THE Swedenborgian Church recently held its fifty-third annual convention in Boston. They report nineteen societies in Massachusetts, and about ten each in Ohio, Illinois and Minnesota.

THE Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States reports an actual accession to its communion last year of 24,114, being a larger percentage upon its whole number of members than any other church.

THE English Wesleyan Missionary Society is doing a great work in converting the heathen. It has under its care in the foreign work 72,129 members. It is one of the most efficient missionary societies in the world.

A DECREE OF AMADEUS, countersigned by the new minister of grace and justice, suspends all payments hitherto made to the clergy of Spain. This is the first application of Cavour's maxim of "a free church in a free State."

AT THE stated meeting of the American Bible Society, August 1, grants were made of seven thousand one hundred and seventy-eight volumes. A statement was made by one of the secretaries, showing an interesting Bible work in the Tyrol, chiefly through the influence of a devoted young lady.

BISHOP LITTLEJOHN, in his annual address to the Episcopal Convention of the Diocese of Long Island, reported that he had, during the year, admitted seven women to the order of deaconesses, and they were engaged in the charitable institutions of the diocese, where their labors are richly blessed.

THE most advanced of the Spanish evangelical theological students at Lausanne, Jose Aquilera, has finished his course of studies, and is about to be examined for his diploma in theology. He is to be stationed in Barcelona, with Rev. Mr. Empaytaz, as assistant, preparatory to independent pastoral work.

THE Pope is said to have signed a bull regulating the action of the future conclave for the election of his successor. Ordinarily nine days are allowed to elapse between the death of one pontiff and the election of the next. This rule is now annulled by Pius, so as to allow Bismarck no opportunity to interfere.

UNIVERSALISM has declined about one-third in the number of its ministers in the United States during the last ten years; and in Massachusetts and New England they have fewer ministers than they had in 1840 or 1850; they advanced a little from 1840 to 1850, but have since fallen below where they were in 1840.

THE Christian Observer of July 17 says: "On last Wednesday night, in the lecture room of the First church, Louisville, the committee appointed for that purpose, reported a constitution for the Presbyterian Widows' Home of Louisville. The constitution was adopted and signed. The design is to provide a home for indigent widows, etc., a boarding place for those of good moral character, etc."

AUSTRALIA.—The Moravian mission in Australia has been very successful. The Sunday schools are well attended, and are progressing finely. Family worship is observed generally in the families of the aborigines, and their former evil habits and customs have been abandoned. Their wanderings, superstitions, horrible fights and corroborees have been given up, and the habits of civilized life and industry are now commonly practiced among them.

THE Lutheran Observer says: "Since the Supreme Court decided against the right of Father Stack, of Williamsport, Pennsylvania, to continue as priest in opposition to Bishop O'Hara's excommunication, and also against the right of the congregation to hold the church property, the members who side with Father Stack have resolved to organize an independent Catholic congregation, and build a church. This, we presume, will have to be an anti-infallible, or 'Old Catholic church, and if so, will be the first of its kind in America."

THE London Society for Biblical Archæology has lately received a valuable present for its library, in an ancient Pentateuch-roll, dating apparently from the tenth century. This manuscript is the only copy of the Pentateuch as used by the Aden Jews, descendants of the pre-Mohammedan inhabitants, which has reached England. The council of the society hope soon to exhibit the roll to the public, with a detailed examination of its philological and archæological peculiarities.

EXTREME RITUALISM in London is getting less money as it ceases to be a novelty. The strangers who flocked to St. Albans to see Mr. Mackonochie have disappeared, and the offertory for the last year netted only £1,119, against £2,000 for the year previous. As the services have been getting higher and the mid-day communion has been turned into a mass, several of the leading patrons have withdrawn, including the two men who gave the site and built the church.

THE Herald says that there are only eight rabbies in the United States who preach to Jewish congregations in the English language. These are Drs. Gutheim, Vidaver, and Rev. S. M. Isaacs, of this city; Drs. Wise and Lilienthal, of Cincinnati; two brothers Jacobs, one in Philadelphia and the other in New Orleans; and Rev. George Brown, of Evansville, Indiana. There are no young men in training to be their successors, as Maimonides College is in a languishing condition, having never received an endowment from those of the Hebrew faith, and has but three students.—Independent.

ENGLISH WESLEYAN CHURCH.—The statistical returns of the whole of the districts of the English Wesleyan Church have now been reported, and the result is a smaller net decrease than had been anticipated. The loss during the year, after making good all losses by deaths, removals, etc., is about 250. It is noteworthy that while London Second district, which includes a large portion of the country south of the Thames, has an increase of 309, the London First district, which stretches as far north as Cambridge, has had a decrease of 120. There has been an increase of 250 in the Leeds district, and a decrease of 312 in the Newcastle district, and of 330 in the Channel Islands.

THE Baptist cause is making very good progress in Sweden. The following is a summary of the latest reports: Associations, 10; churches, 220; pastors, 129; chapels, 40; members, 8,807; Sunday school scholars, 5,920. The First church of Stockholm has 463 members, which is the largest in the kingdom. The Nevike Association reports a membership of 2,086, while that of Stockholm has 1,720. The Stockholm Missionary Union is engaged largely in the work of publishing and distributing denominational books and tracts, besides supporting thirty-eight laborers in the mission field. There are several other unions in different parts of the kingdom engaged in a similar work.

THE meeting of the Evangelical Alliance that was to have been held in New York was postponed on account of the German and French war. It is proposed to hold it in New York in 1873, and Dr. Schaff is now in Europe to make arrangements for it. One great obstacle to be removed was the alienation existing between German and French Christians, in consequence of the war. An affecting account of this is given in the New York Observer, and it is stated that there is no immediate prospect of a renewal of Christian fellowship between them. Yet E. W. Hitchcock, preacher of the American chapel in Paris, informs us that Dr. Schaff, by his eloquent and Christian presentation of the case, induced the French Committee of Alliance unanimously to agree to co-operate in the meeting at New York.

ONE of the most wonderful transformations, or new creations, of the present century has taken place in the Fiji Islands. At a recent meeting of the Baptist Missionary Society in London, Rev. W. Wilson, of those islands, said: "Thirty-seven years ago Fiji was an entire blank; not a book, a chapel, a church or a Christian man in it, and God's name was never pronounced, except, perhaps, by a castaway sailor, and then not in the most proper fashion. They now had 104,000 converts, and 22,769 members in full church communion; they had 47,240 in their Sunday schools, and 590 chapels; and this work has been accomplished in thirty-seven years." Who, after this, can have the boldness to say that Christian missions have accomplished nothing, or less than the same amount of labor at home! New York Observer.

CHRIST has taken our nature into heaven to represent us. He has left us on earth with his nature to represent him.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 22, 1872.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.
ROBT. J. HARP, Publisher.

OFFICE--No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. Harp, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. Linus Parker, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Agents—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR ALABAMA CONFERENCE:
REV. W. A. McCARTY.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
A. W. LAMPKIN, ESQ.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR, D. D.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

REDUCTION.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers hereafter at the following rates:

For One Year	$2 00
For Six Months	1 25
For Three Months	75

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

to all ministers of the gospel, traveling or local, and widows of deceased traveling preachers.

FREE ONE YEAR

to any person forwarding to us four new yearly subscribers with EIGHT DOLLARS.

CHRISTIAN UNION.

An outward and organic union is neither practicable ner desirable. It would he a sad thing for Christianity if the whole Christian world were bound np in one grand ecclesiastical organization. Something worse than popery would be the result, and corruptions and abuses bred of numbers, wealth and power would reach unheard-of proportions. There is probably a healthful limit to denominational extension, beyond which separation and disintegration are blessings rather than evils. The existence of denominations is a standing protest against the idea of outward unity as essential to the church of Christ. This is a vital feature in the mission of sects: to combat and overthrow an error which has done more than any other to debase and corrupt the Christian religion. The essence of Christianity is not in any particular formal organization or polity, nor is unity dependent upon those outward ties and bands which bring all believers within the inclosure of a single communion.

The existence of denominations is rather conducive to peace. Families who cannot live together under the same roof may get along very well in the same neighborhood. Separation is therefore conceivably a measure of peace, and altogether in the interests of charity. Men who would be at war with each other in the same corporate society, may be on the best of terms as members of different organizations.—Outward division is far better than internal strife and bitterness. It is doubtful whether any one church will ever be able to suit everybody. This would imply an elasticity of creed and polity on the part of the church, and a perfection of knowledge, temper and charity on the part of its members, which we can scarcely hope to realize in the present world.

The unity toward which the Christian world is advancing at the present time lies more in the conviction that outward union is not essential, than in anything else. The exclusiveness and bigoted pretensions of any denomination to be the sole church of God are fast retiring before the advance of a more spiritual apprehension of the kingdom of Christ. The world is learning precisely what sectarianism, in a good sense, is designed to teach it—that the church is shut up and confined within no single inclosure, and that the truest unity is entirely consistent with denominational distinctions and boundaries. The problem of the seeker after religious fellowship is not to ascertain which of a dozen communions is the church, but rather to determine which of all these churches of Christ is best and most expedient for him. The unity we are approaching is the unity of the Spirit—agreement on a few great essential doctrines, with entire liberty of divergence about many things heretofore regarded as tests of religious orthodoxy. Christian charity, instead of doing away with denominations, teaches the lesson of a higher unity, in which they rather promote than hinder a universal fellowship.

Emulation among the churches will always continue, but the good time is coming when we may hope that rivalry and strife shall cease, when each shall attend to its own work, and leave the others to attend to theirs. It is a large advance in this direction when they cease to persecute, to proselyte and to defraud, and when, without jealousy, they labor in the same field, and rejoice in a mutual prosperity. The oneness of Christians in love does by no means imply their consolidation into one grand ecumenical organization. It may be expedient and even necessary that many churches should continue to maintain their separate and distinctive existence. We believe their purity and efficiency depend upon it, and that any other than a unity of faith and of the Spirit would be a calamity rather than a blessing. Circumstances of numbers and of territory alone call for separate organizations; and when we add to these the inevitable differences of opinion and conviction, the matter is practically settled. As we apprehend the subject, the notion of outward union is based on an utter misconceptien of the character of the Christian church, and is a consummation which neither truth nor charity demands.

PUBLISHING HOUSES.

Last week we called attention to the new Publishing House at Nashville, and gave Dr. Redford's description and statements concerning it. On our first page, this week, our readers will find the cut referred to, and they can see for themselves what a handsome edifice Southern Methodism is putting up in Nashville. We should be utterly ashamed of New Orleans, as but little of anything has been contributed by our people to the enterprise, were it not for the fact that they have been called upon to pay a debt resting upon our own Depository building. This building is really connectional property, held by trustees specifically for the use of the publishing agent, and the business conducted in it is that of a branch of our Publishing House at Nashville. Of the $6,000 indebtedness, we have pledges conditional upon the balance being raised, leaving about $1,500 to be secured in order to assure the liquidation of the whole amount. It is very important that this balance of $1,500 should be in hand by the first of January. Then we shall have a valuable house unincumbered, and doing a great work for Methodism in the Southwest. Our Advocate and publishing interests are seriously embarrassed by this debt, the interest of which absorbs what should go to the extension of the business, and to the improvement of the paper. Subscriptions to pay it are direct contributions to one of the most vital religious interests of the church, and we know of no object which has more urgent or superior claims. The realization of the $4,500 pledged depends upon the speedy collection of the $1,500 yet required to make up the entire sum The friends in Nashville have set us a good example in generous giving. Will not the large-hearted and the liberal-handed come to the relief at this opportune and pressing call for help? Who will respond? Let us cancel this debt, and help to build the Nashville House besides. It is one of the most permanent investments for doing good that can be made, and one that will be sowing the seed of life and salvation to the generations yet unborn. The agent, Bro. Harp, has his book ready. Send in subscriptions for both New Orleans and Nashville, and let us soon rejoice in a good thing accomplished.

We make the greater part of the evil circumstances in which we are placed, and then we fit ourselves for those circumstances by a process of degradation.

ROBELESS.

The Protestant Episcopal Church recently sent an alms-bason to the Archbishops and Bishops of the English Church. On the occasion of its presentation the venerable Bishop McIlvain was present at St. Paul's Cathedral, and somehow got mixed up in the ceremony, in a robeless state. Some of his American brethren have severely censured the Bishop for this breach of apostolic order, and for bringing scandal and reproach upon the Christian name. It was a very serious matter indeed—as bad, if not worse than heresy or crime. To appear in St. Paul's and to participate in a most solemn service in the ordinary clothes of a Christian gentleman is a most aggravated offense against vital Christianity. Where robes are so essential we doubt the validity of any excuse. It is the minister's business to have them always on, or in a budget by him. While we are disposed to think that so grave an offense is unpardonable, we give the aged prelate's explanations for what they are worth. Addressing the Standard of the Cross, Bishop McIlvain says:

Not expecting to be called to take any part in the ceremonial, I went in my usual dress, and was sitting with the Bishops of Edinburg and Rupert's Land in the choir, waiting the entrance of the robed procession, when the secretary of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel requested me to follow him. I was led through the large congregation to a room in which the Bishops and the members of the Lower House were assembled. The Archbishop of Canterbury, and the Bishop of Lichfield, who was to present the beautiful gift of American fellowship, desired me to take part with the latter in the presentation. It was in vain that I pleaded my robeless condition. If they did not consider that a sufficient objection, it was not for me to stand upon it. But it was a little awkward; especially as the robes around me were not the usual Episcopal vestments, but the superadded scarlet of convocation. However, I took it meekly, and the Bishop of Lichfield and I walked together in the long procession through the crowded space under the dome into the choir. The Bishops of London and Winchester went to the communion table, the Archbishop to his throne. The service was that of the communion exclusively. The Bishop of Exeter preached from the pulpit under the dome. Before the offertory, when all the Bishops of the convocation, among whom, besides those already mentioned, were those of Ely, Oxford, Rochester, Landaff, Lincoln and St. Asaph, had arranged themselves on either side of the holy table, the ceremonial of presentation began. The alms-bason was carried by the Bishop of Lichfield and myself. The Archbishop and all the Bishops and congregation standing, the Bishop of Lichfield addressed the Archbishop, reading the address sent him and signed by "Horatio Potter, Bishop of New York; Samuel A. McCoskrey, Bishop of Michigan; Walter Ayrault, presbyter of the Diocese of Central New York; William Welsh, lay deputy of the Diocese of Pennsylvania, committee on behalf of both houses of convention."

Our German Work in New Orleans is in a most healthful and prosperous condition. A very important feature of it is that we are organizing a fine and growing literature for German Methodism. Largely through the enterprise of Rev. J. B. A. Ahrens, we have a semi-monthly paper, a Sunday school paper, a Sunday school hymn book, a catechism, a life of John Wesley, and, last and best of all, a German hymn book for congregational use, bearing the imprint of our Publishing House at Nashville. Last Sunday, being one of our quarterly meeting days with the German congregations, we surveyed the recent repairs put upon the Dryades Street church. Fifteen hundred dollars have been expended, and the house has been placed in perfect order from basement to spire. The main audience room is scarcely equaled in all its appointments by any Protestant house of worship in New Orleans. The walls and ceiling are beautifully frescoed, the spring cushions of the pews have been newly upholstered, and new carpets throughout. The Craps Street church, situated in the Third District, is a very handsome and spacious building, and as neat and bright as a new pin, outside and in. The congregation in Soraparu street are growing apace, the Sunday school especially increasing, and the church and parsonage are being repaired. Our German brethren are true Methodists, have lively love-feasts, and keep up the class meetings.

OUR CHINA MISSION.

The following appears in the Nashville Advocate:

Mr. Editor: Allow me to hand you the following interesting communication from the Rev. J. W. Lambuth, the superintendent of our mission work in China. The fields in that far-off land are already white, and the Methodist Episcopal Church South has only to thrust in its sickle and gather an abundant harvest. The church is awakening to this important work, and we hope and feel that there will hereafter be no want of means to carry or send the gospel of Christ to the millions who sit in the valley of the shadow of death. We beg the preachers and members of the church everywhere to look well to the missionary collections, that at the approaching Conferences there may be no deficiency whatever. Our appropriations for the ensuing year, though by no means equal to the demand, are larger than heretofore, and must be promptly met. Special appropriations to China may be sent to me.

A. H. Redford, Treas.

"Shanghai, China, June 24, 1872.

"My dear Brother Redford: I have just returned from a traveling tour in the country; have had a pleasant, agreeable and profitable trip; had hundreds and thousands from place to place as eager listeners to the glorious gospel of our Lord and Savior. I had to preach in the streets, on my boat, and on other boats; in fact, anywhere and in every place, where the people would soon flock together out of curiosity to hear the foreigner talk. The work—the great work—that is to be done in China, and yet so few to do it! You may go hundreds and hundreds of miles, and no one, or but few heralds of the cross, to tell these dying people of the love of the Savior. In looking over the great city of Hangchow, from the Presbyterian mission premises, near the summit of one of the hills of the city, I could not help exclaiming: What a vast field for missionary labor! When will the work be accomplished, and 'the heathen be given to Christ for his inheritance?' I wish our people were alive to the greatness of the work in China. I went in company with a Presbyterian missionary to Hangchow, as his field of labor. He has just arrived, and knows nothing of the work as yet in China, but he saw a good deal of the work of the Methodist Church South in America, and he remarked: 'China was the very best field for missionary enterprise;' and he went on to say: 'If there were five hundred Methodist preachers in China, the world and the church would soon hear from them.'

"Can we not have more men? We want to extend the work, and enlarge our field of operations; but we cannot do it without the men and the means. We want funds, also, for the publishing of books. I have some books ready for the press, but no tract or Bible money. All I have had printed was with my own money. We hope now in a few days to hear what the board has done. I send with this a list of a few books, which I would be glad to have you send by mail. With kindest regards from Mrs. Lambuth and myself, I remain yours, in the bonds of Christian love, J. W. Lambuth."

TRIBUTE TO W. H. DAMERON.

Felicity St. Quarterly Conference.

Whereas, It has pleased the Almighty to remove our beloved brother and colleague, William H. Dameron, from the church militant on earth to the church triumphant in heaven:

Resolved, That we bow with resignation to the decree of him who doeth all things well, feeling full confidence that what seems to us "a frowning Providence," has revealed to our brother God's "smiling face."

Resolved, That in the death of Bro. Dameron our church has lost one of its most useful members, our board of stewards one of its most efficient workers, the poor one of their best friends, the commercial community one of its brightest ornaments, and his family a husband and a father whose loss is irreparable.

Resolved, That we deeply sympathize with his bereaved family, and hereby tender to them our heartfelt condolence.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to his widow, his sisters, and to his brother, with the comforting assurance of holy writ that what is their loss is his eternal gain, and that though he cannot come back to them, they may go to him.

Obituaries will be found on the second page.

Centenary College.—Response No. 8.

Mr. Editor: I am glad to see that the very modest advertisement of Centenary, which found a resting place in your columns during the whole of last year, now appears in fine feather. "Before honor goes humility." President Andrews writes that twenty-five new students have already applied for admission. He also reports some very gracious answers to this week's prayer—sent, as often happens, a little in advance of the prayer. He has obtained two noble subscriptions toward the building-repairs from large-hearted citizens of East Feliciana. The exact amount and names you will hear from himself.

I also wish to report cash subscriptions obtained about the first of May last, not heretofore published. The money has been received and duly expended, as reported at the annual meeting of the trustees.

April 19—James A. Lusk	$100 00
April 25—Dr. E. D. Beach	100 00
April 27—H. J. Mullen	500 00
April 27—John A. Peel	250 00
April 27—W. W. Carre (in lumber)	175 00

There is no money on hand, and we greatly need enough to complete the original design, which the friends of the college have held steadily to during the last eighteen months, viz.: the putting the buildings in needed repair and the starting the college classes. I doubt not God will honor his people, and move their hearts toward the accomplishment of this beneficent work. Who will signal the gracious occasion of prayer which has just been enjoyed, in unison with the thousands of our Zion, by an offering of his substance—no, not an offering, but a gift? In whose soul does that divine love burn which gave a Son? or which moved the Son with infinite grace to impoverish himself that we might be rich? Shall there be only the earnest prayer for "our institutions of learning?" Does not the Judge of all the earth see as well as hear? Who will suffer the word of this exhortation: "That as there was a readiness to will, so there may be a performance also out of that which ye have."—Second Cor. viii, 11.

Yours truly, J. C. Keener.

THE EXPULSION OF THE JESUITS.

On this subject the London Record speaks as follows:

What do these expulsions mean? Simply this—that the Jesuit is of no country, but of one order; of no race, but of one religion; and for the elevation of that order, and for the extension of that religion he will go hand-in-hand with the direst enemy of his country, and plot at every scheme that treachery can suggest. We must have read history badly if we fail to see how often during the last and present century the wires of diplomacy and political intrigue have been pulled by the designing, mischievous, smooth-tongued Jesuit.

For a time, happily, his career has been brought summarily to an end in the new empire of Germany. The Jesuits' bill in Germany has now become law; and though it is not quite so sweeping as when it left the hands of the government, owing to modifications effected by the Reichstag, it is still a severe and wholesome measure. It abolishes all Jesuit convents and other establishments on German soil connected with the order, but it does not give the authorities of the State power to expel individual members from the country, but only at present decrees that they must live in certain places. Some so-called lovers of liberty have objected to this bill, on the ground that it interferes with the freedom of the subject. A German, though a Jesuit, it is said, is still a German, and why should he be deprived of his citizenship solely because his creed differs from that of his neighbor? In theory this is all well enough, but in practice it becomes impossible. Where the safety of the State is concerned all other considerations, even that of personal freedom, must succumb, if necessary. And the duty is all the more imperative where such personal freedom is only exercised to the detriment of national interests. The German Jesuit has alone himself to thank for the penalty the law now makes him suffer. Of two antagonistic choices he has chosen the one which renders his presence in the State as dangerous as the presence of a Catiline. Deliberately, and of his own free will, he prefers to serve Rome to Germany, and to advocate the interests of his church to those of the State. Acting as a traitor and an alien, can he wonder that he receives the punishment due to treachery and the isolation due to hostile citizenship? He has vowed death to German unity, to German Protestantism and to German policy. All the spiritual terrors of the altar, pulpit and confessional, he so well knows how to exercise, he displays to defeat the ends of Prince Bismarck, and to render null the result of the past terrible war. Though a German, he preaches disloyalty against the Emperor and the empire, and insidiously advocates the cause of France and alliance with all who will wage war against one who has cemented German Protestantism, and who is the deadliest enemy of the church. Nay, it is now asserted that an unholy union has been struck up between the German Jesuit and that terror to society—the Republican Socialist. The Republican wishes to raze the German constitution to the ground, and on its site to erect purely democratic institutions, replete with revolutionary ideas. The Jesuit wishes to exalt the church by the degradation of the political power of the nation. Though the object is different, the aim of the two is the same—destruction to national unity. Extremes meet; and atheism and popery—the most fettered superstition and the most unbridled license—go hand-in-hand to destroy nationality, progress, union and Protestantism. To suffer such a state of things to continue unchecked, is to sanction conspiracy and to encourage treachery.

ILLNESS OF DR. BOND.

It is with great sorrow that we have read the following, published in the St. Louis Christian Advocate of the fifteenth instant:

We announce the illness of our colleague, Dr. Bond. Our latest tidings forbid the hope of his recovery. Since last May he has reported to us being unwell, but the incidents did not create alarm, and lately we had supposed there was amendment of his health. On the seventh instant his dangerous condition was communicated to us. Several subsequent dispatches confirm and increase our fears.

The latest, just as we are closing our columns on Monday, dated on that day at Baltimore at 8.50 A. M., reports that he is "no better," and a previous dispatch had said: "No hope of recovery." By the mail on Monday a letter from his son, G. Morris Bond, Esq., reached us, dated the eighth instant, in which he writes:

"I fear that your information was only too true, and that my father's death is not far off. His disease has developed with great rapidity, and there can be no doubt now that he is suffering from cancer in the stomach."

We regret that we are not at liberty to print the letter entire. It bears testimony, as all would expect, of unmurmuring patience under constant suffering, and "perfect willingness to be at rest, and with the most beautiful trustfulness resting in peace upon the bosom of his Savior."

This intelligence fills the writer with the deepest grief, and throughout the connection will cause great sorrow. Our prayers will be offered that his life and service may be prolonged to the church.

Death of Dr. Thomas E. Bond.—A dispatch from Baltimore announces Dr. Bond's death. He died at his residence in Harford county, Maryland, on the nineteenth instant. His disease, as will be seen in another paragraph, taken from the St. Louis Advocate, was cancer of the stomach. In his death our Southern Methodist journalism has lost its most brilliant and versatile writer, and the church has suffered an irreparable calamity.

BISHOP McTYEIRE.

The Pacific Methodist says: Bishop McTyeire arrived in this city on Thursday last, looking fresh and vigorous. He had but little time for rest, if he needed it. Friday was spent in making preparation for the trip to Oregon, and on Saturday morning we bade him farewell on the deck of the Ajax, en route for the Columbia Conference. Dr. Sargent was his companion, and as the season is propitious we have no doubt the voyage will be pleasant.

The Bishop will remain in Oregon during the month of August. Returning to California, he will be present at the Sonora camp meeting on the second Sunday in September, the third Sunday at Sacramento, the fourth at Salinas camp meeting, and the fifth at San Francisco. Dr. Sargent will probably accompany him in this round, and we anticipate a forward movement along the line as the result of their presence and efforts.

The child who has learned to see bright, glad things in life will more easily catch the gleam of heavenly radiance, which shall shine more and more brightly.

Aim high, but not so high as not to be able to hit anything.

Ex-Governor Shorter's Death-Bed.

The Christian Index, of Atlanta, Georgia, contains a full and most interesting account of the triumphant death of Ex-Governor John Gill Shorter. He was a member of the Baptist Church. We extract as follows:

On Saturday afternoon he was called upon by quite a number of friends, and many of the interviews were most deeply impressive. Among others were two members of the Eufaula bar. The first to approach him was an Ex-Confederate general, and a member of the "Catholic" Church. Grasping him warmly by the hand, he said most earnestly: "Why, how d'ye, general? I'm so glad to see you;" and still holding him by the hand and looking up into his face, his eyes all bright and beaming, he continued: "I am glad to meet you in this hour. I feel and know that I am fast entering the dark valley, but my faculties are all bright and clear as a sunbeam, and there is not a single shadow across my path. And, general, when you stand upon the brink where I now stand, may you have the same support and consolation to sustain and comfort you that I now have. Oh! the religion of Jesus; it is a precious truth; it is all a glorious fact; no doubt about it. And the atonement of Christ, general, is broad enough for you and for me, and for all of us, to stand upon." Here the other, an Ex-Confederate captain, and a member of the Methodist Church, came forward, and, taking him by the hand, he said: "How are you, captain — my Methodist brother? God bless you. Bro. ——, I am dying; I feel it and know it, but I am perfectly resigned. I die happy, and if it were not for sundering the ties, those fond ties, that bind us to kindred and loved ones, I would prefer to die rather than to live." To a very dear Christian brother, a member of his own church, he said, half smiling: "When you left me yesterday evening you didn't expect to see me any more on this side of the river, did you?"

On Sunday, exhausted by prolonged conversations, and under the influence of anodynes, he passed into a profound and seemingly unconscious sleep. Toward evening physicians and friends all thought that we had heard him for the last time on earth, and we sat till after midnight, thinking every hour, and almost every breath, would be his last, when suddenly and unexpectedly he awoke, refreshed by his rest, and began again and talked incessantly for hours. Other subjects had occupied his mind, and nothing had been said of his faith and hope in Christ. Wishing to hear from him again on that subject, and supposing others felt as I did, and thinking, too, that this was the last expiring flicker of the dying flame, I said to him: "Governor, you recognize us all yet, and your mental faculties seem strong. Is your faith still bright?" Looking up in my face and smiling, he replied: "My faith, my faith, my Christian faith! is that what you mean? Did you ever see the sunshine?" and then after a slight pause, and with the most solemn and impressive earnestness, he added: "As sure as the sun shines, and as true as the needle to the pole, so sure is my faith in the plan of redemption and in the atonement of the Lord Jesus Christ, which will stand firm as the everlasting hills." But I must close. In recalling these almost miraculous scenes, I feel as I did while witnessing them. It was with reluctance that I lost a single sentence.

During Monday and Monday night he continued to talk at times, but very feebly and with increasing difficulty; but when roused he seemed perfectly conscious and able to talk up to the very last. On Tuesday morning he asked for the Sunday School Paper, and wanted to find the story of the little boy who was willing to go down into the dark cellar if his father would hold the rope. And upon that Father, and the atonement of his Son, Jesus Christ, he stayed himself amid the swellings of Jordan, and as the dark billows were going over him, he exclaimed: "Thanks be unto God, who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ." Just a few hours before his death, fatigued and tired, and worn out with the long-protracted struggle, he whispered:

"To Canaan's fair and happy land,
Where my possessions lie."

A GOOD RULE FOR TRAVELERS.—It is a good and safe rule to sojourn in every place as if you meant to spend your life there, never omitting an opportunity of doing a kindness, or speaking a true word, or making a friend. Seeds thus sown by the wayside often bring forth an abundant harvest. You might so spend your summer among the people that they and their descendants should be better and happier, through time and eternity, for your works and your example.

IT IS EASIER to set a man against all the world than to make him fight with himself.

DEATH OF REV. N. M. TALBOTT.

This venerable minister died July 31. The editor of the St. Louis Christian Advocate states:

His health has been for some time past very precarious, and his death anticipated by himself and his friends. He was the oldest itinerant preacher in Missouri, after the death of Father Monroe, and his ministry abounded in industrious and self-sacrificing toil and great usefulness.

A communication to the St. Louis Advocate contains the following particulars:

Bro. Talbott was born March 27, 1805; entered the Kentucky Conference in June, 1825; has been forty-seven years in the itinerancy, about twenty years a missionary in the Indian Mission Conference. As some one wrote in reference to Father Monroe that he had not enough of this world's goods to pay his funeral expenses, so we have to say in reference to Bro. Talbott.

CHURCH DEDICATION.

MR. EDITOR: We dedicated a beautiful church, in Carrollton, Mississippi, on yesterday. When Rev. K. A. Jones took charge of the Black Hawk circuit he found a few scattered, dispirited Methodists in Carrollton worshiping in the Presbyterian church. Their own church had been torn down years ago, and it seemed impossible to build again; but, encouraged by a hopeful pastor, they undertook to procure themselves a place of worship. They bought the basement of the Masonic hall, and have seated it, etc., for church purposes, and when the painter and paperer put on the finishing touches, and their blinds are hung, they will have an elegant and imposing church.

There was a debt of $500 to be provided for, which the good citizens contributed cheerfully before we dedicated. Four new members joined. The church is much encouraged and strengthened every way. Carrollton is now a very good appointment. W. P. BARTON.

BLACK HAWK, MISS., Aug. 12, 1872.

Married.

By the Rev. J. L. Wright, at the residence of the bride, on Sunday, August 11, 1872, Mr. JOSEPH S. C. DUNCAN to Mrs. SARAH J. FOLK, all of Morehouse parish, Louisiana.

At the residence of the bride's father, on the evening of the eighth instant, by the Rev. J. H. Shelton, Mr. PHILIP LOMBANA to Miss ELVIRA REILY, all of Wilkinson county, Mississippi.

Agt's & Publisher's Department

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS OF LETTERS and Funds, Received by Mail, for the week ending Aug. 17, 1872:

A—James A Anderson, D Appleton & Co, Philip Allen.

B—Horace Bishop, J W Bryan, R W Bonds, Barnes & Wilkinson, A P Block, R Bubblington, O H Brewster, W P Burton, W H Barford, N E Brady, Milton Bradley & Co.

C—Thos Cameron, Colton, Zahm & Roberts 2 lots, Jas Chambers, J E Cobb.

D—C B DuBose, Dodd & Mead, T W Dyer, R B Downer, Geo J Dicks & Sons, J P Durr, R Daniel.

E—F E Evans.

F—J R Ferguson 50 cts, John A Field $21, F G Fowler, F M Featherstun $3.

G—A D Gaskill, Gould & Lincoln, J C Garrigues, G H Guines $2, H B Graham & Bro.

H—H Hines 60 cts, E Hill, A C Hundley.

K—Knowlton Bros, C Keener.

L—A C Littlejohn 2 lots, J B Lippincott, A W Lake 75 cts.

M—J M McKee, E W Moore $2.90, J M Mason $2, Rev J Mathews $1, W S Mount, Mrs M C Martin, W A Montgomery, H D Moore $6, A D McVoy.

N—J T Newcomer.

P—D W Proctor 25 cts, W R Prather $2, A Powe $3.75, Packard & Lamptou, Powers Paper Co.

R—Wm N Raines, A H Redford 3 lots, A D F Randolph, E E F Ross 3 lots, J K Randall, S P Rice $5.

S—J H Sheldon $1.05, J W Schermerhorn, G S Seofield, A A Staples 50 cts, B L Selman, A Sanders, J D Saint, Wm Simpson $2, N M Skipworth, A G Still $18.

T—W Tucker 2 lots, C D Turner.

W—J W Watson, T B White, W N Warner 50 cts, Horace Waters, W H Wetherby, Wilson, Hinkle & Co, W S Winters, W J Williams 25 cts, Jas L Wright, E A West.

ADVOCATE PRESS FOR SALE.—Our press is too small. Our present size, 29 by 43 inches, is the largest we can print on it. The increase of business and demands of our readers require that we should part with our beautiful Hoe cylinder printing machine, which, with eighteen pounds of steam, will print from thirteen hundred to fifteen hundred per hour. See the work, as in our issue, and call or send a competent judge on Mondays or Wednesdays to see it in motion, if you wish to buy. We will entertain propositions from first-class manufacturers for exchange. Address

ROBT. J. HARP, Publisher.

MR. E. E. F. ROSS, our resident advertising agent, is now on a brief tour through the West and North, and we commend him to the attention of our patrons, and shall be thankful for courtesies extended to him. They are assured that Mr. Ross has no other business, but devotes his entire time to the paper, and is entitled to all the consideration of one of its business corps. Mr. Ross may be found at the Bingham House, corner of Eleventh and Market streets, Philadelphia.

OUR AGENT FOR LONDON AND LIVERPOOL.—Robert Babington, Esq., will represent the claims of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE during the season in London and Liverpool, and other parts of the United Kingdom.

IRON COTTON TIES.—Bartlett & Rayne. These gentlemen, whose advertisement appears in another column, it will be seen, have absorbed, so to speak, all the business in their line in this city. They are the general agents now for the Arrow, the Anchor, the Self-Fastening, and also the Wallis, the Improved Alligator and the Dunn. These, we believe, comprise all the ties of any note that are manufactured. They are made of the very best English iron, and sold under full guarantee, at the lowest market rates, by all dealers in every city in the Union, and by country merchants throughout the cotton States. It is useless for us, at this late date, to offer anything in regard to the superiority of iron over the old mode of rope in baling cotton, for it has become a fact of the past, so patent as to need no argument.

A NEW MUSIC BOOK FOR CHURCHES, called the "Advance," has just been published by S. Brainard's Sons, Cleveland, Ohio, which is sure to be popular. Send to the publisher $1.25 for a sample copy, or $12 for one dozen.

CONFERENCE REGISTER.

Conference.	Place.	Time.	Bishop.
Western	Nebr'a City	Sep. 4	Pierce.
Illinois	Rushville	Sep. 4	Marvin.
Kentucky	Harrodsb'g	Sep. 4	Kavanaugh.
Missouri	Mexico	Sep. 11	Pierce.
Pacific	Gilroy	Sep. 18	McTyeire.
W. Virginia	Parkersb'g	Sep. 18	Kavanaugh
W. St. Louis	Nevada C'y	Oct. 2	Pierce.
Louisville	Lebanon	Oct. 2	Marvin.
Indian Miss.	Ocmulgee	Oct. 2	Wightman.
Holston	Chattano'a	Oct. 2	Doggett.
St Louis	Arcadia	Oct. 16	Pierce.
Arkansas	Bentonville	Oct. 16	Wightman.
Tennessee	Nashville	Oct. 16	Doggett.
N. Angeles	Los Nietos	Oct. 16	McTyeire.
N. W. Texas	Belton	Oct. 23	Keener.
White River	Augusta	Oct. 30	Wightman.
Trinity	Sal. Springs	Nov. 6	Keener.
Memphis	Somerville	Nov. 20	Wightman.
N. Alabama	Tuskaloosa	Nov 20	Doggett.
East Texas	Tyler	Nov 20	Keener.
Virginia	Petersburg	Nov. 20	Paine.
N. Georgia	Atlanta	Nov. 27	Marvin.
N. Missis'ppi	Corinth	Nov. 27	Kavanaugh
Little Rock	Pine Bluff	Dec. 4	Wightman.
Texas	Bryan	Dec. 4	Keener.
N. Carolina	Raleigh	Dec. 4	Paine.
S. Georgia	Thomasv'le	Dec. 11	Marvin.
Mississippi	Brandon	Dec. 11	Kavanaugh
Alabama	Eufaula	Dec. 11	Doggett.
West Texas	Victoria	Dec. 18	Keener.
S. Carolina	Anderson	Dec. 18	Paine.
Louisiana	N. Orleans	Jan. 8	Pierce.
Florida	Fernandina	Jan. 8	Marvin.
Baltimore	Baltimore	Mar. 5	Paine.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Scrofula is the dread disease which annually sweeps its thousands to the grave. It makes its appearance in many forms: in Consumption, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Cutaneous Diseases, many of the affections with which females are troubled, etc. Perhaps no one is wholly free from its taint. The only way it can be successfully treated is through the medium of the circulation. It is a blood disease. Dr. Tutt's Sarsaparilla possesses the qualities to expel it from the system and restore perfect health. Being free from violent minerals, it may be taken with safety by old and young. The most delicate female may take it at any time.

If your child has worms, or a bad breath, or sallow complexion, or restless at night, or no appetite, or general bad health, give it Dr. Tutt's Liver Pills. It will soon be restored. au22 1t

Dr. Tutt's Hair Dye Imparts Life to the Hair.

Best and Oldest Family Medicine.—Sanford's Liver Invigorator.—A purely Vegetable Cathartic and Tonic, for Dyspepsia, Constipation, Debility, Sick-headache, Bilious attacks, and all derangements of Liver, Stomach and Bowels. Ask your druggist for it. Beware of imitations. jal1 1yeow

Mrs. Whitcomb's Syrup.—The great soothing remedy. Price only 25 cents. Gives rest to the mother and health to the child. Sold by druggists. jy18 1y

Have your Printing and Binding Done at

THE PELICAN JOB OFFICE,

112 and 114 Poydras St., New Orleans.

jal8 1y

The Equitable Life Assurance Society, New York.

Assets, $18,000,000. Income, $8,000,000.

Branch office—33 CAMP STREET.

A. P. CLEVELAND,
General Agent.

fe8 1y

Dr. Henry's Root and Plant Pills.—Mild yet thorough; no nausea or griping; entirely vegetable; great Liver remedy. Price, 25 cents. Sold by druggists. jy18 1y

Use Dr. Henry's World's Tonic and BLOOD PURIFIER.—It is the great household remedy, pleasant to take, yet potent for the prevention and cure of diseases. It is better than Bitters, Cordials, Buchu or Sarsaparilla. Sold by druggists. jy18 1y

Caution!—Every genuine box of DR. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS bears the signature of Fleming Brothers, Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, and their private United States stamp. ☞ Take no other; the market is full of Imitations.

It is the popular verdict that people who have been accustomed to the use of Bitters or Cordials are obliged eventually to resort to McLane's Liver Pills for permanent relief. ap25 6m

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

GARDEN SEEDS,

FIELD SEEDS,

FLOWER SEEDS.

Grown largely by ourselves, on our own grounds, near Haddonfield, New Jersey.

COLLINS, DOWNS & CO.,
Warehouse, 1113 Market street,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Catalogue and Price-List furnished on application. The trade supplied on liberal terms. au22 3m

A Harvest of Diamonds has rewarded the toil of certain lucky adventurers under the burning sun of Africa; but what is the value of the rarest gem that ever glittered in crown or turban when compared with that of a medicinal remedy that cures dyspepsia and biliousness, restores the appetite, regulates the disordered bowels, and tones and invigorates the whole vital system? Science has bestowed upon the world this inestimable gift in which is, to all other preparations of its class, what the diamond is among jewels, and, when foaming in the goblet of the fevered invalid, as bright and sparkling. Sold by all druggists. au22 2t

Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient,

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY.

THE NEXT SESSION OF THIS INSTITUTION will commence on

The First Wednesday in October.

It is one of the cheapest and most thorough colleges in this country. The instruction is of the highest character in all the schools of its Collegiate, Medical and Law Departments.

Board is from $10 to $16 per month.

For particulars and catalogue address Dr. A. G. Andrews or Prof. O. F. Casey.

A. S. ANDREWS, President.

GREENSBORO, ALA., July 14, 1872. au22 6t

Centenary Female College,

SUMMERFIELD, ALA.

THE THIRTIETH SESSION OPENS SEPTEMBER 23, 1872.

The Literary, Music and Art Departments are well organized and under a competent faculty.

The peculiar advantages are health, cheapness and thorough instruction.

Board and tuition, $230; if all paid in advance, $220. Club rates, $210.

For catalogue and further information address A. D. MCVOY, President.

au22 1m

TUSKEGEE FEMALE COLLEGE,

TUSKEGEE, ALA.

THE SEVENTEENTH ANNUAL SESSION begins SEPTEMBER 16, 1872. The entire expense per annum of a boarding pupil, who takes no extra study, is $250, exclusive of books. No extra charge for vocal music, calisthenics or elementary drawing. For circulars, containing full information, apply to the President,

REV. HENRY H. MOORE,
Tuskegee, Alabama.

an22 1m

HOMER COLLEGE.

THE SCHOLASTIC EXERCISES OF THE Thirteenth Annual Term of Homer College begin on the First Tuesday of SEPTEMBER next, 1872.

Tuition at the rate of $5 per month. Board from $12 to $15 per month.

Students received in regular classes only, and to the end of a session.

A Preparatory Department, under competent management, is attached to the college. Tuition, $4 to $5 per month.

For further particulars address

REV. J. E. COBB,
President Homer College, La.

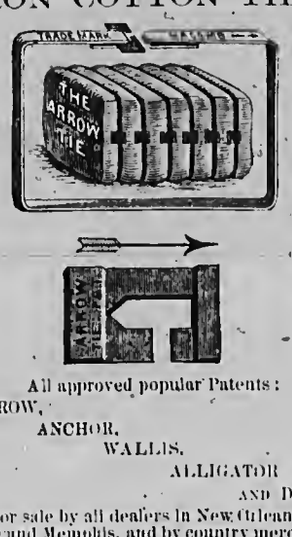
By order of the Board.

W. F. MORELAND,
Pres't. Board of Trustees. an22 3m

IMPORTANT TO PLANTERS.

IRON COTTON TIES.

THE ARROW TIE.



AND ALL OPEN-SLOT TIES.

All approved popular Patents:

ARROW,
ANCHOR,
WALLIS,
ALLIGATOR
AND DUNN.

For sale by all dealers in New Orleans, Mobile and Memphis, and by country merchants generally throughout the Cotton States.

BARTLETT & RAYNE,
General Agents,
48 Carondelet street, cor. Union,
my30 6m New Orleans.

VALUABLE BOOKS.

THE ENCYCLOPEDIA OF RELIGIOUS Knowledge. New revised edition. Designed as a complete book of reference on all religious subjects. Illustrated by wood-cuts, maps and engravings on copper and steel. Royal 8vo., sheep, extra, $6.

THE COMPREHENSIVE COMMENTARY on the Holy Bible. Six volumes, including Supplement, sheep, library style, $20.

COLEMAN'S HISTORICAL TEXT BOOK and Atlas of Biblical Geography. By Rev. Lyman Coleman, D. D. Imperial 8vo., new edition. Cloth, $2.

LABBERTON'S HISTORICAL SERIES.

LABBERTON'S OUTLINES OF HISTORY, with Original Tables, Chronological, Genealogical and Literary. By Prof. Robert H. Labberton, LL. D. Oblong 4to., cloth, $2.

LABBERTON'S HISTORICAL QUESTIONS, logically arranged and divided. Oblong quarto, cloth, $1.75.

LABBERTON'S HISTORICAL ATLAS, containing One Hundred Colored Maps, illustrating successive periods, from the Dawn of History to the Present Day. One volume, oblong quarto, cloth, $3.50.

For sale by booksellers generally.

CLAXTON, REMSEN & HAFFELFINGER,
an22 3m Publishers, Philadelphia.

JUST PUBLISHED.

AT THE ALTAR.

A ROMANCE.

From the German of E. Werner,

Author of "Hermann," "The Hero of the Pen," etc.

BY J. S. L.

12mo. Fine Cloth. $1.50.

A spirited translation of a powerful story, whose concentrated and able plot and delicate characterization give to it an unusual degree of interest.

THROWN TOGETHER.

A Story. By FLORENCE MONTGOMERY, author of "Misunderstood," "A Very Simple Story," etc. 12mo. Fine cloth. $1.50.

"A thoroughly delightful story—sunny, fresh, piquant and winsome."—Boston Journal.

BY HIS OWN MIGHT.

A Romance. From the German of WILHELMINE VON HILLERN, author of "Only a Girl," etc. 12mo. Fine cloth. $1.75.

"Full of life and character, overflowing with vigorous and true studies, possessing very great delicacy in the treatment of emotion, and very great beauty and freshness in dealing with nature."—New Haven Palladium.

For sale by booksellers generally, or will be sent by mail, postpaid, upon receipt of the price by

J. B. LIPPINCOTT & CO., Publishers,
au22 2t 715 and 717 Market st., Philadelphia.

THE GREAT CHURCH MUSIC BOOK.

THE ADVANCE,

BY H. S. PERKINS.

This valuable collection of new Music for choirs, conventions, singing schools, etc., is now ready, and promises to be

THE SUCCESS OF THE SEASON.

Everything new, fresh and attractive. All wishing the best should examine THE ADVANCE before deciding on a new book.

☞ Price, $1.25, or $12 per dozen. A single copy sent for examination on receipt of $1. Specimen pages free.

S. BRAINARD'S SONS,
an22 1yeow Music Publishers, Cleveland, O.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

East Mississippi Female College,

MERIDIAN, MISS.

THIS INSTITUTION has passed through its first year, and will resume its exercises on WEDNESDAY, the second of October next, in the new building.

The success of the school has equaled the expectation of its most sanguine friends. Its future is promising.

The entire Faculty of the past year is retained, and others will be added as necessity may require.

The course of study is ample and thorough, and it will be the prime object of the Faculty to make good scholars and accomplished ladies of those committed to their care.

There will be room with the President for boarders.

This school is situated at Meridian, a healthful and growing place in the eastern part of Mississippi, on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, 135 miles north of Mobile, and is also accessible by railroad both from the east and west. It was adopted by the Mississippi Conference at its last session, and, as the child of said Conference, is under its special patronage.

For particulars apply to the undersigned, President of the Faculty, at Meridian, Miss. an22 2t S. P. RICE.

TUSKALOOSA FEMALE COLLEGE,

TUSKALOOSA, ALABAMA.

THE NEXT SESSION OPENS SEPTEMBER 23, 1872.

The beautiful and healthy city of Tuskaloosa, Alabama, is unsurpassed as a location.

The Faculty will consist of three Professors and eight or ten Lady Assistants.

Course of study thorough. Domestic arrangements complete. Young ladies' sleeping apartments elegantly furnished and carpeted. Health department includes a finely-conducted Gymnasium. This College is believed to be equal to the best in the United States, and the cheapest in the South. Special advantages for orphan children whose guardians wish to furnish them a home and school in one. For particulars and catalogue address the proprietor,

REV. B. F. LARRABEE,
jy18 3m Tuskaloosa, Alabama.

EMORY AND HENRY COLLEGE,

VIRGINIA.

THE FALL SESSION of this institution begins on the FIFTEENTH OF AUGUST next. One Hundred and Fifteen Dollars will pay all the necessary expenses of a five-month session, including board, tuition, fuel, room-rent, washing and contingent fees. Payments are required in advance, except for board, which is $13 per month, and payable monthly in advance. If you will consult the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and her ministers generally, our alumni and students, or the professors of the University of Virginia, who have authorized this reference, you will be assured that we are offering excellent opportunities for a thorough collegiate training, surrounded by healthful, moral, religious influences. If you desire a catalogue, or any additional information, address

E. E. WILEY, President,
je20 4m Emory P. O., Virginia.

Wesleyan Female College,

MACON, GEORGIA.

THE THIRTY-FIFTH ANNUAL SESSION will begin OCTOBER 7, 1872.

For catalogues, containing full information, address

REV. E. H. MYERS, D. D.,
President, or
C. W. SMITH,
au15 2m Secretary of Faculty.

WANTED.—A NO. 1 PROFESSOR OF Ancient and Modern Languages, graduate of the University of Heidelberg, who can come well recommended, desires a SITUATION in a College or other institution of learning. Address, for further particulars,

ADVOCATE OFFICE.
au15 3t 112 Camp st., New Orleans.

AGENTS WANTED FOR

SECRETS OF THE CONVENT AND CONFESSIONAL.

BY JULIA M'NAIR WRIGHT.

The most thrilling and powerful book ever written on this subject. It presents a startling array of facts, and contains revelations never before made public.

Send for circulars and terms to

NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.,
274 and 276 Second street,
au1 6m Memphis, Tenn.

SMITH, ENGLISH & CO.,
BOOKSELLERS AND IMPORTERS,
(ESPECIALLY OF THEOLOGICAL BOOKS),
No. 710 Arch street, Philadelphia.

☞ S., E. & Co. have on hand the best and most complete assortment of THEOLOGICAL BOOKS for sale in the country. Send for Complete Classified Catalogue, 25 cents, or with Alphabetical Index 50 cents—the best guide to purchasers in this department ever published. au15 2m

WATER

The Records of Tests

AT LOWELL, MASS., PROVE

N. F. BURNHAM'S

New Turbine

superior to all others. It gave a higher percentage than any other wheel of common finish. Pamphlet and Price List by N. F. BURNHAM, York, Pa. ap25 6m

For Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FINE-TONED, WARRANTED, LOW-PRICED. Descriptive circular sent free.

BLYMYER, NORTON & CO.,
661–694 W. Eighth st., Cincinnati, O.
jn25 26teow

AGENTS WANTED for the Autobiography of HORACE GREELEY. A new illustrated edition, now ready. Get this, the only edition written by himself and indorsed by the Tribune; and our 1872 CAMPAIGN MANUAL for all parties, just out; price, $1.50. One agent sold 86 in three days. Splendid Steel Portraits of Greeley, also of Grant. $300 a month made selling the above.

E. B. TREAT, Publisher,
jy25 4m 805 Broadway, N. Y.

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA,

CHARLOTTESVILLE.

THE SESSION COMMENCES ON OCTOBER 1. The Institution embraces an Academic Department, and Departments of Law, Medicine, Engineering and Agriculture. For catalogues apply to WM. WERTENBAKER, Secretary of the Faculty, P. O. University of Virginia. CHAS. S. VENABLE, Chairman of the Faculty. au8 tm

BREWER & HILTON,
MANUFACTURERS OF
Thomas Worsley's Celebrated Fancy, Shaving and Toilet Soaps,

Also J. D. SMITH & CO.'S world-renowned Pearl Powders, Lily Whites, Rouges, etc.

NO. 114 ARCH STREET, PHILADELPHIA.
All goods warranted. au8 3m

SHERMAN HOUSE, NO. 1 WEST TWENTY-Sixth street, New York. MR. ELKINS, Proprietor. Strangers visiting New York, desiring the comforts and retirement of a home and attendance of a hotel, in a first-class central location, can find the same at from $25 to $40 per week for a gentleman and wife; transient, $3 per day; American plan; lodgings, $1. je27 3m

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Whitworth Female College,

AT BROOKHAVEN, MISS.

THE CONTINUED SUCCESS OF THIS INstitution is one of the best evidences of its merit. During the past term there were in attendance two hundred and twenty-nine pupils.

The members of the Faculty eleven in number—are selected on account of their ability to teach.

Prof. ECKHARDT, Music Director, has few equals.

Madame JULIEN, a Parisian lady of eighteen years' successful experience as a teacher, has been engaged to take charge of the French and Ornamental Department.

The very best care is taken of our pupils, both as to health and manners. Fires are provided for all.

No extravagance in dress is allowed.

The good health of Brookhaven is proverbial. Pupils from the miasmatic regions of Louisiana and Mississippi find this as healthful a school as can be found anywhere.

The charges are believed to be lower than in any school in the Southwest where similar advantages are afforded. Only from $230 to $255 for all expenses, excepting music, French and the ornamental branches.

No expense is spared in purchasing the most approved apparatus, maps, charts, etc., and all necessary school furniture.

Brookhaven is located on the New Orleans, Jackson and Great Northern Railroad, 128 miles from the city.

Catalogues sent free on application to au1 6m REV. H. F. JOHNSON, Prest.

MANSFIELD FEMALE COLLEGE,

Mansfield, DeSoto Parish, La.

THIS INSTITUTION, ENTERING UPON its Eighteenth Year, well supplied with Apparatus and other educational aids, and employing the most approved methods of instruction and government, will commence its Fall Session for 1872 on WEDNESDAY, the Twenty-fifth day of September, with a full corps of accomplished Teachers. For catalogues, with all particulars, address

CHARLES B. STUART,
au8 2m President.

UNIVERSITY OF LOUISIANA,

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT,
NEW ORLEANS.

FACULTY—A. H. CENAS, M. D., Emeritus Professor of Obstetrics.

JAMES JONES, M. D., Professor of Obstetrics.

T. G. RICHARDSON, M. D., Professor of Surgery.

SAMUEL M. BEMISS, M. D., Professor of Medicine.

STANFORD E. CHAILLE, M. D., Professor of Physiology.

FRANK HAWTHORN, M. D., Professor of Materia Medica.

JOSEPH JONES, M. D., Professor of Chemistry.

SAMUEL LOGAN, M. D., Prof. of Anatomy.

E. SOUCHON, M. D., Demonstrator of Anatomy.

The Thirty-fifth annual course of instruction in this Department will commence on Monday, the eighteenth of November, 1872, and terminate on the second Saturday of March, 1873. Preliminary Lectures on Clinical Medicine and Surgery will be delivered in the amphitheater of the Charity Hospital, beginning on the eighteenth of October, without any charge to students. The Anatomical rooms will be opened at the same time.

The members of the Faculty are Visiting Physicians and Surgeons to the Charity Hospital, where more than six thousand patients are annually treated, and give instruction daily at the bedside of the sick. The practical advantages thus offered to students are unsurpassed.

FEES.—For all the Lectures, $140; Matriculation, $5; Practical Anatomy, $10; Graduation, $30. Payment required in advance.

For further information address

T. G. RICHARDSON, M. D.,
jy25 4m Dean.

TEAS FREE OF DUTY.

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES.

J. W. PLATT & CO.,

103 Camp street, corner of Poydras,

RECEIVE THEIR TEAS directly from the importers, and furnish them to consumers in any quantity desired, with one small profit only added on Cargo Prices in New York, or about one-third less than the usual charge for similar goods at ordinary retail stores. Housekeepers who wish to reduce the cost of their household stores will please notice the following Price List, which includes the finest Teas imported:

IMPERIAL Green, 50 cts., 80 cts.; Choice, $1 per lb.; Extra choicest, $1.25 per lb.

YOUNG HYSON Green, 50 cts.; Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.25 per lb.

GUNPOWDER Green, Choice, $1.25; Extra choicest, $1 50 per lb.

OOLING (Black), 50 cts., 80 cts.; Choice, $1; Extra Choicest, $1.20 per lb.

ENGLISH BREAKFAST, 50 cts., 75 cts.; Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.25 per lb.

JAPAN (Natural Leaf), Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.20 per lb.

ORANGE PEKAE (Black), Extra choicest, $1.50 per lb.

MIXED (Green and Black), 50 cts., 75 cts.; Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.20 per lb.

We recommend our Extra Choicest Teas as the best in market. Special prices to wholesale buyers. au1 1m

WILLIAM HOGAN,
Manufacturer of and Dealer in
BOOTS, SHOES, TRUNKS, VALISES AND BAGS,
FRENCH AND AMERICAN,
Also Agent for the EMPIRE SEWING MACHINE,
99 AND 101 CANAL STREET,
au1 3m New Orleans.

S. COLLINS & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS OF
PRINTING INK,
Office and Depot—46 Frankfort Street,
jy25 6m NEW YORK.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S

STEEL PENS,

OF THE OLD STANDARD QUALITY.

TRADE MARK: JOSEPH GILLOTT, Or Descriptive Name and Designation Warranted. ming Number.

The well-known Original and Popular Nos.

303.....104.....170.....351,

having been assumed by other makers, we desire to caution the public in respect to said imitations. ☞ ASK FOR GILLOTT'S.

JOS. GILLOTT & SONS,
jy25 1y 91 John street, N. Y.

OCEAN SPRINGS.

Summer Resort.—Board at the Seaside.

THE SUBSCRIBER has taken the MORRIS HOUSE, at Ocean Springs, which has just undergone a thorough repair, and will be open to boarders who wish to enjoy a pleasant home, good bathing, fresh sea air, and luxuriate on fish and oysters during the heat of summer.

Terms for board: $40 per month, $10 per week, and $2 per day. Apply to the subscriber by mail, at Ocean Springs.

Refer to Bishop Keener, Rev. Robert J. Harp, A. L. Bunnica & Co., and Samuel Russ, Esq., New Orleans.

WM. C. CHAMBERLIN.
APRIL 20, 1872. ap25 1f

WANTED.—BY A SINGLE LADY OF this city, a thorough graduate in the Collegiate course, with the best references, a SCHOOL, or a situation in a school. Would not object to a situation in the country. Address LETTER "A," Advocate Office, 112 Camp street, New Orleans. jy25 1m

The Child's Corner.

SERMON FOR THE BOYS.

BY ALICE CARY.

The boy who does a stroke and stops,
Will ne'er a great man be:
'Tis the aggregate of single drops
That makes the sea, the sea.

The mountain was not at its birth
A mountain, so to speak:
The little atoms of sand and earth
Have made its peak a peak.

Not all at once the morning streams—
The gold above the gray:
'Tis a thousand little yellow gleams
That makes the day a day.

Not from the snow-drift May awakes
In purples, reds and greens:
Spring's whole bright retinue it takes
To make her queen of queens.

The Tongue.

BY NEIL FOREST.

"And touched his tongue."—Mark vii. 33.

In the four chapters I have already written for you, children, I have told you about being kind, about praying, about praising God, and about fearing him. Now, in praying and praising and worshiping, we make use of a very little member. Do you know what it is?

The tongue? Yes. It's a little thing, is it not? And yet, do you know it is about the most important thing in the whole world? How should we get along without our tongues? Very badly, I think, you'll all agree. But how would other people get along without our tongues? Oh, that's the thing to think about!

Chatter, chatter, chatter, go the little red things all day long in children's mouths, until mamma says: "Oh! dear, little ones, can't you hold your tongues just a little while?" No! they can't. They try, may be, for a few minutes, but then—chatter, chatter, chatter, they go again, and never stop till night comes and the little mouths and eyes are closed in sleep.

Now, the great question is, What is all this chattering about? How have the tongues behaved themselves? Have they spoken kind, loving words all day long, or have they said sharp, cross, angry things? Have they thanked God for his goodness, or have they dared to take his holy name in vain? Have they spoken the truth always, or have they told lies?

The same tongue can do all these things.

Suppose that every night when we went to bed we had to have a sharp thorn run into our tongues for every naughty word it had said all day long. Oh, dear! oh, dear! wouldn't some of our tongues be like rose-bushes? I, for one, don't like to think about that!

But do you know that cross, angry words prick into our friends' hearts just like thorns, and sometimes, when we are very bad, we have made others' hearts as sore as our tongues would be if they were full of thorns?

Yes, and moreover, if we have dared to lie or to swear, we have wounded our own souls. Oh! we have pierced them through and through, and they are sick and so sore that nothing but the loving touch of the Great Physician can ever heal them again.

See what mischief we can do ourselves and others by using our tongues! But we can do good too. A gentle, kind word is as much like the rose as the cross one is like the thorn. We can all bring roses, sweet, lovely ones, to our friends to make them happy. And when we pray to God, or thank and bless him, that is like sunlight falling on our souls. We all love sunlight and roses better than thorns and sores, I am very sure.

Do you remember that story about the man who had an impediment in his speech and came to Jesus to be cured? He was not dumb; he had partly the use of his tongue, but he spoke in such a way as to be very disagreeable to others, I dare say, or perhaps, though he could make sounds, still his words were so indistinct that no one could understand him. Like every one who ever came to Jesus, he was cured. The Bible says that Jesus touched his tongue, and after that he spoke plainly.

What we all want and need is, that Jesus should touch our tongues. Of course I do not mean in just the way in which he touched that man's, because we know that he is no longer on earth, and we cannot go and see him as that man did, and have him lay his hand upon us.

But he is just as truly alive in heaven as he was on earth, and whatever we ask him to do that will make us pure and holy, he will do, just as surely as though we saw him and he were to touch us really and truly.

If we pray to him very earnestly not to let us sin with our tongues he will help us, and we shall grow careful about what we say. If we feel angry all of a sudden and are just ready to say something wicked, oh, in that moment, if we could only remember to say, "Dear Lord Jesus, touch my tongue," that wicked word would not be spoken. It only takes a moment to pray—the thought, as it passes through our hearts like a flash, is a prayer, and one that is heard. I do not mean that if we were to say those words without truly feeling them, that they would be prayer.

For here is a singular thing. Although it is capable of doing so much good and so much harm, the tongue is a silly, weak, little thing, and can't do either good or harm all by itself. It acts just as the soul tells it to act; it is servant to the soul. If the soul is wicked, the tongue is wicked; if the soul is pure, the tongue is pure; if the soul is weak, the tongue is weak.

Don't you know when the doctor comes to see you when you are sick, he always asks to look at your tongue? He can tell by its appearance what is the matter with you. If it looks one way, he says you have got the measles, and if it looks some other way, he says scarlet fever or indigestion, or something else with a long name. This is because the tongue is a regular tell tale! It tells what is the matter with the body. By looking at it the doctor can tell what ails you.

But it is by hearing it that others can tell what is the matter with the soul. Listen to that boy in the street—how dreadfully he is swearing! Oh, his soul is very, very sick, and his tongue tells it. Is it so sick, I wonder, because it has never been cared for by dear friends? May be. For souls and bodies both get sick for want of care. I hope some one will care for that poor sick soul! Any one who heard that wicked oath might do so by asking Jesus to touch his tongue.

Now hear that little child tell a lie because it is afraid of punishment! Oh, that child's soul is weak. It does not want to be wicked, but it is cowardly, timid, weak. See how the tongue tells what is the matter!

Do you know how those around you can help to strengthen that little soul? By being kind to it, patient and loving; by being gentle and just, never frightening it with an angry word or an unjust accusation. Children, do you know how much you can do in this way toward keeping others from sin? In time that weak soul will grow stronger if it is surrounded by love, just as a tender plant grows more and more vigorous if it is kept in the sunshine. Give the little weak souls time and love. This is what their Maker gives them when, sorry and humble, they pray for strength and to be forgiven for that sin. The Lord touches their tongues; his Holy Spirit strengthens their souls.

But what shall we say of ourselves when, after having known God's love and justice toward us, we say harsh, censorious, bitter, unkind words of others, or ridicule them to bring a laugh from thoughtless lips; when we, by our wicked words, stab an absent friend, or sit looking at one by our side with sunshine smiling on our lips, but an angry cloud in our hearts, and suddenly strike like the lightning with our tongues? What can be said of us? Surely, not that we have been with Jesus.

"Never man spake like this man." "And all wondered at the gracious words that proceeded out of his mouth."

What shall we say of ourselves? Why, that we are miserable sinners. But Christ died for miserable sinners. Then, sighing and looking up to heaven, let us pray for his divine touch.—New York Observer.

A Talk About the Birds.

In my younger days I followed the plow, and I always had a great company of birds following the plow behind me, picking up the worms and insects which I turned up. They would come close up behind me; so near, in fact, that I could take them in my hands; but that would have frightened them away.

Sometimes they would venture to alight on my plow, and take a ride through the field, and turn up their little sparkling eyes to see that I did not disturb them. Then they would fly on to an apple-tree and sing me one of their very prettiest songs. They would follow me all day long, and be there again next morning on the apple trees, waiting for me, and singing their morning song long before I went into the field to work. My neighbors complained bitterly of the birds, because they stole their cherries as soon as they were ripe, and spent some time in shooting them down and frightening them away—a bad policy, to say the best about it. But I did no such thing. I never lost a cherry, and kept on the best terms with the birds all the time. The way I kept my cherries was this. Every spring, as soon as the bluebirds came around, I would make this bargain with them. I would furnish them with a nice, pretty cottage, rent free, for them to bring up a family in, if they would take care of my cherries, and not let the other birds get at them. "Now, Uncle Tim, you are certainly telling us a yarn this time," exclaim a half dozen voices in full chorus. Not so fast, my young friends. Wait a bit, and I will tell you all about it. The way I made the bargain was this. Every spring, as soon as the bluebirds came round to look out a home for the summer months, I took a gourd, made a hole near the bottom, large enough for the birds to go in and out, and hung it up in the cherry tree; or, if I had no gourd suitable for them, I took a small box, made a hole near the bottom, and hung that in the tree.

It did not often hang long before the birds would come, take a look at their cottage, and then go to work fitting it up for their family. Now a bluebird, when bringing up a family, is well known to be the most fighting character we have among us, if he is a little fellow, and about the time cherries are ripe their cottage would be full of plump, fat fellows, and it kept both parents busy to feed so many little ones. Robins are noted for their love of nice ripe cherries any time they can get them.

Well, the robins would be watching to see when they were ripe, and as soon as they were ripe one would fly on to the tree, thinking to get a nice meal of cherries, but before he had time to pick out the ripest fruit, down upon him would pounce one of the bluebirds, knocking him off the limb, and send him off fluttering, crying and half frightened out of his wits. No matter how large the bird that came after cherries, every one went away a little faster than he came, and went away without a cherry.

I have often thought that one of those birds sat on those trees and kept watch while the other was away picking up food for the loved ones at home, but not a cherry did the bluebirds even touch.—Christian Intelligencer.

SIR ISAAC NEWTON was a pronounced dunce in his early school days. He stood low in his classes, and seemed to have no relish for study. One day the "bright boy" of the school gave him a kick in the stomach which caused him severe pain. The insult stung young Newton to the quick, and he resolved to make himself felt and respected by improved scholarship. He applied himself resolutely to study, and ere long stood in his classes above the boy who kicked him, and ultimately became the first scholar in the school.

GOD'S Bible promises are like golden basketsful of sweet fruit let down by golden chords from heaven.

The Farm and Garden.

About Fruit Trees.

TRANSPLANTING PEACH TREES.—In transplanting peaches, select trees of a straight, robust growth. They should be examined twice a year, in February and June, and all the grubs and worms removed; at the same time half a shovel full of lime or leached ashes may advantageously be applied to the tree.

CEMENT FOR WOUNDED TREES.—A cement, made by dissolving shellac in alcohol, has never been surpassed as a shield for covering the wounds made by pruning fruit trees. All wounds upon fruit trees should be covered with this composition.

LARGE FRUIT TREES.—If you wish to have large and rapid-growing fruit trees, save all the small roots in transplanting, give good tillage, mulch and wash with lye or soft soap.

LIME AROUND APPLE TREES.—Some farmers make it a regular practice to throw caustic lime around their apple trees in the spring and summer. Not the health of the trees only, but the fruit also will be greatly improved by its application. This application will be especially beneficial in soils where there is lack of vegetable matter. We would advise our farmers in many places to make use of lime around apple trees at least once in four or five years.

FEED THE FRUIT TREES.—It must be apparent to every reflecting person that the material round about a fruit tree which renders important aid in the production of fine fruit, of any kind, must necessarily be more or less exhausted after a vine, bush or tree has produced abundant crops for several successive seasons. For example: a large pear or apple tree will frequently yield from ten to sixteen bushels of fruit annually. Many trees have produced more than twice these quantities at one crop. After a few seasons the material that the roots must be supplied with, in order to develop fruit, will more or less be exhausted. For this reason fruit begins to fail, and the failure is often attributed to an east wind, or some mysterious atmospheric influence, when in reality the sole cause is from starvation, arising from an impoverished soil. The remedy is to feed the roots of all kinds of fruit trees with lime, wood-ashes, gypsum, chip-dirt, bones, fishes and anything that will renovate an impoverished soil. It is evident that fruit trees cannot produce fine fruit out of nothing, or out of such material as may be desirable for some other purpose.

MANURING FRUIT TREES.—Many fruit trees, which have been considered valueless, may be recovered by being manured in the fall and winter, and during warm days, when the surface of the soil is not frozen; even stimulating manures may be applied with impunity, and covered with earth. Thus, Peruvian guano or stable manure, applied in the fall, will be so divided through the soil by spring as not to injure the young spongioles from the root when they resume growth; whereas, if applied after the spring growth commences, the spangioles will be injured. Lime, ashes and other manures, appropriate to different soils and trees, may be applied in a similar manner. Peach trees should be had bare to the top of the roots at the beginning of winter, and the crops of the next year will be materially increased, while it destroys the ova of insects resident in the soil.

SPECIAL MANURE FOR GRAPES.—A manure composed of potash and of wood-ashes is the best for grapes.

Novel Farming.

The richness of the reclaimed swamp and overflowed lands in most parts of the State is proverbial. At no points are they found more so than on the "floral isles," so called, which lie along the Sacramento river. A correspondent of the Enterprise, writing from Twitchell Island, gives the following description of how the islands are prepared, planted, and seed "harrowed" in. The tules grow from five to ten feet in height during the rainy season. As soon as the water dries up in the spring, the tules are fired, and although they look green they burn like wild oats. After the burning is done there is a coating of ashes on the ground, from two to ten inches in depth, resembling light snow. The seed is sown on the surface without further preparation. A flock of sheep is then driven over the ground, in a compact body, by five or six men, in such a manner as to compel them to go over the whole surface. This treading serves to harrow in the grain, tramps the ashes down solid, and makes the whole surface of the ground look as smooth as an onion-bed in a well-regulated garden.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Liquid Manure in Holland.

In Holland liquid manure is applied to fruit trees in the following manner: An iron-shod stake of about three inches in diameter, with a piece of wood nailed on one side to place the foot on, is used to make a circle of holes just under the ends of the branches, about eighteen inches or two feet apart, and from twelve to fifteen inches deep, and the liquid manure poured into them. Then the holes are filled up again, so that the liquid cannot be evaporated, or the earth baked hard by the heat of the sun. In wet weather the liquid manure is applied alone, but in dry weather it is diluted with an equal quantity of water. The application is made about once a week, commencing at the time when the fruit is well set, and ending when it shows the first symptoms of maturity. Liquid manure may be applied to grape vines, garden vegetables, etc., in the same way.

THE Rural New Yorker says there is no later nor better style of keeping farm accounts than that known as double-entry book-keeping—precisely such as every man engaged in manufacturing or mercantile pursuits adopts.

HARDWARE, STOVES, ETC.

KURSHEEDT & BIENVENU,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
Plantation and Builders' Hardware,
MARBLE, MARBLEIZED SLATE AND IRON MANTLES,
Grates, Hearths and Fire Bricks,
NO. 114 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
my2 1y

THE UNRIVALED

BUCK'S BRILLIANT STOVE.
Every Brilliant is Fully Guaranteed.
H. HALLER,
No. 49 Camp street, New Orleans,
Sole Agent for Louisiana.

Sole Agent for the
CELEBRATED RINGEN WASHER,
In the States of Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi. oc19 1y

G. W. W. GOODWYN,
No. 58 Gravier Street,
DEALER IN
Stoves and Tinware of All Kinds.

While he is prepared to furnish, at the lowest rates, Cooking and Heating Stoves of all the various styles and patterns sold in this market, he makes a specialty of the following, to wit:

Cottage, Cricket, The Best, Relief, Gray Jacket, and Diadem.

These Stoves are sold under a guarantee, and may be returned if they do not perform well.

NOTE BY P. M. GOODWYN.—Lack of health has obliged me for a time to give up my regular calling—that of the ministry. In the meanwhile, in order to do what I can for a support, I have engaged as an assistant in my brother's establishment, as above advertised. And I take this method of soliciting from among the readers of the ADVOCATE—many of whom are my personal acquaintances and friends—a share of their patronage whenever they may have need of anything in the above line. Orders sent through their merchants, or to either of us direct, will receive prompt attention. mh7 6m

GROCERIES—GLASSWARE.

PURE LOUISIANA
SUGAR, MOLASSES AND SIRUPS.

REFINED SUGAR.—Cut Loaf, Crushed and Powdered.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

GOLDEN SIRUP.—A superior article of pure Louisiana, from the Crescent City Refinery.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

REFINED SIRUP AND MOLASSES.—Crescent City Refinery, Orleans, Louisiana, Chalmette and Pelican brands.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

LOUISIANA MOLASSES.—Various grades of Plantation, in barrels, half barrels and kegs.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

CLARIFIED SUGAR.—Various grades of White and Yellow, in hogsheads and barrels.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

LOUISIANA SUGAR.—Various grades of Plantation, in hogsheads and barrels.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

FOREIGN SUGAR.—Cuba, Demerara and Porto Rico, in hogsheads and boxes.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
my2 6m 48 Tchoupitoulas street.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,
—IMPORTERS OF—
CHINA, CROCKERY AND GLASS,
55.....CAMP STREET.....55
New Orleans.

Country dealers supplied with ASSORTED CRATES or from SHELF upon the most favorable terms.

Contents of our English Iron Stone China Dinner Set, No. 1:

12 Dinner Plates,	4 Round Soup Tureen.
12 Breakfast Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Tea Plates,	1 Salad,
12 Soup Plates,	1 Pair Covered Dishes,
12 Preserve Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Pickle Dishes,
12 Tea cups and saucers	4 Meat Dishes.

112 pieces best English Ware..... $15

Our Stone China Dinner and Tea Set, No. 2, contains
158 pieces..... $25

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 1, contains

12 Dinner Plates,	4 Meat Dishes,
12 Breakfast Plates,	1 Soup Tureen, round,
12 Tea Plates,	2 Covered Dishes, oval
12 Soup Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Preserve Plates,	1 Salad,
12 Tea cups and saucers	2 Pickles,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes.

112 pieces best French Ware..... $30

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 2, contains
166 pieces..... $45

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 3, contains
255 pieces..... $65

A large variety of the best SELF-SEALING FRUIT JARS always on hand.
Sole agents for the celebrated BLANCHARD CHURN. The best churn made.
The most complete stock of HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS in the South.
W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,
apl 6m No. 55 Camp st., New Orleans.

New Orleans Savings Institution,
167 CANAL STREET.
Incorporated March 15, 1855.

OFFICERS.
L. F. GENERES, President.
THOS. A. ADAMS, first Vice President.
THOS. ALLEN CLARKE, second Vice President.
CHARLES J. LEEDS, third Vice President.
SAM JONES, Jr., Treasurer.

DIRECTORS.
Dr. W. Newton Mercer.

L. F. Generes.	David Urquhart.
George Jonas.	John G. Gaines.
Thos. A. Adams.	Carl Kohn.
Thos. Allen Clarke.	Christian Schneider.
Charles J. Leeds.	Samuel Jamison.

☞ Six per cent. interest on deposits.
my30 3m

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

CENTENARY COLLEGE,
JACKSON, LOUISIANA.

THE NEXT TERM OF THIS VENERABLE INSTITUTION OPENS ON THE FIRST MONDAY IN OCTOBER, 1872.

FACULTY.

Rev. C. G. ANDREWS, A. M., President, and Professor of Mental and Moral Science, Political Economy and International Law.
Rev. A. R. HOLCOMBE, A. M., Professor of Mathematics and Adjunct Professor of Natural Science.
G. H. WILEY, A. M., Professor of Ancient and Modern Languages.
T. S. JONES, M. D., Professor of Natural Science.
———, Principal of the Preparatory Department.

CHARGES.

Tuition, per session of forty weeks, in College..... $60 00
Tuition, per session of forty weeks, in Preparatory Department..... 40 00
Contingent expenses..... 5 00

A matriculation fee of $5 must be paid on entering any regular college class. One-half the charges must be paid when the student enters; the other half on the beginning of the second term, March 1.

BOARD.

Board, including lodging, washing, lights and fuel, can be had in the best of families for $20 per month. Day-boarding with the same families, $13 per month. Rooms provided in the dormitories free of rent. Board to be paid in advance at least one month.

LOCATION.

This institution is located in the lovely village of Jackson, about twelve miles from Bayou Sara, in a grove of pine, magnolia, oak and beech. The location is remarkable for its beautiful woodlands, its bland and delightful atmosphere, its pure water, its unrivaled healthfulness, and its cultivated and refined society.

WHEN FOUNDED.

The college was established by the State of Louisiana in 1825, and ceded to the Methodist Episcopal Church South in 1845.

ALUMNI.

Its Alumni numbers 205, and they are to be found in the most honorable and useful stations in the land.

APPARATUS AND CABINET.

The college possesses a valuable set of Philosophical, Astronomical and Chemical Apparatus, and also a well-selected Mineralogical and Geological Cabinet. The apparatus includes a Theodolite, Sextant, Compass, Chronometer, Atwood's Machine, Whirling Tables, Electrical Machine, Air Pump, various combinations of the Mechanical Powers, Balances, Chemical Tests, etc., sufficient for a thorough and extended course of observations and experiments. Steps have been taken by the Board of Trustees to put these in thorough repair.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are two regular Literary Societies connected with the institution. These are of great utility to young men acquiring a liberal education—improving them in the art of public speaking, making them in some degree familiar with the proceedings of deliberative bodies, and in cultivating systematic business habits. Each Society has a convenient hall and a well selected library—about 1,600 volumes each, which, added to the College Library of 2,000 volumes, makes over 5,000 volumes in the college.

BUILDINGS.

The Trustees are determined to continue the repairs on the buildings till completed. The grand Center Building is a noble specimen of architectural beauty and adaptation to the purposes of its creation. The wings, built of solid brick, present each a front of two hundred feet, with upper and lower galleries the entire length, supported by Tuscan columns, and with the center making in the perspective a continuous front of 7,000 feet.

PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

In the Preparatory Department students are fitted for regular college classes or may obtain a thorough English or commercial education.
ITS FACULTY are men of experience and success in teaching.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

Rev. Bishop J. C. KEENER, D. D., President, New Orleans.

Rev. J. A. Godfrey, Clinton.	Hon. A. K. Farrar, Adams county, Miss.
Hon. John McVea, Clinton.	Hon. Edward J. Gay, parish of Iberville.
Hon. and Rev. Jas. H. Muse, St. Helena par.	Samuel J. Norwood, Esq., Simmsport, La.
Hon. Edward McGehee, Woodville, Miss.	C. G. McGehee, Esq., Wilkinson co., Miss.
Hon. E. T. Merrick, New Orleans	Rev. W. H. Watkins, D. D., Natchez, Miss.
Prof. W. H. N. Magruder, Baton Rouge.	Rev. W. G. Millsaps, Jefferson county, Miss.
Rev. John C. Miller, Jackson.	Rev. J. A. B. Jones, Port Gibson, Miss.
Rev. R. J. Harp, New Orleans.	Rev. John A. Ellis, Meridian, Miss.
Hon. J. O. Fuqua, Baton Rouge.	B. H. Moss, M. D., New Orleans.
T. F. Collins, Esq., East Feliciana.	Josiah D. Nettles, Esq., East Feliciana.
Rev. J. L. Forsythe, Jackson.	Wilmot H. Goodale, Esq., Baton Rouge.
Rev. L. Parker, D. D., New Orleans.	Rev. C. G. Andrews, Jackson, La.
D. C. Hardee, Esq., Clinton.

THE BEST ROUTE to the college is to leave the Mississippi river at Port Hudson, take the Clinton and Port Hudson railroad to Midway station, report to Captain F. J. Haynes as a student for Centenary, and he will convey you to the college, a distance of seven miles, for one dollar and a half for single passengers; or one dollar each where several are together. Address aul 6m C. G. ANDREWS, President, Jackson, La.

MARVIN COLLEGE,
WAXAHACHIE, TEXAS.

THE NEXT SESSION OF THIS SCHOOL will open on the FIRST MONDAY IN SEPTEMBER, 1872, under the supervision of Rev. J. M. PUGH, President.

COLLEGIATE DEPARTMENT.

Rev. J. M. PUGH, A. M., Professor of Moral Science and Biblical Literature.
Mr. E. F. YEAGER, A. B., Professor of Languages.
Rev. F. OLIN DANNELLY, Professor of Natural Science.
Mr JOHN E. BISHOP, Prof. of Mathematics.

PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

Rev. JAMES D. SHAW, Principal.
Mrs. ANNIE E. BASS, Assistant.

MUSICAL DEPARTMENT.

Mr. F. H. LINDEN, Professor of Music.

PRIMARY DEPARTMENT.

Rates of Tuition—Four Months.

Primary class.....	$8 00
Preparatory.....	12 00
Higher.....	16 00
Collegiate.....	20 00
Music on piano.....	20 00

A small fee will be required of each student in the musical department for the use of instrument.
Every student will be charged from date of entrance till the close of session, except when providentially hindered, and all bills are due when the student enters.
Ministers' children (who are regular pastors) received free of charge.
We hope the friends of the College who have heretofore patronized this school, and others, will aid us in building up a school of high grade by sending their children and wards to this College, guaranteeing them as favorable privileges as at any other school in the State.
Board can be had for $12.50 per month.
F. P. RAY,
President Board of Trustees.
JAS E. SMITH, Secretary. aul 1m

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE,
AT BATON ROUGE, LOUISIANA.

THE EXERCISES OF THIS SCHOOL will be resumed on Wednesday, the Second of October next.
For circulars, with all necessary information, apply to Rev. R. J. Harp, 112 Camp street, New Orleans, or to myself, at Baton Rouge, Louisiana.
aul 6m W. H. N. MAGRUDER.

MARTHA WASHINGTON COLLEGE,
ABINGDON, VA.,
ON THE VIRGINIA AND TENNESSEE RAILROAD.

$105 IN ADVANCE will pay Board and Tuition for five months in this institution, beautifully situated amid the mountains. For healthfulness, high grade and extent of instruction, and excellence of facilities, no institution in the land surpasses this.
Session begins SEPTEMBER 19.
For catalogue or particulars apply to
REV. W. G. E CUNNYNGHAM, D. D.,
Or R. W. JONES, M. A., President.
jy25 2m

RANDOLPH MACON COLLEGE,
Ashland, Hanover Co., Va.,

OFFERS, ON VERY LOW TERMS, THE advantages of thorough instruction, high grade of scholarship, best religious influences in a refined community, and at a location remarkable for healthfulness—just sixteen miles north of Richmond, on the R., F and P. Railroad. Only $110 will pay all necessary for the half session! For catalogue address
REV. JAS. A. DUNCAN, D. D.,
President, or
REV. ALEX. G. BROWN, Sec.,
jy25 2m P. O., Ashland, Va.

MEMPHIS CONFERENCE
FEMALE INSTITUTE,
JACKSON, TENNESSEE.

REV. A. W. JONES, D. D., PRESIDENT.

THIS OLD AND POPULAR INSTITUTION is most favorably located at the junction of the Mobile and Ohio and Mississippi Central railroads, in the healthy, intelligent, refined and religious community of Jackson, and furnishes all the advantages of a first-class Female College. The best professors and teachers employed. The discipline mild, firm and parental. The course of study thorough and extensive. The library large and valuable. The chemical and philosophical apparatus ample and appropriate. The buildings and grounds well arranged, commodious and beautiful. The conveniences and accommodations in all departments complete, excellent and satisfactory. The attention to the health, manners and comfort of pupils constant and faithful. For more than seventeen years no young lady has died within the walls of the institute, while the cases of severe sickness have been few.
Fall session begins on the FIRST MONDAY IN SEPTEMBER, and the opening address and concert on the following Tuesday evening. Spring session begins on the fourth Monday in January. Commencement day, the second Wednesday in June.

TUITION.

Collegiate department.....	$25 00
Music and use of piano.....	30 00
Latin and French, each.....	10 00
Board, washing, etc.....	90 00

Other charges moderate. Payments one-half in advance. For particulars address the president, or jy11 4m PROF. A. R. JONES, A. M.

TENNESSEE FEMALE COLLEGE,
FRANKLIN, TENNESSEE.
Rev. R. K. Hargrove, A. M., President.

FALL SESSION FOR 1872 opens on Thursday, SEPTEMBER 5.
Its organization and equipment are complete, and its facilities of the highest order.
It will not substitute graduation for education.
Not one of its hundreds of pupils, for sixteen years past, has ever died in attendance on it.
Board and Collegiate Tuition, including French and Latin, one year, $220. To itinerant Ministers, literary tuition free, and board on special terms.
Circulars sent on application. aul 2m

Kentucky Wesleyan University,
MILLERSBURG, KENTUCKY.

SESSION FOR 1872-73 OPENS SEPTEMBER 16, 1872, and closes June 4, 1873.
The expense of the entire session can be brought within $240 by those who pay tuition, and $40 less by those who come on scholarships. All bills due the University are payable strictly in advance. Board bills are payable monthly.
This University is situated in the heart of the Blue Grass region of Kentucky. Climate invigorating and healthful. The Faculty of instructors is now full. Persons seeking a good school for their sons are invited to correspond with the President, or A. G Stitt, Financial Secretary, or to send for catalogue.
jy18 10t B. ARBOGAST, President.

ATHENS FEMALE INSTITUTE,
AT ATHENS, ALABAMA,

IS UNDER THE PATRONAGE OF THE North Alabama Conference. The next session will open on
The First Monday in September.
Our arrangements are all complete. A corps of able Teachers, a full course of study, thorough drilling and strict discipline have secured us gratifying success.
Board and tuition in Literary Department, one year, $210.
REV. J. M. WRIGHT,
aug 2m President.

MEDICAL.

MRS. M. G. BROWN'S

CELEBRATED

POOR RICHARD'S

EYE-WATER

derives its name from Benjamin Franklin's Almanac, which is immortal for its philosophical sayings, one of which is: "An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure."

Living the Eyes a drink, morning and night, of

POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER

would prevent every disease which attacks the human body, thus lengthening life to an indefinite period.

The Body is of the Earth, and the Eye is a Plant, which requires moisture.

The dust received into the eyes daily works itself into mortar, which clogs the machinery of the head, and closes up the eight thousand tubes and glands around the eyes; the balls contract and sink; they grow to the socket, and consequently the revolving power is impeded. This is what causes the blood-streaks, the dark greenish color of the balls, and scum.

When the eyes are neglected the entire machinery of the face becomes distorted; even the countenance is changed. How true: "The light of the body is the eye." It is as necessary to give the eye moisture as any plant of the field.

Language fails to make known the salutary effects upon the entire mental and physical machinery arising from giving the eyes a drink of POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER, morning and night; also the fearful consequence of neglecting so to do from the cradle to the grave.

POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER
Prevents Catarrh.

POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER
Cures Catarrh.
Opens the 8,000 tubes and glands in the head,
Prevents tightness and pains in the head,
Opens and keeps open the mucous membrane,
Removes phlegm from Throat and chest.

POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER
Removes Wrinkles and Blotches,
Gives large, sparkling eyes,
Gives a clear, smooth complexion,
Lifts sunken eyes,
Strengthens weak eyes.

POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER
Removes tan freckles,
Gives blooming cheeks,
Removes all inflammation,
Cures all kinds of headache.
Penetrates through the eyes into the gums
And preserves the teeth,
Gives the sweetest breath.
Opens the gates for rivers
To pass from the head into the system.

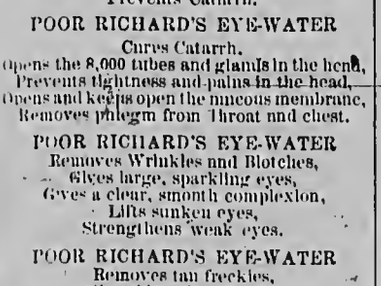
POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER
Cures tan, freckles and grubs.
Is clear and beautiful,
Same taste as the tear.

POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER
Restores the memory, brightens the intellect.

Price, Twenty-five cents per bottle. Sold by druggists. E. J. HART & Co.,
Wholesale Agents,
73 75, 77 and 79 Tchoupitoulas street,
New Orleans.

☞ Inclose ten cents to the METAPHYSICAL UNIVERSITY, 51 Bond street, New York, for Mrs. M. G. Brown's pamphlet of sixty-eight pages, giving a synopsis of the Cause, Cure and Precaution of Disease; worth a mines of gold to both sick and well. au15 1y

Dunbar's Wonderful Discovery.



BETHESDA MINERAL WATER.

The acknowledged cure for Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Liver and Bilious Affections, Kidney and Urinary diseases.

Sold, wholesale or retail, at 38 Magazine street.

H. D. HUFF,
Sole Southern Agent.

Address Glass Box 825. my30 3m

ARE YOU GOING EAST OR NORTH?

Take the Iron Mountain, and Chicago and Alton Railroads,

THE ONLY ALL-RAIL ROUTE FROM all points South to

CHICAGO.

The only line running the Pullman Palace Cars from all points South to St. Louis and Chicago.

Passengers by this line arrive in Chicago unchanged in advance of all competing lines, and avoid 25 miles of steamboat transfer, and the annoying changes of cars incident to other lines. For all points in the Northwest, St. Paul, Milwaukee, or all points in the Canadas, New York, Boston and all Eastern cities, this is the pleasantest and most direct route. Parties going East via this line can lay over in Chicago and visit the Burnt District, and resume their trip at their leisure. Fare as low as by all other routes. Tickets to be had at all ticket offices in the South.

W. R. ALLEN,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent,
Iron Mountain Line, St. Louis.
JAMES CHARLTON,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent,
Chicago and Alton Line, Chicago.
D. A. FREER,
my30 4m Southern Traveling Agent.

MILLER'S

Bible and Publishing House.

NEW ILLUSTRATED FAMILY BIBLE.

The Cheapest and Best Bible published. LARGE PRINT, Beautiful Bindings, more than two hundred Engravings.

THE CHRISTIAN HARMONY,

a new and choice collection of Sacred Music, based on system of seven-shaped character notes. Any one can learn to read music, and sing in one-fourth the time required by the old methods. Address

Miller's Bible and Publishing House,
1102 and 1104 Sansom street,
je25 6m Philadelphia, Penn'a.

BINGHAM HOUSE, PHILADELPHIA,

Corner of Eleventh and Market Sts.

CARLIS DAVIS, PROPRIETOR.

This popular Hotel being centrally located and accessible by street cars from all depots, makes it a desirable stopping place for travelers. It will be conducted in the same liberal manner as heretofore, it being the intention of the proprietor to maintain the reputation it has always enjoyed, of being in all respects a first-class hotel.

Terms, $3 a day. au8 tf

COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

PRICE, HINE & TUPPER,

General Commission Merchants,

FACTORS, AND

Agents of Attakapas Mail Transportation Co.,

NO. 26 CARONDELET STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Advances made on consignments to T. Tupper & Sons, Charleston, S. C.; Williams, Birnie & Co., and Leverich & Co., New York. no21 1y

W. H. SUTTON. J. H. POWELL.

SUTTON & POWELL,

COTTON FACTORS
AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

186..... COMMON STREET 186
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
se21 1y

H. F. GIVEN. LUCIEN J. DEIZE.

H. F. GIVEN & CO.,

COTTON, TOBACCO AND SUGAR FACTORS,
—AND—
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 64 Baronne street, New Orleans.
ec5 1y

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.

AIKEN & WATT,

Cotton Factors and Commission Merchants.

60.....CARONDELET STREET..... 60
NEW ORLEANS.

Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. no2 1y

J. L. DUNNICA, New Orleans. T. A. HAMILTON, Memphis.
G. P. HARRISON, New Orleans.

J. L. DUNNICA & CO.,

FLOUR, PRODUCE AND PROVISION
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

50.....TCHOUPITOULAS ST.....50
NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA.
oc22 1y

J. U. PAYNE. W. H. DAMERON. H. M. PAYNE

PAYNE, DAMERON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

64 & 66....BARONNE STREET....64 & 66
Between Union and Gravier streets,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
je19 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,

Cotton Factors and General Commission Merchants,

31..... PERDIDO STREET.....31
oc3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

G. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER. E. T. MERRICK, Former Ch. Jus. La.

RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,

Attorneys, Counselors and Solicitors.

Cor. of Camp street and Commercial Place,
se25 NEW ORLEANS.

W. W. EDWARDS,

COUNSELOR AT LAW
AND
COMMISSIONER OF DEEDS,
No. 88 Common street,
se14 1y New Orleans.

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,

DENTAL SURGEON,

152.....JULIA STREET.....152

All operations in Operative, Mechanical and Surgical Dentistry carefully performed. Nitrous Oxide and other Anaesthetics administered. no30 1y

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,

Office—680 Magazine Street,

Between Philip and First Sts., New Orleans.

Will call daily at College building, corner Common and Baronne streets, between eleven and twelve o'clock. je29 1y

PUBLICATIONS FOR ALL

Prominent Benevolent Organizations,

FRATERNITY.

100,000 SOLD!—Masonic, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Red Men, Mechanics, Temperance, etc.

Sale unrivaled by anything heretofore offered. Agents with no experience are selling 20 Pictures and upward a day. One of our agents has cleared over $1,200 in three months. The Brethren welcome these works. Our inducements are UNPRECEDENTED. Our commissions are positively one-fourth larger than any other house does or can offer. Send for circular of Order to which you belong, giving No. of your Lodge, and state where you saw this advertisement. You will certainly engage with us.

J. HALE POWERS & CO.,
Fraternity Publishers,
my9 7m Cincinnati, Ohio.

READY-PREPARED
PLASTIC SLATE ROOFING.

Thoroughly Fire-Proof and Durable.

Adapted to any style of roof, steep or flat. Can be applied by any one. Its cost on the roof is less than shingles in nearly every section of the country, and the water from it is of the best quality. Sample sent on application to

EDWARD THOMPSON, Manufacturer,
je27 6m 184 Peters street, New Orleans.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE ILLUSTRATED

HISTORY OF THE BIBLE

By Wm. SMITH, LL.D.

AUTHOR OF SMITH'S BIBLE DICTIONARY.

It contains over 250 fine Scripture Illustrations and 1,105 pages, and is the most comprehensive and valuable History of the Bible ever published. The labor and learning of centuries are gathered in this one volume to throw a strong, clear light upon every page of the inspired Word.

AGENTS WANTED.—Send for circulars, and see our terms and a full description of the work. Address

NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.,
my1 1m Philadelphia, Pa.

AGENTS WANTED TO SELL PARTON'S LIFE OF

HORACE GREELEY,

The Patriot, Statesman and Philanthropist.

Every citizen who is interested in the remarkable career of our next President should read the truthful story of his life, as told by the greatest American Biographer. A work of rare interest, and full of instruction. For circulars and terms address

NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.,
jy25 2m Memphis, Tenn.

BUSINESS CARDS.

E. HEATH. M. LARA. J. P. HEATH.

HEATH, LARA & HEATH,

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

UPHOLSTERERS' MATERIALS,

WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES,
CORNICES AND CURTAIN GOODS,
Pictures, Frames, Moldings, Looking Glasses and Clocks,

NO. 99 CAMP STREET,
no16 1y NEW ORLEANS.

THE MITCHELL & RAMMELSBERG

FURNITURE COMPANY,

Manufacturers and dealers in all kinds of

Furniture, Mattresses, Looking Glasses,

ETC., ETC.,

103 and 105 Camp street, cor. Poydras,

Moresque Building, New Orleans,

have the largest and best assortment of FURNITURE of any house in the city.

Please give us a call before purchasing elsewhere. my23 1y

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,

CANAL ST., COR. ROYAL, NEW ORLEANS,

IMPORTERS OF

WATCHES, JEWELRY, CLOCKS,

PLATED WARE, HOUSEKEEPING GOODS,

Cutlery, Guns, Pistols, Bronzes, Porcelain and Fancy Goods.

MANUFACTURERS OF

PURE COIN SILVERWARE.

Watches and Jewelry carefully repaired. Every article sold fully guaranteed.
no23 1y

C. HUCHEZ,

FAMILY GROCER,

NOS. 95 AND 97 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

☞ Supplies carefully put up for families moving over the Lake. my30 3m

J. THOMSON. O. THOMSON. W. B. THOMSON.

J. THOMSON & BROS.,

Manufacturers of
Carriages, Barouches, Buggies, Phaetons,
SPRING WAGONS, Etc.

68 and 70 Rampart Street,

Bet. Common and Gravier, New Orleans, La. Repairing done in all its branches. no30 1y

LOUISIANA STEAM

SASH, BLIND AND DOOR FACTORY,

ROBERTS & CO., PROPRIETORS,

301, 303, 305 and 307 Gravier Street,

NEW ORLEANS. my30 1y

JAMES M'CRACKEN. GEO. E. BREWSTER.

M'CRACKEN & BREWSTER,

DEALERS IN FURNITURE,

Nos. 37, 39 and 41 Royal street.

Manufactory corner Derbigny and Customhouse streets, New Orleans. my9 6m

JOHN I. ADAMS & CO., (JOHN I. ADAMS, JAY L. ADAMS, GEO. W. WEST, WM. H. RENAUD,)

WHOLESALE GROCERS,

AND DEALERS IN

PROVISIONS, LARD, OILS, ETC., ETC.,

13, 15 and 17 Peters street,
(Formerly New Levee.)
mh21 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ELON G. SMITH. J. L. CHEATHAM. J. W. DRAUGHON.

SMITH, CHEATHAM & CO.,

(SUCCESSORS TO ELON G. SMITH & CO.)

PORK PACKERS,

Provision and Commission Merchants,

CORNER THIRD AND SPRUCE STREETS,
SAINT LOUIS.

We solicit orders from the trade for goods in our line. oc26 1y

C. SAMPSON. F. G. SAMPSON.

SAMPSON BROTHERS,
(Late C. C. Sampson,)

FURNITURE.

33 & 35..... ROYAL STREET .....33 & 35
NEW ORLEANS.
Established in 1833. Ja11 1y

Carpet Warehouse—17 Chartres Street.

A. BROUSSEAU & CO.,

Importers and dealers, at Wholesale and Retail, in English and American Carpetings.

Floor Oil Cloths, Table and Enameled Oil Cloths.
Window Shades, Table and Piano Covers.
Crumb Cloths, in squares or pieces.
Curtain and Furniture Materials.
Brocatelles, Cotelenes, Terries, Reps, Lace and Nottingham Lace Curtains, Haircloth Ticking, Springs, Burlaps, Step Covers, etc.
no23 1y A. BROUSSEAU & CO.

JOHN LAZARUS,

PRACTICAL OPTICIAN,

6.....ST. CHARLES ST.....6
Near Canal, New Orleans.

Sole Agent for the celebrated Pantascopic Star Spectacles and Eye Glasses. my21 6m

T. H. McMAHAN & CO.,

BANKERS,

And Dealers in Foreign and Domestic Exchange,

GALVESTON, TEXAS.

We have prompt and reliable correspondents at all the principal points throughout this State, and upon all collections payable in this city or Houston make no charge for collecting, and only actual charge upon interior collections.

Immediate and prompt attention given to all business intrusted to us. feb1 1y

RICHARD BRODERICK,

CISTERN MAKER,

132.....Julia street 132

Bet. Camp and Magazine, New Orleans.

Second hand Cisterns always on hand. All work guaranteed.

All orders left at Box 36, Mechanics' and Dealers' Exchange, will meet with prompt attention. my2 1y

HILL & VEAZIE,

74.....Camp street.....74
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

LAMPS AND OILS; CHANDELIERS,

Globes, Chimneys, Shades, Trimmers, Wicks, Cans, Fillers, etc.

PRATTS' ASTRAL OIL, non-explosive and non-inflammable. Ja18 1y

R. H. NOBLE. J. B. WOODS.

NOBLE & WOODS,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS,

Nos. 9 and 11 Delta street, and 10 and 12 Front street,

Ja18 1y NEW ORLEANS, LA.

JOHN D. MACLIN, (Late R. D. Maclin.) L. C. MACLIN,

COAL! WOOD! COAL!

Pittsburg, Anthracite and Cannel Coal. Oak, Ash and Pine Wood, at the lowest market rates, delivered to any part of the city.

Offices—26 Carondelet street, and corner of Third and Tchoupitoulas. mh7 1y

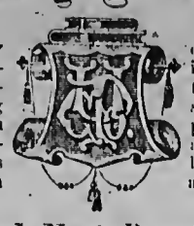
"Southern Books for Southern Schools."

School-Books which are Unsectional, Unpartisan, and Unpolitical.

PREPARED BY THE MOST EMINENT SOUTHERN SCHOLARS, AND

ENTIRELY ACCEPTABLE TO SOUTHERN TEACHERS AND PARENTS.

The University Publishing Co.,



An Association composed of many of the most eminent citizens of the several Southern States, feeling the necessity for a series of School Books which should be entirely unsectional, unpartisan, and unpolitical, and in their teaching thought and feeling of the Southern people—which should present only the facts of history and science—are now issuing a complete series of School and College Text-books by the eminent Southern scholars and educators named below, which are the

Cheapest, Best, and Most Beautiful School-Books

Now published. The "University Series" embraces

MAURY'S GEOGRAPHICAL SERIES,

By Commodore M. F. Maury, of the Virginia Military Institute. A series of books which mark an era in the study of this science, and which, in the words of a well known and accomplished Southern teacher, "are characterized by a felicity of arrangement and simple freshness of style which must ever render them attractive to the young, and which will be used by all who wish to teach Geography as a science, as something to make pupils think, and not merely as an enumeration of dry facts."

Holmes' Readers and Spellers,

By George F. Holmes, LL.D., Professor of History and General Literature in the University of Virginia. A series of Readers unequalled in cheapness, excellence, and typographical beauty. They are steadily progressive in character, bright and fresh in their selections of prose and verse, and illustrative of Southern scenes, incidents, and history.

Venable's Arithmetical Series,

By Charles S. Venable, LL.D., Professor of Mathematics in the University of Virginia. These books are received everywhere by intelligent teachers with the highest satisfaction, as being most admirably adapted for mental drill, as well as for business education. Their methods, rules, and reasonings are clear, distinct, logical, and comprehensive, and the series is carefully graded throughout

Holmes' History of the United States,

By George F. Holmes, LL.D., of the University of Virginia. It is enough to say of this admirable work, interesting, impartial, and truthful, as well as pure and graceful in style, that it is the only History of the United States which is acceptable to Southern teachers and parents. It comes down to the present date.

THE "UNIVERSITY SERIES" OF SCHOOL-BOOKS

COMPRISES, ALSO,

De Vere's French Grammar, Readers, etc.,

By M. Schele DeVere, LL.D., Professor of Modern Languages in the University of Va.

Gildersleeve's Latin Series,

By B. L. Gildersleeve, Ph.D., LL.D., of the University of Virginia.

Carter's Elements of General History,

By Rev. J. P. Carter, A.M., of Baltimore, Maryland.

Holmes' English Grammars,

By George F. Holmes, LL.D., of the University of Virginia.

LeConte's Scientific Series,

By the Professors LeConte, late of the University of South Carolina.

Johnston's English Classics,

By R. M. Johnston, A.M., late Professor of Rhetoric and Belles-Lettres in the University of Georgia.

To which list other books in other departments will early be added.

Send for our full ILLUSTRATED DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, which will be mailed free to any teacher or school officer. Liberal terms given for introduction.

Address

UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING COMPANY,
155 and 157 Crosby Street, New York.

☞ A full supply of "The University Series" always on hand, and teachers and schools supplied by R. J. HARP, Bookseller, 112 Camp St., New Orleans,
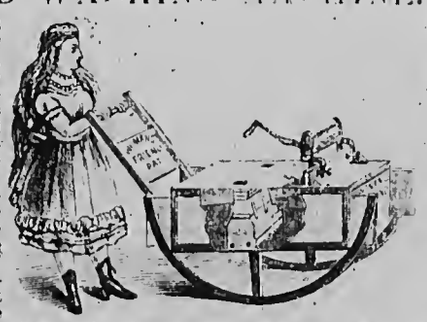
And by all prominent booksellers throughout the South.

W. IRVING CLARKE, the General Agent, will furnish any information, and afford every facility to teachers for examining the series. Office—92 CAMP ST., New Orleans. au7 1y

WOMAN'S FRIEND WASHING MACHINE.



THE UNDERSIGNED OFFERS THIS Machine to the public as the Simplest and Best Washing Machine of the age, while the cost is the lowest. It is the invention of a Kentuckian, and is operated by rocking, and washes the clothes by beating, instead of rubbing. It will wash sixteen shirts or twenty-five ordinary pieces of clothing or two single blankets at a time, and it will thoroughly wash, rinse and blue one hundred pieces ordinary clothing in forty-five minutes, without the least wear of the clothing, the breaking of a button or the pulling of a thread.

The most delicate fabrics can be washed with it without the least injury. It gives a grass-bleached whiteness to the clothes. To blankets and woolen clothes it gives a new appearance and feeling. Its construction is so simple that it will last for years with care, and costs less than wash-tubs in the aggregate. Any one can repair it, as there are no cog-wheels or cranks to replace.

The directions for its use are very simple, and every Machine will do as represented if the directions are followed. It is a most excellent Wool-washer likewise. Send for circular and certificates of its merits.

PRICE, $12. WITH WRINGER, $15.

EDWARD THOMPSON, Manufacturer and Proprietor,
je27 6m 184 Peters street, near Julia, New Orleans.

Formerly WOOD & MANN.

These Engines are so well and favorably known that a description of them here is not deemed necessary.

They are EQUALLED by FEW, SURPASSED by NONE, perfect in workmanship, complete in appointments, safe, simple and substantial. Every boiler is practically tested before leaving the factory. By the use of a CIRCULATING WATER BOTTOM around and underneath the furnace, which lessens the

RISK FROM FIRE,

they are particularly adapted for GINNING COTTON. Engines of all sizes, at prices which challenge comparison for equal size of steam cylinder and measurements of boiler. A full stock of these Engines will be kept constantly on hand by the undersigned, who has been appointed general agent.

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN.
No. 9 Union street,
mh21 6m New Orleans, La.

Carpet and Oil Cloth Warehouse.

J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.

ELKIN & CO.,

168.....CANAL STREET.....168
Near Baronne, New Orleans,

IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF ENGLISH CARPETINGS, RUGS, Etc.

—ALSO—

Oil Cloths, Mattings,
Lace and Damask Curtains,
Window Shades, etc.,

—AND A—

Complete Assortment of Upholstery Goods.

fe8 1y

SAVE $20.

THE NEW WILSON
UNDER-FEED.

The Best and Cheapest First-Class Shuttle
SEWING MACHINE
In the World.

WM. GREGG & Co.
General Southern Agents, No. 189 Canal street, New Orleans, La.

Agents Wanted. je27 6m

SOAP MANUFACTORY,
Cor. St. Andrew & Howard.
Office and Salesroom:
110 Gravier, Cor. Bank Place.

fe11 1y

AGENTS WANTED TO SELL THE ILLUSTRATED

HISTORY OF THE BIBLE

By Wm. SMITH, LL.D.

AUTHOR OF SMITH'S BIBLE DICTIONARY.

It contains 243 fine Scripture Illustrations and over 1,100 pages, and is the most comprehensive and valuable History of the Bible ever published. The labor and learning of centuries are gathered in this one volume to throw a strong, clear light upon every page of the inspired Word.

Send for circulars, and see our terms and a full description of the work. Address

NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.,
274 and 276 Second street,
nu1 6m Memphis, Tenn.

EXCHANGE HOTEL,

JOHN SUMMERS, PROPRIETOR,

GALVESTON, TEXAS.

☞ This is the only Hotel in the city which has FREE OMNIBUSES to and from the cars and boats for the use of guests. Ask for Exchange Hotel Omnibus. feb1 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

A POPULAR MUSIC BOOK!

AT A POPULAR PRICE!

"THE SCEPTER,"

By Dr. A. Brooks Everett,

ONLY $1.00.—BY THE DOZEN, $10.50.

"THE SCEPTER" contains a large variety of most valuable material, embracing Hymn-tunes, Anthems, Glees, the "Everett System of Teaching Vocal Music," etc., by the well-known professor of music, Dr. A. Brooks Everett, recognized throughout the Southern States as a most successful and popular teacher of the art of singing, as well as the author of many of the most popular tunes contained in the Tabor or Richmond Collection.

"THE SCEPTER"

also contains contributions by Profs. R. M. McIntosh, B. H. Everett and other well-known composers, as well as a large number of old standard tunes.

☞ Every Choir Leader and Teacher of Music should examine "THE SCEPTER."

Sent, post-paid, on receipt of $1.

PUBLISHED BY

BIGLOW & MAIN, NEW YORK,

SUCCESSORS TO WM. B. BRADBURY,

Publishers of the most popular series of SUNDAY SCHOOL SONG BOOKS (Golden Chain, Shower and Censer, Fresh Laurels, Bright Jewels, Pure Gold, etc. For sale by Booksellers generally.

All publications of Biglow & Main are for sale by ROBT. J. HARP, Agent, 112 Camp street, New Orleans. ly18 3m

SWINTON'S CONDENSED

SCHOOL HISTORY.

(From the Virginia Educational Journal.)

Mr. Swinton's reputation leads us to examine this book. What is of most importance in the work is its extreme fulness. It is vastly superior, in this respect, to any history issued at the North that we have seen. Where accuracy seems almost impossible, he comes nearer to the truth than the others.

NEW SCHOOL BOOKS.

SWINTON'S WORD ANALYSIS.
CATHCART'S YOUTH'S SPEAKER.
ARITHMETICAL EXAMPLES (Mental and Written.)
KERL'S SHORTER COURSE IN GRAMMAR.

☞ A Descriptive Catalogue of the American Educational Series, and our Educational Reporter, mailed free to any address upon application.

Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co.,
Or T. MORONEY, General Agent,
mh28 1y 92 Camp street, New Orleans.

MINERAL SPERM OIL.

GUARANTEED AS SAFE AS SPERM OR LARD OIL.

It Will Not Take Fire In Case of Breakage of the Lamp.

THE OIL WILL EXTINGUISH the FLAME.

The Oil itself has no odor while burning. It gives a Light of TEN-CANDLE POWER at a cost not exceeding ONE-HALF CENT PER HOUR, and for lighting railroad cars, steamers, factories and dwelling houses it is invaluable and cannot be too highly recommended.

The Oil is patented, and made by a process which insures its uniformity.

It burns with great brilliancy in the

DUAL BURNER,

requires but little attention and no trimming. The Oil never gums in the lamp, as it absorbs no oxygen from the atmosphere. It does not deteriorate by age. This Burner fits all ordinary coal oil lamps.

HOSTICK & SEYMOUR,
Sole Agents for Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi and Texas,
45 and 47 Front st., and 146 and 148 Fulton st.,
mh28 6m New Orleans.

Uniform Lessons for 1872.

FOR TEACHERS.—The Sunday School World contains the explanations and studies prepared by Rev. John Hall, D. D., for teachers.

SCHOLARS' PAPER. With the text of the lesson, and suggestive helps for the study of it; and questions at the foot of each page, to be answered in writing by the scholar.

INTERMEDIATE LESSON PAPER.—Adapted to the use of less advanced scholars, with questions and explanations.

Price of each Lesson Paper of four pages, at the rate of 75 cents per 100 copies for one month, or $3 per 100 copies yearly.

☞ Catalogues of the Society's publications and sample copies of its periodicals furnished gratuitously on application at the Depository of the

AMERICAN SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION,
au1 3m 1122 Chestnut st., Philadelphia.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY,

Established in 1837.

Superior Bells for Churches, Schools, etc., of Pure Copper and Tin, fully warranted, and mounted with our Latest Improved Rotary Hangings, the best in use.

Illustrated Catalogue sent free

VANDUZEN & TIFT,
102 & 104 E. Second St., Cincinnati
fe22 1y

A GREAT CHANCE FOR AGENTS.

Do you want an agency, local or traveling, with an opportunity to make $5 to $20 a day selling our new 7-strand White Wire Clothes-Lines? They last forever; sample free, so there is no risk. Address at once Hudson River Wire Works, cor. Water St. and Malden Lane, New York, or 16 Dearborn street, Chicago, Illinois. au24 1y

PRICE, WILLIAMS & SON,

Exchange and Real Estate Brokers

MOBILE, ALABAMA.

Dealers in Bills, Bonds, Notes and Stocks of every kind. Plantations, and lands unimproved, for sale in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. Also every class of Real Estate in Mobile, Alabama. Rent, and pay taxes and insurance on Real Estate in Mobile. Invest money on mortgages, etc., and collect claims.

REFERENCES.

Messrs. Baker, Lawler & Co., Mobile, Ala.
Moses Waring, Esq., Mobile, Ala.
Hon. Milton Brown, Jackson, Tenn
Bishop J. C. Keener, New Orleans
Bishop Pabne, Mississippi.
Bishop McTyeire, Nashville, Tenn.
Messrs. John T. Farwell & Co., Chicago.
Dean, McGinnis & Co., N. Y. no26 1y

MENEELY'S BELLS.

THE genuine Troy Church Bells known to the public since 1826, which have acquired a reputation unequaled by any, and a sale exceeding that of all others—including more than seventy chimes and peals. One thousand testimonials received during the last six years. Every Bell made of best Copper and Tin, and forcibly warranted. New Patent Rotary Fixtures. Catalogues free. No agencies.

Post office address, either TROY or WEST TROY, New York.

je13 1y E. A. & G. R. MENEELY.

WM. PHILLIPS, UNION STABLES, 180 Calliope, near St. Charles street, has every accommodation in the line of Pleasure and Family Carriages, such as hacks, brettes, phetons, buggies, etc., for the use of the public, and at rates to correspond with the stringency of the times. All hacking done below tariff rates. Orders for weddings, balls, picnics, races, etc., will be attended to so as to guarantee satisfaction. I am also prepared to hire vehicles (alone) to parties having their own horses. de14 1y

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

(From the New Orleans Price Current.)

The weather has been clear and warm. Our accounts from the country have fewer complaints of the worms, but continue to express great apprehensions of their future ravages. The first fortnight in September is expected to indicate the result, whether favorable or unfavorable. More immediate injury is feared from the drouth, the shedding of forms and bolls, and the general effect upon the crop. The receipts of new crop to date amount to 177 bales from the Mississippi valley, and 110 from Texas —total, 287, against 9 last year, of which 4 were from Louisiana and 5 from Texas.

The river is 11 feet 5 inches below high water mark.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the sixteenth instant:

Louisiana and Mississippi.s.....bales..		182
Mobile.....		1
Texas.....		86
Total.....		269

On Saturday the sales embraced 61 bales, of which 31 were low cottons, taken for a manufactory at 16c., and 30 at 19c. for low middling, and 19¼c. for strict, showing some advantage in favor of the buyer. On Monday, with more liberal receipts of the new crop, the demand improved, and 176 bales changed hands at stiffer but hardly quotably higher rates, good ordinary selling at 18c., strict low middling at 19¼@19⅝c., strict low middling to middling at 19¼@19¾c., middling at 20c., and a still better style at 20⅜c. Ordinary was sold at 16c. About 60 bales of the above was of new crop. On Tuesday the business was confined to 28 bales, including some barely low middling at 19c., and strict low middling, new crop, at 19⅝c.

The receipts proper at this port, since the first of September (exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas,) are 954,133 bales, against 1,442,581 bales to the same date last year, and the decrease in the receipts at all the ports, up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 1,275,158 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same date last year, there is an increase of 45,074 to France, and a decrease of 905,036 to Great Britain, and of 334,875 to other foreign ports.

We quote:

Good ordinary.....	18 @ 18¼
Low middling.....	19¼ @ 19½

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1871, bales.		25,323
Arrived past three days.	269
Arrived previously.....?	1,051,526
Waste and damaged cotton, samples, etc.....	14,939—1,066,734
		1,092,057
Exported past three days.
Exported previously.....	1,085,601—1,085,601
Stock on hand and on shipboard..		6,456

SUGAR.—On Tuesday the market was quiet but firm, with dealers' sales of 100 hhds., in lots, to grocers, at 10⅛c. for fair, and 10½@10⅝c. for fully fair. Of city refinery, yellow clarified is selling on orders at 11¼@11¾c., white 12⅛@12½c., crushed and powdered 13⅛@13¼c., cut loaf 14@14¼c. ℔ lb.

MOLASSES.—There is little or none coming in from plantation. The receipts consist of a few bbls. poor and thin, now and then, which sell at 25@30c. per gallon. Some cistern bottom sold at 55c. City refinery is selling at 30c. for inferior, 40c. for common, 50c. for fair, 55c. for prime, 60c. for choice, and 80c.@$1 ℔ gallon for golden sirup.

CORN.—On Tuesday there was a fair demand, and 3,000 sacks sold at 57@58c. for mixed, and 65c. for white.

OATS.—On Tuesday 1,600 sacks sold at 39@42c. for St. Louis, and 44c. for Galena, showing an improvement in prices.

BRAN—Has been in good supply and dull at previous inside prices. There were sales on Saturday and Monday of 1,000 sacks, in lots, at 97½c. ℔ 100 lbs. On Tuesday 750 sacks sold at 90c. for small sacks, and 95@97½c. for large.

PORK—Has been in demand on speculation since our last review, and prices have advanced 75c.@$1 ℔ bbl. On Tuesday the market was strong, when 100 and 100 bbls. mess sold at $14.75, and the stock was held at $15 ℔ bbl. It is retailing at $15.25@$15.50 ℔ bbl.

BACON.—On Tuesday 1,100 casks sold, in lots, at 8⅛@8¾c. for shoulders, on the spot and to arrive, 11@11½c. for clear rib sides, on the spot and to arrive, 11¾@11⅞c. for clear sides, to arrive, and 11⅞@12½c., on the spot and to arrive. At the close shoulders were quoted at 8¾c., clear rib sides 11½c., clear sides 12¼c. ℔ lb.

HAMS.—The market is quiet but very firm, and choice sugar-cured are selling to the trade at 17@17½c. ℔ lb. Brands less desirable are quoted at 16@17c. ℔ lb. On Tuesday 75 tierces choice sold, on the spot, at 17½c., and 175 tierces, to arrive, at 17⅛@17¼c. ℔ lb.

LARD.—Choice continues in light supply and good demand, while inferior is dull and slow of sale. On Tuesday 84 tierces steam-rendered sold at 9½c., and 80 kegs refined at 11⅜c. ℔ lb.

DRY SALT MEAT.—The supplies coming in are small, and are mostly consigned to dealers. Dealers are retailing shoulders at 7½@7¾c. ℔ lb., and sides at 9½c. for clear rib, and 10c. for clear sides.

CORN MEAL.—On Tuesday the demand was limited, and holders asked $3.25 ℔ bbl. 300 bbls. sold at $3.05 ℔ bbl.

BEEF.—There is a fair supply of Texas, with a small stock of Western and Northern. We quote Texas mess $11@$12, extra mess $12.50 ℔ bbl., and $7@$7.50 for half bbls. Tierces are quoted at $17@$17.50 for mess, and $18@$18.50 for prime mess. Western $14@$15 in bbls., and Northern $15.50 @$16 for bbls., and $9 for half bbls.

MONETARY.

Gold opened on Tuesday at 114@114¼ (against 114½ at New York.) and closed at 114@114¼ (against 114⅛ at New York.)

The sales of silver embrace $1,500 in American half-dollars on Saturday at 108¼ and 108¾; and $1,300 on Monday at 108, and $2,000 at 108¼.

New Orleans Wholesale Prices.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
Agricultural Implements:
Cotton scrapers.....	4 50	6 00
Cotton sweeps.....	4 50	6 00
Cultivators, Diam. & shovel-tooth.....	7 75	10 50
Cultivators, riding.....	45 00	60 00
Cultivators, walking.....	30 00	35 00
Shovels.....	7 50	14 50
Spades.....	7 50	16 50
Axes.....	10 00	15 00
Potato diggers.....	13 50	— —
Shovel plows.....	6 00	7 00
Half do., with culters...	8 00	9 00
Manly's D. S plow.....	6 00	9 75
Corn mills, Coleman's....	120 00	425 00
Bread, ℔ 100 lbs:
Pilot.....	5 00	6 00
Loaf.....	— —	— —
Crackers.....	5 00	12 00
Navy.....	— —	4 00
Cream crackers.....	11 00	12 00
Bricks, ℔ M:
Lake.....	13 00	16 00
English fire.....	— —	50 00
American fire.....	40 00	— —
Candles, ℔ lb:
Sperm, New Redford.....	33	36
Tallow.....	16	18
Chocolate, ℔ lb:
Cocoa.....	38	60
No. 1.....	50	52
Sweet and spiced.....	25	— —
Cider, ℔ bbl:
Western.....	— —	— —
Coal, ℔ ton:
Anthracite.....	12 00	13 00
Western, ℔ bbl.....	— —	55
Corks, ℔ 1000:
Regular.....	— —	— —
Pointed.....	— —	— —
Coffee, ℔ lb:
Havana (currency).....	— —	— —
Java.....	25	27
Cordova.....	— —	— —
Copper, ℔ lb:
Braziers'.....	48	— —
Copper bolts.....	48	— —
Yellow metal.....	30	32
Cordage, ℔ lb:
Manilla.....	19	20
Tarred, American.....	— —	16
Russian.....	16	— —
Cotton seed:
Rough, ℔ ton.....	— —	13 00
In sacks.....	17 00	17 50
Dyes, ℔ lb:
Logwood, Camp'y.....	4	4¼
Logwood, St. Domingo...	4¼	4¾
Fustic, Tampico.....	5	6
Indigo, ℔ lb.....	1 40	1 60
Madder.....	15	18
Eggs, ℔ dozen:
Western.....	12	16
Feathers, ℔ lb.....	70	— —
Fish, ℔ box:
Cod.....	1 40	— —
Herrings.....	35	— —
Mackerel, No. 1, ℔ bbl....	13 00	— —
Mackerel, No. 2.....	10 50	— —
Mackerel, No. 3.....	8 00	— —
Flaxseed, ℔ lb.....	4½	5½
Flour, ℔ bbl:
Double extra.....	6 00	6 25
Superfine.....	5 00	5 25
Fine.....	4 25	4 50
Fruit, ℔ lb:
Prunes.....	10½	13
Currants, new.....	9	10
Almonds, soft shell.....	17	18½
Almonds, shelled.....	30	— —
Glass, ℔ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10.....	3 50	4 00
French, 10 by 12.....	3 75	4 25
French, 12 by 18.....	4 00	4 50
Gunny bags, ℔ bag.....	18	— —
Hay, ℔ ton:
Prime.....	27 50	— —
Choice.....	— —	30 00
Iron, ℔ ton:
Pig.....	54 00	55 00
Country bar, ℔ lb.....	— —	— —
English.....	5½	7½
Swedes, assorted.....	6½	8½
Hoop.....	6½	8
Sheet.....	7½	8½
Boiler.....	8	9½
Nail rods.....	— —	9
Castings, American.....	5½	6
Lead, ℔ 100 lbs:
Pig.....	— —	9 50
Bar, ℔ lb.....	8½	8¾
Sheet.....	12	— —
Pipe.....	12	— —
Leather, ℔ lb:
Sole, hemlock.....	33	34
Sole, oak.....	37	43
Harness.....	38	45
Calf skins, ℔ dozen.....	42 00	70 00
Texas, rough, ℔ lb.....	24	26
Lime, ℔ bbl:
Western.....	1 25	1 75
Cement.....	2 50	3 00
Plaster Paris.....	4 00	— —
Lumber, ℔ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine.....	18 00	18 00
Boards, cypress.....	25 00	30 00
Flooring, dressed.....	25 00	30 00
Flooring, rough.....	15 00	18 00
Ceiling, dressed.....	20 00	25 00
Weatherboards, dressed..	19 00	20 00
Weatherboards, rough..	13 00	15 00
Scantling.....	13 00	15 00
Shingles, ℔ M.....	3 50	4 25
Laths.....	2 50	3 00
Moss, ℔ lb:
Country picked.....	4½	6
Clean picked.....	6½	7
Nails, ℔ keg:
American, 4@6d.....	5 50	5 75
Wrought, German, ℔ lb...	14	16
Wrought, English.....	14	16
Oils:
Lard, ℔ gallon.....	68	73
Coal oil, in barrels.....	26	28
Coal oil, in cases.....	32	35
Linseed, raw.....	90	92
Sperm.....	— —	2 00
Whale, refined.....	95	1 00
Cotton seed, crude.....	— —	46
Cotton seed, refined.....	60	65
Castor.....	1 65	1 85
Olive, 22@24 oz.....	6 00	6 50
Olive, 11@12 oz.....	7 00	7 25
Tanner's, ℔ gallon.....	75	85
Soap, ℔ lb:
Western.....	5½	7
Northern.....	5½	7
Southern.....	4½	6½
Castile, genuine.....	12	— —
Castile, imitation.....	11	— —
Sardines:
Half boxes.....	34	35½
Quarter boxes.....	23½	24
Spices, ℔ lb:
Cassia.....	40	45
Cloves.....	19	20
Nutmegs.....	1 20	1 25
Pepper.....	21	21½
Pimento.....	12	12½
Sugar, ℔ lb:
Havana, white.....	13	— —
Havana, yellow.....	10½	11½
Havana, brown.....	10½	11
Crushed.....	13½	13¾
Pulverized.....	13½	13¾
Teas, ℔ lb:
Imperial.....	45	1 10
Gunpowder.....	75	1 50
Hyson.....	75	1 25
Young Hyson.....	75	1 10
Oolong.....	45	1 10
Pouchong.....	30	50
Tin, ℔ box:
Block.....	— —	— —
In plates, I. X.....	18 25	— —
In plates, I. C.....	16 00	— —
Leaded plates, I. X.....	17 25	— —
Leaded plates, I. C.....	15 00	— —

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug 20, 1872.

Texas beeves, choice, ℔ head	$50 00 @ 55 00
Texas beeves, 1st qual. ℔ head	35 00 @ 45 00
Texas cattle, 2d qual. ℔ head	20 00 @ 28 00
Texas cattle, 3d qual. ℔ head	14 00 @ 18 00
Western beeves, ℔ lb. net....	1 @ 13
Hogs, ℔ lb. gross.....	4½@ 6
Sheep, first quality, ℔ head..	5 00 @ 6 00
Sheep, second qual., ℔ head.	3 0 @ 4 00
Sheep, third quality, ℔ head.	2 0 @ 2 50
Milch cows, choice, ℔ head..	80 00 @100 00
Milch cows, ℔ head.....	50 00 @ 80 00
Texas cows, with calves.....	— — @ — —
Calves, ℔ head.....	7 00 @ 10 00
Yearlings, ℔ head.....	8 00 @ 12 00

Special Notices.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting at Hill's chapel, commencing on Friday before the fourth Sabbath in September, and continuing until the following Wednesday. Hill's chapel is in Montgomery county, Alabama, twenty-eight miles southeast of the city of Montgomery, seven miles east of Athens, five miles southwest of Pine Level, and twenty miles northwest of Troy. It is designed to make this camp ground self-supporting, and therefore, while everybody is invited, we request that all who can will come in their wagons, prepared to care for themselves. A public lot will be adjacent to the camp ground. Preachers, traveling and local, are invited.

WILLIAM A. SAMPEY, Pastor.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting held at Indian Village, Castor circuit, Louisiana Conference, to commence on Wednesday before the first Sabbath in October, on the self-sustaining plan. Persons living at a distance, and desiring to tent, can have a tent built to order by addressing Rev. J. B. Landers, Forksville, Louisiana. A general invitation to ministers is hereby given.

J. W. HEARN, P. C.

Debate.

Rev. D. M. Hudson, of the Alabama Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and Elder J. M. Pickens, of the Christian Church, will discuss the Subjects, Design and Mode of Christian Baptism, and, probably also the question of Denominational Names and Written Creeds, in the Baptist church at Pineapple, Wilcox county, Alabama, at the southern terminus of the Selma and Gulf railroad. The debate will commence on Tuesday, September 24, 1872, at ten o'clock A. M., and continue some eight or ten days

Camp Meeting.

A camp meeting will be held on Clear creek, Rapides parish, twelve miles north of Alexandria, on the old telegraph road to Harrisonburg, beginning on Thursday, September 19, 1872. The Alexandria District Conference will be held at the same time. All ministers, all members of the Quarterly Conferences and all friends are earnestly requested to attend and assist in the meeting.

JOHN F. WINN, P. C.
FRED. WHITE, P. E.

Camp Meeting.

A camp meeting will be held on Spring creek, thirty miles southwest of Alexandria, near Burr's ferry, on the road from mouth of Red river to the Sabine, and on the Opelousas and Natchitoches road, beginning on Friday, October 11. All ministers and all friends are earnestly requested to give us their attendance and assistance.

FRED. WHITE,
S. H COOPER.
C. KEENER.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting on the Gaston circuit, Demopolis district, Alabama Conference, three miles west of DeSotoville, in the northern portion of Choctaw county, Alabama, commencing on Friday before the first Sabbath in October. Provision will be made for all visitors. Ministers of the gospel are cordially invited.

C. R. DUBOSE, P. C.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting on the Paulding circuit, Meridian district, Mississippi Conference, commencing on Thursday before and embracing the fifth Sabbath in September. It will be conducted on the primitive style. Provision will be made for all ministers and persons living at a distance. Persons living within fifteen or twenty miles of the camp ground must not expect accommodations from the citizens or tent-holders. All ministers are respectfully invited and urged to attend. There will be conveyance for ministers at Enterprise on Thursday morning.

J. H. HOLLAND, P. C.

Shreveport District Conference.

The several brethren are requested to preach on the following subjects at our District Conference, to be held at Keachie, Louisiana, commencing on Thursday, September 26, viz.:

1. On the Obligation to Support the Ministry—Rev. C. B. Stuart.
2. On the Obligation and Manner of Keeping Holy the Sabbath Day—Rev. John Wilkinson.
3. On the Importance and Design of Infant Baptism—Rev. C. W. Carter.
4. On Missions—Rev. A. W. Willinms.
5. On the Utility of Camp Meetings—Rev. R. Parvin.
6. On Faith or Trust in God—Rev. H. L. Smith.
7. On Experimental Religion—Rev. J. M. Franklin.
8. On Christ a Present Savior—Rev. W. D. Stayton.

JOHN PIPES, P. E.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting at Providence church, five miles east of Sparta, Louisiana, commencing on Friday evening, September 13, 1872. The people are requested and invited to come in their wagons, provided to take care of themselves. The brethren and friends will please meet me at the place appointed, to select the place for their tents and prepare the ground, on the third day of September. Ministerial brethren are especially invited.

PHILIP ALLEN, P. C.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting on Chinn Grove, Dale county, Alabama, commencing on Friday before the second Sunday in September. The itinerant and local ministers of the Methodist Episcopal Church South are respectfully invited.

A. S. DICKINSON, Pastor.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting, commencing on the sixth day of September, half-way between Pleasant Hill and Mansfield, in DeSoto parish, Louisiana. The people are expected and requested to come with wagons and tents, provided to take care of themselves. It is a new camp ground, and we do not know of any public entertainment.

R. PARVIN.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SEASHORE DISTRICT.—FOURTH ROUND.

Mount Carmel, at Mount Moriah	Aug. 17, 18
Williamsburg miss., at Dry creek	24, 25
Columbia, at Byrd's chapel	31, Sept. 1
Pearlington, at Jordan river	Sept. 7, 8
Ocean Springs, at Biloxi	14, 15
White Plains, at Poplar Head	21, 22
W. Pascagoula, at Mulberry Grove	28, 29
Green mission	Oct. 5, 6
East Pascagoula, at Salem camp ground	12, 13
Enon, at Enon	19, 20
Rankin	Nov. 30, Dec. 1

C. F. GILLASPIE, P. E.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Spring Hill ct., at Linwood (camp meeting)	Sept. 21, 22
Shubuta, at Shubuta	28, 29
DeKnib ct., at New Hope (camp meeting)	Oct. 5, 6
Wayne circuit, at Frost's Bridge (camp meeting)	12, 13
Paulding circuit	19, 20
Enterprise station	26, 27
Clarke circuit	Nov. 2, 3
Enterprise ct., at Pleasant Valley	9, 10
Marion circuit	16, 17
Meridian station	30, Dec. 1

The preachers' meeting will be held at Meridian, Mississippi, on Wednesday after the first Sunday in September. Question for discussion continued from last meeting, viz.: Will the future happiness of those who are saved be greater than if man had not fallen?

WM. B. HINES, P. E.

VICKSBURG DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Rocky Springs, at Steele chapel	Aug. 3, 4
North Warren, Millsdale and Sunflower, at Beechland	10, 11
Cayuga, at Bear Creek	17, 18
South Warren, at Red Bone	24, 25
Clover Hill, at Tallula	30, Sept. 1
Rolling Fork	Sept. 7, 8
Fayette, at Belle Grove	14, 15
Kingston	21, 22

JOHN A. B. JONES, P. E.,
Port Gibson, Miss.

SUMMIT DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Amite City	Aug. 3, 4
Covington	10, 11
Greensburg	17, 18
Big Creek	24, 25
Franklinton	Sept. 7, 8
St. Helena	14, 15

The Summit District Conference will commence at Tangipahoa, Louisiana, on Friday, September 27, and embrace the fifth Sunday.

J. NICHOLSON, P. E.

JACKSON DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Monat Olivet circuit and Yazoo mission, at New Hope	Aug. 3, 4
Raymond circuit	10, 11
Brownsville circuit	17, 18
Sulphur Springs circuit, at Madisonville	24, 25
Camden and Thomastown circuits	31, Sept. 1
Carthage circuit	Sept. 7, 8

H. H. MONTGOMERY, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Beauregard, at Beauregard	Aug. 3, 4
Georgetown, at Georgetown	10, 11
Jackson, at Forest Hill	17, 18
Bogue Chitto	24, 25
Brookhaven and Brookhaven mission	31, Sept. 1
Crystal Springs and Crystal Springs mission	Sept. 14, 15

The District Meeting will be held September 14-15, at nine o'clock A. M., at Crystal Springs. Bishop J. C. Keener will preside. A camp meeting is in prospect at the same time and place, on the plan recommended by the last District Conference.

W. E. M. LINFIELD, P. E.
Post Office, Hazlehurst.

WOODVILLE DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Wilkinson, at Pisgah	Aug. 3, 4
Buffalo, at Friendship	10, 11
Meadville, at Mendville	24, 25
Amite, at Bond's camp ground	31, Sept. 1

J. L. FORSYTH, P. E.

BRANDON DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Decatur mission, at Hebron	Aug. 3, 4
Lake circuit, at Scotland chapel	10, 11
Morton circuit	24, 25
Trenton circuit	31, Sept. 1
Raleigh circuit	Sept. 7, 8
Taylorville mission	14, 15
Garlandsville circuit	21, 22

F. M. WILLIAMS, P. E.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

DEMOPOLIS DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Gainesville, at Ramsey	Aug. 3, 4
Cuba, at York	10, 11
Bladen, at Providence	17, 18
Butler, at Bright Water	24, 25
Gaston, at Thompkinsville	31, Sept. 1

S. H. COX, P. E.

MOBILE DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Mount Pleasant, at Red Hill	Aug. 3, 4
Grand Bay mission, at Ellington	10, 11
Pollard ct., at Shepherd's chapel	17, 18
Pensacola	24, 25
Milton	31, Sept. 1

H. URQUHART, P. E.

SELMA DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

East Selma station	Aug. 3, 4
Rembert Hills ct., at Camp ground	10, 11
Orrville circuit	17, 18
Dayton and Spring Hill, at Spring Hill	24, 25
Linden and Flatwoods mission, at Spring Hill	24, 25

A. J. BRIGGS, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Caddo circuit, at Friendship	Aug. 17, 18
Mansfield circuit, at Forest Grove	24, 25
Keachie circuit, at Bell Bower	31, Sept. 1
Pleasant Hill circuit, at Bethel	Sept. 7, 8
Springville circuit, at Conshatta Academy	21, 22
Manny circuit, at Bayou Lee	Oct. 5, 6
Anacoco circuit, at Kasatchie	12, 13
Shreveport	19, 20

The District Conference will be held at Keachie, commencing on Thursday, September 26, at ten A. M. The Bethel camp meeting will commence on the sixth of September, and the Beulah camp meeting will commence September 11.

JOHN PIPES, P. E.

LAKE PROVIDENCE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Waterproof, at Tensas chapel	Aug. 3, 4
Wesley and Jordan, at Jordan	10, 11
Lake Providence, at Illawarra	17, 18
Bastrop, at Island DeSaird	24, 25
Floyd and Delhi, at Midway	31, Sept. 1
Oak Grove, at Oak Grove	7, 8
Lind Grove, at Lind Grove	14, 15
Sicily Island, at Bœuff Prairie	22, 23
Winnsboro, at Oakley	28, 29
Rayville, at Little Creek	Oct. 6, 7

J. T. DAVES, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

New Iberia	Aug. 3, 4
Bayou Bœuff	10, 11
Plaquemine Brulee	24, 25
Coulee Croche	31, Sept. 1
Abbeville	Sept. 7, 8

I hope to spend at least five days at each quarterly meeting.

B. F. WHITE, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Quarterly Conference at Algiers	Aug. 4
Felicity street	11
German charges—Quarterly Conference at Dryades street	16
Plaquemine	Sept. 1
Morgan street	15
Baton Rouge	28, 29

LINUS PARKER, P. E.

MINDEN DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Sparta, at Sparta	Aug. 10, 11
Mount Lebanon, at Athens	17, 18
Bistineau, at Liberty chapel	31, Sept. 1

The District Meeting for Minden district will be held at Minden, commencing Wednesday, October 2, including the first Sabbath in the month. Preachers and official members of the church within the bounds of the district are specially invited. Visiting ministers will be heartily received.

N. M. SKIPWORTH, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

YAZOO DISTRICT.—FOURTH ROUND.

French Camps circuit, at Liberty	Sept. 14, 15
Richland circuit, at Goodman	21, 22
Valden circuit, at Enon	28, 29
Attala circuit, at Pleasant Hill	Oct. 5, 6
Winona circuit, at Rethesda	12, 13
Greenwood and McNutt, at Greenwood	19, 20
Lexington	26, 27
Durant, at West's station	Nov. 2, 3
Koschusko and Bethel, at Kosci'ko	9, 10
Black Hawk, at Sweetwater	16, 17

W. P. BARTON, P. E.

N. B.—Camp meetings at Liberty and Durant quarterly meetings.

AGENTS WANTED—for the Lives of

Grant Greeley

WILSON BROWN and the leading men of all parties. Over 40 Steel Portraits, worth twice the cost of the book. Wanted everywhere. Agents have wonderful success. Send for circular. Address

ZIEGLER & McCURDY,
au15 2m 503 N. Sixth st., St. Louis, Mo.

DRY GOODS—CLOTHING.

D. H. HOLMES,

135.....CANAL STREET.....135

—AND—

15.....BOURBON STREET.....15

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER

—IN—

ALL DESCRIPTIONS

—OF—

DRY GOODS,

—SUCH AS—

SILKS, TISSUES, EMBROIDERIES, LACES, SHAWLS, CLOAKS, MADE SUITS, ETC.

The attention of the public is respectfully called to our stock, which will be found most complete, embracing every kind of Fancy and Staple Goods.

ap25 6m

W. H. PIERSON. E. L. HEWS.

PIERSON & HEWS,

DEALERS IN

Fine Clothing & Furnishing Goods,

NOS. 13 AND 15 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

feb15 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

LOOK TO YOUR CHILDREN.

The Great Soothing Remedy!

MRS. WHITCOMB'S SIRUP. (Cures Colic and Griping in the Bowels, and Inflitades the process of Teething. Subdues Convulsions and overcomes all diseases incident to Infants and Children. PRICE, 25 CENTS.

MRS. WHITCOMB'S SIRUP. (Cures Diarrhea, Dysentery and Summer Complaint in Children of all ages. Relieves pain, weakness or exhaustion in 15 or 20 minutes, giving tone and power to the system. PRICE, 25 CENTS.

It is the Infants' and Children's great Soothing Remedy in all disorders brought on by teething or any other cause.

Be particular to call for MRS. WHITCOMB'S SIRUP, and take no other.

Prepared by the GRAFTON MEDICINE CO., St. Louis, Mo. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicine everywhere. jy25 1yeow

BUY ME AND I'LL DO YOU GOOD

DR. HENRY'S ROOT & PLANT PILLS.

By cleansing the blood and arousing the liver and secretive organs to a healthy action, Dr. Henry's Root and Plant Pills cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, such as Headache, Pain in the Side, Numbness of the Hands and Feet, Dullness, Chilliness, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Loss of Appetite, Bilious Dysentery, Kidney Affections, Constipation, Debility, Fevers of all kinds, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body, or obstruction of its functions.

Being free from mercury and other poisons, they can be taken at all times and under all circumstances, without regard to diet, business or pleasure.

They stimulate the weakened and disiempered parts into healthy action, giving them strength to disburden themselves and throw off the obstructions which are the first cause of disease, without producing either nausea or griping.

All heavy and drowsy sensations, which are the forerunners of direful diseases, such as Apoplexy, Paralytic Strokes, etc., are effectually warded off by a few doses of these searching Pills.

Full directions around each box, in English, German, French and Spanish. Price, 25 Cents a Box.

Prepared by the GRAFTON MEDICINE Co., St. Louis, Mo. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicine everywhere. jy25 1yeow

SUGAR MILLS

FOR THE VERY BEST AND

Latest Improved Sugar Machinery,

consisting of CANE MILLS, Evaporators, Clarifiers, Grates, Doors, Skimmers, etc., also CIDER MILLS, and the celebrated COTTAGE FRUIT DRYERS, address, for Price List and Catalogue,

SOUTHERN MANUFACTURING CO.,
Je20 2m Nashville, Tenn.

NEW ORLEANS BRANCH

Southern Life Insurance Company

OF MEMPHIS, TENNESSEE.

Office—46 Carondelet St., New Orleans.

Good and reliable Solicitors wanted.
my23 3m

A GRADUATE OF SOME EXPERIENCE, who can teach all the branches usually taught in Female Colleges, desires a situation. Prefers a select school in some village or good neighborhood. For information address REV. S. P. RICHARDSON,
Je6 3m Summerfield, Alabama.

STEAMSHIPS.

New Liverpool Line of Steamers,

Built expressly for the New Orleans trade, to cross the Bar at all times without detention.

Liverpool and Mississippi Steamship Company.

First-class Powerful Screw Steamers,

ST. LOUIS, Capt. Roberts	1,827 tons.
MEMPHIS, Capt. Weeks	2,500 "
MISSISSIPPI, Capt. Leboudle	2,500 "
VICKSBURG, Capt. Pierson	2,500 "
BELGIAN, —— ——	2,150 "
TEXAS, —— ——	2,500 "
MISSOURI, (building)	2,500 "

Are intended to sail from Liverpool as follows:

Steamship ST. LOUIS, August 10, 1872.
Steamship BELGIAN, August 31, 1872.

FOR LIVERPOOL DIRECT—
The steamship
ST. LOUIS,
Roberts, commander,

Sails SEPTEMBER —, 1872, at 8 A. M., from her wharf, foot of St. Mary street, Fourth District. Will receive and sign through bills of lading to Havre, Bremen, Hamburg, Antwerp, Rotterdam and all Continental ports.

Parties desirous of sending for their friends can purchase prepaid emigration tickets here. A reduction allowed when applied for in groups.

For freight or passage, having superior accommodations, apply to
MEEKER, KNOX & CO.,
40 Carondelet street.

Managing owners—FLINN, MAIN & MONTGOMERY, 12 Lanneelot Hay, Chapel street, Liverpool. my16 3m

FOR NEW YORK.

The Cromwell New York and New Orleans Steamship Line.

Steamers of this Line leave New Orleans for New York EVERY SATURDAY at 5 P. M.

Cabin passage	$50 00
Steerage passage	25 00

Through bills of lading to foreign and coastwise ports issued.

ALFRED MOULTON,
mh21 1y 41 Carondelet street.

FOR NEW YORK.

MERCHANTS' STEAMSHIP LINE.

Sailing from New York and New Orleans EVERY SATURDAY.

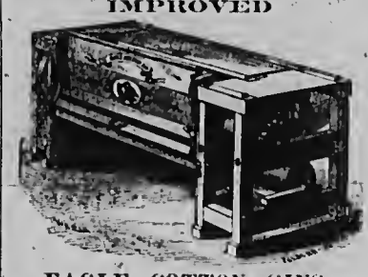
Cabin passage	$50 00
Steerage passage	25 00

Through tickets to Liverpool and the Continent.

New Orleans wharf, foot of Jefferson street.
New York wharf, Pier No 4, North river.
JOHN H. LUDWIGSEN, Agent,
feb8 1y No. 190 Common street.

MISCELLANEOUS.

IMPROVED



EAGLE COTTON GINS.

THE GREAT POPULARITY of the EAGLE COTTON GINS is established from the well-known fact that they are the most reliable, strongest and best-built Cotton Gins ever made. The Eagle Cotton Gin runs lighter than any other gin, thus having a great advantage for planters who wish to run by horse power. All

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. XVIII. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, AUGUST 29, 1872. NO. 35.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

New York, Aug. 21.—Dr. Howard, lately imprisoned at Madrid, arrived here yesterday in the steamer Alexandria.

Dr. Howard attributes his release to the efforts of the American press, to which he returns the warmest thanks. He thinks that Secretary Fish might have acted more promptly, and that the government, with all the proofs before it that he was an American citizen, might have abbreviated, or at least alleviated his sufferings.

Dr. Howard will go to Washington and present his claim, which is for a pretty round sum, including loss of medical business at Cienfuegos and property. He will not return to Cuba.

Louisville, Aug. 21.—The committee of arrangements for the grand peace reunion, to be held here September 11, report everything progressing favorably. Fifty thousand dollars have been raised here, and large numbers of sheep, hogs, cattle, etc., with vast quantities of other provisions, are being prepared by the people of the interior as contributions to the grand barbecue to be given upon the occasion.

Boston, Aug. 23.—The Executive Committee set forth their liabilities incurred for the international musical festival and peace jubilee at about $650,000; the receipts were $440,000, leaving a deficit of $210,000. To meet this and give a substantial testimonial to Gilmore, it is proposed to give a grand concert and ball on October 10, with one hundred thousand three-dollar tickets, six of which, drawn by lot, will draw the Coliseum and appurtenances.

Washington, Aug. 25.—The aggregate number of claims presented to the Southern Claims Commissioners thus far is sixteen thousand, ranging from $12 to $350,000; averaging $2,500 each. The commissioners have finally reported on five hundred and eighty cases, in which $1,600,000 were claimed.

About two hundred and fifty of them were rejected, principally from the absence of proofs of loyalty, and for the remaining three hundred and thirty cases Congress, on the recommendation of the commissioners, appropriated $3,500,000, the money having since been paid, with the exception of $15,000, which was stopped through the reports of special agents who were employed after the general report of the commissioners had been made to Congress, and who discovered reasons for withholding this amount in three or four cases from Virginia. The commissioners, three in number, now absent from Washington, have under examination five hundred claims apiece, on which they will report at their next meeting in October. In addition, five hundred other cases will also be decided.

Information has been received that agents in the South are collecting claims of persons whose property was taken for public uses or destroyed to facilitate military operations, but who cannot prove loyalty, owing to their giving aid and comfort to the Confederates. These agents are acting upon the supposition that Congress will ultimately dispense with the loyalty clause. The aggregate of such claims is already large.

Boston, Aug. 25.—The chorus of twenty-five thousand Sunday school children gave a concert, this afternoon, in the Coliseum, for the benefit of the House of the Angel Guardian.

Wheeling, W. Va., Aug. 26.—Thirty-three counties give Jacobs a majority of six thousand. Result upon constitution doubtful.

New York, Aug. 26.—The Herald says editorially: "It is reported on good authority that Mr. Charles O'Connor has addressed a letter to the Louisville Convention of straight-outs, prohibiting the use of his name by them for President or any other office. Mr. O'Conner states that the fee simple of the world would not induce him to accept the nomination."

The Sun says Charles O'Connor, in an interview with James McKenna, who asked him if he would become the candidate of the Democrats and Liberals for Governor of the State, said he did not seek the nomination, but if nominated would accept.

New York, Aug. 27.—Dr. Vandsrpool reports all fear of yellow fever dissipated. The patients, except a few of the crew of the Spanish vessel Numancia, have recovered.

FOREIGN.

Belfast, Aug. 21.—Hopes of restoration of quiet, which existed yesterday, have not been realized. The condition of the city is worse than ever. Last night the authorities were powerless against the depredators, though supported by an armed force of fully five thousand men. School houses have been destroyed, and it is with the utmost difficulty some churches are preserved from the same fate. Grave mismanagement of the authorities is suspected, and the general dissatisfaction is so great that the peaceable citizens intend to form vigilance committees for the arrest and summary punishment of the offenders.

Geneva, Aug. 22.—The work of the Tribunal of Arbitration evidently draws to a close. Counsel on behalf of the English and American governments have been more than usually busy to-day with the secretary of the court in the drawing up of a statement of the accounts between the two nations of the losses occasioned by the depredations of each of the Anglo-Confederate privateers.

All the members of the tribunal are to dine together to-morrow, and the wife of Hon. J. Banoroft Davis, American agent, will give a ball in their honor the same eveuing.

London, Aug. 24.—Several English railway companies contemplate abolishing the use of first-class carriages on their roads, and adopting the style used in the United States.

Madrid, Aug. 24.—It is known that the government has received information of an organized plan for an insurrection in the disaffected provinces of the north.

The time fixed for their uprising, by the revolutionists, is on the twenty-eighth instant.

The French government has been informed of the plans of the conspirators, and has been requested to use every precaution to prevent them from receiving aid from France.

Berlin, Aug. 26.—Great preparations are being made here for the festivities attending the meeting of the Emperors of Germany, Austria and Russia. The great day will be the seventh of September, when their majesties of Russia and Austria will be received.

In the forenoon there will be a grand military parade, in the afternoon a State banquet at the Castle, and in the evening a gala performance at the Opera House, attended by the three Emperors. This will be succeeded by a torchlight procession, and the entire city will be illuminated.

London, Aug. 26.—Reinforcements for Belfast have been recalled, the trouble there being over.

The Ex-Empress Carlotta is reported to be dying; all hope has been given up, and the last sacrament administered.

Madrid, Aug. 26.—Additional returns show that two-thirds of the successful candidates are members of the government party. The Radicals supported the government.

Bombay, Aug. 27, via London, Aug. 26.—The cholera has appeared in the valley of Cashmere, and it is reported to be raging with great violence.

Geneva, Aug. 27.—There is every reason to believe that the arbitrators have settled in principle the question of indemnity, and have fixed approximately the amount to be awarded for vessels destroyed by Confederate cruisers.

It is probable that the total amount of damages awarded the United States will be between £3,000,000 and £4,000,000.

No dependence is to be placed on reports which represent the amount above or below these extremes.

Some further claims remain to be settled.

The question of the payment of interest on the sums awarded, which has not been approached yet, will be considered on Thursday.

The Pinchback Committee has fused with the Kellogg party. The changes asseuted to (on the Kellogg ticket) are as follows:

Congressman at Large—Pinchback.

Secretary of State—P. G. Deslonde.

Superintendent of Education—William G. Brown (black.)—Picayune, August 28.

Definition of Ritualism.—Sydney Smith's definition of Puseyism, now Ritualism, is always good. Here it is:

"A system of posture and imposture, of circumflexion and genuflexion, of bowings to the east, and courtesyings to the west, with any amount of man-milliuery and other tom-fooleries."

Men will never know us by our faith, for that is within us; they know us by our works, which are visible to them.

ORANGEISM.

Let us briefly study the meaning of the conflict between the Orangemen and Irishmen. It is an old feud; whoever traverses Ireland finds proof that he treads on the thin crust of ashes, beneath which the hot lava is still glowing. Never shall I forget the emotions which saddened me as I contrasted the beauty of the scenery with the squalor and wretchedness of the wild Irish, dwelling in their mud cabins. As Macaulay has said: "The seventeenth century has, in that unhappy country, left to the nineteenth a fatal heritage of malignant passions. No amnosty for the mutual wrongs inflicted by the Saxon defenders of Londonderry and by the Celtic defenders of Limerick has ever been granted from the heart by either race. So to this day more than Spartan haughtiness alloys the noble qualities which characterized the children of the victors, while a Helot feeling, compounded of awe and hatred, is but too often discernible in the children of the vanquished." On the same soil dwell two populations, locally intermixed, morally and politically sundered. They sprang from different stocks, spoke different languages. The appellation of Irish was given exclusively to the Celts, and to those families which, though not of Celtic origin, had, in the course of ages, degenerated into Celtic manners. From the year 489, when St. Patrick preached among them, they had adhered to the Church of Rome. Among them resided less than a million of Calvinists, proud of their Saxon blood and of their Protestant faith. The great preponderance of numbers on the one side was more than compensated by the great superiority of intelligence, vigor, organization on the other. The Irish, as we know them and see them on our railways and canals, are not the Irish travelers might meet with in Ireland. There refinement, culture, wealth, position, knowledge, energy and perseverance confronts an aboriginal peasantry in an almost savage state. Romanism is the cause of the degradation of the Celts. Christianity is the glory and strength of the Saxon. The battle of the Boyne, which took place under the lead of William, Prince of Orange, was the authoritative declaration, on the part of Great Britain, that Irishmen, if they would be Irishmen, must permit other, if not better men to grow and thrive in their midst. It is a sad, sad story. What might Ireland not have been had the genial influence of Christianity been exchanged for the blighting curse of Romanism? The Irishman who shoots his victim from behind the hedge, who burns his dwelling and gives the children up to death in Ireland, or who, in America, fights negroes and Orangemen, is influenced as a puppet by its wire, and his every motion impelled by the unseen chain of which the last link incloses his body and soul, while the first is firmly grasped in the practiced hand of the Man of Sin, enthroned on the green hills at Rome. Glance at a few facts in Ireland's checkered history. In the year 460 a large number of Anglo-Saxons settled in Ireland. At the close of the eighth century many Norwegians and Danes sought there a home. In 1002 Brian Baru expelled the Danes, and was crowned King of Munster at Tara, and became King of Ireland. In 1152 the supremacy of the See of Rome was acknowledged. A few years afterward Adrian the Fourth conferred the sovereignty of the island on Henry the Second of England upon payment of the tribute of Peter's pence to the court of Rome. Henry the Eighth introduced the Protestant Reformation into Ireland, as he introduced it into England.

James induced many English and Scotch Protestants to settle in Ulster, where in 1641 the insurrection broke out, which swept through the island. The English planters were everywhere put to death without mercy. No fewer than forty thousand Protestants perished in Ulster alone by violence. The country was a prey to anarchy until 1645, when Cromwell appeared on the scene. He took Drogheda by storm, and delivered it up to the license of the soldiery. One after another the strongholds fell till the whole country lay at his mercy, and for the first time English supremacy may be said to have been established. Four-fifths of the whole soil was confiscated. Once more, in 1688, the Catholics took up arms. James the Second, after his flight from England, presented himself in Ireland, and was received with acclamation. An army was immediately formed, and placed under the conduct of Irish and French officers. James the Second was no match for William, Prince of Orange, as was shown at the battle of the Boyne in 1690, which broke the ex-king's success. The battle of Aughrim followed July 12, 1691, and virtually ended the conflict.

The battle of the Boyne, it will be seen from this review, was the starting point whence the new departure was made. It took place nearly two centuries ago, but its meaning never before was so thoroughly understood. The seed of God's sowing lives and brings forth fruit. Between the battle of the Boyne and the conflict in New York, last year, there are striking analogies. Both were insignificant as battles, but their results are of measureless and far-reaching importance. Now, as in the past, the savage and barbarous element resorts to the bludgeon to beat back the arm of progress. The Irish in New York declare that Irishmen who read newspapers, attend lectures, work in shops, live in pleasant houses, go to church with wife and children, with Bible or hymn book, which the ignorant Romanists can neither read nor understand, shall not be allowed. The battle of July 12, 1871, is America's answer, and is another victory of Protestantism over Romanism, of civilization over barbarism, and while year by year Irishmen who hate the Pope are compelled to see the ignorant Celt glorying in the shame of his country on St. Patrick's day, he cherishes the desire to bring out the banner of Protestantism, on which is the portrait of the Prince of Orange, that he may point the eyes of America to a higher civilization, and declare to all the world that Irishmen are not all Romanists. Standard.

THE GOOD OLD TIMES.

Some one having been telling of Mr. Loder, in London, who died lately leaving the enormous fortune of $75,000,000,000, and the gorgeous monument of the Rhode Island Spragues, which is to cost $100,000, and of the wondrous wealth of Stewart and other shoddy magnates and millionaires, the Richmond Inquirer tells us how people had big fortunes, and built fine houses, and gave dinners, and drank fine wine, and spent in other ways in the old times, ere Loder was or Stewart named. Thus it is that the Inquirer takes the shine out of the nineteenth century:

Why, what is Stewart, or Belmont, or the Marquis of Westminster, to Ptolemy Philadelphus, of Egypt, who amassed a little property of $350,000,000? And which of our extravagant young ladies in these boasted times ever gave her lover, as Cleopatra did, a pearl dissolved in vinegar (or undissolved,) worth $400,000? Then there was Paulina, one of the ton in Rome, who used to wear jewels, when she returned her visits, worth $800,000. Well, they boast of Mr. Stewart's "marble palace?" on Thirty-fourth street and Fifth avenue. We do not suppose this house, which is about the best they have in New York, cost more than half a million of dollars. Cicero, who was a poor man, gave $150,000 for his house, and Clodius paid $650,000 for his establishment on the Palatine, while Messala gave $2,000,000 for the house of Antony. Seneca, who was just a plain philosopher like Mr. Greeley, was worth $120,000,000. Tiberius left a property of nearly $120,000,000. Why, they talk about a man's failing in New York for a million, as if it was a big thing. Cæsar, before he entered any office—when he was a young gentleman in private life—owed $14,000,000, and he purchased the friendship of Quæsor for $2,500,000. Mark Antony owed $1,500,000 on the Ides of March, and he paid it before the Kaleuds of March. This was nothing—he squandered $720,000,000 of the public money—Major Hodge's defalcation being for the contemptible sum of $450,000.

And these fellows lived well. Esopus, who was a play-actor, paid $400,000 for a single dish. Caligula spent $400,000 on a supper. Their wines were often kept for two ages, and some of them were sold for $20 an ounce. Dishes were made of gold and silver set with precious stones. The beds of Heliogabulos were of solid silver, his table and plates were of pure gold, and his mattresses, covered with carpets of cloth of gold, were stuffed with down from under the wing of the partridge.

It took $80,000 a year to keep up the dignity of a Roman senator, and some of them spent $5,000,000 a year.

Cicero and Pompey "dropped in," one day, on Lucullus—nobody at home but the family, and that family dinner cost $4,000.

But we talk of population. We boast of London and New York. Rome had a population of between three and four millions. The wooden theater of Scaurus contained 80,000 seats; the Coliseum, built of stone, would seat 22,000 more. The Circus Maximus (think of it, old John Robinson!) would hold 385,000 spectators. There were in the city 9,000 public baths, those of Diocletian alone accommodating 3,000 bathers. Even in the sixth century, after Rome had been sacked and plundered by the Goths and Vandals, Zachariah, a traveler, asserts that there were 384 spacious streets, 80 golden statues of the gods, 46,097 palaces, 13,052 fountains, 3,785 bronze statues of the emperors and generals, 22 great horses in bronze, two colossi, two spiral columns, 31 theaters, 11 amphitheaters, 9,026 baths, 2,800 shops of perfumes, 2,091 prisons.

As a set-off to Mr. Sprague's "monumental tombstone," we may merely mention the mausoleum of Augustus in the northern part of the Campus Martius, consisting of a large tumulus of earth raised on a lofty basement of white marble, and covered on the summit with evergreens, as in the manner of a hanging garden, the whole surmounted by a bronze figure of Augustus. At the entrance were two Egyptian obelisks fifty feet high, and all around was an extensive grove, divided into walks and terraces.

We have not space to speak of the Forum Romanum, the Forum Julium, the theater of Pompey, the temple of Apollo, the theater of Marcellus, the Pantheon, the palace of Nero (entirely overlaid with jewels and mother-of-pearl,) the Claudian Aqueduct, the Flavian Amphitheater, the Coliseum, the Arch of Titus, the Villa of Hadrian, the Baths of Caracalla, nor the great Roman roads, straight as an arrow, paved like the streets of a city, divided by mile-stones, and having houses for travelers every five or six miles, affording uninterrupted communication from the Wall Antonius through York, London, Sandwich, Boulogne, Rheims, Lyons, Milan, Rome, Brundusium, Dyrrachium, Byzantium, Ancyra, Tafsus, Antioch, Tyre, Jerusalem—a distance of 3,470 miles.

Nor have we space to refer to Thebes, in Egypt (which had a population of 2,500,000,) and that noble palace, with its grand columns, whose cornices were inlaid with ivory mountings or sheathed with beaten gold; nor Alexandria, whose annual port dues were $6,000,000, and whose library, in an age when books were rare, contained 700,000 volumes; nor to Capua, the second city of Italy; nor to Rhodes and its 3,000 statues and 100 colossi (one of them one of the seven wonders of the world, costing $3,000,000;) nor to Antioch, with a street four miles long, perfectly level, and double colonnades through its whole length; nor to Athens and the Parthenon and the theater of Bacchus, the most beautiful in the world, which seated 30,000 persons; nor to Syracuse and its fortress, one mile long by a half mile in breadth; nor to Tyre, and Carthage, and Babylon, and Bagdad, and Memphis, and Ephesus, and Byzantium, and a hundred others.

FROM THE WORK.

Waterproof Circuit.

Mr. Editor: Our third quarterly meeting began August 4 and closed August 7. The presiding elder, Rev. Joel T. Daves, preached every day with great acceptability and with good effect.—Rev. N. S. Carnell, a local preacher, preached three excellent sermons. Four persons professed to find peace with God, and three applied for membership in the church. I would send you my quarterly report on the "general state of the church," but fear you would abridge.

Suffice it to say, I have increased the appointments on my circuit from two to four, adding St. Joseph and Cash Bayou. The latter is a Saturday appointment, on the west bank of Tensas river, in the parish of Catahoula. I do very much enjoy this week-day preaching. It is refreshing to preach to even a small number of persons who have left their daily labor, put on their Sunday clothes, and come together to engage in the worship of Almighty God, especially when you know that you have before you all the population in all the region round about for a space of ten or fifteen miles. Nor does it diminish the interest to know that the larger part of the audience are graduates of the prominent colleges and universities of the nation.

I think it likely I shall find space for additional church extension, and improve the opportunity, for I rejoice to carry the gospel to the "regions beyond."

—B. F. Alexander, P. C.

Oakdale, August 8, 1872.

Brandon District Conference.

Mr. Editor: The District Conference of the Brandon district, Mississippi Conference, met at Forest, August 16, 1872. The presiding older, Rev. F. M. Williams, in the chair.

The spiritual condition of the church was represented, upon the whole, as being good, and in many places still improving; attendance upon public worship good. The preachers in charge of the several works seem to be laboring faithfully, and trusting to God for a bountiful harvest. Class meetings too much neglected. Prayer meetings in some places well attended, in others neglected.

The subject of missions elicited the fact that there is considerable ground unoccupied, but in some places well filled by local preachers.

The Sabbath school interest is good, and in many places increasing. In some schools the uniform lesson system is being introduced with success.

The finances are in some charges very good, in others not so good; but the preachers seem to be hopeful, and believe that their claims, as well as the other claims of the church, will be met. The envelope or monthly contribution system of collection was recommended.

Prof. Rice, president of Meridian Female College, was present, representing the interests of his college.

The following delegates to the Annual Conference were elected, viz.: J. S. Halbert, J. H. Hood, A. G. Mayers and Irvin Miller. D. M. Wamack, L. M. Horton, D. A. Lingle and John Watts were elected alternates.

The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That the stewards of the several charges be and are hereby requested to proceed, immediately after the adjournment of the Annual Conference, to collect quarterage, upon the basis of the former assessment, without waiting for a new assessment to be made, and that the secretary furnish each preacher in charge a copy of this resolution, to be presented to their several boards of stewards.

Resolved, That at the next meeting of this District Conference the stewards of the respective charges are hereby requested to furnish a financial report in writing, with their plan of collecting money.

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this conference that the class meeting interest of our church can be materially advanced by the pastors giving them more of their personal attention.

This resolution was unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

Resolved, That hereafter it shall be the duty of every pastor to reduce his report to writing, and hand it to the secretary of the District Conference on the first day of its session for record.

Resolved, That this conference do hereby recommend to the patronage of the members of our church the female colleges at Meridian, Brookhaven and Sharon as well deserving sustaining patronage.

Resolved, That it is the sense of this conference that we establish a district camp ground somewhere near the center of this district.

The following committee was appointed as a camp meeting committee to locate and secure the grounds, etc., viz.: W. H. Batte, James Martin, J. S. Halbert, A. G. Tadlock, Irvin Miller, L. M. Horton, W. J. Seal, Micajah Waul, Thomas Winstead, Benjamin Thompson, T. J. Fezeel, Jared Watts, Rev. G. F. Thompson and F. M. Williams. The presiding elder was requested to present this resolution to each Quarterly Conference for their adoption, and request them to appoint a committeeman to raise the funds that shall be assessed by the committee. Forest was selected as the place, and the third Monday in September the time for the committee to meet.

Religious services were given due prominence during the sittings of the conference.

Morton was selected as the place of the next meeting of the District Conference.

Irvin Miller, Sec.

The gates of heaven are low-arched; we must enter upon our knees.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 29, 1872.

A STREAM THAT HURRIES BY.

BY GERALD GRIFFIN.

The stream that hurries by yon fixed shore
Returns no more;
The wind that dries at morn yon dewy lawn
Breathes and is gone;
Those withered flowers to summer's ripening glow
No more shall blow;
Those fallen leaves that strew yon garden bed
For aye are dead.

Of laugh, of jest, of mirth, of pleasure past,
Nothing shall last;
On shore, on sea, on hill, on vale, on plain,
Naught shall remain;
Of all for which poor mortals vainly mourn,
Naught shall return;
Life hath his hour in heaven and earth beneath,
And so hath death.

Not all the chains that clank in eastern clime
Can fetter Time;
For all the phials in the doctor's store
Youth comes no more;
No drug on Age's wrinkled cheek renews
Life's early hues;
Not all the tears that pious mourners shed
Can wake the dead.

For all spring gives, and winter takes again,
We grieve in vain;
Vainly for sunshine fled, and joys gone by,
We heave the sigh;
Oh, ever on, with unexhausted breath,
Time hastes to death;
Even with each word we speak a moment flies,
Is born, and dies.

If thus, through lesser nature's empire wide
Nothing abide—
If wind, and wave, and leaf, and sun, and flower
Have each their hour—
He walks on ice whose dallying spirit clings
To earthly things;
And he alone is wise whose well-taught love
Is fix'd above.

Truths firm as bright, but oft to mortal ear
Chilling and dear,
Harsh as the raven's croak the sounds that tell
Of pleasure's knell;
Pray, reader, that at least the minstrel's strain
Not all be vain;
And, when thou bend'st to God the suppliant knee,
Remember me.

Cornhill Magazine.

IN MEMORIAM.

WILLIAM HALL DAMERON was born in Norfolk, Virginia, in November, 1820, and died June 20, 1872, and was therefore in his fifty second year.

He was the son of Oney S. Dameron and Alice Hardy Herbert, and was the fourth of a family of ten children—seven boys and three girls. Of these only three survive—two daughters and one son.

His ancestors, on the father's side, came from good Protestant stock in the north of England, and his mother belonged to a good old Huguenot family. She was the daughter of Hardy Herbert, a learned and zealous Methodist preacher, who died at the early age of twenty-two, but who even then had made his mark in the Virginia Conference.

The old people were Methodists of the strictest sect, and early instructed their children in the principles and doctrines of Methodism. It is not strange, therefore, that we find William Hall (so named after the eminent physician, Dr. Hall) following in the footsteps of his pious parents, and dedicating himself in the days of his youth to the service of his Maker. He became a member of the Methodist Church at the age of sixteen, and from that time till his death continued to walk in the straight and narrow road, that led him at last to life eternal. He was from the beginning of his religious career an eminent witness of the power and purity of our holy faith, as might have been expected of a scion of the noble house from which he sprung—a house whose nobility emanated not from the distinctions of earthly fame or wealth or power, but was conferred upon it by him who is King of kings and Lord of lords.

He removed from Norfolk to New Orleans in 1838, following his older brother James, who had come in 1835. He at once sought out the people of God, and cast in his lot with them at the old Poydras Street church. He became a member of Bro. Thomas K. Price's class, and was a regular attendant until he became a class leader himself, in which capacity he had, for many years, the Sunday morning class in that church. He soon distinguished himself for zeal in the cause of his Savior, and for diligent use of all the means of grace; the natural result of which was a rapid growth in spiritual stature and a large development of all the Christian virtues. The class room was the place his soul loved, and seldom was his seat vacant at the prayer meeting and the love-feast.

Not long after joining the church he was made a steward, and in September, 1850, was elected recording steward of old Poydras. In 1851, after the burning of that church, the authorities determined to sell the lots on Poydras street, and to buy the two on Carondelet, between Girod and Hevia. This was done, and the building now known as the McGehee church was erected. Bro. Dameron was one of the original trustees, the others being James A. Lusk, James Wright, John C. Henry, Thomas K. Price, W. S. Mount, H. R. W. Hill, W. G. Kendall and Joseph H. Palmer. James Wright was the first president. Their first meeting was held February 18, 1851, Bishop Keener, then preacher in charge, presiding. The board immediately took steps to commence the work of rebuilding. Bro. Dameron, H. R. W. Hill (better known as Harry Hill) and William S. Mount were appointed the building committee. The duties of this committee were very laborious, but the work was at last accomplished, after much financial tribulation. In 1856 Bro. Wright died, and Bro. Dameron was elected to succeed him as president of the board of trustees.

Bro. Dameron's first business engagement in New Orleans was as clerk in the house of St. John, Fabre & Co., clothing merchants, at the corner of Camp and Canal streets. Here he remained a short time, and then obtained a situation with Whiting & Slark, a leading hardware house (now Stauffer, Kent & Co.) In 1842 he took a position with Payne & Harrison, then beginning a cotton factorage and commission business. During this period of his life he occupied a room in the third story of the building at the corner of Camp and Canal streets, above mentioned, his brother James and Mr. Fabre being his room-mates. They afterward rented a small cottage house on Camp street, just above St. Joseph, and kept bachelor's hall, meantime having been joined by Mr. S. B. McConnica and Mr. Joh Palmer. In 1843 they removed to a house on Baronne street, near Hevia. Of the five young men forming that company, all have passed away but one. He still lives, and loves to talk of the happy times, the trials, the joys and the sorrows they passed through together in those early days. He speaks touchingly of William Dameron's sterling integrity and Christian life and firm principles, steadily refusing to participate in the frivolities and dissipation then so prevalent in New Orleans, and consenting not when sinners enticed. One thing this friend speaks of is specially worthy of notice: they never could persuade William Dameron, under any circumstances, to enter a coffee house or drinking saloon.

While with Payne & Harrison his industry, energy, close attention to his employers' interests and fine business capacity commended him to those gentlemen, and he was rapidly promoted, till in a few years he acquired an interest in the house. In 1861 Payne & Harrison dissolved, and Payne, Huntington & Co. succeeded to their business, Bro. Dameron being the "Co." Throughout all the financial troubles of the country this house was one of the few whose names were never dishonored by protest, but who, amid all the storms of ruin that have at different times swept over our commercial community, stood firm, meeting all their obligations, and maintaining their credit and good names untarnished. This result was due to the prudent foresight, large experience and eminent business qualifications of the gentlemen comprising the firm.

In 1844 Bro. Dameron returned to his native place and married his first wife, one of Virginia's fairest daughters—Miss Sarah Shipp, a lovely woman, and richly gifted with all the graces and good qualities that adorn her sex. She was also a deeply pious woman, and through the few years of their married life was a helpmate indeed to her husband, holding up his hands and cheering him on in the path of duty. The minister who officiated at his marriage still lives—the Rev. Dr. Wadsworth, now the preacher in charge at Montgomery, Alabama. The fruits of this marriage were three children—two dying in infancy; the other, Herbert, or "Bertie," as he was familiarly called. With the good example of his mother and father before him, Bertie at an early age joined the church. He was a child of sorrow, and during a life of suffering was a subject of much solicitude and tender care to his fond father, whose heart yearned toward his afflicted boy. He passed away, in great peace, at the early age of eighteen.

Bro. Dameron, shortly after his marriage, returned to New Orleans with his lovely bride and his sister Alice Anne (now Mrs. Abram Wright, of Port Gibson, Mississippi.) In December, 1849, his parents followed, with their two youngest daughters, Mary and Lizzie. In August, 1852, his father went to his rest, at the good old age of sixty-two years; and in May, 1855, his mother, aged sixty. His sister Mary, a sweet girl, followed her parents, in January, 1856, to that better land. These all died in the faith. In January, 1853, the darkest cloud of all passed over him—the death of his loved companion, the partner of all his joys and sorrows; her on whom he had leaned for comfort when trouble and depression weighed his spirits down. She too, his darling wife, passed through the dark waters and went up to that happy land, having been a sojourner here below for but twenty-six years. Her death was joyous, yea triumphant. This blow had well-nigh overwhelmed him, but his trust was in God, and his grace sustained him. He remained a widower until May, 1856, when he married his second wife, Miss Courtenay M. Norton, youngest daughter of that staunch Methodist, Mrs. Mary P. Norton. In his second marriage, also, Bro. Dameron was truly blessed. His wife survives him, with five children—two girls and three boys. She and her two daughters are now members of the church, and striving to "make their peace, calling and election sure" through the merits of a crucified Redeemer. Bro. Dameron was a devoted husband, an affectionate father, a kind and generous brother, a sincere friend.

Upon his return to the city, at the close of the war, he changed his membership from the McGehee church to the Elijah Steele, the latter being much more convenient for him and his family to attend. He was elected to the first vacancy in the board of stewards, and in a short time became recording steward, for which office he was peculiarly fitted by his methodical business habits. This office he held up to the time of his death.

Upon the breaking out of the war Bro. Dameron and both his partners warmly espoused the cause of the South, and upon the capture of our city by the Federal forces he went into the military service of the Confederacy. He received a commission as major, and was assigned to duty as chief commissary for the military district of Mississippi. The duties of this position, notoriously the most arduous in the service, he discharged with fidelity, and a conscientious regard for the interests of his government, and for those of the people. He dealt honestly and justly with all men. Not to dwell upon this period of his life, we merely remark that he was one of the few commissaries against whom the charge of peculation was never made, and whom the tongue of slander never assailed.

As a business man he had few equals. Cool, calm, collected, never disconcerted, the petty annoyances of business never threw him off his balance. Thoroughly acquainted with all the details and routine of business, he was systematic in all his arrangements. He knew exactly how everything should be done, and rigidly required that it should be done just that way. Yet he was affable, pleasant and considerate in his bearing toward his employes, and took much pains to instruct them on points that they did not understand. His religion was carried with him into the counting room, and he was a Christian there as well as in church.

He dispensed his charities with a liberal hand. Every benevolent enterprise received his aid. During the war the poor soldier ever found in him a friend in time of need; the distressed widow and orphan never appealed in vain to him; the Bible Society, the missionary cause, the Tract Society, the Sunday school, all received substantial assistance.

He was an ardent friend of education, and gave freely to its advancement. His house was ever a home for the preacher, to whom a warm welcome was always extended.

For years in the enjoyment of a handsome income, he gave away the greater part of it, and this was done quietly and without ostentation, in strict obedience to the Savior's injunction: "When thou doest thine alms, let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth."

To sum up all, he was the true type of the Christian gentleman, and long will it be, we fear, before we "look upon his like again." Repeating a question asked by Bro. Mathews at his funeral services: "What gave this man his power, his commanding influence among the sons of men?" "'Twas the religion of Jesus Christ, and nothing else. 'Twas this made him the man he was."

"Such wonders power divine effects;
Such trophies God can raise;
His hands from crumbling dust erects
Such monuments of praise."

His last illness extended through several months. Soon after his attack in February he desired his physician to tell him his exact condition. Dr. Hawthorne frankly informed him that his recovery was very doubtful. He at once arranged all his worldly matters, even to closing up his connection with his firm, and awaited with Christian resignation the change that was soon to come.

In conversation with his pastor, the Rev. John Mathews, and Bro. Parker and Bishop Keener, and his brother stewards and members of Felicity and Carondelet churches, he spoke cheerfully; said he was ready to go whenever the Master called. During his whole illness he never had a doubt of his future happiness. Naturally he desired to live. He had many ties to earth—a devoted wife, dear little children that he wished to see grown and settled in life, near friends, brothers and sisters; but he said: "The Lord's will be done." His mind was clear up to within two or three days of his death, and as the end drew near his hopes of heaven grew brighter, and the evidences of his acceptance more marked. For forty-eight hours before his death he was unconscious, and he passed quietly away, his weeping friends scarce knowing when he ceased to breathe.

In the words of Bro. William Sherry, one of the oldest members of our church, and an almost life-long intimate friend and associate: "There was little in Bro. Dameron's life to lay hold of—no angularities nor eccentricities; but he held on the even tenor of his way. His path was that of the righteous, shining more and more unto the perfect day; upright, unswerving, turning neither to the right hand nor to the left. Onward and upward was his course, until that course was lost to us in the splendors of eternal day."

The last time I heard him in love-feast it was truly heart-cheering to listen to his declarations of present peace, of living faith, and a glowing hope of immortality and eternal life at God's right hand for evermore. I did not then know how soon, how very soon that hope would be realized; but it has been gloriously and graciously. And while we, his earthly friends and companions, mourn his loss, yet who among us would wish him back again, to battle with the trials and difficulties, discomforts and uncertainties of this mortal life? Not one, I am persuaded.

May we follow him as he followed Christ, and at last be accounted worthy, through the blood of the Lamb, to meet him again, to be parted no more forever, but with him to sing the song of Moses and the Lamb before the throne of God in heaven.

Such is a feeble portrayal of the life and character of our deceased brother. May we emulate his zeal, his earnestness, his deep piety, his circumspect walk and his godly conversation, striving to live as he lived, that our last end may be like his.

JOHN G. PARHAM.

For the Advocate.

INSINCERITY.

MR. EDITOR: Some of our people seem to be strangely infatuated with the idea of fraternal relations with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and to show a good deal of impatience when any article appears in our Advocates against it. I wish to say that, unless the aspect and attitude of affairs shall very much change when that consummation takes place, for one I desire not to be represented in it. And why? Simply because my convictions are that the North is utterly insincere in all their protestations of love and good will; that it is not our good they seek, nor the good of common Methodism, but their own aggrandizement and our destruction.

"Quid—quid, times. Danaos et dona ferentes." The charge of insincerity is a grave one, it is true; but what else does the history prove? Let us see.

To say nothing of what we thought was the unlawful deposition of Bishop Andrew from the episcopal office in 1844, and the bitter denunciations heaped upon Bishop Soule for his course in siding with our church, everybody knows that a "Plan of Separation" was in good faith agreed upon; that the North repudiated that Plan; that the South by that repudiation was forced to obtain her rights, stipulated in that contract, by an expensive suit in the United States Court. This I would call Insincerity No. 1.

Everybody knows that the North refused to receive Dr. Lovick Pierce, who was in good faith sent to bear the fraternal greetings of the South, and the lawsuit then pending was made the excuse for not receiving him. It is also an historical fact that by a decree of the court they were forced to pay us our pro rata share of the common funds, and that the payment of the money settled the suit. Now after this settlement why did they not seek fraternal relations? The reason given for rejecting Dr. Pierce no longer existed, and they could easily have sent messengers. But instead of this course, what do we see? Why their Advocates and Quarterly constantly perverting the meaning and intent of the Plan, denouncing the Supreme Court for its decision, abusing the Southern Church as pro-slavery schismatics, and vilifying us in every possible manner. In the face of these facts can any one believe the reason they gave for not receiving our fraternal messenger was the true one? They give that same reason to this day. And I put it down as Insincerity No. 2.

During the war they had a splendid chance of showing how they loved us. We did not expect them to fight under Confederate banners. Every Northern man who expected to take up arms against the South. But all this simply as citizens, not as Methodists. And yet as Methodists we find them persecuting our preachers, and seizing by military authority our churches. If they call this conduct the expression of love, I will be forced to set it down as Insincerity No. 3. But if they call it the expression of hate, I will put it down as Sincerity No. 1.

When the war closed we seemed prostrate and ruined. Here was another opportunity for the display of fraternal feelings. But what was their course?

1. They held the churches seized by military order. 2. They obtained as much other property as they could by dishonorable and fraudulent means. 3. They inaugurated a general system of "disintegration and absorption," and worked it with all vigor. Money was spent by the hundred thousand, and men employed to go to and fro in the land, seeking whom they could devour. If they call this fraternity, I shall have to set it down as Insincerity No. 4. But if they call it hate, I should write Sincerity No. 2.

There is one result of this policy for which we should thank them. They did disintegrate and absorb some rotten preachers we had. If we owe them any love, it is because of this deliverance and because they are our enemies.

At Brooklyn a committee on church relations suggested that they send to our next General Conference fraternal messengers, and also that commissioners be appointed to settle all property questions. They adopted the first part of the report, and rejected the second. In 1846 they would not receive a fraternal messenger because there were unsettled property questions. In 1872 they send fraternal messengers in spite of unsettled property questions. I am constrained to think there is something wrong in this, and so will write it down as Insincerity No. 5.

The fact is, I am afraid of the Methodist Episcopal Church, because I do not know how to take it—do not know when to believe it. You remember that our General Conference in New Orleans received a dispatch from an Annual Conference North requesting united prayer. "You pray in Louisiana for us, and we will pray in New York for you." Our people dispatched back, "All right," and dropped on their knees. But lo! before the day closed, here came another telegram, saying: "Hold! We have reconsidered, and will not pray just yet." At Chicago, in 1868, the General Conference North, with the show of a continental benevolence, resolved to receive all the Methodists of America into the ample folds of their loving embrace, if these Methodists should desire to come. The history at Memphis shows that we were not very anxious; but the proposition did charm the church of "the man and the brother." The African Zion said: "We will go;" and everybody expected them to unite last spring. Their respective General Conferences were to meet in Brooklyn and New York. But lo! there was no union. The negroes had a church of many thousands, with preachers, presiding elders and a full corps of Bishops, all in working order. Why did they not unite? Every one who has kept up with the shrewd management of the Northern Bishops and leaders, and who knows anything of negro character, is satisfied the Methodist Episcopal Church did not want to unite. If they had wanted the union they could have had it. Now there was another act of insincerity of truly sublime and gigantic proportions—Insincerity No. 6.

Mr. Editor, to plain, common-sense people the conduct of the Methodist Episcopal Church is indeed wonderful. They deny us a recognition, they denounce us as schismatics, they persecute us, they take our property, they refuse to pray with us, they work to absorb us, and then, seeing that we are neither dead nor asleep, turn right round and say: "Look here; this is all wrong. It is a great scandal for us to be as strangers. Let us be brethren. Let us forget the past. The cause is damaged. The world is talking about us." What shall I call such conduct? I do not know what to call it. But they certainly think we have more religion than the Bible teaches us to have, or that we are a herd of the most stupid asses that were ever lost in a wilderness; or they themselves are too insincere to be trusted in anything they say to us.

J. W. R.

A CLERGYMAN of the Establishment, England, an advocate of baptismal regeneration, refused to sprinkle a child because the parents were unable to pay the customary fee of two shillings. From this state of the case, the English Independent deduces the following logical conclusion: "A child cannot be saved unless it is baptized; it cannot be baptized unless the sum of two shillings is paid to the officiating clergyman; ergo, its salvation may be procured for this amount of money." And it is a legitimate one, too, though not very edifying, taking the clergyman's doctrine and his refusal to sprinkle, and exhibits in a new light the value of two shillings sterling; namely, the price of a soul!

FATHER HYACINTHE.—In a lecture by Father Hyacinthe, delivered at Rome the other day, he surprised those who heard him by the length to which he went in denouncing several of the distinctive doctrines of the Church of Rome, such as the invocation of saints; and he attacked also the celibacy of the clergy, and spoke of the doctrine of the real presence as paganism.

Obituaries.

MR. RUFUS C. ARENDAL was born in Marshall county, Mississippi, in 1839, and died of meningetis April 24, 1872, at the residence of Mr. R. B. Powel, Egypt Landing, Yazoo river, Holmes county, Mississippi. He was a worthy young man in the business and social walks of life. In the prime and vigor of manhood, he was buoyant and hopeful. His sun went down at noon. J. D. N.

CULLIN DUNKIN was born December 10, 1805, and died July 6, 1872, aged sixty-five years, six months and twenty-seven days.

Bro. Duncan was a quiet, peaceable, good citizen. When I asked Sister Duncan how long he had been in the church, her reply was: "He was born and raised in the church, and had never been out of it." He died in great peace. May his children follow him as he followed Christ. H. P. LEWIS.

HOLMESVILLE, MISS., August 9, 1872.

MARY ADA, daughter of R. B. and Mary Powel, was born in Yazoo county, Mississippi, December 10, 1852. In 1866 she joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South. She was not clear in her religious experience, and lived a doubting Christian up to the commencement of her last sickness. In its first shock she looked to a crucified Redeemer. Her doubts all vanished. Her faith took hold of the Son of God as the sure anchor to the soul. Her chief enjoyment was in song and praise. At different times she would beg those around her to sing some pious hymn, expressive of religious comfort and heavenly joy; and when the music of song filled the room her own voice was heard swelling the anthem, expressive of the sentiment of her soul.

She died April 25, 1872, of meningetis, at her father's residence on the Yazoo river, Holmes county, Mississippi, leaving an assurance of her blessed immortality beyond the grave. J. D. N.

MRS. ALICE ARENDAL, consort of Mr. N. B. Arendal, died of meningetis, at the residence of her father, Mr. R. B. Powel, on the Yazoo river, Holmes county, Mississippi, July 16, 1872. She was born in Yazoo county, Mississippi, May 14, 1849, and was married August 22, 1867. She was the mother of two children, one of whom preceded her to the land of the blessed. She joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South in 1866. For years she lived in doubt of her acceptance with God. The first shock of her last sickness was severe, and greatly prostrated her at once. For three months she lingered, the disease changing from one part of the system to another, entailing an amount and an acuteness of suffering which no human tongue could describe. But again and again was she heard to rejoice, and to thank God that he afflicted her, because these afflictions had driven her to the Savior for support, and she had found him a very present help in her time of trouble. She prayed to be delivered by death from her great pain and suffering, but expressed a willingness to endure and suffer on, if it was the righteous will of her Father in heaven that it should be so, and would still bless his holy name for having thus laid his hand upon her. With tearful solicitude she resigned her husband, her tender babe, together with all the loved ones of earth, to the God who gave them, and went down into the cold Jordan of death with a cheerful assurance of entering into that rest prepared for the people of God.

J. D. N.

MRS. MARTHA C. CRAWFORD (maiden name, Rush) was born May 11, 1811; was married to M. D. Crawford May 7, 1846; embraced religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South in early life; died at Gallatin, Los Angeles county, California, June 18, 1872.

This is a record of one of the purest and best of women. My acquaintance with the family commenced in 1866, when first appointed to DeKalb circuit, at the close of the war. Sister Crawford was naturally of a kind and liberal disposition. These virtues, sanctified by divine grace, eminently qualified her for usefulness. Her great heart, throbbing with sympathy and stirred with the Holy Spirit, went out after the needy and afflicted. In her ministrations to the sick and sorrowing she beautifully exemplified that "pure and undefiled religion" which "visits the fatherless and widow in their affliction." At the same time her simplicity of character and purity of motive testified to the truth that she kept herself "unspotted from the world."

"Earth can offer no nobler monument than the grateful affections in the hearts of those who have been blessed by her deeds of kindness; nor can she have a higher eulogy than that which falls from the quivering lips of those to whom she has ministered, as they exclaim: "She hath done what she could."

Since last January her health has been surely and sadly declining. For two months preceding her death she suffered most intensely. She sought amid her sufferings him who "giveth his beloved sleep," and the God whom she had served in health made her bed in sickness.

Only a short time before she died she spoke of the goodness of God; was very happy; shouted as long as she had strength; prayed for more strength to praise him; exhorted all, especially her children, to love, serve and obey God. Leaning upon this staff, she "walked through the valley of the shadow of death, fearing no evil." Her house, while living, was the home of all; her purse liberal to the needy; her feet walked in virtue's path; her life was a success, her battle a victory, her race a crown. Her life was as clear and pure as the morning dew. She is gone—gone from earth to glory.

JAMES M. GANN.

LUCIUS ISHMAEL OGILVIE, a precious young disciple of Jesus, and a member of our church at Shreveport, Louisiana, has recently passed away from us to the saints' everlasting rest. He was the son of James B. and Lucy J. Ogilvie, and was born July 15, 1852, in Chattooga county, Georgia. His mother died when he was only a few days old. After his father's second marriage the family moved to Caddo parish, Louisiana, where the father died during and in the war. But little Ishie was blessed with a pious and affectionate stepmother, who took great pains to train him up for heaven. When only seven years of age he gave his hand to the church, but made no profession of religion until 1870. It was while at school in Oxford, Georgia, that he first gave unmistakable evidence of his entire change of heart. Immediately upon returning from school he commenced family prayer in his home. He had a holy ambition to do good—it was like fire in his bones, and had he lived there is no doubt he would have been abundant in labors. When Ishie first apprehended that the disease preying upon him was unto death he expressed himself calmly and confidently as not afraid to die. All his words and actions indicated sweet submission to the will of God. His prayers at the family altar were often burdened with strong desire to be made free from all manner of worldliness; and often, in his private devotions, he would become so earnest in his suit at the throne of grace as to forget time, holding to the horns of the altar until the blessing came. Last May he took a trip to St. Paul, Minnesota, by advice of his physician, but his health only grew worse, and he returned homeward in July, in very feeble condition, accompanied by his devoted stepmother. On the way he frequently conversed about the truths of the Bible and experimental religion with those waiting upon him, and it was evident to all that for him death had no sting, but that he looked forward to the time of his departure with hope and joy. The day before he died, as his mother was sitting by his bedside, fanning him, she noticed a smile of surpassing brightness, like a gush of glory from the third heaven, stealing over his placid countenance—supreme happiness radiated from his every feature. "What is it, Ishie?" asked the mother, bending over him to catch his faintest whisper. The dying youth gently turned toward her his large eyes, all sparkling with the very light of the glory of the Lamb of God, as he whispered softly: "Jesus!" Ah, doubtless he was beholding the King in his beauty. About eight o'clock on Tuesday, July 30, 1872, while yet the steamboat was one hundred miles from his earthly home, he fell asleep in death—this side; on the other, departed with the waiting angels for his home in heaven.

J. W.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 29, 1872.

EVERLASTING GLORY.

Everlasting glory
Unto Jesus be!
Sing aloud the story
Of his victory!
How he left the splendor
Of his home on high;
Came in love so tender
On the cross to die.

Yes! he came from heaven,
Suffer'd in our stead!
Praise to him be given,
Our exalted Head.
Jesus, meek and lowly,
Came the lost to save;
He, the victim holy,
Triumph'd o'er the grave.

We in death were lying,
Lost in hopeless gloom;
Jesus, by his dying,
Vanquish'd e'en the tomb!
Burst its iron portal,
Roll'd away the stone,
Rose, in life immortal,
To the Father's throne.

Christ the Lord is risen,
Sing we now to-day!
Freed are we from prison,
Christ our debt did pay!
Sing aloud, and never Cease to spread his fame;
Triumph, triumph ever,
In the Savior's name.

British Evangelist.

WHAT IS BUDDHISM?

At lenst one-third of the human race profess to be Buddhists, hut under the general term of Buddhism nre included diverse, nnd nlmost opposite, bsliefs and practices. Many of our renders must be nware of the great diversity of statement on ths pert of the most distingnished Orientalists concerning what Buddhism is. The reeson of this diversity is that there is as great, or still greater, diversity among Buddhist writers themselves in the various countries of Asia where the different forms of Buddhism prevail. The causes of this great diversity nre various. The fonnder of Buddhism left no writings which have come down to ns; neither did any of his immediate disciples; indeed, as all Orientalists ndmit, the earliest Buddhist works extant were not written until four hundred years after Buddha's death, and there are two sets of such works; one set being written in Nepaul or Thibet, in the Sanscrit langnage, and the other in Ceylon, in the Pali langnage. These two sets of works form the basis of the two great schools into which Buddhism is divided, namely, the Northern and Southern; the Buddhists of Thibet, Mongolia, Manchuria, China and Japan being classed with the former; and those of Ceylon, Burmah and Siam with the latter.

The teachings of these two most ancient series of works differ somewhat from each other, but only to a trifling extent compared to what the expounders of each set of these works have done. The expositors, too, of the Northern school differ from each other, as do also those of the Southern. The Northern Buddhists have also added to the sacred books certain professedly historical hut really fictitious works, so that in Thibet, China and Japan there are important objects of worship and doctrines which are entirely unknown in Ceylon and other Southern Buddhist countries. In addition to all this, the so-called Buddhism of the various countries in which a system of thet neme now prevails, has been greatly modified by previous prevniling beliefs and practices, and in each of these countries the teachings believed in and the ceremonies followed by the great mass of the priests and people differ very much from what the more learned believe in and practice. Hence the great diversity of statement as to what Buddhism is. In fact, to the inquiry, What is Buddhism? it is necessary to reply, Do you mean the system which prevails in Thibet, or that in China, or that in Ceylon, etc.; and do you refer to the religion of the masses and the popular writers, or to that of the learned few who study the ancient writings?

According to the most ancient works, the key to the system which Sidhartha or Buddha taught is found in the "Four Sublime Verities," as his followers call them, which are: (1.) Suffering exists. (2.) It is caused by desire. (3.) It can be ended by Nirvann. (4) Nirvana can be attained by mortifying the passions and affections, and obtaining mental repose or apathy, somewhat like unto Nirvana. The meaning of this word Nirvana is, calm or unruffled; and the notion attached to it is that of endless or unconscious repose. It is not exactly annihilation, but unceasing apathy. What was taught about it, however, was so much like annihilation that many leading Buddhist writers have maintained that when Buddha died he forever ceased to be as really and truly as the light of a lamp ceases to be when its flame is extinguished. This is the testimony of the Rev. Mr. Hardy, in his most valuable work, "Eastern Monachism." Other leading Buddhists deny this, and assert that it is not a discontinuance of individuality, hut simply a freedom from all the evils of previous existence. The latter is probably the correct view, and it is certainly the one which the great mass of the Buddhists now believe in.

Of this ideal state of existence, Buddha himself is said to have spoken as follows: "It is the end of successive existence; it is very subtle; it is free from decay; it is free from delay or development of events; it is pure; it is tranquil; it is stable; it is free from death; its blessedness is great; it is uncreated or supernatural; it is free from restraint; it is free from sorrow; it is free from the evils of existence." This last phrase looks like annihilation, but the meaning undoubtedly is the same as in the first phrase, "successive existence," or, as we shall presently show, transmigration. Those who reached Nirvana, he said, "are few. But if any one attain the knowledge that is proper to be acquired; if he learns the universality of sorrow; if he overcomes that which is the cause of sorrow, and if he practices that which is proper to be observed, by him the possession of Nirvana will be secured."

The great body of the people in India, at the time the founder of Buddhism appeared, believed in the Brahminical doctrine of metempsychosis, and this Oriental migration embraces a much wider range than the Pythagorean with which the classical reader is familiar. Beings who are subject to its cycles not only pass through all forms of existence, from the lowest unorganized masses and shapes to the highest and most intelligent manhood, but they also descend into infernal regions and endure millions of years of suffering, and ascend to celestial regions, and become there high and glorious intelligences.

Manhood is the period of probation, and, according to the issue of that trial, is the duration of suffering or happiness while making the fearful round; nor can a person escape repenting these rounds, however virtuous he may have been. Even celestial intelligences and most blessed spirits must descend, after a greater or less duration, to run round again the awful course. This terrible doctrine hung like a black cloud over the horizon of Sidhartha or Buddha's life, and the great object of his life was to find some method by which he and others might, after a shorter or longer period, escape the interminable round—a round in which the suffering is of so immensely longer continuance than the happiness.

He flattered himself that he had solved this problem by his theory of the Nirvana, which, most simply defined, is a cessation of transmigration. He was not so much in search of a positive good, as an extrication and deliverance from evil; and even annihilation would have been a welcome doctrine to him, as it has been to many of his followers who have so interpreted his teaching concerning Nirvana. It is infinitely better to be annihilated than to transmigrate eternally. But a more correct view of his teaching is that of an eternal existence free from all the evils of previous existence. It is a very ideal and sublimated state, but one in which there is no discontinuance in individuality, and in which the individual is in perfect and unending repose. This is the cardinal doctrine of Buddhism, and the great secret of its immense success, for throughout all Southern and Eastern Asia, the great body of the people having from time immemorial believed in the migration of souls, have welcomed this promised deliverance from its awful evils. How anxious we should be to make known to these people the truth concerning the future, and to proclaim to them that life and immortality which the gospel has brought to light!—Spirit of Missions.

IN THE CENSUS "tables of occupation," the largest number of persons returned as of any single specified occupation is under the head of planters and farmers, 2,982,573 being reported. The number of farm laborers, 2,880,045. In addition to these classes there were returned, under the general head of agriculture, 137 apiarists, 3,603 dairy men and women, 3,689 farm and plantation overseers, 1,110 florists, 31,793 gardeners and nurserymen, 3,238 stock drovers, 6,064 stock herders, 6,614 stock raisers, 375 turpentine farmers, 2,103 turpentine laborers, 1,127 vine growers.

A HEAVENLY EMBLEM.—Remember, God does not say that "good work" is never to be impeded. He has never given promise in Scripture of an unclouded day, uninterrupted sunshine, a waveless, stormless sea. No; "the morning without clouds" is a heavenly emblem. The earthly one is "a day in which the light shall neither be clear nor dark." (Zech. xiv, 6.) But it is written: "At evening time it shall be light." The sun may wade all day through murky clouds, but he will pillow his head on a couch of vermilion and gold.

I HAVE found nothing yet which requires more courage and independence than to rise even a little but decidedly above the par of the religious world around us.—Dr. J. W. Alexander.

The Uninventiveness of Women.

A very ingenious essay, "Why Women Cannot be Turned into Men," which has lately been published by Blackwood & Sons, has for its burden the uninventiveness of women. There are two questions. Is it a fact that women are less creative or inventive than man? If it is a fact, why is it a fact? The author accepts the alleged inferiority as an unquestionable fact, and in so far but repeats the general belief; but the explanation he gives of it is less common-place. The author has imbibed the sentiments of Mr. Herbert Spencer, and treats the sterility of the feminine intellect as an hereditary product, developed by the continual non-use of their intellects by women on external nature. From the first the work of women has been of less nerve-straining character than the work of men; less has depended upon it; there has been less occasion or necessity for invention; and consequently there has been less invention. Our rude ancestors, who killed their enemies or won their dinner with flint-headed arrows, intrusted to women only the task of sewing the skins of the beasts they had killed, and themselves attended to the serious work of shaping the flints. And, as in the beginning, so has it been ever since. To man the constant strain of his faculties has been the sole condition of existence, while the hardest task ever assigned to woman was to keep her lord and proprietor in good humor. Hence man has studied, wrestled with, and subdued nature; woman has studied and conquered man. This fundamental difference in the position of the sexes has been intensified and perpetuated by the laws of inheritance, till, now-a-days, a girl is born with a relative incapacity to understand nature, and man with a relative incapacity to understand woman. Such is the argument of the pamphlet.

If it were worth while, one might question a psychological theory that rests upon an hereditary difference, not of faculty, but of the modes of using a faculty. The inventive power, whatever may be the true analysis of it, is surely the same thing, whether applied to the adaptation of a baby's dress or the manufacture of a "Woolwich infant." If it be alleged that women are absolutely destitute of originality, that they repeat merely like parrots whatever they have heard, and are abject slaves of custom, then the assertion is contrary to most people's daily experience. The examples relied on to prove the dullness of women are very insufficient. It is said that all improvements, even in household operations, are due to men. Thus for ages women ground grain; but it was man that invented the mill. From early times women had the spinning-wheel, but it was reserved for man to invent the spinning-jenny. To woman, sewing was almost entirely given up; but it was a man that invented the sewing machine. But have not men for many years been tailors? If so, the whole race of tailors must be recognized as laboring under an hereditary incapacity to invent. Then take the Chinese. It is generally stated, by as competent observers as have given their opinion of women, that the Chinese have, for several hundred years, shown an utter incapacity to improve, and have, possibly, even failed to keep up all that their ancestors did for them. Look at the Arabs. As their fathers were thousands of years ago, so are they to-day. Epochs of invention are rare in the history of the world. The progress of mechanical arts within the last few hundred years is probably without precedent in the history of the race. The reaction against the papacy, caused partly by the invention of printing and partly by the revival of ancient learning, and the discovery of new continents, have been the chief causes of that fermenting activity of man's intellect out of which all the leading mechanical inventions have come. Women certainly have done very little in this movement; but they have had as little chance. The invention of a sewing machine ought to be quite beyond the powers of any woman, for it implies an acquaintance with mechanical instruments that no woman has opportunity to obtain.

In every invention three conditions pre-exist: a thorough knowledge of the material to be dealt with, and of the ordinary mechanical contrivances, a restless activity of search, and last, though not least, accident. It is quite true that the amount of accident may be very much reduced by persistent labor, and that the happy thought comes only to the prepared mind; but the fact is that an invention is seldom due to naked genius, and almost uniformly requires patient and persevering search. Now women have no motive to invent, and everything to distract them from any such efforts. A few men, perhaps, love invention for its own sake, but nearly all try it as an Eldorado to make a fortune. Now a woman's position admits so little of improvement by any mechanical improvements about the household, that it would be ridiculous to expect her seriously to try anything new. If she keeps up to the standard of her neighbors she is quite content. She has nothing like an adequate motive to invent, and she invents very little.

That the absence of inventiveness in women, so far as it exists, is due to the want of motive and practical knowledge, and not to any hereditary incapacity, is manifest from the failure to show any characteristic differences between the minds of the sexes. The author of the pamphlet says: "Women are intensely 'personal' and 'special' in their interests, and they have, in consequence, a quicker and finer insight into the characters of the individuals they come into contact with than men, but their knowledge of collective human nature is much more limited." "In the works of women writers, while we admire the power, the acumen, the delicacy and the humor shown in their delineations, we are struck by the essential 'individualism' of their characters." Well, to go no further than George Eliot, we find an illustrious instance to the contrary. Many of George Eliot's characters are remarkably typical, and are based upon a profound analysis of the mind. "Silas Marner" is simply a psychological dissection made alive, and "Dorothea Casaubon" promises to be a yet more wonderful study. No writer of fiction in our day, neither Thackeray nor Dickens, at all approaches George Eliot for the firm grasp she displays of the general, as opposed to the individual, elements in human nature. Nor is she a solitary example. Whenever women have had opportunity, they have shown a decidedly scientific grasp of mental phenomena. The theory of the hereditary incapacity of women to invent must meet the fate of the brilliant hypothesis devised to explain why a dead fish in water weighed more than the same fish alive. The true theory was that it did not.—London Examiner.

OCULAR DEMONSTRATION.

In the eighteenth century Judge Powell, in England, meeting the Bishop of Gloucester, who was a firm believer in apparitions, said to him:

"Since I saw you I have had ocular demonstration of the existence of nocturnal apparitions."

"I am glad you have become a convert to truth," said the bishop; "but do you say actual ocular demonstration? Let me know the particulars."

"Last Thursday night I was suddenly awakened by an uncommon noise, and heard something coming up stairs and stalking directly toward my room. The door flying open, I drew back my curtain, and saw a faint glimmering light enter my chamber."

"Of a blue color, no doubt."

"The light was of a pale blue, my lord, and followed by a tall, meager personage, his locks hoary with age, and clothed in a long loose gown; a leathern girdle was about his loins, his beard thick and grizzly, a large fur cap on his head, and a long staff in his hand. Struck with astonishment, I remained for some time motionless and silent. The figure advanced, staring me full in the face. I then said: 'Whence and what art thou?'"

"What was the answer—tell me—what was the answer?"

"The following was the answer I received: 'I am watchman of the night, an't please your honor, and made bold to come up stairs to inform the family of their street door being open, and that if it was not soon shut they would probably be robbed before morning.'"

A PAINTING was recently discovered at Pompeii, from which it appears that even in those days men knew what good living was. Here is a neat, substantial dinner of three courses, which the painting portrays: An immense dish, containing four peacocks, stands in the center of the table, surrounded by lobsters, one holding a blue egg in his claws, another a stuffed rat, another an oyster, and the fourth a basket of grasshoppers. This tempting dish would probably answer to our "roast." At the bottom of the table are four dishes of fish, and above them partridges, hares and squirrels, each holding its head between its paws. Entrees, no doubt. The whole is encircled by a sort of German sausage, apparently; and then comes a row of yolks of eggs, a row of peaches, melons and cherries; and lastly, a row of vegetables of different sorts. Dessert.

INTENDED REFORMATION.—How dangerous to defer those momentous reformations which the conscience is solemnly preaching to the heart! If they are neglected, the difficulty and indisposition are increasing every month. The mind is receding, degree after degree, from the warm and hopeful zone, till at last it will enter the arctic circle, and become fixed in relentlessness and eternal ice.—John Foster.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

THE Christian Brothers, or, more formally, the Brothers of the Christian Schools, have their establishments now in every department of France, in England, Austria, Prussia, Belgium, Italy, Switzerland, the Levant, Egypt, Algeria, Cochin-China, the United States, Canada, South America, and various other parts of the world. Their numbers throughout the world, at the close of the year 1871, were 9,717 Brothers, living in 1,130 establishments, teaching 2,065 schools of 6,085 classes, containing a total of 370,188 pupils, of all grades and ages, of whom 308,973 were children. They are strongest in France, where their number of Brothers is 7,704; establishments, 618; schools, 1,727; children, 247,331; total pupils, 206,946. Of these the city of Paris has 754.

THE Southern Presbyterian Church occupies thirteen States, in which we have eleven synods, fifty-five presbyteries (besides one in a foreign field,) nearly one thousand ministers, and more than fifteen hundred churches, with about ninety thousand members in the gross aggregate. Last year there was reported for the cause of sustentation and domestic missions the sum of $51,000; for foreign missions, $22,000; which this year has been doubled; and for all other purposes something nigh one million. Our foreign missions are located in China, in Italy, in Brazil and in Indian Territory. To this great cause the hearts of our people are quite open, and toward its further enlargement greater and greater efforts will, year by year, be made until there shall be nothing more to wish.—Rev. J. R. Wilson's Address.

IN PURSUANCE of a desire to learn how far the young in England are reached by religious influences, a clergyman addressed letters to the ministers of the Independent churches of England, to which he received 384 replies, giving statistics of churches containing 40,374 members. Of these 40,374 members there are 1,045 between the ages of 14 and 18, and 80 under 14 years of age. There is then only one member in 38½ between 14 and 18, and only one in 505 under 14. There are 12 of these churches that have an exceptionally large proportion (ten per cent.) of young members; and, omitting these, we have one member in 50 between 14 and 18, and one in 1,716 under 14. There were 191 churches, with 13,242 members, which did not have a single member under 18. Robert Mimpriss, an English authority in Sunday schools, says that the additions to the English churches from the Sunday schools in England and Scotland do not exceed one per cent. per annum.

THE Interior says: Several Chinamen have lately applied to the third Congregational church of San Francisco for admission to membership. Upon the question of receiving them, says the Occident, a wide diversity of opinion exists. The pastor, Rev. William C. Pond, having taken an earnest stand favorable to the admission of the Chinese, concluded to tender his resignation of his office if this might result in harmony. At a meeting of the society held recently it was decided by a considerable majority—we believe 48 to 38—not to accept of the resignation; but as the meeting manifested considerable feeling and excitement upon the original subject of controversy, another meeting was appointed for the following week. It is understood that a portion of the church wish to call in an ecclesiastical council for advice. The question of the admission of the Chinese is held by many of the members to be one of religious principle, and they are therefore very persistent in their views.

GOOD NEWS.—Japan.—A native Protestant Church was organized in Japan, March 10, under the direction of Revs. Dr. Brown and J. H. Ballagh. Nine young men were baptized on the occasion, retaining their native names. These, with two others, who were older in Christian experience, and had been previously baptized, constituted the church. One of the converts was ordained elder and catechist. The congregation consists of about thirty persons. The Christian Intelligencer contains a letter from Mrs. Pruyn, in which she says: "Mr. Brown, who assisted Mr. Ballagh in the examination of these candidates, said he had never during his ministry found any with clearer views of the spirituality of the Christian religion, or a better understanding of its doctrines." The correspondent of the Observer says that, "although the edict against Christianity is not yet repealed, the government has decided to let it stand as a dead letter, and take no notice of any who may embrace the truths of the gospel."

THE FRENCH PROTESTANT SYNOD.—It is announced that the Paris Synod has adopted the conclusions of the committee in favor of the expediency of separation of Church and State. These conclusions acknowledge that the principles of the independence of churches are inscribed in modern law; declare, moreover, that the Protestants are disposed to accept the application of the principle when the State judges it necessary, and finally recommend the churches to prepare for this change. The synod has decided to hold a second session in Paris, on November 15, and has nominated a permanent committee to represent it in its dealings with the government. The synodal address, which is to be sent to the various churches, was then read. M. Pasegaud, in the name of the Liberal party, said he would not object to the address, but accepted no part of it, because the Liberals had not accepted all the decisions of the synod. The moderator then reviewed the labors of the synod, and closed the session.

FRANCE.—One of the native preachers writes most encouragingly of the prospects of the gospel in France. What a field is opened there for the spread of truth! He says: "It is a matter of great importance, as touching the work of evangelization, that we have now perfect liberty to preach the gospel. We meet nowhere with the slightest obstacle from the authorities. Hence it is emphatically a time to sow, leaving others to reap. True, it would be both pleasanter and easier to reap; but it is not our own pleasure that we seek. What is now needed in France is an army of missionaries, preaching everywhere, going, as formerly, 'two and two' to share the fatigue, and help one another. Our motto at present ought to be: 'Let us sow everywhere.' Something will surely come of it. We should do it so much the more because we do not know whether this liberty will continue. God grant that it may. And may he have compassion upon us."

THE friends of the Turkish Mission Aid Society lately held their annual meeting in Exeter Hall, London, Lord Shaftesbury presiding. Their receipts were reported to be $10,000 in advance of the previous year. The number of cities and towns occupied was 77; preaching places, 61; pastors, 40; male teachers, 35; female teachers, 25; other helpers, including six Bible women, 45; native laborers employed in the Harpoot district, 145. A fund of $250 had been given to start a religious newspaper among the population of Turkey; and another of $2,000 for the purpose of building a church at Athens. Funds to the extent of not less than $10,000 had been placed at the disposal of the American Board—a practical proof of confidence and sympathy, as well as a gratifying example of international Christian co-operation. Resolutions were moved recognizing the favor of God on the efforts of the society, and pledging its friends to renewed exertion in its behalf. Among other speakers, Rev. Dr. Tyng, of New York, delivered an address.

THE managers of the approaching Congress of Liberal Catholics, to be held at Munich, Germany, have invited two bishops of the English Church, and one of the Episcopal Church in this country, to attend as visitors. Bishop Whittingham, of Maryland, has been selected to represent the American Episcopal Church, and it is understood that he has accepted the invitation and will attend. He became identified with the tractarian movement at Oxford University from its inception, and has ever since been regarded as one of the foremost of the prelates of the High Church party in the United States. He has also been a strong advocate for union between the Liberal Catholics of Europe and the English Episcopal Church, as the only proper solution of the struggle now going on in the bosom of the Roman communion. He is, moreover, one of the ablest of the American bishops. These antecedents and sympathies of Bishop Whittingham have undoubtedly led to his selection as the most fit person to represent the American Episcopal Church in the Munich Congress, and his counsels and influence there will be duly regarded.—Independent.

REV. MR. GULICK writes from Kobe to the Missionary Herald of a widely-extended plot to massacre all the foreigners in Japan at one time. It was originated by former retainers of the Daimios, who by political revolution have lost their rank and revenue as the military class. This purpose to exterminate the foreigners, even from the ports, was to have been put in execution on the eleventh of April. Three hundred men were arrested in Yedo by the government for connection with the plot. An English gunboat had just left for Nagasaki, others are at Yokohama, and Admiral Rogers' flag-ship Colorado was then lying at Kobe; so the ports were considered secure. There is no reason to fear, however, that such a purpose could be carried out. A few foreign residents at a distance might be cut off; but too many of the Japanese are truly friendly to foreigners to permit general success. Besides, the government is committed to sustain foreign intercourse, and would be both able and efficient to suppress such a conspiracy without delay. No anxiety is felt by the missionaries at their present residences.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 29, 1872.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.
ROBT. J. HARP, Publisher.

OFFICE--No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. Harp, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. Linus Parker, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Agents—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR ALABAMA CONFERENCE:
REV. W. A. McCARTY.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
A. W. LAMPKIN, ESQ.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR, D. D.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

REDUCTION.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers hereafter at the following rates:

For One Year.....$2 00
For Six Months.....1 25
For Three Months.....75

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

to all ministers of the gospel, traveling or local, and widows of deceased traveling preachers.

FREE ONE YEAR

to any person forwarding to us four new yearly subscribers with EIGHT DOLLARS.

LIVES OF CHRIST.

Within a generation more lives of Christ have been written than in all the past history of Christianity. Modern thought and investigation turn especially in this direction, and Christian evidences crystallize more and more about the life and character of Jesus. Since the works of Strauss and Neander appeared, quite a library of lives has been published, devoted to the exposition and analysis of this most wonderful biography. Besides the old work of Fleetwood, and the others we have mentioned, Renan, Pressense, Hanna, Beecher, Deems and Townsend, and we know not who else, have sent out their volumes upon this subject. The result of so much independent labor and scholarship has been to establish the historical credibility of the gospel narratives, and to place the external evidences in a light defying the assaults of infidelity. It is, however, beyond the region of verbal criticism and historical verity that the most impregnable proofs of the divine character of the gospel are reached. The moral evidences are stronger and more convincing than any other. Such a character could never have been conceived and drawn by mortal man except on the assumption that it was real. Such a life could never have been sketched if it had not actually been lived. To have invented Jesus Christ would have been a greater miracle than all that is claimed to be supernatural in the entire scope of Scripture.

The fact of such a character as Christ was cannot be ignored nor explained away. There it is, drawn upon the canvas of the evangelists, and it must be accounted for. It is altogether beyond the power of human invention, and the conclusion is inevitable that Christ must have been the sinless, the unapproachable and the divine Being that the gospels have delineated. That men like Matthew and John could have constructed an ideal like this, and surrounded it with all the circumstances of historical reality, is unreasonable and preposterous. Admitting that Christ could not be an invention, all the attendant circumstances of his life are consistent, and in perfect harmony with his character. His teachings, miracles, death, resurrection and ascension are easy to believe after the reality of his life gains a firm lodgment in our convictions. It is as the great center and battle-ground of Christian evidence that these numerous lives of Christ are entitled to the study and attention of the times. After conceding much that such writers as Renan and Strauss demand as a starting point in the argument, there remains the Christ of history to be explained. Strauss, after all his mythical and rationalistic theories, is forced to admit that Christ is "the highest model of religion within the reach of our thought; and no perfect piety is possible without his presence in the heart;" and Renan concludes his life of Jesus with these words: "Whatever may be the surprises of the future, Jesus will never be surpassed. His worship will grow young without ceasing; his legend will call forth tears without end; his sufferings will melt the noblest hearts; all ages will proclaim that, among the sons of men, there is none born greater than Jesus." Reluctant and partial testimony this, but significant as coming from those who have studied and written the life of Jesus to subserve the purposes of skepticism. It shows that the life of Christ is the pivot of modern religious thought, and that the main issue is now concentrated in Christ himself as the grandest and most conclusive demonstration of revealed religion.

These numerous lives of Christ indicate also that the piety of the age is turning more and more to him as the illustration and standard of practical religion. The revealing power of Christ to the Christian consciousness is being more deeply realized—Christ indwelling as the wisdom, righteousness, sanctification and redemption of the believer, and Christ as our prophet, priest and king. His life is studied as the pattern of godliness, and as the living exhibition of that purity which is to clarify every vision, and open the eyes of the soul to the beauty and glory of God. Christianity is a life, rather than a bundle of metaphysics, or a dry and rigid body of doctrinal formularies. It is a life full of the juices of humanity purged of grossness and impurity, but human and practical in its sympathy and love. The churches are coming back to the root and trunk in their doctrinal tests, and leaving the branches and twigs to such spontaneous spreading as the divine sap may give them. The main thing is vital union with the true Vine, and beyond this the branches may hang upon any trellis, so the blossoms and clusters are fragrant of the parent stem. The tendency is to cast aside the narrow shibboleth of other ages, and to make the God-man the test of fellowship. The superstitions mediations of prelacy and rituals are melting away before the life-power of faith in the Savior. There is nothing between the soul and Christ, and directness of approach and communion are the privilege and essential criterion of every genuine experience.

These lives of Christ mark an epoch in the history of religious doctrine and experience. The shepherds are coming to see and adore the infant Jesus, and the wise men, under the guidance of a most benignant star, are bringing their gold, frankincense and myrrh. These alabaster boxes of devoted learning and study only indicate the costlier treasures of love which our Christianity is pouring forth upon the person of the Savior. It is indeed a most gratifying sign of the times that Christians are casting off all other props, and are intently pressing to touch, if it may be, only the hem of his garment—that under the conviction that "but one thing is needful," they find their happiness at his feet. The scene of the transfiguration is breaking upon the Christian faith afresh, wherein the world's Redeemer stands out in radiant relief, while his divine glory lights up the entire field of truth and salvation. Here let the tabernacles be built, and here let us dwell forever.

Dr. Bond's Death.—Up to the time of going to press (Wednesday, the twenty-eighth of August) we have received no further particulars of Dr. Bond's death beyond the following paragraph from the Baltimore Episcopal Methodist:

He died this morning (nineteenth instant) at four o'clock. He was aware of his approaching death, and was conscious until the last. He had just called his sons to his bedside, to bid them a last farewell, and had said, "My boys—" when his heart ceased to beat, and his spirit returned to God, who gave it.

Obituaries will be found on the second page.

THE RIGHT COURSE.

Dr. Cnrry, of the New York Christian Advocate, noticing the little volume, the "Methodist Episcopal Churches, North and South," announces for the Northern Church a line of policy which we hold to be the only expedient course for ourselves. The true policy of the Southern Church is go forward on her work, attend to her own business, and leave other denominations to pursue theirs. The doctor rather concedes that their fraternal advances have a strategic character—a thing we have thought all the time. He says:

We doubt, however, the strategetic wisdom of the over-active wooing of some of our officials in this business. There seems to have been a lack of confidence among them in the effectiveness of a "masterly inactivity" in these matters. The true policy in the delicate business would be to let the whole thing alone severely. The time may or may not come when the two bodies shall be united. Whenever that consummation shall have become desirable it will not long be delayed. Peace is not to be forced, but must be allowed to grow; its production must be like an incubation, not to be hastened by ill-advised officiousness. Till the full time shall come, then, let each remain in its lot, neither Ephraim vexing Judah nor Judah despising Ephraim.

DR. LOWELL MASON.

The name of Lowell Mason is "familiar as household words" to the most of our readers. The New York Observer furnishes the following outline of his long and useful life:

Dr. Lowell Mason, the eminent music composer, died at his residence in Orange, New Jersey, on Sunday, at the age of eighty-one. He was born in the town of Medfield, Massachusetts, on the eighth of January, 1792. He exhibited a passion for music while yet a mere child, and began to teach it at an early age. In the year 1812 he removed to Savannah, Georgia, and during the time he lived in that city, about fifteen years, he devoted all his leisure hours to music. He published the celebrated "Boston Handel and Haydn Collection of Church Music" in 1821. He removed to Boston in 1827, and devoted himself with increased vigor to his favorite pursuit, and, associating himself with Mr. J. G. Webb, interested himself in the introduction of vocal music in the Boston public schools. Through his influence vocal music received a new impulse in Boston and New England. Dr. Mason visited Europe in 1837, and acquainted himself with all the improvements in the musical teaching on the continent. In 1855 the University of New York conferred upon him the degree of doctor of music, the first musical degree conferred by an American college. Of late years Dr. Mason has given much attention to congregational singing in churches.

Rev. Dr. Kennedy.—The acting editor of the Southern Christian Advocate has received the following note from Dr. Kennedy:

A note from Dr. Kennedy, dated August 14, gives us the latest information from him. He writes: "I have been here (near Blacksburg, Virginia) a week, and having recovered from the fatigue of travel, am beginning, I think, to improve. Recuperation, however, is surprisingly and painfully slow. I am sometimes exhilarated by a day or two of conscious improvement, only to be depressed and discouraged by a contrary experience of bodily and mental feebleness. I am hopeful, however, that these alternations will soon cease, and that by God's blessing I will steadily advance in the recovery of strength. I thought that before this I would have written something for the Advocate, but I find it impossible, as yet, to bring myself to it without producing a state of mind which is unfriendly to physical improvement."

Der Kinderfreund.—The first number of this paper is on our table. It is a four-page sheet, published monthly for the use of our German Sunday schools. The pages are about the same as those of the Visitor, and the print and illustrations are quite as fresh and beautiful. It is published at our establishment, 112 Camp street, and edited and conducted by our competent and indefatigable brother, Rev. J. B. A. Ahrens.

The Christian Neighbor states that Eugene Middleton, infant son of Bishop Wightman, died on Sullivan's Island, August 9.

We have received the Minutes of the North Alabama Conference for 1871.

THE DUTY OF PUBLIC WORSHIP.

BY J. B. WALKER, D. D.

Public worship is not only a privilege and blessing, but is a duty as well. We apprehend that there are many who profess to be, and call themselves Christians, who do not regard public worship as a duty. They allow that it is highly proper, and may be made useful, but do not feel that it is, to the extent of their ability and opportunity, an imperative obligation. And hence it is that this part of religious service is treated as a thing advisory rather than mandatory. They feel that they are entirely free in the premises to consult taste, convenience, comfort, and the like. A man, for example, who would never think of saying it is too hot to give legal or medical advice, to buy or sell, reap or sow, thinks himself excused from public worship by the simple affirmation, "It is too hot," or "it is too cold," or, in some way, it is not altogether the easiest and most comfortable thing they can do. Here self-indulgence and ease are set against the claims of public worship, and are found by those who do so to be the prevailing consideration. It is clear that this whole class place their material and temporal interests above and before their spiritual and eternal interests.

Another class attend public worship not as a duty, but purely as an intellectual treat, or esthetic pleasure; hence, before they go, they ask, "Who is going to preach?" and make their attendance entirely to turn upon the interest they may, or may not, feel in the preacher. Duty is left entirely out of the account. If they are to be agreeably entertained, they will go; if not, they will not go. Some rest their attendance upon the skill of the organist or the eloquent rendering of the choir. The obligation of public worship is thus completely ignored.

Some who profess religion, and call themselves Christians, excuse themselves from public worship on the ground that they are so little interested in this great duty that they cannot keep awake. Think of a man having a suit in court involving only $100, saying he would not attend the investigation or listen to the pleadings because he could not keep awake! Does any human creature believe that these people who cannot keep awake in public worship, or under the discussion of the grand realities of religion, would sleep in court where they had $100, or the half of it, involved? Nobody believes it.

Some, again, who profess religion and call themselves Christians, when urged to perform the duty of public worship, reply that their religion is between them and God, and that they do not recognize the duty of worship. It is only necessary to make this reasoning and practice general, to dissolve and abolish public worship altogether. We suppose the preacher has the same right to consult comfort and taste that the church members have. How odd it would sound for the pastor to say, if in health: "It is too hot to preach; I shall wait for a cooler season;" or, "I don't think I shall have a large or appreciative audience; I shall not go to church or fill the pulpit to-day."

Now we hold that public worship is directly appointed; that it is sanctified by the most ancient, venerable and holy examples; that it is almost, if not altogether, essential to public morality and the salvation of the multitude. These positions allowed—and we see not how they can be denied—public worship is not to turn upon convenience, ease or pleasure. If the weather is agreeable, we should take it joyfully, as we do when we have to engage in secularities; if the music is correctly and pleasingly rendered, very well; if the speaker is instructive and impressive, so much the more pleasant; but duty must not be made to hinge upon the pleasant and the easy. Many a vast many, duties demand self-denial and toil and discomfort; but no laborer, no parent, no teacher, no pastor or no hearty and earnest Christian can, for such reasons, put away the imperative obligations. Whatever is a duty must be discharged, and no questions asked as to its agreeableness. If the comfortable and the pleasing had always and everywhere been the rule in matters of duty, Christianity would never have had any martyrs, any missionaries, any moral heroes. Paul, Wesley, Knox, Howard, Asbury, and a host of immortal names that are the heritage and the glory of the church, would never have existed or been heard of. O, brethren, it is a want of the zeal that animated the Master and his most honored and useful servants, that makes us "frame weak excuses," almost too trifling to hear serious examination.—Galveston Christian Advocate.

Death is continually walking the rounds of a great city, and sooner or later he will stop at every man's door. But, after all, the shortest life is long enough if it lead to a better, and the longest life is too short if it do not.

ROMANISM AND PROGRESS.

Under this caption the Methodist writes as follows:

The Carlist movement in Spain is virtually a scheme of the papal church to restore the old, stagnant, corrupt Catholic state of things, by placing Don Carlos on the throne. He and his family are faithful to the priests, and the priests therefore work for them among the fanatic people. Hence the church is responsible for the ever-recurring Carlist tumults of the country, and the consequent embarrassments of the government.

The ecclesiastics were the supporters of Isabella, who, for her personal vices, was at last spewed out of the country. There being no more hope for her, they now uphold, with all their force, the desperate ventures of Don Carlos. Everywhere the Roman Church thus proves itself the support of antiquated oppression, the enemy of the patriotic men who would reform and restore their respective countries. It is so not only in Spain, but in Italy, in Austria, in France. In Mexico the priestly party has been the ruin of the nation, and is amenable for the incessant outbreaks against order and progress. They are responsible for Maximilian's accession and destruction. In like manner are they the supreme embarrassment of the South American Republics generally. There can be no liberal reform, no salutary progress, wherever they have predominance.

Even here, under our own Republican flag, these men and their organs are hardly less blatant against liberty and reform than in their most debased foreign fields. They do not hesitate to hoot at the liberation of Italy and her new and generous policy. They openly rejoice at the Carlist eruptions in Spain.

It is well that the American people should understand where these ecclesiastics stand in regard to the best liberal movements of the age. The New York Tablet is their leading organ. In its last number it gives nearly a column of editorial to the Carlist movement, and says:

"The reaction is already setting in; towns, and even cities, with abundance of arms and munitions of war, are falling into the hands of the Carlists, supplying them with just what they most wanted. 'God defend the right!' say we, and we know it is the heart-wrung cry of the oppressed Spanish millions, watching with yearning hearts the contest between a prince of their own royal house, endowed with the Catholic piety and the chivalric courage of the true Spaniard, and a young foreigner, forced upon the nation by Prim and the Progressistas, Spanish neither in blood nor in sympathies, and assuredly not in faith—and faith was wont to be, and is even now, let the enemies of religion say as they will, the vital principle of Spanish, as it is of Irish, nationality. It will be a joyful day for the Catholic world when the well-loved brother of the princely young papal zouave, Don Alphonso, is proclaimed as Charles the Seventh of Spain. Should that day arrive, it will be one of signal victory over the anti-Christian revolution, which is the plague and curse of this boasting and boasted nineteenth century."

The writer is evidently behind the times, for, long before his article appeared, the Carlists had been ingloriously defeated and dispersed; and our latest word is that Don Carlos has arrived at Geneva, escaping with the "skin of his teeth." But such an editorial, in an American paper, is a significant fact—it reveals to us the real spirit of the Catholic hierarchy among us; it shows the hollow-heartedness of all their pretenses of loyalty to our own government; it proves that they are now, as ever before, the irreclaimable enemies of popular liberty, political reform and modern progress.

NOT TEETOTALERS.

The Scotch Presbyterian preachers are not total abstinence men. The Rev. Gideon Draper was in Edinburg during the meeting of their assemblies, and he thus speaks of their bibulous ways in a recent letter to the Methodist:

One peculiarity I have noticed here that I did not see in connection with our General Conference at home in recent session, nor have seen attached to any of our Conferences. I wish to speak of it in a spirit of brotherly love, but plainly. It is the vast amount of malt liquors and spirits that are provided for and used by these ecclesiastical assemblies in Scotland. It seems to be the general rule, both among the clergy and laity, to partake of them copiously. At twelve o'clock at night I visited the refreshment rooms of the Assembly of the Established Church, in thirst of information (and, I beg to assure your readers, with no other thirst) I never saw a bar-room in an American tavern doing so lively a business. Two young men and one young woman were most busily engaged in dealing out not only ale and porter, but also brandy and whisky to their clerical customers. Their hands were not swift enough to meet the demand; and while intemperance is the greatest curse of Scotland, such an example, such wholesale and universal drinking of intoxicating liquors, to which all branches of the Scotch Church are more or less given, ought to be held up for public condemnation. A world's Christian sentiment ought to be created which should work a revolution here where it is so much needed.

The Nashville Christian Advocate says: The week of prayer, it appears, was generally observed through the connection. We worshiped at several of our churches, and found a good state of things, especially at Thompson's chapel and Tulip street, where a number were converted. Special intercession was made for our literary institutions (including Sunday schools) the last day of the octave (Sunday)—a sermon was preached on the subject at North Nashville, where we worshiped in the morning. We trust that great good will result from these special devotional exercises. But the church must be always "praying in the Holy Ghost," or it will not prosper. Bro. Winn has just handed us the following: "Our meeting at Thompson's chapel closed on Sunday night with the week of prayer—thirty conversions and thirty-five accessions."

It will be seen, by reference to the advertisement in another column, that Homer College opens on the first Tuesday of September. We are gratified to learn that the endowment of one chair of $25,000 has already been secured, and considerable progress has been made toward the endowment of another chair for a similar amount. Homer College is the property of the Louisiana Conference, and of course under its special patronage and control. Its location is in a healthy region, and most eligible for patronage from north Louisiana, east Texas and southern Arkansas. Dr. Cobb, the president, is an accomplished scholar, and possesses excellent administrative ability. This college is a valuable church institution, and, on the score of merit, is entitled to a large patronage.

The Southern University, at Greensboro, Alabama, opens on the first Wednesday in October. From all we can learn the prospects of this institution were never better, and there will doubtless be a full attendance of students. The facilities afforded for a thorough education are not excelled, and for economy we are sure that none will complain. President Andrews has filled his responsible position admirably, displaying energy and wisdom in every part of his administration. He is to be ably assisted by a competent corps of professors, among whom are such men as O. F. Casey and T. O. Summers, Jr. See the advertisement and send for circulars.

Those who are seeking a good school for girls should not fail to notice the advertisement of Roadvilla Seminary. Baton Rouge is one of the healthiest points in the South, and is one of the most convenient and accessible. Mrs. Read's school has been established for about thirty years, and the graduates who have gone out from the institution are found throughout the country, and are among the most accomplished of the land. We have frequently visited the seminary, and recommend it because convinced that it is one of our best for the education of young ladies.

Stonewall Institute, at Plantersville, Alabama, is highly indorsed by the most competent judges, and is, without doubt, a fine school for boys. The principal, Rev. D. C. B. Connerly, is devoting himself most energetically and successfully to the duties of his station. An ample advertisement appears this week, which will give such information as is needful to those who are about to choose a school for their boys.

The biographical sketch of W. H. Dameron, which appears on our second page, was prepared by direction of the Felicity Street Quarterly Conference, of which Bro. Dameron was a member. A man of his eminent piety, usefulness and long service well merits the excellent memorial furnished.

EUROPE PREPARING FOR WAR.

The London Times says: "The hosts of Europe are being marshaled in numbers sufficient to invade and conqner kingdoms. They are provided, at immense cost, with the full equipment and the most scientific apparatus of war; they are commanded by generals who feel, it is said, all tbe responsihilities of a campaign, and hy officers earnest to obtaiu the practical knowledge of tbeir profession; they engage in the most complicated operations, and all to prepare for that coming war which the policy of every European State assumes to be inevitahle. The Russians commenced their grand maneuvers this week, and are still in the midst of them. It is to be hoped that in their northern latitude the heats from which we are suffering are a little tempered. The Prussians enter into campaign on the first of August, and for nine days the operations will proceed with as much seriousness and precision as if the armies were once more marching on Paris. The great heat prevented the French review the other day, but the autumn will not have begnu before the reconstructed army of the republic will be tested as openly as its chiefs can venture to recommend, considering the susceptibilities of Berlin. The Anstrians, ever beaten, hut ever confident, and with a military macbine which to the professional eye is always in perfect order, will not he behindhand. No State has labored more at army reform and organization than Anstria during the last six years, and she will take her usual pride in exhibiting her new weapons and ber new uniforms on the largest scale to military critics. Passing over minor continental States, which are all ready to spend their last shilling on soldiers, we come to a country in which there is more fuss about military matters than in any other, though the people, with the utmost sincerity, protest their peacefulness, and boast of their freedom from the wurlike passions. We too shall have our autumn maneuvers to display, and instruct a select portion of a national force which, as far as nnmhers go, is really formidahle, and which is certainly far larger than Great Britain has ever maintained in time of peace. Betwcen the present time and the end of September the governments of Europe will have set in the field whole armies, the choicest levies of a body which cannot be reckoned at less than four millions of men."

The British Wesleyan Conference.

The one hundred and twenty-ninth annual session of the British Wesleyan Methodist Conference opened in City Road chapel on Wednesday, July 31. Nearly one thousand ministers were in attendance. At the first Conference, held in the Foundry one hundred and twenty-eigbt years ago, there were only ten preachers, including John and Charles Wesley. As a further indication of the changed condition of affairs at this Conference we note that the "Conference Plan" (a printed tract of sixteen octavo pages) contains arrangements for about one thousand one hundred services during the session, to be conducted in one hundred and seventy chapels and other places. In addition, we have reported arrangements for holding special services for children, and for out-door services to be held on seven consecutive evenings in many parts of London. Behold, what hath God wrought!

The Conference session proper opened on Wednesday morning, the president, Rev. J. H. James, D. D., in the chair. After the devotional exercises, and before proceeding to the regular business, tbe president introduced the venerable Thomas Jackson, nearly ninety years old, and who entered the British Conference sixty-eigbt years ago.

Rev. Luke Holt Wiseman, M. A., was elected president, and Rev. George T. Perks, M. A., secretary.

PERIODICALS.

Littell's Living Age of August 10 contains, among many good things: Poets of Society; Christina North; the Mussulman in China; Germany and the Pope; the Use of Railroads in War.

The Field and Factory, published at Jackson, Mississippi, is a Southern journal of much merit, and deserves a large patronage. We have received the August number.

Le Bon Ton for September is splendidly illustrated, and, besides the colored fashion plates, contains patterns with descriptions.

Brainard's Musical World for August is on our table promptly, containing a fine selection of articles and music.

If men are to be fools, it were better that they were fools in little matters than in great. Dullness, turned up with temerity, is a livery all the worse for the facings; and the most tremendous of all things is a magnanimous dunce.—Sydney Smith.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO CENTENARY.

Mr. Editor: Mr. David Pipes, Sr., of East Feliciana parish, has given $500 to our college. This will enable us to begin work, and we sincerely hope to be able to continue nntil at least tbe most necessary repairs are completed.

Please publisb also the following amounts received from varions persons since our connection with the college, viz.: Thomas Green, $50; a lady, $1; a member of the Lonisiana Conference, $1, silver; R. Parvin, $5; C. A. Coon, $10; Isaac Smith, $10; Mrs. Hoard, $25; J. W. Leslie, $25; N. McQneen, $5; C. P. Neilson, $15; R. M. Neilson, $10; C. W. Campbell, $10; A. B. Compton, $2; E. L. Tarver, $25; S. L. Weathersby, $10; Daniel Sandell, $10; Seaborn Gardner, $50; James A. Horkins, $20; R. W. Millsaps, $25; E. H. Mounger, $25; J. W. Wellborn, $25; R. C. G. S. Hilliard, $200; W. W. Millsaps, $10; Mrs. M. A. Millsaps, $10; E. J. Guice, $100; S. W. Lipscomb, $50.

C. G. Andrews.

A letter has been received from one of the party of travelers engaged in the Moab expedition, who says they have found no inscriptions of importance, hnt their topographical work has well repaid them. They found many ruined cities, most of them unvisited hy any European, and some quite nnknown by name. Of all that are named, the positions on the maps are most inaccurately laid down. They generally contain ruins of great temples, and also of Christian churches. He adds that, descending into the plains of Moab by the Dead sea, they are carefully examining this terra incognita, and find a great deal of rich fertile land, and springs, hot and cold, in a belt of lowlands almost nninterrupted on the eastern shore, and no distant march north of Lisan. They have about one hundred and eighty successful photographs, and a very fine botanical collection.

A man shall carry a bucket of water on his head and be very tired with the burden; but that same man, when he dives into the sea, shall have a thousand buckets on his head without perceiving their weight, because he is in the element and it entirely surrounds him. The duties of holiness are very irksome to men who are not in the element of holiness; hut when once those men are cast into the element of grace, they bear ten times more and feel no weight, hut are refreshed thereby with joy unspeakable.—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

Schism is not dividing hypocrites from bypocrites, formal professors from people of their own caste; it is not dividing nominal Episcopalians from each other, nominal Methodists from nominal Methodists, or nominal Quakers from nominal Quakers, etc. But schism is the dividing of real Christians from each other, and hreaking the unity of the Spirit.—Francis Asbury.

Providence made both tears and laughter, and both for kind purposes; for as laughter enables mirth and surprise to breathe freely, so tears enable sorrow to vent itself patiently. Tears hinder sorrow from becoming despair and madness; and laughter is one of the very privileges of reason, being confined to the human species.

CONFERENCE REGISTER.

Conference.	Place.	Time.	Bishop.
Western	Nebr'a City.	Sep. 4	Pierce.
Illinois	Rushville	Sep. 4.	Marvin.
Kentucky	Harrodsb'g.	Sep. 4.	Kavanaugh
Missouri	Mexico	Sep. 11.	Pierce.
Pacific	Gilroy	Sep. 18.	McTyeire.
W. Virginia	Parkersb'g	Sep. 18.	Kavanaugh
W. St. Louis	Nevada C'y.	Oct. 2.	Pierce.
Louisville	Lebanon	Oct. 2.	Marvin.
Indian Miss.	Ocmulgee	Oct. 2.	Wightman.
Holston	Chattano'a.	Oct. 2.	Doggett.
St Louis	Arcadia	Oct. 16	Pierce.
Arkansas	Bentonville.	Oct. 16.	Wightman.
Tennessee	Nashville.	Oct. 16.	Doggett.
Los Angeles.	Los Nietos.	Oct. 16	McTyeire.
N. W. Texas	Belton.	Oct. 23.	Keener.
White River	Augusta	Oct. 30.	Wightman.
Trinity	Sul. Springs.	Nov. 6.	Keener.
Memphis	Somerville.	Nov. 20.	Wightman.
N. Alabama	Tuskaloosa.	Nov. 20.	Doggett.
East Texas	Tyler	Nov 20.	Keener.
Virginia	Petersburg	Nov. 20.	Paine.
N. Georgia	Atlanta	Nov 27.	Marvin.
N. Missis'ppi.	Corinth	Nov. 27.	Kavanaugh
Little Rock	Pine Bluff	Dec. 4	Wightman.
Texas	Bryan	Dec. 4	Keener.
N. Carolina	Raleigh	Dec. 4.	Paine.
S. Georgia	Thomasv'le.	Dec. 11.	Marvin.
Mississippi	Brandon	Dec. 11.	Kavanaugh
Alabama	Eufaula	Dec. 11.	Doggett.
West Texas	Victoria	Dec. 18.	Keener.
S. Carolina	Anderson	Dec. 18.	Paine.
Louisiana	N. Orleans.	Jan. 8.	Pierce.
Florida	Fernandina.	Jan. 8.	Marvin.
Baltimore	Baltimore	Mar. 8.	Paine.

Married.

On Tuesday, the thirteenth instant, at Emory, Virginia, by the bride's father, Rev. Dr. E. E. Wiley, Mr. Frank A. Parker, of New Orleans, Louisiana, and Miss Jennie Wiley.

By Rev. J. D. Adams, at the residence of the bride's mother, on the twenty-second of August, 1872, Mr. C. C. Flanders to Miss Mary S. Sims, all of New Orleans, Louisiana.

Singing Schools ought to have the best and latest publications. "Singing School Echo," just published by S. Brainard's Sons, Cleveland, Ohio, is undoubtedly a superior book. A sample copy may be had by sending seventy-five cents to the publishers.

Agt's & Publisher's Department

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS OF LETTERS and Funds, Received by Mail, for the week ending Aug. 24, 1872:

A—C W Andrews 2 lets, S W Ayer & Son, Edwin Alden 3 lets, Daniel F Ashford $4, American Publishing and Correspondence Bureau.

B—H P Bowen 50 cts, M L Branch, C Bull, Horace Bishop 2 lets. Wm H Bayne, R W Bond 75 cts, J B Blatter.

C—Geo W Carlton & Co, Mrs Louisa Cordell, W J Carlton, John F Cook $10, R B Crawford, C D N Campbell, W J Cheshire 30 cts, D C B Connerly, W G E Cunnyngham $15, R Crawford $10, R F Clement $5.80.

D—Jas F Dumble, H I Davis $6.30, J W DeVilbiss, R A Davis $5, C J Davenport $2, C B DuBose.

F—E N Freshman.

G—S P Gambia, L S Guice 50 cts, W J Garner.

H—W W Hurst, Hurlbut, Gilmer & Co, J L Hopkins $1, W C Haislip, Thos Hutchins $2 75, R D Hoot, E J Hale & Son.

J—S B Jones, A W Jones, R P Johnson, C P Johnson.

K—J C Keener.

L—J B Lippincott & Co 4 lets. Lee, Shepherd & Dillingham, A C Littlejohn, G M Liverman, W E M Linfield $3.50, A F Lumpton, A T Lewis.

M—L Minor, M C Manly, R W Miller, J M McCann, Wm Moore $73.70, J H Moore. H H Montgomery, D Merchant, W P Mellride, T C Monroe, J G Miller.

N—P H Napier, National Publishing Co.

P—Alex Powe, R T Parish, S M Pettengill & Co, U B Phillips $2.

R—J K Randall, E E F Ross 2 lots, A Riser $2.65, A H Redford, Mrs M W Reed, Robert Ranlle $70.

S—H L Smith, J H Shelton, John H Smith $1.25, Mrs Belle W Stanard, D L Staples & Co, Wesley Smith, A B Stewart, J W Sandell $15, J J Smilie, R A Sibley, Southern Manufacturing Co $15.

T—M M Trawick $3.60.

W—D J Wright 2 lots, T B White $323.80, P Williams & Son 2 lots $30, T F Webb, Jas S White $10, J F Wynn, John W Watson, Wilson, Hinkle & Co.

Mr. E. E. F. Ross, our resident advertising agent, is now on a brief tour through the West and North, and we commend him to the attention of our patrons, and shall be thankful for courtesies extended to him. They are assured that Mr. Ross has no other business, but devotes his entire time to the paper, and is entitled to all the consideration of one of its business corps. Mr. Ross may be found at the Bingham House, corner of Eleventh and Market streets, Philadelphia.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Strong Testimony.—Dr. Wm. H. Tutt—Dear Sir: I feel it a duty to you and to suffering humanity to make public the great merits of your Extract Sarsaparilla. For years I have been a great sufferer; my general health broke down, and I was afflicted with nervousness of the most terrible character, which was soon followed by an eruption all over the body, forming large ulcers in some places, and attended with rheumatic pains. Tongue cannot describe my suffering; I was reduced almost to a skeleton, and had a perfect loathing of food. I was attended by several physicians, who rendered me no relief. I despaired of ever being well again; but, thanks to a kind Providence, I accidentally heard of your medicine. I sent for half a dozen bottles, and before I had taken three I began to feel better, my appetite improved, and the rheumatic pains became less severe, and I could enjoy sleep. I have continued its use, and have taken eleven bottles, and believe I am a sound man again. The ulcers have all healed, my skin is smooth and healthy, and I have gained twenty-two pounds in weight. I believe my sickness resulted from a taint of scrofula. I would earnestly recommend your compound to my fellow-sufferers.

With deep gratitude to you, I am ever your friend, JAMES FRANKLIN.

Steubenville, Ohio, Sept. 4, 1871.

Dr. Tutt's Liver Pills are a mild and gentle purgative, possessing the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving congestive or torpid liver. They have no equal. an29 1t

Dr. Tutt's Hair Dye is Indorsed by the Best Chemists.

Mrs. Whitcomb's Sirup.—The great soothing remedy. Price only 25 cents. Gives rest to the mother and health to the child. Sold by druggists. jy18 1y

Have your Printing and Binding Done at

THE PELICAN JOB OFFICE,

113 and 114 Poydras St., New Orleans. jn18 1y

The Equitable Life Assurance Society, New York.

Assets, $18,000,000. Incorp., $8,000,000.

Branch office—33 Camp Street.

A. P. CLEVELAND, fe8 1y General Agent.

Dr. Henry's Root and Plant Pills.—Mild yet thorough; no nausea or griping; entirely vegetable; great Liver remedy. Price, 25 cents. Sold by druggists. jy18 1y

Use Dr. Henry's World's Tonic and Blood Purifier.—It is the great household remedy, pleasant to take, yet potent for the prevention and cure of diseases. It is better than Bitters, Cordials, Buchu or Sarsaparilla. Sold by druggists. jy18 1y

Caution!—Every genuine box of Dr. McLane's Liver Pills bears the signature of Fleming Brothers, Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, and their private United States stamp. Take no other; the market is full of imitations.

It is the popular verdict that people who have been accustomed to the use of Bitters or Cordials are obliged eventually to resort to McLane's Liver Pills for permanent relief. ap25 6m

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Rendville Seminary for Young Ladies,
Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

Established in 1843. Incorporated in 1858. New buildings. Full corps of teachers. All the appliances of a first-class institution. For catalogues address

MRS. MARY W. READ, Principal.
jn22 3m Baton Rouge, La.

New Book for Singing Schools, etc.

THE SINGING SCHOOL ECHO.

This new book, for the use of Singing and High Schools, Conventions, Classes, etc., will be found one of the best and most valuable collections of vocal music ever published.

The reputation of the authors is sufficient guarantee that the "Singing School Echo" will be a most attractive book.

Price, 75 cents, or $7.50 per dozen. Copies mailed on receipt of retail price.

S. BRAINARD'S SONS,
an29 1yeow Publishers, Cleveland, O.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

STONEWALL INSTITUTE,
AT PLANTERSVILLE, ALABAMA,
TWENTY MILES NORTH OF SELMA.

This school for boys will begin its Eighth Annual Session on TUESDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1872.

Its reputation is based upon its merits.

The discipline is both parental and military, the latter only going far enough to promote physical development, promptness and application to books.

The elementary branches of education—spelling, reading, writing, the art of composing and arithmetic—receive special attention.

Small boys, ten years old, will be received. Economy in money and time will be gained by intrusting the education of such to the undersigned.

School session for day, seven hours; at night, two and a half. All boys board with the principal. Debating Societies on Saturday. Sunday school every Sunday.

Two hundred and thirty dollars—one-half payable in October, in cash, or a thirty days' ACCEPTED draft; the other, February 1, 1873—will pay for a boy's board and tuition for one year.

It is confidently believed, by both students and patrons of this school, that no other does the whole work of education more thoroughly and satisfactorily than the Stonewall.

It is our set purpose to make the course of study equal to the demands of the age, whether in thoroughly preparing boys for college, or qualifying them for business in practical life. We are willing to have our work examined and compared with any done in academies or quasi colleges.

D. C. B. CONNERLY, an29 4t Plantersville, Ala.

TO METHODISTS.

SUNDAY HALF-HOURS WITH THE GREAT PREACHERS

is the best book of Sermons ever published.

Dr. Kynett says: "It should be welcomed to every Christian family."

Dr. Payne says: "Of inestimable value. * * Rich, rare and priceless."

Dr. Warren says: "I cordially commend it."

Sold only by subscription.

AGENTS WANTED.

Liberal terms; money made rapidly, and a valuable and handsome book circulated.

Circulars sent free on application.

PORTER & COATES, Publishers,
an29 1m Philadelphia, Pa.

MUSICAL BOXES,

PLAYING FROM ONE TO ONE HUNDRED Airs, and costing from $2.50 to $3,000. All sizes, styles and prices. Send stamp for catalogue.

MAGIC LANTERNS,

specially for Sunday schools, lectures, etc. A priced and illustrated catalogue sent on receipt of stamp.

W. MITCHELL, McALLISTER, an29 3m 728 Chestnut st., Phila.

LANDRETH'S SEEDS

Have spoken their own praise for upward of three-quarters of a century.

Landreth's Rural Register and Almanac will be mailed to all who apply.

DAVID LANDRETH & SON,
an29 1y Philadelphia.

BARLOW'S INDIGO BLUE is the cheapest and best article in the market for BLUEING CLOTHES.

The genuine has both Barlow and Wiltberger's names on the label, and is put up at Wiltberger's Drug Store, No. 232 North Second street, Philadelphia. For sale by grocers and druggists.

D. S. WILTBERGER, an29 6m Proprietor.

MILLER'S GREAT BIBLE;

WITH OVER TWO HUNDRED ENGRAVINGS.

LARGE PRINT.—BEAUTIFUL BINDINGS.

THE CHRISTIAN HARMONY,

SEVEN-SHAPED NOTES.

The system of Music on which this work is based is remarkable for its simplicity, and the facility with which any one can learn to sing, requiring far less time and labor than the ordinary four-note system. It combines the choicest collection of Music, both original and selected, from the best sources; particularly designed for Choirs, Singing Schools and Private Societies. The great and unprecedented success of the Southern Harmony, by the same author, is a guarantee of the high musical merit of this work. Agents wanted.

Miller's Bible and Publishing House,
1102 and 1104 Sansom street,
Je27 6m Philadelphia, Penn'a.

THE FAMILY PAPER.

The Illustrated Christian Weekly,

NOW IN ITS SECOND YEAR, IS THE

ONLY ILLUSTRATED

Religious Weekly published in the country. It is unsectarian in its character, and has been warmly welcomed by Christian people everywhere. Its illustrations are not excelled by any secular publication, while the reading matter is carefully prepared by eminent writers of various denominations.

Send for Specimen Copy.—Two Dollars a Year.

Agents wanted in every community. Liberal terms to Sabbath schools.

AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY,
Publishers,
Je27 7teow5p 150 Nassau st., New York.

GREAT WESTERN GUN WORKS

P. O. BOX 1179, PITTSBURGH, PA.

Breech-Loading Shot Guns, $40 to $300. Double Shot Guns, $8 to $150. Single Guns, $3 to $20. Rifles, $8 to $75. Revolvers, $6 to $25. Send stamp for Price List. Army Guns, Revolvers, etc., etc., bought or traded for. an15 1yeow

AGENTS WANTED FOR

SECRETS OF THE CONVENT AND CONFESSIONAL.

BY JULIA M'NAIR WRIGHT.

The most thrilling and powerful book ever written on this subject. It presents a startling array of facts, and contains revelations never before made public.

Send for circulars and terms to

NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.,
274 and 276 Second street,
an1 6m Memphis, Tenn.

WANTED.—A NO. 1 PROFESSOR OF Ancient and Modern Languages; graduate of the University of Heidelberg, who can come well recommended, desires a SITUATION. In a College or other institution of learning. Address, for further particulars, ADVOCATE OFFICE, an15 3t 112 Camp st., New Orleans.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

GARDEN SEEDS,

FIELD SEEDS,

FLOWER SEEDS

Grown largely by nurserymen, on our own grounds, near Haddonfield, New Jersey.

COLLINS, DOWNS & CO.,
Warehouse, 1113 Market street,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Catalogue and Price-List furnished on application. The trade supplied on liberal terms. an22 3m

Centenary Female College,
SUMMERFIELD, ALA.

The thirtieth session opens September 23, 1872.

The Literary, Music and Art Departments are well organized and under a competent faculty.

The peculiar advantages are health, cheapness and thorough instruction.

Board and tuition, $230; if all paid in advance, $220. Club rates, $210.

For catalogue and further information address A. D. McVOY, an22 1m President.

TUSKEGEE FEMALE COLLEGE,
TUSKEGEE, ALA.

The seventeenth annual session begins September 12, 1872. The entire expense per annum of a boarding pupil, who takes no extra study, is $250, exclusive of books. No extra charge for vocal music, calisthenics or elementary drawing. For circulars, containing full information, apply to the President,

REV. HENRY B. MOORE, an22 1m Tuskegee, Alabama.

HOMER COLLEGE.

The scholastic exercises of the Thirteenth Annual Term of Homer College begin on the First Tuesday of SEPTEMBER next, 1872.

Tuition at the rate of $5 per month. Board from $12 to $15 per month.

Students received in regular classes only, and to the end of a session.

A Preparatory Department, under competent management, is attached to the college. Tuition, $4 to $5 per month.

For further particulars address

REV. J. E. COBB,
President Homer College, La.

By order of the Board.

W. F. Moneland,
Prest. Board of Trustees. an22 3m

EMORY AND HENRY COLLEGE,
VIRGINIA.

The fall session of this institution begins on the FIFTEENTH OF AUGUST next. One Hundred and Fifteen Dollars will pay all the necessary expenses of a five month session, including board, tuition, fuel, room-rent, washing and contingent fees. Payments are required in advance, except for board, which is $15 per month, and payable monthly in advance. If you will consult the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and her ministers generally, our alumni and students, or the professors of the University of Virginia, who have authorized this reference, you will be assured that we are offering excellent opportunities for a thorough collegiate training, surrounded by healthful, moral, religious influences. If you desire a catalogue, or any additional information, address

E. E. WILEY, President,
fe20 4m Emory P. O., Virginia.

Wesleyan Female College,
MACON, GEORGIA.

The thirty-fifth annual session will begin OCTOBER 7, 1872.

For catalogues, containing full information, address

REV. E. H. MYERS, D. D., President, or
C. W. SMITH, Secretary of Faculty.
au15 2m

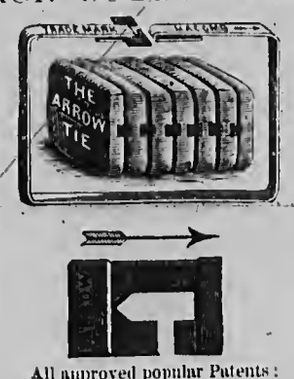
UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA,
CHARLOTTESVILLE.

The session commences on October 1. The institution embraces an Academic Department, and Departments of Law, Medicine, Engineering and Agriculture. For catalogues apply to WM. WERTENBAKER, Secretary of the Faculty, P. O. University of Virginia. CHAS. S. VENABLE, Chairman of the Faculty. au8 1m

IMPORTANT TO PLANTERS.

IRON COTTON TIES.

THE ARROW TIE



AND ALL OPEN-SLOT TIES.

All approved popular Patents:

ARROW,
ANCHOR,
WALLIS,
ALLIGATOR
AND DUNN.

For sale by all dealers in New Orleans, Mobile and Memphis, and by country merchants generally throughout the Cotton States.

BARTLETT & RAYNE,
General Agents,
48 Carondelet street, cor. Union,
my30 6m New Orleans.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT.

A Harvest of Diamonds has rewarded the toil of certain lucky adventurers under the burning sun of Africa; but what is the value of the rarest gem that ever glittered in crown or turban when compared with that of a medicinal remedy that cures dyspepsia and biliousness, restores the appetite, regulates the disordered bowels, and tones and invigorates the whole vital system? Science has bestowed upon the world this inestimable gift in

Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient,

which is, to all other preparations of its class, what the diamond is among jewels, and, when foaming in the goblet of the fevered invalid, as bright and sparkling. Sold by all druggists. an22 2t

AGENTS WANTED, everywhere, for

The Home of God's People.

The grandest and most successful new book out. It contains nearly 200 magnificent Engravings. $2,500 per annum can be made by any energetic male or female agent in taking orders for this valuable, fascinating and popular work. Our circulars (sent free) will convince you of this, give you our terms, full particulars, etc.

QUEEN CITY PUBLISHING CO.,
my30 3meow Cincinnati, Ohio.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

East Mississippi Female College,
MERIDIAN, MISS.

This institution has passed through its first year, and will resume its exercises on WEDNESDAY, the second of October next, in the new building.

The success of the school has equaled the expectation of its most sanguine friends. Its future is promising.

The entire Faculty of the past year is retained, and others will be added as necessity may require.

The course of study is ample and thorough, and it will be the prime object of the Faculty to make good scholars and accomplished ladies of those committed to their care.

There will be room with the President for boarders.

This school is situated at Meridian, a healthful and growing place in the eastern part of Mississippi, on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, 135 miles north of Mobile, and is also accessible by railroad both from the east and west. It was adopted by the Mississippi Conference at its last session, and, as the child of said Conference, is under its special patronage.

For particulars apply to the undersigned, President of the Faculty, at Meridian, Miss.
an22 2t S. P. HICE.

TUSKALOOSA FEMALE COLLEGE,
TUSKALOOSA, ALABAMA.

The next session opens SEPTEMBER 23, 1872.

The beautiful and healthy city of Tuskaloosa, Alabama, is unsurpassed as a location.

The Faculty will consist of three Professors and eight or ten Lady Assistants.

Course of study thorough. Domestic arrangements complete. Young ladies' sleeping apartments elegantly furnished and carpeted. Health department includes a finely-conducted Gymnasium. This College is believed to be equal to the best in the United States, and the cheapest in the South. Special advantages for orphan children whose guardians wish to furnish them a home and school in one. For particulars and catalogue address the proprietor,

REV. B. F. LARRABEE,
jy18 3m Tuskaloosa, Alabama.

Whitworth Female College,
AT BROOKHAVEN, MISS.

The continued success of this institution is one of the best evidences of its merit. During the past term there were in attendance two hundred and twenty-nine pupils.

The members of the Faculty—eleven in number—are selected on account of their ability to teach.

Prof. Eckhardt, Music Director, has few equals.

Madame Dellis, a Parisian lady of eighteen years' successful experience as a teacher, has been engaged to take charge of the French and Ornamental Department.

The very best care is taken of our pupils, both as to health and manners. Fires are provided for all.

No extravagance in dress is allowed.

The good health of Brookhaven is proverbial. Pupils from the miasmatic regions of Louisiana and Mississippi find this as healthful a school as can be found anywhere.

The charges are believed to be lower than in any school in the Southwest where similar advantages are afforded. Only from $230 to $265 for all expenses, excepting music, French and the ornamental branches.

No expense is spared in purchasing the most approved apparatus, maps, charts, etc., and all necessary school furniture.

Brookhaven is located on the New Orleans, Jackson and Great Northern Railroad, 128 miles from the city.

Catalogues sent free on application to an1 6m REV. H. F. JOHNSON, Prest.

MANSFIELD FEMALE COLLEGE,
Mansfield, DeSoto Parish, La.

This institution, entering upon its Eighteenth Year, well supplied with Apparatus and other educational aids, and employing the most approved methods of instruction and government, will commence its Fall Session for 1872 on WEDNESDAY, the Twenty-fifth day of September, with a full corps of accomplished Teachers. For catalogues, with all particulars, address

CHARLES H. STUART,
au8 2m President.

TEAS FREE OF DUTY.

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES.

J. W. PLATT & CO.,
104 Camp street, corner of Poydras,

Receive their Teas directly from the Importers, and furnish them to consumers in any quantity desired, with one small profit only added on Cargo Prices in New York, or about one-third less than the usual charge for similar goods at ordinary retail stores. Housekeepers who wish to reduce the cost of their household stores will please notice the following Price List, which includes the finest Teas imported:

IMPERIAL (Green,) 50 cts., 80 cts.; Choice, $1 per lb.; Extra choicest, $1.25 per lb.
YOUNG HYSON (Green,) 80 cts.; Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.25 per lb.
GUNPOWDER (Green,) Choice, $1.25; Extra choicest, $1.50 per lb.
OOLONG (Black,) 50 cts., 80 cts.; Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.20 per lb.
ENGLISH BREAKFAST, 50 cts., 75 cts.; Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.25 per lb.
JAPAN (Natural Leaf,) Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.20 per lb.
ORANGE PEKAE (Black,) Extra choicest, $1.50 per lb.
MIXED (Green and Black,) 50 cts., 75 cts.; Choice, $1; Extra choicest, $1.20 per lb.

We recommend our Extra Choicest Teas as the best in market. Special prices to wholesale buyers. au1 1m

WILLIAM HOGAN,
Manufacturer of and Dealer in
BOOTS, SHOES, TRUNKS, VALISES AND BAGS,
FRENCH AND AMERICAN,
Also Agent for the Empire Sewing Machine,
99 AND 101 CANAL STREET,
au1 3m New Orleans.

S. COLLINS & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS OF
PRINTING INK,
Office and Depot—26 Frankfort Street,
jy25 6m NEW YORK.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S
STEEL PENS,
OF THE OLD STANDARD QUALITY.

TRADE MARK: JOSEPH GILLOTT. Or Descriptive Name and Designation Warranted.

The well-known Original and Popular Nos.,

303.....404.....170.....351,

having been assumed by other Makers, we desire to caution the public in respect to said imitations. ☞ ASK FOR GILLOTT'S.

JOS. GILLOTT & SONS,
Jy25 1y 91 John street, N. Y.

OCEAN SPRINGS.

Summer Resort.—Board at the Seaside.

The subscriber has taken the MORRIS HOUSE, at Ocean Springs, which has just undergone a thorough repair, and will be open to boarders who wish to enjoy a pleasant home, good bathing, fresh sea air, and luxuriate on fish and oysters during the heat of summer.

Terms for board: $40 per month, $10 per week, and $2 per day. Apply to the subscriber by mail, at Ocean Springs.

Refer to Bishop Keener, Rev. Robert J. Harp, J. L. Dunnica & Co., and Samuel Russ, Esq., New Orleans.

WM. C. CHAMBERLIN.
April 20, 1872. ap25 1f

The Child's Corner.

For the Advocate.

LITTLE SUNBEAM.

I am a son, an only son,
A little truant ray,
[illegible] the homeward roof
To drive the gloom away.

For, oh! this world is full of care,
As countless thousands know,
And I must do my little part
To scatter light below.

An aged father needs my care—
He needs me by his side—
He needs my little eyes to see,
My little hands to guide.

The sun, the moon, the stars above
For others brightly beam;
But, be it day or be it night,
'Tis all the same to him.

In vain the lovely buds unfold
In beauty to beguile;
Though loved ones place them in his hand,
"He cannot feel them smile."

And, sadder yet, my little face
My father cannot see,
And scarcely knows his darling boy
When climbing on his knee.

But yet it was not always so—
He once beheld the day,
And yonder sun shone brightly down
Upon his boyhood way.

The lovely flowers once sweetly smiled
Around his happy home;
But darkness dropped her vail of night,
And left his world in gloom.

O I would give the world—if mine—
His vision to restore,
And make the glorious sun as bright,
As cloudless as of yore!

To deck the firmament on high
With bright, celestial flowers,
And re'llume once again
This green, glad earth of ours.

To tear away the vail of night
That wraps the earth in gloom,
And let his eye enraptured gaze
On children, wife and home.

But, as I know this cannot be,
I'll strive by every art
To soothe the sorrow of his soul,
And cheer his lonely heart.

I'll cull for him the sweetest flowers,
Will sing my sweetest lays,
And be the sunbeam of his life,
The comfort of his days.

The sands of life are running low—
His lamp of life burns dim—
But, joy to think! in heaven above
There will be light for him.

He'll need no hand to guide him there,
In those bright realms of day;
"For God, the Son, forever reigns,
And scatters night away."

And should I too be called from earth
To join my father there,
In heaven he would not know my face—
He never saw me here.

But I would softly breathe my name—
That name so dear to him;
And, gazing fondly in his eyes—
Those eyes no longer dim—

He'd know me, and what rapturous joy
Would then and there be given,
When he would first behold the face
Of his dear boy in heaven.

AUGUST 15, 1872. WESTOVER.

The Turning-Point.

"A word fitly spoken, how good it is!" Real kindness watches its opportunity to say such words, and weary hearts and bewildered heads enough there are in our way every day to be helped and blessed by their timely cheer.

A good minister had grown weary over his books, and so threw them all aside for a brisk walk in the open air. Nothing rests body and mind like this. No brandy bitters can give such a spring to the spirits as pure, fresh air. A pleasant companion is an excellent thing in a walk, but any one may have the company of pleasant thoughts.

As Dr. B—— was passing the corner of the park he observed a lad, with a valise in his hand, just turning into the street. He paused a moment, as if uncertain which course to take. A moment's glance showed to the clergyman that the lad was from the country. Such ruddy cheeks, vigorous muscles, did not grow in the shade of a city home. It flashed through the good man's mind that this boy was leaving his early home, as he had done some forty years ago; and in imagination he recalled that parting scene with a feeling of gentle sadness that made him at once feel an interest in the boy before him. It is wonderful how rapidly thought can move. How much we can think of almost in an instant!

"Please, sir, will you direct me to LeRoy street?" he asked respectfully.

The clergyman gave the desired direction, and then added:

"You have come from a home in the country to find a situation in the city, have you, my boy?"

There was something so kindly in the tone that it went at once to the boy's heart. A moment before he had felt so utterly alone. Now he felt that this voice was one of real sympathy, and its effect was electrical.

"My father died a month ago," he said, "and my mother has got a place for me in my cousin's store."

"Well, my boy, I trust you have a good mother; I can usually tell by a boy's looks what kind of a mother he has. Remember all her good counsels, and be especially careful how you spend your Sabbaths. If you begin by going out to walk for your health or pleasure, you will end in the liquor saloon, and all the haunts of wickedness. Anchor yourself in the church and the Sabbath school. Here is the address of mine, if you would like to attend it. Our superintendent loves boys, and so do I. Remember that the way you spend your first Sabbath in the city will very likely be the turning-point of your life. Good-by, and may God give you his blessing always."

The good man gave his hand heartily to the stranger lad as he bade him good-by. It cost him nothing; but he knew full well how sweet such little wayside kindnesses are to the hearts of the lonely and homesick.

"I'll walk the length of this city through to find that man's church and Sunday school," said Robbie to himself, as he walked rapidly on, his heart cheered and strengthened by that little act of sympathy.

When the next Sunday came, however, it found him worn down with unaccustomed tasks. A young man in the store, with whom he had formed a pleasant acquaintance, invited him to take a stroll about the city.

"I'll show you some of the sights, and treat you to a dinner of oysters in a saloon I know of, where they keep open on Sundays. The shutters are bowed, of course, out of respect to the day, you know; but there is always plenty to eat and drink inside on all days and hours. They have all kinds of liquors, too, and make splendid punch."

Robbie felt lonely enough that day. His thoughts ran back to his old home, and more than once the tears started to his eyes. The young man seemed so pleasant and friendly he was just on the eve of yielding to his temptations "just this once." But then the thought of the good minister's words about this day being the turning-point in his life came back to his mind just in time. He politely declined the invitation, and found his way to the morning Sabbath school to which he had been directed.

Every afternoon he felt that he had a home in that city. A kind superintendent, and a warm-hearted teacher, who welcomed him with a cordial grasp of the hand, effectually "anchored" him in the Sunday school. His career in after-life was useful, honorable and successful; a very marked contrast to the Sabbath-breaking boys, who ran rapidly down the scale of dissipation until they reached the common drunkard.—Methodist.

The Boy that Had no Remarkable Qualities.

Most boys who "get into the newspapers" are very remarkable boys.

Joe had nothing about his looks or actions or color that attracted the particular attention of anybody.

When he first breathed the vital air he was simply a boy baby, with two hands, two feet, two eyes, two ears, one mouth, and one nose. He did not laugh and crow and sit upright, as young geniuses do in their young babyhood, but he slept and waked and ate (baby-food, of course,) and cried like any common baby.

When he grew older there were no uncommon developments, except that he was fat and healthy and heavy.

Nobody congratulated his mother on raising a future President, nor applauded the bright genius that sparkled in the baby's eyes. The gossipers looked wonderingly at each other as the tender mother watched over her baby boy, provided for his comforts, and pressed him to her warm bosom.

He grew to boyhood, but he was only a common boy. He learned his A B C with difficulty, and was slow in learning to read. His teacher thought he never would "get through the multiplication table." But he never forgot it.

When the boys went a-fishing, Joe went too; but he was slow in getting his hook and line ready. The other boys were on and in and around the lake before his hook was fairly settled in the water. "Too slow to move," the boys would say. "He'll sit there expecting the fish to come to him." It was even so; he remained stationary and fixed; but when night came, somehow his basket was always full, while many of the bright, talking geniuses went home with the sad intelligence that the fish "wouldn't bite."

Joe's home was full of life and noise and bustle of intelligent older children and bright younger ones. Joe found himself, and everybody else found him, solitary and alone, taking very little notice of the stir around him.

When he grew to be a man the bustling drive-aheads laughed at his plodding; but by some means he seldom made a mistake, and though he did not seem to accomplish as much in a week as many another did in a day, yet at the end of the year there was always something tangible in his results, while the work of those who seemed to utterly outstrip him at first ended in demolished air-castles.

He has passed the meridian of life. Men eminent in the profession respect his judgment. Business men, coming upon the stage of action, long to learn the secret of his success. The bank leans upon him to carry it through the trying crises, merchants and manufacturers lean upon him to save them from bankruptcy. Steady, constant and hard study made him a scholar; persevering industry, accompanied with economy, raised him to opulence; close observation and deliberate reflection cultivated a sound judgment, and honesty and integrity secured for him the confidence of all who knew him.

When the Dark Comes.

A little girl sat, at twilight, in her sick mother's room, busily thinking. All day she had been full of fun and noise, and had many times worried her poor tired mother.

"Ma," said the little girl, "what do you suppose makes me get over my mischief, and begin to act good, just about this time every night?"

"I do not know, dear. Can you not tell?"

"Well, I guess it's because this is when the dark comes. You know I am a little afraid of that. And then, ma, I begin to think of all the naughty things I've done to grieve you, and that perhaps you might die before morning; and so I begin to act good."

"Oh!" thought I, "how many of us wait till 'the dark comes,' in the form of sickness or sorrow, or trouble of some kind, before we 'begin to act good!' How much better to be good while we are enjoying life's bright sunshine! And then, 'when the dark comes'—as it will, in a measure, to all—we shall be ready to meet it without fear."—Well-spring.

PROMPTED BY LOVE.—One morning found little Dora busy at the ironing table, smoothing the towels and stockings.

"Isn't that hard work for the little arms?" I asked.

A look like sunshine came into her face as she glanced toward her mother, who was rocking the baby.

"It isn't hard work when I do it for mamma," she said softly.

The Farm and Garden.

How Large Pears are Raised.

Mr. G. F. B. Leighton, of Norfolk, Virginia, has produced some of the largest pears ever grown in this country. In a late interview with this gentleman he told us that he has now in bearing six thousand trees, the most of them being Bartletts, Louise Bonne de Jersey and Seckel. The soil upon which they are grown is a stiff, blue clay, overlaying sand to the depth of three or four feet. In planting out pear trees, Mr. Leighton digs a hole in the clay some two or three feet deep, and sufficiently wide for the roots to ramify, and then bores a hole with a post auger through to the sand. This auger-hole and a small portion of the large excavation is filled with sticks (cut brush;) this forms a complete underdrain.

A soil to set the roots of the trees in, is composed of tide-washed muck, which is brackish, shell lime and the surface or alluvial earth. The trees grow with wondrous rapidity, and produce such fruit as astonished fruit growers everywhere. First premiums have been taken far and near at the largest horticultural shows. Duchess d'Angouleme were shipped to New York last season from Mr. Leighton's orchard weighing over thirty ounces, or about two pounds, forty-eight pears on the average making a bushel. This fruit brought twelve dollars per bushel, just twenty five cents apiece for the pears. They retailed at fifty cents each upon Broadway.

Mr. Leighton much prefers the standard to dwarfs, and plants his trees twenty-five feet apart each way. In a portion of his orchard he has dwarfs between the rows, but does not allow them to remain long enough to interfere with the full development of the standards.

Decomposed bone is used to revive the standards when they appear to be falling into a decline, and works to perfection. The bones are broken up into small pieces, and put into boxes or barrels with alternate layers of wood ashes, and kept moist until they are thoroughly decomposed.—Horticulturist.

Preserving Shingles on Roofs.

Some people paint roof shingles after they are laid, says the Massachusetts Plowman, which makes them really decay sooner than they otherwise would. Others paint the courses as they are laid, which is a great preservative, if each shingle is painted the length of three courses. But the simplest, surest and least expensive plan is that recommended by an old farmer, who says:

"There is one thing more, that nearly all people know, if they would only attend to it—that is, to sprinkle slaked lime on the roofs of their buildings, on rainy days. Put it on considerably thick, so as to make the roof look white, and you will never be troubled with moss, and if the shingles are covered ever so thick with moss, by putting the lime on twice, it will take it all off and leave it white and clean, and will look almost as well as if it had been painted. It ought to be done once a year, in my opinion; the shingles will last almost twice as long as they will to let the roof grow over to moss. I tried it on the back of my house ten years ago, when the shingles were covered with moss, and they appeared to be nearly rotten. I gave the roof a heavy coat of lime, and have followed it nearly every year since, and the roof is better now than it was then, and to all appearance, if I follow my hand, it will last ten or fifteen years longer. The shingles have been on the roof over thirty years. There is no more risk about sparks catching on the roof than on a newly-shingled roof. Those who do not have lime near by, can use good wood ashes, and these will answer a very good purpose to the same end."

The action of the lime is to cleanse the surface of all impediments to the free and rapid passage of the rain water off. This enables the shingles to dry very soon, and consequently prevents rotting. Moss-covered roofs will rot very rapidly.

The Vegetable Garden.

Attention should now be directed to securing a good stand of turnips. Sowing should be made at intervals of ten days or two weeks, during the present and first half of next month. Cow-penned ground, which has been broken several times during the summer, seems to be best adapted to this plant. The purple top is one of the earliest and best varieties cultivated at the South, and suits the climate better than any other. The "Johany Reb" stands the winter best, as it grows entirely in the ground. It furnishes a bountiful supply of "greens" in the spring.

A second crop of beets may be planted now. Cabbage may still be set out for winter use; insert as deep in the ground as can be done without covering the bud.

If a second crop of Irish potatoes has not been started, the first of the month is not too late. Some of the largest and finest potatoes we ever saw were raised in Marshall county, which were planted after the fifteenth of August. Plant plenty of Irish potatoes for winter use; they are good for people, and for cows and hogs. By cleaning up the garden in this month, and making compost heaps of the weeds and grass, to which salt and lime should be added to kill the seed, you will greatly expedite your spring work next year, and at the same time have several loads of good manure for the garden.—The Field and Factory.

BEES AS FRUCTIFIERS.—In addition to their value as producers of honey, wax, etc., bees perform very important functions in rendering fruitful the seed-vessels of vegetables and flowers. In New Zealand, it is said that clover, taken from England and sowed there, produced abundant crops of fodder and hay, but no seed, until the honey-bee was imported.

A CORRESPONDENT of an English paper recommends the laying of old iron about rose bushes. He finds that the iron rust acts as a tonic to the rose.

HARDWARE, STOVES, ETC.

KURSHEEDT & BIENVENU,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
Plantation and Builders' Hardware.
MARBLE, MARBLEIZED SLATE
AND IRON MANTLES,
Grates, Hearths and Fire Bricks,
NO. 114 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
my2 1y

THE UNRIVALED

BUCK'S BRILLIANT STOVE.
Every Brilliant is Fully Guaranteed.
H. HALLER,
No. 49 Camp street, New Orleans,
Sole Agent for Louisiana.

Sole Agent for the
CELEBRATED RINGEN WASHER,
In the States of Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi. oc19 1y

G. W. W. GOODWYN,
No. 52 Gravier Street,
DEALER IN
Stoves and Tinware of All Kinds.

While he is prepared to furnish, at the lowest rates, Cooking and Heating Stoves of all the various styles and patterns sold in this market, he makes a specialty of the following, to wit:

Cottage, Cricket, The Best, Relief, Gray Jacket, and Diadem.

These Stoves are sold under a guarantee, and may be returned if they do not perform well.

NOTE BY P. M. GOODWYN.—Lack of health has obliged me for a time to give up my regular calling—that of the ministry. In the meanwhile, in order to do what I can for a support, I have engaged as an assistant in my brother's establishment, as above advertised. And I take this method of soliciting from among the readers of the ADVOCATE—many of whom are my personal acquaintances and friends—a share of their patronage whenever they may have need of anything in the above line. Orders sent through their merchants, or to either of us direct, will receive prompt attention. mh7 6m

GROCERIES—GLASSWARE.

PURE LOUISIANA
SUGAR, MOLASSES AND SIRUPS.

REFINED SUGAR.—Cut Loaf, Crushed and Powdered.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

GOLDEN SIRUP.—A superior article of pure Louisiana, from the Crescent City Refinery. A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

REFINED SIRUP AND MOLASSES.—Crescent City Refinery, Orleans, Louisiana, Chalmette and Pelican brands.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

LOUISIANA MOLASSES.—Various grades of Plantation, in barrels, half barrels and kegs. A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

CLARIFIED SUGAR.—Various grades of White and Yellow, in hogsheads and barrels.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

LOUISIANA SUGAR.—Various grades of Plantation, in hogsheads and barrels.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
48 Tchoupitoulas street.

FOREIGN SUGAR.—Cuba, Demerara and Porto Rico, in hogsheads and boxes.
A. THOMSON & CO.,
my9 6m 48 Tchoupitoulas street.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,
—IMPORTERS OF—
CHINA, CROCKERY AND GLASS,
55.....CAMP STREET.....55
New Orleans.

Country dealers supplied with ASSORTED CRATES or from SHELF upon the most favorable terms.

Contents of our English Iron Stone China Dinner Set, No. 1:

12 Dinner Plates,	1 Round Soup Tureen,
12 Breakfast Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Tea Plates,	1 Salad,
12 Soup Plates,	1 PairCovered Dishes,
12 Preserve Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Pickle Dishes,
12 Tea cups and saucers	4 Meat Dishes.

112 pieces best English Ware..... $15

Our Stone China Dinner and Tea Set, No. 2, contains
158 pieces..... $25

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 1, contains

12 Dinner Plates,	4 Meat Dishes,
12 Breakfast Plates,	1 Soup Tureen, round,
12 Tea Plates,	2 Covered Dishes, oval
12 Soup Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Preserve Plates,	1 Salad,
12 Tea cups and saucers	2 Pickles,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes.

112 pieces best French Ware..... $30

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 2, contains
166 pieces..... $45

Our French China Dinner Set, No. 3, contains
255 pieces..... $65

A large variety of the best SELF-SEALING FRUIT JARS always on hand.
Sole agents for the celebrated BLANCHARD CHURN. The best churn made.
The most complete stock of HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS in the South.
W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,
ap1 6m No. 55 Camp st., New Orleans.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY.

THE NEXT SESSION OF THIS INSTITUTION will commence on
The First Wednesday in October.
It is one of the cheapest and most thorough colleges in this country. The instruction is of the highest character in all the schools of its Collegiate, Medical and Law Departments.
Board is from $10 to $16 per month.
For particulars and catalogue address Dr. A. S. Andrews or Prof. O. F. Casey.
A. S. ANDREWS, President.
GREENSBORO, ALA., July 14, 1872. au22 6t

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

CENTENARY COLLEGE,
JACKSON, LOUISIANA.

THE NEXT TERM OF THIS VENERABLE INSTITUTION OPENS ON THE FIRST MONDAY IN OCTOBER, 1872.

FACULTY.

Rev. C. G. ANDREWS, A. M., President, and Professor of Mental and Moral Science, Political Economy and International Law.
Rev. A. B. HOLCOMBE, A. M., Professor of Mathematics and Adjunct Professor of Natural Science.
G. H. WILEY, A. M., Professor of Ancient and Modern Languages.
T. S. JONES, M. D., Professor of Natural Science.
——, Principal of the Preparatory Department.

CHARGES.

Tuition, per session of forty weeks, in College	$60 00
Tuition, per session of forty weeks, in Preparatory Department	40 00
Contingent expenses	5 00

A matriculation fee of $5 must be paid on entering any regular college class. One-half the charges must be paid when the student enters; the other half on the beginning of the second term, March 1.

BOARD.

Board, including lodging, washing, lights and fuel, can be had in the best of families for $20 per month. Day-boarding with the same families, $13 per month. Rooms provided in the dormitories free of rent. Board to be paid in advance at least one month.

LOCATION.

This institution is located in the lovely village of Jackson, about twelve miles from Bayou Sara, in a grove of pine, magnolia, oak and beech. The location is remarkable for its beautiful woodlands, its bland and delightful atmosphere, its pure water, its unrivaled healthfulness, and its cultivated and refined society.

WHEN FOUNDED.

The college was established by the State of Louisiana in 1825, and ceded to the Methodist Episcopal Church South in 1845.

ALUMNI.

Its Alumni numbers 203, and they are to be found in the most honorable and useful stations in the land.

APPARATUS AND CABINET.

The college possesses a valuable set of Philosophical, Astronomical and Chemical Apparatus, and also a well-selected Mineralogical and Geological Cabinet. The apparatus includes a Theodolite, Sextant, Compass, Chronometer, Atwood's Machine, Whirling Tables, Electrical Machine, Air Pump, various combinations of the Mechanical Powers, Batteries, Chemical Tests, etc., sufficient for a thorough and extended course of observations and experiments. Steps have been taken by the Board of Trustees to put these in thorough repair.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are two regular Literary Societies connected with the Institution. These are of great utility to young men acquiring a liberal education—improving them in the art of public speaking, making them in some degree familiar with the proceedings of deliberative bodies, and in cultivating systematic business habits. Each Society has a convenient hall and a well selected library—about 1,600 volumes each, which, added to the College Library of 2,000 volumes, makes over 5,000 volumes in the college.

BUILDINGS.

The Trustees are determined to continue the repairs on the buildings till completed. The grand Center Building is a noble specimen of architectural beauty and adaptation to the purposes of its erection. The wings, built of solid brick, present each a front of two hundred feet, with upper and lower galleries the entire length, supported by Tuscan columns, and with the center making in the perspective a continuous front of 700 feet.

PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

In the Preparatory Department students are fitted for regular college classes, or may obtain a thorough English or commercial education.
ITS FACULTY are men of experience and success in teaching.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

Rev. Bishop J. C. KEENER, D. D., President, New Orleans.

Rev. J. A. Godfrey, Clinton.	Hon. A. K. Farrar, Adams county, Miss.
Hon. John McVea, Clinton.	Hon. Edward J. Gay, parish of Iberville.
Hon. and Rev. Jno. H. Muse, St. Helena par.	Samuel J. Norwood, Esq., Simmsport, La.
Hon. Edward McGehee, Woodville, Miss.	C. G. McGehee, Esq., Wilkinson co., Miss.
Hon. E. T. Merrick, New Orleans.	Rev. W. H. Watkins, D. D., Natchez, Miss.
Prof. W. H. N. Magruder, Baton Rouge.	Rev. W. G. Millsaps, Jefferson county, Miss.
Rev. John C. Miller, Jackson.	Rev. J. A. B. Jones, Port Gibson, Miss.
Rev. R. J. Harp, New Orleans.	Rev. John A. Ellis, Meridian, Miss.
Hon. J. O. Fuqua, Baton Rouge.	B. H. Moss, M. D., New Orleans.
T. F. Collins, Esq., East Feliciana.	Josiah D. Nettles, Esq., East Feliciana.
Rev. J. L. Forsythe, Jackson.	Wilmot H. Goodale, Esq., Baton Rouge.
Rev. L. Parker, D. D., New Orleans.	Rev. C. G. Andrews, Jackson, La.
D. C. Hardee, Esq., Clinton.

THE BEST ROUTE to the college is to leave the Mississippi river at Port Hudson, take the Clinton and Port Hudson railroad to Midway station, report to Captain F. J. Haynes as a student for Centenary, and he will convey you to the college, a distance of seven miles, for one dollar and a half for single passengers, or one dollar each where several are together. Address au1 6m C. G. ANDREWS, President, Jackson, La.

MARVIN COLLEGE,
WAXAHACHIE, TEXAS.

THE NEXT SESSION OF THIS SCHOOL will open on the FIRST MONDAY IN SEPTEMBER, 1872, under the supervision of Rev. J. M. PUGH, President.

COLLEGIATE DEPARTMENT.

Rev. J. M. PUGH, A. M., Professor of Moral Science and Biblical Literature.
Mr. E. F. YEAGER, A. B., Professor of Languages.
Rev. F. OLIN DANNELLY, Professor of Natural Science.
Mr. JOHN E. BISHOP, Prof. of Mathematics.

PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

Rev. JAMES D. SHAW, Principal.
Mrs. ANNIE E. BASS, Assistant.

MUSICAL DEPARTMENT.

Mr. F. H. LINDEN, Professor of Music.

PRIMARY DEPARTMENT.

Rates of Tuition—Four Months.

Primary class	$8 00
Preparatory	12 00
Higher	16 00
Collegiate	20 00
Music on piano	20 00

A small fee will be required of each student in the musical department for the use of instrument.
Every student will be charged from date of entrance till the close of session, except when providentially hindered, and all bills are due when the student enters.
Ministers' children (who are regular pastors) received free of charge.
We hope the friends of the College who have heretofore patronized this school, and others, will aid us in building up a school of high grade by sending their children and wards to this College, guaranteeing them as favorable privileges as at any other school in the State.
Board can be had for $12.50 per month.
F. P. RAY,
President Board of Trustees.
JAS. E. SMITH, Secretary. au1 1m

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE,
AT BATON ROUGE, LOUISIANA.

THE EXERCISES OF THIS SCHOOL will be resumed on Wednesday, the Second of October next.
For circulars, with all necessary information, apply to Rev. R. J. Harp, 112 Camp street, New Orleans, or to myself, at Baton Rouge, Louisiana.
au1 6m W. H. N. MAGRUDER.

MARTHA WASHINGTON COLLEGE,
ABINGDON, VA.,
ON THE VIRGINIA AND TENNESSEE RAILROAD.

$105 IN ADVANCE will pay Board and Tuition for five months in this institution, beautifully situated amid the mountains. For healthfulness, high grade and extent of instruction, and excellence of facilities, no institution in the land surpasses this.
Session begins SEPTEMBER 19.
For catalogue or particulars apply to
REV. W. G. E. CUNNYNGHAM, D. D.,
Or R. W. JONES, M. A., President.
jy25 2m

RANDOLPH MACON COLLEGE,
Ashland, Hanover Co., Va.,

OFFERS, ON VERY LOW TERMS, THE advantages of thorough instruction, high grade of scholarship, best religious influences in a refined community, and at a location remarkable for healthfulness—just sixteen miles north of Richmond, on the R., F. and P. Railroad. Only $110 will pay all necessary for the half session! For catalogue address
REV. JAS. A. DUNCAN, D. D.,
President, or
REV. ALEX. G. BROWN, Sec.,
jy25 2m P. O., Ashland, Va.

MEMPHIS CONFERENCE
FEMALE INSTITUTE,
JACKSON, TENNESSEE.
REV. A. W. JONES, D. D., PRESIDENT.

THIS OLD AND POPULAR INSTITUTION is most favorably located at the junction of the Mobile and Ohio and Mississippi Central railroads, in the healthy, intelligent, refined and religious community of Jackson, and furnishes all the advantages of a first-class Female College. The best professors and teachers employed. The discipline mild, firm and parental. The course of study thorough and extensive. The library large and valuable. The chemical and philosophical apparatus ample and appropriate. The buildings and grounds well arranged, commodious and beautiful. The conveniences and accommodations in all departments complete, excellent and satisfactory. The attention to the health, manners and comfort of pupils constant and faithful. For more than seventeen years no young lady has died within the walls of the institute, while the cases of severe sickness have been few.
Fall session begins on the FIRST MONDAY IN SEPTEMBER, and the opening address and concert on the following Tuesday evening. Spring session begins on the fourth Monday in January. Commencement day, the second Wednesday in June.

TUITION.

Collegiate department	$25 00
Music and use of piano	30 00
Latin and French, each	10 00
Board, washing, etc	90 00

Other charges moderate. Payments one-half in advance. For particulars address the president, or jy11 4m PROF. A. B. JONES, A. M.

TENNESSEE FEMALE COLLEGE,
FRANKLIN, TENNESSEE.
Rev. R. K. Hargrove, A. M., President.

FALL SESSION FOR 1872 opens on Thursday, SEPTEMBER 5.
Its organization and equipment are complete, and its facilities of the highest order.
It will not substitute graduation for education.
Not one of its hundreds of pupils, for sixteen years past, has ever died in attendance on it.
Board and Collegiate Tuition, including French and Latin, one year, $220. To itinerant Ministers, literary tuition free, and board on special terms.
Circulars sent on application. au1 2m

Kentucky Wesleyan University,
MILLERSBURG, KENTUCKY.

SESSION FOR 1872-73 OPENS SEPTEMBER 16, 1872, and closes June 4, 1873.
The expense of the entire session can be brought within $240 by those who pay tuition, and $10 less by those who come on scholarships. All bills due the University are payable strictly in advance. Board bills are payable monthly.
This University is situated in the heart of the Blue Grass region of Kentucky. Climate invigorating and healthful. The Faculty of Instructors is now full. Persons seeking a good school for their sons are invited to correspond with the President, or A. G. Stitt, Financial Secretary, or to send for catalogue.
jy18 10t B. ARBOGAST, President.

ATHENS FEMALE INSTITUTE,
AT ATHENS, ALABAMA,

IS UNDER THE PATRONAGE OF THE North Alabama Conference. The next session will open on
The First Monday in September.
Our arrangements are all complete. A corps of able Teachers, a full course of study, thorough drilling and strict discipline have secured its gratifying success.
Board and tuition in Literary Department, one year, $210.
REV. J. M. WRIGHT,
au8 2m President.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ARE YOU GOING EAST OR NORTH?

[redacted]

Take the Iron Mountain, and Chicago and Alton Railroads,

THE ONLY ALL-RAIL ROUTE FROM all points South to

CHICAGO.

The only line running the Pullman Palace Cars from all points South to St. Louis and Chicago.

Passengers by this line arrive in Chicago one hour in advance of all competing lines, and avoid 25 miles of steamboat transfer, and the annoying changes of cars incident to other lines. For all points in the Northwest, St. Paul, Milwaukee, or all points in the Canadas, New York, Boston and all Eastern cities, this is the pleasantest and most direct route. Parties going East via this line can lay over in Chicago and visit the Burnt District, and resume their trip at their leisure. Fare as low as by all other routes. Tickets to be had at all ticket offices in the South.

W. R. ALLEN,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent,
Iron Mountain Line, St. Louis.
JAMES CHARLTON,
General Ticket and Passenger Agent,
Chicago and Alton Line, Chicago.
D. A. FREER,
my30 4m Southern Traveling Agent.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY
Established in 1837.
Superior Bells for Churches, Schools, etc., of Pure Copper and Tin, fully warranted, and mounted with our Latest Improved Rotary Hangings, the best in use.
Illustrated Catalogue sent free
VANDUZEN & TIFT,
102 & 104 E. Second St., Cincinnati
fe22 1y

WM. PHILLIPS, UNION STABLES, 180 Calliope, near St. Charles street, has every accommodation in the line of Pleasure and Family Carriages, such as hacks, brettes, phætons, buggies, etc., for the use of the public, and at rates to correspond with the stringency of the times. All hacking done below tariff rates. Orders for weddings, balls, picnics, races, etc., will be attended to so as to guarantee satisfaction. I am also prepared to hire vehicles (alone) to parties having their own horses. de14 1y

SHERMAN HOUSE, NO. 1 WEST TWENTY-Sixth street, New York.—MR. ELKINS, Proprietor. Strangers visiting New York, desiring the comforts and retirement of a home and attendance of a hotel, in a first-class central location, can find the same at from $25 to $40 per week for a gentleman and wife; transient, $3 per day; American plan; lodgings, $1. je27 3m

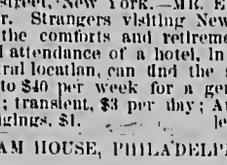
BINGHAM HOUSE, PHILADELPHIA,
Corner of Eleventh and Market Sts.
CARLIS DAVIS, PROPRIETOR.

This popular Hotel being centrally located and accessible by street cars from all depots, makes it a desirable stopping place for travelers. It will be conducted in the same liberal manner as heretofore, it being the intention of the proprietor to maintain the reputation it has always enjoyed, of being in all respects a first-class hotel.
Terms, $3 a day. au8 1y

SMITH, ENGLISH & CO.,
BOOKSELLERS AND IMPORTERS,
(ESPECIALLY OF THEOLOGICAL BOOKS,)
No. 710 Arch street, Philadelphia.
S., E. & Co. have on hand the best and most complete assortment of THEOLOGICAL BOOKS for sale in the country. Send for Complete Classified Catalogue, 25 cents, or with Alphabetical Index 50 cents—the best guide to purchasers in this department ever published. au15 2m

MEDICAL.

MRS. M. G. BROWN'S



CELEBRATED

POOR RICHARD'S

EYE-WATER

derives its name from Benjamin Franklin's Almanac, which is immortal for its philosophical sayings, one of which is: "An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure."

Giving the Eyes a drink, morning and night, of

POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER

would prevent every disease which attacks the human body, thus lengthening life to an indefinite period.

The Body is of the Earth, and the Eye is a Plant, which requires moisture.

The dust received into the eyes daily works itself into mortar, which clogs the machinery of the head, and closes up the right thousand tubes and glands around the eyes; the balls contract and sink; they grow to the socket, and consequently the revolving power is impeded. This is what causes the blood-streaks, the dark greenish color of the balls, and scum.

When the eyes are neglected the entire machinery of the face becomes distorted; even the countenance is changed. How true: "The light of the body is the eye." It is as necessary to give the eye moisture as any plant of the field.

Language fails to make known the salutary effects upon the entire mental and physical machinery arising from giving the eyes a drink of POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER, morning and night; also the fearful consequence of neglecting so to do from the cradle to the grave.

POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER
Prevents Catarrh.

POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER
Cures Catarrh,
Opens the 8,000 tubes and glands in the head,
Prevents tightness and pains in the head,
Opens and keeps open the mucous membrane,
Removes phlegm from throat and chest.

POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER
Removes Wrinkles and Blotches,
Gives large, sparkling eyes,
Gives a clear, smooth complexion,
Lifts sunken eyes,
Strengthens weak eyes.

POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER
Removes tan freckles,
Gives blooming cheeks,
Removes all inflammation,
Cures all kinds of headache,
It penetrates through the eyes into the gums
And preserves the teeth,
Gives the sweetest breath,
Opens the gates for rivers
To pass from the head into the system.

POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER
Cures tan, freckles and grubs,
Is clear and beautiful,
Same taste as the tear.

POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER
Restores the memory, brightens the intellect.

Price, Twenty-five cents per bottle. Sold by druggists.
E. A. HART & Co.,
Wholesale Agents,
73, 75, 77 and 79 Tchoupitoulas street,
New Orleans.
☞ Inclose ten cents to the METAPHYSICAL UNIVERSITY, 51 Bond street, New York, for Mrs. M. G. Brown's pamphlet of sixty-eight pages, giving a synopsis of the Cause, Cure and Prevention of Disease; worth mines of gold to both sick and well. au15 1y

COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

PRICE, HINE & TUPPER,
General Commission Merchants,
FACTORS, AND
Agents of Attakapas Mail Transportation Co.,
NO. 26 CARONDELET STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Advances made on consignments to T. Tupper & Sons, Charleston, S. C.; Williams, Hirnle & Co., and Leverich & Co., New York. no21y

W. H. SUTTON. J. R. POWELL.
SUTTON & POWELL,
COTTON FACTORS
AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
186.....COMMON STREET.....186
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
se21 1y

H. F. GIVEN. LUCIEN J. DOIZE.
H. F. GIVEN & CO.,
COTTON, TOBACCO AND SUGAR FACTORS,
—AND—
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 64 Baronne street, New Orleans.
oc5 1y

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.
AIKEN & WATT,
Cotton Factors and Commission Merchants,
60.....CARONDELET STREET.....60
NEW ORLEANS.
Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. no2 1y

J. L. DUNNICA, New Orleans. T. A. HAMILTON, Memphis.
O. P. HARRISON, New Orleans.
J. L. DUNNICA & CO.,
FLOUR, PRODUCE AND PROVISION
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
50.....TCHOUPITOULAS ST.....50
NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA.
oc22 1y

J. U. PAYNE. W. H. DAMERON. H. M. PAYNE
PAYNE, DAMERON & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
64 & 66....BARONNE STREET....64 & 66
Between Union and Gravier streets,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
le19 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,
Cotton Factors and General Commission Merchants,
31.....PERDIDO STREET.....31
oc3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

G. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER. E. T. MERRICK,
Former Ch. Jus. La.
RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,
Attorneys, Counselors and Solicitors,
Cor. of Camp street and Commercial Place,
se25 NEW ORLEANS.

W. W. EDWARDS,
COUNSELOR AT LAW
AND
COMMISSIONER OF DEEDS.
No. 88 Common street,
se14 1y New Orleans.

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,
DENTAL SURGEON,
152.....JULIA STREET.....152
All operations in Operative, Mechanical and Surgical Dentistry carefully performed. Nitrous Oxide and other Anæsthetics administered. no30 1y

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,
Office—680 Magazine Street,
Between Philip and First sts., New Orleans.
Will call daily at College building, corner Common and Baronne streets, between eleven and twelve o'clock. je29 1y

PUBLICATIONS FOR ALL

Prominent Benevolent Organizations.

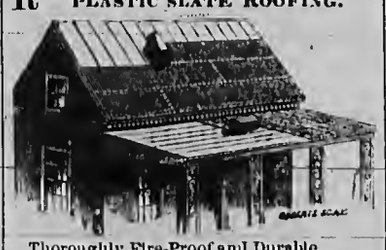
FRATERNITY.

100,000 SOLD!—Masonic, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Red Men, Mechanics, Temperance, etc.

Sale unrivaled by anything heretofore offered. Agents with no experience are selling 20 Pictures and upward a day. One of our agents has cleared over $1,200 in three months. The Brethren welcome these works. Our inducements are UNPRECEDENTED. Our commissions are positively one-fourth larger than any other house does or CAN offer. Send for circular of Order to which you belong, giving No. of your Lodge, and state where you saw this advertisement. You will certainly engage with us.

J. HALE POWERS & CO.,
Fraternity Publishers,
my9 7m Cincinnati, Ohio.

READY-PREPARED
PLASTIC SLATE ROOFING.



Thoroughly Fire-Proof and Durable.

Adapted to any style of roof, steep or flat. Can be applied by any one. Its cost on the roof is less than shingles in nearly every section of the country, and the water from it is of the best quality. Sample sent on application to

EDWARD THOMPSON, Manufacturer,
je27 6m 184 Peters street, New Orleans.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE ILLUSTRATED
HISTORY OF THE BIBLE
By Wm. SMITH, LL.D.
AUTHOR OF SMITH'S BIBLE DICTIONARY.

It contains over 250 fine Scripture Illustrations and 1,105 pages, and is the most comprehensive and valuable History of the Bible ever published. The labor and learning of centuries are gathered in this one volume to throw a strong, clear light upon every page of the inspired Word.

AGENTS WANTED. Send for circulars and see our terms and a full description of the work. Address
NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.,
au1 1m Philadelphia, Pa.

AGENTS WANTED TO SELL PARTON'S LIFE OF
HORACE GREELEY,
The Patriot, Statesman and Philanthropist.

Every citizen who is interested in the remarkable career of our next President should read the truthful story of his life, as told by the greatest American Biographer. A work of rare interest, and full of instruction. For circulars and terms address,
NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.,
jy25 2m Memphis, Tenn.

BUSINESS CARDS.

E. HEATH. M. LARA. J. P. HEATH.
HEATH, LARA & HEATH
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
UPHOLSTERERS' MATERIALS,
WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES,
CORNICES AND CURTAIN GOODS,
Pictures, Frames, Moldings, Looking Glasses and Clocks,
NO. 90 CAMP STREET.
no16 1y NEW ORLEANS.

THE MITCHELL & RAMMELSBERG
FURNITURE COMPANY,
Manufacturers and dealers in all kinds of
Furniture, Mattresses, Looking Glasses,
ETC., ETC.,
103 and 105 Camp street, cor. Poydras,
Moresque Building, New Orleans,
have the largest and best assortment of FURNITURE of any house in the city.
Please give us a call before purchasing elsewhere. my23 1y

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
CANAL ST., COR. ROYAL, NEW ORLEANS,
IMPORTERS OF
WATCHES, JEWELRY, CLOCKS,
PLATED WARE, HOUSEKEEPING GOODS,
Cutlery, Guns, Pistols, Bronzes, Porcelain and Fancy Goods.
MANUFACTURERS OF
PURE COIN SILVERWARE.
Watches and Jewelry carefully repaired. Every article sold fully guaranteed.
no23 1y

J. THOMSON. G. THOMSON. W. B. THOMSON.
J. THOMSON & BROS.,

Manufacturers of
Carriages, Barouches, Buggies, Phaetons,
SPRING WAGONS, ETC.
68 and 70 Rampart Street,
Bet. Common and Gravier, New Orleans, La.
Repairing done in all its branches. no30 1y

LOUISIANA STEAM
SASH, BLIND AND DOOR FACTORY,
ROBERTS & CO., PROPRIETORS,
301, 303, 305 and 307 Gravier Street,
NEW ORLEANS. my30 1y

JAMES M'CRACKEN. GEO. E. BREWSTER.
M'CRACKEN & BREWSTER,
DEALERS IN FURNITURE,
Nos. 37, 39 and 41 Royal street.
Manufactory, corner Derbigny and Customhouse streets, New Orleans. my9 6m

JOHN I. ADAMS & CO., (JOHN I. ADAMS, JAY L. ADAMS, GEO. W. WEST, WM. H. RENAUD.)
WHOLESALE GROCERS,
AND DEALERS IN
PROVISIONS, LARD, OILS, ETC., ETC.,
43, 45 and 47 Peters street,
(Formerly New Levee.)
mh21 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ELON G. SMITH. J. L. CHEATHAM. J. W. DRAUGHON.
SMITH, CHEATHAM & CO.,
(SUCCESSORS TO ELON G. SMITH & CO.)
PORK PACKERS,
Provision and Commission Merchants,
CORNER THIRD AND SPRUCE STREETS,
SAINT LOUIS.
We solicit orders from the trade for goods in our line. oc26 1y

C. SAMPSON. F. C. SAMPSON.
SAMPSON BROTHERS,
Late C. C. Sampson,
FURNITURE,
33 & 35 ROYAL STREET 33 & 35
NEW ORLEANS.
Established in 1845. au1 1y
Carpet Warehouse—17 Chartres Street.

A. BROUSSEAU & CO.,
Importers and dealers, at Wholesale and Retail, in English and American Carpetings,
Floor Oil Cloths, Table and Enameled Oil Cloths,
Window Shades, Table and Piano Covers,
Curtain Cloths, in squares or pieces,
Curtain and Furniture Materials,
Brocatelles, Cotelenes, Terries, Reps, Lace and Nottingham Lace Curtains, Haircloth Ticking, Springs, Burlaps, Step Covers, etc.
no23 1y A. BROUSSEAU & CO.

JOHN LAZARUS,
PRACTICAL OPTICIAN,
6.....ST. CHARLES ST.....6
Near Canal, New Orleans.
Sole Agent for the celebrated Fantascopic Star Spectacles and Eye Glasses. mt.21 6m

T. H. McMAHAN & CO.,
BANKERS,
And Dealers in Foreign and Domestic Exchange,
GALVESTON, TEXAS.
We have prompt and reliable correspondents at all the principal points throughout this State, and upon all collections payable in this city or Houston make no charge for collecting, and only actual charge upon interior collections.
Immediate and prompt attention given to all business intrusted to us. feb1 1y

RICHARD BRODERICK,
CISTERN MAKER,
132.....Julia street.....132
Bet. Camp and Magazine, New Orleans.
Second hand Cisterns always on hand. All work guaranteed.
All orders left at Box 30, Mechanics' and Dealers' Exchange, will meet with prompt attention. my2 1y

HILL & VEAZIE,
74.....Camp street.....74
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
LAMPS AND OILS, CHANDELIERS,
Globes, Chimneys, Shades, Trimmers, Wicks, Cans, Fillers, etc.
PRATTS' ASTRAL OIL, non-explosive and non-inflammable. ja18 1y

R. H. NOBLE. J. R. WOODS.
NOBLE & WOODS,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS,
Nos. 9 and 11 Delta street, and 10 and 12 Front street,
ja16 1y NEW ORLEANS, LA.

JOHN D. MACLIN, (Late H. B. Maclin.) L. C. MACLIN,
COAL! WOOD! COAL!
Pittsburg, Anthracite and Cannel Coal, Oak, Ash and Pine Wood, at the lowest market rates, delivered to any part of the city.
Offices—26 Carondelet street, and corner of Third and Tchoupitoulas. mh7 1y

MENEELY'S BELLS.

THE genuine Troy Church Bells known to the public since 1826, which have acquired a reputation unequaled by any, and a sale exceeding that of all others—including more than seventy chimes and peals. One thousand testimonials received during the last six years. Every Bell made of best Copper and Tin, and formally warranted. New Patent Rotary Fixtures. Catalogues free. No agencies.

Post office address, either TROY or WEST TROY, New York.
je13 1y E. A. & G. R. MENEELY.

"Southern Books for Southern Schools."

School-Books which are Unsectional, Unpartisan, and Unpolitical.

PREPARED BY THE MOST EMINENT SOUTHERN SCHOLARS, AND

ENTIRELY ACCEPTABLE TO SOUTHERN TEACHERS AND PARENTS.

The University Publishing Co.,

An Association composed of many of the several Southern States, feel-ing the necessity for a series of School Books which should be en-unpolitical, and in their teaching thought and feeling of the Southern people—which should present only the facts of history and science—are now issuing a complete series of School and College Text-books and educators named below, which are now in use by the most eminent citizens of the most eminent Southern scholars are the

Cheapest, Best, and Most Beautiful School-Books

Now published. The "University Series" embraces

MAURY'S GEOGRAPHICAL SERIES,

By Commodore M. F. MAURY, of the Virginia Military Institute. "A series of books which mark an era in the study of this science, and which, in the words of a well known and accomplished Southern teacher, "are characterized by a felicity of arrangement and simple freshness of style which must ever render them attractive to the young, and which will be used by all who wish to teach Geography as a science, as something to make pupils think, and not merely as an enumeration of dry facts."

Holmes' Readers and Spellers,

By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL.D., Professor of History and General Literature in the University of Virginia. A series of Readers unequalled in cheapness, excellence, and typographical beauty. They are steadily progressive in character, bright and fresh in their selections of prose and verse, and illustrative of Southern scenes, incidents, and history.

Venable's Arithmetical Series,

By CHARLES S. VENABLE, LL.D., Professor of Mathematics in the University of Virginia. These books are received everywhere by intelligent teachers with the highest satisfaction, as being most admirably adapted for mental drill, as well as for business education. Their methods, rules, and reasonings are clear, distinct, logical, and comprehensive, and the series is carefully graded throughout.

Holmes' History of the United States,

By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL.D., of the University of Virginia. It is enough to say of this admirable work, interesting, impartial, and truthful, as well as pure and graceful in style, that it is the only History of the United States which is acceptable to Southern teachers and parents. It comes down to the present date.

THE "UNIVERSITY SERIES" OF SCHOOL-BOOKS

COMPRISES, ALSO,

De Vere's French Grammar, Readers, etc.,
By M. SCHELE DE VERE, LL.D., Professor of Modern Languages in the University of Va.

Gildersleeve's Latin Series,
By B. L. GILDERSLEEVE, Ph.D., LL.D., of the University of Virginia.

Carter's Elements of General History,
By Rev. J. P. CARTER, A.M., of Baltimore, Maryland.

Holmes' English Grammars,
By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL.D., of the University of Virginia.

LeConte's Scientific Series,
By the Professors LECONTE, late of the University of South Carolina.

Johnston's English Classics,
By R. M. JOHNSTON, A.M., late Professor of Rhetoric and Belles-Lettres in the University of Georgia.

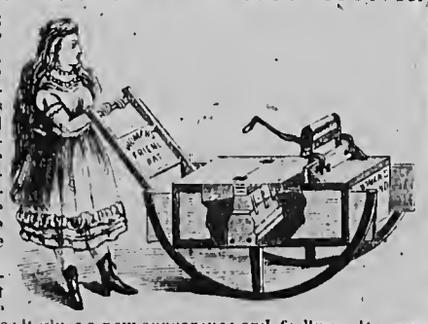
To which list other books in other departments will early be added.

Send for our full ILLUSTRATED DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, which will be mailed free to any teacher or school officer. Liberal terms given for introduction.

Address
UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING COMPANY,
155 and 157 Crosby Street, New York.

☞ A full supply of "The University Series" always on hand, and teachers and schools supplied by R. J. HARP, Bookseller, 112 Camp St., New Orleans,
And by all prominent booksellers throughout the South.
W. IRVING CLARKE, the General Agent, will furnish any information, and afford every facility to teachers for examining the series. Office—92 CAMP ST., New Orleans. mh7 1y

WOMAN'S FRIEND WASHING MACHINE.



THE UNDERSIGNED OFFERS THIS Machine to the public as the Simplest and Best Washing Machine of the age, while the cost is the lowest. It is the invention of a Kentuckian, and is operated by rocking, and washes the clothes by beating, instead of rubbing. It will wash sixteen shirts or twenty-five ordinary pieces of clothing or two single blankets at a time, and it will thoroughly wash, rinse and blue one hundred pieces ordinary clothing in forty-five minutes, without the least wear of the clothing, the breaking of a button or the pulling of a thread.

The most delicate fabrics can be washed with it without the least injury. It gives a grass-bleached whiteness to the clothes. To blankets and woolen clothes it gives a new appearance and feeling. Its construction is so simple that it will last for years with care, and costs less than wash-tubs in the aggregate. Any one can repair it, as there are no cog-wheels or cranks to replace.

The directions for its use are very simple, and every Machine will do as represented if the directions are followed. It is a most excellent Wool-washer likewise. Send for circular and certificates of its merits.

PRICE, $12. WITH WRINGER, $18.

EDWARD THOMPSON, Manufacturer and Proprietor,
je27 6m 184 Peters street, near Julia, New Orleans.

THE UTICA STEAM ENGINE CO.,

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN, Agent, NO. 9 UNION STREET, New Orleans.
Formerly WOOD & MANN.

These Engines are so well and favorably known that a description of them here is not deemed necessary.

They are EQUALLED by FEW, SURPASSED by NONE, perfect in workmanship, complete in appointments, safe, simple and substantial. Every boiler is practically tested before leaving the factory. By the use of a CIRCULATING WATER BOTTOM around and underneath the furnace, which lessens the

RISK FROM FIRE,

they are particularly adapted for GINNING COTTON. Engines of all sizes, at prices which challenge comparison for equal size of steam cylinder and measurements of boiler. A full stock of these Engines will be kept constantly on hand by the undersigned, who has been appointed general agent.

H. DUDLEY COLEMAN,
No. 9 Union street,
mh21 6m New Orleans, La.

Carpet and Oil Cloth Warehouse.

J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.
ELKIN & CO.,
168.....CANAL STREET.....168
Near Baronne, New Orleans,
IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF ENGLISH CARPETINGS, RUGS, Etc.
—ALSO—
Oil Cloths, Mattings,
Lace and Damask Curtains,
Window Shades, etc.,
—AND A—
Complete Assortment of Upholstery Goods.
fe8 1y

SAVE $20.

THE NEW WILSON
UNDER-FEED.
The Best and Cheapest First-Class Shuttle SEWING MACHINE In the World.
Agents Wanted.
WM. GREGG & Co.
General Southern Agents, No. 189 Canal street, New Orleans, La.
je27 6m

fe11 1y

AGENTS WANTED TO SELL THE ILLUSTRATED
HISTORY OF THE BIBLE
By Wm. SMITH, LL.D.,
AUTHOR OF SMITH'S BIBLE DICTIONARY.

It contains 243 fine Scripture Illustrations and over 1,100 pages, and is the most comprehensive and valuable History of the Bible ever published. The labor and learning of centuries are gathered in this one volume to throw a strong, clear light upon every page of the inspired Word.

Send for circulars, and see our terms and a full description of the work. Address
NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.,
274 and 276 Second street,
au1 6m Memphis, Tenn.

EXCHANGE HOTEL,
JOHN SUMMERS, PROPRIETOR,
GALVESTON, TEXAS.
☞ This is the only Hotel in the city which has FREE OMNIBUSES to and from the cars and boats for the use of guests. Ask for Exchange Hotel Omnibus. feb1 1y

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

VALUABLE BOOKS.

THE ENCYCLOPEDIA OF ANECDOTES Knowledge. New revised edition. Designed as a complete book of reference on all religious subjects. Illustrated by wood-cuts, maps and engravings on copper and steel. Royal 8vo., sheep, extra, $6.

THE COMPREHENSIVE COMMENTARY on the Holy Bible. Six volumes, including Supplement, sheep, library style, $20.

COLEMAN'S HISTORICAL TEXT BOOK and Atlas of Biblical Geography. By Rev. Lyman Coleman, D. D. Imperial 8vo., new edition. Cloth, $2.

LABBERTON'S HISTORICAL SERIES.

LABBERTON'S OUTLINES OF HISTORY, with Original Tables, Chronological, Genealogical and Literary. By Prof. Robert H. Labberton, LL. D. Oblong 4to., cloth, $2.

LABBERTON'S HISTORICAL QUESTIONS, logically arranged and divided. Oblong quarto, cloth, $1.75.

LABBERTON'S HISTORICAL ATLAS, containing One Hundred Colored Maps, illustrating successive periods, from the Dawn of History to the Present Day. One volume; oblong quarto, cloth, $3.50.

For sale by booksellers generally.
CLAXTON, REMSEN & HAFFELFINGER,
au22 3m Publishers, Philadelphia.

JUST PUBLISHED.

AT THE ALTAR.
A ROMANCE.
From the German of E. Werner,
Author of "Hermann," "The Hero of the Pen," etc.
BY J. S. L.
12mo. Fine Cloth. $1.50.

A spirited translation of a powerful story, whose concentrated and able plot and delicate characterization give to it an unusual degree of interest.

THROWN TOGETHER.

A Story. By FLORENCE MONTGOMERY, author of "Misunderstood," "A Very Simple Story," etc. 12mo. Fine cloth. $1.50.

"A thoroughly delightful story—sunny, fresh, piquant and winsome."—Boston Journal.

BY HIS OWN MIGHT.

A Romance. From the German of WILHELMINE VON HILLERN, author of "Only a Girl," etc. 12mo. Fine cloth: $1.75.

"Full of life and character, overflowing with vigorous and true studies, possessing very great delicacy in the treatment of emotion, and very great beauty and freshness in dealing with nature."—New Haven Palladium.

For sale by booksellers generally, or will be sent by mail, postpaid, upon receipt of the price by
J. B. LIPPINCOTT & CO., Publishers,
au22 2t 715 and 717 Market st., Philadelphia.

A POPULAR MUSIC BOOK!
AT A POPULAR PRICE!
"THE SCEPTER,"
By Dr. A. BROOKS EVERETT,
ONLY $1.00.—BY THE DOZEN, $10.50.

"THE SCEPTER" contains a large variety of most valuable material, embracing Hymn-tunes, Anthems, Glees, the "Everett System of Teaching Vocal Music," etc., by the well-known professor of music, Dr. A. Brooks EVERETT, recognized throughout the Southern States as a most successful and popular teacher of the art of singing, as well as the author of many of the most popular tunes contained in the Tabor or Richmond Collection.

"THE SCEPTER"

also contains contributions by Profs. R. M. McIntosh, B. H. Everett and other well-known composers, as well as a large number of old standard tunes.

☞ Every Choir Leader and Teacher of Music should examine "THE SCEPTER."
Sent, post paid, on receipt of $1.

PUBLISHED BY
BIGLOW & MAIN, NEW YORK,
SUCCESSORS TO WM. B. BRADBURY,
Publishers of the most popular series of SUNDAY SCHOOL SONG BOOKS—Golden Chain, Shower and Censer, Fresh Laurels, Bright Jewels, Pure Gold, etc. For sale by Booksellers generally.
All publications of Biglow & Main are for sale by ROBT. J. HARP, Agent, 112 Camp street, New Orleans. jy18 3m

SWINTON'S CONDENSED
SCHOOL HISTORY.
(From the Virginia Educational Journal.)

Mr. Swinton's reputation led us to examine this book. What is of most importance in the work is its extreme fairness. It is vastly superior, in this respect, to any history issued at the North that we have seen. Where accuracy seems almost impossible, he comes nearer to the truth than the others.

NEW SCHOOL BOOKS.

SWINTON'S WORD ANALYSIS.
CATHCART'S YOUTH'S SPEAKER.
ARITHMETICAL EXAMPLES (Mental and Written.)
KERL'S SHORTER COURSE IN GRAMMAR.

☞ A Descriptive Catalogue of the American Educational Series, and our Educational Reporter, mailed free to any address upon application.

Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co.,
Or T. MORONEY, General Agent,
mh28 1y 92 Camp street, New Orleans.

Uniform Lessons for 1872.

FOR TEACHERS.—The Sunday School World contains the explanations and studies prepared by Rev. John Hall, D. D., for teachers.

SCHOLARS' PAPER.—With the text of the lesson, and suggestive helps for the study of it; and questions at the foot of each page, to be answered in writing by the scholar.

INTERMEDIATE LESSON PAPER.—Adapted to the use of less advanced scholars, with questions and explanations.

Price of each Lesson Paper of four pages, at the rate of 75 cents per 100 copies for one month, or $9 per 100 copies yearly.

☞ Catalogues of the Society's publications and sample copies of its periodicals furnished gratuitously on application at the Depository of the AMERICAN SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION,
au1 3m 1122 Chestnut st., Philadelphia.

MINERAL SPERM OIL.
GUARANTEED AS SAFE AS SPERM OR LARD OIL.
It Will Not Take Fire in Case of Breakage of the Lamp.

THE OIL WILL EXTINGUISH the FLAME.

The Oil itself has no odor while burning. It gives a Light of TEN-CANDLE POWER at a cost not exceeding ONE-HALF CENT PER HOUR, and for lighting railroad cars, steamers, factories and dwelling houses it is invaluable and cannot be too highly recommended.

The Oil is patented, and made by a process which insures its uniformity.

It burns with great brilliancy in the
DUAL BURNER,
requires but little attention and no trimming. The Oil never gums in the lamp, as it absorbs no oxygen from the atmosphere. It does not deteriorate by age. This Burner fits all ordinary coal oil lamps.

BOSTICK & SEYMOUR,
Sole Agents for Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi and Texas,
45 and 47 Front st., and 46 and 48 Fulton st.,
mh28 6m New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

(From the New Orleans Price Current.)

The weather has been clear and warm. Our accounts from the country have been more discouraging, rather from the effects of drought than from the worms, although the latter are still regarded with serious apprehensions. The receipts of new crop to date amount to 953 bales from the Mississippi valley, and 209 from Texas, making a total of 1,162 bales, against 17 last year, of which 7 were from Texas.

The river is 12 feet 8 inches below high water mark.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the twenty-third instant:

Louisiana and Mississippi.....bales..	645
Lake.....	4
Texas.....	48
Total.....	697

On Saturday the sales embraced 140 bales, taken by three brokers, at full prices for low middling to middling. Good ordinary sold at 18c., and strict do. at 18¼c., showing no improvement, low middling at 19¼, 19⅜@19½c., strict do. 19⅝@19¾c., and middling at 20@20⅛c. At the close good ordinary was still quoted at 18@18½c., and low middling at 19¼@19¾c., the outside figures in both cases for strict. On Monday, with a better supply, buyers came forward with increased spirit, and took 487 bales at still fuller prices, a strong style of low middling selling at 19¾c., strict do. at 20c., middling at 20⅛, 20⅜@20½c., and strict middling also at 20½c. Quotations were raised ¼c. On Tuesday the demand continued good, but operations were restricted by scant supplies, and the sales did not exceed 233 bales. Prices at the same time ruled more in favor of factors. Low middling sold at 20c., strict low middling at the same, and middling at 20⅜@20½c. (which was the ruling rate,) although 20⅝c. was refused for a desirable lot, which could not be classed as strict, but was held at 20¾c. We heard of no good ordinary on sale.

The receipts proper at this port, since the first of September (exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas,) are 955,106 bales, against 1,444,637 bales to the same date last year, and the decrease in the receipts at all the ports, up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 1,277,784 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same date last year, there is an increase of 44,874 to France, and a decrease of 904,267 to Great Britain, and of 334,878 to other foreign ports.

We quote:

Good ordinary.....	19¼ @ 20
Low middling.....	20¼ @ 20½

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1871, bales.		25,323
Arrived past three days..	697
Arrived previously.....	1,052,132
Waste and damaged cotton, samples, etc.....	14,939	1,067,768
		1,093,091
Exported past three days.	203
Exported previously.....	1,086,100	1,086,303
Stock on hand and on shipboard..		6,788

SUGAR.—The market continues quiet and firm, with a fair local demand for grocer's trade. There were sales and resales on Saturday and Monday of 150 hhds., mostly in the sheds, some on the landing, at 8c. for inferior, 9c. for common, 9¼c. for good common, 10c. for fair, 10⅞c. for strictly prime, and 11@11½c. for yellow clarified. Some 300 hhds. good fair to prime Porto Rico sold on private terms, and there were resales of 110 hhds. of the same at 10⅛@10½c. ₱ lb.

MOLASSES.—The receipts consist of a few bbls. poor and thin, now and then, which sell at 25@30c. per gallon. City refinery is selling at 30c. for inferior, 40c. for common, 50c. for fair, 55c. for prime, 60c. for choice, and 80c.@$1 ₱ gallon for golden sirup.

CORN.—On Tuesday the market was dull, and the sales were confined to 3,500 sacks at 55@56c. for yellow and mixed, 62c. for white mixed, and 62@65c. for choice white.

OATS.—On Tuesday the market was very dull, and the sales were confined to 750 sacks at 32c. for inferior new, 34c. for new, and 40c. for choice St. Louis.

BRAN—Has been in good supply and moderate demand at previous prices. The sales on Saturday and Monday embraced 3,200 sacks at 90@95c. ₱ 100 lbs. On Tuesday 1,000 bags sold at 95c. ₱ 100 lbs.

PORK.—On Saturday 100 hbls. mess sold at $14.87½. On Monday and Tuesday there were no sales. Mess is quoted, in round lots, at $14.75@$15 ₱ bbl.

BACON.—On Tuesday there was no movement worthy of note excepting 29 casks, in three lots, at 8¾c. for shoulders, and 12c. for clear sides. Shoulders were quoted firm at 8¼c., clear rib sides 11¼c., clear sides 12c. ₱ lb.

HAMS.—On Monday 10 tierces sold on the spot, and 100 to arrive, at 17½c. On Tuesday 20 tierces sold, on the spot, at 17½c., and 10 at 18c. ₱ lb.

LARD.—On Tuesday there was no movement of note excepting 25 kegs refined at 12c. ₱ lb., an advance.

DRY SALT MEAT.—The stock of shoulders is small, and sides are scarce. The supplies coming in are small and are mostly consigned to dealers. Dealers are retailing shoulders at 8c. ₱ lb., and sides at 9½c. for clear rib, and 10c. for clear sides.

BREAKFAST BACON.—The market is bare of Western. It is in demand, and commands, as received, 15c. ₱ lb. On Tuesday 32 boxes Western sold, in three lots, at 15c. ₱ lb. Northern is dull at 11c. ₱ lb.

BEEF.—We quote Texas mess $11@$12, extra mess $12.50 ₱ bbl., and $7@$7.50 for half bbls. Tierces are quoted at $17@$17.50 for mess, and $18@$18.50 for prime mess. Northern $15.50@$16 for bbls., and $9 for half bbls.

MONETARY.

Gold opened on Tuesday at 112½@112¾ (against 112⅝ at New York, and closed at 112¾@113 (against 112¾ at New York.)

Nothing has been reported in silver. American half dollars are now quoted at 108@108½, and Mexican dollars at 3½@4½ ₱ cent. premium in gold.

New Orleans Wholesale Prices.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
Agricultural Implements:
Cotton scrapers	4 50	6 00
Cotton sweeps	4 50	6 00
Cultivators, Diam. & shovel-tooth	7 75	10 50
Cultivators, riding	45 00	60 00
Cultivators, walking	30 00	35 00
Shovels	7 50	14 50
Spades	7 50	16 50
Axes	10 00	15 00
Potato diggers	13 50	— —
Shovel plows	6 00	7 00
Half do., with cutters	8 00	9 00
Manly's D. S plow	6 00	9 75
Corn mills, Coleman's	120 00	425 00
Bread, ₱ 100 lbs:
Pilot	5 00	6 00
Loaf	— —	— —
Crackers	5 00	12 00
Navy	— —	4 00
Cream crackers	11 00	12 00
Bricks, ₱ M:
Lake	13 00	16 00
English fire	— —	50 00
American fire	40 00	— —
Candles, ₱ lb:
Sperm, New Bedford	33	36
Tallow	16	18
Chocolate, ₱ lb:
Cocoa	38	60
No. 1	50	52
Sweet and spiced	25	— —
Cider, ₱ bbl:
Western	— —	— —
Coal, ₱ ton:
Anthracite	12 00	13 00
Western, ₱ bbl	— —	55
Corks, ₱ 1000:
Regular	— —	— —
Pointed	— —	— —
Coffee, ₱ lb:
Havana (currency)	25	28
Java	25	27
Cordova	— —	— —
Copper, ₱ lb:
Brazlers'	48	— —
Copper bolts	48	— —
Yellow metal	30	32
Cordage, ₱ lb:
Manilla	19	20
Tarred, American	— —	16
Russian	16	— —
Cotton seed:
Rough, ₱ ton	— —	13 00
In sacks	17 00	17 50
Dyes, ₱ lb:
Logwood, Camp'y	4	4¼
Logwood, St. Domingo	4¼	4¾
Fustic, Tampico	5	6
Indigo, ₱ lb	1 40	1 60
Madder	15	18
Eggs, ₱ dozen:
Western	10	17
Feathers, ₱ lb	65	— —
Fish, ₱ box:
Cod	1 40	— —
Herrings	35	— —
Mackerel, No. 1, ₱ bbl	13 00	— —
Mackerel, No. 2	10 50	— —
Mackerel, No. 3	8 00	— —
Flaxseed, ₱ lb	6	— —
Flour, ₱ bbl:
Double extra	6 00	6 12½
Superfine	5 00	5 25
Fine	4 25	4 50
Fruit, ₱ lb:
Prunes	10½	13
Currants, new	9	10
Almonds, soft shell	17	18½
Almonds, shelled	30	— —
Glass, ₱ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	3 50	4 00
French, 10 by 12	3 75	4 25
French, 12 by 18	4 00	4 50
Gunny bags, ₱ bag	18	— —
Hay, ₱ ton:
Prime	27 00	28 00
Choice	— —	30 00
Iron, ₱ ton:
Pig	54 00	55 00
Country bar, ₱ lb	— —	— —
English	5½	7½
Swedes, assorted	6½	8½
Hoop	6½	8
Sheet	7½	8½
Boiler	8	9½
Nail rods	— —	9
Castings, American	5½	6
Lead, ₱ 100 lbs:
Pig	— —	9 50
Bar, ₱ lb	8¼	8½
Sheet	12	— —
Pipe	12	— —
Leather, ₱ lb:
Sole, hemlock	33	34
Sole, oak	37	43
Harness	38	45
Calf skins, ₱ dozen	42 00	70 00
Texas, rough, ₱ lb	24	26
Lime, ₱ bbl:
Western	1 25	1 75
Cement	2 50	3 00
Plaster Paris	4 00	— —
Lumber, ₱ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	13 00	15 00
Boards, cypress	25 00	30 00
Flooring, dressed	25 00	30 00
Flooring, rough	15 00	18 00
Ceiling, dressed	20 00	25 00
Weatherboards, dressed	19 00	20 00
Weatherboards, rough	13 00	15 00
Scantling	13 00	15 00
Shingles, ₱ M	3 50	4 25
Laths	2 50	3 00
Moss, ₱ lb:
Country picked	4½	6
Clean picked	6½	7
Nails, ₱ keg:
American, 4@6d	5 60	5 75
Wrought, German, ₱ lb	14	16
Wrought, English	14	16
Oils:
Lard, ₱ gallon	— —	70
Coal oil, in barrels	26	28
Coal oil, in cases	32	35
Linseed, raw	90	92
Sperm	— —	2 00
Whale, refined	95	1 00
Cotton seed, crude	— —	46
Cotton seed, refined	60	65
Castor	1 65	1 85
Olive, 22@24 oz	6 00	6 50
Olive, 11@12 oz	7 00	7 25
Tanner's, ₱ gallon	75	85
Soap, ₱ lb:
Western	5½	7
Northern	5½	7
Southern	4½	6½
Castile, genuine	12	— —
Castile, imitation	11	— —
Sardines:
Half boxes	34	35½
Quarter boxes	21½	22½
Spices, ₱ lb:
Cassia	36	38
Cloves	19	20
Nutmegs	1 20	1 25
Pepper	21	21½
Pimento	12	12½
Sugar, ₱ lb:
Havana, white	13	— —
Havana, yellow	10½	11½
Havana, brown	10½	11
Crushed	13½	13½
Pulverized	13½	13½
Teas, ₱ lb:
Imperial	45	1 10
Gunpowder	75	1 50
Hyson	75	1 25
Young Hyson	75	1 10
Oolong	45	1 10
Pouchong	30	50
Tin, ₱ box:
Block	— —	— —
In plates, I. X	16 25	— —
In plates, I. C	16 00	— —
Leaded plates, I. X	17 25	— —
Leaded plates, I. C	15 00	— —

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 27, 1872.

Texas beeves, choice, ₱ head	$50 00	@	55 00
Texas beeves, 1st qual, ₱ head	35 00	@	45 00
Texas cattle, 2d qual, ₱ head	20 00	@	28 00
Texas cattle, 3d qual, ₱ head	14 00	@	18 00
Western beeves, ₱ lb. net	10	@	13
Hogs, ₱ lb. gross	4½	@	6
Sheep, first quality, ₱ head	5 00	@	6 00
Sheep, second qual., ₱ head	3 00	@	4 00
Sheep, third quality, ₱ head	2 00	@	2 50
Milch cows, choice, ₱ head	80 00	@	100 00
Milch cows, ₱ head	50 00	@	60 00
Texas cows, with calves	— —	@	— —
Calves, ₱ head	7 00	@	10 00
Yearlings, ₱ head	8 00	@	12 00

Special Notices.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting at Hill's chapel, commencing on Friday before the fourth Sabbath in September, and continuing until the following Wednesday. Hill's chapel is in Montgomery county, Alabama, twenty-eight miles southeast of the city of Montgomery, seven miles east of Athens, five miles southwest of Pine Level, and twenty miles northwest of Troy. It is designed to make this camp ground self-supporting, and therefore, while everybody is invited, we request that all who can will come in their wagons, prepared to care for themselves. A public lot will be adjacent to the camp ground. Preachers, traveling and local, are invited.

WILLIAM A. SAMPEY, Pastor.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting held at Indian Village, Castor circuit, Louisiana Conference, to commence on Wednesday before the first Sabbath in October, on the self-sustaining plan. Persons living at a distance, and desiring to tent, can have a tent built to order by addressing Rev. J. H. Landers, Forksville, Louisiana. A general invitation to ministers is hereby given.

J. W. HEARN, P. C.

Debate.

Rev. D. M. Hudson, of the Alabama Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and Elder J. M. Pickens, of the Christian Church, will discuss the Subjects, Design and Mode of Christian Baptism, and probably also the question of Denominational Names and Written Creeds, in the Baptist church at Pineapple, Wilcox county, Alabama, at the southern terminus of the Selma and Gulf railroad. The debate will commence on Tuesday, September 24, 1872, at ten o'clock A. M., and continue some eight or ten days

Camp Meeting.

A camp meeting will be held on Clear creek, Rapides parish, twelve miles north of Alexandria, on the old telegraph road to Harrisonburg, beginning on Thursday, September 19, 1872. The Alexandria District Conference will be held at the same time. All ministers, all members of the Quarterly Conferences and all friends are earnestly requested to attend and assist in the meeting.

JOHN F. WINN, P. C.
FRED. WHITE, P. E.

Camp Meeting.

A camp meeting will be held on Spring creek, thirty miles southwest of Alexandria, near Burr's ferry, on the road from mouth of Red river to the Sabine, and on the Opelousas and Natchitoches road, beginning on Friday, October 11. All ministers and all friends are earnestly requested to give us their attendance and assistance.

FRED. WHITE.
S. H COOPER.
C. KEENER.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting on the Gaston circuit, Demopolis district, Alabama Conference, three miles west of DeSotoville, in the northern portion of Choctaw county, Ambanta, commencing on Friday before the first Sabbath in October. Provision will be made for all visitors. Ministers of the gospel are cordially invited.

C. H. DUBOSE, P. C.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting on the Paulding circuit, Meridian district, Mississippi Conference, commencing on Thursday before and embracing the fifth Sabbath in September. It will be conducted on the primitive style. Provision will be made for all ministers and persons living at a distance. Persons living within fifteen or twenty miles of the camp ground must not expect accommodations from the citizens or tent-holders. All ministers are respectfully invited and urged to attend. There will be conveyance for ministers at Enterprise on Thursday morning.

J. H. HOLLAND, P. C.

Shreveport District Conference.

The several brethren are requested to preach on the following subjects at our District Conference, to be held at Keachie, Louisiana, commencing on Thursday, September 26, viz.:

1. On the Obligation to Support the Ministry—Rev. C. H. Stuart.
2. On the Obligation and Manner of Keeping Holy the Sabbath Day—Rev. John Wilkinson.
3. On the Importance and Design of Infant Baptism—Rev C. W. Carter.
4. On Missions—Rev. A. W. Williams.
5. On the Utility of Camp Meetings—Rev. R. Parvin.
6. On Faith or Trust in God—Rev. H. L. Smith.
7. On Experimental Religion—Rev. J. M. Franklin.
8. On Christ a Present Savior—Rev. W. D. Stayton.

JOHN PIPES, P. E.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting at Providence church, five miles east of Sparta, Louisiana, commencing on Friday evening, September 13, 1872. The people are requested and invited to come in their wagons, provided to take care of themselves. The brethren and friends will please meet me at the place appointed, to select the place for their tents and prepare the ground, on the third day of September. Ministerial brethren are especially invited.

PHILIP ALLEN, P. C.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting at China Grove, Dale county, Alabama, commencing on Friday before the second Sunday in September. The itinerant and local ministers of the Methodist Episcopal Church South are respectfully invited.

A. S. DICKINSON, Pastor.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting, commencing on the sixth day of September, half-way between Pleasant Hill and Mansfield, in DeSoto parish, Louisiana. The people are expected and requested to come with wagons and tents, provided to take care of themselves. It is a new camp ground, and we do not know of any public entertainment.

R. PARVIN.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SEASHORE DISTRICT.—FOURTH ROUND.

Mount Carmel, at Mount Moriah	Aug. 17, 18
Williamsburg miss., at Ivy creek	24, 25
Columbia, at Byrd's chapel	31, Sept. 1
Pearlington, at Jordan river	Sept. 7, 8
Ocean Springs, at Biloxi	14, 15
White Plains, at Poplar Head	21, 22
W. Pascagoula, at Mulberry Grove	28, 29
Green mission	Oct. 5, 6
East Pascagoula, at Salem camp ground	12, 13
Enon, at Enon	19, 20
Rankin	Nov. 30, Dec. 1

C. F. GILLASPIE, P. E.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Spring Hill ct., at Linwood (camp meeting)	Sept. 21, 22
Shubuta, at Shubuta	28, 29
DeKalb ct., at New Hope (camp meeting)	Oct. 5, 6
Wayne circuit, at Frost's Bridge (camp meeting)	12, 13
Paulding circuit	19, 20
Enterprise station	26, 27
Clarke circuit	Nov. 2, 3
Enterprise ct., at Pleasant Valley	9, 10
Marion circuit	16, 17
Meridian station	30, Dec. 1

The preachers' meeting will be held at Meridian, Mississippi, on Wednesday after the first Sunday in September. Question for discussion continued from last meeting, viz.: Will the future happiness of those who are saved be greater than if man had not fallen?

WM. B. HINES, P. E.

WOODVILLE DISTRICT.—FOURTH ROUND.

Woodville	Oct. 5, 6
East Feliciana	12, 13
Clinton	19, 20
Buffalo	26, 27
Bayou Sara	Nov. 2, 3
Wilkinson	9, 10
Meadville	16, 17
Amite	23, 24
East Baton Rouge	30, Dec. 1
Jackson	Dec. 8, 9

For four long weeks I have been confined to the room of my afflicted wife, so that I have missed three of my appointments; but my dear brother, President Andrews, has and will supply my lack of service.

J. L. FORSYTH, P. E.

JACKSON DISTRICT.—FOURTH ROUND.

Jackson station	Sept. 14, 15
Canton station	21, 22
Madison ct., at Madison station	28, 29
Sharon circuit, at Sharon	Oct. 5, 6
Yazoo circuit, at Locust Grove	12, 13
Yazoo City and Silver Creek, at Yazoo City	19, 20
Mount Olivet circuit and Yazoo mission, at Mount Olivet	26, 27
Carthage circuit	Nov. 2, 3
Sulphur Springs circuit	9, 10
Raymond circuit, at Raymond	16, 17
Brownsville ct., at Queen's Hill	21, 24
Camden and Thomastown circuits	30, Dec. 1

The secretaries of Church Conferences will please present the report of statistics, as required by the Discipline, pages 55 and 56. The trustees of our church property will please make their report, as required by the Discipline, pages 55 and 102.

H. H. MONTGOMERY, P. E.

VICKSBURG DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Rocky Springs, at Steele chapel	Aug. 3, 4
North Warren, Hillsdale and Sunflower, at Beechland	10, 11
Cayuga, at Bear Creek	17, 18
South Warren, at Red Bone	24, 25
Clover Hill, at Tallula	30, Sept. 1
Rolling Fork	Sept 7, 8
Fayette, at Belle Grove	14, 15
Kingston	21, 22

JOHN A. B. JONES, P. E.,
Port Gibson, Miss.

SUMMIT DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Amite City	Aug. 3, 4
Covington	10, 11
Greensburg	17, 18
Big Creek	24, 25
Franklinton	Sept. 7, 8
St. Helena	14, 15

The Summit District Conference will commence at Tangipahoa, Louisiana, on Friday, September 27, and embrace the fifth Sunday.

J. NICHOLSON, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Beauregard, at Beauregard	Aug. 3, 4
Georgetown, at Georgetown	10, 11
Jackson, at Forest Hill	17, 18
Bogue Chitto	24, 25
Brookhaven and Brookhaven mission	31, Sept. 1
Crystal Springs and Crystal Springs mission	Sept. 14, 15

The District Meeting will be held September 14-15, at nine o'clock A. M., at Crystal Springs. Bishop J. C. Keener will preside. A camp meeting is in prospect at the same time and place, on the plan recommended by the last District Conference.

W. E. M. LINFIELD, P. E.
Post Office, Hazlehurst.

BRANDON DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Decatur mission, at Hebron	Aug. 3, 4
Lake circuit, at Scotland chapel	10, 11
Morton circuit	24, 25
Trenton circuit	31, Sept. 1
Raleigh circuit	Sept. 7, 8
Taylorville mission	14, 15
Garlandsville circuit	21, 22

F. M. WILLIAMS, P. E.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

DEMOPOLIS DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Gainesville, at Ramsey	Aug. 3, 4
Cuba, at York	10, 11
Bladen, at Providence	17, 18
Butler, at Bright Water	24, 25
Gaston, at Thompkinsville	31, Sept. 1

S. H. COX, P. E.

MOBILE DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Mount Pleasant, at Red Hill	Aug. 3, 4
Grand Bay mission, at Ellington	10, 11
Pollard ct., at Shepherd's chapel	17, 18
Pensacola	24, 25
Milton	31, Sept. 1

H. URQUHART, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Caddo circuit, at Friendship	Aug. 17, 18
Mansfield circuit, at Forest Grove	24, 25
Keachie circuit, at Bell Bower	31, Sept. 1
Pleasant Hill circuit, at Bethel	Sept. 7, 8
Springville circuit, at Coushatta Academy	21, 22
Manny circuit, at Bayou Lee	Oct. 5, 6
Anacoco circuit, at Kasatchie	12, 13
Shreveport	19, 20

The District Conference will be held at Keachie, commencing on Thursday, September 26, at ten A. M. The Bethel camp meeting will commence on the sixth of September, and the Beulah camp meeting will commence September 11.

JOHN PIPES, P. E.

LAKE PROVIDENCE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Waterproof, at Tensas chapel	Aug. 3, 4
Wesley and Jordan, at Jordan	10, 11
Lake Providence, at Illawarra	17, 18
Bastrop, at Island Desaird	24, 25
Floyd and Delhi, at Midway	31, Sept. 1
Oak Grove, at Oak Grove	7, 8
Lind Grove, at Lind Grove	14, 15
Sicily Island, at Bœuff Prairie	22, 23
Winnsboro, at Oakley	28, 29
Rayville, at Little Creek	Oct. 6, 7

J. T. DAVIS, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

New Iberia	Aug. 3, 4
Bayou Bœuff	10, 11
Plaquemine Brulee	24, 25
Coulee Croche	31, Sept. 1
Abbeville	Sept. 7, 8

I hope to spend at least five days at each quarterly meeting.

B. F. WHITE, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Quarterly Conference at Algiers	Aug. 4
Felicity street	11
German charges—Quarterly Conference at Dryades street	16
Plaquemine	Sept. 1
Morgan street	15
Baton Rouge	Oct. 5, 6

LINUS PARKER, P. E.

MINDEN DISTRICT.—THIRD ROUND.

Sparta, at Sparta	Aug. 10, 11
Mount Lebanon, at Athens	17, 18
Bisteneau, at Liberty chapel	31, Sept. 1

The District Meeting for Minden district will be held at Minden, commencing Wednesday, October 2, including the first Sabbath in the month. Preachers and official members of the church within the bounds of the district are specially invited. Visiting ministers will be heartily received.

N. M. SKIPWORTH, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

YAZOO DISTRICT.—FOURTH ROUND.

French Camps circuit, at Liberty	Sept. 14, 15
Richland circuit, at Goodman	21, 22
Valden circuit, at Enon	28, 29
Attala circuit, at Pleasant Hill	Oct. 5, 6
Winona circuit, at Bethesda	12, 13
Greenwood and McNutt, at Greenwood	19, 20
Lexington	26, 27
Durant, at West's station	Nov. 2, 3
Kosciusko and Bethel, at Kosciusko	9, 10
Black Hawk, at Sweetwater	16, 17

W. P BARTON, P. E.

N. B.—Camp meetings at Liberty and Durant quarterly meetings.

DRY GOODS—CLOTHING.

D. H. HOLMES,

155.....CANAL STREET.....155

—AND—

15.....BOURBON STREET.....15

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER

—IN—

ALL DESCRIPTIONS

—OF—

DRY GOODS,

—SUCH AS—

SILKS, TISSUES, EMBROIDERIES, LACES, SHAWLS, CLOAKS, MADE SUITS, ETC.

The attention of the public is respectfully called to our stock, which will be found most complete, embracing every kind of Fancy and Staple Goods.

ap25 6m

W. H. PIERSON. E. L. HEWS.

PIERSON & HEWS,

DEALERS IN

Fine Clothing & Furnishing Goods,

NOS. 13 AND 15 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

feb15 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE GREAT HOUSEHOLD REMEDY.

As an Invigorator, Liver Corrector and Blood Renovator is superior to all the bitters, Elixirs, Cordials and Sarsaparillas in use. It is so adapted to the whole system that every organ and function in the body is brought under its exhilarating influence. It gives tone and strength to the digestive apparatus, dispels languor and debility, invigorates the liver, regulates the Kidneys and Bowels, removes the effect of excess or overtaxation of any kind, and gives vitality and richness to the blood.

Its curative powers alter and completely reorganize the entire mass of fluids, and even the solids of the human system, thereby preventing and curing Dyspeptic and Consumptive symptoms, Fever and Ague, Bilious diseases, Fevers of all kinds, Nervous Debility, Affections of the Stomach and Bowels, etc. As a mild and delightful Invigorant for delicate females it has no superior.

By its use new life and vigor is given to both body and mind, sending a glow of vitality through every part, which is permanent and lasting.

It is the most effectual remedy for the relief of human suffering ever discovered, and is pleasant to the taste.

WE CHALLENGE THE WORLD

to produce a more delicious medicine to take, yet so potent for the prevention and cure of diseases, than DR. HENRY'S

WORLD'S TONIC AND BLOOD PURIFIER.

Price, $1, or Six Bottles for $5.

Prepared by the GRAFTON MEDICINE Co., St. Louis, Mo. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicines everywhere. jy18 1yeow

AGENTS WANTED—for the Lives of

Grant Greeley

WILSON BROWN and the leading men of all parties. Over 40 Steel Portraits, worth twice the cost of the book. Wanted everywhere. Agents have wonderful success. Send for circular. Address

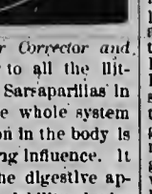
ZIEGLER & McCURDY,
au15 2m 503 N. Sixth st., St. Louis, Mo.

The Records of Tests

AT LOWELL, MASS., PROVE

N. F. BURNHAM'S

New Turbine



WATER WHEEL

superior to all others. It gave a higher percentage than any other wheel of common finish. Pamphlet and Price List by N. F. BURNHAM, York, Pa. ap25 6m

BREWER & HILTON,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Thomas Worsley's Celebrated Fancy, Shaving and Toilet Soaps,

Also J. D. SMITH & CO.'S world-renowned Pearl Powders, Lily Whites, Rouges, etc.,

NO. 114 ARCH STREET, PHILADELPHIA.

All goods warranted. au8 3m

A GRADUATE OF SOME EXPERIENCE, who can teach all the branches usually taught in Female Colleges, desires a situation. Prefers a select school in some village or good neighborhood. For information address REV. S. P. RICHARDSON,
Je6 3m Summerfield, Alabama.

STEAMSHIPS.

New Liverpool Line of Steamers,

Built expressly for the New Orleans trade, to cross the Bar at all times without detention,

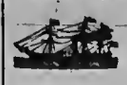
Liverpool and Mississippi Steamship Company.

First-class Powerful Screw Steamers,

ST. LOUIS, Capt. Roberts	1,827 tons,
MEMPHIS, Capt. Weeks	2,500 "
MISSISSIPPI, Capt. Lebonche	2,500 "
VICKSBURG, Capt. Pierson	2,500 "
BELGIAN, —— ——	2,150 "
TEXAS, —— ——	2,500 "
MISSOURI, (building)	2,500 "

Are intended to sail from Liverpool as follows:

Steamship ST. LOUIS, August 10, 1872.
Steamship BELGIAN, August 31, 1872.



FOR LIVERPOOL DIRECT—
The steamship
ST. LOUIS,
Roberts, commander,

Sails SEPTEMBER —, 1872, at 8 A. M., from her wharf, foot of St. Mary street, Fourth District. Will receive and sign through bills of lading to Havre, Bremen, Hamburg, Antwerp, Rotterdam and all Continental ports.

Parties desirous of sending for their friends can purchase prepaid emigration tickets here. A reduction allowed when applied for in groups.

For freight or passage, having superior accommodations, apply to

MEEKER, KNOX & CO.,
49 Carondelet street.

Managing owners—FLINN, MAIN & MONTGOMERY, 12 Launcelot Hay, Chapel street, Liverpool. nu15 3m

FOR NEW YORK.

The Cromwell New York and New Orleans Steamship Line.

Steamers of this Line leave New Orleans for New York EVERY SATURDAY at 5 P. M.

Cabin passage	$50 00
Steerage passage	25 00

Through bills of lading to foreign and coastwise ports issued.

ALFRED MOULTON,
mh21 1y 41 Carondelet street.

FOR NEW YORK.

MERCHANTS' STEAMSHIP LINE.

Sailing from New York and New Orleans EVERY SATURDAY.

Cabin passage	$50 00
Steerage passage	25 00

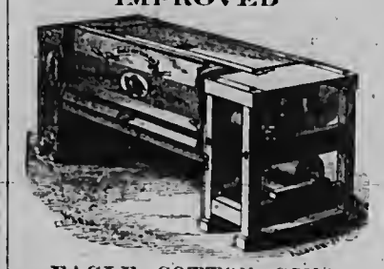
Through tickets to Liverpool and the Continent.

New Orleans wharf, foot of Jefferson street. New York wharf, Pier No 4, North river.

JOHN H. LUDWIGSEN, Agent.
feb8 1y No. 190 Common street.

MISCELLANEOUS.

IMPROVED



EAGLE COTTON GINS.

THE GREAT POPULARITY of the EAGLE COTTON GINS is established from the well-known fact that they are the most reliable, strongest and best built Cotton Gins ever made. The Eagle Cotton Gin runs lighter than any other gin, thus having a great advantage for planters who wish to run by horse power. All the numerous planters who use the Eagle Cotton Gin will certify to the fact that when their cotton is sent to market it always brings the highest market price, as no other gin can produce a finer or a better sample of cotton than the Eagle Cotton Gins. Over seventeen thousand of the Eagle Cotton Gins have been made and sold. During a period of twenty years the undersigned has had the agency of the Eagle Cotton Gin in New Orleans. He has never had a gin returned or rejected out of the immense number sold. The saw cylinders of all the Eagle Cotton Gins are twelve inches in diameter, which is two inches larger than most other kinds of gins, thus giving our forty-saw gin more teeth, and they are more than equal to the fifty-saw gins of other makers, who use only a ten-inch cylinder, and the same great advantage of the twelve inch cylinder in larger sized gins can be easily estimated. Planters who wish a reliable cotton gin, with an established reputation, can purchase an Eagle Cotton Gin with a certainty that they are not making an untried experiment, but will obtain a cotton gin which is indorsed by the oldest and largest planters in the country as the best in use. A large stock of the Eagle Cotton Gins are always kept on sale in New Orleans, ready for immediate shipment. Planters should be particular to state if they want right or left-hand motion gins.

PRICES.

40-Saw Gin	$200	65-Saw Gin	$325
45-Saw Gin	225	70-Saw Gin	350
50-Saw Gin	250	75-

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. XVIII. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1872. NO. 36.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

MEMPHIS, Aug. 28.—A letter from a prominent cotton factor of this city, written from Indian Bay, Arkansas, says: Owing to the drouth, no rain having fallen in that section for seven weeks, cotton will not yield more than one-third of the usual average. His information from other portions of the State confirm previous reports that only half a crop will be made.

Planters from west Tennessee and north Mississippi state that the drouth is causing the cotton to rust and shed, and, unless they have rain very soon, the late cottons will be an entire failure and early planting will suffer seriously.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., Aug. 28.—Reports from all sections of the State say the present drouth has injured the cotton crop one-third. Heat continues.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—Arrangements have been effected whereby Colonel Thomas A. Scott's Texas and Pacific Railway Company succeeds to all the rights and property of the San Diego and Gila Railway Company.

The Texas Pacific railroad receives the right of way through San Diego city and county, one hundred acres of tide lands on San Diego bay, and the terminal depot lot, covering a space of six kundred by fifteen hundred feet.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—The Inter-Ocean published the following:

NEW YORK, August 29, 1872.

My Dear Sir: I was and am in favor of the Louisville movement. Even the mere profession of adherence to Democratic ideas must soon disappear if, without any marked dissent, the party can be transferred to its deadliest foe.

CHARLES O'CONOR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The steamer Metis, the Providence steamer, is reported wrecked off Stonington, last night. Her passengers were picked up off Watch Hill this morning. Over one hundred passengers were on board.

This far eighty-five persons have reported themselves. The rest are supposed to have been lost. Many of those saved from a watery grave will die.

STONINGTON, CONN., Aug. 30.—The following is the statement of Captain Charles L. Burton, of the steamer Metis: We left New York at 5 15 P. M. on the twenty-ninth of August. The weather was overcast and rainy, with a fresh breeze from the southeast. At 3.40 A. M., when between the two lighthouses of Montauk Point and Watch Hill, about five miles off Rhode Island shore, the propeller was run into by an unknown schooner, striking us forty feet abaft of stem, or nearly abreast of the pilot house.

The propeller was immediately stopped and turned round, and we endeavored to find the vessel, but failed. I sent mates and pilot below to ascertain if the propeller was making any water. They reported to me she was not, and we considered the damages very slight; we then proceeded on our way to Providence.

After running a few moments the engineer reported that the steamer was rapidly filling. I immediately headed for the nearest shore, and used every exertion in my power to save the passengers and crew. At this time the wind was blowing a strong gale from the southeast, accompanied by heavy rain. It soon became evident that the steamer must go down. It was not longer than half an hour from the time she was headed for the shore till she sunk.

The lifeboats were lowered at once and filled with persons anxious to be saved.

One of the boats was swamped, but was soon righted by the chief engineer, who was in her. He sculled her up to the wreck, and she was again boarded with success.

About fifty persons were left on the upper deck, which drifted with the gale. The storm still continued, and although several vessels came in sight, none recognized us. We continued in this condition until about eight o'clock A. M., when we drifted on the beach, about half a mile from Watch Hill. The surf was high and our danger was increased. By this time quite a number of people from Watch Hill hotel were on the beach proffering aid, but all was of no use to us.

The roar of the surf prevented any communication, and it was evident to us that the deck on which we floated must soon go to pieces. In a few moments the breaking up commenced, and we were all thrown into the surf. By the exertions of those on shore nearly all were saved from the pilot-house and upper works. I am unable to say at present how many of the crew and passengers were lost with the hulk.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 30.—An accident occurred to the passenger train which left here at eleven o'clock last night on the Louisville Short Line railroad, caused by a misplaced rail, near Verone, Kentucky. The locomotive, tender and three cars rolled down an embankment forty-five feet, turning over several times. The fireman was instantly killed, and the baggagemaster badly hurt. It is reported that the rail was misplaced maliciously, and that a similar attempt was made on Tuesday night at the same place.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—The United States steamer Hassler, with Prof. Agassiz and party on board, has arrived.

BROWNSVILLE, TEXAS, Aug. 31—Particulars of another outrage, committed a few days ago, within twenty miles of this city, have been received. Mr. Estrand, while en route for this place from Rio Grande City, was attacked by four Mexicans belonging to Dejon's band, who robbed him of $150, and all his clothing, even to his hat. The robbers were well mounted, and were armed with revolvers and Winchester rifles.

Affairs in the neighboring republic are becoming settled, and large quantities of goods are being daily sent from Matamoras into the interior.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The number of lives lost by the Metis disaster is now reduced to twenty-two. Several bodies at Watch Hill await identification.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The best accounts place the loss by the Metis disaster at forty to fifty.

A Stonington dispatch says one hundred and seven persons have been saved from the wreck of the Metis, twenty-five known to be dead, and twenty-three missing.

MONTPELIER, VERMONT, Sept. 3.—Seventy-six towns elect 71 R publicans, 4 Democrats, and one Greeley man for the Legislature. The vote for Governor in fifty-seven towns stands: 15,337 for Converse, 6,524 for Gardner. The straight Republican ticket is apparently all elected.

MONTGOMERY, Sept. 3.—Caterpillars have stripped the Alabama cotton as bare as frost. Some cotton fields, it is said, are so overrun that the worm could be ladled up in furrows by the handful. Such multitudes caused terrible alarm at first, because of the eating of half-grown bolls. But things are quieter now and planters more hopeful. They still insist that without high prices the crop will not pay the cost of producing it.

FOREIGN.

ROME, Aug. 28.—Cardinal Angelo Quoglia died suddenly to-day. He was seventy years old.

MADRID, Aug. 28.—Complete returns of elections for members of the Cortes have been received. They show that 11 Alphonzists, 3 Montpensierists, 10 Unionitice dynastiasts, 3 Sagostaists, 80 Republicans and 290 Radicals were chosen.

Emilio Castellar and Admiral Malcampo were among the successful candidates. Senor Rios Rosas was defeated.

HAVANA, Aug. 30, via Key West, Aug. 31.—Captain Jefferson Maury, of the steamship Bienville, arrived here this morning from Nassau, New Providence, and reports the burning of the Bienville at sea.

The Bienville left New York August 10, for Aspinwall.

When in latitude 25.12, longitude 74 15, at 3.45 A. M., August 15, fire was discovered among the cargo. Steam and water were immediately turned on, but the steam pumps, after a few revolutions, broke down and could not be used.

Out of one hundred and twenty-seven persons on board the Bienville, thirty-four are unaccounted for; nineteen were lost. The bodies of six persons were recovered, and buried at James Point.

The schooner William Magee took thirty-four of the survivors, on the twenty-fourth, to Baltimore, and subscriptions were started at Nassau to aid the sufferers.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—Duc de Noailles, the minister of France to the United States, telegraphs from Washington that he has met with the most cordial and friendly reception from the American government.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—A dispatch from Bombay reports the cholera raging in many places in India, and there are numerous deaths daily from the scourge.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—Pere Hyacinthe has written a long letter to Le Temps, in which he announces and defends his approaching marriage.

CANTERBURY, Sept. 3, 11 P. M.—The flames now have perfect hold on the eastern end of the roof of the Canterbury cathedral over the altar and shrine of Thomas A'Becket. The direction of the wind is favorable to the spread of the fire, and it is feared the entire structure will be destroyed.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Additional dispatches from Canterbury report that the fire has been completely extinguished. The shrine of Thomas A'Becket has not been injured. The mosaic pavement of the cathedral is covered with melted lead. The altar was deluged with water. The interior of the edifice is filled with smoke. It has been the habit, the past three hundred years, to hold religions services in the cathedral daily. This custom was not broken by the fire, as services were held after the suppression of the flames.

LISBON, Sept. 3.—The royal mail steamer reports the yellow fever in Rio Janeiro.

THE following is the fusion ticket recently agreed upon by the committees of the Liberal and Democratic parties of Louisiana:

For Governor—John McEnery, of Ouachita.

For Lieutenant Governor—Davidson B. Penn, of Orleans.

For Secretary of State—S. Armistead, of Caddo.

For Auditor—James Graham, of Orleans.

For Attorney General—H. N. Ogden, of Orleans.

For Superintendent of Public Education—R. M. Lusher, of Orleans.

For Congress—State at Large—George A. Sheridan, of Orleans.

First District———

Second District—R. L. Gibson, of Orleans.

Third District—W. Mouton, of Vermilion.

Fourth District—Long Term—E. C. Davidson, of Sabine.

Short Term—A. Boarman, of Caddo.

Fifth District—G. W. McCranie, of Ouachita.

"THAT'S ME!"—A Hottentot in Southern Africa lived with a pious Dutchman, in whose house family prayer was engaged in daily. One day he read (Luke 18:) "Two men went up into the temple to pray." The poor black man, whose heart was already awakened, looked earnestly at the reader, and whispered: "Now I'll learn how to pray."

The Dutchman read on; "God, I thank thee I am not as other men."

"No, I am not; but I am worse," whispered the Hottentot.

Again the Dutchman read: "I fast twice in the week; I give tithes of all that I possess."

"No; I don't do that. I don't pray in that manner. What shall I do?" said he.

The good man read on until he came to the publican, who "would not lift so much as his eyes to heaven."

"That's me!" cried his hearer.

The farmer went on with the reading: "Stood afar off." "That's where I am," said the Hottentot. "But smote upon his breast, saying, God be merciful to me a sinner." "That's me! that's my prayer!" cried the poor creature. And, smiting on his breast, he prayed: "God be merciful to me a sinner," until, like the poor publican, he went down to his house a saved and happy man.

Notice.—Brookhaven District.

MR. EDITOR: Please state in the ADVOCATE that the District Conference to be held at Cryatal Springs will begin at eleven o'clock A. M. on Thursday, the twelfth instant.

My attention has been called to the notice in the ADVOCATE for the fourteenth. That is the day for the Quarterly Conference.

Yours truly,

W. E. M. LINFIELD.

HAZLEHURST, MISS., Sept. 2, 1872.

A TEHERAN LETTER, in a local Greek paper, states that more than one hundred thousand men, women and children have perished in the Persian capital from famine and plague, and that the number of victims throughout the country is not less than three million. The Bagdad official paper states that more than two hundred and ninety Persian families have within the last few days emigrated into the Ottoman territory.

TWO THINGS indicate an obscure understanding—to be silent when we ought to converse, and to speak when we should be silent.

FROM THE WORK.

REV. J. W. MCCANN, writing from Newbern, Alabama, August 16, says:

Please say to the friends of the church that I have just closed a good meeting at Sardis, Greene circuit. We expect to have a camp meeting at Sardis, commencing on Thursday night before the first Sunday in October.

Beauregard, Mississippi.

MR. EDITOR: The Lord has graciously visited his people in this place. We commenced a meeting on the third of August, which lasted sixteen days. Quite a number were happily converted, and twenty-seven added to the church. The membership was greatly revived. We were assisted by visiting brethren. To God be all the praise.

E. F. MULLINS, P. C.

Meridian, Mississippi.

MR. EDITOR: Please announce in your paper that on the first Sabbath in August I organized a Bible Society at Shiloh, Marengo county, Alabama. This society is auxiliary to the American Bible Society, and under the supervision of Rev. S. P. Richardson, of Summerfield, Alabama. Yours truly,

W. P. MOBRYDE,

Colporteur Selma Bible Society.

AUGUST 20, 1872.

Rocky Springs.

MR. EDITOR: We have just closed a protracted meeting at Beach Grove. Bros. R. S. Trippett and J. B. Robertson were present, and worked as those who know and appreciate the worth of immortal souls. Results: Complete revival of membership; thirty-nine accessions; twenty-five or thirty conversions; about one dozen adult baptisms.

H. R. SINGLETON.

AUGUST 26, 1872.

Orrville Circuit, Selma District, Alabama Conference.

MR. EDITOR: We have just closed, at Rehoboth, one of the most interesting meetings that I have ever witnessed. The meeting began on Thursday, August 15, and continued twelve days. We received thirty-five into our church, and have learned that about twelve or fifteen will join other churches, making in all about forty-five or fifty accessions to the different churches of the community.

J. F. EVANS.

ORRVILLE, ALA., Aug. 28, 1872.

Rembert Hills Circuit.

MR. EDITOR: I have been requested by Bro. John S. Frazer, preacher in charge of this circuit, to make a report of a glorious revival of religion at the Easley camp ground, on this circuit. The meeting commenced on the eleventh instant, and continued until the Thursday following, which resulted in the happy conversion of fifteen souls, and the accession of ten to the church. The meeting was well attended, and the people generally seemed to manifest a great interest—more so than for years past.

Yours, etc., W. H. EVINGTON.

MARENGO CO., ALA., Aug. 15, 1872.

Mutual Union Church, Mississippi Conference.

MR EDITOR: On the eleventh instant we closed a nine days' meeting at Mutual Union church, near Morton, Mississippi, which was truly a refreshing season from the presence of the Lord. Sixteen conversions were reported to us during the meeting, and nineteen were received into the church—five by letter and fourteen by form of Discipline. We were assisted by Revs. W. S. Wingfield and Joseph N. Williams during all of the meeting, and by Revs. G. M Liverman, Z. T. Faulkner and John L. Vinson a part of the time.

C. MCDONALD.

MORTON, MISS., Aug. 20, 1872.

Farmerville Circuit.

MR. EDITOR: My work includes nine regular appointments, with area enough for a jure divino diocese. I am in the saddle most of my time. There are three Methodist church buildings, such as they are, on the circuit. At other points, to the shame of Methodism, I occupy by sufferance the pulpits of our Baptist brethren. It is proposed to build two or three churches. We have four Sunday schools, in all of which our Methodist literature is used.

The annual harvest of souls has commenced with us. We have already held two protracted meetings, each of five days' duration. At Griswold's chapel there were four or five conversions and two accessions to the church, and the membership very much revived. At Tennessee (the church of my heart) there was a gracious outpouring of the Spirit. On the last night of the meeting the presence of God seemed to fill the house. There were five bright conversions. Six joined the church. Seven penitents were left weeping at the altar. Rev. R. P. Bruton, a venerable local elder, was with us a portion of the time in labors abundant.

Yours in Christ,

J. G. MILLER.

Crawford Circuit, Alabama Conference.

MR. EDITOR: We have just closed a meeting of considerable interest at Dickinson's chapel, which lasted ten days, and resulted in thirty-six accessions to the church.

The lamented F. G. Ferguson once said he would not give a bush-heap for a revival that did not cause the church to pay more than it was assessed. It remains to be seen whether or not our meeting will pass muster as a revival according to this standard. Yet it certainly was a time of power for good.

Our District Conference has lately been held, and there was no revival reported on the entire district. We all covenanted together to pray for the outpouring of the Spirit, and it looks as if our prayers had not been in vain. Yours truly,

W. W. GRAHAM.

AUGUST 29, 1872.

REV. F. C. STEPHENSON, in charge of Coloma mission, North Alabama Conference, writes, August 24, as follows:

I closed a meeting yesterday, which lasted seven days, and resulted in much good. A man, much loved by his neighbors, who had mourned for three years, was happily converted and received into our church by being baptized according to Ezekiel's prophecy—chapter 36, verse 25. His wife said she had prayed for him four years. I never saw a happier being than she was when he was enabled to say: "Bless the Lord!"

Nine more joined our church, and many sinners were almost persuaded to be Christians. The hardest sinners on the mission were made to shed tears of penitence. We are to have three more meetings on the mission, and expect the Invisible Preacher to do a great work for us.

A Prayer Meeting and its Results.

TOO GOOD TO BE LOST.

MR. EDITOR: A preacher in —— Conference a few days ago was telling me of the result of a prayer meeting. He said he was sitting one evening across the street from a store owned by two of his members, one of whom was present. They sold whisky, and the preacher made some remarks about members of the church engaged in the traffic of whisky. The hell summoned the preacher in a short time to his prayer meeting. The two brethren alluded to were always prompt, but were late coming in that night. Dismissing, he asked them why they were so late. The one he had conversed with about selling whisky said they had been to a prayer meeting that night. He said he walked over to the store and asked his partner to walk up stairs. When they got up he proposed prayer. After prayer he remarked to his partner that he wanted to enjoy religion and get to heaven, and said that he felt like he could not, and continue the traffic in ardent spirits. His partner remarked that those were his feelings. He then asked his partner to pray. They gave it up, and have been doing a good business since.

J. W. MCCANN.

CENTRAL UNIVERSITY.

The Board of Trust of the Central University met last week at Iuka. There was a good attendance, and an harmonious meeting. The board accepted a charter granted by the Legislature of Tennessee, giving unlimited prerogatives to the board, so that it can increase its numbers ad libitum, and all its by-laws will be of binding force. The board confirmed the appointment of officers previously made, to wit: Chancellor East, president; the Rev. D. C. Kelley, M. D., secretary; A. L. P. Green, D. D., treasurer. It also agreed on a statement of facts concerning the University, to be submitted to the Annual Conferences concerned, at their approaching sessions. Dr. Green informs us that the board is sanguine of success, and the interest in favor of the University is growing in the community. Success to the great Central!—Nashville Christian Advocate.

A JOYOUS, happy heart will gather up sunshine in life, where a mournful nature would find cause only for sorrow.

HOMER COLLEGE.

MR. EDITOR: This institution is now prepared to enter on a career of unprecedented prosperity, as more than the minimum endowment of $25,000 has been secured, and the friends of education in north Louisiana are rallying to its support.

The next session begins September 3, and patrons are requested to send their sons at that time, in order that they may be properly arranged in suitable classes.

This, brethren, is a Methodist institution, and duty, as well as interest, requires that you support it. Without any disparagement of others, I confidently assert that no other institution of a similar character has better facilities for imparting a thorough collegiate education. President Cobb, assisted by a competent faculty, will be at his post promptly at the proper time.

There is connected with the college a commercial department, which, I doubt not, is equal to any regular commercial college, and much cheaper. Also a preparatory department for those who are not sufficiently advanced to enter any of the college classes.

No college in all this country, to my knowledge, proposes so much for so little money. The entire expense of board, tuition, fuel, light and washing need not exceed $225 per scholastic year.

Send on your sons if you wish them to obtain a thorough education at the least possible cost.

THOS. J. UPTON,

Agent of Homer College.

DEATH OF THE REV. C. H. HALL.

The Richmond Christian Advocate says: The sad event which we have long feared has taken place. Our friend and brother is no more of earth. He was released from his sufferings on Thursday night, the twenty-second ultimo, at eleven o'clock P. M. Of course his end was peaceful, "for he was a good man, and full of the Holy Ghost and of faith." He retained his faculties almost to the last moment of life, and while surrounded by his family, and members of the church he served so well, gave full assurance of the happiness that was just ahead of him, sent messages of love to absent friends and brethren, and then fell asleep in Jesus.

"Blessed sleep,
From which none ever wake to weep."

Bro. Hall was in his forty-first year; he graduated with distinction at Randolph Macon College in 1853, and at once entered the ministry. He served the church for nearly twenty years with great zeal and success. Few men have been more beloved as a pastor, and but few have filled our pulpits with greater ability. His manners were gentle and engaging, and his affections ardent and pure. He was a close student, an eloquent preacher, a ready writer, and our readers are indebted to his facile pen for many of the most entertaining articles which appeared in this paper during the past year and the early part of the present year.

NOTE FROM SALADO, TEXAS.

MR. EDITOR: Through the cleverness of some kind, unknown friend I am in receipt, weekly, of your very neat, terse, solid and racy ADVOCATE. Really, sir, to say I am pleased with it does not meet the demands of the case. Well, then, delighted—yes, that is the word.

I read weekly the Nashville, St Louis and Texas Advocates, and they are most excellent. I love them all. But yours, in form, arrangement, style and editorial matter—well, Mr. Editor, just guess at the balance. Long may you and your paper live, and live to bless the church. If I had time just now, and knew that your worthy readers desire it, I would jot down a few Texas items for publication.

Our great Methodist week of prayer is here. What a thought! To-day, if they do their duty, over six hundred thousand Methodists are exercised by "prayer and fasting."

O God! grant that our offerings may come up before thee as the prayers and alms of Cornelius! Amen

GEO. W. GRAVES, P. C.,
Belton and Salado Ct

SALADO, TEXAS, Aug. 16, 1872.

MEN plant prayers and endeavors, and go next day looking to see if they have borne graces. Now God does not send graces as he sends light and rain, but they are wrought in us through long days of discipline and growth. Acorns and graces sprout quickly, but grow long before ripening.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1872.

APHRODITE.

BY C. CHRISTOPH DAVIES.

The wind that swept along the shore
The sea grand pean died away,
And with the last faint echo of its roar
Far o'er the deep there rose the break of day;
The heavy storm clouds parted right and left,
And burned the flashes through the rugged cleft.

And then the sun climb in the sky,
To send a broadening crimson track
Across the waves to where the wet sands lie,
A glistening scythe that cuts the bold waves back;
And now and then, with quickening interval,
Gleamed through the waves a light most magical.

And now the day was well begun,
The sunrise rays had left the sea,
The shamefaced clouds had fled before the sun,
And fairest blue the heavenly canopy;
Then a wave that overtopped the rest
Surged on, and bore the Goddess on its crest.

She crouched within a monster shell,
Her blu -black hair around her clung,
As, shaking off a heaven-created spell,
With sudden motion to her feet she sprung;
And iridescent gleams of green and gold
Flashed from the shell in glories manifold.

Across her massy hair she threw,
And bared her white limbs to the day,
With happy wonder in her eyes' deep blue
She glanced around the circle of the bay;
And from the inner chambers of the shell
Sweet Æolian music began to swell.

Then, when her shell-car touched the strand,
She scanned the fertile valleys o'er;
And, glad at heart, she raised her pink-white hand,
And sang, "I love, I love!" and evermore
With that sweet song and those sweet words doth ring
The world where Aphrodite seeks her king.

The Dark Blue.

For the Advocate.

PREPARATION FOR THE PULPIT.

NUMBER ONE.

When I view the pulpit, as it lifts itself in dignity, beauty, power and efficiency, as a grand institution which God has set up among men for their awakening, conversion, sanctification and elevation from this low vale of poverty, tears and degradation to the eternal mountain of God's habitation, where are robes, crowns and scepters awaiting them, I feel like taking the shoes from my feet, as Mosee did at the burning bush, because the place is holy ground. Heaven has baptized the pulpit with the Holy Ghost and with fire, that it may be qualified for all the wonderful work of its glorious mission. Hence it is holy, and it is brilliant with the glory of God. God himself is there, with Christ the Son, and the Holy Ghost. The pulpit, then, is the awful seat of the great Triune God, who has come down from heaven to this evil world to seek and save the rebellious and ruined sons and daughters of men. He does not, it is true, appear there to our physical sight, for he is a spirit, and spiritual persons and things are only spiritually discerned; yet, according to his holy word, God is there—in the pulpit! He is there—before all the people who are round about. He is there—within, above, beneath and around the holy man who stands there. That man is his mouth-piece, his minister! There God holds, in his almighty hands, the blessings of heaven, and the curses of hell, which he dispensee through his servant who preaches the everlasting gospel. Therefore that minister is the savor of life unto life to them which are saved, and the savor of death unto death to them that perish. Then he who stands in the holy place may well examine himself to ascertain whether or not he really feels in his heart: "Woe is me if I preach not the gospel!" If he feele not this, or if he is not fully persuaded in his mind that he ie called of God, as was Aaron, he should never enter the holy place, for there he will surely find a blighting curse. If he should find, upon examination, that he is truly called, he ehould be careful not to make a great and very fatal mistake which some have made, viz.: that he, because God has called him, is therefore in every respect prepared for the great work of preaching the gospel. I know Christ said to his disciplee: "When they (your enemies) ehall lead you, and deliver you up, take no thought beforehand what ye shall speak, neither do ye premeditate, but whatsoevor shall be given you in that hour, that speak ye; for it is not ye that speak, but the Holy Ghost." Now, in reference to these things, it may be remarked, as Dr. Cross says in his Headlands of Faith: "Tho influences of the Holy Spirit may be distinguished into the ordinary and the extraordinary. The extraordinary produced those miraculous signs and wonders which accompanied the preaching of the apostles, and constituted heaven's attestation to its truth. Christianity, opposed by Jewish prejudice and pagan superstition, and all the natural principles of the human heart, could be established in the faith and affections of mankind by nothing short of a divine authentication which should startle the world. * * * The building completed, the scaffolding is no longer needed. These extraordinary manifestatione were bestowed upon the church not as her perpetual inheritance, but only as the necessary attestation of the apostolic commission and teaching, to cease upon the thorough establishment of Christianity. Continued after this great end was secured, they would soon have lost their miraculous character, and failed to attract the attention of mankind; and their perpetuation would have defeated the design of their introduction.

"But there are other offices of the Holy Ghost of a more ordinary character, which are permanent, in their utility and essential to the salvation of the soul. The whole process of our spiritual illumination and renovation is effected by his gracious agency, and it is a work which no other agency could accomplish."

That it is necessary to make preparation for the pulpit can be very easily shown from the Scriptures. The twelve disciples were, for a long time, in the school of the Master, where they were prepared for the office and work of the ministry. Paul wrote from Rome to Timothy at Ephesus as follows: "'The cloak that I left at Troas with Carpus, when thou comeet, bring with thee, and the books, but especially the parchments." On this passage Mr. Burkett says: "Behold an eminent pattern of pious studiousness in St. Paul. Here was an aged man, an aged minister, that had already read much, a prisoner; no very proper place for study, were the prisons then filled with such brutes as generally now; nay, a dying prisoner, one that looked for death and beheading every day; yet aged Paul, dying Paul, cannot live without his books; he must still he reading, learning, etudying the Scripturee especially, which are such a vast deep as the line of an inspired apostle could not fathom. Behold, I say, a pattern for such ministers ae think they know enough, and are too old to learn; so was not our apostle, when within a few months of his death."

Before this Paul, writing to Timothy from Laodicea, said: "Till I come, give attendance to reading, to exhortation, to doctrine. Neglect not the gift that is in thee, which was given thee by prophecy, with the laying on of the hands of the presbytery. Meditate upon these things; give thyself wholly to them, that thy profiting may appear to all." In this we may see clearly how Paul, that great preacher, regarded preparation for the pulpit In his estimation it was essential to efficiency and success.

A PASTOR.

For the Advocate.

A VOICE FROM THE PINY WOODS.

"Ye ask and receive not, because ye ask amiss."—James iv, 3.

In the text is implied a righteous standpoint in prayer—as, ye ask amiss, and ye ask and receive not. Their eye was not single in their request. See the charge alleged "That ye may consume it upon your lusts." Though the perversion of the blessings asked for by that people may not be the governing point with all, nevertheless many others may be weak, and have a besetting thorn in the flesh to be overcome. Hence many ask and receive not, as spoken of by the Apostle James. There are of old powere in physical nature that man in his prayers must acquiesce in, or his prayer may not bear the plumb-line. God's order of progress in the material world is right, and God's righteousness in men and things is the directing line to acceptance in prayer. There is also moral force that has to be complied with in order to ask aright in prayer. There are not only these laws, principles and facts to be observed by the suppliant, but there is a qualification in man in order to acceptable worship before the throne of grace. "Thou, God, seeet me." This impreseive fact should echo in the soul until the heart becomes enlightened, softened, and submits in strong faith to God.—First John v, 4, 5.

The heart is then moved by inspiration of God to pray, and to different objecte of prayer. Here is to be met and overcome different preventives to prayer and faith. Some are external, othere are internal; and those within are the most deceptive, and partake more of the carnal spirit.

There sre thousands of prayers that rise daily from formal altars of prayer. Around those altare of devotion are found mechanical thoughts, mechanical feelings, mechanical prayers, and mechanical sermons. Some of these prayere may ho specially directed, and for months and for years. In such a case your prayers and alms may bo like Cornelius of old—gone up before the throne of God for a memorial; or they may have been only the forms of godliness, without the power. The power of grace speaks for Christ in tones of light, life and immortality, gently taking up its abode in the heart, so that the heart becomes the temple of the living God by a growth in grace. It ie written: "He that asketh receiveth; and for instruction and correction, the word and promise of God is sure and steadfast to every one that believeth." But without faith it is impossible to please God.

A MAN OF SIXTY.

BROOKLYN, Alabama.

For the Advocate.

Reminiscences of the Alabama Conference.—No. V.

Another church was located at Prairie Hill, Lowndes county, Mississippi. This grew to be the most popular point in this section of country. Here, in the earlier history of that country, a large camp ground was established, and here on those festive occasions were gathered the first talent of our church in this region of country, and great good was accomplished.

In the year 1833 the present writer traveled the Pickens circuit, which extended to the Tombigbee river. One of his Sabbath appointments was at the town of Old Pickens, six miles west of this, in the Choctaw purchase. Judge Felder, from lower Mississippi, with a few others, had settled here. At his request I took Monday as my rest-day, for in these days we had but one day in the week for rest, and sometimes not that. Here we organized a church. Prominent as members were Judge G. Felder, Charles Barnett and Bro. Totton. This was the first church organized in this section of country, and was composed of material that honored God and his cause. Some sixteen or eighteen years since Judge Felder moved to Texas, and settled in Washington county, near Chappell Hill. Here, as elsewhere, he contributed largely to the interests of the church of his choice. He was, with others, the founder of Soule University, endowed one of its professorships, was president of the board of trustees, and contributed in every way to its success. He lived to a good old age, and some six years since was gathered to his fathers in great peace.

There is one mystery in philosophy I have never been able to solve: Why it is, when a man is lost, especially in the night, that he is inclined to travel in a circle! In the fall of this year (1834) circumstances made it necessary that I should choose part of a night to travel through this trackless country. My fine horse Snap had rarely deceived me in carrying me to points where we had lodged before. My road was an Indian trail. About dark I came to where the prairie grass had been newly burned off. This destroyed all trace of my trail; but fixing my mind on the point of destination, and striking my course, I rode on. After rieing some distance I came to a small clump of timber, rode up, and endeavored to recognize it, but failed, and rode on. After some hours' ride, to my great astonishment I found myself back at the same clump of timber. I made the second effort, and in about the same time found myself back at the same spot. This was a little annoying. I made an effort to steady myself and collect my thoughts, and made the third trial. This time in my circle I came in sight of a small light, made my way to it, and found a small cabin, where I spent the remainder of the night.

This communication closes my sketches on this subject. I look back and survey, and exclaim: What hath God wrought! In 1830 I joined the Mississippi Conference. At the close of that year the Alabama Conference was set off, and I cast my lot with it. It was the day of small things—a little band spread over a vast territory. A few middle-aged ministers, with a small troop of young men, not more than one making any pretensione to educational advantagee beyond the rudiments of an English education. Our leaders were Robert L. Kennon, E. V. Levert, Ebenezer Hearn, John R. Lamberth, Thos. Abernathy, Thos. Burpoe, etc. Among our young men were William Wier, Charles McLeod, Frank Jones, Asbury H. Shank, William and Robert Smith, Theophilus Moody, Ransome J. Jones, with a few others. These were digged from the quarry here and there, unpolished, yet God made them a great blessing to the people. They had a mind to work, and through the blessing of God the work went on. They have nearly all passed to their reward. I still linger for the time being, laboring and looking with expectation and hope to my home above.

J. MATTHEWS.

CHAPPELL HILL, Aug. 8, 1872.

For the Advocate.

DENOMINATIONAL SCHOOLS.

MR. EDITOR: While it is commendable in every religious denomination to provide, as far as possible, for the education—mental and moral—of all its children and youth, is it commendable in those in charge of their schools to make them mere machines to be used in perverting or proselyting the children of other denominatione to their particular church or sect?

I have been somewhat acquainted with Methodist presidents and professors, and of the operations of Methodist schools and colleges for thirty years, and have never known one of them to take advantage of his position and influence to pervert the son or daughter of Baptist, Presbyterian or any other to the Methodist Church. They were gentlemen, and respected the feelings and views of the parents who patronized them. When Dr. (now Bishop) Paine was president of La Grange college, many young men, sons of Baptists, Presbyterians, Episcopalians, were converted while at college. Some of these desired to connect themselves with the Methodist Church. "No, young gentlemen," would the doctor say; "you may attend the prayer, class and love-feast meetings, but you cannot join the Methodist Church here without the written consent of your parents." That was showing some respect for the views, interests and feelings of those parents. But who ever heard of a Baptist acting thus? So far as my knowledge extends, they act to the contrary. And I wish to raise the voice of warning to every Methodist in Mississippi and Louisiana against sending their daughters and wards to the female institute at Clinton, Mississippi, presided over by Rev. Walter Hillman. It is a Baptist machine for perverting the children of other denominatione to the Baptist Church. Several daughtere of Methodist families were there the last session, and I have been informed that every one who boarded in the institute was got into the Baptist Church. While Mr. Hillman thought it improper for the young ladies to attend the Methodist Church at night, on an occasion there, he thought it very proper and right for them to attend the Baptist Church every night for several weeks in succession. Also, that several young Baptist preachers should come to the institute at four o'clock P. M. and "pen in the young ladies," as one of them expressed it to me, and lecture them for two hours or more on immersion, joining the Baptist Church, and following the Savior down into the water. Now, while I admit that there are Christiane in the Baptist Church, I cannot admit that that course toward the children of Methodists and other Pedobaptists is gentlemanly or Christian. The man who allows or encourages such a course has put himself beyond the pale of respect, and does not deserve patronage. As Methodists do not care to have Baptist exclusiveness and bigotry thrust into their families, let them keep clear of Mr. Hillman's school, and send their daughters where there is a more congenial element.

H. H. MONTGOMERY.

For the Advocate.

A LOST DAY.

"Lost! lost! lost!
A gem of countless price,
Cut from the living rock,
And graved in Paradise,
Set round with three times eight
Large diamonds, clear and bright,
And each with sixty smaller ones,
All changeful as the light."

At the close of day, when the soul just hovering on the borders of eternity casts a retrospective glance over the past life, how many lost days will he seen wandering sadly with veiled, drooping forms, just beyond their orbit—too far away to step back into the desolate pathway, too near to be lost sight of! And when that soul takes its place among the redeemed millions, how many sparkling gems will be missed from the golden tiara!

How many eternity alone can reveal. Those lost days, how they will rise up before us—hideous shadows on the splendor that will gleam athwart our dying vision! With every moment freighted with a weight of golden opportunities—moments that have flown heedlessly by while we gazed eagerly into the future—they will pass slowly before us, mournfully, reproachfully, vainly claiming a redemption from the gloomy mists of oblivion.

Why is it that our desiree to do good, to stretch an aiding hand to suffering humanity, are so feebly, if ever realized? that the cold waters of disappointment quench the glowing ardor that yearns to clasp all God's children in a loving embrace? It is because, in our endeavor to do something great and noble, we direct our gaze into the future, and, forgetting that the great is only accomplished by unwearied perseverance in the small and seemingly trivial things of every-day life, we let the little moments pass by—the word or glance or little act is neglected. Ah! blind, blind, that we are. Why can we not see that the moments sum up the days and years of a life—the little deeds and actions the influence of a Christian example!

The days we have lost can never gem our crowns. But are there not other days, the gleam of other jewels that we may claim our own? The present, the future, with its wealth of moments and days, are ours—ours to weave into the diadems that await our coming. And when we pass the golden gates, and our Jesus places them gently on our brows, his low, sweet voice lovingly whispering, "Well done, good and faithful servant," in the radiance that will stream over our breathless vision, how we will look back over the past in amazement that we grasped them so reluctantly!

LITTLE BEVERLY.

DISPARAGE and depreciate no one; an insect has feeling, and an atom a shadow.

Obituaries.

DIED, at Nelson J. Moore's, near Bragg's Station, Lowndes county, Alabama, August 13, 1872, Mr. RUSHEBART SMITH. He was seventy years a resident of Alabama, and has relatives living in Algiers, Louisiana.

J. B. W.

DIED, at Lavacca, Texas, June 28, 1872, after an illness of two months, INMAN WILLIAMS, for many years a resident of Mississippi, and well known as proprietor of Cooper's Well previous to the war. He leaves a widow to mourn his loss.

Vicksburg, Jackson and Raymond papers please copy.

IDA BELLE ORRIS, daughter of William and Lizzie Orris, died of whooping cough, in Vicksburg, July 24, A. D. 1872. She was in her second year.

"Life is a span, a fleeting hour—
How soon the vapor flies!
Man is a tender, transient flower,
That e'en in blooming dies." H.

DIED, near Chinn Grove, Mississippi, MARY ELLEN, daughter of Elizabeth and Henry Y. Toney, aged six years.

DIED, near Chinn Grove, Mississippi, SUSAN JANE, daughter of Elizabeth and Henry Y. Toney, aged three years and six months.

The little girls were both laid in one grave together.

F.

SISTER LUCINDA JOHNSON was born November 27, A. D. 1810, in Washington parish, Louisiana, and died in Tangipahoa parish, May 16, A. D. 1872.

Sister Johnson lived a consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal Church South about thirty years, in which time, by her examples of piety and godliness, she endeared to herself all who knew her; and, dying at the advanced age of threescore years and over, she left to weep over her departure an aged husband, several children, a father, brothers, grandchildren, and a large circle of friends. The church also feels sensibly that one of her strong pillars has been removed. Our loss is her eternal gain.

T. B. WALDEN, P. C.

SISTER NANCY A. DUNINGTON, wife of Thomas Dunington, died August 3, A. D. 1872. Sister Dunington was born May 14, A. D. 1830, in St. Tammany parish, Louisiana, and died in Tangipahoa parish, of consumption.

She left an affectionate husband and eight obedient children, with many friends, to mourn her loss. Notwithstanding her great sufferings, in her last hours she exhibited strong faith in Christ, and died as they alone can who put their trust in God. At first she seemed reluctant to give up her children, most of whom were very small; but as she neared heaven's shore, and saw that the time of her departure was at hand, by faith she exclaimed: "Thy will be done." She testified to her friends that all was well.

T. B. WALDEN, P. C.

MRS. SARAH ANN MCCOY departed this life, in Monroe county, Alabama, May 7, 1872, aged about thirty-two years, four months and fifteen days.

She was educated in Camden, Wilcox county, Alabama, after which she embraced the religion of Christ, and was baptized into the fellowship of the Baptist Church at Rockwest, near Camden, in which she lived a most devout and consistent member until she was called to the church triumphant.

While under her long and ponderous weight of affliction she was never known to murmur or complain. Religion was her constant theme. The Bible was her sweetest companion.

She has left an affectionate husband and three beautiful, promising little boys to mourn their irreparable loss. In her expiring moments she called her little boys around her, and upon their tender cheeks impressed a dying mother's kiss, and pointed them to the blessed Savior. She then most earnestly prayed that she might overcome her last enemy, with which she was then grappling with shouting triumph. Her prayer was answered, and she clasped her feeble hands in token of the victory. B. J. WRIGHT.

DIED, July 20, 1872, at the residence of his father, near Benton's Ferry, Livingston parish, Louisiana, CHARLES HENRY BENTON, aged twenty-two years, eight months and twenty-four days. He was the eldest son of Colonel Robert Benton, and died after a brief but painful illness of three days.

The one who has gone was a dutiful son and a kind brother. Home was his delight—home ones his care. Their happiness was the aim of his life, with kind words for all, with bitter words for none, ever casting a halo of sunshine around his home circle and the circle in which he moved. He died as he had lived—at peace with all, and trusting in the God he loved and worshiped, not in fear, but in love. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. He was patient, and possessed of more than ordinary fortitude and Christian forbearance. He was cut down in the vigor of youth and manhood, with scarcely a warning that his earthly career was so soon to end. He was an honest man—one of God's noblest works. Such was the man whose loss we have been compelled to mourn. Yet we have one blessed consolation—that in the temporary bereavement here below, in heaven it is his eternal gain.

G. W. S.

DEPARTED THIS LIFE, on the first of August, 1872, SARAH F. DUNN, wife of T. J. Dunn, and daughter of J. C. and F. Anderson, of Clarke county, Alabama, in the twenty-first year of her age.

She professed religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1872, and on the third of April, 1871, she became the happy bride of her LOW disconsolate and heart-broken husband, who saw her fade like tints of the rainbow, and wither like the autumn leaf. Before she died she called all in the room to come and say good-by to her, and asked them to meet her in heaven. As she approached near the gates of death she said: "Glory! glory! Home, sweet home." Just before the wan hands were placed tenderly over the still heart, that shall never more throb with anguish or thrill to the touch of joy, she said: "Jesus died for me." Her pure spirit has passed through the pearly gates, and now treads the streets of the celestial city, that "hath no need of sun nor moon to shine in it, for God and the Lamb are the light thereof." She gazes now on the great white throne, and him that sitteth thereon. In her ears are falling strains of heaven-born melody, and the hand that was once too weak to wipe the death-dew from her brow has claimed a harp, and sweeps its strings in unison with the seraphic band.

J. S. FRAZER.

MRS. MARY LEONARD was born in the State of Virginia, in the year 1777. Her maiden name was Mary Wood. Her earliest recollections were of the struggles of our forefathers for their independence. Living so near the center around which that fearful struggle raged, though so young at the time, she could relate with minuteness of detail a number of thrilling incidents which transpired under her own eye. In 1796 she was married to Mr. John B. Leonard, and was the mother of two children before the dawn of the nineteenth century. After raising a large family she was left a widow, to finish life's pilgrimage alone. In early life she was without religion, and confessed to have laughed at sacred things; but being married to a truly religious man, and being often brought in contact with pious influences, she was at length brought to repentance, and in 1804 professed religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, in which communion she remained until removed by death to the communion of the saints made perfect.

She suffered much from weakness, and painful attacks incident to old age. She often expressed a longing desire to depart and to be with Christ. Again and again did she pray to be delivered from the sufferings of her helplessness and age, yet expressed a willingness to live and suffer on, if it was the will of God she should do so. She took great pleasure in the company of pious people and in religious conversation. No book engaged her as did the sacred Scriptures. She would often rise to raptures under the singing of one of the songs of Zion. In the last ebbings of life her once strong intellect was overcome by age and bodily infirmity. She could no longer give expression to her lively hopes of heaven with that energy with which she was wont to do in the days of her vigor and prime.

She died May 19, 1872, in the ninety-sixth year of her age, at the residence of her grandson, Mr. John Dison, in the town of Lexington, Holmes county, Mississippi.

J. D. N.

SYLVANUS A. KNOTT, a widowed mother's prop, and object of affection of four sisters and a younger brother, has left earth's sorrows and gone to the sweet home beyond the dark river. In his death we may truly say: How inscrutable are the ways of Providence! Glorious faith comes to our relief, and says: "He doeth all things well;" and we bow in submission to this afflicting dispensation of Providence. Our noble young brother was born in Sumter county, Alabama, October 31, 1847, and professed religion at a meeting held at Ebenezer church, Choctaw county, Alabama, in 1864; joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and remained within its pales until called to the church above, which occurred July 16, 1872.

His illness was very short, and terminated in congestion of the brain. His kind physician, Dr. Harris, a member of our church, stated to the writer that he very soon became delirious, and was not conscious that his end was fast approaching. Although he left no verbal testimony behind, yet his general life is the surer evidence to the bereaved ones of his safety.

It may be proper to state here that he once yielded to the temptation to engage in the giddy dance. The writer (his pastor) had a private interview with him about it. He seemed sad, and felt that he had grieved the good Spirit, and resolved to be more watchful in future.

His deeply-afflicted mother early sent him to Sabbath school, and he was very much attached to it; which, with the early training of his mother, developed in his salvation. "They that seek me early shall find me." Farewell for awhile, Sylvanus. We will meet again. We weep not as those having no hope. We expect to meet again where earth's wails are forever hushed.

"One by one the throne ascending,
They receive their great reward;
We shall meet them in the morning,
'Neath the loving smile of God."

GEORGE BANCROFT.

Choctaw Herald please copy.

MARY MCGREW, daughter of J. C. and Elizabeth McGrew, was born November 2, 1799; was married to Hon. P. T. Harris July 15, 1821; and died July 13, 1872.

I was not personally acquainted with Mrs. Harris; never met her but once. Her neighbors, and those who knew her best, all speak of her in the highest terms, and assure me that too much cannot be said of her worth. In earlier days she had all that wealth and love could bestow. Still she felt the need of something more spiritual, more enduring, and connected herself with the Methodist Episcopal Church South about twenty years ago, in Louisiana. In preparing this obituary I cannot do better than to copy largely from a beautiful and touching note of Mrs. E. H. Wilson, daughter of Mrs. Harris:

"During the night of the twelfth of July she had a slight spasm, although she had been unusually cheerful, even lively, during the day, and in good health. She soon recovered from the spasm, and, seeing our alarm, turned to me with perfect calmness, and in even a surprised tone of voice said: 'Elizabeth, I want to go. I am not afraid to meet my God.' She then fell asleep and rested quietly until breakfast. She then seemed relieved, talked cheerfully to Mr. Wilson and the family; said she would eat her breakfast, and directed us not to send for a physician. She seemed so well that all left the room except myself. She was laughing and talking to me. In the midst of a sentence the spasm returned, and in five minutes all was over. In death she looked as if calmly sleeping, an expression of perfect peace resting upon her face. If I had time (and as I am for the effort) I could tell of a long life of duties strictly, religiously fulfilled, of devotion to home and family, and of deeds unnumbered of kindness, goodness, liberality to the poor, the afflicted, the suffering. Never, never was her ear shut or her hand closed to any cult of pity or distress.

"Most complete was her revulsion of forlorn—most terrible her bereavements in her old age. Three noble sons, affectionate to her as in childhood, gave their lives for their country. Her husband long preceded her to heaven. Yet she often said: 'God knows best. He cannot err. I wish he had taken me first.' So truly she felt and acted: 'Though he slay me, yet will I trust in him.'

"Her uncommon intellectual powers, her varied intelligence, her practical information, with her christian goodness, formed a rare combination of mental and moral worth. But she now rests from her labors, and her works follow her." H. URQUHART.

MR. B. T. OWEN was born in the State of Virginia, April 5, 1810. He was trained up in the faith of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and was associated with it in membership from his earliest years, and triumphantly died in the faith of its teachings. Many years ago he removed to Holmes county, Mississippi, and settled in the town of Lexington, where he amassed a fortune, which went from him during the late civil war. Through all these long years he has been intimately associated with Methodism in its seasons of prosperity and adversity. During the greater part of the last thirty years he has been superintendent of the Methodist Sunday school in Lexington and perhaps recording steward without intermission. He sustained the cause of religion with a liberal hand.

For months before his death he said that he knew he was not long for this world. A complication of diseases was gradually wearing out his life. He expressed great joy at being so near his rest from the labors and sorrows of this lower world. Again and again he was heard to say: "I am ready to die, and want to go." When evidently near his end he was heard to express himself in language like this: "There is not the slightest cloud or mist between me and my home in heaven. My hopes are secure, and are undimmed by the faintest shadow." When told that he could survive but a little while, he received the announcement with a smile. He earnestly exhorted the unconverted members of his family to live for heaven, and commended his whole household to God. He passed away from earth May 27, 1872, in the sixty-third year of his age.

J. D. N.

The Methodist Sunday school at Lexington unanimously adopted the following:

WHEREAS, Mr. B. T. Owen has long been a most faithful superintendent of our Sunday school, through seasons of heat and cold, in vigorous and in feeble health; AND WHEREAS, Our great Father, whose wisdom never errs, whose goodness never wrongs, has seen proper to remove from over us our faithful and long-tried leader; therefore,

Resolved, That we do hereby express our sorrow and grief at the loss of so worthy a Sunday school superintendent, and feel free to express a lively hope that our loss is his eternal gain.

Resolved, That in his death not only Lexington Sunday school has lost a true and faithful leader, but the Sunday school cause everywhere has lost a devoted friend.

Resolved, That we do hereby tender our heartfelt sympathies to the bereaved family.

R. A. A.

IT IS NOT great battles alone that build the world's history, nor great poems alone that made the generations grow. There is a still small rain from heaven that has more to do with the blessedness of nature, and of human nature, than the mightiest earthquake or the loveliest rainbow.—George McDonald.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1872.

UP IN THE WILD.

Up in a wild, where few men come to look,
There lives and sings a little lonely brook—
Liveth and singeth in the dreary pines,
Yet creepeth on to where the daylight shines.

Pure from their heaven, in mountain chalice caught,
It drinks the rains, as drinks the soul her thought;
And down dim hollows, where it winds along,
Pours its life-burden of unlistened song.

I catch the murmur of its undertone,
That sigheth ceaselessly: Alone! alone!
And hear afar the rivers gloriously
Shout on their paths toward the shining sea!

The volceful rivers, chanting to the sun,
And wearing names of honor, every one:
Outreaching wide, and joining hand with hand
To pour great gifts along the nsking land.

Ah, lonely brook! Creep onward through the pines;
Press through the gloom to where the daylight shines!
Sing on among the stones, and secretly
Feel how the floods are all akin to thee!

Drink the sweet rain the gentle heaven sendeth;
Hold thine own path, however-ward it tendeth;
For somewhere, underneath the eternal sky,
Thou too shalt find the rivers, by-and-by!

Sunday Magazine.

MISSION FIELDS IN THE EAST.

Rev. Dr. Maclay, writing in the New York Christian Advocate, furnishes the following survey:

The present aspects and claims of Eastern society deserve more than a passing notice. No one, even superficially acquainted with the subject, can fail to recognize its vast importance. The nations of the East are breaking away from their ancient traditions, and, in their way, are trying to adjust themselves to modern ideas. Japan, almost the last of the great nations of Asia to enter on this forward movement, has suddenly passed to the front, and now eclipses all others by the rapidity of her advance, the radical nature of her new measures, and the sweeping character of the changes she has already introduced. The Japan of to-day is apparently a century in advance of the Japan of yesterday. By the voluntary action of her highest authorities this island empire solicits Western intercourse seeks to acquire a thorough knowledge of Western science and art, invites Western scientists to her shores, places her people as pupils at the feet of Western teachers, repeals her ancient edicts against Christianity, and proposes to throw open, as fast as practicable, the whole empire to Western civilization and enterprise. This movement of Japan places a population of thirty millions, covering an area of 260,000 square miles, within the reach and influence of Protestant Christianity.

China preceded Japan by some twelve years in forming treaties of commerce and friendship with Western governments. Her subsequent movements, however, in this direction have not been so rapid and brilliant as those of her island neighbor. China's vis inertiæ prevents her from rivaling the graceful versatility of Japan; but, though advancing with a slower step, she is none the less certain in due time to reach the goal. China also is steadily drifting from her ancient moorings; has repealed her laws against Christianity; has given to the Christian religion a legalized position in the empire; and, in her treaties with Western nations, has expressed her approval of Christian doctrines. Three hundred and fifty millions of heathen, covering an area of 4,088,000 square miles, are thus made accessible to evangelical Christianity.

The splendid empire of British India and its dependencies, comprising a population of two hundred millions, and an area of 2,170 000 miles, stretching from Castumere to Point de Galle, and from the Indus almost to the southwestern border of China, presents one of the grandest fields for Christian missions. The kingdom of Siam has heretofore proved an unproductive mission field. The late King was a bigoted and enthusiastic Buddhist, and during the entire period of his reign labored zealously to build up Buddhism and oppose Christianity. It is satisfactory to know that his successor, the present King, entertains more liberal views with regard to Christianity, and it is hoped that under his reign Christian missionaries will enjoy ample facilities for preaching the gospel to the people of Siam.

Asiatic Russia, or Siberia, comprises a population of 8,329,000, and an area of 5,269,000 square miles, extending from the Ural mountains to the Sea of Kamstchatka, and from the Chinese empire to the Arctic ocean. Throughout this entire region the Greek Church is established by law, under the immediate protection of the Czar of Russia; and it is not probable that, for the present at least, he would tolerate among his people any other form of the Christian faith.

The contiguous territories of Turkistan, Affghanistan and Beloochistan, together with Georgia, comprise an area of 2,030,000 square miles, and a population of 21,000,000. These petty States are of slight political importance, and are so closely related to more powerful States, in which the doctrines of Christianity have already exerted considerable influence, that we may safely anticipate the removal, at an early day, of all obstacles that may now exist to prevent the progress of Christianity within their borders.

Persia has an area of 470,000 square miles and a population of 9,000,000. This country has been brought so prominently and touchingly before our minds by the incidents of its recent terrible famine, that our interest in it has greatly increased. Religious bigotry and fanaticism may seek to erect bulwarks against the truth, but they have no defenses against pestilences and famine. The wail of perishing multitudes in Persia elicited from all Christian nations such expressions of hearty sympathy, and such generous contributions of material aid, that we may hope now to witness the ushering in of the glorious time when, throughout that land of fierce Mohammedanism, all the people may eat the bread of life.

Throughout Asiatic Turkey, comprising an area of 669,000 square miles and a population of 16,000,000, the right to preach and practice the doctrines of Christianity is guaranteed by law. No portion of the earth's surface is so dear to the Christian heart as the portion now under consideration. Spreading from the Bosphorus to the border of Persia, and from the Black sea southward along the eastern shore of the Red sea, almost to the Gulf of Aden, it embraces the scenes of most of the stupendous events recorded in the Bible. Palestine, Asia Minor, Syria, and the portions of the Arabian peninsula made memorable by the journeyings of the Israelites, are all included in this territory.

